A WORTHY MOVEMENT

J. R. Brown, Visits the Valley in the Interests of the Patriotic Fund—Hedley and Keremeos Take Up The Project With Enthusiasm.

On Tuesday afternoon a meeting of the business men of Hedley was held at the Star Theatre for the purpose of forming a local branch of the Patriotic Fund Association. When the meeting had been called to order by chairman G. P. Jones, Mr. J. R. Brown, government agent, of Fairview addressed the assembly at considerable length, setting forth the object and scope of the association. At the instance of the chairman, several citizens briefly expressed their views to the effect that it was no question of generosity, but our simple duty to take the matter up at once and contribute liberally to this fund.

In his initial address and in reply to questions of those present, Mr. Brown explained that the money of the fund were to be devoted exclusively to the relief of families whose bread-winners had been called to the colors, that the relief extended not only to wife and children but to any relative dependent on the soldier called to the front. Furthermore the trustees of the fund make no distinction between volunteers, Regulars, Army, and Navy Reservists, French, Belgian, Serbian and Russian Reservists, inasmuch as they are fighting shoulder to shoulder for the common cause and their families are entitled to equal consideration.

Mr. Brown further pointed out the necessity of a general organization for the whole of Canada, owing to the ability of some communities (such as our own) to collect more than they locally need. Funds locally raised may be transmitted to the Honorary Treasurer at Ottawa or placed to the credit of the Canadian Patriotic Fund at the local bank. When the total amount required for the relief of the families of any given district has been carefully worked out, the Honorary Treasurer will then remit to the local treasurer the amount required.

When Mr. Brown had finally concluded his explanation, a committee consisting of Messrs. Jas. Clarke, chairman; C. P. Dalton, sec'y-treas; F. H. French, Geo. Sproule, G. P. Jones, E. D. Boeing, J. D. Brass, Thos. Rotherham, J. Critchley, A. Winkler, H. G. Freeman and T. W. Beum were appointed to devise ways and means of raising funds. It was decided to call another general meeting on Friday evening in Fraternity Hall at 7.30 o'clock when the committee will present their report.

Again we wish to repeat that this meeting is for everybody, men and women alike. It is our one great opportunity of showing if our patriotism is more than skin deep, and aiding the Empire in its hour of extremity.

A large and enthusiastic meeting took place in the Town Hall on Monday evening at which Mr. J. R. Brown of Fairview assisted in organizing a branch of the Canadian Patriotic Fund.

The meeting was made up of 19 men and 13 women all of whom were desirous of doing everything possible to help in the work. It was decided to hold a concert on Thursday, the 1st October to be followed with a dance and refreshments. A collection will be taken at the door, the minimum amount to be 50 cents, with no limit on the other end. Subscription lists will also be started, so that all who cannot attend the concert will be able to subscribe in this way. The funds thus raised will be put into the general fund of the province. It will also be the duty of the committee to help in the distribution of these funds should cases arise in this district.

The following compose the committee appointed.
W. T. Coleman, Chairman; W. M. Frith, Secy-Treas, assisted by Messrs R. H. Carmichael, Rev. F. H. Stanton, J. A. Brown, H. C. N. Etches, Donald McCallum, F. B. Gibson, H. Tweddle, Mrs. Quant, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Gibson and Mrs. Carmichael.

LADIES' BASKETBALL

Hedley Girls Organize—Plan to Open The Season With A Dance

Indications of winter, pleasant and otherwise, are with us again. One of the pleasant but none the less sure signs of its approach is the reorganization of the Girls' Basketball Club. Last year the girls organized a club from absolutely raw material and after a few stormy sessions, emerged playing a hard headed game. This season the personnel of the team will be virtually the same as formerly. As the original machine is practically intact and working with the added smoothness of a year's experience, we bespeak every success for a season of unbroken success.

The girls will reopen the season by giving an Apron and Tie Dance on the evening of Friday, Oct. 2nd in Fraternity Hall. The usual general admission of $1.50 will be charged and each lady wishing to dance during the evening, is required to wear an apron and bring a tie to match the same. This tie, together with the owner's name, will be placed in a sealed envelope and sold for 25 cents. The lady whose apron matches the tie will then be the partner of the purchaser throughout the evening. Supper will be served by the ladies at the hall, and music will be provided by the Hedley Band Orchestra.

MILITARY UNITS

To the ordinary layman a statement of the military units deployed in any locality conveys only the haziest conception of the numbers of troops engaged. The numerical strength of the various units in most of the Continental armies is as follows:

A regiment at full fighting strength numbers about 3,300 men, under the command of a colonel. Three such regiments form a brigade approximately 10,000 strong, commanded by a major-general. Two brigades constitute a division of 20,000 men, in charge of a lieutenant-general. Two divisions make up an army corps numbering 40,000 men, commanded by a general, and three such corps, fully equipped, form an independent army which includes artillery, cavalry, commissary, engineers and medical field force, aggregating 120,000 men.

While there are some minor variations between the units in the armies of the allies, the above figures are approximately correct and form a fair basis for estimating the numbers of troops from the number of units.

DID YOU SEE THE CROSS?

Did you read an early "extra" at your breakfast, Mr. Brown?
And your coffee—did you like it: did it pleasantly go down.
Did you think, above your bacon, of your peaceful, happy lot;
Ay, and joke about the figures on your china coffee pot?
When your children came around you and your wife beside you sat
Did you throw away your "extra", saying: "Foolish business that!"
When the women called upon you for the wounded and their wives,
Wearing crosses on their bosoms, asking aid for shattered lives,
Did you think about your children, safe at home in luxury,
Or the children of the heroes who are dying hourly?
Did you think about your business and that treasured bit of gold,
Or the business of the Empire and its duties manifold?
To the crimson cross before you were your eyes awake or blind?
Did you bless the cause it symbolized, or poor excuses find?
Did you make a lying promise and put on a sorry face,
Or fulfill your obligations—like the Anglo-Saxon race?
—J. P. BUSCHLEN.

The democracy of Great Britain having kept faith with Ireland, it is now a matter of duty and honor for Ireland to keep faith with them, says John Redmond, the Irish leader, calling on Irishmen to bear their share in the war in which the empire is engaged.

LADIES ORGANIZE

Local Branch of the L. O. B. A. Formed At Hedley

On Monday evening, last, Fraternity Hall was the scene of a most interesting event in the annals of Hedley Orange Lodge, when a local chapter of the Ladies' Orange Benevolent Association was organized in connection with the L. O. L. at this place, under the direction of the Most Worshipful Grand Mistress Talk of Vancouver. The event was a session of mingled business and pleasure, the early part of the programme being in the nature of an informal concert after which light refreshments were served, to be followed in turn by the real business of the evening—the organization of the ladies' lodge.

The meeting was called to order by chairman H. F. Jones at 7.30 o'clock and the programme opened by a song from Mr. J. Howe. W. Lonsdale contributed a couple of instrumental selections. Mrs. W. F. Forbes followed with a pleasing recitation; and a trio consisting of Messrs. G. Knowles, T. Knowles and J. Howe, rendered the British marching song "It's a Long Way to Tipperary" amid prolonged applause. Short speeches were given by the chairman, Most Worshipful East Grand Master, J. J. Talk; Bro. S. Knowles and others, prior to the address of the evening by the Most Worshipful Mistress who dealt exhaustively with the purposes, scope, and history of Orangism and the relation of the Ladies' Benevolent Association thereto. When the prospective initiates had received adequate instruction, the mere men were ejected and the mysteries begun.

Following is the official designation of the lodge and a list of the officers elected:

MINING NOTES

Those who think that the Reco high grade has been all worked out of the property would do well to feast their eyes on the fine stuff that has been taken out by Johnny Nopp during the past week or two. Some of it is so near the clear stuff that it was bottled, other specimens constitute a plate display, and still more is securely sacked. A few days ago about two tons from the general run was taken over to the Molson G. M. Co., mill for a test run through that plant, and we will anxiously await results.—Chesaw News.

Everything is looking good on the S. and M. group, according to S. Spencer, who came down from there this week. These claims are on Spencer Mountain on Whipsaw creek, and there are seven claims in all. There is a 400-foot tunnel all timbered, and Mr. Spencer has crossed the ledge on both sides. He has two feet of clean ore which runs from $37 to $210 to the ton. The group lies about 20 miles from Princeton on the Hope trail. The government is putting in a wagon road to the property and four miles of it has already been completed. The road has an easy grade and it will cost very little to complete it.—Similkameen Star.

President Wilson's reply to the counter protests from the European belligerents is stated as being non-committal. This means that it is the elongation of nothing.

It is reported that an Austrian ammunition cart, containing cases of cartridges with explosive bullets (the kind which do more terrible injury than even the dum-dum bullets), has been captured by the Russians.

GERMAN SLANDERS

Sir Edward Grey Publishes Explicit Denial of Charge That Allies Use Dum-Dum Bullets

Sir Edward Grey has caused the following categorical denial of the German charge that the British and French troops have been using dum-dum bullets to be published in Holland.

"His Majesty's Government declares publicly and officially that the statement made by the German general staff to the effect that dum-dum bullets were found on English and French prisoners of war is entirely untrue. Neither the British or French army has in its possession, or has issued, any but approved patterns of rifle and revolver ammunition, which do not infringe in any respect the provisions of the Hague convention."
(Sgd.) Grey, Foreign Office, London.

THE UNIONISTS PROTEST

After the Unionist had made a formal protest and had left the Chamber, the House of Commons yesterday afternoon passed through all its stages the bill introduced by Mr. Asquith to suspend the operation of the Irish Home Rule and the Welsh Disestablishment bills.

Introducing his bill, the Premier strongly repudiated the assertion that the Government had violated any of its assurances not to proceed with controversial legislation.

To have postponed passage of any of the bills until after the termination of the war, he said, would have had a deplorable effect on the Irish race all over the world and on Irish recruiting. The Premier promised that before the Home Rule bill came into operation the Government would introduce an entirely new amending bill.

EXTERMINATION OF ANTS

The subjoined recipe for eradicating ants may be of interest to local gardeners and orchardists. The method has been tried out in a practical way and endorsed by J. A. Hughes of the United States Agricultural Department.

For an ordinary ant hill, take a lump of potassium cyanide (K.C.N.) the size of a hickory nut and push well down in the nest. Use commercially pure cyanide, which can be obtained at any drug store.

The fumes will penetrate every ally of the nest, killing all ants therein as well as all that return to the nest for an indefinite time.

Potassium cyanide is one of the most dangerous of poisons and the greatest of care must be exercised to prevent any animal from finding it. The fumes are very penetrating and are most dangerous to any person or animal.

After placing in the nest for several days, remove the lump, which often has lost most of its strength after several days' exposure.

Always keep cyanide in a tight jar or bottle; never in a box or paper package.

GENERAL JOTTINGS

The British House of Commons has passed Premier Asquith's measure to suspend the operation of the Home Rule and Welsh Disestablishment Bills for the time being.

The United States have entered into an engagement with France, Great Britain, China and Spain whereby the signatories agree to submit any dispute which cannot be settled by diplomacy to a permanent commission of investigation for the term of one year. Similar treaties have been effected by Uncle Sam with twenty-two South and Central American countries.

Mail can now be sent from Edmonton to Fort George over the Grand Trunk Pacific.

Roseland Town Council is in a state of near insurrection over Judge Brown's decision, cutting the city's assessment some $20,000. Mayor Willison declares that, under the present conditions, brought about about by Judge Brown's scale of valuation, the city is virtually bankrupt.

A PREMIER OF COURAGE

If Sir Richard McBride had listened to the timid folk, who thought he ought to wait for more auspicious times before he launched his railway policy, we fear he would have had to wait a long time. We make no claim that he foresaw what is happening, but he is certainly entitled to the credit of having realized when the time was auspicious to finance great undertakings. The result is that we have the Canadian Northern Pacific and the Kettle River Valley lines nearing completion, as far as the main line of the former is concerned and all of the latter, and the Pacific Great Eastern being pushed along as if the war had never been thought of. All of which goes to show that if a Premier cannot be a prophet, the next best thing is to have lots of pluck and a fair share of luck.

THE PRAYER OF A RIGHTEOUS MAN

There is a somewhat ludicrous aspect to President Wilson's action in setting aside a day of public prayer for the cessation of the struggle in Europe. The war is either good or it is evil; the Creator is addressed as all-powerful, all-seeing, all-benevolent and all-wise. If the war is, in some inscrutable manner, working for the good of the race, then consider the presumption of any man or body of men praying for its termination. If the war is an evil; then surely the fact is known in Heaven without promptings from the Earth. A Providence, all-seeing and all-wise, needs no suggestions from below to distinguish between good and evil. A Providence, all-powerful, can abolish the evil and sustain the good. A Providence, all-benevolent, will do this without instructions and a Providence, not benevolent, will hardly listen to a prattled prayer.

Prayer that craves a particular benefit—anything less than all good—is vain and unworthy. Prayer to effect a private end is mean and mediant. Emerson compares it to theft. A man who is in harmony with God will not beg. He will make a prayer of every action he performs. If we accept the providential scheme of things as intrinsically just and right, strive after harmony with that scheme and consecrate every conscious willing act of our lives to the furtherance of the beautiful and the good,—that is prayer.

If the smiling fields of Belgium, scourged into a wilderness of desolation, if the thousands of stark corpses feeding kites and crows on the banks of the Marne, if the soft flesh of sleeping women torn by bombs cast from the clouds into peaceful towns, if the old tired faces of little children, sick and broken and ready to die,—if these things make no effective prayer for themselves, is the pattered shibboleth at the cathedral likely to prove availing?

For decades the world has been praying against war and waving against prayer; and, to believers in the system, the present result must be sorry consolation. Europe's wretched present is the logical sequence of her hypocritical past. Let men or nations cut each others' throats if they will, but not cut each others' throats in the name of the Lord, and then, against the havoc created, fly whimpering to the throne of grace to make the Almighty the dumping ground for their own misdeeds.

A BRICKBAT

In your last week's issue, I note with regret the appearance of a most cynical article with regard to the formulae appended to our parliamentary documents and under the heading of "Unconscious Burlesque". While the formulae may appear to the most adverse critic of American origin as being a little ancient, it is due to a good many of those old official usages that our judicial bodies owe their air of dignity so essential to that respect for law and order without which peace is any country is an unknown factor. The least sympathetic will concede that we are extremely fortunate in possessing such an exalted personage to preside over the destinies of our vast but sparsely populated Dominion. One by virtue of such exalted social ties of which the formulae in question not only expressly decorates, but carries with it to the votaries of chivalry and honour that clear ring of genuineness characteristic of the British aristocracy and gentry, that, however, in reality are virtually the most democratic of any class, and to whom the most cupping critics of austerity, are silent. All the orders enumerated in the formulae are scales in which public merit is carefully weighed.

They are incentives to public spirited men, and mark the best to distinguish them apart from the populace. As money and death makes all men equal, social distinction of a high standard has invariably the tendency to remove a man from the possible taint of the slimy gutters of sordid graft. Of Royal descent, a champion of democracy, and representing that glorious symbol of liberty, justice and honor, the British crown, the lustre of which as no modern equal. I therefore hope the sense of dignity of the formulae is appreciated by moral thinking people, than that mesanthropic quotation of last week's issue.

EDITOR'S NOTE

The above is a personal letter from a subscriber, relative to a skit which appeared in our editorial columns last week. Home truths, vigorously told, never hurt any one and we are always pleased to receive criticisms, wise or otherwise. The evident sincerity of our subscriber's remarks makes them worthy of publication. While not wishing to enter any controversy, we desire to observe in self justification that we regard the Duke of Connaught a high minded gentleman whose intrinsic qualities of statesmanship are such as not to require half a yard of extrinsic decorations for the purpose of compensating respect. We have been accused of many things at one time or another but never before of anything savoring of disrespect to British institutions. We are familiar with the orders and decorations in question; and, as they were mostly unearned, we are at a loss to understand just how they add dignity to the holder. Finally we fail to see anything immoral in the belief that our parliamentary edicts can command respect on their merits without carrying so much excess baggage in the form of quaint mouthings from the middle ages.

Better than Ringing Door-bells

A PIANO manufacturer recently made a house-to-house canvass. He's one of those men with an absurd fear of the "waste-circulation" bugaboo—cannot get away from the haunting thought that only 10 out of every 100 readers of a newspaper may be possible buyers of his goods.

So he refused to advertise, and went a-canvassing—inviting people to come to his piano recitals. Then he wondered why they didn't come.

This is why:

He wasn't reaching the people.

His canvassers rang every door-bell in town. They talked to some one in every house.

But one in every household isn't enough—particularly if it doesn't happen to be the right person. And, as a rule, it wasn't the right person—it was a servant, or a child. The woman of the house was seldom seen; the man of the house, never.

Now, if the piano maker had placed an ad. in the newspaper, it would have reached thousands, where the canvassers could reach only hundreds.

And even though only 10 per cent. of the readers are actual piano buyers, this does not mean that the advertising read by the other 90 per cent. is wasted. Advertising talks, not only to the prospective buyer, but also to his wife, his grown-up sons and daughters, his mother—even his mother-in-law. Their coaxing will help to convince the head of the house—and pretty soon there'll be a piano in that home.

This and dozens of similar cases which might be cited to show that "waste circulation" is an empty bugaboo, and should deter no one.

Take the motor truck. It can be sold only to large firms. Yet a motor truck manufacturer is successfully Advertising in daily papers. He realizes that he must reach, not alone the managers of the concerns that require trucks, but also their directors, their foremen, their head machinists, etc. It is found in actual practice that this Advertising radiates in a thousand directions, and again converges most astonishingly to influence the house that has made up its mind that horse-trucking is too costly and inefficient.

Advice regarding your advertising problems is available through any recognized Canadian advertising agency, or the Secretary of the Canadian Press Association, Room 503 Lumsden Bldg., Toronto. Enquiry involves no obligation on your part—so write if interested.

Keremeos, B. C., Sept 10th, 1914 To the Editor Hedley Gazette.

Dear Sir: The spirit that imbues German militarism, the spirit that is responsible for the widespread bloodshed, misery and ruin, that are being caused by the war, stands revealed in the peremptory and brutal demand that has been made on Belgium. It sins almost as flagrantly against justice and righteousness, if not against humanity, as if the City of Brussels ever had been delivered up to sack. It is not intended as punishment or exacton, of an indemnity. There has been no offence to punish and no wrong to avenge, except that committed by those who have in almost so many words, avowed themselves guilty of a gross, and unprovoked breach of their pledges, and of international law. It is meant to crush to intimidate, to humiliate. In fact, it is the act of a private state, and it is perhaps well that it should have been perpetrated thus early in the war, and in this conspicuous way; so that the nations that are engaged in the struggle, and also those now looking on should have a clear view of the nature of the work they have taken in hand and of the kind of antagonists they have to encounter.

Yours truly, WILLIAM THOMPSON.

Hedley, B. C. Sept. 23rd, 1914.

Editor Gazette, Dear Sir— Some busy-body has been circulating the report around town that I was the cause of Master Hughie McKenzie running away to Keremeos, as they say I thrashed him on Saturday which the boy himself denies.
