"PORT ARTHUR" is too English for the Russians, and a movement has been started in St. Petersburg to change the name to Port Nicholas. We suggest Port Katoff as more appriate appellation. Our war corresponded informs us that katoff means cat in the king's English. And a cat has nine lives. We claim the gold medal offered by the czar to the person suggesting most euphonious and appropriate name.

body of the villain nailed fast to the blazing ruins by the faithful liver-pad. There is another point to which I would like to draw attention. And that is the way in which inanimate objects are neglected. We have dogs, geese, chickens and poultry in melodrama. But that is all. I was once acquainted with a gentleman who played a cake of ice in the river scene in "Uncle Tom's Cabin." And the barrel in "Panjandrum" was a most lovable personage off the stage. Many friends of mine have also formed part of the "hoarse gathering murmur" which always arises in the wings when the hero is getting into a remark- bly tight place. But these were not strictly inanimate objects. They drew salaries, and wore red necktles on Sundays. What we need is a further extension of the drama from the farmyard to the grocery counter, and the hardware store. And we shall get it. We shall yet see a drama in which the leading comedy part is played by a tin of canned salmon and the heroine is saved from the villain's clutches by a barrel of patent glue. And why should we not? There are many comedians now on the stage who would compare unfavorably from an intellectual standpoint with a tin of canned salmon. And there are heroes beside whose personal charms a barrel of glue would shine as a paragon of pulchritude. A tin of canned salmon would, prove far more useful to the heroine when she is lost on the sandy desert, or affoat on the lonely raft in mid-ocean, than a comic Irishman with a Coney Island brogue. If she did not care to tackle it herself she could feed it to the villain and tie him up in so many knots that it would take a traction engine to straighten him out. And the dramatic possibilities of a barrel of glue are simply lilmitable. She could use it for sticking to everything from the angel cheelid to, the papers proving her to be rightful heiress to the old baronial home. When the villain sprang upon her, hissing out "At last I have you in my powert-r-ri" she could paste him to the affacent rocks by the slack of their loose trouser

The Paris police have prepared a picture-book for the use of travelers who lose things which, because of unfamiliarity with the language, they cannot describe. It contains representations of all kinds of articles, from keys to purses, and the enquirer, after missing valuables, has only to turn the leaves and point at the picture that most resembles his property. But the system has its limitations. Unfortunately it cannot picture a temper, which is the article now most frequently lost by visitors to a foreign city who do not know the language of the country.

In Prince Edward Island there is a

the country.

In Prince Edward Island there is a striking example of that longevity which is characteristic of so many parts of Canada. At Tignish, in that island, live an old couple, Mr. and Mrs. Colo Poirier by name, who have been married over 70 years, and now have 201 descendants. Seven of their children are alive and with their large families, reside within a few miles of their parents. At present Mr. and Mrs. Poirier are the proud greatgreat-grandparents of nine young children, and a short time ago the five generations of this family were all gathered together, which must surely constitute a record. To show what a healthy and prolific family this is it may be stated that the eldest son, aged us, he had 14 children, 51 grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

...FOR ONLY...

$2.25 PER YEAR

A radical change from old methods and prices has been made by the Toronto Daily News. The eyes of the newspyper world have been upon The News for the past few months, during which time several departures have been made which have given that paper a widespread reputation for enterprise and originality. This latest move is to place The News at the price of $1.00 a year by mail. Only a deep-founded belief in the future success of The News could lead the publishers to make such a reduction in price. But just as the dollar magazine has taken hold of the people, so, we venture to predict, The News will secure a vast and ever-increasing circulation, based not only on the popular price at which it is sold, but mainly upon the intrinsic merits of he paper.

We have arrangements concluded which enables us to club the Toronto New's with our own paper at $2.25 a year in advance. Such a combination presents many unique features—our semi-weekly giving you all the home and district news, and the big 12-page daily keeping you in touch with events all over the world. #### The Race That Failed

James J. Hill, the railway president, began his connection with the transportation business through steamboating, but he soon deserted it for sailroading, says the Saturday Evening Post. The road which he has since made so widely known was at that time considered the slowest in the country. Mr. Hill listened good naturedly to the fun that was naturally poked at his road and worked the harder to improve it.

Meeting Mr. Hill one day on the street in St. Paul, "Diamond Joe" Reynolds, of upper river steamboat fame, said:

"Jim, I'll match one of my steamboats against one of your trains in a fair race for $500 a side."

"Well, I don't know," hesitated Mr. Hill; "some of your boats are pretty fast."

"Come, I'll race you up stream," urged Reynolds-

"Oh, thunder!" returned Mr. Hill in a disgusted tone; "if you're going to stick to the river then you might as well drop the notion of a race. I thought you meant you'd bring your boat out on the prairie alongside the track and give me some show."
