Step by Step the Rink-Park Project Advances Slowly

Owing to the uncertainty in connection with the park site proposition which has existed since last Wednesday evening when Mr. Polson stated at the meeting of the pledged shareholders that he did not feel disposed to accept the Moffet acreage in exchange for certain lots embraced in the proposed site, it was impossible for the busines committee appointed to proceed with the building of the rink, to do anything but wait and see. Hence the whole project was delayed.

The building committee named last week includes Messrs. Sharpe, Keith, G. Duncan, A. Reeves, Speers, Mack and Walker.

This committee is empowered to complete incorporation of the company, select a plan for the building and ask for tenders, call in the money subscribed and proceed with the building. None of these steps can be taken, however, until the matter of park site is settled.

The meeing of the City Council to report in connection on the matter of site was delayed until Tuesday night when the Councilmen had submitted to them the following proposition by Mr. Walker under date of Nov. 5th:

"At the citizens' meeting last Wedneday evening a committee consisting of Messrs. Sharpe, Keith, Duncan, Speers, Reeves, Mack and Walker was appointed to handle the business of the proposed rink and agricultural hall company, to act until incorporation papers are through.

"This committee was empowered to call in all subscriptions pledged for the proposed building, decide upon a plan and ask for tenders for the building.

"No action has been taken or can be taken until the matter of park site is settled.

"Mr. Polson has stated that he is not prepared to take over in exchange for lots in the proposed park site the acreage held by the City in the Moffet property.

"Rather than see the park-rink project fail, I will therefore exchange the acreage owned by me in connection with the rink site accepted by the pledged shareholders in the proposed company. This acreage is assessed at $835. I will turn it over to the city for the park site in exchange for the acreage in the Moffet property adjoining the Gibb's property, (two acres, more or less) and assessed at $300 an acre. I will make this transfer concurrently with the transfer by Mr. Polson of lots owned by him in the park site, which he has agreed to exchange for other lots owned by the city.

After going over the ground again with Mr. Polson, who appeared before the Council, he finally decided to make the exchange of lots held by him in the park site for lots held by the city in the same addition, and an agreement was drawn up and signed by Mr. Polson and the Mayor for the city.

The proposal submitted by Mr. Walker was then taken up. It was explained that roughly 100x200 feet of the Walker acreage had already been accepted as a rink site, which would leave an acre and a quarter or thereabouts to go to the city. Deducting say $235 as a fair sum to allow for the ground given for rink site, the assessed value of the remainder of the acreage would be $600, and for this Mr. Walker would accept in exchange two acres adjoining the Gibb's property in the Moffet acreage, assessed at $300 an acre.

Without delay this exchange was agreed to and papers were drawn up and signed covering the transfer until a survey is made and deeds accepted.

While no further canvassing has been undertaken by the committee since the uncertainty arose in connection with the site, several subscriptions have come in, showing the real earnestness of our citizens in the matter.

Mr. McPherson, on the eve of leaving Enderby, tendered a check for $20 as a tangible recognition on the part of Mrs. McPherson and himself of the generous support given them during their reidence here. Other amounts have been subscribed and are given below.

In making his contribution Ex-Mayor Geo. Bell, writing from Victoria, makes this characteristic observation:

"I am in favor of your rink and park scheme, not only because it will help to put the old town on the map, but because I strongly favor young people having a place for clean sport and healthy exercise both summer and winter. I will take 10 shares."

Amount previously reported...	$4,380
Geo. Bell, 10 shares	100
J. R .McPherson, donation ...	20
Chas. Gardner, 2 shares	20
Jas. Dickson, 2 shares	20
Rev. Mr. Dow, 1 share	10
Bert. Charlish, 2 shares	20
Japanese boys, donation	50
	$4,620

What we need if we are to put it over is more of the supposed friends of the rink-park project to get behind it and boost instead of lagging behind to knock.

NORTH DEEP CREEK

CHAS. ASHTON PASSES ON

After an illnes of several months, Chas. Ashton, a pioneer of the district of 25 years residence, passed away at the Vernon Hospital on Tuesday of this week at the age of 77. Mr. Ashton was well known throughout the Okanagan and a man who in early life spent his best energies in the developement of the district. A widow and several sons and daughters survive him. Burial will take place from St. George's church this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

MAIL CAR BURNED

A mail car on the train that left Sicamous for Vernon last Thursday morning burned at Mara shortly before noon. It carried mail for the Okanagan which had been accumulating for the week previous.

According to the story of mail clerks in the car, the fire started in a compartment where the mail bags are carried.

The clerks, it is claimed, were working in the sorting section of the car and the flames were not discovered until Mara was reached. Every effort to get out the bags was unsuccessful. The only mail saved was that for Mara and Enderby, these mail sacks lying close to the mail car door ready to be thrown off.

It is believed the fire started from the mail sacks being piled too close to the stove.

Louie Wejer drove in from Trinity Valley the other day. You should hear his report on road conditions from Trinity Valley bridge to his place. Louie isn't exactly an orator but he can fully express himself when he talks roads and road promises which have been made from year to year by our District Member, Mr. MacDonald, but never carried out.

PROSPECTING FOR OIL

Paul Briandt, California Oil Man, Said to be Interested Here

A report in the Vancouver Province states that several thousand acres of land in the oil area between Enderby and Armtrong were last week given over under lease to Paul Briandt, discoverer of one of California's famous oil fields. This section has strong indications of rich oil deposits and it has long attracted the attention of men having had experience in oil drilling.

It is understood that the company proposing to operate here is intending to drive three test wells, one to go down within two miles of Enderby, a second at what is known as Round Prairie, two miles west of Armsrong, and a third in the vicinity of Vernon.

There seems to be little doubt about the existence of oil in this vicinity. Oil shale is in evidence in the vicinity of the Hassard ranch, and at points in the Mabel Lake Valley.

The seam of coal which is of old standing in the mountain back of Grindrod, and its general dip and trend would indicate that the later discovery of coal outcropping in the vicinty of Trinity Valley, is all part of the same deposit, and would point to this being a likely oil field for the prospector and discoverer.

GRINROD NOTES

Mesrs. Mack, Spence, Halksworth, Dangel and Skyrmne left on Tuesday for Kamloops on a business trip.

A meeting was called this week to have the people's view on having a Xmas. tree again this year. It was decided to hold one as usual. The date has not yet been decided on but it will be announced as soon as possible. Subscription lists will be at the P. O. and store for anyone to subscribe if they wish.

Messrs. J. and E. Clarke spent a few days in Grindrod from Salmon Arm this week.

Miss H. Grahamn has been able to resume her duties as teacher this week.

Provincial Borrowings This Year

Hon. John Hart, minister of finance, is calling for the purchaser of two million dollars' worth of British Columbia 20-year 6 per cent. bonds, payable in Canada and New York. The proceeds of the loan will be used for land settlement and other general administrative purposes. This will bring the total of the Provincial Government's borrowings for the year up to seventeen million dollars.

Trial of the Hornell boys, of Grindrod, under the Juevenile Delinquency Act, before Magistrate Barnes, some days ago, resulted in them being bound over fo a year. They were charged with having taken a boat belonging to Mr. Harrap, which they admitted, but claimed they did so with no intent to steal it.

There was a young man from city,
Who met what he thought was a kitty
He gave it a pat
Said, "Nice little cat,"
And then buried his clothes out of pity.

MARA NOTES

Jack Cadden has rented James Bruce's place for the winter and his family is now in the residence. He expects to leave in a few days for the Prairies where he has taken a position on the railway.

As the local passenger train was pulling in to the Mara station last Thursday morning, flames were seen to be coming from the mail car. Some of the local residents went to the station and worked hard to save the mail bags. By the time this was done and the burning car pushed onto the side track, it was a mass of flames, and it was left to burn itself out. It continued to burn for two days. The car was piled to the roof with delayed papers and parcels, but we believe little or no letter mail was lost.

The funeral of Walter, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gray, took place on Thursday. The Rev. Mr. Stott, of Enderby officiated at the residence and grave; the pall bearers were four small boys, Georgie Bell, Jackie Robertson, A. Witala and Ed. Robertson. There was a large number of friends present and a great many floral wreaths and quantities of flowers were contributed by Mara and Grindrod friends, showing the sympathy with the bereaved parents and brothers and sisters. Walter was a fine sunny-faced boy, and we shall miss him as we pass along.

Adjutant Bryantor and Captain Laycock, of the Vernon Salvation Army, came down to Mara on Monday evening with the intention of holding a service but owing to a mistake in dates it was found impossible to hold one. They have promised to come again shortly. Those who have met the ladies think very highly of them. They stayed with Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Rosoman, going back on Tuesday.

The usual monthly meeting of the Mara Local U. F., was held on Monday with a good attendance and many matters were brought up and discussed.

There appears to be some evidence that at last an effort is to be made to repair some of the damages that is being done by the river along its banks. The Dominion Government Engineer was here a few days ago taking measurements and particulars of the break on Riverside road or Wm. Couel's land. There are several other places where it is urgently needed.

Taking the Right Course

At a public meeting held at Vernon last Thursday evening, at which the City Council submitted the proposed West Kootenay power agreement to the ratepayers, the company's scheme was turned down. The company sought to serve the city from its Bonnington Falls plant, bringing its pole line up the valley from Penticton.

It was stated by more than one speaker that Shuswap Falls should be harnessed, and the city secure its supply of power from that source. Shuswap Falls is located 26 miles east of the city.

Lady Laurier, widow of the late Sir Wilfred, died at her home in Ottawa Nov. 1st, in her 80th year.

Voters' List for Dominion Election

"Is your name on the Voters' List? If you did not vote at the last Provincial election it was struck off. Saturday, Nov. 5th, is the last day for registering."

Warnings such as the above have been sounded by newspapers big and little for the past month or more, and there was great scurrying last week on the part of those desiring to get on the list. Much confusion and misunderstanding attended this scurrying, and when Saturday, the 5th, was passed many thought they were out of it and gave up hope of voting in the Dominion election. Much of this confusion was the result of confounding the regulations of the Provincial Elections Act with those applying to the Dominion Election, and also from confusing the regulations applying to urban divisions with those applying to rural divisions. As a matter of fact, the last day for registering in urban divisions was Nov. 5th, but in rural divisions such as Enderby, Armstrong and Salmon Arm, the time for registering remains open until Nov. 26th. Up to Nov. 21st, the local registrars, Mr. Smedley for Enderby, Mr. Monk for Grindrod, and Mr. Butterworth for Mara, will prepare preliminary lists of the names of all whom they know to be bona fide voters. On the 21st this preliminary list will be posted so anyone may read, and it shall remain so posted for a period of five days, or until the 26th, subject to correction either by adding other names or striking off names that should not be there. The list will be finally certified on the 26th of November.

If persons are registered in another electoral district than the one in which they have resided for the two months prior to October 8th, and fulfill all the qualifications of the Act, they can register for the electoral district in which they now reside. If a person is registered in a polling division in any particular riding or electoral district, he or she will be expected to vote in that polling division.

Bible Reading in Public Schools

We did not know until a few days ago that no time is given in our public schools to Bible reading. Strange? Did you? It did not use to be so. Nor should it be so now. If, as a Christian people, we believe in the efficacy of prayer and the development of the religious instinct native in every child, we cannot logically do without Bible reading in our schools. Not necessarily as doctrinal teaching, but for the reason that the Old Book, aside from any doctrinalism, to one of open mind, contains the best moral and ethical teaching to be found anywhere, and as a piece of literature and a history of the searchings of the ancients for the Way to higher and better things, the boy and girlggnopeTahheismweatheinegpen it has no equal. Too much secularism in public school teaching is not good for either scholar or teacher, and a little time each day devoted to Bible study would build a broader character and a sounder citizenship—provided it were not applied as doctrinal teaching.

Provincial Highway Finally Settled

Hon. J. H. King, minister of public works, definitely announced the government's acceptance of the old Dewdney Trail route for the last link in the transprovincial highway. This link is 70 miles long and extends from Hope to Princeton. For 25 miles out of Hope the route follows the old Sapper road. The Coquahalla river is followed for some distance and the route branches off, following the Sumallow river. The Skagit river is touched and followed a short distance. When the road strikes Allison Pass at an altitude of 5,800 feet, Whipsaw creek is followed until the trail strikes the old Cleveland survey, south of Princeton.

The estimated cost of the road is approximately $500.000. There will be 42 miles of new construction required, 20 milas of reconstruction, while eight miles of the Cleveland survey will be utilized. Minister King claims that no great difficulties will be met in construction. It is the intention to start work on the road as early as possible in the Spring in the hope of building 25 miles of the road next year. It is estimated it will take two seasons to complete the work.

In Business in the Community, but Not Part of It

Perhaps our Canadian banking system is the ideal thing; perhaps there is nothing better. And, yet, no system was ever evolved by mortal man that could not be improved upon. There is much room in our Canadian banking policy for improvement, and slowly we Canadians are waking up to this fact. For instance, under the Canadian Banking Act the few established banks in the Dominion may reach out in all directions and set up branch banks wherever it will pay them. By this endless chain of banks, the half dozen banking heads in the Dominion have a monopoly on the banking business. These branch banks do business in the community in which they are set up—at a profit—yet they do not become part of the community in the sense that other businessmen are part of it, and are not prepared to bear their share of the load that all men in business must shoulder in supporting and building up public utilities.

Ask any of our banks to subscribe to a fund for the purpose of building an agricultural hall, rink, or anything of that nature, and you will be told how difficult it would be for the bank to do so; that if the banks did it for one town they undoubtedly would be asked to do it for others; therefore, to be fair to all they give to none. In other words, they are prepared to share in the good that may come to the community through the efforts of others, but will not contribute to the effort or anything in the way of effort.

Is this policy fair? Branch banks are established and maintained in a community as a business proposition. They are conducted at a profit to the shareholders, therefore they are as much a part of the business of the community as any other business institution. Undoubtedly, if the bank should give to a public purpose fund in one community it would be asked to contribute by another community in which it was established. Is there any reason why it shouldn't? Branch banks are established to make money for the parent institution. Whether the parent bank has a branch in one hundred or one thousand cities, the principle is the same. Each branch must be taken as an institution of the town, doing business at a profit, and therefore as much a part of the community as the butcher, the grocer, the dry goods merchant or any other business. But under our banking policy our banks assume no such a position. They do business—at a profit—in the community, but assume few if any of the responsibilities of citizenship in the community.

We believe if we would go deep enough into this problem it would be found that this feature of our banking policy has done more to retard progress in Canada than any other.

The Real Obstacle in the Way of Lasting Peace

One danger to a final and satisfactory agreement at the Washington conference which opens this week, lies in the present conflict of British and United States interests on the oil question, says an editorial in the London Times. "It may fairly be advanced," says the writer, "that if Great Britain is not prepared to make concessions on this vital question the conference is likely to break down."

The writer advocates abandonment by the British Government "of their present policy of participation in oil production and supply," and adds that if the British Government renounces its control of the Anglo-Persian Oil Company and produces evidence of its complete dissociation from active participation in the oil industry it can justly demand, whether in California or the Philippines, continuance of the United States "old and sound policy of the open door." It is the only policy that will make for world peace.

Marvel of Radio Transmission

That direct wireless communication between New York, Washington and Vancouver is an actual accomplishment was proved the other day when the radio of the Vancouver Merchants' Exchange received the following message from President Harding, broadcasted from New York:

"To be able to trasmit a message by radio in expectation that it may reach every radio station in the world is so marvellous a scientific and technical achievement as to justify special recognition. It affords peculiar gratifiction that such a massage, from the chief executive of the United States of America, may be received in every land, from every sky, by peoples with whom our nation is at peace and unity. That this happy situation may ever continue and that the peace which blesses our own land may presently become the fortune of all lands and peoples, is the earnest hope of the American nation."

Premier Meighen's Thanksgiving message to the people of Canada was brief, but full of meat for thought: "Thanksgiving Day has now been fixed so that it falls in the week in which the anniversary of the armistice occurs. This gives us an opportunity to acknowledge our manifold blessings and will recall the cessation of the great struggle and our duty to those who strove to obtain the blessing of peace. To the conference at Washington our minds at this time will turn with thankfulness that the nations are to meet in a spirit of concord to seek the removal of causes and means of dispute and conflict."

ESTABLISHED 1872

If the average man would keep a detailed expense account for a month showing every trifling expenditure, he would find that, without missing anything worth while, he could have made some very good deposits in the bank—safeguards for the future—material for business progress.

Roosters.

R.G. Grant in his book on "Words and Their Uses," says: A rooster is an animal that roosts. Almost all birds are roosters, then hens, of course, as well as the cocks. What sense or delicacy, the, is there in calling the cock of the domestic fowl a rooster, as many people do? The cock is no more rooster than the hen; and domestic fowls are no more roosters than canary birds or peacocks. Out of this nonsense, however, people must be laughed rather than reasoned.

Red Cross Appeal for Real Peace

In virtue of a higher law and duty, and of the principles above the level of human passions, the helping hand of the Red Cross was stretched forth to all victims throughout the ordeal of the Great War.

Today, the Red Cross owes it to itself and to all its many workers to proclaim as an ideal and a practical intention, a struggle against the horrors of war, an atempt by world-wide help and unselfishness definitely to abolish war.

The mere continuation of Red Cross activity in time of peace will no longer suffice. It is the wish of the Red Cross to work in the interest of peace.

Therefore, the Red Cross calls upon all whole-hearted citizens, irrespective of nationality, religious belief, profession, or social rank, to join, as far as lies in their power in a systematic campaign against that spirit of war, which is a constant menace to the world's peace.

During five years, millions of men were killed or mutilated. Today, thousands of ex-soldiers or prisoners at last set free bear indelible marks of bodily and mental suffering. All of them believed that the generations to come would reap the fruits of the great ordeal in a new international life, which would be more brotherly, franker and more full.

Instead, disorder and uncertainty, distrust and greed, hatred and the threat of fresh quarrels are re-appearing throughout the world. The spirit of war, unconquered, reigns supreme. Its sinister influence is evident. It inspires lines of policy and press campaigns, which lead public opinion astray and embitters the economic competition among nations.

During the terrible years of the recent war, superhuman efforts were required of the different nations. In order to inspire such sacrifices, a supreme reward was promised—namely, the annihilation of this same spirit of war, which is a peril as old as the world and a constant menace to mankind.

Thus generations yet unborn would have been delivered from the scourage at the price of the suffering which the war entailed. This hope sustained nations and armies.

Have they hoped in vain?

Have millions of human lives and the wealth of nations been sacrificed in vain?

Faced with these questions, the Red Cross recognized a duty.

At the suggestion of Senator Ciraolo, Chairman of the Italian Red Cross, the tenth International Red Cross Conference, which met at Geneva on April 1st, 1921, voted the following resolution:

"The International Committee of the Red Cross and the League of Red Cross Societies shall address an appeal to all nations, exhorting them to combat the spirit of war, which dominates the world."

These two organizations call therefore on nations and individuals to fight with all means in their power this maleficent spirit. May statesmen, writers, school and university, capital and labor remember that it is their duty, in the interest of mankind, to help peace to conquer the earth. Above all, children should be brought up in this fundamental belief.

It is essential that the human mind should once more be open to the broad lines of an internationalism, which, while allowing the citizen to love his town and the patriot his country, teaches all men to respect the existence and the rights of their fellows, by bringing into the daily life the individual light of a justice, which is to be in all the world for all the time.

This true internationalism cannot be attained without the active and intimate co-operation of governments, parliaments, voluntary organizations, the press, the clergy, and above all, National Red Cross Societies. To the union of these forces must be added a supreme factor: the power of individual conviction. Every man, as far as lies in his power, must contribute to make peace permanent in the world.

The individual must no longer see the world in the light of his own selfishness, anger, fear, and human passion, but in a spirit of concord and mutual aid.

Thus only can a better future be prepared.

Faithful to the ideal which inspired its founders, and which it has ever served, the Red Cross hereby declares before the whole world, that its work does not end with war. The Red Cross appeals to the heart of all mankind, that each individual may find in himself the needful strength and determination to make and keep universal peace.

Women of Canada

"I ask from all the people of Canada an earnest review of the real issue before Canada to-day. I ask from men and women a calm, thoughtful consideration of serious public questions; and, so far as I am concerned myself, I ask not favors but fairness."—ARTHUR MEIGHEN.

WOMEN OF CANADA, the coming General Election will be one of the most momentous in Canadian history, and Arthur Meighen asks YOU to give the issue fair, unbiassed consideration.

Women and men alike are called upon to decide whether political, industrial and economic stability is to be replaced by class rule, political and industrial chaos and possible economic bankruptcy.

The facts are clear, and every Canadian woman will do her own thinking. She will not be misled by others. She will not blindly follow family political precedent, neither will she be carried away by the false theories or empty "isms" of theorists and extremists. Every woman will arrive at a personal decision by the application of practical common sense.

The great issue is the Tariff and here are briefly the facts.

The present Canadian Tariff, so far as it affects the necessaries of life, is a very moderate one. It is simply a tariff maintained to keep Canadian factories in Canada, employing a steadily increasing volume of Canadian labor and developing Canadian resources.

Meighen stands firm for the continuance of a reasonable tariff. It is now even more imperative than in the past. All other important countries are retaining or increasing their tariffs in order that they may hold their home markets for their own people.

Under Crerar's Free Trade policy Canada would be swamped with foreign goods, principally from the United States, Canadian industry would be ruined, thousands of men and women would be out of work with all the hardships to themselves and their children that must result. The farmer's great home market would be seriously affected, taxes would be increased, and Canadian working men would have to go to the United States for employment.

While King's Tariff policy is wobbly it nevertheless tends toward the destruction of the Tariff and would bring with it practically the same results.

MEIGHEN'S POLICY EVERYBODY KNOWS. It is the only means whereby confidence may be maintained and employment given to all classes of the people.

The foregoing is a plain statement of logical conclusions arrived at from the facts. Think the matter over carefully "without favor but with fairness".

Make your own decision, stand by it unmoved and be sure to exercise your vote.

More Fresh Air

Apropos of the matter of fresh air, the following excellent article appeared in the Ladies' Home Journal for September. It is the sanest bit of criticism we have seen along this line:

"The pastor of a western church recently conceived the sensible idea that there was one way by which he might at least encourage attendance in his church: by giving the people fresh, pure air to breathe. Of course the sexton assured him "he did all he could to air the church out before service:" he recited the sexton's usual woes: what pleased one parson didn't please another, and so forth. "But," said the pastor, "all the same, the air during service is awful: fresh air I will have and fresh air I am going to have if I have to take the ventilation of the church into my own hands." He called his people and his trustees together, explained the efficiency of fresh air, and asked for their help to see that the air in the church was pure and fresh. What that pastor did was to awaken the attention of his entire congregation to a subject to which his people had given little or no thought; he got not only better air into his church, but, moreover, he set his people thinking about the benefits of fresh air in their homes, and the reports of four physicians show a marked decline in colds and illnesses among the members of that parish! Now, that is practical religion: the kind of religion we need in scores of our churches today which fairly reek with poisoned and breathed-over air, the result of poor ventilation: a religion of fresh air. A little more common-sense of this sort on the part of the pulpit, and the church will have taken one step forward, making of itself an institution of practical good with an appeal to men."

Things to Forget.

If you would increase your happiness and prolong your life, forget your neighbor's faults. Forget all the slanders you have ever heard. Forget the temptations. Forget the fault-finding, and give a little thought to the cause which provoked it. Forget the peculiarities of your friends, and only remember the good points which make you fond of them. Forget all personal quarrels or histories you may have heard by accident, and which, if repeated, would seem a thousand times worse than they are.

Blot out, as far as possible, all the disagreeables of life; they will come, but they will only grow larger when you remember them, and the constant thought of the acts of meanness, or, worse still, malice, would only tend to make you more familiar with them. Obliterate everything disagreeable from yesterday, start out with a clean sheet for to-day, and write upon it, for sweet memory's sake, only those things which are lovely and loveable.

Twenty years ago the women wore their skirts to their shoe tops on rainy days. It sort o' looks now as if they were getting ready for a flood.

THE TELEPHONE GIRL

The Telephone Girl sits in her chair
And listens to voices from everywhere.
She hears all the gossip, she hears all the news,
She knows who is happy, and who has the blues;
She knows all our sorrows, she knows all our joys,
She knows every girl who is chasing the boys;
She knows all our troubles, she knows all our strife,
She knows every man who is mean to his wife;
She knows every time we are out with the boys,
She hears the excuses each fellow employs.
She knows every woman who has a dark past,
She knows every man who's inclined to be fast;
In fact, there's a secret 'neath each saucy curl,
Of that quiet, demure-looking Telephone Girl.

If the Telephone Girl would tell all she knows
It would turn half our friends into bitterest foes;
She'd start a small wind that would soon be a gale.
And engulf us in trouble and land us in jail;
She would let go a story which, gaining in force,
Would cause half our wives to sue for divorce.
She would get all the churches mixed up in a fight,
And turn all our days into sorrowing nights.
In fact, she would keep all the world in a stew,
If she told a tenth part of the things she knew.
Now, doesn't it set your head in a whirl
When you think what we owe the Telephone Girl?

—Edw. P. F. McClusky.

Making Selling Easy

I hastened into a barber's shop the other day and asked if I could be shaved in a five minutes. "Yep!" was the reply. The barber quickly applied the soap. He began lathering and lathering and kept on lathering until I felt sure I would miss my train. Still he kept on plying his soap brush. I was saying to myself, "Why doesn't he quit this process and get busy with his razor?" That would have been my way of shaving myself in a hurry. When he did finally take up his razer, the job was over in a jiffy. And I caught my train.

The incident, for some reason or other, begot this thought in my mind: Lathering is to shaving very much the same thing as advertising is to selling. If you do enough preliminary work and do it properly, so that groundwork has been thoroughly prepared, then the resistance is very greatly reduced, and it is possible either to shave with less trouble or to sell goods with less trouble. A good many businessmen are as foolish as I would have been in trying to shave myself in a hurry: They don't apply enough advertising lather. Is it not so? Forbe's Magazine.

A Tale of Hides.

Speaking at Port Arthur, Ont., President Burnaby, of the U.F.O., deplored the present profiteering in business and told of having sold a good hide for three cents per pound and then with the money having bought belt lacing for three dollars per pound. The maximum amount expended on labor in the manufacture of a pair of boots, he claimed, was $1.25 and was at a loss to know why with hides so cheap boots should remain so dear. He declared that a team of horses could not draw in one load enough hides to pay for their harness and stated it would take 125 fleeces of wool to pay for one suit of clothes.

CAN YOU CALCULATE YOUR SILO

A large number of stockmen are frequently puzzled over the problem of estimating the tonnage in a silo. The following table is taken from Circular 39 of the Missouri Experimental Station:

Silage at a depth of five feet weighs 33.4 pounds per cubic foot; at ten feet it weighs 35 pounds per cubic foot; at 15 feet, 36.4 pounds; 20 feet, 37.5 pounds; 25 feet, 38.3 pounds; 30 feet, 39 pounds; and at 40 and 50 feet the silage averages 40.3 and 41.4 pounds respectively.

To find the capacity of the silo: Multiply one-half of the inside diameter by itself, then by 3,1416, and then by the depth of the settled silage. This gives the volume. Multiply this by the weight of silage at that depth. This will give the capacity in pounds. Divide by 2,000 to get the weight in tons.

Why Farmers are In Politics

City people are prone to explain the farmers' entrance into politics as a freak movement, and the farmers are classed with bolshevists and radicals. There is a general feeling that the tillers of the soil may commence to throw bombs any minute.

Nohting could be farther from the truth. The fact is that farmers, as a class, are the biggest businessmen in the country. Farming is the biggest business—the greatest industry. farmers see lawyers, merchants, builders and all other classes represented in parliament, and are commencing to feel that they should be adequately represented, too.

A dairy farm at Chilliwack, for instance, is worth $350 an acre. For a 160-acre farm this is an investment of $56,000. Machinery, tractors, autos, some $20,000 more. One farm paper published in Vancouver has 25,000 subscribers. These advertise systematically as the city merchant. They are keenly interested in all new methods of efficiency. They want to run their farms on a business basis. The point is the farmer is beginning to realize the magnitude of his undertaking. He knows that he is the real businessman of the country, and that he must put agriculture on a higher business plane. He knows, also, that agriculture gets less than two per cent. of the revenue of the entire Dominion, and is being disgracefully neglected, and that to remedy this situation he must get out and fight for himself.

That is why the farmers are in politics.—Sun.
