END IN SIGHT

Work on The Big Power Plant Nearing Completion.

It is just about a year since the first sod or rather the first rock was turned on the Similkameen Waterworks Company's power plant and with a reasonable break of luck the big job should be completed in all except minor details by the end of December. The dam is complete in every essential except the stop logs which require another three week's work yet. The flume proper is finished as far as water carrying capacity is concerned. A little more planking may be done on the sides but this is immaterial for the present needs at least. The bottom which has been completed for some time is laid on a bed that would carry a railroad and has been proven by actual test to be tight as a drumhead. Not much is done on the big forebay as yet, it being a comparatively simple job which is not greatly subject to weather conditions. The strategic point at present seems to be the foundation of the power house, and every effort is being made to get the cement work done before the frost sets in. In spite of the difficulties encountered in an extremely pervious stratum of gravel which is causing excessive flooding of excavations at the power house, there seems to be excellent prospects of the important parts of the work being finished under favorable weather conditions. Contrary to the statement, published some time ago in these columns on the best authority in the camp, the power house, with the exception of the foundation, will be a frame structure with the heavy machinery resting on solid monoliths of cement. Power is now being transmitted from the old power house to the site of the new; and as the work, which was going along prettily steadily before, is now being facilitated by the use of "juice", prospects look bright for its being completed in schedule time and within the original estimates.

BENEFIT CONCERT

Hedley Brass Band Offers A Variety Programme Next Tuesday Evening

The benefit concert under the auspices of the Hedley Brass Band; advertised for November 17th. promises to be one of the bright spots in the season's musical offerings. As the subjoined programme indicates Mr. Glaze is presenting a good variety of talent which merits your patronage, apart from the fact that the concert is more or less of a public enterprise which is deserving of support. The concert will be followed by a dance, the admission to the former being 75c and the latter 50c.

SCHOOL AT THE NICKEL PLATE

Kiddies at the Mine Get a Fair Deal.

Once more the Nickel Plate is to have a school of its own. In the early days of the camp there was quite a flourishing little institution at the top, but most of the families moved to town and the attendance fell below the minimum required by the Educational Department, with the usual result of closure.

Some three weeks ago when Inspector Anstey was making his semi-annual rounds in the Similkameen he paid a flying visit to Nickel Plate camp for the purpose of examining conditions at the mine with a view to re-establishing a school there. At the time Mr. Anstey intimated to the Gazette that, there were excellent prospects for the opening of the school; and we are pleased to note that a very material corroboration of his words has begun to appear during the past week in the form of maps, books and other supplies billed through to the Nickel Plate. The school is evidently to be a reality, and that at no very distant date. Applications for the position of teacher are already rolling in and as soon as suitable accommodation can be arranged for the classes, work will begin with an initial attendance of ten. This will doubtless increase when men with growing families realize that it is no longer a choice between working down in town or leaving their children untaught.

MINING NOTES

The mining activities in the vicinity of the 23-Mile make it necessary that immediate steps be taken to put the trail in shape, as the benefits for Hope and those engaged in the mining developments are mutual. A large quantity of ore is ready at the Rainbow Camp, awaiting shipment and C. H. Brown already has eight pack horses engaged this week bringing it out to Hope for transfer to the smelter. A cable is being stretched from the big workings about 700 feet up the side of the mountain to the trail below which will facilitate the handling of the ore to a nicety. The showing at this working commended with a two-inch vein on the surface and is now opened up to a depth of twenty feet with a showing six feet wide, thirty feet from the face, all uncovered and with every indication of still greater showing as developments proceed.—West Yale Review.

This week ten inches of clean ore was uncovered in the face of the incline drift on the California mine. Alex. Ferguson, who brought the news to town says the vein is clean galena, and is widening as development proceeds.

The California is at present under lease to J. C. Winter and Martin Jacobson. They decided to throw up the lease a couple of weeks ago, but friends in town persuaded them to continue, with the probable result that they will pull out with enough money to take life easy.

Some years ago Martin Jacobson and A. O. Ostby netted about $10,000 from a lease on the California. It is to be hoped that this lease will prove equally profitable, and the chances are that it will be more so.—Slocan Record.

WORK ON THE BIG SHAFT

Good Progress on the Selkirk Tunnel

Nearly a mile and a half of the preliminary shaft of the five mile tunnel to be driven under the Selkirk Range for the C. P. R. has been excavated. On October 26th, 5014 feet had been excavated out of the pioneer bore, a small passage running parallel to the main tunnel from the western portal. Rapid progress is being made with the main tunnel, which is designed for double track traffic. The main heading has been widened out to its full width, 2378 feet from the eastern end of operations and 1256 feet from the western entrance. A section 708 feet long has been completed at the east end.

COMING INTO OUR OWN

The Prosperity of the Sunny Valleys Just Over the Divide

With the advent of adequate railway facilities southern B. C. will surely come into its own, and the linking up of the Boundary valleys begins to be an immediate reality. At Hope the Canadian Bridge Company have got the big K. V. R. bridge well under way and large quantities of steel are being unloaded daily on the grade. In spite of earlier rumors to the contrary it appears that with a fair share of luck the K. V. will get into Princeton this year, as the bridge at One Mile creek is already under way.

Just what this will mean to the Similkameen can best be gathered from Vice-President Bury's remarks when he visited Penticton last week. In reply to the question of the southern route becoming a second main line, as it were, Mr. Bury's reply was direct and unequivocal. "People here", said he, "should not get the idea that this is to become the main line. The C. P. R. would not spend a fortune on the Rogers Pass tunnel if it ever intended to divert its main line traffic. Under no present known conditions will this line become the company's main line through B. C., although it will certainly be an important scenic route, and also a valuable short line to the coast and prairies for the transportation of fruit, timber and coal."

It is already an open secret that the Soo Line which is controlled by the C. P. R. will operate its trains over the southern tracks instead of running over the main line. This fact coupled with the knowledge that the same Co. is planning to embark on an extensive advertising campaign at the Panama Pacific Exposition to attract visitors to the Boundary route and supported by Mr. Bury's words, gives a pretty fair indication of the part the new lines will play in the economic life of southern British Columbia.

PRINCETON PICKINGS

Alfred Coles who made such a success in the Pierrat Troupe which played in Hedley last spring has now returned from Quebec, where he went after the sad loss of Mrs. Coles in the Empress of Ireland disaster. He will spend the winter at Princeton. He reports that the fort and town of Quebec were very seriously effected by war conditions, so many vessels being tied up. They anticipate some pretty hard times this winter.

The last day or two has seen a little improvement in Len Huston who is suffering from an attack of appendicitis. He is still to weak to undergo an operation. Some years ago he worked as an engineer at Hedley.

F. P. Cook of Granite Creek spent a few days in town on his way to his "native city." He looked very much better for his stay in the Hedley hospital.

Work on the telephone line to Copper Mountain is going ahead rapidly.

Are we blind or getting dry. The Similkameen Hotel has found it necessary to put 25 electric lights along the front to guide prospective patrons.

A week or two ago all the business men in Princeton looked weary and depressed and even the store windows looked dull. Now their smiles make even the face of "Old Sol" look sick. The continuation of work on the K. V. R. makes all the difference. A large number of men will be employed close into town grading from the headquarter camp near the cement plant to the joint depot in town. In spite of the general depression business looks good for the winter.

A solution of the problem of what to do with the unemployed might be found in placer mining along the Lardo river, if conditions next summer show no improvement over what exists at the present time. It is said on reliable authority that as high as $5 per day has been made by "panning" along the banks of the stream that flows into the north end of the lake, but in ordinary flush times this is not considered a fair return for the unpleasant nature of the work. No doubt the owners of large leases of placer ground would favorably consider the sub-leasing of small areas to individuals on a royalty basis, as this method would serve to help prospect the ground.—Kootenain.

DANCE AND PRESENTATION

Farewell Hop for Mr. Pollock—Merrill Trophy Presented

The last act of the Merrill Cup drama was staged on Friday evening when a select little dance was given by the Golf Club and the trophy presented to this year's title holder, Mr. W. K. Pollock. Though the dance was gotten up on rather short notice, those who were present agree that it was the blue ribbon event of the season. The evening was ideal, the floor excellent and the music, the kind that gets into your feet.

About midnight a halt was called in the festivities for supper, immediately after which the real business of the evening took place in the presentation of the Merrill Cup by President G. P. Jones of the Golf Club. The cup was accompanied by a neat speech from Mr. Jones who took the opportunity of bidding Mr. Pollock farewell on behalf of the club and extending to him their best wishes for brightest success in his new field of endeavor.

In a brief humorous speech of acceptance in which he explained that his Caledonian ancestry prevented any prodigality of words on his part, Mr. Pollock thanked his entertainers, as good sports and better friends. After due congratulations to the new title holder the dance went on till the roosters began to sing their matins.

A PREMIER HIKER

Dr. Dawson of Perth on the Last Lap of His Long Tramp.

Exactly a decade ago the Sporting Club of Australia put up a twenty-five thousand dollar prize for an endurance test which consisted in the aspirant for honors making an itinerary around the world in the space of ten years, entirely dependent on his own resources to keep body and soul together while he hiked. Only one of the original entrants, Dr. Jack Dawson of Perth, Australia, is still in the hunt. Last week he reached Enderby and the Enderby Press writes up the event as follows.

Dr. Dawson was in Enderby last week, for a day or two, and on Friday evening lectured on his travels by foot around the world. From Enderby, Dr. Dawson walked to Salmon Arm on his way to the coast. At Victoria he will be the guest of Sir Richard McBride. After lecturing at the coast cities he will take a boat for his Australian home. He will be in Perth by the first of January next to win the $25,000 offered by the Australian sporting club. He must pack on his back the 84 pound pack he has carried in his seventy-thousand mile walk of the past ten years.

Dr. Dawson landed in Australia when the gang plank was run out upon the ground floor. He had £20 in his pocket. Getting in on the ground floor enabled him to get in "right", and when he left Perth on his walk around the world ten years ago, he was reputed to be worth £150,000. And he has not been permitted to touch a cent of his own money since. With all this cash at home, and with all the pleasures and comforts that that cash could buy tossed over his head, Dr. Dawson has trudged the world over with an 84-pound pack upon his back, living like a tramp; ofttimes with little or nothing to eat for days at a time, and sleeping anywhere he could lay his head. What for? Ask Dr. Dawson. He knows, but he will not tell. But if you are a true enough sport yourself you will be able to guess. And if you cannot guess, it wouldn't do any good to tell you. But, primarily, it was not for the $25,000.

Dr. Dawson is a marvelous man. To appreciate him one must "meet" him. The sterling qualities of a true sport of an Englishman fairly bubble out of every nook and cranny of his hoofing.

LET US PAY

Some editors have the happy faculty of writing articles with a "punch" which not only can be understood but which cannot be misunderstood. One of these is H. W. Power of the Kaslo Kootenian. A couple of weeks ago, in a moment of special inspiration, Brother Power delivered himself of a pithy little curtain lecture which ran somewhat as follows, "Some people seem to feel quite peeved because the Kootenian has actually started to put its subscription lists on a cash basis, and wants to see the color of every subscriber's money. Horrible! But the same people pay railway fare, club fees, various dues of one kind or another, drinks at the bar, etc., etc., in advance; so why raise a howl when the local paper gets up enough backbone to make sure of getting what is coming to it? Further, it may as well be noted that the Kootenian intends to follow this principle hereafter and, if it is unable to do so it will shut up shop."

Hats off to you, Brother Power. May the bailiff never get you. The Gazette wishes to rise up and call you blessed while the calling is good. On principle, we buy everything we need at home because our interests are here; because a community that is good enough to live in is good enough to buy in; because every dollar we spend at home gets up and goes to work in our own town, not somewhere else; because we believe in teamwork and, as the man we buy from helps to support our churches, schools and public utilities, all community efforts means one shot for ourselves and two for our home town. On principle we believe in paying our way as we go; because, on the face of it, it is cheaper and, in the long run, the man who makes you pay up is your best friend, while the man who overloads you with credit (wholesale or retail) is your worst business enemy; because the credit system, used, makes business, buoyant and elastic—abused, it makes business rotten to the core. It is usually abused to the extent of being a positive curse to the community. In future our own chaste sheet will live as far as may be by the gospel according to Brother Power—more power to his arm!

Because an impartial analysis of a tangled situation always tends to clear the atmosphere we advert—with regret—to the profitless friction now existing between the townspeople and our local musicians. The situation is regrettable in the extreme and all the more regrettable because it is based on misunderstanding, biased opinions and beliefs which do not square with the actual facts.

The Gazette, be it understood, holds no brief for either parties. As is usually the case when honest men differ, the truth lies midway between the two. According to the man on the street, the Band is suffering from about every complaint in the calendar except an overdose of public spirit; and there is a certain element of truth in the contention. On two occasions at least the Band has charged prices out of all proportion to the value of their services and their repertory of music has at all times been extremely limited. On the other hand when properly approached, the Band has offered its services free. The boys have given, and are still giving a great deal of time and genuine effort to the Band. They are having hard times to make ends meet and deserve the support that is due to any public enterprise which is, or shows reasonable signs of becoming, an asset to the town.

Much the same remarks apply to the Band Orchestra. The infant squalls most awfully at times; but it should not be allowed to die for lack of nourishment. Given time and decent treatment, it may well become the pride of the family. We need an orchestra; and effort is being made to give us one; and, on the grounds of good citizenship, we should support it so long as it gives us any adequate returns for our money. But there's the rub. The orchestra is charging professional prices for amateurish music; or has done so up to the present. Individually the price may not be excessive; but, in the aggregate, it is altogether too much to be even considered in view of the services rendered. "Piling on all the traffic will bear" may be a good policy for railroads but in a small community it means sudden death and hasty burial to any enterprise whose prime asset is public goodwill.

Anyone can dust the bearings with emery; anyone can say hard, cruel, bitter things; but it takes a full sized man to be generous. The situation is most regrettable, not only on account of the unpleasantness it causes at home, but because of the rather false position in which it places our talented friends from elsewhere, who have helped us so generously in the past; and it is doubly regrettable because it is so wholly unnecessary. The key to the entire situation is a little frank explanation between the interested parties and a spirit of reasonable compromise on the part of both. Pursuing the present tactics, they will meet with the conspicuous success of these mild mannered cats which, scratched and bit and tore and fit till each one ate the other."

Those cats are funous now, but they are both dead—very dead.

You will have to get that skating outfit before long; why not order it now and save worry and money? Step in and see Rolls about it.

L. H. Patten of Keremeos is spending a few days in Hedley this week transacting a little business and renewing old acquaintances on the side.

English Church services will be held in Fraternity Hall on Sunday, Nov. 15th, as follows: Holy Communion 8 o'clock a.m.; Mattins—11 a.m.; Evensong—7.30 p. m.

What's the use of sending away for it? Bruce Rolls will have it anyway. His Christmas stock is on the way and it is bigger than ever. Just wait for his display. It is going to surprise you.

The snow on the summits is at last driving the deer down within striking distance of the local nimrods. Another day like last Sunday and every hunter in town will have buckskin on his woodshed wall.

This week Hedley has had bankers to burn. Mr. Jack arrived from Rossland on Monday to relieve Mr. Pollock and by some overlapping of orders the latter was detained in town for a couple of days. Mr. Pollock left Wednesday for Vancouver.

Doc Masters still keeps his reputation in Hedley. Last Thursday Mrs. A. Creelman and Mrs. Bert Jones journeyed to Oroville to have their teeth treated. The former returned on Saturday and the latter remained over till Monday.

W. M. Daly and Mrs. Tom Daly came up to Hedley last Friday evening and furnished their usual acceptable brand of music for the Golf Club dance. They were accompanied by Mrs. Daly's mother, Mrs. C. A. Lindsay of Spokane.

We regret to learn from Mrs. Donald McGibbon of the death of her niece, Miss Georgiana Mitchell, at her home in La Chute, Que. Miss Mitchell was well known in Hedley, having spent some months here last year prior to her going home in broken health.

Last Wednesday Sid Edwards left here for Pentteton where he arranged by phone to join the 102 Regiment. From Pentteton he expected to go in company with the Keremeos quartette to Vancouver where the party will join their comrades and entrain for the front.

Hon. L. W. Shatford deserves the gratitude of the Anglicans in Hedley—and indeed of everyone who likes to see local enterprises go ahead. In addition to practically giving the church people one of their lots he has furnished twenty-five chairs for the new building.

Arthur Coles and E. Hepper are among the latest Hedley boys to join the colors. Late last week they left for the front in company with our other local recruit, Sid Edwards. It will be recalled that Mr. Coles' brother passed through here a few days ago on his way to join the Strathcona Horse.

Monday last found Jack Lyall bidding his Hedley friends good-bye, prior to leaving for the East. Jack is headed for Toronto where he will take a course in electrical engineering. Though he has been contemplating the move for some time his rather sudden departure came as a little surprise to his many friends here whose good wishes will follow him wherever he may go.

Right under our windows the English Church building is growing. The work is in the hands of the B. B. combination, Boeing and Brass. They are busy B's at all times and the way they have shot the church building up this week shows that they are not making any false moves these days. Building a church while the weather fiend is hitching up his trousers to make trouble is quite an achievement. They have won their race too; yesterday the last shingle went on to the roof, leaving only inside work to be done in case the weather breaks.

ROLLS KEEPS GOOD GOODS

A most pleasant little social event took place at Fraternity Hall last Wednesday evening, when the gentlemen of the L. O. L. treated their lady friends to a little informal entertainment. The evening was spent in games, dancing, music etc., and delicious refreshments were served at the Hall.

Dougan Too Active

At the last meeting of the Vancouver school board a letter, was read from Dr. Alexander Robinson, superintendent of education at Victoria, in which he asked the board to advise J. J. Dougan to "cease his mischievous activity throughout the province" on behalf of his teachers' agency. Dougan was in Hedley about a month ago and visited the school while here.
