News Notes of Enderby and District Briefly Told for Busy Readers

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. H. Tomkinson, Grindrod, on Sept. 23rd.

Pte. Harry Preston spent the week-end in Enderby, the last visit before leaving for the front.

Pte. Bogert spent a few days with his parents this week, before leaving with his battalion for the East.

A social dance will be held at Mara hall on the evening of Oct. 13th, in aid of the Red Cross Fund.

A home cooking sale in aid of the Cottage Hospital will be held in the Red Cross rooms Saturday, Oct. 14.

It is the intention of the local hospital board to hold a Hallowe'en dance in K. of P. hall in aid of hospital fund.

Pte. W. A. Russell was a member of the 6th draft, Canadian Field Artillery which left Vancouver for the front recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Bigge, Mrs. Proctor and Miss Marjorie Mowat will leave this afternoon for Montreal, where they take the boat for England.

Last night in the Opera House the wonderful submarine movie pictures which we have read so much about were shown to a fair-sized audience. They were intensely interesting, and very instructive, and it is to be regretted that every Enderbyite did not see them.

Word has been received from Corporal Airth, now in Scotland, where he is spending a few days on leave from duty. He was then in the town of Airth, and intended going to see the old Airth castle the following day. He was delighted with the reception he received in the old town.

The Red Cross market stall on Oct. 7th realized $9.30. The following are thanked for their contributions: Mrs. Tompkins, Mrs. Grant, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Ryan, Mrs. Bigge, Mrs. Hadow, Mrs. Moore, Mrs. Mack, Mrs. Proctor, Mrs. Jamieson, Mrs. Gaylord, Mrs. Winter, Mrs. E. C. Wheeler, Mrs. Reeves, Mrs. Landon, Mrs. Johnston, Mrs. Mowat, Mrs. Sowden, Mrs. Twigg, Miss Gibbs, Mr. Forster, Mr. Collin.

Two of Enderby's popular young people will be united in marriage on Tuesday, Oct. 17th: Miss Jeen Ruth Sparrow to Mr. G. Ernest McMahon. The ceremony will be a quiet affair, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Sparrow. Mr. McMahon has rented the furnished cottage of Mr. Albert Johnston, who has moved his family to Chase, where he has an extensive logging contract for the Adams' River Lumber Company.

That was an exceptionally interesting movie show at the Opera House last Saturday evening, when a double bill was given. This week end will see the second installment of that drama with a "punch" in every reel, "Trey o' Hearts." The first chapters shown last Friday and Saturday evenings, put all who saw it "on edge" for more. Every feature of this new serial is sharply drawn, and the staging effect most startling.

F. D. Abbott spent a few days in Enderby this week from Mabel Lake. Mr. Abbott is recovering from injuries received in an explosion of a gasoline tank, which he had emptied and was endeavoring to clean for coal oil. He endeavored to burn it out with a fuse, and after the fuse had long been exhausted he approached the tank and threw a lighted match into it. The next thing he was conscious of doing was to pick himself up from the ground some twenty feet away. No bones were broken, but his body was badly bruised.

Joe Doerflinger and Chris. Reeves returned from a trip to Shuswap Falls Tuesday evening. On the way home they met an upturned auto which had turned turtle down an embankment, pinning the occupants, a man and woman, beneath it. They assisted in extricating the victims and Joe motored to Lumby for medical aid. The woman was found to have sustained a fractured shoulder bone, while the man escaped with but a slight cut on the foot from the glass of the broken wind shield.

Miss Nettie Trethewey, who was brought to Enderby by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Trethewey, of Abbottsford, B.C., a month ago, in the hope that the change might improve her health, passed away Tuesday morning, aged 25 years. The body was embalmed by Undertaker McPherson, and the sorrow-striken parents left with it for the coast Wednesday. Interment will take place at Vancouver. The deceased young lady was a cousin of Surveyor G. L. Williams, who has deeply felt the loss. While in Enderby Mr. and Mrs. Trethewey occupied St. George's vicarage.

RUN OVER BY TRAIN

Last week at Vernon one of the small boys who persistently step on and off the moving train at the station, slipped and fell under the wheels and had a leg amputated. It is only a question of time when some of our Enderby boys will meet with a similar accident. They regularly line up along the platform and step on and off the car steps as the trains pull in and out. Parents would to a very large extent put an end to this dangerous practice if they would warn their boys and see that the warning is listened to.

PURSE OF APPRECIATION

A week or two ago when it became known that Miss Marjorie Mowat had resigned as assistant postmistress at the Enderby post-office and was soon to leave for the Old Country, Mr. George Brown took the initiative in collecting a suitable sum to be presented to her as a slight token of respect and appreciation of the unselfish service rendered the public for several years by Miss Mowat. On Thursday Mr. Brown presented to Miss Mowat a cheque for $152.00, accompanied by this letter:

Miss Marjorie Mowat, Enderby,

Dear Miss Mowat: We regret to hear that you have severed your connection with the post-office in Enderby, where you have always served the public with willingness and courtesy.

We would ask you to accept this small donation ($152.00) as a token of our appreciation of the kindly and pleasant manner in which you have performed your duties, and as an expression of the esteem and affectionate regard in which we hold you.

Wishing you a pleasant journey to England, and a safe return to Enderby, Yours sincerely,

GEORGE BROWN,
For the donors.

Following the presentation of this letter, which was accompanied by a complete list of the names of all donors, Mr. Brown received the following appreciative acknowledgment from Miss Mowat:

Dear Mr. Brown: You took me so by surprise yesterday that I am sure I did not thank you half enough for the splendid present you and so many others have been so very kind in giving me, and you may be sure I appreciate it sincerely. If I am not able to see all the friends who have treated me so generously, I hope you will tell them just how pleased I am.

Sincerely yours,
MARJORIE MOWAT.

To the Puplic: I thank you for the willing cordiality with which you met me when I was canvassing for a small present for Miss Marjorie Mowat. You made it a pleasure instead of any labor for me.

GEORGE BROWN.

GLAD TO RECEIVE SMOKES

Following are a few of the many post card acknowledgments received from unknown boys at the front who have received the regular packages of smokes sent by the Overseas Club with funds coming from the "penny catchers" standing conveniently near at every post-office wicket. These cards came to Enderby donors:

Smokes received. Many thanks for same. They are always very welcome, as there are very few comforts that are more in demand than smokes. We have the Huns on the jump now and expect to wind up his little ball of yarn soon.

Received your tobacco and wish to thank you sincerely for interest evidenced in those of us at the front.

In recognition of your contribution of tobacco, kindly accept my most heartfelt thanks. The smokes arrived at a most opportune time.

I received your most welcome cigarettes and tobacco, which you may be sure I appreciate.

A shipment of flowering bulbs—tulips, narcissus, hyacinths and lilies—has been received at the furniture store. Persons desiring a selection will have to call early as they are being sold rapidly.

Germany Carrying Sub Warfare Across Atlantic to Open Ocean

Last Saturday a German U man of war bobbed up in the harbor at Newport, and, after delivering correspondence from Germany to the German ambassador, submerged and again put to sea. A few hours later the submarine started its work of destruction on British freighters and passenger boats plying from America to England. Six or nine boats with their cargoes were sent to the bottom in a single day, with an officially estimated loss of $6,000,000 to Allied shipping and trade. Then the pirate disappeared and has not yet reappeared. As a result there was a big drop in the price of wheat and cotton on the American market, and marine insurance rose several marks.

The Allied powers have made representation to the United States government that "in view of the development of submarine navigation and by reason of acts, which in the present circumstances, may be unfavorably expected from enemy submarines, the allied governments consider it necessary, in order not only to safeguard their belligerent rights and the liberty of commercial navigation but to avoid risks of dispute, to urge neutral goyernments to take effective measures, if they have not already done so, with a view to preventing belligerent submarine vessels, whatever the purpose to which they are put, from making use of neutral waters, roadsteads or ports."

The United States has refused to accept the contention of England and her allies urging that neutrals deny the use of their harbors to all submarines, whether merchantmen or warships. The argument of Sir Cecil Spring-Rice made many many months ago on the rights he claimed for British cruisers to enter American Atlantic ports, has been quoted against the contention of the Allies.

Secretary of the Navy Daniels, is reported to have advised President Wilson that advices so far received indicate that all the rules of international warfare had been complied with by the German submarine operating off the New England coast.

LATEST WAR SUMMARY

The official statement issued by the War Office, giving details of the fighting on the Western front from the 15th to 30th of September, says, "The enemy has fought stubbornly to check our advance, and since September 15th, seven new divisions have been brought against us and five against the French. The severe and prolonged struggle demanded of our troops very great determination and courage.

"At the end of September the situation may be summarized as follows: Since the opening of the battle on July 1, we have taken 26,735 prisoners and engaged 38 German divisions, of which 29 (about 350,000 men) have been withdrawn exhausted or broken. We hold the half-moon upland south of the Ancre and every height of importance, and so have direct observation ground to the east and northeast. The enemy has fallen back upon a fourth line behind a low ridge just west of the Bapaume-Transloy road.

"The importance of the three-months' move is not to be judged by the distance advanced or the number of enemy trench lines taken. It must be looked for in the effect upon the enemy's strength in numbers, material and morale. The enemy has used up his reserves in repeated, costly, and unsuccessful counter-attacks without causing our allies or ourselves to relax our steady, methodical pressure."

During the past week the British troops have made further slight advance north of the Somme. It is reported that the French are preparing a new thrust on the front between Deniecourt and Lihons.

On the Russian front, although the great battle in Volhynia and Galicia apparently is continuing with all the ferocity that the Russians can bring to bear, no apparent progress has been made in the supreme effort of the Russians to break the Austro-German line and capture Lemberg.

In the Rumanian campaign, the Rumanian-Russo forces have had to evacuate the Transylvanian city of Kronstadt, the first Austrian city captured by them in their whirlwind rush on the way to Constantinople. In the Dobrudja some advance against the Bulgarian-Turk-German troops is reported from Petrograd, while Bucharest reports that the Rumanian troops which were reported last week to have crossed the Danube into Bulgaria have managed to get back.

On the Saloniki front, reports indicate that the Allied troops are making progress in their efforts to take Monistar.

ROLL OF HONOR

Several attempts have have been made locally to compile a roll of honor of the names of all men having gone to the front and of those joining the colors for home service, giving the battalion, regiment, etc., of each man. But all have failed in getting the details as to battalion, etc. It is the desire of The Press to make a complete list of the boys from this district who are serving Overseas as well as at home, and with this object in view we shall publish next week a list of the names of all we have been able to get, and would ask our friends to check over the list and send us the name of any men we have failed to enroll, either for home service or for service abroad.

Nothing More Appreciated

A letter to the London Times from Sir Thomas Fraser, a surgeon of Edinburgh, deprecating the generous issues of tobacco to the troops, especialy by private organizations, has evoked strong replies. The Montreal Gazette's London correspondent cables: "One quotes the letter of the director-general of voluntary organizations, in which the request is made to extend the work by providing even greater quantities of tobacco and cigarettes for the troops, adding that no luxury is more appreciated than gifts of this nature."

WHY NOT HELP THE INDIANS?

For the past fifteen years or more the Indian reserve situated at Enderby's front door and back door has been a problem the white man has wished to have solved. Petition has followed petition to this Indian Commission and that, setting forth conditions as they existed at the time, and three or four of these royal commissions have visited Enderby and heard the white man's story and that of the Indians. And the net result of it all can be told in a single cipher. The reserve lies as it was years ago; there is about the same amount of land under cultivation, but far less produced on it today than came from it say twenty years ago. The Indians live in the same state of development, except that they have appropriated the vices of the whiteman and discarded the virtues of the original Indian.

The fault lies not with the Indian, but with the policy of the Indian Department. In some of the provinces to the east of us the Indian Department places an Indian agent on each reserve, with instructors in agriculture there with him to teach the Indians how to farm, what to plant, and how to get it to market at a profit. There they raise thousands of head of stock on the reserves, which are fed and fattened for market on what the land produces. Thus the Indians are taught to be of service to themselves and the community. The Indian children are given a common school education on the reserve, the resident Indian agent having power to see that every child of school age is sent to school.

If this is good for Indians east of us, why does the Indian Department refuse or neglect to put the same system into operation here? It is true, some few years ago an effort was made in this direction. It was proposed to establish a public school on the reserve, the desks were supplied and a teacher engaged, but through the machinations of the tribe's spiritual adviser, in conjunction with the Indian chief, the children were not permitted to attend the school, and the teacher's services were not required. Here is where the Indian Department fell down. Compulsory education, apparently, is a good thing for white children but not for Indian children.

Is this policy fair, either to the Indians or the community forced to endure them as neighbors and fellow citizens? Is this policy of sloth on the part of the Indian Department to continue for all time? Does the Indian Department never intend to take a hand in the development of this Indian reserve? Are these Indian children to be permitted to grow up year after year morally and mentally weaker than the generation preceding them? Has the Indian Department no policy looking to the advancement of these Indians? If so, in the name of heaven, why isn't it put into operation?

The present war in Europe does not turn on a question of freedom of humanity, nor anything of the sort. It is simply this, one Power objects to an increase in power on the part of another Power. This is an unwritten law, among nations as with individuals and communities—no one Power is permitted to dominate.

GETTING TOGETHER

There is to be a meeting of the businessmen of Canada in the near future to go into fully the commercial and industrial conditions here, and out of it to evolve some system by which the resources of the Dominion may be better developed and conserved. No doubt this meeting of the big men of business of Canada will be productive of great good. Out of it will have to come some plan by which the country will be able to weather the storm now brewing. There are many reasons why Canada needs this getting together. We are not now in any way organized to enable us to cope with conditions as they are now or will be in the future. We are simply drifting along, conscious that we shall some way "muddle through." The Dominion is going in debt at the rate of one million dollars a day, and no provision is being made to meet this debt. Of course, we know it will have to be met, and will be met—"after the war." But how? Canada's population has decreased enormously since the war broke. It will become still less before the tide turns. To cope with this condition means that we must get together—co-operate. We must co-operate at home and afield. Every community must become more self sustaining. There must be co-operation in all lines of manufacture, industry, trade and commerce. Not that form of co-operation between the tradesmen against the buyer or manufacturer, or the producer against the consumer, such as we have seen too much of already, but that co-operation in mutual interest that leads to fuller development of each and all, not of the few at the expense of the many.

We have at our door the spectacle of what lack of co-operation will do. Other examples may be cited, but this one will do. For the first time in history Okanagan wheat is being marketed through Atlantic ports. Okanagan grain is thus travelling 3000 miles to tidewater, in spite of the fact that a complete government elevator costing $700,000 is located at Vancouver within a few miles of our wheat fields; and inspite of the further fact that the flouring mills of the Valley are closed and not running, and every pound of flour used in the Valley has to be shipped in from Manitoba and the Northwest. Surely our people are now paying dearly for their lack of co-operation in the past. It should be a lesson for the future.

"Willie," the terror of the Somme, is said to have the length of a city block; he is not an armored car, but a walking fort—the most astonishing monstrosity the war has produced.

PREPARE FOR WORST, HOPE FOR BEST

There are certain writers apparently preparing stories relating to the war, which are cabled from London each week. These stories are written by trained men with the obvious purpose of spreading optimism and inspiring confidence in the ultimate victory of the Allies. In this respect the stories are admirable. But as depicting actual conditions, or giving any sane conception of the war and its progress, these stories utterly fail. And it is a serious question if their ultra-optimistic tone has not done more harm than good in actually preparing the people of the empire for the trials that must yet be endured. Now and again we read what the men in actual control of affairs have to say, and their words have in them a rebuke for the "penny-a-line" optimists who declare in one column that the war will end "before Christmas," and deny it in the next.

General Sir William Robertson, chief of the imperial staff at army headquarters, in a speech at Dalderby, Licolnshire, a few days ago, gave this serious word of warning: "We are not justified in expecting to win the war unless the service of every man and woman in the country is utilized to the fullest extent. We must be under no delusion as to the end or probable endurance of the great struggle. We must be prepared to continue for a time which at present cannot be estimated. In fact, we must prepare for the worst while we hope for the best. We have adopted in the army the principle of national service. We must see that we put into practice that principle, because we want more men and we want them now, and eventually we shall want all who can be spared."

No official figures have been given recently as to the number of men serving with the British army. On May 25th, King George in signing the military service bill placed the number raised up to that time at 5,041,000. In July, August and September, the British casualties were 307,169. This does not include the French and Russian losses on the same front since the western offensive began. But it shows the price that must be paid for any advance made. It was said of the Germans in their Verdun offensive that they could take line after line from the French if they were prepared to pay the price in men, but, it was argued, these lines ran back actually to the gates of Paris. We do not know how many men the enemy lost in the Verdun offensive. Judging by the British losses in an advance covering about the same number of square miles, their losses at Verdun must have reached half a million. If the Germans are as well prepared back of their first lines as the French are—and there is no reason to believe they are less prepared—then it is not difficult to compute what our losses must be before the enemy is driven even out of France, and we shall still be the width of Belgium from the frontier of Germany.

Designed this year it will ornament and enhance the good appearance of the tidiest kitchen in all Canada.

SYNOPSIS OF COAL MINING REGULATIONS

Coal mining rights of the Dominion in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the Yukon Territory, the Northwest Territories and a portion of the Province of British Columbia, may be leased for a term of twenty-one years at an annual rental of $1 an acre. Not more than 2560 acres will be leased to one applicant.

Application for a lease must be made by the applicant in person to the Agent of sub-Agent of the district in which rights applied for are situated.

In surveyed territory the land must be described by sections, or legal sub-divisions of sections, and in unsurveyed territory the tract applied for shall be staked out by the applicant himself.

Each application must be accompanied by a fee of $5 which will be refunded if the rights applied for are not available, but not otherwise. A royalty shall be paid on the merchantable output of the mine at the rate of five cents per ton.

The person operating the mine shall furnish the Agent with sworn returns accounting for the full quantity of merchantable coal mined and pay the royalty thereon. If the coal mining rights are not operated, such returns should be furnished at least once a year.

The lease will include the coal mining rights only, but the lessee may be permitted to purchase whatever available surface rights as may be considered necessary for the working of the mine, at the rate of $10 an acre.

For full information application should be made to the Secretary of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, or to any Agent or sub-Agent of Dominion Lands.

BRAINS AND TEAM PLAY

Are you a producer? How can you increase your production? What Canadian raw materials are not being used that might be used? What have you to say about supervision of industrial development—to eliminate wasteful export and to encourage meritorious enterprise? These are questions asked by Sir George Foster of the businessmen and producers of Canada.

Chicago had a great fire. Her citizens determined to make a greater Chicago. It was not her strategical position that made her great but the determination of her leaders of industry. They thought about Chicago. They worked overtime for Chicago. Brains, teamplay and energy will do for any community in Canada what it did for Chicago. A group of men in this community willing to give serious thought and study to Enderby problems, will do something of real merit to the community and the country. Let those of us who remain at home keep our end up with the men in the trenches. We have no more right to sit still and allow the community to take a back seat than the boys at the front would have to lay down their arms and be walked off the field as prisoners.

With the close of the war an army of say three hundred thousand Canadian soldiers will return and seek their places in the industrial organization of their country. Every community must then be prepared to undertake its share of the burden of taking care of the men. Over 400 Canadian factories will cease the manufacture of munitions and the services of the organizations of workers who have become expert in these lines will no longer be required for the purpose. These workers must then direct their attention in other channels. Every community, however small, must then be in a position to provide the means of livelihood for its share of these industrial workers until such time as the various industries can readjust themselves in order to launch out into the manufacture of other lines of goods.

In Europe 20,000,000 men will lay down their arms and return to the avocations of peace. Hundreds of thousands of these men will, for a time at least, be unemployed. A large number of them unquestionably will look to this country as their place of opportunity. The march on Canada will be magnificent—if we are ready. But the men who will come will be empty-handed. It is up to us—everyone of us—to get together and solve our community problems. Let us not sit still and wait for the war to end. It is not going to end—in the sense that conditions will return to normal. If we have not "normal conditions" now we shall not have "normal condition" then. We must, in each and every community, organize to make present conditions "normal." And to meet any other conditions in a normal way. This cannot be done by the Government. It must be done by each community—by the businessmen and citizens generally getting together while the war is on and, by co-operation with the producers in all lines, so shaping and controlling local production and markets as to give to every citizen the chance to do something for himself and the community.

We should discontinue much of the present duplicating effort; cut out many of these various and sundry appeals for alms by this organization and that; reduce our religious whims to meet actual requirements and, in general, combine to produce more, save more and want less. We should remember that the more goods we buy at home and the more we make to send out of the district the richer the community becomes.

England still refuses to give Ireland home rule, but, just the same, when England wants a particularly strong man she has to go over to Ireland and pick some pink-cheeked boy. As Lincoln said about the rat hole, "This statement will stand looking into."

CANADA'S WAR EXPENDITURES

During the six months ending September 30th, Canada spent $60,000,000 more for war than she did during the corresponding period last year, while her expenditure for the month of September is just double what it was in September, 1915. At present the war is costing the Dominion just about a million a day. Since September, 1915, the net debt has been increased by nearly $200,000,000. At the end of last month it stood at $680,275,444, as against $484,841,633 on September 30, 1915. The increase in the debt for the month alone was over $20,000,000 as compared with August.

The total revenue for the six months is $103,589,680, an increase of $30,346,166 over the corresponding last year. Customs receipts are responsible for $20,000,000 of the increase; excise for $2,000,000; postoffice for $800,000; railway receipts for $5,000,000 and miscellaneous for over $1,000,000.

What we shall do and be, as a community, "when the war is over" depends upon what we are and do while the war is on.

W. J. BRANDRITH PASSES AWAY

W. J. Brandrith, a pioneer of the Delta, and for thirty years provincial fruit inspector, died at his Burnaby home last week. During his term of office as fruit inspector he represented the Province at many important fruit conventions in Eastern Canada. On several occasions he had charge of provincial fruit exhibits at Toronto and Winnipeg exhibitions, and he had an established reputation as an authority of fruit and fruit pests.

DEALING WITH EFFECTS, IGNORING CAUSE

For the past year or two we have seen in the Provincial press communications pro and con dealing with Christian Science and the growth of that church and religion. Orthodox ministers grow bitter in their denunciation of the Science religious school, claiming that this more recent church is against the teachings of the orthodox church and can claim no fellowship with the established church or the teachings of Christ. The few Scentists who have taken any notice of the denunciation by these priests of the established church, do not appear to worry much about the "lack of fellowship" with the old order of religion, but claim emphatically that they follow closely in the footsteps of Christ, who taught that to relieve the sick, cure the blind, and otherwise make the spirit of Christ a practical, everyday thing, was not only the privilege, but the duty of every faithful follower.

Controversies of this nature are not new. Some fifteen years ago, when Science churches began to establish themselves by the hundreds in all the large cities and in the small towns of the United States, priests of the orthodox churches raised the same cry there as we now hear in this Province. While orthodox churches were losing followers by the hundreds the Science churches waxed fat and built larger and larger in order to accommodate their congregations. They continue to do so today. Every knock by the orthodox priests proved a boost for Christian Science. Today it is the leading church, in wealth and influence, and in making practical the teachings of the Lowly Nazarene, on the American continent. Instead of stopping to argue the point with their orthodox brethren, they have gone right on "doing the will of the Master;" healing the sick, making the blind see, and, in general, helping their followers and brethren in the practical commercial and home life of the nation.

In a recent article in the Westminister Gazette, a magazine published at the coast in the interest of the better life along orthodox lines, the editor concludes a lengthy discussion on the waning influence of the Christian Churches, and their failure to grip, control and direct the impulse of mankind, with these words: "What is wrong with the churches today is precisely what is wrong with the home life of the people. In other words, the condition of the churches will always reflect the condition of the homes of the land. If in the churches there is spiritual indifference and stagnation, it is because the same thing exists in home life."

This summing up is true. But it is not the kind of admission the churches are prepared to make. Such an admission proves that the churches have not fulfilled their mission. And in attempting to place the blame for the churches' waning influence upon the home is merely sidestepping the cause while pointing to the effect. If the churches had entered into the homes and the lives of their followers in the true Christian spirit, there could not have grown up in the home life of the people that indifference the churches now complain of.

"Bruce" McConnell has had to give up the publication of "J. P's Weekly." He says the suspension is only until the war ends, when he hopes to be able to get book paper on which to print. We are sorrow to see "Bruce" quit. He is a strong writer and a fearless one. He will not go out of the limelight entirely, however, for he has been employed by the Vancouver Province on feature work, and will conduct a department in that excellent newspaper.

MORE AND BETTER STOCK

That farmers are realizing that live stock is the basis of true agriculture is plainly evident by the applications which are daily coming in to the Board of Agricultural Credit Commissioners asking for loans for the purpose of acquiring live stock, erecting stock buildings, constructing silos, etc. This is a very encouraging sign of the times, and farmers can rest assured that applications for farm loans for this purpose will receive favorable consideration from the Commissioners. During the last year several co-operative creameries have been incorporated and are making good. What is your district doing towards development on mixed-farming lines? Keep more and better stock. Grow ensilage and fodder crops. Make your farm as much as possible self supporting and grow your own stock-food.—Agricultural Journal.

CANADA'S ARMY STILL GROWING

An Ottawa dispatch says that during the last two weeks of September 3043 recruits were raised in Canada. The total number raised for the month was 6351, as against 7267 for August and 8675 for July. The total number of men enlisted to date in the Dominion since war commenced is 365,867. The Montreal district heads the list for the fortnight and for the month with 856 men for the former and a total of 1563 for the month. British Columbia comes next with 434 for the fortnight and a total of 984 for the month. Canadian casualties recorded during September were double the number of men recruited in Canada during the month.

Butter Wrapper Parchment

The Dominion law against the selling of butter without the words "Dairy Butter" or "Creamery Butter"—as the case may be—printed on the butter wrap, is a blessing in disguise to the average farmer. In the first place, if his Butter wrappers are neatly printed with his name and the brand of the butter on the label, the storekeeper can readily sell the butter at 5c a pound more than he can get for butter wrapped in paper that is not printed, and the butter-maker gets the advantage in 5c a pound more for his butter from the merchant.

It is the duty of every butter maker to comply with the law in this matter. Some butter makers have only a cow or two, and make so little butter that it does not appear to them that they can afford to have their butter wraps printed. They do not like the idea of having 500 or 1000 butter wraps on hand. To accommodate this class of butter makers, The Press has printed up a quantity of "Custom" Butter Wraps. They are printed with the words "Fresh Dairy Butter" but do not bear the name of the maker. However, these wrappers fill the requirements of the law governing this point, and can be bought in small quantities at the rate of 50c a hundred in 100 or 50 lots. If you do not require butter wraps in larger lots, take these wraps in lesser quantities.

THAT UNHAPPY WRIT

"Supposing that Mr. Brewster does go on with his writ and that he succeeds, what then is going to happen?" This was the reply of the Hon. Lorne Campbell, minister of mines the other day to a representative of the Vancouver Province, who had asked him for an expression of opinion on this phase of the political situation.

"On the other hand, supposing he does not obtain a favorable decision, do you think for a moment that the liquor people are going to let it stand there after spending all the money they have in the recent campaign against prohibition?"

"I am not a legal man, but the matter stands this way, according to my way of thinking," said the minister. "If Mr. Brewster wins on his writ in the courts then everything done after March 14th is illegal. There will be no Legislative Assembly, and it will then rest in the hands of the lieutenant-governor on whom he will call to form a government. Personally, I think that if there was another election the result would be just the same. The people wanted a change and that is all there is to it."

"I cannot for the life of me see how Mr. Brewster is going to get out of proceeding with the writ. He must take it to the courts and get his decision there. There is no other course open to him, but whatever the result, there is going to be a condition of affairs that no one looked for. If the writ succeeds, the prohibition people will fight; if it does not, the liquor representatives will fight, and there you are."

WILL SCOTT COME BACK?

John T. Scott, erstwhile Provincial Liberal organizer, and the man for whom the Provincial police authorities issued a warrant following the disclosures made at the recent legislative inquiry into the election frauds at the Vancouver by-election in February last, will probably be back in Canada within a short time. His return will be the result of the extradition proceedings instituted by the United States immigration authorities following the attempt of one wing of the Liberal party in Vancouver to secure his return so that the election frauds might be cleared up. The proceedings before the U. S. authorities at Seattle, where Scott is now under bonds, were halted some time ago when Scott claimed he was a citizen of the United States. His case was referred to Washington, which has refused to entertain his plea.—Victoria Colonist.

WOULD LIKE A BOX OF APPLES

The growers' Market Commissioner at Calgary writes that he would be very grateful indeed to any growers who can ship to him some apples for judicious distribution at the Soil Products Exhibition to be held there Oct. 17-19, inclusive. By the handing out of an apple to inquirers and others who display some interest in the show, many friends can be won for B. C. apples. Those who can see their way clear to send a box, will be helping the work of the display. All transportation charges will be paid at Calgary end.

CITY COUNCIL MEETING

His Worship the Mayor, and Aldermen Sharpe, Fravel and Nichol were present at a meeting of the City Council Tuesday evening.

The report of the committee meeting held last week, when the matter of tax sale was dealt with, was read and adopted.

Alderman Fravel and City Clerk Rosoman were appointed delegates to the Municipal Convention held at Vernon this week.

Ald. Fravel, chairman of the board of works, reported that he had taken a trip over the road to the Lawes hill property, and found it to be in what he considered fairly good condition. The rock point complained of by Mr. Lawes, might be put in better condition, but would require considerable work in blasting, and, considering the little use that this road is put to he did not feel that, under existing financial conditions, the city would be justified in doing the work at this time. The report was adopted by the council.

A communication was read from the Superintendent Stevens, of the Government telephone and telegraph service, asking permission to set poles along the Vernon Road within the city limits to connect the line now building from Vernon with the existing line. The request was granted, subject to the ordinary regulations with regard to the protection of existing wires and to the approval of the board of works.

A communication was received from the hospital board asking the council if it had any suggestions to offer as to the mode of procedure to follow in the selection of members of the new board to be chosen at the expiration of the term of office of the present board, the end of this month. It was pointed out in the discussion that followed that it was the understanding of the city that the hospital board was to have been duly incorporated under the Provincial Act, and that all procedure as to selection of the board would be laid down in the charter of incorporation. The matter was left in the hands of the Mayor and City Clerk who were asked to meet the members of the board and point out to them the recommendation made some month ago before them by Provincial Auditor Crehan.

BIG SEASON CLOSING

The Okanagan Saw Mills will be forced by low water to close the season's cut within a week or two. The year 1916 has been a very busy one for the company, particularly in the shipping department. When the season opened they had some 14,000,000 feet of lumber in the yards to start with. The shipping department has disposed of the surplus then on hand and has in addition kept close up to the saws. Sales Manager Lewis says he has some 150 carloads on order, and that when these orders are filled he will have less than eight millions of feet in the yard for winter and spring shipments.

The lumber market is most promising for next season.

Australia Against Conscription

According to a writer in the Vancouver Federationist, the labor paper, "from north to south, from east to west, in Australia, conscription is denounced. The miners, the farmers, the seamen, and other workers of Australia—both in town and in village; in city and bush—have joined forces against the conspiracy which sought to place them beneath the iron heel." This writer says that at a meeting in Sidney attended by 60,000 laboring men, an effort was made to break up the meeting but, "the sturdy bohunks of labor had prepared well for any such attack by standing in a huge circle ten deep with arms locked together in such a manner that a breakage was impossible. The soldiers recoiled before the linked arms, and fell back with sundry knocks and bruises."

FROM THE FRENCH LINES

We had the pleasure of seeing a number of snap shots taken by Lieut. James Glenn, of the Canadian Royal Flying Squadron, now at the front, a few days ago. Many of these pictures were taken from different altitudes, and show parts of Ireland, England and France. Lieut. Glenn is now doing scout and raid duty over the German lines.

Many interesting accounts of his air exploits are told by Lieut. Glen, chasing Hun machines, bombing enemy supply stations, etc. "Just got the secret service reports yesterday of the bombs I dropped ——'," says he. "Rather gratifying to read the property damage, but somewhat sickening the number of people you are responsible for killing and injuring."

He tells of a visit to the firing lines in Alsace, and of seeing a battery of the famous 75s in operation, and of being within 100 yards of German parapets and seeing them disappear in clouds of red dust as the result of heavy shells thrown by the larger French guns. But of all that he witnessed, nothing was so fascinating as the unexcelled gallantry and hospitality of the French officers he met on his visit to the firing line.

POTATOES NOT MATURE

H. P. Henry, of the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture at Minneapolis, writes as follows to our B.C. Markets Commissioner: "Your letter of Sep-20th received. In reply will say that the Canadian potatoes originating mostly in the Vernon and Armstrong districts, cars of both red and white stock were received. Most of it was of good quality and fair size, but rather immature. I am informed that it was necessary to resack some cars because of bad condition due to immaturity. The price ranged from $1.40 to $1.50 to the grocer. I understand that many cars have been turned down at the border because of scab, and I heard one complaint of scab in cars on arrival here, but this complaint was from a firm not handling Canadian potatoes, and I have no method of checking it up. It does not seem possible that scabby potatoes could get by the inspectors.'

VALLEY POULTRY SHOW

THE YELLOW STREAK

With a pocket full of money
Any coward can be brave;
When the sky 's bright and sunny
Any man his flag can wave.
But the test of every fellow
Is disaster's sudden blow,
And if he 's streaked with yellow
It is then that it will show.

You will never find a quitter
If he's leading in the race;
It is when the fight grows bitter
And another makes the pace
That the coward starts to bellow
And to whimper at his woe;
If a man is streaked with yellow
When he 's pressed it 's sure to show.
Can you stand the gaff of losing,

Can you battle to the end;
Take the cuffing and the bruising
And not let your courage bend?
For the test of pluck is never
When you're leading in the race,
But are you game as ever
When another sets the pace?
