H. J. Wooley and J. A. McDonald have struck the ledge on the old Neglected, near the Bosun, New Denver, according to the Record, but have not run into any clean ore. This bit of news reads like ancient history to us. We put money into a big hole on the Neglected some ten years or more ago, and at one time had a chance of pulling $40,000 out of it. Then a "horse" butted into the ledge and we lost it. If we could cut that hole up into post-holes and sell them at ten cents per we wouldn't mind losing the $40,000.

A COMPARATIVE STATEMENT

A comparative statement of shipments of the fruit and produce shipped up to December 31st last, by the Okanagan United Growers, Ltd., has been made public. The statement hows in detail the total shipments from each local union in the Valley, the quantity and percentage and rade of each fruit and vegetable, and he average price of each grade, net o the Central.

The apple table shows Vernon as the largest shipper of that fruit, with total of 93,332 boxes out of the Valley total of 169,508. Only 30.9 per cent of Vernon's apples graded No. 1, while 53.1 were No. 2 and 16. were No. 3.

Peachland had the highest local average of No. 1 apples with a percentage of 69.6, and Kelowna was a close second with 63.3. Local averages of No. 1 apples for the rest of the unions are given as follows: Salmon Arm, 35.5; Enderby, 55.6; Armstrong, 34.8; Summerland, 23.4; Penticton, 55.2. The low per centage of No. 1 fruit shown by some of the districts was in every case due largely to hail markings, and not to defects of size, shape or color.

The average price of No. 1 apples for the season, net to the Central, was $1.28½; No. 2, $1.07¾; No. 3, 69c. Total average for all grades, $1.09¼.

Vernon was also the largest shipper of pears, 74.9 per cent of which were No. 1, while Armstrong, one of the smallest pear shippers, sent out 100 per cent No. 1 fruit. The percentage of the other points for No. 1 pears are as follows: Salmon Arm, 37.5; Kelowna, 98.2; Peachland, 86.3; Summerland, 35.7, and Penticton, 98.4. The average prices during the season were as follows: No. 1, $1.80¾; No. 2, $1.62½; No. 3, $1.37.

Vernon and Kelowna districts produced two-thirds of the crabs shipped last year. The averages of No. 1 crabs were as follows: Salmon Arm, 82.7; Enderby, 93; Armstrong, 75; Vernon, 38.2; Kelowna, 87.5; Peachland, 87.3; Summerland, 49.2; Pensicton, 47.1. Crabs brought an average price for the season of $1.21; No. 2; 95½; No. 3, 52½.

No. 1 Peaches brought an average price for the season of 47½c, while No. 2 averaged 42¾c per box. In the matter of No. 1 peaches, Peachland was in the lead last year with 96.8 per cent. Penticton was a close second, with 95.5; and Kelowna, 89; Vernon, 83.6, and Summerland, 82.5.

The tomato production of Kelowna far outclassed all rivals in the matter of quantity, having shipped 13,491 crates, out of a total of 21,142, while Peachland led in the matter of quality, having shipped 99.4 No. 1s. The percentage of No. 1 grade shipped by the other points is as follows: Armstrong, 35.6; Vernon, 62.6; Kelowna, 63.4; Summerland, 52.9, and Penticton, 64. No. 1 tomatoes averaged in price for the season 78¾c per crate, and No. 2s averaged 48½c.

With the exception of onions, in the shipment of which Kelowna leads with 1,856,355 pounds, Armstrong is credited with the heaviest vegetable shipments, having produced, for instance, 930,590 pounds of cabbage, out of the total shipments, through Central alone, of 1,002,839, and more than 3,000,000 pounds of potatoes out of the 5,260,884 pounds shipped.

MILLER—JONES NUPTIALS

A happy home wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Jones, near Enderby, on Wednesday afternoon, March 18th, when Miss Sadie J. their second daugnter, was married to Mr. Percy E. Miller, son of Rev. Mr. Miller, formerly of Enderby, now of Vancouver. Rev. J. G. Brown officiated. The bride and groom were unattended, and only the immediate friends of the families were present. A large number of very handsome presents marked the esteem in which the young people are held by their many Enderby feiends.

Wednesday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Miller took the northbound for Vancouver. They were given a royal send-off at the station. After a short honeymoon, they will take up their residence at Crescent Valley, where Mr. Miller has accepted a position in the sawmill.

EARLY MORNING DOINGS

Last Thursday morning between 12 and 1:30, Provincial Constable Oland and City Constable Bailey had an interesting time bringing an Indian and a squaw and a baby to the Provincial lock up. Early the previous evening Constable Oland heard some whisky sounds coming from the Indian cabin situated on the river bank across the bridge. On investigating he discovered seven Indians in the cabin, three under the influence of liquor and, four sober. Two of the these were women. He attempted to place the man under arrest. He resisted and got away by the aid of the women. Then, after much parleying, the Constable came to town for assistance. He had to walk, for the Indinas hid his horse. We have before us pen and ink sketches of what transpired, as gathered from the evidence taken before Magistrate Barnes.

One of these shows the Constable in the mix-up with the Indian and the two women holding him to prevent him placing the handcuffs on the prisoner. Another shows Constable Bailey after the Indian and one of the squaws after Constable Bailey, with a club, and the daughty officer threatening to "knock her block off" if she came any nearer. With this "she" skiddooed for cover. The next picture shows Annie in the bottom of a democrat with the Constables driving to the lock-up. The next day the Indian was fined $10 for being drunk and resisting arrest, and the squaws $5 each.

Comment and Protest on Local Events

There cannot be any question as to the wisdom of the City Council in deciding that the way to handle the deficit in connection with the erection and completion of the Enderby school is by submitting to the ratepayers a by-law to raise the required amount by a loan. To pay the $1,500 now past due, out of current revenue, would not only be contrary to good business, but it would also be placing upon the ratepayers a direct tax of two mills this year that they should not have to pay. The underlying principle in all town building is to do all public improvements on money raised by a loan on the credit of the city, extending over a period of ten, twenty or thirty years. In this way the ratepayers of any one particular period are not made to pay for something that those who come after reap the benefit of. In other words, the ratepayers coming later, and for all time during the life of the loan, pay their proportion of the cost of any public improvement for which money was raised by loan. And, if the sum of $1,500 were paid out of current revenue, and the tax rate increased the necessary two mills to raise this amount, it would mean that the school grounds would still be incomplete. How much better it is for the city to take up the question from the broad standpoint of the public interest, and submit a by-law to raise, not only enough to pay off the existing indebtedness, but also to finish the grounds and make the school property what it ought to be.

There is not a finer school building in the province than that erected in Enderby. It is one of the biggest and best assets the City and District of Enderby possesses, and it seems to us that it would be the poorest kind of business to allow the grounds to remain in their present condition when the pittance—something like a third of a mill a year on the present assessable property—would pay off all indebtedness and put the property in A1 shape. We have every confidence that the ratepayers of Enderby will support the City Council in this move. It would be to our lasting discredit to let the good effect of this fine school building be spoiled by being surrounded by grounds that are unfenced and left to grow up in weeds and wild grass. Under the hands of a landscape gardener, these grounds could be laid out most admirably, (as was originally intended by the public spirited Board of School Trustees who took upon themselves the task which they all but carried through). It would then be up to the school officials and the scholars to keep the grounds up to a standard compatible with the imposing building placed at their disposal. That they would do this goes without question, for then they would have something to work for and an object to achieve. Ten minutes a day spent by the teachers with their classes in a systematic effort to learn the mysteries of Nature in the garden, would be more valuable to all concerned than hours spent learning of Nature's ways out of a book.

To raise $3,000—the amount required to pay off the indebtedness now past due and to complete the grounds—would mean the addition of a third of a mill to the tax rate. And this additional third of a mill would not come in on this year's levy, but would start next year. The amount raised by this third of a mill levy would be sufficient to pay interest and sinking fund during the tenure of the loan. The amount would not be felt by any one; each property owner, whether he is of today or comes upon the scene five or ten years hence, would then be paying his proportion of the cost of the improvement and all would be getting the benefit of it, for themselves and their children or children's children. By all means, let us think of nothing less than the full amount required to complete the school job, grounds and all.

A GOOD START MADE

The balance sheet of the Enderby Growers' Association, read before the shareholders' meeting in K. of P. Hall last Thursday evening, showed a loss in the first year's operations of $105.99. This is not as favorable as the directors would like to have had it. No doubt had they been better acquainted with the way of handling the business, and had known two months or more ago when they started selling flour and feed to members and the general public at so little above cost, they would then have added enough to the price to have more than made up the deficit. This could very easily have been done. But, as was stated by Mr. Little, president of the Association, had this been done, it would have been like taking from one pocket to put into the other. The members of the Association and others received the benefit of the cheap flour and feed prices, even if it did mean a loss to the Association to have made the handling charge so low, and this loss will have to be carried over, to be made up in next year's operations.

No doubt, the directors of the Enderby Growers' Association have discovered where they made mistakes. No doubt, they will know better next year how to avoid these mistakes. It is encouraging that the loss in the first season's operations was not more than the amount reported. It is a good start, to have made the initial mile with nothing more serious to overcome. With the past season's experiences to guide them, they will no doubt make a far better showing with this season's operations.

The encouraging part of it is that our growers have made a start—a good start—in the only successful way that has been found for marketing fruit and vegetables and other farm produce—by co-operation. It is just possible other mistakes will be made this year, and next, and next, but, no matter what the mistakes, the principle upon which we are now operating is the right principle—the successful principle—that has led the produce raisers of other districts and countries out of darkness into light and mad them prosperous and well-to-do; and what it has done for other districts and countries, it will do for the produce men and fruit growers of the Okanagan—if they hold together through thick and thin.

Few men have a better grasp of the situation than Mr. Robertson, manager of the Central Selling Agency—the man who, after all, must shoulder the big end of the responsibility for making the co-operative movement here a success. While Mr. Robertson cannot be blamed for the shortcomings of the various locals, he must, in a very large measure find a way out of the many difficulties they get into. In this he has been very successful the past season. While acknowledging defects in the past season's operations, Mr. Robertson was not afraid, nor backward, in discussing any phase of the season's operations. There was that determination in his voice and manner that gives confidence and the assurance of ultimate success when he said that, no matter what the mistakes, if the principle upon which they were operating was right and safe and proven sound, then they could not fail if the growers would stand together and be loyal to their own best interests.

THREE THOUSAND CARLOADS

Mr. J. Forsyth Smith, Provincial Market Commissioner, made the prophecy at a meeting of the Vernon Growers' Association last week, that by 1917 or 1918, four years hence, the apple crop of the Okanagan Valley will total 3,000 carloads, and that by that time a cold storage warehouse costing in the neighborhood of $200,000 will be a necessity for Vernon.

Mr. Smith gave a summary of the duties of the Market Commissioner, being, in the main, those involved in the running of a market news agency, furnishing the growers with a weekly birdseye view of current prices and supply conditions in the prairie provinces. He also explained that considerable statistical work had been undertaken this year, and that his annual report would contain interesting tabular statements of American apple, peach and prune production, fruit consumption in the prairie provinces, American fruit returns, wholesale prices in Calgary, 1910-13, comparatibe freight and express rates to prairie points, comparative grading rules of competitive organizations, etc. He expected, also, to prepare a bulletin for the information of berry growers and others as to shipping direct to retailers, giving a list of prairie retailers, estimates of their probable requirements, rates and other shipping conditions.

Dealing with the berry situation, Mr Smith stated that there was an unlimited market on the prairies for strawberries, 140 carloads of American berries having been consumed in 1913, in spite of the heavy handicap of 48c a crate duty. The ready supply seemed, indeed, almost to have created the demand, as Edmonton, for example, which in 1911, handled no straight carloads of strawberries, had used 23 in 1913. Calgary's consumption last year was 30 cars. If it were possible for the Okanagan to go in for carload production of berries, our growers would have a combined duty and express advantage of $1 per crate to Alberta points, over competitors.

Under present small production conditions, he would urge growers (1) to deal direct with the prairie retailer, (2) keep away from the centres, and extend distribution beyond Alberta to Saskatchewan; (3) make sure of giving good weight and well-filled hallocks; and (4) be rigorous in keeping at home for cannery or local market purposes all fruit not in the best condition for shipping. The commissioner exhibited samples of the new American berry hallocks, quarts and pints, which are to contain, respectively, 67 and 33 cu. in., and announced that the early strawberry districts, Kennewick and Hood River (May 10 to June 20), and Puyallup, the principal raspberry district, will ship in a crate of 24 pints, while the later strawberry districts will ship in a crate of 16 quarts.

Discussing the apple situation, the speaker emphasized the fact that 85 per cent of the prairie demand was for a good medium-grade apple, at a moderate price, the prairie farmer being unwilling to pay extra for the highest quality and super-excellence. He crystallized the topic of the situation in his recommendations that the grade of our No. 2s be raised so as to meet the 85 per cent prairie demand for an apple undoubtedly superior to the competing C grade from the American orchards, while our high-grade No. 1s be used to supply the city centre demand for this high-class fruit. He also urged that no effort be spared to educate the consumer to call for this high-class fruit, and also to extend our markets to eastern centres, Montreal, Toronto, etc., and to Europe and Australia.

THEY HAVE DENTISTS THERE

An evangelist was exhorting his hearers to flee from the wrath to come. "I warn you," he thundered, "that there will be weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth!"

"Madam," returned the evangelist, severely, "they will be provided."

Redistribution Bill Giving B. C. Thirteen Members at Ottawa

The new map will divide the present constitutency of Kootenay into East and West Kootenay. East Kootenay will comprise the Provincial ridings of Cranbrook, Fernie and Columbia. West Kootenay will comprise the ridings of Nelson City; Ymir, Rossland City, Slocan, Kaslo and Revelstoke.

The electoral district of New Westminster district will be composed of the ridings of Dewdney and Chilliwack, and all that portion of the Provincial electoral district of Yale adjoining the Provincial electoral districts of Chilliwack and Dewdney, bounded by a line commencing at the southeast corner of the Provincial electoral district of Chilliwack and thence along the international boundary of the Provincial electoral district of Similkameen, thence northerly, following said last-mentioned boundary to the northeast corner of said Provincial electoral district of Similkameen, thence in a straight line northerly to a point on the north bank of the Fraser river, one mile east of the villiage of Yale, thence following a straight line to the northeast corner of the Provincial electoral district of Dewdney.

Vancouver will have two members elected at large. There will be a Vancouver South riding, consisting of the municipalities of South Vancouver and Point Grey. Victoria City riding will remain practically as it is today. Nanaimo also will be about the same, consisting of the local ridings of Cowichan, Esquimalt, Nanaimo City, Newcastle, Saanich and the Islands.

The thirteenth seat has not yet been named, but it will consist of the ridings of Alberni, Comox and all that portion of the Provincial electoral riding of Richmond south of the mouth of the east branch of the Squamish river at the head of Howe Sound, thence in a southerly direction along the easterly shore of Howe Sound to Burrard Inlet.

MORE SCHOOL BUILDINGS

Vernon's Central School building was finished three years ago, and at that time it was believed Vernon's school problem was settled for some years at least. But now the Okanagan government centre is facing the necessity of providing more school room for the pupils in the city, and the change of policy by which the Provincial Government no longer makes grants for school purposes in cities, makes it necessary for the city to put up all the cost of the required new buildings. The Vernon Board of School Trustees have therefore decided to abandon plans they have been considering for two 4-room buildings, costing about $40,000 each, and will, instead, endeavor to construct two 4-room buildings along more economical lines, the maximum cost of which to be $15,000 each.

RAISE CATTLE! RAISE CATTLE!!

Addressing the Winnipeg Advertising Club the other day, Mr. W. B. Ingram, of the Swift Canadian Packing Company, said that the price of beef in Western Canada would be up to $1 a pound in a few years if conditions were not changed.

Mr. Ingram defended the packers against the charge of responsibility for the high cost of living. Western Canada stood at the top of the list as a meat-eating country, and against this stood the fact that Western Canada daily faced an increasing population without increasing the supply of live stock. This prediction was equally true of the United States.

Mr. Ingram condemned the indiscriminate slaughter of calves. A half million had been killed during the past year, averaging a dressed weight of sixty pounds. If these calves had been allowed to live 18 months or two years, and had been fed, they would have yielded at least 600 pounds of beef apiece, a sufficient quantity to have fed every man, woman and child in Winnipeg for six years.

INCREASED TO 11 POUNDS

The Postmaster-General has announced that it has been decided to extend the weight limit on parcels post from 6 to 11 pounds, starting at once. The original intention was to allow three months to elapse before the weight of parcels was increased to 11 pounds. However, the system is already working so smoothly and so satisfactory that it has been decided that the department is well prepared to cope with the increased business which is sure to follow the extension of the weight. The new regulation is now in effect.

Concrete Fence Posts Last Forever

THEY never rot away in the ground. They stand the hardest knocks and never have to be replaced, for they are practically everlasting. They are easily and cheaply made and are the most satisfactory of all fence posts.

Concrete Drain Tile Cannot Decay

Concrete drains do not decay and are cheaper, because they do not crumble and stop up drains, hence they need no digging up or relaying.

Let us send you this free book, "What the Farmer can do with Concrete." It shows you how to make concrete fence-posts and will save you many dollars when doing other building 'round the farm.

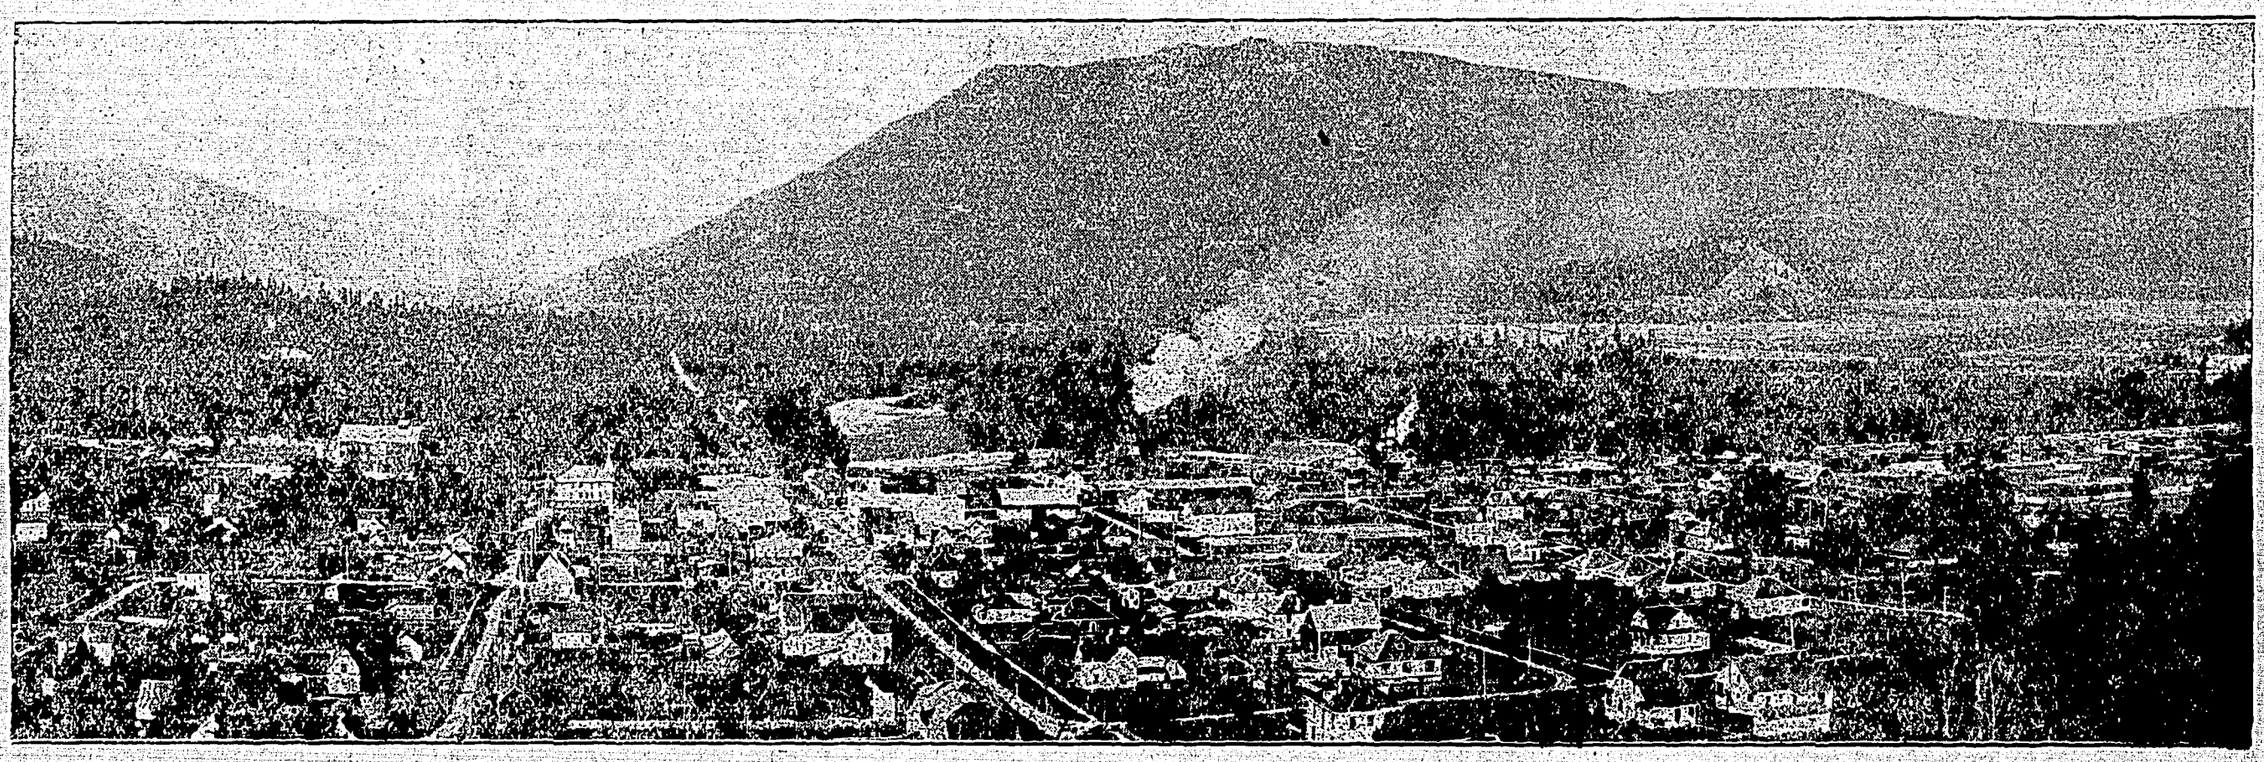
Sinning Against Your Home Town

It's a big subject--this of one's home town, because it means dealing with the present generation and the generation that is to come



The Enderby Press considers this subject so vital---so important and all-bearing on the present and future of Enderby, that we will open these pages to its general discussion

This series of articles, "Sinning Against Your Home Town," will deal with the subject in a big way—they will be written concisely and straight from the shoulder to make it clear to everyone. The points brought out will be facts as found by over 500 of the leading merchants and business men in the West and Northwest. The message they will bring will be of personal interest to every man, woman and child in Enderby. They will show what will happen if we all continue to "Sin against our home town."

ENDERBY is a growing city of one thousand people. It's future growth and prosperity depends on these people.

Why should a man bring his family to Enderby? Because Enderby offers him opportunities to provide for them—whether in a business way or farming. Enderby offers his family educational, social and pleasure attractions. It is very pleasant to live in Enderby.

When this man brings his family here, he has in mind making it his home for good. He is going to spend all efforts to build up that home. He is investing his labor to provide for his family. A city built by men like this will always grow and prosper.

The more attractive he makes his home, the more valuable it becomes. In ten years, his original investment will double and triple, if Enderby, as a whole, keeps pace with him.

The merchant coming to Enderby to go into business, sees at a glance that it is a hustling and bustling city. Its people work and are always improving. This makes him think—gives him confidence—he sees his way of investing in a stock of goods and opens up to serve the people with the necessities or luxuries of life. He secures the best goods made. He wants to give the people of Enderby the best possible at a reasonable cost to them and a reasonable profit to himself. Thereby, one more store is added to the business end of Enderby. And so it keeps going, more and more people locating in Enderby and more and more business concerns investing money in goods and in the present and future prosperity of Enderby.

And so we have a city going forward of its own volition—building itself up—getting more prosperous and offering more opportunities to outsiders. This is what happens when we are "helping forward our home town." The local businessman is patronized—he takes your dollar and puts it in an Enderby bank. He pays his rent with it to a local landlord—uses it in buying his personal necessities and those of his family, part of it goes for local amusements, And so the dollar stays in Enderby, and accomplishes a great deal toward or invests it in a lot for his home. the building of Enderby. One can easily see by that dollar going out of Enderby, a good many things would NOT happen—the landlord might NOT get all his rent—last year's suit would have to do for this year—the new addition to the home would have to go, etc. All because that dollar went out of Enderby when it might have stayed at home.

WEBSTER DEFINES SINNING AS "VIOLATING DUTY"

It is the duty of every man, woman and child in Enderby to help build up the city—to make it prosperous and make it grow—to encourage outsiders to come in. When you send east, or north or south or west to "replenish your wardrobe"—to purchase "new furniture for your home" —when you send your money to mail-order houses—do you realize that you are "sinning against your home town"—that you are "violating your duty" to Enderby? Well, you are. You are laughing at your local merchants—prolonging the needed municipal improvements—decreasing the value of your own property as well as that of your neighbor—discouraging the most worthy efforts to cater to your every wish—fooling yourself by sending that dollar out of Enderby. It is natural for every person living in Enderby to desire to purchase the best of all that makes life worth living. From a personal standpoint—clothing, hats, underwear, food, confectionery and the innumerable pleasures and recreations so necessary to balance one's existence.

Or, from your home standpoint, timber, stone and cement to build your home with plumbing, flooring, moulding, etc., to finish it off properly—furniture, appliances, furnishings to make living comfortable.

No one gainsays you this privilege —but would it not be better for you to buy these things in Enderby if you can supply your wants just as well and at the same price? By doing this—by keeping that dollar in Enderby you encourage the development of the city of Enderby—your home town.

By this action of yours in recognizing merit—you warrant the entrance of new industries, the expenditure of huge sums to start them. Such improvements attract attention to this city of yours—it attracts investments in its possibilities and its future probabilities. You are hurrying forward the time when Enderby will come into its own—when its advantages will be recognized. By keeping this dollar at home you are helping yourself—the coming generation and the future recognition of Enderby. We believe it is your duty to give this subject serious consideration. We ourselves believe it is so serious that we commend to your patient consideration the articles of this series, which will contain the experiences, ideas and suggestions of over 500 merchants and businessmen of the Northwest, as to what they think the result will be when we are no longer "Sinning Against Our Home Town."

Annual Meeting of Enderby Growers' Association Held

The necessity of paying more attention to mixed farming in the Okanagan Valley was clearly pointed out at the annual meeting of the shareholders of the Enderby Growers' Association, held in K. of P. Hall last Thursday evening, by Mr. R. Robertson, manager of the Okanagan United Growers, Ltd., who declared it to be criminal economics for the Okanagan Valley points to be importing meats from Australia and butter from New Zealand.

"We should ship out carloads of beef, eggs, butter and pigs, instead of importing these commodities," declared Mr. Robertson, during a discussion of the marketing situation in general, and the hay market in particular, as affecting Enderby district this year. It is as bad a practice to grow all hay as it is to grow all wheat, or all peaches, said Mr. Robertson, for the man who does this is sure to be caught at one time or another with his crop on his hands and the market glutted.

Mr. Robertson pointed out that a solid basis of prosperity would never be attained by too great specialization, that no district should devote itself entirely to apples, or entirely to peaches, or entirely to hay.

In calling the meeting to order, Mr. Little, president of the Association, expressed regret at seeing so few of the shareholders present, though the membership now numbered thirty-eight. Mr. Little took it as a sign of satisfaction among the shareholders that there were not more present, "for surely every man with a kick would have made it a point to be present."

A motion was passed inviting Mr. Reekie, of Kelowna, president of the Central, Mr. Robertson, manager, and Mr. Fowler, a director of the Armstrong local, and the newspapermen, to be present at the meeting.

In a short speech thanking the meeting for this courtesy, Mr. Reekie pointed out that it was a distinct advantage for the co-operative movement in the valley for members of the different locals to learn of the problems facing all other locals, and would enable the growers to eventually work out their difficulties.

The following balance sheet was submitted to the meeting:

Balance sheet, Feb. 28th, 1914—

Assets—

Accounts receivable	$ 206.40
Cash	181.96
Incorporation expenses, $94.35 less written off, $34.35)	60.00
Okanagan United Growers, 3 per cent reserve	92.65
Inventory	788.37
Balance due on 1st call stock issued	275.50
	$1,608.18

Liabilities:

Accounts payable	$ 861.52
3 per cent held for shareholders by Okanagan United Growers	92.65
Capital stock—200¾ shares of $100 each: amounts subscribed and issued, 38 shares, of $100 each; 1st call 20 per cent.	760.00
	$1,714.17
Loss in operations	$ 105.99

In explaining the reason for the loss in the season's operations, Mr. Little said: "The whole difficulty here has been that the hay crop has not moved out as expected. Had we foreseen the present slack market for hay we could have avoided the small deficit now showing by making a slightly larger charge on feed and flour supplied to our members. As a matter of fact we have handled about $4,000 worth of supplies with only a nominal profit. Had we made a larger charge we could now have a surplus for a dividend to distribute among supply purchasers, but the money would have come from their pockets, and the only difference would have been a better book showing."

The balance sheet was adopted as read, following which a motion was passed increasing the number of directors to six, and naming Mr. Little as the sixth. Last year, though president of the Association and the Enderby representative on the board of directors of the Central, Mr. Little was not a director of the Enderby local association.

The board of directors, with Mr. Little's name added, were re-elected, as follows: Wm. Anderson, S. Teece, H. G. Davies, R. E. T. Forester, R. J. Turner and C. W. Little.

It was urged that, while the balance sheet did not show conditions as favorable as might have been hoped for, still the showing was as good as could be reasonably expected, in view of the fact that the crop was actually moving last year before the organization had been completed.

Mr. Robertson, being called upon to address the meeting, congratulated the Association on having come through with so little a deficit, in view of the difficulties encountered during the first year of operation. Mr. Robertson then urged upon the growers the production of quality rather than quantity as one of the certain ways to success.

"Some people claim that the co-operative movement does away with the individuality of men and districts," he said, "and in a measure that is true. But it is also true that the man who grows a No. 1 apple gets a No. 1 price, and if any man can grow anything which is of such a fancy quality that it can command an extra price, we shall gladly give that grower a pool by himself, and individual returns on his product. We do take care of the man who is capable of producing goods of high quality."

During a discussion of the present situation of the hay market, Mr. Robertson denied emphatically the reports that some Alberta hay had been shipped into the Okanagan and sold at Valley points. He advised against a lowering of the price of hay, stating that in his opinion price cutting would not increase consumption or demand.

"We have had some exceedingly difficult propositions to handle during the past season, said Mr. Robertson, "both in the locals and in the Central, but I believe that the principles we are working on are sound and, subject to modification to meet changing conditions, will ultimately lead to success.

"There should be no difficulty so great that we cannot solve it, if we stand together. That is the point. Let me urge you to stick together through thick and thin—especially the thin.

"This year we must have crop estimates, and the Directors of the Central have decided, beginning June 1, to handle the crop of no member who does not sign a contract. In case of over-production, however, we take care of our shippers by assuring them that they will all be paid their proportion of the sales made, whether or not their individual produce has been disposed of. Payments will be made at the average market price for the grade delivered.

"I fail to see the basis for the objections to the contracts. The Central will in every case give liberal consideration to the request of any member who, for any valid reason, wishes to be released, in whole or in part, from his contract. For instance, if a hay grower wishes to be released from his contract in order to feed his hay to his own stock, the Central will be delighted. On only one point do we insist, and that is that members must not try to sell

JACOB GOULD SCHURMAN
The President of Cornell University

When Jacob Gould Schurman was a boy on his father's backwoods farm on Prince Edward Island, where he was born in 1854, educational advantages were scant in quality and costly in time and energy. Books were few, the one newspaper that connected the family with the outside world was but a provincial weekly, and the district school was taught by one teacher who gave the staple things of education, with no fancy dishes of the modern class.

When Jacob was thirteen he had to become self-supporting, and secured a clerkship of the general utility type in a country store at thirty dollars a year and his board and washing. In his second year he received sixty dollars, and with this coming of wealth came a longing for a better education.

In two years he had saved eighty dollars and with this as a bulwark against starvation he attended the village high school, studied voraciously day and night and entered a competitive examination for a scholarship at Prince of Wales College at Charlottetown, on the island. He won the scholarship of sixty dollars and went to the college. Then after a year of teaching he went to Acadia College, where his appetite for prize-winning became insatiable. He won a scholarship of $500 a year for three years offered by the University of London, followed by his winning the traveling fellowship of the Hibbert Society, and other prizes, scholarships and similar rewards, with predestined certainty and monotonous iteration.

He studied in London, Paris, Edinburgh, Berlin, Göttingen, and half a dozen other cities, and when six or seven nations had given him all they could supply but not nearly all he could absorb, he returned to Canada as professor in one of the colleges.

In 1885, Andrew D. White recommended him to Cornell, and the year following, at the age of thirty-two, he became head of the Department of Philosophy; in 1891 was made Dean of the Sage School of Philosophy, and in 1892 he received the degree of Doctor of Laws from Edinburgh University and became President of Cornell, being the only man even considered for a moment for the position.

Dr. Schurman is remarkable as a lecturer, broad and liberal as a teacher, searching for truth with his students rather than giving them his opinions as finalities; sincere and thorough as an investigator; clear, eloquent and effective as an orator; simple and direct as an author; and as a man, popular, magnetic, sympathetic, sterling and broad-gauge.

Entered according to Act of the Parliament of Canada, in the year 1914, by W. C. Mack, at the Department of Agriculture.

part of their crops in competition with us in our own market."

Mr. Reekie then addressed the meeting and spoke remeniscently of his experiences years ago on the Manitoba prairies, when wheat was selling at 37 cents a bushel. "The grain growers lived through those times," he said, "and many of them are now comfortably rich. We, in the Okanagan, will live through our times of trial as well, and succeed as they have succeeded.

"After all the criticism that has been heard this year of the locals, the directors, the Central, the executive, and the manager, I find that, once the growers are brought to understand our situation, our difficulties, and our results, there is a different spirit prevalent in the Valley, and a reasonable spirit of support, from Salmon Arm on the north to Penticton on the south.

"Pooling, as I understand it, is simply a system whereby the different districts help to bear each other's burdens. A No. 1 apple, whether grown at Enderby or Penticton, if put on the market at a certain time brings a No. 1 price."

Mr. Reekie then cited the case of a dealer from Alberta who had told him that in 1913 for the first time the grade and pack of Okanagan fruit had equalled and even excelled that of the fruit shipped by American competitors.

Mr. Robertson here rose to answer a question as to what was considered No. 1 hay. The directors, he said, had decided to adopt a system whereby vegetables and hay may be standardized. "Certain districts raise onions which bring a higher price than onions grown in other districts," said he, "and in future these onions will be graded No. 1, and will bring to the growers the higher price at which they sell, Timothy can also be similarly graded and handled, as can every other form of produce."

Mr. Robertson then outlined the system being worked out this year, whereby the Central is saving money for the growers by the purchase of seed supplies.

Mr. Fowler, vice-president of the Armstrong local, pointed out that only by co-operation could the growers help themselves and help others.

"Do not condemn the co-operative movement because mistakes have been made by individuals or directing boards," he argued. "Though last season in some cases growers who were not in the co-operative associations may have been paid more for their produce than members received, the members of the locals certainly received better prices than they would have obtained under the old system, when each man was competing directly with all his neighbors and with every other grower in the Valley."

Mr. Robertson was asked by H. E. Waby as to the possibility of the Central handling the sale of wool, of which the tonnage is increasing rapidly. He expressed entire willingness to undertake the sale of wool as soon as it is being produced in commercial quantities and can be sent out in carload lots.

Mr. Robertson then read a comparative statement showing the per centage of No. 1 and No. 2 fruits shipped by the various locals, in all of which the Enderby local compared favorably with the highest. In crab apples Enderby led all points, the per centage of No. 1s from this point being 97. At all the southern Valley shipping points, the growers suffered several severe hail storms, which badly marked the fruit.

The total shipments made by the Enderby Growers' Association for the year were: 1400 boxes of apples, 61½ tons of potatoes, and 64 tons of hay.

TAPPAN COMES IN

Vernon, Mar. 15.—The ninth local fruit union has become affiliated with the Okanagan United Growers, Ltd., and will this year have its produce, consisting principally of hay and vegetables, with some fruit, marketed by the Central. Tappan is the first station west if Salmon Arm on the C. P.R. The local union was formed there on Monday, March 9th, and has been formally admitted to membership in the Central, with C. Mobley, of Tappan, the new local's representative on the board of directors of the Central. The new local has a capital stock of 200 shares at $50 each, and begins operations with 40 shareholders.
