

COUNCIL MEETINGTwo By-Laws Introduced and Passed First and Second Readings*Donations Solicited for Reading Room and Tuberculosis Sanitorium

The regular bi-weekly meeting of the city council was held in the council chambers at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, Mayor Hammar, Ald. Donaldson, McCallum, McIntosh and Woodland being present.

A communication from T. P. O'Farrell stated that a first-class map of the city, drawn on a proper scale, and showing all the water mains, hydrants, electric light lines, etc., would cost about $350. The matter was laid on the table until some future date.

A telegram from the city solicitor, who is now in Victoria, stated that he had taken up the matter of school grants with the government.

A communication from the Grand Forks band asked for an appropriation of $125 for uniforms for the members. The letter stated that the band intended to give one or two weekly open-air concerts during the coming summer. On motion of Ald. Woodland and Donaldson, the request was granted.

James McArdle and other property owners on upper Third street petitioned the council to have that portion of the street graded. The matter was left to the discretion of the board of works.

Wall & Creelman asked for an extension of two weeks' time in which to complete the Fourth street traffic bridge, as the railways had been very slow in delivering the material. Granted.

A letter from Supt. Wilson, of the C. P. R., informed the council that the city had not obtained permission from the railway commissioners to stretch the fire alarm wires across the C.P.R. tracks, and that unless such permission was obtained within three months said wires would be cut down. The clerk was instructed to communicate with the commissioners on the subject.

Dr. Kingston stated that the provincial health officer had requested him to attend the present meeting and explain the objects of anti-tuberculosis society, and endeavor to secure some aid from the city for the proposed provincial sanitorium. The doctor treated the subject quite exhaustively. No section of the country was immune from the disease. There were 2000 deaths annually from tuberculosis in the Dominion, and 200 in this province. The only scientific and effective method of coping with the disease so far discovered was by the sanitorium system, which had been extensively adopted in the old country. It was proposed to build a sanitorium somewhere near Kamloops, and it was hoped that all the municipalities in the province would render some assistance towards its maintenance.

Ald. Woodland said it was a worthy cause, but he was afraid the city would not be justified in rendering much assistance for the present year. The mayor explained the city's finances, together with the large amount of public work that would have to be carried out during the present summer. The matter was finally disposed of by the council instructing the doctor to explain to Dr. Fagan the city's situation, and to tell him that for the present year at least the city would not be justified in financially aiding the institution.

Fred Clark addressed the council on behalf of the free library and reading room, stating that unless some assistance was given by the city towards the maintenance of the institution it would have to close. A provincial library consisting of 110 volumes had just arrived in the city, and this would have to be returned to Victoria if the rooms were not kept open. Ald. Donaldson thought that the beneficiaries of the reading room were better able to maintain it than the ratepayers. The mayor said the city should adopt Mr. Carnegie's plan, and compel the people who were benefited by the reading room to contribute an equal amount with the city. He suggested that the athletic association give a "smoker" to raise funds, and then the council could probably see its way clear to give an equal amount. G. M. Fripp also spoke briefly on this subject, coinciding with the views expressed by the mayor. On motion of Ald. Woodland and McCallum, a committee of two was appointed to confer with the reading room people, and to report at the next meeting. The mayor named Messrs. Woodland and McCallum as such committee.

The chairman of the water and light committee reported having received numerous complaints lately regarding the insufficiency of the water supply on account of too small mains.

The chairman of the board of works reported that the city team was at present employed for street repair work. The mayor suggested that it be put to work at once on the approach to the Fourth street bridge.

The mayor brought to the attention of the council the fact that the city water mains had been tapped in half a dozen places by the C.P.R., and that the city was receiving no revenue for the water used from these taps.

On motion of Ald. Donaldson and McCallum, the clerk was instructed to notify the C.P.R. company that the contract for water at the present rate would be terminated at the end of the present month.

Two by-laws, one providing for the closing of a portion of a street at the cemetery, and the other regulating the sale of wood, were introduced and passed their first and second readings.

The council then adjourned.

J. F. Royer, who was formerly engaged in the livery business here, was a visitor in the city last Saturday. Mr. Royer is now located at Oroville, Wash. He stated that that town is booming at present, and that the steel gang on the V., V. & E. has now nearly reached the present terminus of the grade at Keremeos. No grading contracts have yet been let west of that point.

Dr. Kingston started this week on a business trip to the coast cities.

PRUNING LESSONA Timely Article by A. McNeill, of Dominion Department of Agriculture*Method of Pruning to Best Promote the Growth of Fruit Spurs

Mr. A. McNeill, chief of the horticultural division, Dominion department of agriculture, has contributed a very interesting article to the Toronto Globe on pruning. Unfortunately it is too long for our limited space, but we quote some of the most valuable passages.

The apple spur is fruitful only for three or four years, and then drops off or bears only inferior fruit. The cherry and plum, as well as the pear, remain fruitful for many years; hence it is that the old wood, including the large branches are in these trees covered with fruit spurs. This difference in the life of the fruit spur on the pear, plum and cherry, compared with the apple, makes a marked difference in the methods of pruning these trees. Since the old wood soon becomes unfruitful in the apple trees, it is necessary to provide new wood continually; but in the case of the pear, a tree which has once attained its full size and occupies all the space that can be allowed it, may grow fruit for years with little or no addition of new wood.

The peach tree does not develop fruit spurs, but has fruit buds on one year old wood. Consequently in all methods of treating the peach tree we must remember that we cannot expect fruit except from last year's wood.

We cannot have our developed fruit buds and fruit unless there is a good growth of wood; hence we endeavor in our methods of pruning to get a healthy wood growth first, which includes the development of stems and buds that will open up into healthy leaves. In the case of fruit buds, two and two do not always make four for practical purposes. Indeed, the opposite rule more frequently applies, so that the fewer the buds the better the results obtained, within certain limits, of course. The pruner's art consists in selecting the best fruit buds and giving them the best chance in the struggle for existence.

How much we should cut away depends upon the balance between the root system, light, air and plant food at our disposal. The wounds made by pruning, if properly protected from decay by paint or other material, are not at all harmful to the tree. If the tree has been neglected for a number of years, it would be poor policy indeed to cut all the limbs away at once that might be judiciously spared in the course of time. The limbs and trunk developed under conditions of dense shade should not be deprived of this shade too suddenly, as there would be great danger of sun scald. Speaking generally, the tendency is to leave too much wood, even where the pruning is done fairly well from the start.

What can be done to develop the fruit buds? It is a matter of common observation that on a tree making excessive wood growth fruit spurs, or buds, are not developed in a corresponding degree. It has been observed also that anything that checks the wood growth will develop fruit spurs. This is the theory of root pruning, girdling and growing in sod. Diminish the vigor of wood growth and nature makes an effort to perpetuate herself through the fruit. It is doubtful, however, if any of these methods are to be recommended upon commercial grounds. Every species of tree has its period of maturity. It is possible for some such methods as have been indicated to throw it into fruit before this period of maturity is reached, but only at the expense of the vitality of the tree.

There is another method that has shown good results. If the terminal bud of a fast-growing shoot be cut off, the effect is to develop all the remaining buds to a greater or less degree. The upper buds will shoot forward with a wood growth. Those lower down will often develop fruit spurs. This work should be done about the middle of the growing season. Cutting away in the spring one-half or two-thirds of the previous year's growth is good practice where there is excessive wood growth. It increases the tendency to develop fruit spurs, and brings the bearing wood nearer the stem of the tree. We do not expect a young apple tree or pear tree growing naturally to bear fruit for a number of years. During these years it is making a large wood growth, and pushing far out from the stem the wood upon which fruit spurs will be formed when the tree reaches maturity. By judicious cutting back of new growth each year while the tree is young, there will be new wood formed, ready for fruit spurs when the time for bearing has arrived. This treatment will prevent long branches bare of fruit spurs, so common in young and vigorous orchards.

Heavy pruning tends to promote wood growth, showing clearly that pruning is not detrimental to the health of trees, but as wood is only desired inasmuch as we can make it produce fruit, we may sometimes be disappointed in not getting fruit the first year after pruning a neglected orchard, because the growth has gone to wood rather than to fruit spurs, but a balance will be produced so that in the second or following year a crop will be produced which will amply reward the labors of the pruner.

It is sometimes said that we must prune in winter for wood and in summer for fruit. This is only partly true. Winter pruning should be the rule, as more work can be done in a given time. It is not so busy a season, and I have yet to learn of any serious damage resulting from pruning in the late winter. It is true, however, that summer pruning, or rather the stopping of fast-growing shoots during the month of June, has a marked tendency to develop fruit buds lower down the branch; but economic considerations must always prevent much of this work being done in the apple orchard, as the cost of doing the work will more than offset the benefit of it.

Greenwood has been detached from the Grand Forks customs district, and has been designated a port of entry, instead of being a sub-port tributary to this city. Midway, Bridesville, Sidley, Osoyoos and Keremeos will likely be sub-ports of Greenwood hereafter. The change will make no difference in the number of men employed in the service in this city.

STRIKE IS CERTAINNotice Demanding Change in Wages and Hours Served on Companies*President Sherman Says Trades Disputes Bill Only Pastpones Struggle

CALGARY, April 3.—The following notice, signed by Sherman, Patterson and McDonald, officers of the district board, U. M. W. of A., and all delegates of the miners attending the recent conference, was handed to S. F. Little, as secretary of the operators' association last night:

"To the Western Coal Operators' association, comprising the Crow's Nest Coal company, the International Coal & Coke company, the West Canadian Collieries, Ltd., the Canadian-American Coal & Coke company, Ltd., the Breckenridge-Lund Coal & Coke company, the H. W. Neill Coal company and the Pacific Coal company, Ltd.:

"We, the undersigned, acting on behalf of your employees, hereby give you thirty days' notice that a change of wages, hours and conditions of labor is demanded by your employees at the various mines, coke ovens and outside plants owned and controlled by your respective companies."

All delegates to the convention have now left the city except two operators, who leave today. Sherman and Galvin have gone to the lockout at Taber. Sherman still says there will be a strike at the end of thirty days if no agreement is arrived at—trades' disputes bill or not. He says the bill only puts off the evil day for a month or so. A strike is absolutely certain. Already he has hard work to keep the men in the large camps from stopping work, as no agreement was formed. It is problematical how long he can hold them.

The Bellevue mines at Blairmore are reported working again today.

Taber is still locked out.

On Tuesday, the day previous to the date of the above dispatch, the labor situation in the Southeast Kootenay coal fields appeared to be brighter than it had been for weeks, and the possibility of a strike, with its accompanying derangement of industrial conditions, seemed quite remote. In Fernie notices were posted in prominent places instructing the men to remain at work, and informing them that the new agreement, when effected, would date from April 1st. These instructions were issued by District President Sherman. This news of the prospect of an early settlement of all differences between the coal operators and miners, and the expectation of the ratification of a satisfactory and lasting agreement, was hailed with delight by the people of this section of the province, where our leading industry is wholly dependant on an adequate coke supply. But our joy was doomed to be short lived. However, some fortunate combination of events may yet intervene to avert the impending struggle.

In the Dominion house at Ottawa Tuesday afternoon Premier Laurier announced that Hon. H. R. Emmerson had placed his resignation in his hands and that he had recommended the governor-general to accept the proffer. In connection with this statement was coupled an unqualified denial on the minister's part of the charges of personal misconduct made against him in the Fredericton Gleaner last week. In his resignation Mr. Emmerson declares that he desires to be relieved from cabinet duties so that he may better vindicate his character, and that no obstacle may be imposed on Sir Wilfrid Laurier's departure this week for the colonial conference.

Premier McBride will leave Victoria in a few days for London, the object of his visit being, it is reported, to lay before the imperial parliament the question of better terms for British Columbia. The provincial government appears to be determined to make a farce out of a very serious question.

People who have contracted the chronic habit of growling at the timidity of spring in this valley, should remember that in many parts of the Dominion below zero weather still exists.

There is every indication that the agricultural and fruit lands of the Kettle valley will attract a rush of settlers to this section during the coming summer, as every real estate dealer in the reports numerous enquiries from outside parties.

The trout fishing season opened last week, and the fish in the streams in this vicinity have already begun to wink the other eye when they see an exceedingly tempting morsel of bait.

James J. Hill has resigned the presidency of the Great Northern railway, and has been succeeded by his son, Louis Hill. Mr. Hill senior will in future be chairman of the board of directors of the road.

Shall Women Vote?

Editor Evening Sun.

Ad excellent paper has been contributed to the press on behalf of the W.C.T.U. by Mrs. J. K. Mackin, president. She strikes the right nail on the head when she says that women should have something to say about the continued existence of temptations which meet their boys at every turn after they have crossed the doorsteps of their homes, and are out of the sound of their mother's voice. She further contends that women need a vote to protect themselves; wage-earning women need it; women with property need it; women with homes and children need it. If it were necessary to show that a woman is capable and deserving of the power of administration, we need only quote the personal history of Queen Victoria. Would it not have been a little better if, at certain periods of the nineteenth century, Queen Victoria had presided over a council having the direction of affairs, composed, say of the Baroness Burdett-Coutts, Florence Nightingale, Geo. Elliot, Mrs. Booth, Lady Beaconsfield, Lady Henry Somerset and Francis Willard, and women of that type? Many men would not hesitate to consult their mothers upon important matters affecting the material welfare and moral education of their children. There are few who will not grant that women often come to a right conclusion much more rapidly than men, and the difficulty only arises when they are asked to give a reason for their conclusions. But in voting by ballot it may be safely inferred that the majority would come to a right conclusion, and they would not have to express their reasons. Women vote in our municipal affairs; then why not entrust them with the whole franchise?

It is only in a very recent period that women have been permitted to take their place in the business world. We know, only too well, how thoroughly and conscientiously they do their work, in many instances far better than men. And while I am not prepared to subscribe to the opinion that universal suffrage should be granted to all women of all classes, I certainly think that those women who have a stake in the world should have a say in the administration of affairs. And there cannot be two opinions as to the appropriateness of women becoming proficient in medical and surgical science. They should be members of school boards, and all kindred institutions. There might be some arrangement by which a woman could not be nominated for any political position unless she was recommended at a council of women of undoubted standing and influence in the community.

I am aware that this is a delicate matter, and one upon which it would be difficult to express an opinion without giving some offence, but those person who differ must grant that there is something to be said on both sides, not the least on behalf of the women.

Under the Athenian laws it was a disgrace to show any one the wrong road. "I am not presuming to direct. "Furor scribendi"

"A Jolly American Tramp" Coming

"A Jolly American Tramp" is the striking title of a new play by E. E. Kidder, the well known author who wrote "A Poor Relation" and "Peaceful Valley," which attained considerable fame. The play will be offered by the veteran manager, U. D. Newell, at the Grand Forks opera house, Saturday evening, April 13. It is a story of American life portrayed by American characters, and told in a quick, sparkling way, full of strong dramatic climaxes, brisk dialogue and brilliant comedy. The central idea concerns the defrauding of a life insurance company by a rascal named Joe Barrett. But the idea and treatment are absolutely new and original, if such things can truthfully be said in dramatic writing today. Joe Barrett insures his wife's life for $20,000, and then, by his scheming, lays claim she died. He has, however, stupefied her with powerful drugs and keeps her a close prisoner in the top garret of his house, where no one ever visits except himself. He then substitutes a body, the face of which has been destroyed, and the body is buried as his wife's, and he collects the $20,000 from the insurance company. His step-daughter, a little girl of fourteen, the child of the ill-treated wife, is away at school at this time, and knows nothing of her mother being alive, being forbidden to go upon the upper floor of the house where the victim is secreted. The suspicions of a detective named Warren Wade, connected with the insurance company, are aroused, and with the assistance of the woman's child, a little girl named Flo, and his friend Barker, and a quaint character, a tramp called Happy Jack, he discovers the unfortunate woman secreted in the attic, being treated to slow poison, and after an exciting series of adventures restores her to her daughter and friends, and metes out the proper punishment to Barrett and his accomplices, an adventuress who has agreed to marry him and fly to foreign lands with the $20,000 defrauded from the life insurance company. The character of Happy Jack played by Jim Smith, the character actor, is a most novel and quaint conceit. He is an ex-circus performer, the death of his wife and children having robbed him of all ambition until he becomes, as he expresses it, a common ordinary American tramp, one like you read of in the funny papers that is a standing joke to everyone but themselves. This interesting story is told with pleasing specialties, with wholesome comedy by Happy Jack and a comic Irishwoman named Delia Dooley, whose bright lines keep the audience in continuous good humor throughout the entire evening's entertainment.

The sun must have got stalled on the equator when he attempted to cross a cross a short time ago.

This is indeed queer weather. Both the coal man and the ice man are grumbling, and the ice cream man doesn't know what to do.

Fruit tree planting is the order of the day in this vicinity at present. It is one consolation to know that the coke famine does not affect this industry.

The Hindus will soon be given an opportunity to see their prototype—the "Jolly American Tramp."

A snowstorm in April generally means more or less profanity at the weather bureau.

The man who says it doesn't pay to advertise is now angling for trout during business hours.

If an industrial establishment is not kept up to date it rapidly degenerates into a "junk shop." To guard against this, The Sun job office is constantly being augmented with the latest fashions in type and other material.

Will Move to Marcus

The offices of the superintendent of the Spokane Falls & Northern road are to be transferred to Marcus in the near future, according to a statement made public in Spokane Wednesday. When the change will take place has not been determined, but it will be soon.

They All Eailed

Many have tried to devise a corn cure equal to Putnam's, but after fifty years nothing has come upon the market that so painlessly cures corns and warts. Don't experiment, use the best, and that's "Putnam's."

When Children are Sick

They eat something that disagrees, catch cold, have cramps or colic. If there is pain just apply Nerviline—it's good to rub on, and for the inside it's most comforting. Effective and pleasant, you can't find a household panacea to equal Polson's Nerviline. Used with satisfaction for half a century and in better demand every day because it does stop pain, ease suffering and cure the thousand and one ills that arise in the family. Large bottles at all dealers, 25c.

Late assays from the Duncan mine, West Fork, give $202 and $174 in silver, being from heavy zinc ore.
