NORTH FORK PEOPLE PROTEST

Property Owners of District Want Kettle Valley Line Built to Franklin Camp

At a largely attended meeting in the city hall last night the North Fork Property Owners' association was formed. Fred Clark was elected chairman and Leo Mader secretary. The object of association is to look after the welfare of the North Fork district. Last night the application of the Kettle Valley line to the Dominion parliament for a further extension of time in which to build its branch to Franklin camp was discussed, and the sentiment was overwhelmingly against such extension being granted.

The rough draft of a resolution protesting against such action, and setting forth the potential tonnage of the district, was unanimously adopted. A committee was appointed to redraft it, and to forward copies to Hon. Martin Burrell at Ottawa and to J. E. Thompson, M. P., at Victoria. A committee was also appointed to bring the matter before the city council next Monday night.

After adjournment those present resolved themselves into a citizens' meeting, and the the resolution drafted by the association was adopted, and it was decided to circulate a petition protesting against an extension of time being granted the Kettle Valley line. For the convenience of those who wish to sign this petition, it was decided to place copies of it at all the stores and newspaper offices in the city, and C. V. Meggitt and Joe Gelinis were asked to solicit signatures on the street.

The Granby Consolidated Mining Smelting & Power company produced 1,975,439 pounds of copper in January, according to a New York report. This is comparable with 1,544,464 pounds produced in December. The company has been handicapped for several months by a lack of quartz for use in fluxing. This handicap has been eliminated by the opening of a new quartz vein at a point a mile and a half from the Anyox smelter. Through the addition of these resources an increase in the smelter production is expected to continue. An additional handicap resulted from a shortage of power in part of December when the temperature was low.

The Curlew Creamery has added two new scales to its plant in this city. The one for weighing butter fat is a mechanical wonder, being especially designed for accuracy and quick work. It cost about $400 in Windsor, Ont.

IRRIGATION SEEMS ASSURED

This Year's Budget, It Is Claimed, Will Provide Funds for Construction of the System

C. A. S. Atwood, who was commissioned by various local organizations to interview the government officials at Victoria as to what progress is being made on the proposed irrigation system in this valley, made his report at a meeting of ranchers and townspeople in the G. W. V. A. hall last night.

Mr. Atwood stated that he had been assured by all the officials whom he had interviewed that it was the intention of the government to prosecute the work until it is completed or found to be impracticable. There is yet some more work to be done on the preliminary details, but as soon as this is finished men will be sent here from the coast to assist in organizing a water municipality. The work is not sufficiently advanced at present, said Mr. Atwood, for a definite decision as to whether it is to be a gravity or a pumping system, but there appeared to be impression in some quarters that the cost of a gravity system might prove to be prohibitive. Mr. Atwood stated that the estimates would provide funds for the construction of the system.

PROVINCIAL REALTY LICENSES

Agents Will Pay a Fee of $10 a Year and Salesmen $2--Wrongdoings to Be Investigated

Licensing of real estate agents and real estate salesmen is provided for in a bill brought down in the legislature last Thursday by the attorney general. The former will pay a license fee of $10 a year, the latter $2. Inspectors will be appointed by the government, by whom complaints of wrongdoing by agents or salesmen will be investigated.

Important changes in forest regulations will be made under a bill to amend the forest act. It provides for conducting a campaign against the pine bark beetle which is ravaging the yellow pine timber east of the Cascade mountains. Provision is made for perpetuating tenure of soldiers of timber licenses and survey licenses up to the end of the present year, when the general privileges and exemptions of the relief act will terminate.

Hand logger licenses will be issued only on condition that gasoline motive power be not used. The fixed rate either of five cents a thousand feet charged for official scaling of timber west of the Cascades is abolished and a scaling fund established into which all monies received on account of official scaling will be paid and from which all costs of the scaling service will be defrayed.

Music by Henry Ford

For Sale—One Ford car with Piston rings; two rear wheels, one front spring. Has no fenders, seat or plank; burns lots of gas. Hard to crank. Carburetor busted, half way through. Engine missing; hits on two. Three years old; four in the spring. Has shock absorbers and everything. Radiator busted, sure does leak. Differentials dry; you can hear its squeak. Ten spokes missing. Front all bent. Tires blown out. Ain't worth a cent. Got lots of speed; will run like the deuce; burns either gas or tobacco juice. Tires all off; been run on the rim. A dam good Ford for the shape it's in.—Winfield (Kan.) Free Press.

ELECTION ACT BROUGHT DOWN

Absentee Voting, No Deposits and Japanese Franchise Are the Striking Features

The elimination of the heretofore customary deposit put up by candidates, the requirement of a statement of election expenses by the candidate as well as by the secretary and treasurer of every political organization within thirty days after an election, provision for absentee voting, and a new system of polling subdivisions within an electoral district, are some of the more important changes to be made in the system of election of members to the provincial house, as set forth in the new election act tabled in the legislature, the first reading of which was moved by Premier Oliver last Thursday afternoon.

The act is a consolidation of all previous legislation along this line, with the new features added. Returned soldiers are entitled to registration as voters, irrespective of age or nationality, and Japanese veterans are specifically named as entitled to this privilege.

Deserters, persons exempted or entitled to claim exemption under various orders in council or under the military service act on conscientious grounds, are disqualified, although in this regard the section does not apply to the men called out for active service by order in council of April 20, 1918, and the proclamation of May 3, 1917, issued under authority of the military service act.

The premier said: "The bill will cancel the old voters' list, and there will be a new revision this year. Anyone listed on the present list will be eligible to make application to be registered as a voter, and the present election commissioners will be continued. It is proposed to appoint a registrar of voters for each district, but in addition there will be provided deputy registrars, where necessary, to be paid for by the province, a plan all the more necessary in view of the increase of voters consequent upon the granting of the franchise to women."

LIBERALS HOLD ANNUAL MEETING

Officers Elected and General Business Transacted--Officers Make Optimistic Speeches

The annual meeting of the Grand Forks Liberal association was held in the Russell building on First street on Wednesday, when officers for the ensuing year were elected and other business transacted.

The new officers elected are: Honorary President, Hon. Mackenzie King; honorary first vice-president, Hon. John Oliver; honorary second vice president, J. E. Thompson, M. P.; president, Robert Campbell; vice-president, Arthur Webster; treasurer, E. C. Hennige; secretary, C. V. Meggitt; executive, Ed Fitzpatrick, Barry Logan, John Donaldson, Pete Hansen, F. J. Miller and G. A. Evans.

Considering the fact that there is no special political excitement at present, the attendance was good. The retiring and incoming officers made excellent speeches, predicting a bright future for Liberalism both in this province and in other provinces of the Dominion.

C. V. Meggitt gave a report of his attendance at the meeting of the Yale Federal Liberal association in Kelowna.

SILVER MEMORIAL CROSSES TO NEXT OF KIN.

The issue of these memorial crosses to relatives of soldiers who died while serving with the Canadian forces will be made from the rolls in possession of the militia department at Ottawa. No application is necessary to be made.

These memorial crosses will also be issued to relatives of Canadian personnel who died while serving with the imperial or allied forces. In the latter case applications are necessary, and such applications must be accompanied by the under-mentioned documents.

1. Should the soldier have died while serving: The original certificate of death issued by the government concerned.

2. Should death have occurred subsequent to discharge: A discharge certificate issued by the government concerned.

3. A statutory declaration: To the effect that the deceased soldier was resident in Canada on the 4th August, 1914; as to the relationship of the applicant to the deceased soldier.

The crosses with respect to deceased members of the naval service will be issued by the department of the naval service.

Out of 100 average healthy men at 25 years of age, statistics prove that at 65 years, 36 will be dead, 1 will be rich, 4 wealthy, 5 still supporting themselves by work, while 54 of the 100 will be depending on friends, relatives or charity.

FRIDAY, MARCH 5, 1920

The new election act brought down by Premier Oliver in the local house last week is a vast improvement over any election law that has heretofore been in force in this province. If it is enacted into law and enforced it will do much to purify our elections in future. The bill to license real estate dealers is also a measure that has long been needed in British Columbia. Irresponsible real estate peddlers have done incalculable damage not only to our own province but to other sections of the Dominion. We hope their day is drawing to a close.

The deplorable increase in the cost of living is that, instead of being a deterrent, it may even be a direct incentive to extravagance. This is so, because if a man desires to buy anything he may reflect that it is probably better to buy it immediately than defer till the price goes up. To put it in another way; if money is worth 6 per cent, then $100 will amount to $106 at the end of twelve months. But if the purchasing power of the dollar decreases by 6 per cent during the same period, the investor is no better off at the end of the year than at the beginning. He has lent his money for nothing. At best, he has only preserved his capital from depreciation. However, this condition should not drive us in despair to squander money on "consumption" goods, i.e., on unnecessary articles which merely minister to one's personal enjoyment. The remedy is rather to invest surplus funds in productive enterprises. If prices rise, the increase may be compensated by appreciation in the value of the property and of the goods produced. Moreover, greater production will tend to overtake the present scarcity and thus stabilize the price level.

At the end of 1919, according to Lloyd's Register, the English authority, there were building 7,650,949 tons of steam shipping. Of that amount 2,985,140 tons were building in the United Kingdom, and 2,846,782 in the United States. The general impression has been that the tonnage building in America was larger than that in Great Britain. It is certain that in the last years of the war the American contribution to the merchant marine of the world was much larger than that of any other country.

Cuba has increased its acreage of sugar cane and almost doubled its output of sugar since the beginning of the war. It is now estimated that this year's crop will yield 4,500,000 tons of sugar, which, at 12 cents a pound, is worth more than $1,000,000,000. It all comes from an area no larger than the state of New Jersey, and from a country the entire population which is less than half as large as that of New York city.

"I have a baby girl that I do not want to chloroform, give away or exchange for a dog," runs an advertisement. "If there is anyone in Houston who will rent us two or more furnished rooms, please address 130 D, care Post." It is a humorous advertisement, but too often the predicament that led up to it is anything but humorous.

Talking With Mars

"HELLO, MARS! Yes, this is the earth—The Sun Man of Grand Forks speaking. "Yes, I casually mentioned the game of ping-pong last week. You have never heard of it, and you want to know what it is like? Oh, that was a silly but inoffensive game played indoors about fifty years ago by people who were too indolent to become athletes but immodest enough to wish to pose as sports. It is not worth talking about.

"Here! What in Mars are you trying to do at your end of the line—raise a riot? I received a shock that nearly knocked into another province. Oh, the same thing happened at your end? Must have been one of your deporting airships that crossed our sound wave, you say? Quite likely. And what or whom do you deport, and where do you send it, him or they? Radicals! The hot-headed variety is deported to a cold planet, and the cool, plotting cusses are sent to superheated planets like Mercury and Venus? Well, you may be wiser than we are, but we are more humane. Here on earth we allow that kind of people to plot and riot until that kind of sport becomes unbearable. Then we give a few shiploads of them a free ride to their native land, and some other country sends a few shiploads of our own back home; and so it goes on among all the nations. In the end each country, after spending vast sums of money for transportation expenses, has about as many of these undesirables as it had before. The wise thing to do, it seems to me, would be either to chloroform them or to load them onto the tail of a comet and tell them to keep on traveling. Your plan may be an improvement on ours—but imagine how the decent inhabitants of the other planets must suffer! You are merely shifting a grave responsibility.

"No, we have had no big war since the Great War. One scrap of that magnitude usually satisfies this world for four or five generations. The soldier in that war fared about the same as he has in any other wars. While he was in the field he was praised, petted and lauded as a hero, but after the fighting had ceased and he had been home for a while the slacker for whom he fought began to jostle him off the sidewalk—and the most conspicuous slacker did most of the jostling. That is the way it always happens, and that is why the world has to raise a new crop of soldiers between each big war. That was a remarkable war in a number of respects. For one thing, it required a longer time to frame the peace treaties than it did to vanquish the enemy. Although it is now about fifty years since the armistice was signed, the United States is still technically at war with Germany. This is supposed to be the longest technical war on record. The United States was noted for breaking records.

"While I think of it, Mr. Mars, I want to cancel that order for two dozen cases of Two-Moon Martian whiskey. I received a carload from Alberta yesterday, and if the police commissioners see too much of the wet goods being unloaded at my office they might suspect me of being engaged in bootlegging."

The young Turks seem to know and practice all the old tricks.

The shortage of sugar does not appear to have reached the candy manufacturer.

One gets the idea that the world is largely made up of two kinds of people—those who are on strike and those who are recovering from breakdowns due to overwork.

Somewhere in the cosmic machinery there is a hitch, and the millennial dawn is delayed. Possibly some comet riding syndicalist has thrown star sand into the gear boxes.

There were nineteen applicants for the position of city teamster at the council meeting in Grand Forks Monday night. The price for which the service was offered ranged from $50 to $90.

When your name, business and location go into print, of any kind, you are liable to be known the world over. Last winter when the famous London printer and publisher, Waterlow, was in the Boundary, he took some snapshot land views near Phoenix. In an article in a London magazine, telling of the wonders of this region appears one of the kodak pictures taken by Mr. Waterlow. On one of the large trees appearing in the picture is a sign which reads as follows: "You are dead a long time, but while you live you should buy your furniture of J. W. Jones, Grand Forks." For relating this incident we shall only charge Mr. Jones $5, though an ad. in the Evening Sun will do him more good than if it was printed in the London magazine.

A Big Newspaper Bargain

The Prince of Wales has captured the hearts of all Canada. Rich and poor, old and young, are enraptured with his easy manner and happy expression. He is so different to what many expected.

No wonder a great demand has been created for a real life-like portrait of our popular future king. Photographers and artists have failed to secure a satisfactory snap-shot of the royal visitor. He was not here to pose for them. It remained for The Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal to secure a portrait that would be satisfactory, and they have succeeded. Just before leaving for Canada the prince gave a special sitting to the celebrated London, England, photographer, VanDyke. The agents of The Family Herald were instructed to secure the right to reproduce it in Canada, and that great weekly is now offering it to its readers.

The Sun has succeeded in making an arrangement with The Family Herald and Weekly Star by which our readers may have The Sun, The Family Herald and Weekly Star for one year and a copy of the portrait for $2.25. The demand for this portrait in Canada will be enormous, and we advise our readers to take advantage of this opportunity without delay.
