FARMERS MEETING

Grand Forks Institute Elects Officers for the Ensuing Year

The Question of Importing Stock Discussed and Action Taken

A well attended meeting of the Grand Forks Farmers' institute was held on Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the city hall. Quite a representative gathering was present, and many interesting subjects were dealt with, the most important being the following:

A resolution requesting the government to secure the services of an expert lecturer on "Co-operative Methods of Distribution and Buying for the farmers;" government loans to farmers at long terms; and at a low rate of interest, for improving land and clearing the same; crop competitions.

It is proposed to purchase a carload of cows for the local farmers at an early date. All persons wishing to join in this project should send in their names at once to Secretary Hadden.

Matters in connection with the coming apple pecking school were also discussed. It is urgently requested that all parties wishing to take a course of instruction should make application as soon as possible. Fifteen names are required in order to secure the school.

An excellent paper was read by Mr. Ruhmann, the provincial government horticulturist now residing here. Mr. Ruhmann's subject dealt with the benefits to be obtained from diversified farming. He proved the many advantages accruing to those who bred poultry and cattle, as well as raised fruits and vegetables. One section, he said, assisted the other.

The annual financial statement was read, and it showed that the institute is in a healthy financial condition. The statement was audited by a special auditing committee.

The annual election of officers resulted as follows: President, C. C. Heaven; vice-president, Robert Mann; secretary-treasurer, Walter E. Hadden; directors, Ernest F. Laws, James Rooke, J. T. Lawrence, Chas. Hesse, E. W. Stuart, H. F. Broad. Mr. Heaven was also elected as delegate to attend the annual convention of the farmers' institutes, which will be held in Victoria at the end of January, 1914.

LIVE CITY SNAPSHOTS

With a recent shipment of bananas Jeff Davis & Co. received a full-grown tarantula, which is now comfortably housed in a glass jar for the inspection. The animal, or insect, came gratis with the fruit, and its only expense to the firm was a slightly increased freight bill. The tarantula belongs to the spider family, and is a native of Italy and tropical America. Its bite is painful but not necessarily fatal. Tarantism, which is an epidemic dancing mania, accompanied with wild gesticulations, is frequently the result of people having been bitten by this animal. This fact may account for the belief that many people in Grand Forks, as well as nearly all teachers of the modern dance, have at one time or another been bitten by a tarantula.

Ten men labored hard on Wednesday to raise the flagpole on the federal government building block. The pole, which is cedar, is ninety feet high, measures twenty-four inches at the base and nine inches at the top and is surmounted by a copper ball. It recently inhabited the North Fork country.

Miss Edith C. Hadden, teacher in the third grade, gave the pupils of her classroom a social evening in the Davis hall on Saturday last from 8 to 10 o'clock. All the parents were invited. A lengthy program had been prepared, and those privileged to be present report that a very enjoyable and memorable evening was spent.

Special Christmas services will be held again in the Baptist church next Sunday morning and evening. Theme for 11 a.m. service, "The Guiding Star," illustrated by a blackboard sketch for the boys and girls. 7:30 p.m. service, "What Jesus Did for Me," as answered by Jesus himself in his own work and word.

J. H. Ryle left on Tuesday to spend the Christmas holidays with his family at Queen's Bay, B. C.

INTERMEDIATE LEAGUE

Was Reorganized This Week and a Schedule of Games Arranged

The Boundary Intermediate Hockey league held a re-organization meeting in Greenwood on Wednesday night. Phoenix was represented by C. J. Davidson and T. R. Clark, Greenwood by A. N. Mowat and E. W. Marentette, and Grand Forks by proxies. The following are the officers: Honorary presidents, Dr. Stone, E. Miller and J. E. Thompson; president, W. G. Kennedy, of Greenwood; vice president, C. J. Davidson, of Phoenix; second vice-president, A. Baumgartner, of Grand Forks; secretary-treasurer, A. N. Mowat, of Greenwood. The league adopted the Boundary-Kootenay association hockey rules, with the exception of substituting a man only in case of injury. An effort will be made to make the Intermediate a strictly amateur league, and the players in the senior teams will not be recognized. If an intermediate plays more than twice with the seniors during a season he will be considered a senior. The following is the schedule:

- Jan. 6—Phoenix at Greenwood.
- 12—Grand Forks at Phoenix.
- 16—Greenwood at Grand Forks.

HOLIDAY SOCIALS

Baptist and Presbyterian Sunday Schools Hold Entertainments

Largely Attended and All Had a Very Good Time

The Sunday school entertainment in the Baptist church last Tuesday evening was a most enjoyable affair. Some two hundred folks and their friends sat down to a sumptuous Christmas social supper, provided by the lady workers, in the school-room, and a houseful, including later arrivals, met in the audience room of the church for the after program by the members of the school. The various Christmas cards, dialogues and recitations by the boys and girls reflected much credit on themselves and those who trained them. Father Santa Claus was exposed in some of the items of the program as to his real personality and strange ways; and at the close of the old gentleman appeared in his true unmasked self, finally, and attended by four elves in white, got in touch with the Christmas tree, to the delight of the juveniles. The place was beautifully decorated with evergreens, bells, bunting, etc., and everybody had a good time. A. S. Matheson, the superintendent of the school, conducted the exercises of the evening.

The Christmas tree entertainment of the Knox Presbyterian church Sunday school was held in the opera house on Monday night. There was a large attendance, the house being crowded from the time the program commenced until Santa Claus made his appearance. A long program of songs, recitations, comedy sketches and tableaux was creditably carried out. The work of the little performers reflected credit on those who had trained them. The Christmas tree, which was beautifully illuminated, occupied a position at the side of the stage, and was loaded with fruits and candies. Each one of the members got a present.

The Christmas tree entertainment of Holy Trinity Sunday school will be held in the parish hall next Tuesday evening.

THE USES OF COLD

Low Temperature Artificially Created Has Done World Good

Most of us know a lot about hot air but the valuable uses to which air reduced to such deadly temperature as 400 and more degrees below zero may be put is by no means so generally understood. Most people think of refrigeration chiefly as a means of making artificial ice and preserving food. The international congress of refrigeration which met in Chicago has taught us to what an extent refrigeration enters into science, industry and the useful arts. It is not only a vital factor in the food supply of the nation, as was pointed out by Professor Scribner, in charge of the government exhibit. It is also claimed for that of all the modern utilities it is the greatest. It is used in the manufacture of many of the necessities of life. It has, to cite convincing figures, come to play such an important part in the industrial world alone that over a million dollars in industries depending upon abnormal as well as normal artificially created cold.

Delegates from all over the entire world have been making these facts clear during the past few days. As to the use of refrigeration in chemistry, for instance Dr. Kammerlingh Onnes has told of the liquefaction of gas at a temperature of 428 degrees below zero, or within two degrees of absolute zero, in which almost inconceivable temperatures the composition of atoms may, he asserts, be determined. The pertinacity of the time-worn jest about steam laundries bids fair to pass away, thanks to refrigeration, for it has been discovered that starched linen ironed in a cold temperature does not crack or fray and lasts longer. Refrigeration has proved invaluable in the paper-making industry. It helps to preserve apple seeds, seed potatoes and grains. It is useful in curing or preventing tropical disease, and in some cases the ravages of hay fever have yielded to its beneficent frigidity.

Its use in making artificial ice is more generally known, but not the figures which tell the tale of the extent of this industry. There are 3,000 ice manufacturing plants in the United States alone, with a capacity of between eighteen and twenty million tons of ice a year. Capital invested in this one industry is estimated to amount to $150,000,000.

Altogether the showing of the uses to which sub-freezing temperature artificially created may be put is a remarkable one. They have already made us independent of many conditions before which man was once helpless and the development of their use promises to bring within our reach still greater stores of highly useful and profitable knowledge.

ECZEMA ON FACE, SCALP AND HANDS

Came Off in Scales. Itched Badly. Had to Tie Hands. Little Watery Pimples. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Completely Cured.

1307 Davenport Road, Toronto, Ont.—"My eczema first started when I was a baby, on my face and scalp. It seemed dry and when I scratched it, it came off in scales. It itched very badly and I was obliged to have my hands tied up so as to prevent scratching my face. Little white watery pimples came on my hands and face and I had to stay home from school for nearly two weeks. It caused my face and hands to look badly. The eczema took a very bad form, appearing on my face in little watery ulcers so bad that I could hardly bear to be touched. My hair being naturally very thick I found to be getting thinner and wondered what could cause it to fall out.

"My mother tried — and — and spent no end of money trying to get me better but it did no good. At last a friend recommended Cuticura Soap and Ointment and my mother used them. We applied the Cuticura Ointment to my face, head and hands and washed with the Cuticura Soap and the eczema began to disappear. Before six months had passed I was completely cured." (Signed) Miss Constance Jane, May 26, 1913.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment do so much for pimples, blackheads, red, rough skin, itching, scaly scalps, dandruff, dry, thin and falling hair, chapped hands and shapeless nails, that it is almost criminal not to use them. A single set is often sufficient. Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere. For a liberal free sample of each, with 32-p. book, send post-card to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Dept. D, Boston, U. S. A.

Confused

There were old friends come to dinner, and as there would be a lot to talk about father decided that it would be wise to bribe his little son Tommy not to talk. So he showed his youthful offspring a sixpenny bit, and intimated to him that it would be his after dinner if he did not speak once during the meal.

All went well for a time, then, just as one of the guests was in the midst of an exciting narrative, Tommy plucked his father's sleeve. Father shook his head, ignoring his son's agonised look. Oh, father— Silence, Tom!

The boy looked towards his mother, but she only smiled, and the guest went on. When he had finished Tommy burst out again:

"Mightn't I speak a halfpennyworth, father?"

A roar of laughter followed and father went on with his dinner. Then someone said, speak out Tom, I'll pay the halfpenny for you!

The boy shook his head sorrowfully. It's too late now, he said. There was a caterpillar among father's peas, but he's eaten it now.

An Optimist

Sammy was not prone to over-exertion in the classroom; therefore his mother was both surprised and delighted when he came home one noon with the announcement: I got 100 this morning.

That's lovely, Sammy, exclaimed his proud mother. What was it in?

Fifty in reading and 50 in arithmetic, was Sammy's reply.

Winter

A man with unusual ideas opened a boarding house at Saranac Lake, and advertised it as a winter resort. A guest went up there and after a brief sojourn packed up, paid his bill and said:

How can you have the nerve to advertise this place as a winter resort when the thermometer for the past week has registered 8 below?

The landlord looked aggrieved. Well, that's winter, ain't it? he exclaimed. If 8 below ain't winter I'd like to know what is!

Accurate

At a certain meeting in an out-of-the-way town the only attendants were one little chairman and a citizen of large stature. The chairman had some resolutions to pass which began by representing that they were presented to a large and respectable gathering of voters.

Hold on, cried the other man, we can't pass that, for it ain't true. It ain't a large and respectable meeting. There's only two of us.

You keep still, commanded the wily chairman; it's all right, for you are large and I am respectable. You just keep still.

So the resolutions were passed without further demur.

PRESIDENT SUSPENDER

NONE SO EASY

Family Ties

A rather vulgar foreign personage, only a few months a marquis, managed to get himself invited to a Court ball. The new-fledged marquis could not contain himself for joy and exhaled proud satisfaction at every pore.

Glimping around the room he chanced to spy the tall, angular figure of an elderly matron, with pressed lips, as though afraid of wasting her breath, and as lean as a lath. She was taking the arm of a young gentleman.

Who is that nanny-goat? said the noble lord to a gentleman standing beside him.

With a knowing smile came the reply:

That nanny-goat is the Duchess of —, the mother of the kid who is giving her his arm, and the wife of the old buck who has the honor of speaking with your Excellency.

The mistress came downstairs and tried the door of the sitting-room, only to find it locked against her, while the key, which was usually in the lock, was missing.

Bridget, I can't get into the sitting room, she cried.

Shure, it's meself knows that; an' ye won't fur I hev th' key in my pocket.

Open the door immediately.

Will yez go in if I do?

Certainly I will.

Then yez won't get the key.

Open the door, I say. What do you mean?

Shure, it's by your own orders. Just yesterday ye said: Don't let me come downstairs in the morning an see any dust on the sitting-room furniture.

So I just puts the key in me pocket, an' says I, then she shant!

How Indeed?

King Lear is a great character, remarked the friend.

Yes, answered the actor. I suppose you remember my performance last season?

No. I must confess I have never seen you in the part.

Indeed! was the rejoinder in a tone of gentle surprise. Then how on earth did you know it was a great character.

Either the husband or wife generally looks sad five years after marriage — or perhaps both.

GIN PILLS COMPLETELY CURED

Mr. B. C. David, of Cornwallis, N.S., says: "About a year ago I was suffering so much with a dreadful Lame Back and Hips, that I could not stand up straight. I was informed by a friend about GIN PILLS. I got a box. It helped me immediately. I have taken about twelve boxes and the pains in my back and hips are all gone. I cannot speak too highly of your GIN PILLS."

Mrs. Jones—Thank you so much—and be careful of him, won't you?—never give him any of your cooking without first trying it on your husband.

Now, little boys, said a Sunday school teacher as she beamed at the little faces before her, what lesson can we learn from the busy bee?

I know, said Tommy.

Yes, Tommy, said the kindly faced young woman, and what is it?

Promptly said Tommy: Not to get stung.

WORKS ALL DAY

And Studies at Night on Grape-Nuts Food

Some of the world's great men have worked during the day and studied evenings to fit themselves for greater things. But it requires a good constitution generally to do this.

A man was able to keep up with ease after he had learned the sustaining power of Grape-Nuts, although he had failed in health before changed his food supply. He says:

Three years ago I had a severe attack of stomach trouble which left me unable to eat anything but bread and water.

The nervous strain at my office from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. and improper foods caused my health to fall rapidly. Cereal and so-called 'Foods' were tried without benefit until I saw Grape-Nuts mentioned in the paper.

"In hopeless desperation I tried this food and at once gained strength, flesh and appetite. I am now able to work all day at the office and study at night, without the nervous exhaustion that was usual before I tried Grape-Nuts.

"It leaves me strengthened, refreshed, satisfied; nerves quieted and toned up, body and brain waste restored. I would have been a living skeleton, or more likely a dead one by this time, if it had not been for Grape-Nuts."

A BOON TO STOCK-RAISERS

To Know How to Cure Colic, Diarrhoea, Cold Swellings, etc., Saves Thousands Each Year.

Of Practical Interest to Horsemen

It is a matter of vital importance to every farmer, horse-owner, and stock-raiser to know exactly what to do when one of his animals is taken suddenly sick.

The letter of Mr. Frank G. Fullerton, which we print below gives information of inestimable value, and tells of his experience in curing ailing stock during the past thirty-eight years.

SAVED 1,000 BY NERVILINE

Several years ago when my horse took colic I used to give them Cayenne Pepper in hot milk, but in a few cases only did it help and because I had no proper means at hand I lost several valuable animals. Some one told me of the success Mr. Wendling of Brookville, Ont., had in his racing stables with 'Nerviline,' so I laid in a supply. It wasn't very long before Nerviline saved the life of a valuable stallion of mine, which was worth at least $1,000.00. This horse was taken with colic, and would have died had it not been for Nerviline. I have used Nerviline for reducing swellings, for taking out diarrhoea lumps, and easing a bad cough, and always found it worked well. I recommend every man who owns horses or cattle to keep Nerviline on hand.

For Sprains and Bruises.—There is nothing better for sprains and contusions than Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. It seems as if there was magic in it, so speedily does the injury disappear under treatment.

During an election in Canada a young man shouted out. Hurrah for Jackson!

FIRE IN THE HUMAN BODY
The body is like a furnace, and the food is burned or oxidized just as coal is burned in a stove. When too large an amount of food is taken or the digestive system is deranged, the food ferments and forms poisonous gases and waste substance which cause pains and aches, rheumatism and serious disease.
Billious attacks, headaches, liver disorders and kidney diseases have their beginnings in overeating or the use of foods which disagree. To prevent serious disease it is absolutely essential that the liver, kidneys and bowels be kept regular and active by use of such treatment as: Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.
On account of artificial foods and modern methods of life, almost everybody finds it necessary to use medicine in order to keep these organs in active working condition. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are most satisfactory, because you can depend on them to produce the desired effects.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 26, 1913

NEARLY every newspaper and all public men of prominence have made guesses regarding the cause of the high cost of living. Hon. Martin Burrell, minister of agriculture, says the cost is mounting because the farming industry is not keeping pace with the increase of population. Mr. Burrell has evidently forgotten that last year the crops all over the world were so abundant that the products of the land could not be given away, and yet the cost of living rose steadily. It is therefore apparent that the abundance of farm products has no greater bearing on the cost of living than a hiatus in a dream would have in shaping the history of the world. Here is our guess: High tariff, trusts, exorbitant transportation charges, extravagance.

IF YOUR CHILD IS CROSS, FEVERISH, CONSTIPATED

Look Mother! If tongue is coated, cleanse little bowels with "California Syrup of Figs."

Mothers can rest easy after giving "California Syrup of Figs," because in a few hours all the clogged-up waste, sour bile and fermenting food gently moves out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again.

Sick children needn't be coaxed to take this harmless "fruit laxative." Millions of mothers keep it handy because they know its action on the stomach, liver and bowels is prompt and sure.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which contains directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups.

DREADED EPILEPSY

A Case That Should Bring Hope to Other Sufferers

There are many cases of epilepsy incurable so far as present medical knowledge extends and the sufferer is doomed to go through life a victim to a disease which has stricken him suddenly and without warning, and with each recurring affects his mental powers. Taken in time, however, many cases of epilepsy have been permanently cured by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and in cases where the disease has not reached an acute form this remedy is worth giving a fair trial. Among the cures we give the following. Mrs. Robert Stringer, New Liskeard, Ont., says: "I have long felt that we should write you and let you know what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for our grandson, who was attacked with epilepsy. The trouble seemed to come on following an attack of whooping cough. His parents seemed to notice that his eyes seemed to bulge out, and that he would be unconscious for a few seconds, and would go about his play as usual. The child was five years old at this time. The trouble seemed to be growing more severe and the attacks to come oftener, and as the local doctors were not helping him they sent him to the Children's Hospital in Toronto. He remained there for a short time when the doctors said his trouble was epilepsy, and they could do nothing for him. Time went on and the attacks grew worse, and in the fall of 1908 my daughter wrote me that the little fellow was getting so bad that they wanted to send him back to the hospital. I asked her to send him to me for a time, and as one of his eyes had become crooked I took him to an oculist, who said this trouble could be cured, but it had nothing to do with bringing on his other trouble. As I knew that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were a splendid medicine I decided to give them to him, in the hope that they might benefit him. We were very careful as to diet, and as to keeping the child from excitement. In about a month we noticed that the trouble was lessening, and at this time the little fellow returned home and his mother kept up the treatment. In a few months he seemed fully cured, but during the holidays the trouble came back in a milder form and the Pink Pills were again resorted to, and again the trouble disappeared, and although more than a year has passed there has not since been any sign of it. We feel so deeply indebted to what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for him that we hope this plain statement of our experience will benefit some other sufferer."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

No better protection against worms can be got than Miller's Worm Powders. They consume worms and render the stomach and intestines untenable to them. They heal the surfaces that have become inflamed by the attacks of the parasites and serve to restore the strength of the child that has been undermined by the draughts that the worms have made upon it, and that their operation is altogether health-giving.

Flour trial is essential but— it is not your work!

Flour varies from time to time in baking quality. This is because wheat continually varies according to soil conditions, etc.

Therefore, if baking results are to be constantly high, baking tests are essential. It is unreasonable to expect you to make these tests at your expense.

So from each shipment of wheat delivered at our mills we take a ten pound sample. This is ground into flour. Bread is baked from the flour. If this bread is high in quality and large in quantity, we use the shipment. Otherwise we sell it.

How It Was Answered

The Prayer of a Lonely Woman

By LILLIAN WARTZ

Mrs. Tompkins, rocking in the shade of her vine wreathed porch, peered down the short length of the street. "An automobile in front of Pike's," she murmured bitterly. "I expect it's her brother-in-law from Marlin. He's in the business. I declare it ain't right, it ain't fair!" Her black eyes snapped angrily as she drew back and plied her crochet needle.

"Honk, honk!" sounded defiantly, and a small motorcar turned into Willow street and stopped in front of Mrs. Tompkins' house.

She arose, and an expectant light came into her eyes. Was it possible that she was to have "automobile company" at last? Thus far she was the only resident on the street who could not boast an acquaintance who owned a motorcar.

As she reached the head of the steps a becaped and begoggled head was thrust from under the top, and a man asked quickly:

"Does Mrs. Mills live here?"

Amelia Tompkins drew herself up stiffly.

"Next house," she said grimly, and a dull flush reddened her cheeks as she went back to her chair.

"You might have known it was for me," tossed Susie Mills across the space that separated the two houses as she came around from the side door to greet her visitor.

Amelia Tompkins made no reply as she rolled up a length of crocheted lace and tucked it in her workbasket. Her lips were set grimly as she gathered community. Willow street was a little settlement by itself. Everybody owned his own home, and all attended the same church. Beyond Willow street the city went its own way. To the Widow Tompkins Willow street was life.

And life was very dull without automobile company.

One morning she stood on the front porch watering her hanging baskets. Amelia was fond of flowers, and her little place was a perfect bower of beauty.

"You're looking kinder peaked, Amelia," called Susie Mills, whipping around the corner of the house, very trim in her green veil and brown duster. "What you need is a good spin into the country."

Amelia's pale cheeks flushed, and she looked really pretty. She had a certain plump prettiness that had been much admired when she was a girl. Since her husband had died Amelia had clung tenaciously to black and white gowns, which were not at all becoming. Wearing the right sort of clothes, Amelia would have regained much of her youthful prettiness. She was lonely, and she was sad, and she seldom found cause to smile, which is very sad when one is only forty-five and a comely widow.

"A little spin in the country is what you need, Amelia," repeated Susie, hanging over the gate expectantly.

"I s'pose that's what you're going to take," said Amelia, with what grace she could muster.

"Oh, yes! Fred's going over to Winslow and said he would take me along."

"In the yeast wagon?" fiew off the end of Amelia's tongue.

Mrs. Mills turned sharply.

"Yeast automobile is better than walking," she said loftily.

Amelia agitatedly snipped off an unoffending lobelia blossom.

"It's too hot even to walk," she reported. "I'm going to have a car myself," she said impulsively.

"Humph!" sniffed Susie Mills. "I guess it's coming now," she added sarcastically.

There came a honk from the end of the street, and a large motorcar turned from the avenue into Willow street and came unerringly up to the little white cottage. As it wheeled about and came puffingly to a standstill the solitary occupant stepped to the ground and shook out his long linen duster.

Susie Mills was agog.

"You looking for me?" she chirruped.

"I'm Mrs. Mills."

The man smiled pleasantly. "I am looking for Mrs. Tompkins," he informed her, his hand on Amelia's front gate.

"Oh!" cried Mrs. Mills enviously, and she was enraged because the yeast car came noisily up the street just then and bore her away. She could not see the meeting between Amelia Tompkins and the man in the beautiful car.

As for the other motor enthusiasts of Willow street, every man, woman and child found imperative business near the respective front gates.

The stranger pushed open Mrs. Tompkins' front gate and in three long strides had reached the front porch. Amelia, outwardly calm, but inwardly exulting at this answer to prayer, came forward, tall and rather graceful and very attractive in the uncertain light.

"Mrs. Tompkins?" asked the man courteously.

"Yes," said Amelia. "Won't you sit down?"

"Thank you." He placed a chair for Amelia and sat down on a hickory chair. He laid his motor cap beside him, and Amelia noted with a faint stirring of her pulses that his forehead was very nice and it was too bad that his cap had left a red crease there.

It was rather a familiar looking forehead. The way the brown hair was brushed up and back reminded her of some one. The memory was a painful one for Amelia, for it aroused the one grief of her girlhood. She wondered what this man wanted. To sell something, of course.

"I am afraid that you will think I am impertinent, Mrs. Tompkins," he said, rapping the edge of his cap against the seat and looking at her rather doubtfully, "but I couldn't help coming. I've been wanting to for some time—in fact, ever since—well, since you were free."

Amelia leaned back in the rocker and panted a little. She felt that something very unusual was about to happen in her quiet, uneventful life. Such things happened in books, but he was speaking again. "It's twenty years since you met, Amelia. I don't wonder you've forgotten me," he blurted forth at last.

Forgotten him?

Amelia leaned forward, her heart in her blue eyes. Could any girl forget her first lover? Could any woman forget the man she had loved and whom her parents had bade her cast off for another and more advantageous match? If such things could be forgotten then Amelia Tompkins could forget Ralph Blake.

"Oh!" she cried sharply. And after a few moments she cried again, "Oh, Ralph?"

He was leaning eagerly forward now, a good looking middle aged man with boyish eyes and a general air of prosperity that seemed out of place upon a man whom Amelia had known only as a shy country youth.

"Amelia, I've waited and waited, and I can't forget you!" he said tensely. "It will take some time for you to pick up the threads after all these years of separation, but I've never changed. I feel just the same as I did that night when—I told you!" he ended in a whisper.

"Ralph, Ralph!" she cried, with a shaking voice, and so the intervening years vanished with the warm breath of true love, and their hands met and afterward their patient lips.

So "automobile company" came to Amelia Tompkins in a strange way. It came in direct answer to prayer, so Amelia firmly believes, and while Ralph Blake is in the automobile business and owns many cars, somehow, for Amelia, automobile company has resolved itself into one meaning.

That is the daily homecoming of Amelia's husband.

And I may add that the Blinks are generous, and all of Willow street revels in countless automobile excursions.

Cool Clothes.

Cool garments are those which favor the dissipation of the heat of the body, for the warmth felt by the wearer of the garment proceeds not so much from the garment itself as from the wearer.

Wool is warm, because it is a worse conductor of heat from the body than other materials, while fur is the worst conductor of all.

Silk is cooler than either cotton or linen, for it favors conduction of heat from the body better than any other material.

Bleached fabrics are cooler than unbleached ones. In summer and winter all clothes should fit sufficiently loose to give the limbs and respiratory organs their full freedom.

Color should also play an important part in the choice of our clothing for the seasons. White is the ideal color for summer, because it is one that absorbs the least heat, while, on the other hand, black or dark-colored garments attract the rays and absorb a large amount of heat—hence their usefulness for winter wear.

Fish Preserved Without Ice.

Professor Alexander Danilevsky, a Russian scientist, claims to have discovered a new process for preserving fish. Before a recent invitation luncheon was eaten, the guests saw fourteen days' old fish in glass jars, immersed in a liquid which is the professor's special preparation. The fish were then taken out of the jars, and the guests saw them cooked and afterward ate them. The fish had been sealed up in the presence of impartial witnesses. Prof. Danilevsky claims by his method to keep fish fresh for as long as three weeks or a month. He also has a process by which he can keep fish in jars for two years, and they will still be thoroughly pure and eatable. The professor worked for fifteen years before he brought his experiments to a successful issue. He asserts that his invention will revolutionize the fishing industry.

Love—and What Then?

Enraptured, they gazed, hand-in-hand, upon the beautiful scene stretched before them in the setting sun. 'Twas the Lake District, and they but three days upon their honeymoon.

"Dearest," he said, gazing at her fondly, "isn't this heavenly?"

"Yes, Reginald," she softly murmured.

"Do you know," he whispered ardently, "to me life does not seem long enough for our happiness. Just think, even if we are fortunate, our married life can hardly last longer than fifty years."

"Is that all?" she queried wonderingly, edging nearer.

"Yes, that's so," a touch of sadness in his voice. "Only fifty years in which to love each other."

"Then kiss me quick, Reginald," she exclaimed, "we're wasting time!"

Poor Cricket.

The fielding of the home team was wretched to the extreme. Catch after catch was "battered" with aggravating persistence, and the professional, who bowled mainly for "spooners," was fast losing his temper and patience.

Eventually the visitors' captain, who was having a lengthy innings, thanks to numerous "lives," put the ball into the hands of a young amateur at slip. But again the fielding was at fault. The professional glared, the fieldsman blushed and muttered apologetically something about an epidemic.

"Epidemic, be blowed!" exclaimed the bowler angrily. "It can't be an epidemic when it ain't catchin'!"

Apply the Rule.

"If a man were to sit on your new hat, what would you say, Claude?"

"I should call him a confounded silly fool."

"Then don't sit on it any longer, there's a dear boy."

The strike of 160 children at Haslington Council School, Crewe, Eng., organized because the education authority had removed the headmaster to another school, has now ended. The education authority declined to recede from their position, and after remaining away for a fortnight many of the children have returned to school. The parents of forty-two children, however, have transferred them to a church school.

TESTING TORPEDOS.

How Deadly Little Weapons Have a Trial Trip.

Torpedo running or torpedo testing as the operation may well be called, is a most fascinating process to watch.

Torpedoes as everybody knows, are fired from a tube on board ship, and travel on or under the water by means of propellers worked by compressed air stored in a chamber inside the torpedo.

They are tested to see at what speed they travel, and whether their course is true, and whether they answer to the setting of their machinery before leaving the ship.

Stand on the cliff known as Bineleaves, over looking the famous Portland Harbor, and there within view are two of the most famous torpedo-ranges in England.

A torpedo-range at every 500 yards is marked by a raft, securely moored and floating barrels. On every raft stands a man with a red flag. He is known as a torpedo-marker, and his duty is to signal the exact second the submerged torpedo passes beneath his raft.

The Secrets Carefully Guarded.

So fearful are the Admiralty of other powers, especially our German rivals, learning the secrets of these deadly weapons of war, that no outsiders are ever allowed on the rafts or within the range building when torpedo running is taking place.

The red flag waving gaily in the morning's easterly breeze tells the on-looker that torpedoes are being tested; and rooking idly on the quivering waters are a couple of piquet boats, whose duty is to bring back the torpedo when its trial run is ended.

The ear-piercing hoot of a powerful steam siren breaks the stillness, and warns the markers to be on the look-out. Armed with powerful binoculars, you can easily distinguish the men standing on their rafts flag in hand.

Suddenly from the building a silvery fish-like form hurls itself into the sea. So cleverly moving weapon of destruction, that the same depth beneath the surface of the water can be maintained by the torpedo throughout the length of its rapid course. For testing purposes this is usually fixed at 8 feet, at which depth the torpedo can be easily distinguished cleaving its way beneath the water.

Within the building overlooking the range of keen-eyed clerk stands peering through the powerful telescope, whilst at his side are an accurate card. On this he enters the exact second at which each marker drops his flag; thus marking the precise time the torpedo passes each successive raft.

Dangers Which Beset Markers.

Torpedo marking is an operation which is full of danger to the markers. The ingenious implements of destruction sometimes run amok in spite of every precaution. A marker at the Blank range was recently watching an oncoming torpedo.

Within a few yards of his raft the torpedo head emerged from the water, and before the astonished marker could move the weapon appeared to take a flying leap at the raft. It cleared it as by a miracle, and plunged into the water on the other side. So near did the flying mass of steel pass the man, that his flag struck its nose as it passed him, whilst its whirling propeller missed his head by inches only.

The raft, although securely moored and containing a small hut provided with both seats and fireplace, are by no means a comfortable or safe place in a storm.

Costing from $3,000 to $5,000, torpedoes are too expensive to be allowed to be lost. Ofttimes a torpedo for some unaccountable cause takes a sudden plunge downward and buries its nose in the mud at the bottom of the sea. To recover an embedded torpedo, recourse has to be made to the services of skilled divers, and this operation is also not free from peril.

Not Likely.

Mrs. Johnson was all excitement; her husband was a Gordon Highlander, and she had received an invitation to visit him in barracks in Scotland.

"You'll soon see caddy now," she said to her six-year-old little daughter, as the express bore them to their destination.

On arrival at the barracks, Mrs. Johnson was informed that her husband was on sentry duty, and one of the soldiers pointed him out to her, but, of course, they could not approach him.

The child eyed her daddy with big round eyes full of wonder, as he paced up and down the square, rifle on shoulder, in his regimental kilt.

"There, that's daddy," cried the mother.

Momentarily the child was too lost in this amazing spectacle to answer. But at last it came out.

"Mamma," she said in a childish treble, but with a strictly confidential air, "if daddy finds the man who stole his trousers, will he give me that little frock?"

The Calcutta prisoner, who picked the pockets of his police captors and then left them on a moving train, forgot something. He might have taken the train and the policemen too.

All the diggers who are upturning cities thousands of years old report finding records of complaints of the higher cost of living. It began with the beginning and will continue to the end.

Five-sixths of a jury may hereafter bring a verdict in a civil case in Minnesota. The one reasonable juror and the eleven obstinate ones can no longer hang up decisions there. It is worth trying in other states.

Good Form

On the Steamer.

There is just as surely an etiquette for a steamship as for a drawing room, and for the benefit of readers who contemplate a trip on the water some of the formalities on board ship will be talked about.

After finding the location of your room and receiving the room key from the purser you should investigate your baggage, and if any be missing the cabin steward will direct you to the official to whom complaints can be made. It is wise to find out any little "landmarks" that will help you in locating your cabin, thus preventing mistakes and facilitating journeys to and from your room.

The next thing to do is to secure your seat at the dining table. You will be given a check, generally, which will place you in the dining room. This is given to the head steward on your first meal, and unless changed you should take the same seat at all subsequent meals.

Your deck chair is also important if you intend to profit by a rest each day. The deck steward for a stated fee will seat you and mark your chair by a card with your name written on it. It is unpardonable to use another person's chair regularly, for nothing is so embarrassing to the rightful occupant as to find a chair filled and to be compelled to evict the man or woman who should have one of his own.

At table it is quite correct to speak to the ones seated near you. A "good evening" or "good morning" serves to break the ice. It is also permissible to speak to one's fellow passengers after the first day. It is very convenient to have some one introduce other men and women, but there is an informality on shipboard that bridges many gaps. Above all, do not overstep the bounds of good breeding. Do not bring on yourself the censure and adverse criticism of others.

Do not indulge in gossip, unkind criticism of others and be a nuisance by complaining against the accommodations and service. This type of traveler is never a favorite, and the punishment falls on his own head by the flight of others at his approach.

On the majority of lines it is not yet the accepted thing for a woman to go to the smoking room with a man to enjoy her after dinner coffee. The German steamers have shown a departure from this rule if the woman be married, in a party or with an older chaperon.

It is not obligatory to subscribe to the sea concert, but nearly every one does. Indeed, it is counted in with your "extra expenses" these days. If talented you should be a gracious contributor when asked.

Relieved.

A well known scientist was lecturing on the sun's heat and in the course of his remarks said:

"It is an established fact that the sun is gradually but surely losing its heat, and in the course of some 70,000,000 years it will be exhausted. Consequently this world of ours will be dead and, like the moon, unable to support any form of life."

At this juncture a member of his audience rose in an excited manner and said:

"Pardon me, professor, but how many years did you say it would be before this calamity overtakes us?"

"The Professor—Seventy million sir."

"Thank heaven!" was the reply. "I thought you said 7,000,000"—Tit-Bits.

Hurt by a Tree.

"Did you hear about the accident to Bjinks?"

"Why, no. What happened?"

"Oh the darned fool was seriously hurt this afternoon."

"In his automobile, I suppose."

"No—that's the trouble."

"What do you mean? I know he's a reckless driver, and—"

"And you think he was hurt in his car? Well, he wasn't. He was hurt by a tree about ten feet ahead of the car. If he'd been able to stay in the car he'd never have been hurt."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Her Acquirements.

Fater—Son, does this young lady you are going to marry know how to bake, mend and clean?

Son—Certainly not. I'm proud of Mildred. She only knows how to run a seven passenger Bigniz, put on a spare tire, fix a carburetor and read a taximeter.—Chicago News.

The Hardest Thing.

"What's the hardest thing you encounter in flying?" she queried.

"At the present stage of the game," returned the aviator, tenderly rubbing a bump, "the hardest thing we encounter is the earth."—Home Chat

HE WAS LEANING EAGERLY FORWARD NOW up workbasket and the weekly newspaper and went into the house, carefully latching the screen door behind her.

Her movements were very deliberate. She went through the house and set the teakettle on the stove; then she went upstairs to her bedroom and locked the door. After that she knelt down beside her bed and prayed with real anguish of soul.

Her neighbors in Willow street might have been horrified if they had heard the prayer of Amelia Tompkins. Undoubtedly they would have called her worldly, for she prayed earnestly that the Lord would send her "automobile company."

There were six houses in Willow street, and the only house that knew no automobile company was the white cottage of Amelia Tompkins. It stood at the end of the little blind street and faced all the others, three on a side.

Not one of Amelia's kind hearted neighbors realized how the lonely widow longed for the flash of big lamps before her gate on a summer evening and the gay summons of a motor horn. So many times had she run to door or window at the sound only to see the much desired vehicle pause at the gate of one or another of her more fortunate neighbors. She was glad when night closed down and she could retire to her room, undisturbed by honkings or brilliant flashes of lanterns.

One might say that Amelia Tompkins was foolish, but who can blame her? She was one of a small com-

LESS BOWEL TROUBLES IN GRAND FORKS

Grand Forks people have found out that A SINGLE DOSE of simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as compounded in Adler-i-ka, the German bowel and stomach remedy, relieves constipation, sour stomach or gas on the stomach INSTANTLY. This simple mixture became famous by curing appendicitis, and it draws off a surprising amount of old foul matter from the body. It is wonderful how QUICKLY it helps. Woodland & Quinn, druggists.
