FATAL ACCIDENT AT MINE

John Radick Killed While Bull-dozing—
Cause of Explosion Unknown

A fatal accident occurred in the Nickel Plate mine about midnight on July 12th when a workman named John Radick was killed by an explosion of dynamite when he was engaged in bull-dozing rocks in what is known as the "long chute."

No one was with him when it happened and therefore nothing definite can or will be known as to what caused the explosion that caused his death. The deceased who is believed to have been an Austrian had been working in the mine for about two months. Most of that time he was trucking until on assuring the shift boss that he understood the handling of powder he was at his own request permitted to attend to bull-dozing of rocks in the "long chute." One man named William Pope had worked with him for four shifts, and was assisting him on the shift when the accident took place but had gone home a few minutes before completion of the shift, leaving the deceased there who said that he was going back into the chute before going home.

The first known of the accident, (and it was by the merest chance that anyone knew of it at the time) was when a miner named Kelly who was working with a partner in another drift in that vicinity had gone for a bucket of water and in going for it had to pass the mouth of the "long chute." A blast went off, the force of which knocked him down the embankment and brought a shower of rocks around him, one of them hitting the water bucket he was carrying. After the blast he heard a man shout in the chute in which the explosion took place and soon after the shout two more blasts went off in close succession. Going back into the drift Kelly told his partner of the circumstance and as it occurred to both of them that something serious might have happened in the "long chute" they went in and found deceased lying on his back. They picked him up and carried him out laying him down alongside the chute while they went for help and obtaining a ladder carried him on it to the office. He was breathing when they first picked him up but never spoke and was dead before they reached the office.

The remains were brought to Hedley on Saturday morning when constable Sproule took charge of them and notified Dr. McEwen who in turn sent for Dr. McCaffrey of Princeton to act as coroner in any inquiry which might be deemed necessary as he himself was debarred from acting under the circumstances.

THE INQUEST

On the arrival of the coroner from Princeton a jury was empanelled consisting of T. H. Rotherham, Otto Johnson, C. Saunders, Jas. Fisher, Wm. Knight and J. Critchley with T. H. Rotherham as foreman.

After viewing the body the inquest was begun and four witnesses were examined. The evidence given testified to the intelligence and candor of the witnesses and seemed above the average in these respects over what is generally heard in courts and on public inquiries. They told clearly and candidly what they knew and ventured upon no opinions, speculations nor theories and when they got through it was plainly evident to all as well as to the coroner's jury that Fate had again cast a veil over the prime cause of the disaster and if ever anyone knew how or under what conditions the fatal blasts were made to go off that knowledge will be hidden forever for it was confined to the dead man alone and there was nothing left the jury but to bring in the verdict they did.

Wm. Pope, the first witness, told of how he had worked at the bull-dozing with deceased but not being a powder man was unable to judge whether he was qualified for the work. He was told by deceased about 11.45 that he would not be required any further on that shift but that deceased was going back into the chute and witness went home. Deceased had taken the supply of powder for the shift into the chute himself.

D. Kelly told of passing the mouth of the chute on the way after the

BEATS "DUBIOUS ELOQUENCE"

That Is Why Borden's Manly Sincerity
Evokes General Applause in England

(News-Advertiser)

Mr. Borden's idea of Canadian autonomy on the matter of defence is not a divided and local navy, but a representative and united control of the single and imperial navy. This note struck clearly at the Premier's great institute has caught the ear and delighted the heart of the great British audience to which Mr. Borden spoke through the press. If the applause which follows his remarkable deliverance is more general than Sir Wilfrid Laurier was ever able to evoke, it is not because Mr. Borden has greater eloquence. In the qualities that charm an audience, appeal to the sentiments and emotions and touch the imagination the advantage is with the late premier. Mr. Borden has the advantage in his message which goes right to the heart of the matter, and leaves it as clear as is possible at this stage where the government and the Dominion stand. The British people, including the press, do not like ambiguity. They applaud an outspoken man who knows what he means to do and approve "the brave old wisdom of sincerity." The simple manly dignity and strength of Mr. Borden's speech is worth more than much dubious eloquence.

PORTS LACK FACILITIES

Hon. F. D. Monk Says Harbors on Great Lakes Are Twenty-five Years
Behind the Times

Collingwood, Ont., July 11—Hon. F. D. Monk dilated at length tonight in an eloquent after-dinner speech on the experiences gathered on his official tour of the Great Lakes. He declared that after inspection of the Canadian ports he had come to the conclusion that they were twenty-five years behind the times in harbor facilities, and called for immediate improvements.

bucket of water and being knocked down the muck pile by the concussion and by a rock hitting his bucket. He had heard a man shout in the chute after the first explosion but no further shout was heard after the second and third blasts which went in quick succession. He told of reporting the matter to partner and both going to see; also of their action in carrying deceased to the office. His partner's evidence was in corroboration with the additional information in reply to a question from a jurymen that the chute lacked about 4 1/2 to 5 feet of being full and deceased would have had no difficulty in getting out of it in getting away from a blast.

W. Sampson, mine foreman was requested to give evidence and explained that deceased went on shift at four o'clock in the afternoon and would be coming off at one. He said that the shift boss had told him he was putting deceased on to do bull-dozing and in giving a reason for putting him on had related how deceased had told him that he had six years' experience in handling powder in three different railways tunnels in which he had worked. Bull-dozing he believed required no more skill nor care than should be employed by a man who was blowing out stumps. From what he had seen of the deceased at other kinds of work he seemed to be both careful and capable and if he had been told the same as the shift boss had been told and there were no other reasons for doubting it he would not have refused to let him handle powder.

The verdict brought in by the jury was "that John Radick came to his death at the Nickel Plate mine, Hedley, B. C., July 12th, 1912, by an accidental explosion of powder the cause of which was unknown."

The funeral was conducted by the Miners' Union and was first arranged for Sunday at 11 a. m., but as the priest who was brought from Kelowna could not arrive before Sunday afternoon it had to be postponed and took place on the priest's arrival at five o'clock. The Rev. Father Verbeke of Kelowna.

V. V. & E. and K. V. Arranging For Single Track

The result of the visit of the engineer for the Railway Commission who went over the route between the Similkameen and Hope has been that he strongly favored joint action and appears to have been successful in getting representatives of both roads to agree to it although both were very much averse to the arrangement and expressed their preference for building separately.

The basis of settlement now being effected will probably be ratified by the railway commission during its coming western tour.

SASKATCHEWAN

STAYS LIBERAL

Government Wins By Large Majority—
Reciprocity Was Made the Issue
By Saskatchewan Premier

The Saskatchewan elections which took place on the eleventh inst. resulted in the return of the Scott government by a large majority, the government getting 40 seats to the opposition's five. Four seats were declared to be in doubt and there are some deferred contests but it is now plain how these may be expected to go.

The larger towns with the exception of Regina went Conservative, but the country districts in which the American settlers were thickest went strongly with the Premier's appeal for reciprocity in trade with the United States.

WHAT'S IN THE WIND

(Oroville Gazette)

A private car containing L. C. Gilman, assistant to the president of the Great Northern Superintendent, W. D. Scott and Division Superintendent J. M. Doyle, arrived at this station last Friday evening, and Saturday morning Mr. Gilman and Mr. Doyle went to Penticton in an automobile.

The object of the trip is a sealed book to the general public, but from the fact that the railroad officials have suddenly taken so much interest in Penticton naturally leads to the suspicion that the Great Northern contemplates extending a branch, the branch that was surveyed two or three years ago, from Oroville, northward, at an early day. Every indication lends strength to this supposition. The announcement was made in British Columbia only a few weeks ago by no less an authority than Louis W. Hill, at that time president of the road, that it was the intention of the company to build north from Oroville to Penticton, and this visit by other high officials so soon after Mr. Hill's declaration is only corroborative evidence that the Great Northern has a covetous eye on the northern field. It would be no surprise to the people of this place if work on the north branch would begin even before the laying of steel on the south branch, although, truth to say, it might be a surprise if the Great Northern would actually do anything in the way of road building in the face of the indifference of those in authority to speak in relation to what the railroad company contemplates doing in the way of construction, and from the further fact that Penticton seems to have a great attraction for railroad officials this summer. There is one thing certain, and that is if the company decided to build north it will not be such a long drawn out disappointment as has marked the grievous procrastination in the movement to construct the south branch. The public can hardly stand the strain of another such experience.

The Duke of Connaught has performed several public functions in Winnipeg among which was the laying of a corner stone for a new hospital.

AN ELOQUENT TRIBUTE

Lowery in the Greenwood Ledge offered the following eloquent tribute to the memory and the worth of the late E. G. Warren:

"In the summer of his life and almost at the beginning of a great career, Edward George Warren last Thursday paid nature's debt and passed over the great divide that screens the spirit land from mortal vision. We mourn his departure, deeper, perhaps, because of its abruptness.

"He was popular with all classes of people, and to his close friends he was known as Plinke, a name that was jocularly given to him during his college days. He was mentally and physically strong, but behind his forceful and combative nature there was a gentility, a calm and graceful charm of manner that smoothed the rough places and often eliminated discord from many an inharmenious event. He was diplomatic to a high degree, and his wonderful success as manager of the B. C. Copper Co. speaks volumes for his tact in handling large numbers of men, and his ability to conduct a vast industrial concern under all and any trying circumstances.

"He had lived more than one-third of his short life in Greenwood and had made a success of every undertaking. With him there was no such word as fail. He was interested in the welfare of the town, the province and the broad Dominion, and it may safely be said that no man stood higher in the estimation of the people of the Boundary district. Canada may well be proud to claim him as a son. He stood upon a higher mental plane than most of those around him, and this fact alone must at times have tinged his life with monotony.

"His death has cast a deep shadow over the spirits of the people and the very air seems to be laden with sadness. We feel as though a beloved sister or brother had slipped away from us forever. His friends mourn for him, and none speak ill of him. It will be many a day before the name of Plinke Warren fades from the memory of those now living in this community. The sympathy of the many goes out to his wife and to all who were nearest and dearest to him. Their sorrow is ours, although in a lesser degree. Death seems merciless, but without it there would be no life."

GORMAN WEST DEAD

After suffering from dropsy for six months, Gorman West died in the hospital at noon on Monday, aged 64 years. He was optimistic to the last, and an hour before he cashed in expressed the belief that he would get better. He was a native of New Brunswick and came to B. C. about 30 years ago. He followed cooking, mining, ranching, railroading, and the keeping of hotels in new camps and on the frontier. He was one of the great characters of the west. He weighed 285 pounds and was noted for his deep bass voice, and merry disposition. It might safely be said that few men have had more fun in the golden west than Gorman. He was generous to a fault, and noted everywhere for his hospitality. In the early days he kept a hotel at Bear Lake in the Sloam, but for more than a dozen years he has had a ranch and roadhouse at Bull Creek, on the West Fork of the Kettle river. He left a will in favor of Miss Jean Crawford of Carmi. The funeral took place in Greenwood yesterday afternoon, and was largely attended. The passing of Gorman will be regretted by old timers in all parts of the west, for he belonged to a type of men who are fast passing away, since the advance of the iron horse has made it easy to come west on the cushions.—Ledge.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS

If all the voters of Canada could have had the privilege accorded to Premier Borden and his colleagues of steaming along between those two lines of British battleships and cruisers and realized the strength of the steel walls behind which Canada and the other overseas dominions have been hiding safely during the last century and more, and then were shown the burden these same walls laid upon the British tax-payer while Canada and the other overseas dominions were not contributing a sou, we very much mistake the spirit of Canada if Canadians to a man would not ask the government to give them the right and the privilege of shouldering their share of the cost of maintaining a truly imperial navy in which all parts of the empire will be represented either in men or money or both.

The intense love of getting ahead of somebody else on a deal is again asserting itself in the diplomatic relations now being entered on between the United States and Great Britain to determine the right of the former to discriminate between American and British ships going through the Panama canal. According to a news despatch appearing elsewhere there is an element in control at Washington which is in favor of giving an advantage to American shipping going through the Panama canal, notwithstanding the fact that the Hay-Pauncefote treaty was entered upon between the two countries for the express purpose of shutting out any such contingency and notwithstanding the fact also that American is placed on equal basis with British and Canadian shipping going through both the Suez Canal and the Canadian canals. It was wholly because of the understanding under the Hay-Pauncefote treaty that Britain was led to abandon her intention of completing the Nicaragua canal. It is most unfortunate that the matter should come up at the present time when a presidential campaign is on in the United States, for that is the time when British tail-twisting or any other method of doing up Britain is good for so many votes to the party which can out-vie the other in that direction. While it is a slight variation of the Sackville West affair which was made to do duty in a former presidential contest they may think it quite as good a peg to hang anti-British votes upon. And as for the morality of the thing, who in the light of past diplomatic experience (the unclaimed nine millions of the Alabama award for example) would expect any more morality from them than from a hammerhead shark, and a hammerhead will bite the tail off his own mother?

SAFE AS THE SAFEST AND Cheaper than the Cheapest is a straight life policy in THE MUTUAL LIFE OF CANADA The history of thousands of policies on the above plan shows that it has cost less than four dollars per year to carry a policy of one thousand dollars. If you doubt this call on the local representative and see the history of one policy for 25 years; then ask yourself whether you know of any other concern whether insurance company or benevolent society that can show a similar record. Every Plan of Genuine Insurance It is the people's Company and its profits are all for the people This accounts for the wonderful success which has attended forty-two years of unparalleled progress and achievement. In Hedley, on July 12, to Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Corrigan, a son.

G. H. Whiteman, has arrived in Princeton from England accompanied by his bride, and is receiving the congratulations of Princeton friends.

The smoke laden air which became in evidence on Monday and increased on Tuesday would indicate that destructive fires are burning at some part of the district.

A meeting to make arrangements for celebration of Labor Day will be held on Friday evening. If a celebration is to be held there is nothing like getting at it good and early.

Rev. Mr. MacKenzie, the new pastor in charge of the Methodist missions at Keremeos and Hedley occupied the pulpit in Hedley on Sunday evening last and preached acceptably to a good congregation.

Miss Faulds, formerly matron of the Hedley hospital but now occupying a similar position in Princeton, drove down on Saturday with Dr. McCaffrey who came to hold the inquest on the man who was killed in the mine.

Mine inspector Strachan of Merritt was in town this week investigating the accident in the Nickel Plate. It is the inspector's intention to make monthly visits to Hedley and keep more closely in touch with operations here.

R. Wheeler, metallurgist and superintendent of the mill and cyanide plant, returned on Monday from Sheep Creek where he has been for the past two weeks looking over the mill and works of the Mother Lode claim in that camp.

Mr. Carl Knowles, brother of Wallace Knowles, draughtsman and engineer, came in on Tuesday last and went to work on the hill to gain a little practical experience in mining during his holidays. He is at present with the diamond drill crew.

The Nelson News in Monday's issue gives a very good write-up of Camp Hedley. The information bears the mark of having been obtained at first hand and the writer of the article appears to have understood the subject he was writing about.

Mr. J. H. Jackson of Coalmont is making satisfactory recovery from his auto accident and meanwhile the auto is making the trip regularly between Coalmont and Merritt enabling passengers to get through to Vancouver from either Princeton or Coalmont in a day.

A fair sized contingent of Hedley Orangemen drove to Princeton on Friday last to help celebrate the anniversary of the Boyne and the glorious, pious and immortal memory of King Billy. The day was fine and various centres in the valley were well represented in the gathering.

DIPLOMATIC STRUGGLE OPENS

Rights of British Ships in the Panama Canal Under Hays-Pauncefote Treaty

Washington, July 11—The lines were drawn tonight for a great diplomatic struggle between the United States and Great Britain over the question whether this country may discriminate in favor of American vessels in the administration of the Panama Canal. The wordy warfare may terminate in the submission of the question to The Hague Tribunal. A series of diplomatic and legislative conferences today developed the fact that the forces in the American Government which favor allowing American ships free passage through the canal are in control. These forces say that there is nothing in the Hay-Pauncefote treaty on which the canal was built to prevent this concession. The diplomatic struggle, precipitated by the note received from Mitchell Innes, charge of the British Embassy, will be fought out strongly.

It was evidently a case of equine home sickness, but the party were not inconvenienced by the desertion for Will Daly took the truant steeds back on Sunday as far as Princeton, where he had an engagement to play the violin at the church opening.

Quite a number of settlers came across the boundary this week all with the same idea of procuring a piece of B. C. land and some are getting pieces close in.
