German Battleships Sally in North Sea

In the war zone this week no great victory has been won by the Allies or the enemy, but the coastwise march of the Germans upon Calais has been effectually checked. The Germans fought most desperately and the holding of the ground by the Allies was at tremendous loss in killed and wounded. The cream of the British army was engaged in the conflict. The importance of this engagement between Nieuport and Dixmude may be judged when it leaks out that President Poincare, Minister Millerand and General Joffre of France, and Earl Kitchener were in the vicinity of hostilities in conference with the King of Belgium at the time.

Despatches now indicate that the Germans have withdrawn from the Yser, where their position was made untenable by the flooding of the district by the Allies, and it is apparent that the enemy is preparing to attempt to cut a way through to Calais at a point farther inland.

Much activity on the part of the German mobile columns is reported from Belgium, says a despatch, and there is evidence that the invaders have not exhausted all the resources which are being brought to bear in the campaign upon Calais. The German assault at Ypres is believed by London observers to have been crushed decisively, at a terrible cost to the British army, which has apparently suffered as severely as did the Belgian forces.

F. A. McKenzie, whose cables to the Vancouver Province have at all times given such reliable summaries of events at the battle front, says the outcome of the land campaign is regarded in London authoritative circles with feelings of rapidly-growing confidence and satisfaction. Our leading soldiers, he adds, now assert that the worst is passed, the great weight of the German onrush having been successfully met. Every day from now on adds to the Allies' strength and to the enemy's weakness. The Continental commanders of the Allies say that, barring accidents, we should succeed in reoccupying the whole of Belgium by the end of February.

Many politicians and economists, he says, are confident that the war will be over within six months. They calculate upon the collapse of German resistance. But the wish is so apparently the father of this thought that it would be foolhardy to base any confidence upon it. Military circles do not share this view, holding that with the best fortune we must be prepared in the spring to hold Belgium with an army minimum of at least 800,000 strong and conduct an aggressive war throughout the summer, forcing the Germans to make peace on the approach of the coming winter.

According to present prospects, this writer says, Germany should, by March, be fighting on her own soil, where the defensive fortifications are amazingly complete. Places like Biche, whose very names are unknown to the world at large, contain vast fields of hidden traps, concealed redoubts and heavy armaments.

Concerning the situation along the River Aisne, reports from Berlin and from Paris are sharply contradictory. The Germans declare they have made distinct progress, while the French assert that all the German assaults have failed completely. In the Eastern arena the Russian right wing, which rests on the frontier of East Prussia, evidently has been sustaining determined attacks from the Germans. In the meantime, the Austrians, hundreds of miles away, still threaten the Russian left wing.

GERMAN SALLY IN NORTH SEA

London, Nov. 4.—The British submarine D-5 was sunk in the North Sea early yesterday by a mine which was thrown out by a German cruiser running from British cruisers. Two officers and two men of the submarine were saved. This information is contained in an Admiralty report.

The German squadron fired on the British gunboat Helicon, which was patrolling, wounding one man. "Various naval movements were made," the report continues, "as a result of which the Germans retreated rapidly, and, although shadowed by our light cruisers, could not be brought into action. The rearmost German cruiser, in her retirement, threw out a number of mines, and the submarine was sunk by one of them."

CALLED HOME

"They're coming through to take me away tomorrow morning," calmly whispered old Mr. Bailey to "Bob" who was sitting by his bedside Sunday evening. And sure enough, just as the sun was peeping over the hills into the Valley, they came. Calm and peaceful as a child asleep in its mother's arms "Dad" Bailey slept away. Thus was brought to an end a life of service to his fellows that was an inspiration to all who knew that unassuming grand old man—"Dad." We do not see many men of the type of Mr. Bailey. He was one of those fine old English gentlemen, and his whole life stood for all that is implied in the word. Fidelity was his watchword, and if he had another it was Kindness. There was nothing small about Mr. Bailey. He was a resident of Enderby for 28 years. He was not a church pillar—he just lived his Christianity. The dart of scandal never passed his lips, and when he spoke of another it was always of the good in him, or her.

Old timers of Enderby district will miss the familiar smile and the cheery word he ever was ready to give, and life will not be just the same without him. Two years ago Mrs. Bailey passed away, and with her went the spark that made life worth while for her mate. Since her passing, Mr. Bailey started on the down-hill, finally arriving at his destination with every faculty of mind and body consecrated to the last to the service of others, at the age of 71. Seven children are left to mourn his departure: Mrs. Alex Campbell, and Constable R. N. Bailey, Enderby; Mrs. Geo. Burns, Beverdale, B. C.; Mrs. J. H. Hooper, Vancouver;

The report is being circulated that the German fleet has come out from its base. It is reported from Dunkirk that four German battleships and four cruisers have put to sea from Kiel.

BRITISH CRUISER SUNK

Valparaiso, Nov. 3.—The German warships Gneisenau, Scharnhorst, Nurnberg, Leipzig and Drisdent today attacked the British fleet off Coronel, Chile. The British cruiser Monmouth was sunk. The cruiser Good Hope was badly damaged, and as she was on fire is supposed to have been lost. The British cruiser Glasgow took refuge in the harbor of Coronel and is now bottled up. The German ships Scharnhorst, Nurnberg and Gneisenau anchored at midday today in Valparaiso harbor undamaged.

Good Hope Not Lost

Washington, Nov. 4.—American Minister Fletcher at Santiago, Chile, reports the German naval victory off Coronel, and the arrival of three German warships at Valparaiso. He says the damaged Good Hope is reported to have escaped with the British cruiser Glasgow, and the armed merchantman Orlanto.

BOMBARDING DARDANELLES

London, Nov. 4.—The Secretary of the Admiralty announces that the combined British and French squadron bombarded the Dardanelles forts at long range at day-break yesterday. The forts replied, but no ships were hit, only one shot falling alongside them. The statement adds that the damage to the forts cannot be estimated, but that a great explosion, accompanied by dense volumes of smoke, occurred at Holles forts.

Screening Movement of Troops

London, Nov. 3.—A Rotterdam despatch says: "Heavy fighting is reported along the Yser, apparently to cover the movement of large bodies of German troops in a southerly direction. German forces evidently are making a desperate effort to break through to Calais farther south."

and sons Walter, of Kamloops; John, of Victoria; and William, of Toronto.

The funeral service will be held from the St. George's church this (Thursday) afternoon, at 2 o'clock.

HALLOWE'EN CONCERT

The Methodist Church was filled to its full seating capacity last Friday evening to witness the performance given by the children and young folk of the church. It was a concert that was most heartily enjoyed by all, and one that does great credit to all having anything to do with the preparation of the children, or the perfecting of the drills, etc., put on by the young ladies. Miss Hazel Stevens gave a splendid reading in her inimitable pleasing manner, and the little girls gave one number, "The Quaking Quakers," which was really a gem. In this all were good, but the credit for giving this number its finish and snap must be given to little Alice Sowden. The unconscious charm and grace of this little body in every number in which she appeared was the pleasing surprise of the evening.

The concert consisted of drills, choruses, readings, and character singing, concluding with Prof. Joy's Waxworks. The following took part: Little girls—Elsie and Evelyn Hawkins, Arion, Mary, June and Jeanette Fravel, Antionette Paradis, Alice Sowden, May Wiley, May and Jane Miller, Grace Hedley, Katie Golightly, Edna Cameron. Older girls: Martha Antilla, Edith Adams, Eva Jones, Birdie Campbell, Josephine Paradis, May Golightly, Violet Scott, Camilla Avery. The young ladies in the choruses and drills: Miss Smith, Miss Hartry, Miss Teece, Miss McMahon, Miss Bogert, Miss Baird, the Misses Paradis, Miss Duncan, Miss Faulkner, Misses Oakes, Miss Barrows, and the Misses Johnson. Waxworks: Miss Smith, Mr. Pearson, Mrs. Oldford, F. Johnson, Mrs. Fravel, Miss Faulkner H. and A. Teece, Mrs. Biddle, Jack McMahon and A. C. Skaling. Humorous quartette, Mr. Harkins, Arthur and Herb. Teece and H. P. Jaquest. Mrs. Harkins and Mr. Bawtree were the accompanists.

Largely to the untiring efforts of Mrs. Hedley is due the excellent performance of the children.

PATRIOTIC FUND DANCE

A dance will be given at the Drill Hall tomorrow (Friday) evening by the Enderby Branch of the Canadian Patriotic Fund, 1914 (Inc.) The hall is being nicely decorated, refreshments will be served, and music will be provided by the Enderby Orchestra. Admission: (by ticket or payment at the door): Gentlemen, $1; Ladies free. Tickets are for sale by Miss Hazel Stevens, Miss Hazel Elliott and Mr. Reginald Crane.

In order to correct a misunderstanding which appears to be prevalent, it may be stated that the above-mentioned dance is not in connection with the Home Guard movement, but is being given solely in aid of the National Fund inaugurated by His Royal Highness, the Governor-General, for the support of the wives, children and other dependent relatives of soldiers who have gone to the front. An official statement of the personnel and object of this organization will be found on another page of the Press.

ALL THE WORLD'S AKIN

Never in the world's history has anything like this been witnessed before. We are living in strenuous times—days fraught with the most wonderful opportunities for making life worth while—for living in the true spirit of Christian, sane service. Too long has Christianity—what we know as Christianity—feasted upon the spirit of selfishness—living on a dogmatic belief that belied the life of its founder. It required this world war to bring all Christendom to its senses. Nothing short of the greatest catastrophe civilization has ever known could have sufficed. By degrees civilization has drifted into the vortex of hell, and there could be but one ending. We have prided ourselves upon our much psalm singing and ceaseless praying, and loudly have we called upon the God of the universe to be on our side—thinking little and caring less about whether we are on God's side. The caldron of hell is now in flames, and we are feeding the bravest and best of our manhood into it. And all the while each side is beseeching the God of War to be with it and aid it to come out of the conflict victorious.

What must come out of it all? "The Allies shall be—must be victorious!" we cry. So be it. But what then? Victorious to go right on in the same old rut of superficiality—hell bent, and always with God "on our side?"

Here and there we see evidences of the true spirit asserting itself. The feeling of kinship is coming to the surface in most unexpected places and in heart-touching ways. The spirit of war—of murder—is unnatural and unpraiseworthy. We endeavor to hide its brutality under the cloak of patriotism, and yet all the while we know in our own hearts that there can be none of goodness in it. And we feel that out of it must come a higher, saner love of country and love of mankind—a truer conception of humanity and our duty man to man.

Europe has been the ruling power of the world. And time and time again it has proven its unfitness. Ancient customs and ancient beliefs have held that part of the world enthralled for ages, and all of its progress has been tethered to the fiend of war—the power of might. Along the borders of every European nation are strings of powerful forts that are supposed to guard one nation against the encroachments of the other. Millions of men and billions of wealth are required to keep each nation safe within its borders and free from invasion. This is one of the fool notions handed down to posterity by our barbaric forefathers. The world is suffering today because of the perpetuation of this idea.

If Europe would learn from the west, let her look to Canada and the United States, where for more than a century two nations have existed side by side, with thousands of miles of border, along which not a gun has been placed nor a fort erected. Only here and there customs officers are placed for the purpose of collecting such fees as one friendly nation imposes against the importation of goods from another. In all these years there never has been the question of the safety of Canada raised, and her powerful neighbor has never given the slightest reason at any time for such a question being raised. But let us suppose either the United States or Canada or Mexico had started years ago to erect forts along the borders of these nations, what would have been the outcome? At once the other would have followed suit, and, no doubt, long before this time we should have been shooting at each other.

Indicative of the spirit of the people where the war lords have not had them in their grasp for centuries, we have but to turn from the battlefields of Belgium to the shores of Canada and the United States. In the former we see, quite naturally, regiments of volunteer recruits assembling to be sent to England to aid the Motherland in her time of stress. But, of far greater importance, we see a tremendous work in progress in the gathering of money and goods to go to the stricken countries for the relief of the sick and wounded and the needy. The same spirit of helpfulness is evidenced in the great work being performed on the battlefields by the corps of Red Cross workers which have gone from the United States. Another evidence of this helpful spirit—this spirit of kinship, which must come to all as a result of the war we are now engaged in—is to be found in the movement which has taken hold of the children of the United States. The scheme is backed by eighty American newspapers, and has for its object the sending of a shipload of Christmas presents for the children rendered fatherless by the war. Four million Methodist Sunday School children of America are working for the scheme, and the Federation of Catholic Societies, with a membership of three millions, are giving their support. Texas will send one million 1-4-pound packages of nuts, and some of the prisoners in the Illinois State Penitentiary are at work making gifts.

Some of those war correspondents think it of sufficient importance to cable across the Atlantic such guff as this: "It is heart-breaking to know so much and to be able to tell so little." If those war correspondents could but realize it, it might be as well to keep back what little they do let out, for it is hardly in print over here before the official announcements of facts prove the correspondents do not know anything about it.

HIGH COST OF LIVING BUGABOO

Right in the midst of this hue and cry about the high cost of living and war prices, comes the voice of one crying in the wilderness. A writer in the Farm Journal disposes of the bugaboo in this fashion:

In regard to the high cost of living that is being discussed, I should like to see figures proving that it costs more to live now than it did, for instance, ten, fifteen, twenty, twenty-five or thirty years ago, if people would live the same as they did then. I have kept account of all my incomes and expenditures since away back in the 70's, and my accounts do not show any appreciable difference. There are a few things that cost more just now than they did some years ago, meat for instance; but there are others that are cheaper now than they were before. I was vividly reminded of that when I read your remarks about the price of binders. If $125 is considered too high a price, what would the farmers have thought, for instance, thirty years ago if they had been offered binders at that price? I get today a watch for $5 that would have cost me $20 in 1885. This is only an example. Newspapers, books, clothing, and a whole lot of other things cost no more today than they ever did. It does not cost any more to travel. Tea, spices, salt, cakes, pies, fruit, could not be bought any cheaper ten or thirty years ago than today. Amusements are, if anything, cheaper now than ever before. It costs more to eat in restaurants or live in hotels, but the reason for that is plainly the higher land values causing higher rents, and the higher wages that have to be paid for help.

All the talk about the high cost of living is nothing but an attempt to put the blame on somebody else for one's own desire to buy more things and live higher than before. James J. Hill was right when he said that the expression 'high cost of living' is used wrongly, instead of 'cost of high living.' Where a family twenty years ago was satisfied with an organ, a piano is wanted today. Where an occasional visit to a theatre once a week or once a month was deemed sufficient, today they want to take in some show every night. Where twenty years ago they rented a cottage in the outskirts of the city, today they rent an expensively furnished apartment in an apartment house right in the city, and then they 'kick' about their expensive living and put the blame on the poor farmers, who do not get any more for their work or their products than they got years ago. If I am wrong, I should like to be shown by indisputable figures where I am wrong."

The British soldier is the same old fighting stock that he was at Crecy, Agincourt, Blenheim, Waterloo, Alma. He "muddles" along and gets there whether the odds are two or five against him. He sings and fights, he whistles and fights, and, possibly, he swears and fights, but he appears to be very much on the fighting job all the time.—Slocan Record.

"Never haul down your flag even if it is shot full of holes," is an adage that too few business men apply to every-day business.

Too many businessmen are getting callous in the wrong place—and it isn't only to "ad" solicitors' appeals to them to keep their flag flying.

What's the matter with talking a little business as well as talking war?

Some men know everything but the obvious and how to do everything but make a living.

Lest We Forget

We need to be reminded quite as much as to be informed. Memory has been jocularly described as "the thing we forget with." Out of sight is apt to be out of mind.

An advertiser who relies on the memory of the public leans on a broken reed. The absence of its advertising from the newspapers has been the beginning of the end of many a firm. "The present suitor hath ever the advantage over the absent lover."

A business that has achieved its magnitude or strength as the result of faithful advertising plays itself false if it suspends or ceases its advertising, on the grounds of economy. It is poor business vision which fails to see the principal feeder of business, and fatal judgment which cuts it off or interrupts its flow. Economies may be warranted but they had better be effected in any other department than in the sales department—the department of revenue. Any course which shoves your customer back from you or hides you from your customer, is ruinous. The man with the money needs to be constantly sought. Advertising is the great discoverer of new customers, the great retainer of old ones.

Something to Think About in the Matter of War and Christianity

The following strong article is from the pen of Rev. A. A. Berle, D. D. It gives us something to think about more in the line of progress, and less in the line of slaughter than most of that which is written on the war.

"Nothing in the present terrible European situation is so depressing as the evidence it affords of the fearful contrast between Christianity and Jesus Christ. It amounts to nothing more or less than the breakdown of the religion of Western civilization. It is frightful to see actually before us the fact, that all the art, learning, knowledge, science and religion of the Western world have not been equal to the task of holding the barbarous instincts of the animal man in check and is leading human beings into the shambles of slaughter in a manner in which no civilized country on the globe would permit lower animals to be killed. The battle-fields of Europe today are proving conclusively that the vast increment of human intellectual force in the recent centuries of history has been applied almost entirely to the perfecting of the agencies of destruction. In a word, civilization in Europe has practically broken down. That is the plain meaning of the European war.

"One of the most futile of performances is the endeavor to fix the blame here or there in this vast catastrophe. To say that one man or one nation did it, is worse than foolish. No single man, however called the War Lord of Europe, could possibly do this. No single nation, however cursed with militarism, could do it. All Europe is an armed camp. What the army is to Germany, the navy is to England. France and Russia and Austria as well as the minor countries have all been in the leash of the vicious and immoral theory, that vast preparations for the business of killing can at any time or anywhere prevent war. As a matter of fact, it has been a reversion to the mining camp theory of existence without its virtues. Old time miners will tell you that, generally speaking, in the mining camps of '49 an unarmed man was usually safe. The only man who had to draw and draw quickly was the man who carried a gun.

"But there is a remoter and much more powerful cause of all this which has not generally been noticed because it has warped the view of the very people who are supposed to hate war most. This is the vast body of Christian people themselves. The fact that Christianity has been until very recently and still is in most quarters a religion of theological dogma instead of practical righteousness lies at the base of the downfall of European civilization.

"When the Council of Nicea in the year 325 A.D. established Christianity on the basis of dogma, there was inflicted upon the Christian religion the greatest blow it has ever sustained. That council with its outflowing results fixed the attention of the Christian church and its leadership upon dogmatic considerations as the test of vital Christianity rather than upon practical righteousness as emphasized by Jesus Christ himself and made absolutely clear on every page of the Gospels. That was a catastrophe, the full meaning of which has never been comprehended until now. Christianity has never meant the test of righteousness, only the test of doctrine. Membership in the church and preferment in religious institutions did not rest upon beauty and holiness of life and practical service to humanity, but upon astuteness in theological discussion and skill in ecclesiastical manipulation. Hence the vast energies of the Christian church were expended upon doctrine as the major interest and righteousness as the minor interest.

"Only in comparatively recent times has this been discovered. The religion of Jesus Christ is not, and never was, and there is not the slightest evidence in the teaching of Jesus that He ever intended it to be, a religion of theology or dogma. There is every evidence that He intended it to be a religion of service and of service first and foremost. The catholicity of Jesus' teaching on the subject of beliefs as such, is one of the intellectual wonders of the Gospels. The wonderful inclusiveness of His prayer and His service is the vastest reproach to the organized Christianity of today that could possibly be framed. There is no indictment of Christianity that could equal in penetrating severity the condition of Europe at this moment. But that indictment is written in its severest form in the words of Jesus Christ in the Gospels.

"One needs only to think back a little while to see the grotesqueness of most of the contentions of today. Only a few years ago we were all wild with rage at the Belgian treatment, under the leadership of King Leopold of infamous memory, of the poor natives of the Congo. A few more years back and we were all groaning in horror over the frightful Russian massacres of the Jews in the pogroms which shocked the moral sense of all humanity. "Let us not be deceived in these matters. We have all been under the grip of a theory of Christianity which was never taught by Jesus Christ and which finds absolutely no sanction in His life work. Christianity is a religion of service. Nobody ever has, and nobody ever will make an intellectual synthesis of Christians which takes them all in and secures the equal and coordinate intellectual assent. But Jesus did make a synthesis of service which can take in every Christian of every name and creed and type under the wide Heaven.

"This is the time when humane teaching should be brought to the fore. It is not only that we should emphasize peace and peace measures, but we should emphasize the fact that what has passed for Christianity is, much of it, not Christianity at all. Let all the world be made conscious that Christianity as we are seeing it in operation is not the Christianity of Jesus Christ. Christianity is a religion of service, to great and small, to strong and weak, to those who can and those who cannot speak for themselves, service for man and animal, for all sentient life, for love and hope and helpfulness. That is the capital fact which the whole world needs to learn out of the breakdown of European civilization. Civilization needs to be born again and born according to the life and teaching of its Founder."

TURKEY NOW INTO IT

It is officially announced at London that the Turkish Government has severed diplomatic relations with England and Russia. This action followed an ultimatum sent to Turkey by the Allies demanding an explanation for the action of Turkish men-of-war in bombarding Russian ports in the Black Sea. An official Turkish report says the Russians opened hostilities on October 28th, firing on a portion of the Turkish fleet after having for some time interfered with the evolutions of the warships. A despatch from Rome to London says a report has reached there that 400,000 Turks are massed on the Caucasus border, and that 300,000 are waiting at Beyrout, Jaffa, and other ports for transhipment to the Sinai Peninsula.

Balkan States Next

Now that Turkey has stepped into the war, the action of the Balkan states is awaited with keen interest. Greece is expected immediately to throw in her lot with the Allies, and it is felt that Roumania will probably follow the same course. Bulgaria, which recently regained much of the prestige lost in the second Balkan war, preserves a stubborn silence. Revenge would impel her to join with Turkey. With Turkey in the arena, the conflict is no longer European in scope, but Mediterranean. It therefore must threaten Italy's interests in North Africa, and raises the century-old question of the control of the Mediterranean, which must compel the Italian Government to intervene on the side of the Allied powers in the present war.

May Have to Run 'em Back Again

A Hague despatch says: "Several trains filled with cannon and submarines, bound from Germany to the Belgian coast, and destined for the proposed attack on the English coast, have passed Liege. They have been stopped at Bruges until further notice, the attack on England having been postponed until the present battle in West Flanders has been decided.

That Germany has by no means given up its determination to take Calais is indicated by a significant message from Berlin, by way of Copenhagen, that the German general staff has decided that the army in Poland shall fall back to the frontier of Silesia, and remain on the defensive until the battle in Flanders ends with the capture of Calais. Such a movement would release three or four army corps from Silesia to Belgium.

Another British Cruiser Sunk

According to an official announcement made Sunday evening by the London War Office, the British light cruiser Hermes was sunk in the Straits of Dover on Saturday by a German submarine. Most of the officers and men were saved.

A Rotterdam despatch says a German submarine became entangled in trawlers' nets off the Dutch coast on Friday and sank.

Tolstoi's Hope for the Race

Patriotism promises men nothing but a terrible future, but the brotherhood of nations represents an ideal which is becoming ever more intelligible and more desirable to humanity. Hence the progress of mankind from the old outworn opinion to the new must inevitably take place. This progression is as inevitable as the falling in the spring of the last dry leaves and the appearance of the new from swollen buds.

SYNOPSIS OF COAL MINING REGULATIONS

Coal mining rights of the Dominion in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the Yukon Territory, the Northwest Territories and a portion of the provinces of British Columbia, may be leased for a term of twenty-one years at an annual rental of $1 an acre. Not more than 2,560 acres will be leased to one applicant.

Application for a lease must be made by the applicant in person to the Agent or sub-Agent of the district in which rights applied for are situated.

In surveyed territory the land must be described by sections, or legal subdivisions of sections, and in unsurveyed territory the tract applied for shall be staked out by the applicant himself.

Each application must be accompanied by a fee of $5 which will be refunded if the rights applied for are not available, but not otherwise. A royalty shall be paid on the merchantable output of the mine at the rate of five cents per ton.

The person operating the mine shall furnish the Agent with sworn returns accounting for the full quantity of merchantable coal mined and pay the royalty thereon. If the coal mining rights are not being operated, such returns should be furnished at least once a year.

The lease will include the coal mining rights only, but the lessee may be permitted to purchase whatever available surface rights may be considered necessary for the working of the mine at the rate of $10.00 an acre.

For full information application should be made to the Secretary of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, or to any Agent or Sub-Agent of Dominion Lands.

SEED GRAIN AND POTATOES

By instructions of the Hon. Minister of Agriculture a distribution of superior sorts of grain and potatoes will be made during the coming winter and spring to Canadian farmers. The samples for general distribution will consist of spring wheat (about 5 lbs.), white oats (about 4 lbs.), barley (about 5 lbs.) and field peas (about 5 lbs.) These will be sent out from Ottawa. A distribution of potatoes (in 3-lb. samples) will be carried on from several of the experimental farms, the Central Farm at Ottawa supplying only the provinces of Ontario and Quebec. All samples will be sent free, by mail.

Applicants must give particulars in regard to the soil on their farms, and some account of their experience with such kinds of grain (or potatoes) as they have grown, so that a promising sort for their conditions may be selected.

Each application must be separate and must be signed by the applicant. Only one sample of grain and one of potatoes can be sent to each farm. If both samples are asked for in the same letter only one will be sent. Applications on any kind of printed form cannot be accepted.

As the supply of seed is limited, farmers are advised to apply early; but the applications will not necessarily be filled in the exact order in which they are received. Preference will always be given to the most thoughtful and explicit requests. Applications received after the end of January will probably be too late.

All applications for grain (and applications from the provinces of Ontario and Quebec for potatoes) should be addressed to the Dominion Cerealists, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa. Such applications require no postage. If otherwise addressed delay and disappointment may occur.

Applications, for potatoes, from

CHANGE IN HEAD OF NAVY

Prince Louis of Battenberg, first sea lord of the Admiralty, has resigned for reasons which do him the greatest credit. It is perhaps only natural that there should be a great deal of distrust of the very best of officers and administrators as head of the most vital force in the British Empire, if he is not only married to a German, but of Austrian parentage. At the same time Prince Louis has Russian blood in his veins and undoubtedly held a very difficult position at such a time with great ability and faith. He has done the navy excellent service, which the British people will not forget, but he himself will probably recognize that while the attacks upon him have possibly been inspired by personal motives there is naturally a really genuine sentiment that he should not be placed in such a difficult position at such a time.

He resigns, and to the genuine delight of the whole Empire, Lord John Fisher, the Kitchenier of the navy, once more comes to the head of affairs. Here is Fisher's fleet "in being," and now he has the chance to handle it. Possibly there will be a change of policy. Fisher has always believed in Sherman's definition of

The objects of this organization are: "To collect, administer and distribute a fund for the assistance, in case of need, of the wives, children and other dependent relatives of officers and men, residents of Canada, who during the present war, may be on active service with the naval and military forces of the British Empire and Great Britain's allies." Thus, those who will benefit by the Fund are the dependents, not only of Canadian volunteers and regulars, but also of British army and navy reservists, and of French, Belgian, Servian, Russian and Japanese reservists who have joined the colors and left dependent relatives in Canada; these soldiers are fighting side by side for a common cause, and their families are entitled to equal consideration. Under the direction of the central organization at Ottawa, and making allowance for differences in the cost of living, the scale of distribution to those entitled to assistance will be approximately the same throughout Canada.

The Executive Committee of the Enderby Branch earnestly solicit donations, which may be remitted or handed to any of the local officers, or to Mr. H. M. Walker, of the Enderby Press. All contributions will be promptly acknowledged through The Press.

war, and after surveying the possibilities of the situation he may decide on a more active propaganda of the offensive. FEEDING HUNGRY BELGIANS

Albert, king of the Belgians, has asked the American people, through the American commission at London, for relief in Belgium to help feed his starving people during the coming winter. The King's message written under fire in the battle before Dunkirk, follows:

"I am informed that the United States officials and citizens in Belgium and England, are working to save my people from the horrors of the famine which now threatens them. It is a great comfort to me in this hour of sorrow and misfortune, to feel that a great-hearted disinterested people is directing its efforts to relieving the distress of the unoffending civilian population of my country.

"Despite all that can be done, the suffering in the coming winter will be terrible, but the burden we must bear will be lightened if my people can be spared the pangs of hunger, with its frightful consequences of disease and violence.

"I confidently hope that the appeal of the American commission will meet with a generous response. The whole-hearted friendship of America shown to my people at this time always will be a precious memory. ALBERT."

CONVICTED OF MANSLAUGHTER

In the case of Quinn, King, Sullivan, Green and Christien, at Vernon last week for the murder of Berryman, whose body was found along the road on the way to Lumby early in May, King was the first to be placed on trial. After the evidence of all the others was heard against King, the Court ordered the jury to bring in a verdict of acquittal, and King was set free.

Arthur Quinn, one of the accused men, was for several years a resident of the Enderby district. In his evidence in the trial of King, he told the following story, which, in substance, was corroborated by the other witnesses: He said that on the 29th of April he had met Berryman, King, Green and Sullivan in Vernon and was with them at Lumby. Next morning they had left Lumby about 9 o'clock. They had several drinks, and each took a bottle with him. They were pretty well crowded in the democrat. In the front seat was Berryman on the right, Christien in the middle and Green on the left. They started drinking soon after they left Lumby and finished one bottle the first drink. Soon after they had another drink and nearly finished the second bottle. After this he remembered nothing. His mind was an absolute blank until he woke up in camp next morning about 5.30 o'clock.

All the other witnesses testified to being in the same condition of blankness of mind, and there was little evidence adduced that would fix the crime upon any one of the accused.

King, Quinn and Sullivan were acquitted. Christien was convicted as an accessory after the fact, and was sentenced to one year imprisonment, while Green was convicted of manslaughter and sentenced to five years imprisonment, the incriminating evidence against him being found in the testimony of witnesses with whom he had talked after the fracas, which went to show that Green and Berryman had fought at the crossroad over the possession of a bottle of liquor.
