LIVE STOCK SALES

An Association Formed to Hold Periodical Sales in Interior of the Province

A meeting of stock breeders was held at Kamloops on Oct. 16th, and a provincial committee appointed to go into the matter of forming an association which would best serve the livestock breeders of the Province b yway of holding periodical sales of live stock at points to be arranged in the Province. The Provincial committee consists of Mat Hassen, Armstrong; Geo. Heggie, Vernon; M. Herron, Kelowna; H. F. Mytton, Kamloops; Wynn Johnson, Alkali Lake; J. Redman, Knutsford with Geo. C. Hay secretary. At a subsequent meeting of this committee it was decided to organize the B. C. Live Stock Show and Sales Association, and in order to get a more representative meeting of all branches of the industry it was decided to call an organization meeeting to be held in Kamloops on the date of the seed fair. It is desirable to have at this meeting a delegate representing each branch of live stock, horses, cattle, sheep and swine, to be appointed by the Farmers' Institutes in districts where no agricultural association is in existence.

LOCAL BOY DECORATED

Lieut. L. A. Christian Engaged in Forty-Seven Air Raids

Armstrong people naturally feel proud of the fact that one of our local boys has taken a prominent part in strafing the Huns behind their own lines. A supplement to the London Gazette of Sept. 25th contains the following:

"The extent of the bombing work done by the Air Force may be gathered from the following list of officers who are decorated with the Distinguished Flying Cross with the number of raids they have participated in—

Captain P. H. Cummings	100
Captain E. Dickson	84
Captain E. T. Maynes	48
Lieut. L. A. Christian	47
Lieut. J. R. Bell	37
Lieut. C. Clark	30
Lieut. W. Grossart	27
Captain E. Chisholm	25

The Lieut. L. A. Christian mentioned as having taken part in forty-seven bombing raids is the son of the late John Christian of Armstrong.

Okanagan's Crop Yield

Now that the threshing is about completed in the Okanagan and the crops all have been harvested it is easy to arrive at definite figures as to yield. Although wheat acreage this year showed an increase of 25 per cent over last year, the yield is only 150,000 bushels, the acreage increase being offset by the light yield. In quality nothing is said to be better than No. 3, and some smut, but not enough to do material damage. In oats there was an increased acreage of 25 per cent with average yield. While the quality is good, the oat crop is not sufficient to supply the Valley demand. The barley crop is light, and is only for local consumption.

Timothy and alfalfa crops are not 50 per cent of last year. Nobody realzes this shortage better than the hay farmers, who are holding for $40 a ton.

Potatoes at High Price

Mr. Harold Footit of F. R. Stewart & Co. has returned from an extensive trip into the potato fields of Ashcroft and Lillooet. While potatoes this winter will not, in his opinion, reach the high prices of two years ago, he believes that the market will be firm and that the ruling prices will be around $50 to $60. The evaporators have been heavy buyers in each of the localities he visited and this has a tendency toward higher prices. From 85 to 90 per cent of the Ashcroft crop, which is a good one, has been sold. The demand has been good and the movement very free. Growers are inclined to sell while prices are good rather than run the extra risk of pitting.—Vancouver Province.

OKANAKAN APPLES

Will Be Sold at Vancouver at from $2.10 to $2.70 Per Box

Animated by a desire to reduce the cost of living in Vancouver, Mayor Gale, when in the Okanagan recently attending the convention of the Union of British Columbia Municipalities, took occasion to investigate the cost of producing apples and the price the up-country growers were asking at shipping points. After ascertaining the carrying charges to the coast his worship went carefully into the whole question, and as a result has announced that bebinning on Wednesday of this week when twenty carloads will arrive there will be a continual flow of apples, which will be offered to Vancouver citizens at cost plus handling charges which, he says, will be kept at a minimum.

The apples, which will embrace all of the best known varieties in British Columbia, will be handled at the city market on Main St. and will be handled at from $2.10 to $2.70 per box according to variety and quality. Current wholesale prices on Okanagan apples range between about $1.50 for cooking apples to $2.75 for No. 1 stock. The initial shipments will consist of about 15,000 boxes of Jonothans, Winesaps, McIntosh Reds, Northern Spies and Gravensteins. Should the demand keep up, an average of a car a week will be brought to the city during the winter, according to the mayor.—Vancouver Province.

Anniversary Entertainment

On Monday evening, November 4th, the annual entertainment following the anniversary services in the Presbyterian church, Enderby, will be held. The program will consist chiefly of a humorous play put on by a number of Enderby ladies. This play was written by Miss Kelly of this city and promises to give real enjoyment. At the beginning of the evening's entertainment will be a short musical program. The admission will be 50 cents.

WILL CLOSE SCHOOLS

Enderby School Board Takes Precautions to Meet Flu.

In view of the fact that many cases of Spanish Flu have developed at Vernon and of the alarming spread of the disease in various parts of the Province a special meeting of the Enderby School Board was called on Tuesday afternoon to discuss the situation. The Board decided to close the schools of the city in the event of any case of Spanish influenza developing in the school or district.

The Secretary reported that Mr. R. J. Hogg, Secretary of the B. C. Schools Association, had telephoned that it might be necessary to postpone the meeting of the trustees' convention owing to the spread of Spanish influenza. The Board, however, decided that they would take no chances in the matter and a resolution was passed requesting the B. C. School Trustees Association to postpone their convestion until all danger of the epidemic is past.

A resolution was also passed instructing the secretary to have notices or cards printed containing simple rules and recommendations for the prevention of the disease, similar to those distributed amongst the schools of Vancouver, and that these cards be distributed in the schools of the city.

The trustees also request that all parents keep their children when out of school at home as far as possible, and that they be not allowed to attend picture shows or any social or public gatherings. The trustees believe that if the parents, children and the public generally co-operate with the teachers and the board of Trustees that this district may escape the ravages of this disease.

Other Feed than Wheat

In the New Zealand two year test, in which two pens of Leghorns received a whole wheat ration and all the other pens no wheat at all, the results appear to show that wheat is not essential to egg production. The wheat-fed hens produced 239 and 243 eggs per bird and the non-wheat hens 238 and 241 eggs per bird.

ANNUAL DONATION DAY

Enderby Hospital Board Ask Public for Things Needed

This week Mrs. Anna Patten, as secretary of the Enderby Hospital Board, addressed a circular letter to Enderby citizns and ratepayers, asking for public donations to the hospital, and stating that, while a number of improvements have been made to the hospital, there still remain a great many things to be added, and the Board, being short of funds, appealed to the generosity of people for the membership fee of $1 per year, and the following list of articles urgently needed: Blankets, comforts, bed linen, women's night gowns, set of baby clothes, bedding for child's cot, muslin filling for screen, unbleached muslin for filling for screen curtains for ward, table linen, men's night shirts, dresser covers, trays, individual creams and sugars for trays, individual salts and peppers for trays, table call bells, baby baskets, old magazines, and men's bedroom slippers.

There ought to be, and no doubt will be, a generous response to this appeal. The ladies of the Board were intending to be "at home" to the public at the Hospital on Saturday afternoon, but owing to an influx of patients this week they have decided to postpone this pleasure and at this time to receive donations only.

Since Mrs. McPherson took over the hospital, under the agreement with the Hospital Board, six months ago, she has given entire satisfaction both to the patients and the Board. Her records show 290 patient days. These records are kept in accordance with the regulations of the Hospitals Act. On a showing of 365 patient days, application will be made for the provincial hospital grant. There is a possibility of the grant being refused until an isolation ward is provided as required by the Act. This objection was cited several months ago by the government inspector sent here to look over the hospital. The Hospital Board hopes to be able to forestall this objection by providing the isolation ward. They have a feasible plan that can be carried out at a cost of only two or three hundred dollars, and they hope to make a good start in raising this amount on Donation Day. An isolation ward is most essential just now, and if our not having it is to deprive us of the government hospital grant it is poor business to be without it for the small cost of building it.

No Trace of Mr. Elson

Every day for the past week searching parties have been out looking for the body of Mr. Elson, reported lost last week. No trace of him has been found which could lead to his whereabouts. A walking stick leaning up against the fence near the Indian church, and a bouquet of clover and Oregon grapes, such as the old man would carry were found, but these may have been left there by him on a previous occasion. At all events they indicated no more than their presence where found.

Many of the farmers in the vicinity of Hullcar and Deep Creek made a search of their farms on Sunday last in the hope of finding some trace of Mr. Elson, with no results.

It was learned on Saturday last that the stick marks tracked by Mr. Paradis from the Worthington corner to the Fear place on the road to Lansdowne were similar to those found in the vicinity of the Pringle farm, and were made by old Mr. Pringle and not by Mr. Elson. It is now believed Mr. Elson turned back or into the woods not far from the Worthington place, and was lost on one of the trails or roads leading away from the canyon road between Mr. Worthington's and the Indian church, though this, of course, is only a surmise.

Lumby Red Cross

At two p.m. on Monday, Nov. 4th, in Lumby at Mrs. Moran's hall, an auction sale under the auspices of the Red Cross and Farmers' Institute will be held. The articles to be sold will consist of foodstuffs, said articles to be donated. The proceeds from this sale will be expended in the purchase of Christmas boxes for the soldiers from Lumby and district now overseas. All donations from any source will be gratefully received and duly acknowledged. —Father McIntyre, on behalf of Lumby Red Cross and Farmers' Institute.

AWKWARD ACCEPTANCE

Germany Replies to President Wilson's Last Note Making for Peace

Germany, in replying to President Wilson's note, announces that orders have been issued to all submarine commanders to stop torpedoing of passenger ships. The text of the note covering this point follows:

"In order to avoid anything that might hamper the work of peace, the government has issued orders to all submarine commanders precluding the torpedoing of passenger ships. without, however, for technical reasons, being able to guarantee that these orders will reach every single submarine at sea before its return."

The German reply was delivered to the Swiss legation in Berlin for transmission to the United States. The note begins with the following:

"In accepting the proposal for the evacuation of occupied territories, the German Government started from the assumption that the procedure for this evacuation and the conditions of the armistice, should be left to the military advisers, and the actual standard of power which both sides in the field have, should form the basis of arrangements safeguarding and guaranteeing this standard."

"The German Government suggests to the President that the opportunity be brought about for fixing the details of an armistice.

"The German Government trusts that the President will approve of no demand which would be irreconcilable with the honor of the German people and to the opening of the way to a peace of justice.

"The German Government protests against the reproach of illegal and inhumane actions made against the German land and sea forces and thereby against the German people."

With reference to the responsibility of the existing government, the note says:

"The leaders of the great parties of the Reichstag are members of this government. In future no government can take office without the confidence of a majority of the Reichstag.

"The responsibility of the chancellor of the empire to the representatives of the people is being legally developed and safeguarded. The first act of the new government has been to lay before the Reichstag a bill to alter the constitution of the empire so that consent of the representatives of the people is required for decision as to war and peace."

LET THESE FACTS SINK IN

Canada has authorized a loan of three hundred millions.

Canada's Finance Minister is asking for five hundred millions.

This figure works out at $65 per capita.

Sixty-five dollars for every man, woman and child in the Dominion.

Every individual, every family, every community, every city, every province may readily estimate the amount he, she, they or it should subscribe.

The quotas fixed for District No. 9—embracing the Okanagan and Similkameen—total $847,000.00.

These quotas have been fixed low.

Every locality is expected to oversubscribe the amount fixed so that every point in the district may add at least two crowns to its honor flag.

One million two hundred and fifty thousand dollars will be expected from District No. 9.

Here are the irreducible minimums for each point in the district:

Hedley	$ 30,000
Princeton	50,000
Allenby	20,000
Keremos	15,000
Enderby	35,000
Sicamous	7,500

Armstrong	80,000
Vernon	200,000
Kelowna	200,000
Peachland	15,000

Liberty Loan Oversubscribed

Washington, Oct. 21.—Estimates and figures showing the success of the fourth Liberty Loan poured into the treasury today indicating that there were about 25,000,000 subscribers during the campaign which closed Saturday night, and that the $6,000,000,000 goal was passed by several hundred millions.

Although the exact number of bonds sold will not be known for several weeks, officials estimate that it is about thirty million. In the third loan, a little less than 25,000,000 were bought.

Another Armstrong Boy

The sad news was received in Armstrong the past week that Pte. Dan Crozier had been killed in action. Pte. Crozier was a native Armstrong boy, being born on the Chas. T. Crozier farm twenty-two years ago. A year or two before enlisting he went to the coast where he was employed. Later he had a position with the C.P.R. at Field, and it was from this point that he joined the colors. He was a young man of splendid character and promise, and his untimely end is but another evidence of the great loss Canada is sustaining as a result of the great war.

THE GREAT OPPORTUNITY

Sheep that rush over a precipice, pushing each other, going to destruction to escape an unreal, imagined danger, are no more foolish than those who today take seriously the present war conditions and treat them as though they were permanent.

The war will be over. It is drawing to a close now. The end is in sight. The Allies are winning a glorious victory. Soon we shall see the militarism of Germany put under the foot of civilization, and peace shall reign.

The man who wisely buys stocks, real estate, or government bonds—things of actual value—at this moment, will congratulate himself before many months have passed.

Canada's 1918 Victory Loan bonds offer the ideal investment. Aside from the patriotic duty all Canadians owe to the Dominion it's the clean business opportunity of a lifetime right now to invest one's earnings in Government bonds bearing 5½ per cent interest, and which are free from federal taxation.

Think of what this means!

Think of the hundreds of millions of wealth in Canada already developed!

Think of the hundreds of thousands of millions of wealth in Canada undeveloped!

All this is back of these 1918 Victory Bonds.

The potential prosperity of Canada is beyond conception. The opportunity for success today is beyond exaggeration.

Today is the day for the hard worker and the level-headed thinker.

In the Middle Ages every once in a while some goose of a prophet would announce the end of the world for a certain day. Gullible creatures who thought the world would end, put on white nightgowns and climbed to the hilltops to be ready.

Wiser heads continued to do the work of workers. They purchased at low prices the things the gullible ones wanted to get rid of. When the scare was over and the world did not come to an end the people in white nightgowns came down from the hilltops and felt foolish.

This is about the same kind of a thing, when today's foolish, in the face of Canada's prosperity, believe that some great catastrophe is imminent—that the dollars are sick and will soon all die.

The wise know better. They will work, they will dig, they will plow and plant and harvest, they will take up every government bond this great opportunity offers.

This is the hard workers' opportunity.

Work, save, but DON'T HOARD.

Invest your dollars as you get them. And if you invest them in your government's bonds you will not only have the pleasure of seeing them grow, but you will have the consciousness of having come to the aid of your country and the boys in France when aid was most needed.

Fruit cakes, smokes, chocolate bars, gum, knitted socks, etc., will be thankfully received. Flour sacks and biscuit tins are also needed. Donations should be left at Fulton's hardware store. All donations must be in by the first of next week as the boxes must be packed forwith.

PRICES GOING UP

Potato Market in Stronger Condition and Demand Likely to Continue.

The coast markets commissioner reports that potatoes are going up. There has been a keen demand for the past two weeks. Reports from growing sections state that the major portion of the crop has been sold. Buying prices continue to climb and there is every indication that the market will remain firm. Evaporators have bought heavily and dealers will very soon have their supply in. The latter cannot effect the market as outside points are enquiring and, as soon as the local demands are supplied, shipments to outside points will begin.

We have examined a number of cars of local potatoes during the week and find some in heavy fertilizer sacks. These do not contain one hundred pounds and farmers should see that each sack contains one hundred pounds of potatoes.

Evaporators have now bought double the quantity of potatoes they purchased other seasons, and in addition to the local purchases it is stated that over 5,000 tons have been purchased in the State of Washington for the local concerns. The evaporator prices are good but even at this we find some farmers trying to take advantage and putting in a large percentage of exceptionally small potatoes.

The evaporators state they are buying potatoes from three ounces up, and several cars examined show a big percentage weighing under half an ounce. It is reported that the evaporators have called off their buyers, stating that the price has gone up too high. In our opinion $28 and sacks returned for everything over three ounces, direct from the field, is a fair profitable price and farmers might be well advised to let the major portion of their holdings go rather than run the risk of pitting them. There is always a limit to everything and you see when the limit was reached buyers bought elsewhere. We cannot advise farmers to sell and then store at home. Sell and ship at once. Last season some growers reported selling cheap and having to hold until the spring and thus taking a big loss. This is not good business, so take the tip and get your money ready for the big Victory Loan push.

BIG PRICE REALIZED

Sheep Sale at Kamloops Proves a Big Success

Only the unavoidable failure to secure two carloads of breeding sheep promised by Mr. J. D. Wilson, of Maple Creek, Saskatchewan, kept the live stock sale held in this city from being the greatest event of its kind ever held in the British Columbia interior. Mr. Wilson was unable to obtain cars to ship the animals. As it was the sale was a great success, and the prices paid for good rams and breeding ewes were so attractive that another sale will undoubtedly bring forth a large number of entries. Prices for good rams ranged from $65 to $100, for ewes from $16.25 to $23, and for ewe lambs from $12.50 to $13. Over three hundred head of sheep were offered at the sale, and all but a half-dozen being sold. Forty-seven animals brought in by a Kelowna man were bought by his next door neighbor. About twenty-five cattle and half a dozen horses were disposed of. Commenting on the sale, Grazing Commissioner Mackenzie said that the sale demonstrated the possibilities of live stock sales in the distribution of stock through out the province.—Kamloops Standard.

No More Gasless Sundays

Washington, Oct. 17.—The ban on the use of automobiles on Sunday was unconditionally lifted today, effective immediately. Fuel Administrator Garfield said that no restriction will be placed on the use of autos unless gasoline stocks again become dangerously low. He added that priority orders will be issued for overseas gasoline shipments.

Be careful of food. It must be saved as conscientiously as last year. Regard it as your war effort.

FARM LIFE TOO LONELY

Soldiers Do Not Relish Idea of Going "Back to the Land"

We spent many an evening in France in our little mess, discussing the problem of what the men would want to do when they returned, how they would be absorbed into the life of the community. From what we had seen, we came to the conclusion that many of the men who had been working in clerical positions in cities, now that they had a taste of life in the open, and had become rugged, would go to the farm in preference to the city. But we had to reverse that conclusion. We now find that the men, even those who had come from the land, will not go back to the farm when they come home, because, for one reason, they have become more or less gregarious; they have lived together, and men who had lived a lonely life before, have now had friendship for years. They have made strong friendships, and they have come to a different point of view in nearly everything.

The returned man is a man who cares very little for wealth or for position; he will look you right in the eye and tell you exactly what he thinks. I have had men applying for positions who had been private soldiers, and, although I was in uniform, they would come and talk to me in a way they would not have dared to do had they been in uniform. They have seen things and they realize a good deal of what is real in life. When we talk of the returned soldier, we must consider first of all his mental point of view. The returned soldiers, particularly the men who have been in the field for more than two years, have been and will be to a large extent spoiled for ordinary work. Many things they considered to be worth while before will no longer attract them. They consider, for instance, that the question of making money is not the greatest thing.

The system under which the wounded man lives, and is encouraged to do nothing, in the hospital, really trains him to be a loafer. He is deliberately educated to do nothing. The first thing to do with the average man when he comes back, is to get him gradually broken in to the idea of working and becoming a citizen in the community. I know myself—I came back sick and I can speak from personal experience—that it has taken me practically to the present time to get the point of view of the civilian that things are worth while. The man at the front has passed through great experiences and when he comes back the ordinary things of life appear dull and unprofitable. In some way, he has to get out of that attitude, which is largely mental.

Economic conditions after the war will play a large part in the absorption of the returned soldier. Whether competition be great or not, I do not think that these men will go on the land unless some means can be provided whereby they can have a community life. I do not think that they will consider for one moment going back on those large farms on the prairies.—Col. George C. Naismith, M. D.

A German Republic

"The German republic is at last at hand, thanks to Woodrow Wilson."

Julius Koettgen, director of the "Friends of German Democracy" in America and for twenty years past writer for the Socialist newspaper in Berlin, Vorwaerts, made this statement a few days ago as his "conservative estimate of the effect of President Wilson's note on the German public." He is considered to understand accurately the political pulse of Germany.

"The German people will read and digest this note," said Koettgen, "and then the upshot will be that they will get rid of the kaiser, because they intend to have peace. And they will not count the cost a huge one either, for they do not love the kaiser the way the American public thinks they do.

"The kaiser's influence in Germany for twenty years has rested on arms.

"There are three ways the Germans may use to rid themselves of Wilhelm:

"They may compel the Reichstag to reform, especially the constitution, which will practically amount to a revolution; or the civilian population may foment a revolution and overturn the government; or, the army, being beaten, may turn and send the government into exile, as the Czar was sent.

"The German people are logical once they get started to work on a problem. President Wilson's adroit notes have shown them now that to gain peace they must establish a decent government.

"The fruits of Wilson's diplomacy are at hand—the German republic is being born."

Morgan Horse 41 Years Old

As lively and happy as a colt, careering, cantering and kicking up his heels at the age of 41—all this is rarely known in a horse. But "Sam," well past the two score mile-post, oldest horse in Portland, Maine or its vicinity, is doing it betimes, and withal enjoying life and health notwithstanding the years which have passed over his head. Sam has grown old gracefully. Instead of being blind, lame and toothless, as old horses too often are, he is full of spirit and coltishness. He is of Morgan stock and came from Farmingville when he was very young, but was not broken to harness until he was four years old. Good breeding and kind handling have made Sam what he is today, a horse as sound as a nut, pleasant in disposition, and the pride and satisfaction of his owner.

Sam likes to be petted and frequently shows his sense of humor, as when someone happens to be standing near him but apparently not paying him proper attention. Sam will slyly reach over and grab the person's hat or nip at his sleeve. His intelligence and longevity are unquestionably the result of sympathetic care and training, regularity in feeding and freedom from overwork.—Dumb Animals.

A. From $50.00 to $1,000.00, whatever their face value calls for. These bonds are sold at par—100 cents on the dollar.

Q. How can I buy the bonds of the Victory Loan?

A. By filling out an application blank and handing it to the Victory Loan canvasser when he calls or send it to the Victory Loan headquarters in your city.

Q. When can this application for bonds be made?

A. At any time from the 28th of October, 1918, to the close of business on the 12th of November, 1918.

Q. In what form must applications to buy a Victory Bond be made?

A. All applications must be in the form prescribed by the minister of finance, obtainable from any Victory Loan canvasser, or from the Victory Loan headquarters in your community, or from any bank.

International in Thought

Sir Thomas Lipton enjoys the advantages of having been made a Knight Commander of the Victorian Order by Queen Victoria, of having been an intimate friend of King Edward the VII., of being the most beloved and approachable titled personage in Britain outside the royal family itself, and of having more friends among the royal personages of earth than any other man in the world. Had there beeen more men in control of European affairs like Lipton there would have been no war, because Lipton, being international in concepts, sympathies and interests, understands fully what less traveled men cannot comprehend, namely, that all the peoples of the world are alike in elemental characteristics, love of native heath, of offspring, parental love, courage, self-sacrifice, social instincts, and reciprocity; and that were it not for the intervention of man-made institutions all the peoples of earth would be loving, not hating each other, today.

For, after all, is not the sight of a babe flattening his tiny nose against the ample breast of a young Spanish mother as beautiful as though she were French, German, Russian, Dutch, Italian or English? All babes suckle alike in all tongues. Maternal love knows no boundary line, no national flag; it is universal. Some day the minds of all men will develop up to the mighty truths of nature and humanity. Then we will have universal thinking, universal interests, universal sympathies, universal love, and as a result, universal peace. For the kingdoms of earth are not at the various capitals, as some suppose, but in the hearts and the minds of the people.

Printers' Errors

Most editors try to eliminate errors as far as possible, but none succeed fully in doing so. One paper estimates that in a sentence of fourteen letters it is possible to make over three million errors by transposition of letters. What infinite possibilities, then, in a whole paper. A New York publisher once undertook to print a book absolutely free from errors. The proofs were read by eight or ten expert readers, and every line and word was subjected to close and repeated scrutiny. Yet when the book finally appeared a glaring error was found on the first page. Perhaps the only book ever issued absolutely free from errors is some editions of the Oxford Bible. When the first of these was issued the publishers offered a guinea for every error discovered by anyone and this plan soon resulted in the detection and elimination of all mistakes.

"The Little Less"

You surely have not missed the little less wheat in your bread? Yet it has reduced our Canadian consumption by 200,000 barrels a month, or 12,000,000 bushels a year.

We sent 125,000,000 pounds more of pork and 75,000,000 pounds more beef to the Allies last year. We saved that at the table too.

We hope to save 100,000 tons of sugar a year by spoonfuls.

The Price of Admiralty

We have fed our seas for a thousand years,
And she calls us, still unfed,
Though there's never a wave of all her waves
But marks our English dead;
We have strewed our best to the weeds' unrest,
To the shark and the sheering gull.
If blood be the price of admiralty,
Lord God, we ha' paid in full!

There's never a flood goes shoreward now
But lifts a keel we manned;
There's never an ebb goes seaward now
But drops our dead on the sand—
But slinks our dead on the sands forelore,
From the Ducies to the Swin.
If blood be the price of admiralty,
Lord God, we ha' paid it in!

We have fed our seas for a thousand years,
For that is our doom and pride,
As it was when they sailed with the Golden Hind,
Or the wreck that struck last tide—
Or the wreck that lies on the spouting reef,
Where the ghastly blue lights flare.
If blood be the price of admiralty,
Lord God, we ha' bought it fair!

—Rudyard Kipling.

Milk a Stimulant

The famous Pasteur Institute declares that milk is the most powerful stimulant known. Army authorities, it is said, are acting upon the advice of scientists, and in the trenches milk is being served to the men, and they are advised to drink it also as a beverage when off duty as much as possible.

If this is true, and the statement is made on good authority, there will be a great increase in the use of milk in all class of men and women. A stimulant that will not leave as after-effects a clouded brain and a weakened will, but on the contrary will build up the tissues of the body, should be popular. It is not unreasonable to suppose, whether it has the stimulating powers claimed for it or not, that milk will prove for grown-ups as well as for children, a far more wholesome beverage than drinks containing even in small quantities drugs which are poisonous.

BUY VICTORY BONDS

Q. Is it true that the fortunes of our great men have been built upon early savings of small amounts?

A. Let us repeat Lord Shaughnessy's story of how he saved his first hundred dollars. When a young man in Milwaukee, the future C. P. R. president found he couldn't save money no matter how hard he tried, so after taking stock of his position, he decided upon a plan that would make him save. He went to a friend who was the cashier at the First National Bank and asked if the bank would loan him $100.

"If you will let me have the money," said young Shaughnessy, "I will deposit it in your bank in a savings account."

The cashier had to scratch his head over this proposition, as it was the most peculiar one he had ever heard of. He asked for an explanation.

"Well," said the future C. P. R. man, "if I owe the bank a hundred dollars, I have got to pay it back. I want to get into debt so that I can save and pay the money back out of my earnings. Then the $100 I have on deposit will be mine."

The cashier saw the point and advanced the money and the future Lord Shaughnessy paid off the loan as quickly as he could.

Lord Shaughnessy is very proud of that first hundred dollars he saved and he still has it. And he tells this story to inspire us to save.

Q. And is this the way to save in these war times?

A. No. Instead of making a bank loan which costs money, but Victory Bonds on the instalment plan and pay for them out of your savings. Turn your present "nest egg" into Victory Bonds and thereby substantially increase your interest return.

Bonds Will Be Popular

Q. I suppose there are many people in Canada who do not understand the advantages of Victory Bonds over any other form of saving money?

A. There are, but bonds are daily becoming more popular and they will be still more popular in years to come when they are better understood.

Q. Were there people during the First Loan who were slow to appreciate this form of investment?

A. There were, because they were not familiar with bonds. Of course all our rich men have known about bonds for years, and many of our millionaires have never bought anything else, but the rank and file of the people scarcely knew about them. In Europe the poor and rich alike have invested in government bonds for centuries, and the people of England, for forty years past, have bought every Canadian bond we wanted to sell them. It was only last year that Canada decided to make what was really our first "popular" loan in this country.

Q. That 5½ per cent should catch on like wild fire. Why doesn't it?

A. It will. Supposing a man had a savings account with a friend who was giving him 3 per cent. Now supposing another friend, across the street, equally reliable, offered him 4 per cent. He would take his money across the street, would he not? Now comes the Dominion of Canada which is stronger than either friend, or anything else in the world, offering him 5½ per cent. The people of Canada are not stupid. They will know a good thing when they see it and they will buy Victory Bonds to the limit of their ability.

The Kid Has Gone to the Colors

The Kid has gone to the Colors
And we don't know what to say;
The Kid we loved and cuddled
Stepped out for the Flag today.
We thought him a child, a baby,
With never a care at all;
But his country called him man-size—
And the Kid has heard the Call.

He paused to watch the recruiting,
When, fired by the fife and the drum,
He bowed his head to Old Glory
And he thought that it whispered "Come!"
The Kid, not being a slacker,
Stood forth with patriot joy
To add his name to the roster—
And, God! we're proud of the boy!

The Kid has gone to the Colors;
It seems but a little while
Since he drilled a schoolboy army
In a truly martial style.
But now he's a man, a soldier,
And we lend him a listening ear;
For his heart is a heart all loyal,
Unscourged by the curse of fear.

His dad, when he told him,
shuddered,
His mother—God bless her—
cried;
Yet blest with a mother-nature,
She wept with a mother's pride.
But he whose old shoulders
straightened
Was granddad—for memory ran
To years when he, too, a youngster,
Was changed by the Flag to a man!

Like begets like in the potato field as well as elsewhere, but judging by the quantities of inferior tubers used for seed purposes, the importance of this law is not appreciated by many. The use of small potatoes taken from the bulk of the crop year after year and used for seed will eventually lead to yields of inferior potatoes. At potato digging time the great opportunity for seed selection is offered. With the product of each plant spread on the soil it is an easy matter to select the plants that have given the largest yield of the most desirable type of potato and are free from disease. The potatoes from such plants only should be gathered and saved for use as seed the following year. This saving of seed at digging time may seem to many as an extra burden during a rush of work, but it is not. There is less actual labor attached to seed selection at the time of digging than there is by practising any other method. Further, the results from hill selection are reasonably certain while with other methods there is some speculation. Potato growers would do well to watch closely for exceptionally good plants. These, harvested and saved apart from the main crop may become the grand-dads of fine potato fields in the future.

LAST OF THE TOP HAT

If President Wilson has the faculty of saying the right thing in the right way at the right time, Premier Lloyd George has perhaps the greater faculty for expressing a thought or pointing the way by a word not spoken or the wearing of a coat without tails or a hat without rooms to rent on top, better than any statesman in the limelight today. Recently Lloyd George appeared in public on a ceremonial occasion in Paris wearing a grey "Trilby." On the same occasion the Italian Prime Minister, Baron Sonnino, also cast sartorial traditions to the winds and wore a hat of the same type. Commenting on this episode the French newspaper "Intransigeant" welcomed the innovation in these words:

"If the English themselves abandon the "tube," it will have lost its best friend. So be it! We shall not grieve for the silk hat; it has made us suffer enough. Its day is over. De profundis."

This from the "Intransigeant," while another famous journal, 'L'Oeuvre," saw deliberate intention beneath the Prime Minister's headgear: "The intention to protest with us against the abominable tyranny of the antique and solemn stovepipe. One knows the Premier has the habit of these bold and semi-revolutionary demonstrations. We cannot too strongly congratulate him on this one. Down with the top hat."

Not that anyone has anything in particular against the top-hat. But it is what the silk hat has stood for in society that must go. Class distinction; class arrogance; class privileges—anything of the "Divine right" stuff—will not be given breathing space on this old world any more. It has caused more than enough suffering in its time, God knows. We are now entering upon a world democracy never dreamed of before.

MAKING WAY FOR PEACE

Undoubtedly the Central Powers are making every effort to meet the conditions laid down by President Wilson, as spokesman for the Entente, as necessary before peace discussians can ensue. A Washington dispatch states that "signs have multiplied that Germany and Austria are hastening to rearrange their internal political affairs and their methods of warfare in the hope of meeting the peace requirements of President Wilson. There was no indication when the German answer would come, but that one would be dispatched was made more certain by the statements of Baron Burian, the Austrian Foreign Minister, before the Foreign Affairs Committee of the Austrian Parliament. Following closely radical changes in the German Governmental structure, information came to the State Department that the Austrian emperor has announced to the Foreign Affairs Committee of the delegations his purpose to grant autonomy to the oppressed nationalities in the Dual Empire, one of the peace requirements laid down by President Wilson.

The Associated Press London office states that "if the war is brought to a quick conclusion it will be through political and moral factors and not military, it is believed here. The German position in the West front is not considered perilous, although at certain points the ever-changing front may render some small positions dangerous at times. This view, which has been held by many experts for some time, has been strengthened by the German retreat to the Hunding line, which is considered one of the most successful retreats of the war from the enemy viewpoint. With the Americans and French pushing hard on this front the Germans doubtless are forced to retreat faster than they had planned, but they lost comparatively few guns and prisoners for such a large operation. The view that the startling transformation of the whole military situation in the past few weeks has brought the German arms face to face with disaster was stated to be unjustified in point of fact. It is not expected that the enemy will be able to hold the Hunding line very long. This line runs from south of St. Quentin along the Serre to where the river turns abruptly southward, thence across country to the Aisne and along the north bank of the Aisne to the Argonne. The dent the Allies are making in the line south of the Sensee makes this line untenable. In this connection it is pointed out that the Germans are fighting well immediately south of the Sensee, for the dual purpose of holding up the Allied advance as long as possible toward the important city of Valenciennes and to keep the Allies from further driving in a salient that would make the Hunding line impossible for the enemy. In demonstrating these facts military experts are one in the opinion that the Germans no longer will be able to withstand the onslaught with their weakened divisions, tired troops and scanty reserves, but to trained observers no signs exist of a German collapse, nor is there evidence on which to base the hope of the capture of any huge forces of the enemy."

An Amsterdam report states that the German admiralty has issued wireless instructions to all submarines to return to their bases. And Lord Milner, the British Secretary of War, interviewed on the 18th inst. by the Evening Standard said that complete victory was in sight, namely the destruction of the Prussian military machine. It was a serious mistake, Lord Milner declared, to imagine that the German people were in love with militarism; when the German people saw the complete and ignominious defeat of militarism and realized that the system had brought them ruin, they would be as eager to do away with it as the Allies.

He added that utter wreckage of the Prussian military machine mught be accomplished either by a complete and decisive surrender, or by an armistice under such conditions as would guarantee that the military supremacy of the Allies should not be weakened. He regarded the armistice, under such conditions, as certain to be attended by the realization of Allied war aims, and was therefore anxious that nothing be done to postpone its accomplishment. He was inclined to think that if the Allies at the present time should attempt to dictate to Germany certain drastic changes in their own government with regard to constitution and personnel, the resistance of the German armies would be stiffened.

The War Minister said that after all there must be a German government to negotiate an armistice, while a complete transformation was already in progress. There should not be too great a hurry to pronounce it as a sham. The present holders of power were responsible to the Reichstag, and the Reichstag was the only properly elected national assembly in Germany. It was in the interests of the Allies to see that stable government of some sort was maintained by Germany. As reparation had to be obtained he did not wish to see Bolshevism and chaos rampant there.

FACTS ABOUT "FLU"

The commission of conservation, Ottawa, tells us that influenza, which is now sweeping over Canada from one end to the other, is a very old disease. It was known in ancient times, and as early as 1510 it over-ran the whole civilized world. For centuries it has periodically swept over various parts of the world. The last great world epidemic was in 1889-90 when it was generally known by the French name of la grippe. The disease has always traveled from east to west.

The symptoms are similar to those of a heavy cold; more or less severe headache, cold in the head and throat, fits of sneezing, flushed face, chills, aches and pains in the back and limbs, pains in the eye-balls and behind the eyes, general physical depression, and temperature rising to between 101 and 104 degrees.

As it is such a very old disease, doctors have naturally learned a great deal about its prevention and treatment. The first principle of prevention is to keep away from those infected, and the second, to build up the germ-resisting parts of the body by eating nourishing foods, dressing comfortably, getting lots of sleep, and by living in the open air and in bright, well-ventilated rooms as much as possible. The mouth, throat and nose should be systematically and frequently disinfected by antiseptic inhalations, sprays and washes. Such preparations as chloretone and listerine are well adapted for this purpose.

In fighting previous epidemics, doctors found quinine a useful preventative. One grain of sulphate of quinine mixed with (but not dissovled in) a wineglassful of cold water makes an excellent antiseptic gargle. The anti-microbic properties of quinine are well known and its use as described above at once relieves the symptoms of sore throat, which result from the strain of the fight between the white blood corpuscles and the invading germs in the tonsils—the body's first line of defence. Quinine is also given internally as a preventative with success. In one of the more recent outbreaks in Europe, an experiment was tried in which the men of one squadron of a regiment of cavalry were each given 7½ grains of quinine in ½ ounce of whiskey daily for twenty-two days, while those of the other squadrons were given none. The latter squadrons had from twenty-two to forty-four cases each of influenza, while the squadron treated with quinine developed only four cases. Inhalations of oil of eucalyptus, thymol, oil of mountain pine and the like are also valuable as preventatives.

When a person is struck by influenza, only one course lies open. That is to go to bed without the least possible delay, and call a doctor. Rest, warmth and quiet are three sovereign remedies of the primary disease, and the best preventative of its more deadly complications, of which pneumonia is the most frequent. While there is no specific for influenza, there are many drugs that play a useful part in relieving it, such as quinine, aspirin and various tonics, anti-neuralgic, antiseptic and heart medicines, to be prescribed by the physician in charge.

The dietitic rules which apply to any fever apply equally to influenza. Liquid foods at first, solids a little later on in a gradually ascending scale from lightly boiled fresh eggs to chicken, roast joints, etc. Water, cold or hot, may be sipped or "egg water" may be given. This excellent dish is made by blending with a pint of cold water, the whipped whites of from two to four eggs, flavored with salt or cinnamon. Then animal broths may be given. There are many cases in which even the lightest foods are spurned with loathing and common sense must be used in adapting diet to the particular case in hand.

It is generally recognized that it is better to take precautions against influenza than adopt any special treatment after you get it. Here the the precautions:

(1) The sick should be separated from the healthy. This is especially important in the case of first attacks in the household.

(2) Discharges from nose and mouth should not be allowed to get dry on a pocket handkerchief or inside the house, office or factory. They should at once be collected in paper or clean rags and burned. If this cannot be done, they should be dropped into a vessel containing water.

(3) Infected articles and rooms should be disinfected and cleansed. Use disinfectants everywhere. Wash the hands frequently.

(4) Those attacked should not, on any account, mingle with other people for at least a period of ten days from the commencement of the attack. In severe cases, they should remain away from work for a longer period.

(5) Special attention should be given to cleanliness and ventilation. Warm clothing should be worn, the feet should be kept dry and all unnecessary exposure avoided.

Man's hair is not naturally short any more than a woman's. In everything in nature, the male has long hair. It is simply that we in our infinite wisdom have decided that men should have short hair and women long, and so we see women everywhere with sad, disorderly mops on their heads. They say long hair on a woman is beautiful; even the Bible says so. But is it?-

NATIONAL FISH DAY

October 31st has been set aside by the Canada Food Board as our National Fish Day. On this day everybody is asked to make fish the only meat diet. It undoubtedly seems strange to many that so much agitation and so much newspaper space should be necessary to induce the public to eat more fish, and thus save other meats. Fact is, it seems unreasonable. But the need is imperative or the request would hardly be made. It is undoubtedly true, however, that people will eat the meats which are easiest to get in their own particular locality. If fish were obtainable inland every day in the week no doubt more fish would be consumed. But it seems impossible to put fish on the local market fresh each day. And with a plentiful local supply of beef, pork and mutton, with prices high, it is not surprising that this should be in greater demand. However, a special effort will no doubt be made by all retailers handling fish of any kind to have a plentiful supply on hand for the National Fish Day.

The Cafetaria System for Hogs

Much of the drudgery is taken out of the hog feeding by the use of the self-feeder. According to nivestigations carried on at the experimental farm at Ottawa, hogs, after they have reached a certain age, do better when fed in this way provided the proper mixtures are used. Strange to say, when properly handled, dangerous and wasteful over-feeding is not as likely to occur with the self-feeder as when meals are given at stated hours. It has been shown that the hogs are the best judges of when they should take food. The feeder is fully described in Special Circular No. 15 obtainable at the office of the publications branch of the department of agriculture at Ottawa. This bin-like receptacle is easily made at a cost of about $10.00, even when new lumber is used in its construction.

Always cook apples in earthen or granite utensils and use silver, granite or wooden spoons for stirring. The use of the apple as the basis for all manufactured jam is well known. This is due to the large amount of pectose which it contains.

WHAT A COMMUNITY LEAGUE CAN ACCOMPLISH

It is but to state the known, the admitted and the obvious to say that the interests of the people who comprise a community are mutual interests.

What, apparently, does not seem to be so well realized—althought quite as obvious—is the fundamental necessity for effecting a permanent union of these interests. More particularly essential is the close co-operation of the agricultural and commercial communities.

There are a few industrial plants which never have a strike among their employes, and where the said employes are happy and satisfied and work tooth and nail for the best interests of the company which hands them their pay checks. Why is this? Is it not simply because of a wise, broad recognition on the part of the employers of the fact that the well-being and contentment of their men means success and profit to the factory.

The men on their part appreciate being taken into a co-operative partnership with the firm. They work under most satisfactory conditions and participate in the success of the business. They reciprocate whole-heartedly. It is a mutual commonsense arrangement that produces the most wholesome results.

And it should be the same in the community. Jealousies should be thrown aside; passive interest should be stimulated into vigorous action; people should get acquainted with their neighbors and with newcomers; loyalty to the mutual interests involved should be the motto of everyone; progressive co-operation should take the place of kicking and grumbling. Altogether we require the true community spirit—a spirit that can surmount every real and imaginary difficulty in every worth-while district in the country.

To accomplish these delightful things—and they have been accomplished in some localities—community organization is necessary. Call this organization a Community League, a Commercial Club, a Board of Trade, or what you will—it matters little as long as the proper spirit is behind and the proper objectives ahead.

In this community organization no class of the people must be left out—for there is but one class the real community has room for, and that is the class that will work for the well-being of the community and is loyal to the mutual interests of the whole.

Let us say that a certain centre has a population of 3,000. That is not the real population of the town. In reality the population is more like 10,000—for is not the man who farms a hundred acres five miles from the postoffice just as much a citizen as the man whose little garden plot is five blocks from the postoffice? In the community sense, he certainly is.

Widen out your community organization, then. Too many of them are confined—miserably so. Reach out to the fields that are hitherto untouched, and you will find a response that will be surprisingly agreeable and effective.

Your community spirit must not be lazy—IT MUST WORK to bring results. Your newfound citizens from a radius of five, eight or ten miles, can do more for your town than the handful of "close-ins" could ever hope to do. Give them a chance. Take them into your confidence. Get their co-operation and advice on town planning, children's playgrounds, on the advertising of the district, on the promotion of sports and literary clubs, on picnic excursions and bridgebuilding, on maintaining the civic centre as a place that is sweet, clean and beautiful; on planting trees and buying new rugs for the hospital. Invite them to ride in your autos and you ride in theirs. Get them to join in your campaign for better roads, and by all means let them feel that the fall fair is their fair, that the circus is their circus, and that the picture shows and the schools are their institutions. It will be surprising how naturally, then, they will realize that the town's business places are their business places.

Yes; let us by all means organize community organization with the broad community spirit.

VICTORY BONDS

Q. If I pay $1,000 for a Victory Bond is there any chance of my being able to sell it at a profit?

A. A very good chance. Most financiers believe that Victory Bonds will advance after the war.

Q. Why do they think so?

A. Because the demand for money will not be as great and urgent as it is now and interest rates will likely be lower.

Q. You mean a free-from-income-tax 5½ per cent bond will be more popular than ever?

A. Exactly, and most likely so popular that people will be willing to pay more than $1,000 for a $1,000 bond, and, similarly, more than $100 for a $100 bond.

Q. Have Government Bonds always gone up after previous wars?

A. They have. It is not easy to look into the future, but the judgment of our ablest financiers now is that Victory Bonds will sell at a premium after the war is over. In fact, one of the United States bond issues already sells at a premium and it only yields 3½ per cent, while Canada's Victory Bonds yield more—5½ per cent.

It Pays to Finish Poultry

(Experimental Farms Note)

Even with the present high price of feed no one can afford to sell birds and especially cockerels, in a thin condition. The good prices received for poultry meat more than pay for the extra feed, and if there ever was a time when birds should be finished, it is now.

As a war measure the marketing of thin chickens should be prohibited. The most expensive part of the bird to produce and which is of the least value as food is the frame. The cheapest weight for the feed fed is the flesh as it is all edible; the necessity of putting on this flesh is very evident.

The most profitable weight at which to finish cockerels is when they weigh about four pounds. Even earlier birds may be fed with profit, as several experiments conducted at the experimental farm this summer go to prove.

Poultry meat of all kinds has been at a good price. Hens have been selling as high as roosters, and broilers have paid well. Leghorn cockerels at the experimental farm have been sold at about two pounds each, and because of being specially finished on milk, brought good returns and paid well for extra feed. Four different lots marketed in August, 152 birds, weighed 280 pounds; they were fed for about ten days during which time they gained sixty pounds, weighing at the end of the feeding period 340 pounds. They consumed 180 pounds of mash and 24 gallons of buttermilk. The mash was composed of 2 parts corn meal, 1 part middlings, and 1 part buckwheat screenings.

The cost of feed was 180lb at 4c per lb—$7.80, 24 gal. milk @ 5c per gal.—$1.20, making a total of $8.40 for feed and milk. Add to this the value of birds at the start, 280lb of thin chickens that would bring 35c per lb $98.00, and it makes a total cost for thin chickens and feed of $116.40.

The weight of the finished chickens was 340lb, having gained 60lb in the ten days' feeding. The value per lb was increased because of the quality of the flesh to 50c per lb, making the total value of the birds $170.00.

This meant a revenue of $54 for the care of 152 birds for less than two weeks. It also showed that for every pound of increase on the birds it took 3lb of mash and 4lb of milk or an average cost of 14c per lb of grain.

Complete Change Favored

The Methodist Church of Canada stands committed to a complete change in the economic and industrial system of the country, a veritable social revolution. It recently adopted the report of the committee of the church in relation to war and patriotism, which expressed the following conclusions as a result of the analysis of the present industrial situation:

"That the present economic system is revealed as one of the roots of the war. The insane pride of Germany, her passion for world domination, found an occasion in the demand for colonies as markets and sources of raw materials. The war has made more clearly manifest the perils inherent in the system of production for profits. The whole system calls for a change. The war is the coronation of democracy. As the last century had democratized politics, the present century has shown that political democracy means little without economic democracy. Under the shock of war the accepted commercial method based on individualism and commercialism has gone down like mud walls in a flood.

"With the earthquake shocks of war thundering so tremendously a reaffirmation of the principle of Jesus, it would be the most inexcusable direliction of duty on the part of the church not to restate her program in modern terms, and redefine her definitely appointed goal. The triumph of democracy, the demand of the educated workers for humane conditions of life, the deep condemnation this war has passed on the competitive struggle, the revelation of the superior efficiency of rational organization and cooperation demand nothing less than the transference of the whole economic life from a basis of competition and profits to one of cooperation and service.

"That another system is practical is shown by a recent statement of the British Premier, that every industry except one in Britain has been made to serve the national interest by the elimination of the incentive of private industry. We too, look to the Government to enlist in the service of the nation these great leaders and corporations which have shown magnificent capacity in the organization of life and resources for the profit of shareholders."

It will take a long time to restore a normal food supply in the world. Conserve and still conserve.

MUST CONTINUE EFFORTS

Food Situation Still Demands Utmost Efforts of Farmers.

Tension in the food situation n Europe, says Canada Food Board, has been eased. The cute shortage of last winter is ot present. But they have not elaxed a particle the strict in- ividual rationing in Britain, rance and Italy. A perusal of he unexpected conditions de- cribed by Dr. James. W. Rob- rtson will surprise most read- rs. Besides, there is the gaunt act that nearly 5,000,000 people ave died of starvation or mal- utrition through the war. Can ve, dare we, in Canada ignore decimation which would to- al over one-half of our own opulation?

Reserves of food should be uilt up where reserves should e built up—in Europe. That ood must come from this side; cannot come by the work of hose whose husbands and sons re fighting. Common prudence ictates this. Harvests are al- ways uncertain; millions who ere well off four years ago are terally living from hand to outh. Some French towns ill have but three days' supply f bread. A break in railway ransportation may mean pri- ation, hunger and all its incon- eniences. The U-boat cam- aign continues unabated. Dir- cted first here and then there requires a continual vigil of he Allied fleets of four nations o overcome it.

Food workers at the begin- ing of the winter season can do othing better, nothing more atriotic than to repeat again nd again that our share of food ar work is only just beginning. leasured by our unprepared- ess of fifteen months ago, we ave done well. But a higher tandard than ever has been set y our own success. Today we ave the organization; we have much better understanding mong the people, and we have, onsequently, a far greater ob- gation. The work must be car- ied on.

BUY VICTORY BONDS

Q. Are Canadians beginning o appreciate Victory Bonds?

A. They are decidedly. Many ho never saved a dollar before ow own Victory Bonds and ave created their first "nest gg." They have learned the easure of saving, and, by buy- g the bonds, not only have ey hleped to finish the war, t they have helped themselves d their families. The inter- t has proved a welcome addi- on to the annual income.

Q. You mean that Victory onds have encouraged thrift?

A. Yes. Thousands of per- ns bought bonds last fall and id for them in bills because ey had no bank accounts. hose people now have some- ing better than gold.

Q. Do you mean to say Vic- ry Bonds are better than gold?

A. Yes. If you have gold and de it in your stocking or de- sit in a chest or safety de- sit box, it earns no interest, hile Victory Bonds, which are safe as gold, and are payable gold, earn 5½ per cent.

Q. Is that a good rate of in- rest?

A. It is . Look at it this way. the interest on a Victory Bond s compounded, your original 00 bond, with interest, would ount to $200 in 14 years. de $100 in gold for 14 years d it would still be only the ginal $100. And remember, 000 in Victory Bonds would 14 years amount to $2,000.

Q. How do bonds and dollar ls compare?

A. The same country—Can- a—that puts its promise on ollar bill puts the same pro- se on a Victory Bond.

Q. Leaving patriotic reasons de, why should a man buy tory Bonds yeilding 5½ per t when he can get 7 per cent something else?

A. The something else is not e, and, furthermore, Victory nds are free from income . Remember, the whole of Dominion of Canada is se- ity for that 5½ per cent. In ct, Canadians are fortunate get such a high rate. The ple of Britain, France, Aus- ia and the United States do get as much.

Eat more fish all the year nd; it is wholesome, brain- ming and delicious.

GENERAL EVACUATION

German Troops Clearing Out of France and Belgium

According to a dispatch from the American headquarters in the field, the elements of the German army opposing the Americans have been told that all plans for an armistice and the withdrawal from the occupied territory have now been arranged. The plan, it is stated, embraces the withdrawal of the German troops twenty kilometers while the Allied armies withdraw ten kilometers. Then, with a neutral strip of thirty kilometers between the armies, the general withdrawal will commence, the Allied armies halting ten kilometers from the German frontier until peace is signed.

An American sergeant captured by the Germans on Wednesday was taken a considerable distance behind the German lines by his captors, given biscuits and a liquor ration and then turned loose. His captors said that the war would soon be over and they did not want to bother with prisoners. The sergeant regained the American lines at dark without difficulty.

Must Redouble Efforts

"There is but one answer of the Allied nations and of Canada to Germany: 'You have let loose a mad dog on civilization. The war must go on until that mad dog is destroyed, that is to say, until your military power is destroyed, or you have surrendered unconditionally.'"

This is a statement of Mr. E. R. Wood, chairman of the Victory Loan, emphasizing the necessity of concentration of attention on the coming loan, and combating the feeling that it may not be necessary if peace come soon. It is quite evident that a relaxation of efforts on Victory Loan lines is one of the most dangerous phases that the country faces in the next few weeks.

"The effect should be to make the nation redouble its efforts, not only to achieve the objective of the minister of finance, but to greatly exceed it.

"What we are witnessing now is Germany's peace offiensive. She is waging peace as she waged war, unscrupulously, but with tremendous vigor and force and skill. Having withstood her military onsloughts for four years are we to succumb to her first hvpocritical peace onslaught? For forty years Germany deceived us with fair words. For four years she has stood unmasked, brazen, brutal and unashamed. A few days ago faced disaster.

"It is unthinkable that we can immediately accept them. It is possible that Germany's peace move may cause wavering, not among our gallant armies, but among our civilian population. Who can tell what the effect on the world would be of a great over-subscription in the approaching Victory Loan for Canada?

"That would be a magnificent answer for Canada to make to the enemy's new campaign of whining insincerity."

Owls in the Trenches

The following extract is from a letter from an English officer at the front, quoted in the London Times: "When I was up in the trenches recently I saw numerous owls. They used to flap about among the trenches at night, quite regardless of shells and snipers, getting a fine harvest of rats and mice, with which the trenches literally swarm. They were the big brown owls. They always disappeared two hours before dawn. I could never make out where to, but I suppose to the woods behind the lines."

FAGS

When the cold is making ice-cream of the marrow of you bones,
When you're shaking like a jelly and your feet are dead as stones,
When your clothes and boots and blankets, and your rifle and your kit
Are soaked from hell to breakfast and the dugout where you sit
Is leaking like a basket and upon the muddy floor
The water lies in filthy pools, six inches deep or more;
Though life seems cold and miserable, and all the world is wet,
You'll always get through somehow if you've got a cigarette.

When you're lying in a listening post 'way out beyond the wire,
While a blasted hun, behind a gun, is doing rapid fire;
When the bullets whine above your head, and sputter on the ground,
When your eyes are strained for every move, your ears for every sound;
You'd bet your life a hun patrol is prowling somewhere near,
A shiver runs along your spine that is very much like fear;
You'll stick it to the finish but I'll make a little bet—
You'd feel a whole lot better if you had a cigarette.

When Fritz is starting something and his guns are on the bust,
When the parapet goes up in chunks and settles down in dust,
When the roly-poly 'rum jar' comes a- wobbling thro' the air
Till it lands upon a dugout and the dugout isn't there;
When the air is full of dust and smoke and scraps of steel and noise,
And you think you're booked for golden crowns and other heavenly joys;
When your nerves are all a-tremble and your brain is all a-fret—
It isn't half so hopeless if you have a cigarette.

When you're waiting for the whistle and your foot is on the step,
You bluff yourself, "it's lots of fun" —and all the time you hep
To the fact that you may stop one 'fore you've gone a dozen feet,
And you wonder what it feels like and your thoughts are far from sweet;
Then you think about a little grave with "R. I. P." on top,
And your backbone's limp as water and you're bathed in icy sweat—
Why, you'd feel a whole lot better if you had a cigarette.

Then, when you stop a good one, and the stretcher-bearers come
And patch you up with strings and splints, and bandages, and gum;
When you think you've got a million wounds and fifty thousand breaks,
And your body's just a blasted sack packed full of pains and aches;
When you feel you've reached the finish, and you're sure your number's up,
And you feel as weak as Belgian beer and helpless as a pup;
But you know that you're not down and out, that life's worth living yet—
When some old war-wise Red Cross guy slips you a cigarette.

We can do without maconachies and bully and hard tack,
When Fritz's curtain fire keeps the ration parties back;
We can do without our greatcoats, and our shirts and sox and shoes —We might almost, (tho' I doubt it) get along without our booze;
We can do without "K. R. and O." and military laws;
We can beat the ancient Israelites at making bricks from straws;
We can do without a lot of things, and still get there, you bet—
But I'd hate to think of soldiering without a cigarette.

The little boy was on his knees in his little nightie saying his prayers, and his little sister could not resist the temptation to tickle the soles of his feet. He stood it as long as he could, and then said: "Please, God, excuse me while I knock the stuffing out of Nellie."

Slight Decrease in Yield

An average yield of twelve and a half bushels per acre for spring wheat and sixteen and a half bushels for fall wheat for all Canada is given by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics in its perliminary estimate of average yields per acre of the principal grain crops of Canada during 1918. Last year the fall wheat averaged twenty-one and a half bushels per acre while for the ten year period 1908-17 the average yield was twenty-three bushels. Spring wheat averaged fifteen and a half bushels last year and nineteen bushels for the decimal period.

For other crops the respective averages are in bushels per acre —oats, 33 as against 33¼ and 35½; barley, 25½ as against 23 and 27; flax, 5¼ as against 6½ and 10½.

Substitutes for wheat are available in abundance. They must be used. Our tables will be enriched by them.

Our food saving success in 1918 should be an incentive for greater effort in 1919.

We have learned the habit of food saving. If we continue it will become a Canadian virtue.

Until every citizen eats one pound of fish a week, we shall be below the right scale.

More Profit to the Buttermaker
The Dominion law against the selling of butter without the words "Dairy Butter" or "Creamery Butter"—as the case may be—printed on the butter wrap, is a blessing in disguise to the average farmer.
It is the duty of every butter maker to comply with the law in this matter. Some butter makers have only a cow or two, and make so little butter that it does not appear to them that they can afford to have their butter wraps printed. They do not like the idea of having 500 or 1000 butter wraps on hand. To accommodate this class of buttermakers, we have printed up a quantity of "Custom" Butter Wraps. They are printed with the words "Fresh Dairy Butter" but do not bear the name of the maker. However, these wrappers fill the requirements of the law governing this point, and can be bought in small quantities at the rate of 65c a hundred in 100 or 50 lots. If you do not require butterwraps in larger lots, take these wraps in lesser quantities.

FOOD VALUE OF APPLES

Not Well Enough Understood by the Average Housewife

The fruit branch of the department of agriculture has published a neat booklet on apples, which contains 160 recipes for cooking. It says—

These recipes have been tested by Miss L. Gertrude MacKay, Phg., B.S.B.A., Department of Domestic Economy, Washington, U. S. A.

The object in presenting the pamphlet to the consumers of Canada at this time is to arouse in their minds the great necessity of not only conserving food for the Allies in their great war for liberty, but also to emphasize the great value of the apple as an article of food. Those who make a liberal use of apples will serve the dual purpose of saving for shipment overseas such articles of food as are fit for that purpose, and at the same time furnish a useful and valuable food for the household.

Too many people have never learned the art of economy when the time came for stocking up articles of food for the long winter months, and instead of storing in their cellars from one to half a dozen boxes or barrels of apples in the fall, they have depended in buying in small measures from their grocer.

The apple without question is the king of fruits; whether fresh, dried, evaporated or canned, it is a wholesome food, easily prepared, attractive and palatable at all times.

Apples vary in flavor and texture. They are often marketed before they are mature, and the cooking and keeping qualities are thus injured. None of the soft, insipid apples are suitable for preserving. The sound, tart apples are best for this purpose. Apples are at their best in the fall and early winter, and spice need not be added, as their flavor cannot be improved.

Paradoxical as it may seem, in order to have our soldiers go ahead we have to back them up.
