BORDEN'S PLATFORM

Clear Statement of What He and His Party are Prepared to Do—Constructive Statesmanship

The Liberal-Conservative party gives its pledge to carry out the following policy if returned to power:

1. A thorough reorganization of the methods by which public expenditure is expended. The increase in what is known as ordinary controllable expenditure from $21,500,000 in 1898; to nearly $74,000,000 in 1911 is proof of extravagance beyond any possible defence.
 2. Granting of the natural resources to the prairie provinces.
 3. Construction of Hudson Bay railway and its operation by an independent commission.
 4. Control and operation by state of terminal elevators.
 5. Necessary encouragement for establishing and carrying on the chilled meat industry.
 6. Establishment of a permanent tariff commission.
 7. The granting of substantial assistance towards the improvement of public Highways.
 8. The extension of free rural mail delivery.
 9. Extension of civil service reform.
 10. Granting of liberal assistance to provinces for purposes of supplementing and extending the work of agricultural education and for improvement of agriculture.
- And lastly, we pledge ourselves to a course of policy and administration which will maintain independent and unimpaired control of our own affairs by the parliament of Canada, a policy, which while affording no just cause for complaint to any foreign nation, will find its highest ideal in the autonomous development of Canada as a nation within the British empire.

The British Press Awakening at Last to What Reciprocity May Mean for Them

London, Aug. 22.—The Evening Globe, commenting upon reciprocity between Canada and the United States, says that the Imperial Government has deliberately assisted in the conspiracy to give the United States something like a corner on the transatlantic wheat. "When," says the Globe, "Americans have firmly established themselves in Canada and are passing Canadian wheat through Minneapolis mills, the English market will be at their mercy. Our workers are grumbling at the rise in food prices even now when the independence of Canada's source of supply is operating to keep prices down. If the great American trusts succeed in making this source subordinate to their interests the British food supply will be seriously threatened."

MR. BURRELL'S MEETING

An Able Comprehensive Address on the Issues of the Day

RECIPROCITY THE MAIN THEME

Closing Days of the Session Reviewed—Government Deceive Even Their Own Supporters—The Redistribution Wrong Inflicted on the West—Reciprocity Dealt With Both from Economic and National Side

Notwithstanding the short notice there was a good attendance out to hear Mr. Burrell address the electors of Hedley on Wednesday night of last week. With the exception of the meeting at Keremeos on the night before this was practically the commencement of the campaign in Yale-Cariboo and while the result is not for a moment to be considered in doubt the immense size of the riding to be covered will make it a strenuous campaign.

Mr. J. D. Brass, president of the local Conservative association, occupied the chair.

Mr. Burrell in opening referred to the enormous size of the riding which made it difficult for a representative to get around to the various parts of his constituency and while he had been through a considerable portion of the riding since the general election of three years ago this was the first time he had been able to get back into the Similkameen valley. But if British Columbia had been fairly dealt with by the government of the day in the matter of representation the importance of Yale-Cariboo would demand another member or more.

He gave a synopsis of events in the closing days of the session to illustrate the state of panic in which the House had been dissolved and the shameful manner in which the government had broken faith not only with the opposition but with their own friends. This breach of faith consisted in securing from the opposition consent for ad-journalment on a promise that charges against the Minister of interior would be taken up when the house re-assembled on Tuesday but during the period for which the house had been adjourned, or on the Saturday before the time set for re-assembling, the House had been dissolved and there had been set a precedent unequalled for moral turpitude on the part of any government at Ottawa.

In this connection he also dealt with the misrepresentation of the opposition's position on the part of Minister Templeman who blamed them for obstructing the work of the House, implying that the opposition were responsible for the failure of parliament to provide supply. The facts were that the opposition in addition to granting supply for four months ahead in order to allow the Premier to attend the Imperial Conference, had also agreed to grant supply for any reasonable length of time which the government might ask on condition that the matter of Reciprocity be temporarily shelved until the census returns were all in and a redistribution bill could be brought in so as to give fair representation to all parts of the Dominion, but to this the government would not agree and did not even ask for any more supply. Under these conditions he was surprised that a Minister of the Crown would misrepresent as Templeman had done in this connection. If, however, the delaying of the reciprocity measure so as to get it before the country was a sin the opposition were certainly guilty, but he thought the people of Canada who have a right to a say in matter of so great importance would pardon them for it. On the question of redistribution he explained the extent to which the West had been done out of their fair share of representation.

While reciprocity is the main issue before the electors in this campaign he claimed there were many others, some of which in themselves constituted counts too serious to be overlooked by the electorate and as some had been fully proven by committees of the House appointed to investigate them no government should be allowed to remain in office that had thus abused the trust reposed in them. The Oliver charges were taken up and these instead of being preferred by the Opposition came from the other side and were forced on the government through the prominence given them in the press. The fact that Laurier himself considered them of sufficient importance to warrant him in appointing a special committee of inquiry into them should be taken by the electors as evidence that the charges were substantial and demanded full investigation instead of the farcical treatment they received which amounted to nothing more or less than that the government considered themselves immune from the punishment which would otherwise be meted out to wrong-doers in other walks of life.

The most shameful feature of the situation was the dishonorable way in which the government had broken faith with the opposition in order to dodge the consequences if the inquiry which they evidently had advance information was sure to result in the charges being fully proven, and thus they showed that they were afraid to face investigation. In this connection, also the Lanctot matter was taken up and the culpability of the government shown from the sequel in that the electors refused to accept the government's coat of whitewash applied to the offending member who had painted his house at the expense of the government and refused to grant him re-nomination as a candidate in the constituency.

The Prime Minister's attitude at the Imperial Conference he thought was also a question for deepest concern on the part of Canadians. At first the Premier had shown a petulant spirit and a wish to minimize the importance of the occasion and did not want to go, until the opposition had practically insisted on him going and come forward with proposals to that end which left him no excuse but to go.
His conduct while there, however, constituted the main fault: for in repudiating Asquith's offer to give the Dominions a share in all questions of British diplomacy effecting the interests of the Dominions on the ground that consultation in such a case might involve a share in the responsibility for any measures of defence that might ensue he went badly astray. In this Mr. Burrell claimed that the Premier did not represent the general trend of Canadian sentiment on either side of the House and he gave an instance of the disapproval of a staunch Liberal paper, the Montreal Witness, which condemned the Premier's attitude in no uncertain terms by declaring that Laurier's repudiation of such an offer and his claim that Canada wanted to stand aloof was not the wish of Canadians. The Witness contended that Canada must either move towards the empire or away from it and Laurier instead of hailing the forward step had (unauthorized by the Canadian people) pronounced the declaration of separation, to the intense regret of many of his own warmest supporters, and the surprise of the people of Great Britain.

Taking up the question of reciprocity he dealt with it both from the economic side and the national. The government by its British preference tariff declared its belief in the principle of closer trade relations within the British empire and now by entering into this reciprocity arrangement with the U. S. they dealt a death blow to the very principle they had themselves enunciated. That reciprocity will kill our imperial preference and was specially designed for that very purpose he had the authority of President Taft and J. J. Hill both of whose opinions to that effect were quoted. The present reciprocity scheme started with the French treaty to which the United States objected and threatened a tariff war to express their disapproval and the government of the day weakened and gave to the U. S. similar terms accorded to France under the French treaty. Then finding the Canadian government so easy Taft's next scheme was the present reciprocity trap into which the Canadian government dropped so easily, sending two

SIR WILFRID'S PRAYER

Why is He Not Afraid Now?—"Heaven Grant" He May be!

Here is Sir Wilfrid Laurier's view as to what Canada should do with her own trade. It is contained in his speech on the G. T. P. Why has he now gone back on it?

"We consider that it is the duty of all those who sit within these walls by the will of the people, to provide immediate means whereby the products of those new settlers may find an exit to the ocean at the least possible cost, and whereby, likewise, a market may be found in this new region for those who toil in the forests, in the fields, in the mines, in the shops of the old Provinces. Such is our duty: it is immediate and imperative. It is not for to-morrow but of this day, of this hour, and of this minute. Heaven grant that it be not already too late; heaven grant that whilst we tarry and dispute the TRADE OF CANA-DA IS NOT DEVIATED TO OTHER CHANNELS and that AN EVER VIGILANT COMPETITOR DOES NOT TAKE TO HIMSELF THE TRADE THAT PROPERLY BELONGS to those who acknowledge Canada as their native or adopted land."

Well, the "ever vigilant competitor" has caught him asleep and stolen a march on him in this reciprocity muddle, but he is too obstinate to own up to the mistake and try to undo the injury. It is therefore up to his supporters to think of themselves and undo it for him.

NOW THEY THREATEN

The Boston Transcript in its Ottawa letter, dures the Canadian people to reject the reciprocity agreement, saying that the United States would justly resent such a verdict, regarding it as a slap in the face to President Taft, and to both political parties in the United States.

THE MAN OF MYSTERY CO.

Willard, the man of mystery, held the boards in Fraternity Hall on Monday night and showed to a house that was not lean enough to be called a frost and was not large enough to do justice to the town's reputation as a show-going town. In this case the performance was sufficiently meritor-ous, even if it was a one-man show, to warrant a good attendance and should he come back to Hedley he can count on a much better house. The sleight-of-hand work was the best that has been here and his vocal imitations were perfect. The only thing that was disappointing (and that no fault of the performer) was the absence of any hypnotic tests and hence no opportunity was given to judge between him and Mental who was here some ago, but when no one would volunteer to go on the stage and Willard did not carry any subjects with him there could be nothing doing in that line.
Nevertheless his talk on that subject was most interesting and his demonstration of hypnotic power on himself in driving the blood from his arm and bringing it back with a rush was decidedly uncanny. His growing test also was most mysterious and placed him in a class by himself.

old men who were wholly unprepared to go up against astute men like Taft and Knox, armed as the latter were with the fullest data to show them what would be the effect of tariff changes while the Canadian representatives were thoroughly helpless and unprepared as they had to admit when questioned afterwards on that point during the course of the debate in the House.

Mr. Burrell next reviewed the history of the reciprocity measure in force between 1851 and 1868 which was abrogated by the U. S. without word of warning and with the express purpose of forcing Canada into annexation, but fortunately it had proved to have had the very opposite effect by making Canadians more self-reliant and forcing them to develop inter-provincial trade which culminated in confederation and started this country off in her course towards nationhood. It

EDITORIAL COMMENTS

The attention of the Canadian west is at present pretty evenly divided between the wheat harvest and the election. So strong has the reciprocity issue caught the people that they have almost forgotten about the bumper crop they are now harvesting.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier is now appealing to the electors of Ontario and Quebec on the score of his gray hairs. It is gray matter Canada needs nowadays rather than gray hairs and there is not much gray matter displayed in allowing Taft to play with the Canadian government in the manner he has done in connection with the reciprocity pact.

Fancy the late Sir John Thompson dissolving the House to head off inquiry into serious charges preferred against one of his Ministers. When Laurier's attitude in the matter of dealing with wrong-doing on the part of his Ministers or his following in the House is contrasted with that shown by Sir John Thompson in the last parliament under Conservative rule it is seen how low the moral standard of our government has fallen. Borden, on the other hand, is the stamp of man who could be counted on to receive the John Thompson standards.

Ten million dollars a year is the nice sum which goes to the farmers of Ontario alone for horses supplied to the provinces west of Winnipeg and this is the market that Laurier proposes to hand over to the horse-breeders of Montana. As it is, all the money stops in Canada, and the nice little fortunes being piled up by the farmers of Manitoba and the territories shows that they have not been impoverished by the prices they have been paying. Why disturb such prosperity by handing over the trade which has caused it to an alien state which has in the past done her best to drive Canada to the wall?

Duncan Ross has evidently been at his old tricks. The election day in Comox Atlin for which constituency he is a candidate has been deferred until a date somewhat later than the general election. There is railway construction under way up in Duncan's constituency and as Duncan is now a contractor himself where he is "subbing" it under Pat Welch & Co who were his good angels in the general elections of 1904 and 1908 they should therefore be counted on to do something particularly handsome this time if Laurier should be returned. But if on the other hand the day should go against Sir Wilfrid it is something awful to contemplate the dull sickening thud with which Duncan will be dropped.

The Princeton Herald says that Dr. McDonald, the Liberal candidate is not at all suited with the position which the Vernon News makes him occupy in connection with those Board of Trade resolutions in condemnation of reciprocity in January last. The Herald says that the Dr. is disposed to qualify the thing with an explanation which is intended to be partly a demand, for the Dr. says that all he had to do with it was to revise the resolutions somewhat. Then we must conclude that the resolutions as given out by the Vernon News were the ones that appeared after the Dr. revised them. The public will now be curious to know what they were like before the revision took place as the wording is now about as red-hot by way of condemnation of the pact as any belligerent Tory could very well desire to have it.

Instead of boosting reciprocity to the direct injury of every farmer in B. C. why doesn't our cotem. of the Star try to encourage the farmers and the farming industry in the vicinity of Princeton? At one time our cotem. was strong on the subject of horse-raising and could see barrels of money in raising horses for which it claimed the ranges around Princeton were admirably adapted, and so they are. But reciprocity has been shown by the most prominent horse dealers in Ontario (where most of the Canadian horses are raised) to mean a loss of $50 per head on every horse raised there, while other dealers produced figures from their own books to show that the loss in their case will go as high as $72 per head. Then there is the dairying industry. Princeton should have a creamery and supply good fresh butter and other dairy products for the whole of the Similkameen. A Liberal tooter the other day made the statement at Nelson that 90 per cent. of the butter used in Nelson came from Washington state which was a fib to begin with, but nevertheless some of it was coming into Nelson during the hot weather just the same as it is coming in to Hedley. Now none of this money for butter should go out of the country to help the dairy farmers in Washington, for every dollar that goes out that way is lost to the country for good. Protect our farmers; give them every chance to establish creameries and other accessories to dairying so that they may make money and keep it in the country and everybody will get a share of it.

Remember the date of S. L. Taube's visit to Hedley and if your eyes trouble you in any way, be sure to consult him at Gillespie's Drug Store on Thursday afternoon, September 7th and Friday morning, September 8th.

Jack Wav returned to Hedley on Saturday after an absence of a few months which he spent in the upper valley around Coalmont and Granite Creek where he reports things flourishing and all the former Hedleyites who have gone there getting along well.

Eighty-five per cent of all headaches are the result of eye strain. Are you troubled that way? If so, consult S. L. Taube (of the Taube Optical Co.) of Calgary who will be at Gillespie's Drug Store on Thursday afternoon, Sept. 7th and Friday morning, Sept. 8th.

A new road is being built from Richter's pass in the lower Similkameen to provide an outlet for a new settlement up on the mountain to the east of Manery's. There are now about a dozen new ranches, taken up in that vicinity on several of which are crops this year that are said to have done excellently. The settlement can also be reached by a trail constructed last spring which starts east from Manery's.

Mr. and Mrs. Brooks came in on Saturday last and will remain for a few days. Mr. Brooks is still feeling a bit under the weather from his recent indisposition but the bracing air of the Similkameen and a little rest and relaxation will soon fix him up. Progress towards straightening out the Kingston tangle is taking a little time, as most of such things do, but there is reason to hope that the unravelling process will not be unduly protracted in this case.

L. W. Shatford, M. P. P., is at Vancouver trying to shake off the recent hay fever attack and has been very much benefitted by the change, but does not want to risk another attack by coming back into the dry belt too soon. He hopes, however, in a week or two to find autumnal conditions sufficiently well advanced to permit of him getting a while going through his constituency before election day, for like many other electors he recognizes the vital issues at stake in the present electoral contest and hopes to see leader Borden in position on the 22nd of September to tell president Taft that Canada has decided to retain control of her own markets for her own people.

There is every likelihood of good sport in the ball games here on Labor Day. Orville's crack team is coming up and Princeton is said to have been re-inforced during the last fortnight with an elegant battery. Hedley is counting on having Tommy Daly coach a Hedley team of home-brews and if these can be heeled into shape to give him anything like fair support the home team may make it interesting for the others. The ball grounds on the lower flat are considered too rough for good play and a new diamond has been laid out on the former diamond at No. 3 hole on the golf links.

was true, Canadians had believed in reciprocity in those days and Sir John McDonald with the rest as shown even at a later period when he made provision in his tariff bill of 1870 for the opening of the reciprocity negotiations if such could be obtained on favorable terms to this country. In 1891 it had ceased to be a part of the Conservative party's policy and that it had also ceased to be considered a part of the Liberal policy. We may point to the fact that in the Laurier tariff legislation of 1897 the reciprocity clause of the 1879 tariff bill was dropped. Further evidence that Laurier had turned his back on reciprocity is seen in the fact that in the campaign of 1900 not a word was said about it and again in the campaigns of 1904 and 1908 it was never once mentioned and hence the parliament just dissolved could not by any stretch of imagination be said to have had any mandate from the people of Canada to enter into any such agreement as they had done. We don't want to be under the control of the U. S. trusts. They want our markets and they want to exploit our natural resources after they have dissipated their own. He quoted from Taft's speech to show the high value which Taft placed on the Canadian market and the gain it would be to the U. S. to have access to it. The effect of the favored nation obligations under which Canada is bound was also shown to operate very much to Canada's detriment if reciprocity should be brought about. The disastrous effects of the pact on the fruit industry was next shown and when he spoke of the fruit-growing industry it was not only the grower who would suffer but also the many subsidiary interests which the fruit-grower maintained.

No greater fallacy he said could be put forward than that reciprocity would benefit the workingmen of Canada. If Canadian wheat is diverted across the line through reciprocity, that is where the milling interests will be centered and the same may be said of all the other industries for which the natural resources of Canada are needed by the U. S., and when the manufacturing industries of the country are forced to leave, what becomes of the workingman? At present we hear much of the woes of the American workingman owing to the U. S. beef trust and if reciprocity should be brought about the workingmen of Canada will also come under the control of the same beef trust.

The pulpwood situation was dealt with showing the desire on the part of president Taft to coerce the provinces into lifting restrictions on the export of pulpwood and the general desire to make Canadians mere hewers of wood for the artisans of the U. S. which will sell the finished product for $25 per ton made from the raw material supplied to them by Canadians at $4.50 per cord.

Two of the worst blows which it would deal Canada financially would be the destruction of her system of interprovincial trade which it has been the whole policy of the country to foster for over 50 years and also to destroy the effectiveness of the great asset we possess in our system of railways and canals. The deep ulterior design of the U. S. in the matter was shown in the expressed views of senator Beveridge who looked for the time when the many American industries which had been forced to come over here because of our tariff would go back there and of Gov. Foss of Massachusetts who drew a rosy picture of what reciprocity with Canada would do for Boston when the great transcontinental lines of Canada would make Boston their eastern terminals and their capital would no longer seek Canada to build factories there as they were now forced to do.

Dealing with the national side Mr. Burrell was particularly effective. He showed the fallacy of regarding it as a mere experiment to be set aside at will and gave ample reasons why it could not be so terminated, and even if after the interval necessary to terminate it Canada should still possess power to do so, a most telling picture was drawn of the almost hopelessness of the task to regain lost ground and repair the injuries wrought. Opinions of American public men were cited one after another to show that they merely regarded the present step as a beginning to secure commercial union on the instalment plan. On the other hand the warnings of Mowat, Blake, Geo. W. Ross, Chas. Fitzpatrick and other prominent Canadians all of whom had been on the Liberal side were given to show the danger of a wanton surrender of all we have fought for in the past.

KEREMEOS, the Centre of Lower Similkameen---Famed for Fruit Growing

Town and Lower Valley.

Remember the Bostonian Juveniles, Town Hall, Sept. 27th.

Dr. and Mrs. McEwen, of Hedley, visited friends in Keremeos over the week end.

Frank McLean has the contract of erecting a barn for D. McCurdy at Similkameen.

J. J. Armstrong attended a meeting of the directors of the Provincial Fruit Growers' Association held at Vernon last week.

Miss Westwood, of Coleman, Alta., who has been visiting friends in Princeton, spent the week end in Keremeos, the guest of the Misses Kirby, on her way home.

Mrs. S. L. Smith and Mrs. M. K. Rodgers of Hedley attended the social given by the Methodist Ladies' Aid here last week. They were the guests of Mrs. Frank Richter.

Chief Engineer Hogeland and his assistant, Mr. J. H. Kennedy, accompanied by superintendent Morgan, passed up the valley to the front of construction work on Tuesday morning, returning the same evening.

Mr. Warren, president of the K. V. Railway Company, was in town on Saturday last for a short time and had a brief look around. He intimated to your correspondent that there is a good chance of the K. V. tapping this fertile valley, if not at Keremeos, further up, which would certainly help some.

For a one-man show Willard, the magician, imitator, mind reader and humorist gave one of the best performances which it has been our good fortune to witness, in Richter's hall on Saturday evening last. His growing feat was a surprise and a mystery to all present, including the medical profession.

A pleasant time was spent at the birthday party given by Mrs. Harrison to her friends on Monday evening last. An accident, however, marred somewhat the evening's enjoyment, as little Kathleen Gibson received a rather nasty injury in the face, sustained from a rock thrown by a small playmate.

R. L. Cawston and party of men interested in the big Lowe real estate deal were in the valley over the week end. We understand that they have received satisfactory assurance of the completion of the V. V. & E. through to the coast at no distant date and will go through with the deal, possibly starting some of the work of improvement this fall.

A "colloed" gentlemen, who failing in his attempt to ride the trucks between here and Princeton on Monday's train, finally got aboard and was pestering the passengers for money enough to pay his fare, was finally gathered into the long arms of the law by Constable Sproule, who happened to be aboard, and next day was on the carpet before the magistrate at Princeton.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Hargreaves have rented the Walker bungalow from G. B. Clarke and are bringing over their household effects from Penticton intending to make Keremeos their home. Contractor Ed Lee is busily engaged putting the finishing touches on the bungalow, which had not previously been finished. Mr. Perrin is visiting his daughter Mrs. Hargreaves.

Keremeos school opened on Monday with Mrs. Hargreaves in charge and 23 pupils in attendance. This number will likely be increased and a good attendance maintained this term as there were a number who did not get started on the opening day. Mrs. Hargreaves is a graduate of Toronto University and qualified to teach languages. Her presence here offers a most favorable opportunity for any students wishing an advanced education.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Loudon and Mrs. Paul Loudon left on Monday to attend the funeral of the former's grandfather, Mr. Loudon sr., of Loomis, Wash. Mr. Loudon was one of the pioneers of the Loomis district and was well beyond the allotted four-score years at the time of his death. Though he had been ailing for a week or more his condition was not considered serious and his grand-daughter Mrs. Richter of this place accompanied by her mother had left a few days previously for Victoria, whither they were accompanying their respective daughters on their return to school.
