$1.00 PER YEAR

GRANBY OUTPUT BIG IN JANUARY

Makes 3,156,486 Pounds of Copper, Compared With 2,955,450 Pounds in December.

The Granby Consolidated Mining, Smelting & Power company produced 3,156,486 pounds of copper in January, according to a New York report. This may be compared with 2,955,450 produced in the previous month and is the largest since September, when the production was 3,371,535 pounds. The production in January, 1918, was 4,209,393, or over 1,000,000 pounds more than in January, 1919.

An estimate of the earnings in January made difficult by declines in the metal market during that month, but some basis is provided by the report for February, 1918, when the price of the metal was high and the estimate of earnings was in the neighborhood of $400,000 on 3,843,686 pounds.

The production in January, 1919, was made almost solely at the Anyox smelter, where the costs are 10 to 11 cents a pound. The production by pounds for the last thirteen months at both smelters is contained in the table that follows:

January, 1919	3,156,486
December	2,955,450
November	2,147,405
October	2,549,474
September	3,371,535
August	2,810,207
July	2,167,077
June	3,438,521
May	3,803,185
April	3,689,982
March	3,807,600
February	3,843,686
January, 1918	4,209,393

DUTIES OF "WELCOME HOME" COMMITTEES

OTTAWA, February 17, 1919.—The urgent problems in connection with the demobilization of our army and the re-establishment of industry on a peace basis have led to the formation of the repatriation committee, in connection with which Harry Bragg is now acting as the representative of the municipal organizations of Canada.

The urban and rural municipalities can play a great and important part in the problems of the demobilization period in giving a "welcome home" to the returning soldier and his family, in helping the soldier to secure employment, and generally assisting him to re-establish himself in civil life.

In every municipality that has sent soldiers overseas there should be an honorary committee of citizens, composed of both men and women who will assume a measure of responsibility in this important work. The functions of a "welcome home" committee should be as follows:

1. To welcome all returned soldiers and their dependents on their arrival at their home.
2. To receive any complaints from returned soldiers and to forward them to the department of soldiers' civil re-establishment, Ottawa, for investigation.

3. To help the returned soldiers to find employment.

4. If at any time employment can not be found in his home locality for a returned soldier, to report particulars to the department of soldiers' civil re-establishment.

5. If positions exist in your locality for which returned soldiers are not available, to notify the department of soldiers' civil re-establishment, so that men can be sent from the nearest demobilization center to occupy them.

6. To cooperate with voluntary organizations.

7. To keep a general oversight over the interests of returned soldiers and their families.

Longest English Word

A subscriber asks, "What is the longest word in the English language that is defined in the latest edition of the most-complete dictionary?" The latest edition of the Standard Dictionary says under "honorificabilitudinitas": "Honorableness; frequently cited as the longest word in English literature." But this word is also found in one of the earliest English dictionaries—Bailey's, published in 1756. Anthropomorphologically contains one more letter—namely, twenty-three.

Zigzaggers

"A police court isn't all grim and sordid," remarked Judge White the other day. "Sometimes something really funny happens. Not so very long ago a chauffeur was brought in, after having run down a man.

"Did you know that if you struck this pedestrian he would be seriously injured?"

"Yes, sir," replied the chauffeur.

"Then why didn't you zigzag your car and miss him?"

"He was zigzagging himself and outguessed me, your honor," was the answer.

The Way They Work

"Have you any alarm clocks?" inquired the customer. "What I want is one that will arouse the girl without waking the whole family."

"I don't know of any such alarm clock as that, madam," said the man behind the counter; "we keep just the ordinary kind—the kind that will wake the whole family without disturbing the girl."

Wished He Was Present

"Well, that's enough to try the patience of Job," exclaimed the village minister, as he threw aside the local paper.

"Why, what's the matter, dear?" asked his wife.

"Last Sunday I preached from the text, 'Be ye therefore steadfast, fast,' answered the good man; 'but the printer makes it read, 'Be ye there for breakfast?'"

WAR SAVINGS CAMPAIGN IN B.C.

Returns for January Below Quota, But Better Results Are Expected in the Future

The returns for the first month of the National War Savings committee, British Columbia, were about $25,000, with no returns from 271 units out of 587. The quota which has been set for British Columbia is $5,000,000 for the year 1919. This means that the returns will have to run to at least $450,000 a month for the rest of the year in order to reach the quota. The committee, however, points out that most of the month was occupied by organization work; that very few committees had been formed; that most of the divisional organizations were waiting for the conference which took place on February 4 and 5; that practically no advertising was done in the newspapers, and that therefore under the circumstances the returns are nothing to despair of.

The schools have only just started their educational campaign, but they are showing great interest, and the teachers are enthusiastic regarding the prospects.

Campbell Sweeney, the executive head of the British Columbia division of the National War Savings, points out that the campaign is essentially one in which foundations must be laid properly and not one which can be carried on spasmodically. The British people subscribed $15,000,000 weekly by means of 12c stamps for their National War Savings.

Another matter which has naturally handicapped the committee at the start of the campaign has been the fact that all the stores throughout the country have been engaged in stock taking or with their January sales, which, of course, has prevented them from taking much interest in the National War Savings movement. The committee expects that the returns for February will be considerably better and show that interest is being aroused and that the people are determined to get behind the country in this movement of national importance.

The bureau of census at Washington has published the statistics for forty-six large cities, with a total population of 23,000,000, which show that from September 8 to November 9, inclusive, 82,360 deaths occurred from influenza and pneumonia. Normal deaths from these causes for the same period would be 4000, leaving approximately 78,000 deaths attributable to the epidemic. From this it appears that the deaths occurring in the forty-six cities with a population of only one-fifth of the total population of the United States is greatly in excess of the number of deaths in the American expeditionary forces.

Frank Newbauer, who was raised in this city, returned from the war on Wednesday night. He enlisted in and went overseas from Victoria:

News of the City

A crowd of friends gathered at the C.P.R. depot last Saturday evening to say good-bye to Mrs. A. Ardiel and her daughter Lily on their departure for Vancouver, where they intend to reside with a sister of Mrs. Ardiel's. Mr. Ardiel has just recovered from a painful accident, but is now able to resume his duties at the Anyox mines. Their daughter, Gladys, is attending normal school in Victoria. The Ardiel family has resided in Grand Forks for seventeen years.

Mrs. M. Dompier, aged about 35 years, died at her home in this city on Wednesday morning of influenza after a short illness. She is survived by her husband and seven children, the youngest of whom is only about a month old. The family has resided in the city for a number of years. The father of the deceased arrived here a couple of days before she passed away.

A. D. Morrison expects to begin work next week remodeling his store. He will make extensive alterations, and in order to take care of his large and growing optical business will equip a dark room, and he intends to make this the most modern and up-to-date in the interior.

The Kettle Valley train that started for Lynch Creek on Wednesday did not reach its destination, as there is so much snow on the track that the engine was unable to find the rails and finally strayed away from them. The crew, uninjured, returned to the city late at night by auto stage.

Thomas Meirose, a brakeman formerly on the Nelson-Midway passenger train run, was found dead alongside the C.P.R. track near Trail last week. It is thought that he slipped and fell off the train he was working on. He had been in the employ of the company for many years.

C. E. Stamper and W. A. Ritchie, who have been carrying on a garage business in Greenwood, have dissolved partnership and in future the business will be conducted by Mr. Ritchie.

Mrs. E. F. Laws left on Wednesday for Calgary to join her husband. They will open their theatrical season in that city in a few days.

From a letter received by a friend in this city, it is learned that Pte. Hussey, who is now in Vancouver, will return to this city for a short visit about the 24th inst.

The medical health officer reports the influenza situation as being somewhat improved.

Several of the largest copper producing plants in British Columbia have, it is understood, dropped most of their exploratory and other non pressing work for the present, awaiting a settling down of the copper situation. In the world's markets there is now on hand a stock of 800,000,000 pounds of copper, produced for a 26 cent market. Until this is absorbed conditions in the copper market are bound to be unsettled. The Anaconda company's mines in Montana have reduced their output recently by 25 per cent.

COPPER A DRUG ON THE MARKET

Cooper Metal Said to Be in Excess of One Billion Pounds Stored in United States Alone

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—The sudden cessation of buying for war use has caused an accumulation of copper metal said to be in excess of a billion pounds in the United States alone, while there is no buying of moment for peace uses at the present time. As a result, although copper is nominally quoted at 18 cents a pound, it is understood that considerable quantities have been offered and can be had at a lower figure. The whole copper industry is upset by conditions, which are said to be so bad that it is believed that the metal will be depressed in price for at least a year to come. It is the history of all wars, however, that so much copper is diverted from peace uses to war needs that a shortage exists for many years after peace is restored, and there is no reason to believe that copper will continue in a depressed state for more than a few months, as the price cut will undoubtedly cause buying to replace the waste of the metal in the war.

The Duke's Wit

The Grand Duke Nicholas, who is said to have been sentenced to death, was a great soldier. He had the heartiest hatred for cheats and rogues of all kinds. Early in the war he met some army contractors by appointment. The interview was brief. "Good morning," said the grand duke. "If any one of you cheats me I will hang him. Good morning." He had a quick way, too, with Rasputin, fakir and faker. Rasputin came to the grand duke and informed him that Our Lady had appeared to him two nights before and ordered him to tell the grand duke to make peace with Germany. "That's odd," said Nicholas. "Our Lady appeared to me last night and said you were coming. She told me to kick you out of the room." The grand duke put the order into execution! But the next day he was exiled to the Caucasus.

Licked Her Hand

Shoesless he climbed the stairs, opened the door of the room, entered, and closed it after him without being detected. Just as he was about to get into bed his wife, half aroused from her slumber, turned and sleepily said: "Is that you, Fido?" The husband, telling the rest of the story, said: "For once in my life I had real presence of mind. I licked her hand."

Sorry She Spoke

A lady, very desirous of concealing the awful fact that she is the same age as her husband, observed to a visitor: "My husband is forty; there is just five years between us." "Is that possible?" was the unguarded reply of her friend. "I give you my word you look as young as he does."

SITUATION IS CRITICAL

PETER WRIGHT, who is on the Pacific coast just now, is known to labor throughout the world. He is chairman and trustee of the Seamen's and Firemen's Union of Great Britain, and is in America to outline the action and the reason for this action of the body which he represents.

He speaks as a laboring man, but he looks beyond the difficulties of the present and sees the time when conditions will have become settled and employee and employer understand each other thoroughly. He says: "I have absolute confidence that within a short period the whole of the industrial democracy will find its level and ultimately find its goal in bringing the whole of society to its normal equilibrium."

How will this come about? Here is what he advises: "There must be a recognition of brotherhood, and in every state of society, in every industrial organization there must be a recognition that love in future must be the predominating factor." He further explains that the man who labors and the man who finances the industry must come together in a spirit of fraternity and start on the lines of readjustment.

What suggestion could be more reasonable? These are very critical days, and conditions have altered the whole aspect of the labor situation. If ever employer and employee had to get together it is now. Each should consider the question from the standpoint of the other, for it stands to reason that unless one helps the other, both must suffer.

Brute force was never productive of anything but trouble. It may win an advantage temporarily, but it loses in the end. That is why Peter Wright says: "We can not go back to the brutal methods of strikes which we have been accustomed to in the past. It is up to labor to see that the new form of autocracy under the name of Bolshevism is not going to be the predominant factor in bringing about the old regime in a new guise and form."

He is apprehensive lest all that labor won during the past four years will be lost by precipitate action. He knows the labor situation as it exists, not only locally in British Columbia, but throughout America and Europe, and as an observer on an eminence sees what is threatening each section.

He issues the warning: "Agitators have seized upon the present industrial crisis, which is an artificial situation created by the war, without any regard to its artificiality. They are not concerned with the fact that this economic situation is artificial and is directly antagonistic to the interests of the workers themselves, and that any attempt to sustain such a condition must be followed by an economic breakdown."

That is pretty plain. He sees danger ahead if readjustment is attempted by either party on an arbitrary basis. He has a comprehensive knowledge of the situation, and he sees a way clear so that the crisis may be safely passed. But it must be on the get-together basis, he points out, and he has strong convictions regarding the power of cooperation.

Never has there been such an excellent opportunity for the agitator, and because of that strong labor leaders like Peter Wright have never come out with a straighter message. In a recent interview, after reviewing what had been won during the war by labor, he tells where the danger lies:

"In Britain and her dominions there has been utter lack of education. In consequence, the intelligence of the younger workingman has been only sufficient to grasp certain dogmatic ideas without being able to analyze them or follow them through to their logical conclusion. Dogmatists have been able to work on this limited intelligence and inflame it against established order. . . . We must reason along proper lines, we are going backward and not forward, and backward under present conditions is a return to barbarism."

Mr. Wright says he tries to view the situation from both sides. He sees the ultimate public good, the benefit to the state by cooperation and brotherhood. He has in mind the injunction, "Bear ye one another's burden," which never before in the world's history is being more the basis of operations, whether it is consciously or unconsciously.

"Sheer materialism will never get anywhere in the reconstruction of the world." He says further, "Practical idealism is one of the most necessary things to the bringing about of a better relation between capital and labor."

Which means, study first what is best, and then cooperate with anyone who would help in attaining that end.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, perhaps the greatest of Canada's constructive statesmen, died on Monday last following an attack of paralysis. During the many years he was at the head of the federal government a progressive policy of development was pursued, and the country enjoyed unbounded prosperity. It is possibly true, however, that Sir Wilfrid's memory would have been held in higher veneration by all classes of our citizens if he had retired from public life after his defeat in 1911.

Little except a few stories of daring individual exploits has been told of the activities of the American Indian in the late war. The part played by the Indians in the war was not confined to occasional spectacular adventures. Ten thousand Indians, most of whom volunteered, served in the American army and navy; Indians bought $15,000,000 worth of Liberty bonds, not counting the fourth issue, and thousands of war savings certificates; they contributed liberally to the Red Cross, and—tell it not at the camp fires of Geronimo!—made 100,000 hospital garments for the soldiers and sailors.

It is said that a gentleman in a town not far from Grand Forks got a package of Findlay's whiskey invoiced as "fruit." He probably got a peach of a jag from it.

Society note: Mr. and Mrs. Hohenzollern will not receive until further notice.

President Wilson has departed from Paris, and the poor overworked telegraph operators of that city are enjoying a much needed rest.

An interesting measure of the breadth of Theodore Roosevelt's interests and the vigor of his vocabulary is the number of words or expressions that from his use of them derived wide currency. They include nature-faker, strenuous, muck-raker, the big stick, malefactors of great wealth, undesirable citizens, race suicide, weasel words, bully and de-lighted.

There is a new flag on the Pacific coast—blue, with a star-shaped white center in which are as many smaller stars as there are discharged soldiers in the employ of the firm that displays it. "We have kept faith with the boys who enlisted in the service of the country," is the silent message it conveys.

SYNOPSIS OF LAND ACT AMENDMENT

Pre-emption now confined to surveyed lands only.

Records will be granted covering only land suitable for agricultural purposes and which is non-timber land.

Pre-emption pre-emptions abolished, but parties of not more than four may arrange for adjacent pre-emptions, with joint residence, but each making necessary improvements on respective claims.

Pre-emptors must occupy claims for five years and make improvements to value of $10 per acre, including clearing and cultivation of at least 5 acres, before receiving Crown Grant.

Where pre-emptor in occupation not less than 3 years, and has made proportionate improvements, he may, because of ill-health or other cause, be granted intermediate certificate of improvement and transfer his claim.

Records without permanent residence may be issued provided applicant makes improvements to extent of $300 per annum and records same each year. Failure to make improvements or record same will operate as forfeiture. Title cannot be obtained on these claims in less than 5 years, with improvements of $10 per acre, including 5 acres cleared and cultivated, and residence of at least 2 years.

Pre-emptor holding Crown Grant may record another pre-emption, if he requires land in conjunction with his farm, without actual occupation, provided statutory improvements made and residence maintained on Crown granted land.

Unsurveyed areas, not exceeding 20 acres, may be leased as homesteads; title to be obtained after fulfilling residential and improvement conditions.

For grazing and industrial purposes, areas exceeding 640 acres may be leased by one person or company.

PRE-EMPTORS' FREE GRANTS ACT.

The scope of this Act is enlarged to include all persons joining and serving with His Majesty's Forces. The time within which the heirs or devisees of a deceased pre-emptor may apply for the land under this Act is extended from one year from the death of such person, as formerly, until one year after the conclusion of the present war. This privilege is also made retroactive.

TOWNSITE PROPERTY ALLOTMENT ACT.

Provision is made for the grant to persons holding uncompleted Agreements to Purchase from the Crown of such proportion of the land, if divisible, as the payments already made will cover in proportion to the sale price of the whole parcel. Two or more persons holding such Agreements may group their interests and apply for a proportionate allotment jointly. If it is not considered advisable to divide the land covered by an application for a proportionate allotment, an allotment of land of equal value selected from available Crown lands in the locality may be made. These allotments are conditional upon payment of all taxes due the Crown or to any municipality. The rights of persons to whom the purchaser from the Crown has agreed to sell are also protected. The decision of the Minister of Lands in respect to the adjustment of a proportionate allotment is final. The time for making application for these allotments is limited to the 1st day of May, 1919. Any application made after this date will not be considered. These allotments apply to town lots and lands of the Crown sold at public auction.

USE OF HOT BEDS AND COLD FRAMES

[EXPERIMENTAL FARMS NOTE]

A hotbed is desirable wherever vegetables or flowers are grown in Canada. It is a means by which plants are grown through their earlier stages in a suitable temperature in order to start on the time of reaching condition for use or of coming into flower. It is the early vegetables which are the most profitable and most appreciated. Furthermore, with a hotbed it is possible to mature certain vegetables in parts of Canada where, if started in the open, they would not ripen before being killed by the frost. Again, with a hotbed it is possible to mature a large crop, when without one the crop would be very small. Certain vegetables, also, even if not subjected to actual frost, will not grow if the soil and air are cold, hence must be started in warm soil and warm air such as is afforded by a hotbed, and the plants grown there are not set out in the open until warm weather.

Such crops as radish, lettuce, spinach, carrots and other vegetables which will reach marketable size in a relatively short season and are easily handled while the weather is still cool in early spring, reach the stage when they are ready for use much sooner when kept in the hotbed or cold frame than if one had to wait until the seed were planted in the open and the plants developed there. There is usually greater danger from keeping the hotbed too hot for these particular vegetables than from its being too cool. Cauliflower also can be grown to maturity in hotbeds, and in places where it is difficult, owing to summer frosts or cool weather, to grow cucumbers and melons, a few plants in a hotbed provide a fair supply for the family.

In making a hotbed the conservation of the heat in it is one of the chief considerations, and to assist in this the hotbed should be in a protected place, preferably on the south side of a building, wall or close board fence where the cold winds will be broken and all the sunshine possible obtained. The manure used should be hot when it is put in, and it should be kept hot by thoroughly banking the outside of the frame with manure to prevent the cold getting in and the heat getting out. It is easier to conserve heat in a bed that is low than one that is built high up.

Cold frames are much like hotbeds in outward appearance, but no manure is put inside, as cold frames are used later in the spring than hotbeds, and less heat is needed, there being sufficient from the sun shining through the glass, and the glass and frame usually afford sufficient protection from light frosts at night should there be such.

Details in regard to making hotbeds will be found in a pamphlet which can be obtained free on application to the Publications Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

How He Killed It

A pompous youngster, whose father it was well known, had been a successful livery stable keeper, was finger-ling ostentatiously a large seal which he wore attached to his watch chain, representing St. George and the Dragon, and, having drawn the attention of a college companion to it, remarked carelessly:

"A! One of my ancestors is supposed to have killed the dragon, don't you know?"

"Good gracious!" replied the other, with an anxious expression. "Did he run over it?"

An Uncomfortable Feeling

It was Dora's first trip on the ocean, and the water kept on going see-saw and slip-side and heave ho, and all sorts of uncomfortable, disagreeable things, so that Dora began to get a little giddy and dazed and tired and hazy.

Clasping a large doll in her arms, she stood upon the deck by her mother's side

"Mamma!" she suddenly exclaimed, and her face turned to a pelicate pale green.

"Yes, darling? What is the matter?"

"Oh, n-nothing, mamma! But I—I don't find the rabbit I had for dinner could have been quite—quite dead!"

Discrimination

President Wilson is fond of telling a story about an old teamster. This old fellow said to the treasurer of the company one day:

"Me and that off-horse has been workin' for the company seventeen years, sir."

"Just so, Winterbottom, just so," said the treasurer, and he cleared his throat and added: "Both treated well, I hope."

The old teamster looked dubious. "Well," he said, "we was both taken down sick last month, and they got a doctor for the boss, while they docked my pay."

"THE COW PUNCHER" AUTHOR PROMOTED

Announcement has been made by the civil service commission that Robert J. C. Stead, of Calgary, is appointed publicity agent for the department of immigration and colonization, which is presided over by Hon. J. A. Calder. Mr. Stead has for some years had charge of publicity for the land colonization interests of the Canadian Pacific railway.

Mr. Stead has intimate personal knowledge of the resources and needs of Western Canada, having lived on the prairies of Manitoba in the early eighties and been connected with some phase of western life ever since. He has been connected with the C.P.R. for six years, and aside from his publicity activities is widely known as a Western Canadian writer, his latest novel, "The Cow Puncher," having been among last season's best sellers.

The Indignant Types

After the printers had gone home the types in the type cases held an indignation meeting.

"What was it that the proofreader read last?" asked the question mark.

Several quotation points spoke up: "It was: The types unfortunately made it appear the opposite of what we intended."

"What nonsense!" "How unjust!" "Shamel" shouted the exclamation points.

"As if it were our fault," said all the italic in concert.

"The editor always lays HIS blunders on US!" cried the capital letters.

"Let us strike," proposed the blackface font.

"Agreed!" "Agreed!" screamed all the types. And when the printers came back the next morning they found them all in horrid pi on the floor.

ONE OF THE ORIGINAL FIFTEEN

Corp. J. D. Hunter, who started for the training camp at Valcartier at noon on Thursday, August 27, 1914, with the first contingent of fifteen men sent overseas from this city, returned to Grand Forks Tuesday evening. There was quite a crowd at the station to welcome him home. He does not look any the worse for his four years' service, as he is apparently in the prime of health. The members of the first contingent were: A. Potentier, J. D. Hunter, Percy Taylor, J. McKay, M. J. Mudge, D. Paterson, W. L. Reid, G. K. Ashby, R. Green, Ellis Bickler, J. H. Slater, G. J. Fitz, S. E. Mills, F. J. Hicks and O. Clifford.

Of the above Reid was killed in an accident in going to Valcartier camp, and McKay did not go overseas. Green was invalided home from England before he reached

France, and died shortly after returning. Potentier is back in Grand Forks after being a prisoner of war in Germany for over three years, and Mudge, Fitz and Clifford have also been prisoners of war. Paterson was gassed and invalided home the second year of the war. Taylor was wounded and is now in the convalescent hospital at Vancouver. Hicks was killed action early in the war. Mills has returned to his old home in one of the Maritime provinces, and Ashby, Bickler and Slater are supposed to be alive, but it is not known where they are located at present.

TAKES OFF DANDRUFF, HAIR STOPS FALLING

Save your Hair! Get a small bottle of Danderine right now—Also stops itching scalp.

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff—that awful scurf. There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast. A little Danderine tonight—now—any time—will surely save your hair.

Get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store. You surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it if you will just try a little Danderine. Save your hair! Try it!

Telephone Service Insurance

This is often a temptation to call telephone numbers from memory.

In a surprisingly great percentage of cases this results in serious losses of time, the referring of calls to special operators, and unexplainable annoyance to those called in error.

There is no better insurance on effective service than the two following practices:

First—Invariably to consult the directory and call by number; slowly, one numeral at a time.

Second—To evidence the same consideration and politeness that is shown by the operator when difficulties arise, regardless of their origin.

More Painful

First Artist—Old Roxley wouldn't buy my pictures—wouldn't even look at them.

Second Ditto—Well, he was more considerate of your feelings than of mine—he refused to buy my pictures even after he did look at them.

"I don't like that auctioneer's line of talk," declared the artist, testily. "What's wrong?" "Picture after picture of mine he puts up. And what does he say? 'Start it at $10, my good people. You can't go wrong. The frame is worth that.'"
