Grand Forks Eagles Have a Big Installation and Spread.

The Prosecution Failing to Produce Any Evidence, the Storey Case Is Dismissed---Why Smith and Other Grand Forks People Left Home.

The local aerie of the Fraternal Order of Eagles held an installation in their new hall in the Addison block last Monday night. Thirty-one new members were initiated, bringing the total membership of the aerie up to over 75. President Royer occupied the chair, and disposed of the evening's business in a credi'able manner. A number of outside aeries were represented, including Republic and Danville, Wash. After the installation and other routine business had been concluded, an adjournment was taken to the banqueting room, where a splendid spread awaited them, and which proved to be the climax of the evening's program. The feasting was interspersed with songs, music and witty stories until the early hours of the morning. After voting it one of the most pleasant gatherings of the Grand Forks Aerie, the entertainment was brought to a close.

H. N. Storey, late night operator at the C. P. R. station in this city, who was charged by the Dominion Express company of stealing seven suits of clothes and a quantity of cigars from their storeroom at the depot, was up before Police Magistrate Cochrane Wednesday afternoon. The prosecution failed to produce any evidence, and magistrate dismissed the case and released the accused, returning to him the cash bail wnich he had put up. E. Miller appeared for Storey.

The Ladies of the Maccabees entertained the members of the local hive and their friends at their lodge rooms in the Chapple block on Wednesday evening last. A very enjoyable time was spent, progressive whist being the favorite pastime. Mrs. Geo. Chapple succeeded in carrying off the first prize for ladies, and W. H. Creitz was the winner of the first prize for gentlemen. A dainty supper was served in the banqueting room, after which the evening's entertainment was bronght to a close. The ladies of the Grand Forks Hive are to be congratulated on the splendid success of the party.

Mr. C. P. Walker's comedy organization, which has just completed a successful tour to the Pacific coast, is now on its way back east, and will be here on Tuesday, March 1st. On this occasion the company will present another of Mr. Geo. H. Broadhurst's farce comedies, entitled "Why Smith Left Home." It is racy, fun-poking at the really serious servant girl problem, and in addition it places an interesting lot of men and women in predicaments that excite honest laughter and roars of applause. The story of "Why Smith Left Home" treats with the determination of the newly married Smiths to pass their honeymoon at home instead of taking the usual trip abroad, of the disturbing arrival of a domineering relative, and then of the coming of another pair of newly married ones, which is still more inconvenient, and of the final desperate resolve of the Smiths to leave home in order to secure peace and quiet. It is a charming comedy, free from vulgarity, clean and most wholesome.

A court of revision and appeal, under the provisions of the new Assessment Act, will be held at the court house in this city on the 7th day of March, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, for the purpose of hearing the appeals of those who have notified the Rossland Assessment division that they are over-assessed.

Repnblic potatoes must be highly prized in St. Louis, as a carload was shipped from the former to the latter city a few days ago, and another car will soon follow. They are not for exhibition purposes either, but for consumption, as potatoes are very scarce in the Mound city.

If Japan and Russia had seen the expert shooting done by "Put" when he took the dog across the river yesterday to annihilate him, they would both want him—in the enemy's ranks. The dog is running around making goo-goo eyes at him yet.

Chief McMillan returned yesterday from New Westminster, where he had been with Frank Hagan, the man who recently became insane and was sent to the asylum.

The two little Disney girls, who were so badly injured last Monday afternoon in a runaway accident, are doing as well as could be expected under the circumstances. They will be laid up for some time, but both will recover.

Henry Henrikson, a Phoenix miner, was taken to the hospital in that camp last week, suffering from pneumonia. He was seriously ill, and grew steadily worse, expiring last Sunday. The funeral was held on Wednesday, interment being in the Phoenix cemetery. Henrikson had been a resident of the camp on and off for three years, being employed at the Granby mines just before his death. A year ago he made a visit to his old home in Sweden. ## Phoenix Men Secure Half Interest in Promising Property

Supplies and a Force of Men Are Now on the Ground and Active Development Has Already Been Started. Near the Oro Denoro.

G. W. Rumberger and Thomas Roderick, of Phoenix, have completed a deal which means the active development of a most promising group of claims in Summit camp. They have purchased a one-half interest in the Summit, Hopeful and Mayflower claims for a substantial cash consideration, which has not been made public. The interest was sold by A. D. Hallett, of Greenwood, executor for the estate of the late Archie Connor, who lost his life some months ago by being accidentally crushed in the Emma mine ore bins. The other half interest in the group is owned by Dougald McInnis, the Grand Forks rancher, he having purchased it some two years ago from W. A. Corbett, one of the original prospectors of Summit camp. Since then considerable work has been done on the properties, amounting to more than $2000 in value. As soon as the transfer was completed Mr. Roderick at once proceeded to the group with supplies and a force of men, and has started active operations. The Summit group is located near the Oro Denoro, the ore being of much the same character. Up to the present most of the work has been done on the Summit claim, where the 75-foot tunnel is now being extended, with the face all in ore. Considerable surface prospecting has also been done on the group, uncovering a large ledge of ore. The permanent line of the Great Northern railway survey, from Grand Forks to Phoenix, runs close to the Summit group, so that adequate transportation facilities will be provided as soon as needed.

* * *

Arrangements, it is said, are being made for the incorporating of a company to operate the Hope claim, owned by David Oxley, in Wellington camp. The Hope almost adjoins the Athelstan, and the ore is said to be of a similar character.

* * *

The shipment of high grade silver ore being made from the Sally, on the West Fork of Kettle river, will amount to about three cars. The ore will be sent to the Trail smelter.

THE EVENING SUN,
PHONE 55. GRAND FORKS, B. C.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 26 1904

IT is about time that Grand Forks took some steps looking towards the erection of a general hospital. There is no apparent reason why this city should not be as well able to build, equip and maintain one as either Phoenix or Greenwood. Here we have the Granby smelter, where upwards of 400 men are employed, and also a centralization of railway interests, which will increase in importance as time goes on. In case of accidents or sudden sickness the city is more easily reached than any other point in the Boundary. It is the centre of a vast area, including many miles of American territory. To cite an instance. Last Saturday a serious shooting affray occurred at Orient, Wash., about fifteen miles south of Laurier. The victim was brought to this city. On his arrival here he was refused admission to a private hospital because he did not have enough money to pay for two weeks' expenses in advance. Suffering agony from a bullet wound, he was driven around the town until a party was found who guaranteed that the money would be paid, when he was admitted. Some steps should be taken immediately to get a general hospital started at once. The city would assist the project, as would also the provincial government.

As far as we can make out, the city audit, which is causing such a tempest in a teapot in the council at present, is only a matter of a difference of opinion as the way in which the financial statement should be made out. It appears to be a case of different auditors having different methods of reaching the same conclusions. By either process the grand totals come out the same, and the city is neither richer nor poorer.

CIVIC affairs, which for a time threatened to cause quite a commotion, have settled down to their normal state again. Everything is now in exactly the same condition as when the new council took office last month, with the exception of the police department. The knowing ones say that that will soon be settled, also.

THERE should be a prize offered the newspaper making the closest guess as to the real happenings in the Jap-Russian war. If the trophy was a valuable one, we might be able to get some reliable information from the far east.

IT is to be presumed that the alderman who would like to see a new city audit made, does not speak from the standpoint of municipal economy.

THE PILLORY OF JUSTICE

To the Editor of The Evening Sun.

I beg to draw attention to what seems to many and is regarded as a reflection upon the concrete subject of justice. It is well known that within a few days a warrant was issued for the arrest of T. W. Holland, who had long ago departed the city, but who was supposed to be returning thereto or therethrough. It is the invariable custom where the offender is to be landed, if the expression may be used, to confine all knowledge of the fact to the informant, the magistrate and the police, and this for obvious reasons. This practice was seemingly well adhered to in the case of young Storey. The question arises: From whom did Mr. Holland receive information that a warraut had been issued against him? How came the facts to leak out, thereby enabling him to escape in the dramatic way he did. Until the facts are known, it is only right to suspend judgment. Is there anything in this case to confirm the saying of Solon: "Laws are like spiders' webs which will catch, it is true, the weak and the poor, but easily be broken by the mighty and rich." In which category was young Storey placed and in which was Holland? Furthermore, the alledged offense of Storey was loudly proclaimed by the newsgatherers, but although those exponents of public happenings well knew of the other case, yet nothing was said. What right had the newspapers, with glaring headlines, to thus place the one before the cruel notice of the public, while by silence shielding the more grievous charge and the well carried out plan to escape an investigation? Storey might have resisted an enquiry, but he showed at least the courage to return across the boundary line and face his accusers.

LEX.

[It is quite apparent that Lex has been reading THE SUN rather laxly of late. If he had paid closer attention to its news columns, he could not have failed to see an account of Mr. Holland's serio-comic escape. If that gentleman had been captured, the incident would doubtless have warranted glaring headlines. THE SUN has to pay a special city license tax for the privilege of printing all the news, and we work this privilege to the limit.—ED. SUN.]

J. Pierpont Morgan makes his boast that he never has been interviewed, and declares that in the last seven years but one interviewer ever has been able to approach him. This was on a recent trip to Europe, when a representative of the London "Times" would not take "No" for his answer. "Tell the 'Times' man my time is worth ten pounds a minute," at last said Morgan. "The 'Times' man says he'll take two minutes at that," came back the reply. The interviewer handed Mr. Morgan twenty pounds, talked just two minutes by both their watches, did all the talking himself, and rose to go on the instant. "Why did you want to see me?" Morgan asked in curiosity. "Oh, I wagered one hundred pounds that I would interview you personally, that's all," was his reply. Morgan congratulated him on his enterprise, and dismissed him within the third minute of his call. When asked, the other day, if he kept the twenty pounds, Morgan said: "Yes, and I haven't earned money in a long time that gave me the satisfaction that twenty pounds did."

In our jewelry store we have a special department "fenced off," so to speak, from the main show room. In charge of this is an expert workman—a mechanic, a genius. We never charge for examinations, and all work left in our shop will be fixed in a thorough, workmanlike manner, will be DONE ON TIME it is promised, and the price will be reasonable, satisfactory. ## Curious Bits of News.

In London on New Year's Day, a burglar, having carried off five thousand pounds' worth of jewelry, all the silver, and a large sum in ready money, pinned a note on the hearth-rug wishing its rightful owners "Many happy returns of the day."

The London "Chronicle" quotes a naval officer as saying that during the War of 1812 the British Admiralty sent out to Kingston (Ont.), where the British fleet was then stationed, a large number of water-casks, in the belief that Lake Ontario was a salt water lake.

A coal-hod in the window of a New York clothier is filled with bills and coin, in which is thrust a coal shovel. Beside it is a small stove, so arranged with a red incandescent light that it appears to contain a brisk fire. Near them is the legend: "We are just burning money on these $12 suits, but we need the room, and they must be moved by February 1."

In an article on "Life in Labrador" in "Blackwood's Magazine," Mr. W. T. Grenfell vouches for the following: "A friend who had a young live black bear as a pet buried it in November in a barrel under the snow. Twice he dug it up in the winter, but it showed no signs of wishing to move, so he permitted it to sleep on till May."

Odors as an assistance to diagnosis is a new branch of medical science. The "Medical Record" is authority for the statement that the odor of new mown hay is an indication of pyaemia, typhus is indicated by an ammoniac smell, jaundice by a musky one, yellow fever by the odor of a gun-barrel, hysteria by a suggestion of violets or pineapples, intermittent fever by the smell of fresh-baked brown bread, and measles by one like fresh-picked feathers. It seems somewhat incongruous that the smell of the plague resembles honey.

The newest of queer religious sects is the "Association of Christian Brethren," which, according to the New York "Sun," is "sailing down the Mississippi in a modern imitation of the Ark to tell people that the millennium is surely coming in 1911." "Megiddo" is the name of the boat, and nearly one hundred persons, men, women and children, are aboard of her. The president of the sect is L. T. Nichols of Minneapolis, and he launched his craft at the end of November. He holds himself mainly responsible for the support of his followers, who are planning to live on the "Megiddo" until the day of the millennium.

Men sometimes dream of enormous wealth stored deep in the earth, below the reach of miners, but according to the statements of Professor C. R. Van Hise at the Denver meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, there is little or no ground to believe that valuable metallic deposits lie very deep in the earth's crust. Such deposits, he said, are made by underground waters, and owing to the pressure on the rocks at great depths, the waters are confined to a shell near the surface. With few exceptions, ore deposits become too lean to repay working below 3,000 feet. Nine mines in ten, taking the world as a whole, are poorer in the second thousand feet than in the first thousand, and poorer yet in the third thousand than in the second.

An article in "Ainslee's Magazine" contains this passage: "The world has never seen, and in no other part of the world is there now to be seen anything like America's jewel-madness as shown by the conditions of to-day, when more than three hundred New York establishments are engaged solely in the importation of precious stones, when agents of American dealers are searching Europe for the white gem and hopelessly endeavoring to supply American appeals for rubies and emeralds, and when six thousand men in South Africa are toiling to obtain diamonds more than half of which are to add to the beauty and happiness of the American woman. It is she that has caused the United States to become the greatest diamond market in the world. For her we have imported in a single year $20,000,000 worth of precious stones; for her, at one period we smuggled them in at the rate of $7,000,000 a year; for her we annually buy something like $12,000,000 worth of diamonds, and thus for her sake, heartlessly leave, of the world's total output of diamonds, only some $8,000,000 worth to satisfy the vanity of all the rest of the women on earth."

Sweetness Long Drawn Out.

A business man of whom the "Youth's Companion" tells declares that the average stenographer will not learn to spell correctly until the millennium comes. In support of his opinion he relates his experience with a young woman whose spelling, as he describes it, had an "engaging originality," but who was so amiable and even-tempered that he seldom found heart to rebuke her.

One day she appeared before him with a neatly written letter for a Southern correspondent. He hastily looked it over.

"See here," he said, "you've spelled sugar s-u-g-g-a-r."

The young woman looked at it a moment critically, and then her face brightened as she replied:

"So I have. How careless of me! I don't see how I came to leave out the 'h.'"

Christmas Unmasked.

In modern London, the Christmas spirit is not, I maintain, a spontaneous spirit from within yourselves, but a spirit which Dickens foisted into you. For Christmas itself you have no real sentiment; but you continue to keep it, cannot help keeping it, for Dickens' sake, in the regulation way. It is a mere literary survival.—Max Beerbohm in "Pall Mall Magazine."

Just what you want
Just when you want it

GOOD SERVICE is composed of two elements—excellence of the work and promptness in the execution. Bad work executed promptly is not good service—good work delivered behind time is not good service; but the two combine to make one of the most necessary, but hardest to obtain and often most expensive, requirements of the twentieth century business man. That we have learned the lesson in theory we have shown. Our customers will testify that we have also learned it in practice.

$2.25 PER YEAR

A radical change from old methods and prices has been made by the Toronto Daily News. The eyes of the newspvper world have been upon The News for the past few months, during which time several departures have been made which have given that paper a widespread reputation for enterprise and originality. This latest move is to place The News at the price of $1.00 a year by mail. Only a deep-founded belief in the future success of The News could lead the publishers to make such a reduction in price. But just as the dollar magazine has taken hold of the people, so, we venture to predict, The News will secure a vast and ever-increasing circulation, based not only on the popular price at which it is sold, but mainly upon the intrinsic merits of he paper.

We have arrangements concluded which enables us to club the Toronto News with our own paper at $2.25 a year in advance. Such a combination presents many unique features —our semi-weekly giving you all the home and district news, and the big 12-page daily keeping you in touch with events all over the world. Send us your subscription to The News, or if you would like to see the paper first, write us and we will secure a sample copy.

Something New in Hotels.

To whom it may concern: We b[e]ave to call your attention to the fo[l]wing novel features of the unrivale[d] p-to-date society hotel, which the u[n]ersigned propose to build, if sufficien[t] encouragement is forthcoming:

The architecture will be a combin[a]tion of Queen Anne, Gothic, Moorish and several extinct styles, the purpo[se] being to secure adequate corners for co[n]venient exclusive gossip; also, as far a[s] possible, giving a private entrance t[o] each guest. All rooms will face fron[t]. This arrangement will prove a conve[n]ience to young people in the evening particularly as the management guaran[t]ees that the electric light connection will be out of order at least twice a week.

Each room will be furnished with ou[r] specially patented "vitalometer," sup[p]lying sea air or mountain air of any altitude on demand. If desired, the rooms will be fitted with movable scenery painted to order by two Royal Academicians to be especially imported for the purpose.

The dividing walls of the rooms will be of papier-mache, and sounding-boards will be introduced when requested by hard-hearing neighbors.

Electric calls in every room will connect with clergymen of all denominations, and guests will press the button should they require their services day or night. Discreet witnesses supplied on application.

Chinese, French, Italian and German chefs will have charge of the cuisine on alternate days, thus ensuring a genuine international dyspepsia.

Our bell-boys will be mutes, our chambermaids will be blind, our coachmen will be deaf, telephone operators will be discharged twice daily, and every other effort will be made to secure privacy.

Our mosquitoes will be hand-fed with Agamomermis Culicus. These and other undesirable insects will not be permitted on the premises.

A special chamber will be fitted with Gatling guns, electrocution chairs, and other suicidal conveniences.

Arrangements will be made for a satisfactory time-table, and affidavits that trains left ahead of schedule time will be issued to married men on payment of the notary fee.

Rooms may be reserved now. Address all communications to the Up-to-Date Hotel Company.—"Town Topics."

Football Tactics in the Ballroom.

The American Society of Professors of Dancing, which recently met in New York, has decreed that football tactics on the ballroom floor must stop. There must be no more "Yale glides," nor "Harvard dips," nor distorted attempts to tread a measure in two-four time when the music calls for three beats in a bar. The dancing of the two-step to waltz time and the grotesque positions assumed by the dancers are evils attributed to the college fads that have vitiated the public taste. "Some of these students" said one professor, "invent a series of Simian contortions and football tactics and give it a college name, and the public thinks it is all right because the college men do it. Now, we want to stop all this, and bring dancing back to the old style of graceful carriage that enabled the dancers to express the beauty of motion to music. A majority of the people now seem to dance a two-step to waltz music. This is not right. The two-step is easier to teach, as it is in common time, and dancing it to waltz music is not a correct movement." Attention was also drawn to the neglect in the large cities of the old square dances, which are still taught in the smaller cities.

Out of the Province.

A soap-maker and a banker were at a Wagner concert, says the "Christian Register." The programme did not please them, and they began to talk.

"Every man," said the banker, "wants to do something outside of his own work."

"Yes," answered the soap-maker "I manufacture good soap, and yet I've always wanted to be a banker."

"You wouldn't be a good one. I am a successful banker, but I always wanted to write a book. And now here's this man Wagner tries his hand at music. Just listen to the stuff! And yet we all know he builds good parlor-cars."
