Meeting of City Council

The council met Monday morning, the Mayor, Aldermen Sutherland, Copeland, Raymer, Blackwood and Taylor present.

Mr. J. S. Chapman, of Peachland, agent for the "Minimax" fire extinguisher, waited on the council with a model of the apparatus, which he explained. He suggested that the council purchase a number for the use of the brigade. The council promised to be present at a practical demonstration which Mr. Chapman undertook to give next Tuesday evening.

Mr. R. Duncan, lessee of the opera house, appeared respecting the erection of a bill board on a vacant lot on main street. The work had been stopped by the chief constable until permission had been obtained from the council.

The request presented a new problem to the council and after some discussion it was decided to take the matter up in committee.

An employee of the Telephone Co. attended with a request that the council allow him to erect a tent on the company's lot as a temporary residence. As the proposed location came within the fire limits the request was referred to the city solicitor who gave it as his opinion that the council could not grant the request if they wished to comply with the provisions of the Building By-Law.

A letter was read from Mr. G. A. Chick complaining that the pumping operations of the sewerage engineers had caused his well to run dry. He desired to make arrangements with a neighbour for a supply from the city mains.

Ald. Sutherland replied that the matter had been attended to by the committee.

An invitation to the council was received from the City Clerk of Calgary to attend a conference to be held there October 24th to 26th to discuss a uniform building code for western cities.

A reply to the city clerk's letter respecting the untidy state of the wharf was received from Superintendent Kilpatrick, who stated that arrangements had already been made for building a new freight shed this year, and it was the intention to apply for appropriations for some further extensions next year.

A communication was received from Lieut-Colonel H. C. Lowther respecting the visit of the Duke of Connaught on Saturday, in reply to a letter from the mayor, announcing the arrangements made for His Royal Highness' reception.

Lieut.-Col. Lowther, who is military secretary to His Royal Highness, thanked the mayor for his letter, the proposals of which, he said, were fully appreciated. Their Royal Highnesses, would be glad to have a certain number of people presented to them, including civic officials and their wives and others to the number of 40 or 50. "As regards the proposed drive," said the writer, "I think it will be better to leave definite decision until arrival. It may be bad weather, or else their Royal Highnesses may not be up to it, or perhaps the Duke and not the Duchess will drive the whole way to Vernon. Then let us say that the drive in the country is definite and the drive to Vernon is to be left for decision at the time of arrival."

A strong letter was received from Mr. W. R. Pooley complaining of the insanitary conditions at the rear of the Royal Hotel. The letter was referred to the Health Committee.

A letter enclosing plans of new C.P.R. trackage was received from the Right of Way and Lease Agent at Vancouver. A resolution approving of the plans was passed.

By-law 117, dealing with the widening of Pendozi street received its final reading.

Ald. Copeland was granted a month's leave of absence, he intending paying a visit to Saskatchewan.

The meeting then adjourned.

Okanagan Centre

(From our own correspondent)

Messrs. Will Bailey and Bob McKinley are confined to the Kelowna Hospital with an attack of typhoid fever. We wish for them a speedy recovery.

We understand the Geo. Wollen property has been sold to Mr. Powley of Long Lake. This property consists of some seventy acres and is practically cleared. It lies between the properties owned by Mr. Gus. Macdonnell on the north and W. Swalwell on the south, and is a choice piece of bottom land.

Mr. Geo. New has sold his 12 acre lot in the Woods Lake bottom, to Mr. Syd. Edwards, the price being in the neighborhood of $3,000. This lot was all cleared out of the forest by Mr. New himself, and has been cropped twice. It is a good level piece of land and is close to the site of the proposed C. N. R. station on the Hanthorpe Ranch.

A number of the residents of the district drove to Kelowna on Thursday and Friday to take in the Kelowna Fall Fair. They report the Fair as not being quite up to the size of last year's show, although there was a number of really good exhibits. Amongst some of the local prize winners were Mr. A. D. Monsees and Mr. E. B. Gay.

Mr. W. Scott, proprietor of the Vernon-Kelowna automobile stage reports travel to be quite heavy this fall, often taxing his accomodation to the utmost to handle all the passengers, as well as large quantities of express and freight.

The Vernon Automobile Club have placed a number of prominent signs in red and yellow at the forks of the principal roads through the district directing the traveller to his destination. This action on the part of the club is to be highly commended and will mean the saving of a good deal of vexatious delay which is often caused by the inability to determine the right road to take.

The digging of the holes and the erection of the telephone poles by the Okanagan Telephone Co., is again well under way in the district, and another two weeks will see them all in between Kelowna and Vernon. Survey for a branch line has been made to the Okanagan Centre post office, leaving the old Vernon road at the 17 mile post and following the new road to the Centre via the Rainbow Gulch. It is not expected, however, that the line and the spur to Carr's Landing will be installed before the spring of next year as the company is devoting all its energy to the completion of the main line this Fall.

Mr. T. Rayburn, superintendent of the Okanagan Valley Land Co., in company with the president, Mr. J. J. Warren, made a trip through the country to the south returning last Tuesday. Mr. Rayburn was over a good deal of the Kettle River Valley railway construction during the journey, and reports good progress being made although the shortage of labor is acutely felt. The section from Midway to Carmi on the west fork where the road strikes west across the divide to Okanagan Lake, will be turned over by the contractors in another six weeks, and a train service established between these two points. January 1915 is the date now set for the completion of the line to Penticton.

A number of local horses left Tuesday morning for the Vernon Fall Fair races which take place this week. Penticton's Fall Fair takes place on Friday, October 18.

Their Royal Highnesses the Duke and Duchess of Connaught, who will visit Kelowna Saturday next.

New Tobacco Factory

Building operations commenced this week on the new factory for the British North America Tobacco Co., Ltd., on Ellis street, which will cost in the neighbourhood of $26,000 complete.

The building will be of brick throughout with reinforced concrete foundations, having a 40 ft frontage on Ellis Street and running back 140 ft. to the car platform at the rear. It will consist of three floors; on the ground floor the offices will be situated and bonded warehouse, general storage, elevator and heating cellar; on the first floor will be sorting and packing rooms, workrooms and stripping rooms, and on the second floor fermentation rooms.

The front will be of local brick, having moulded sills, cornices, window heads, &c. The building will be heated throughout by steam.

The general contract has been let to Mr. Geo. A. Bowser; Mr. C. G. Clement has the contract for the brickwork and concrete and the Morrison-Thompson Co. the heating. Mr. P. Edmund Corby of the Crowley Block is the architect who also prepared the plans for the homes for the company now being built on Coronation Avenue.

Wilson Landing and West Side Notes

Kelowna's Annual Exhibition

List of Prize Winners

Kelowna's Fall Fair has once more came and gone, and the Agriculture and Trades Association can once more congratulate themselves upon its success. Although in some classes a decline of entries was noticed, yet these were amply compensated for by the big increase in others, the total number of entries being well in advance of last year.

The most remprkable advance was in the poultry section, the large number of entries in which has already been referred to. Mr. J. C. Stockwell was the largest exhibitor winning the Josselyn Cup for the best display of poultry. As president of the new Poultry Association, Mr. Stockwell is doing much to arouse local interest in poultry keeping, Mr J. W. Shain had a fine display of White Orpingtons, housed in his improved pens.

Another section which showed large increase was the ladies' fancy work. The exhibits being crowded, however, were not displayed to the best advantage.

Casorso Bros. had their usual display of vegetables and field produce, a rival appearing this year in the shape of C. C. Prowse, who showed some fine produce grown in that district.

The "big pumpkin" prize this year was taken by Mr. J. C. Stockwell with a monster which tipped the beam at 176 lbs.

A fine display of fruit was on show which for size, coloring and quality was a revelation to many visitors. Curiously enough, however, the display was confined almost entirely to plate entries, the box classes being completely neglected.

The collection of soft fruits—peaches, plums, grapes, &c.. was very much larger than usual.

A plate of huge pears grown by Capt. Knight attracted some attention, one weighing nearly 2 pounds, and the plate of five 7½ lbs.

The British North America Tobacco Co., had a booth at one end of the building, showing the process of manufacturing cigars from local tobacco. Another exhibit was that of Clement-Riggs, who showed various kinds of local made brick and tile.

The total gate money for the two days amounted to $939.55 half of which goes to the Racing Association. This does not include the returns from membership tickets of which nearly 100 more were sold this year than last.

To be strictly truthful the races were somewhat of a disappointment. The weather in the first place was chilly, rain threatening most of the time. The entries too were poor, and the delays between events, always a source of annoyance, were longer than usual, many of the scheduled races being left out altogether.

The results were as follows:-

Dramatic Society to Reorganize

The Kelowna Musical and Dramatic Society held a meeting last Wednesday and decided to produce Gilbert & Sullivan's "Yeomen of the Guard," in the coming season. They also made tentative arrangements for the production of a farce before Christmas, and possibly a high class concert. The latter however will partly depend on the organization of the orchestra, and if there are any musicians in Kelowna or district who would like to help, they are requested to send their names to the secretary or any of the people mentioned below.

Members are also wanted for the Dramatic and Operatic sections. The Society has every hope that the response to this appeal will ensure a successful season, and equal, if not exceed, the success of "Iolanthe" or the "Mikado."

Names may be handed to the following: J. F. Burne, Pres., D. W. Crowley, Vice-Pres., P. DuMoulin, L. E. Taylor, J. M. Croft, R. C. Reed, B. G. Meyrick, Stanley Hodkinson, or the secretary, J. L. Macready.

The ball held, in aid of the Kelowna Hospital, at Ellison School was a decided success. Mr. Morrison and committee wish to express their thanks for the manner in which the people of Kelowna and district came to their assistance It is hoped that in the future an annaul ball will be held. The proceeds amounting to twenty-five dollars have been given to the hospital.

The new hardware firm of Dalgleish & Harding now announce that they are ready for business, and plenty of it. The last few weeks has been spent in rearranging the interior of the store and in opening up large consignments of new goods, and the shelves are now filled with a splendid stock which covers every requirement for building and the household.

EXPENSIVE STAMPS

Examine Your Old Envelopes. They May Bring a Fortune to You. Many Valuable Collections Started Small.

How a little defect or slight variation in printing may enhance the value of a postage stamp in the collector's eyes is strikingly illustrated by the keen competition which exists at the present time to secure specimens of a new variety of the current penny postage stamp, with the portrait of King George V., which has just been placed on sale. The variety is denoted by the presence of a full-stop following the letter "A" in what is known as the control number, "A. 11" appearing on the bottom margin of the sheets, a mark which is absent from all those issued before the present month. For two days in June the new penny stamps were printed by the Stamping Department of the Board of Inland Revenue at Somerset House, before the plates were handed over to Messrs. Harrison's, the new contractors, and in that time stamps to the value of $140,000 were produced. The sheets of this printing were placed at the bottom of the stock, and have consequently only just been issued, although collectors have for several months been on the "qui vive" to secure this marginal control variety.

It is foreign stamps, however, which provide the most remarkable instances of values being increased on account of differences of impression. A writer mentions that $2,000 was paid for a fourpenny blue of Western Australia (first issue), the high price being solely due to the fact that the centre had been accidentally inverted; the ordinary stamp without this error of impression is only worth $250.

The "Connell" Stamp

Then again, used specimens of what is known as the "Connell" five cents brown (1860) of New Brunswick are worth as much as $375. The value of the stamp lies in the fact that it bears the effigy of the Colonial Postmaster-General of the name of Connell, who, about the end of 1859, when the currency of the colony was changed from pence to cents, was ordered by the Government to print new stamps for the altered values No special instructions being given about colour or design, Connell took the ill-advised course of embellishing the five-cent stamp with his own portrait. Of course, as soon as the Government noticed this, they ordered the withdrawal of the stamps, and Connell, considering himself aggrieved, sent in his resignation. Although the order was given for the destruction of the Connell stamps, some of them escaped, and these are much prized by collectors.

A printer's error led to the first stamps issued by the Grand Duchy of Baden becoming greatly enhanced in value. The six kreuzer value is printed in black on green paper and the nine kreuzer in black on rose. Owing to an error, some of the nine kreuper stamps were printed on green paper. There are only three of these believed to be in existence, and an envelope to which one of these was affixed was sold for $500 to a well-known collector.

Ten Most Valuable Stamps

The question has often been asked, "Which is the most scarce and stamp in the world?" Here are the first ten from a list of the 100 scarcest stamps in the world, recently published: British Guiana (1856), one cent, black on magenta; do. (1851), two cents, rose; Hawaii (1851), two cents, blue; Mauritius (1847), Post Office, two-penny blue; do. (1847), do., penny red; Roumania (Moldavia, 1858), eighty-one para, blue on bluish paper; British Guiana (1856), four cents, black on blue; Hawaii (1851), thirteen cents, blue; do. (1851), five cents, blue; Canada (1851), twelve pence, black.

Although the famous Mauritius stamp does not head the list, it is the most costly stamp in the world. As a matter of fact, the stamps most prized by collectors are the first issue of Mauritius, a penny and twopence, of 1847. It is difficult to affix a definite value to these stamps, but to-day they are probably worth $7,500 to $10,000 each, though they are not the scarcest stamps known. It is not many years since they could have been obtained for $100 each and by many persons that price was thought at the time to be ridiculously high. This will give some idea of how scarce stamps increase in value.

King George's Purchase.

In the year 1904 a specimen of the twopenny blue Mauritius of 1847 was put up for auction. It was by no means perfect, for, though it was unused, the gum was wanting, which is reckoned a defect by collectors. Nevertheless it was sold for $7,250 the actual purchaser being the Prince of Wales now King George.

Perhaps the most complete collection of stamps in the world belonged to the late Sir William Avery, of the Birmingham weighing-machine making company. His collection was sold by his executors for $122,500. Compiled throughout a long life, from the age of eight, it is considered to be the largest collection of postage stamps in the world, next to that contained in the British Museum.

The money obtained for the Avery collection, however, is by no means a record. The following are the prices recently realized at the sales of notable stamp collections: Ayre collection, $225,000; Mann collection, $150,000; Paul collection, $57,000; Thomson collection, $35,000.

Would Find Them Useful

A farmer was the other day paid for the first time in his life by cheque.

"What's this?" he said.

"Why, brass for the beats," said the cattle-dealer.

The farmer stared, and had to be assured that if he took it to the bank they would give him gold for it.

FORTUNE FROM A SHOVEL

The Shovel Used by Navvies on Canadian Road Making an Invention of a Labourer in England.

The simplest labour-saving device may quite possibly be worth a fortune. Eighty-nine years ago a number of men were at work on the road-bed of a line of railway in course of construction between Birmingham and Manchester, England. They were cutting through a hill and moving the material by loosening it with picks, shovelling it into barrows, and wheeling it away. The shovels they were using were known as Irish shovels, with a square-cornered blade about 15 in. long. The work progressed but slowly, and the sub-contractor in charge rebuked his workmen for not making quicker progress. One of them replied that if he would grind off the corners of the shovels it would be easier to get them into the earth, and consequently they would be able to work more quickly.

The contractor ridiculed the idea, which he considered a piece of insolence on the part of the workman, but the navvy was quite in earnest and not easily discouraged. When the work was completed he discussed the matter with a friend of his at Sheffield, who persuaded an ironmonger he knew to make a dozen or so as an experiment. The tools were offered to a large contractor, who promised to let some of his men use the new shovels and report results.

About a week afterwards the contractor returned with the information that his men were fairly quarrelling as to who should use the new tools, some arriving to work a quarter of an hour before time in order to be there first when the tool-box was opened. The navvy's suggestion had proved a good one; a patent was secured, and an agreement made between the navvy, the manufacturer, and the contractor. When the navvy died he left a fortune of over $335,000 the proceeds from royalties on the manufacture of shovels under his patent.

FAMOUS SNUFF-TAKERS

The eighteenth century was the age of snuff-taking "par excellence." The custom was general among all classes of people, it was an act of politeness for well-bred men to offer their snuff-boxes to well-bred women. Women themselves carried their own boxes, and interchanged pinches with the gentlemen and in Canada it was fashionable amongst the officials.

At fashionable dinner-parties after the cloth was removed snuff-boxes were passed around. Pope and Bolingbroke, Swift and Congreve, Addison and Steele, all indulged in the pleasure. Dr. Johnson carried his snuff in the capacious pockets of his waistcoat, and would convey it to his nose without stint. He could not abide the narrow confines of a box. Frederick the Great resembled him in this respect. Both Napoleon and Wellington were prodigious snuff-takers, but Washington indulged only moderately. Jefferson was fond of snuff, as his waistcoat and frill often showed. Henry Clay was another famous snuff-taker, and often needed the stimulus of a pinch when making a speech.

Proverbs of Tripoli

Some proverbs of the Tripolitan people which have lately been published in a Turkish paper show what a refreshing fountain of wisdom is about to be stopped up by Italian aggression.

"You cannot," says one of the proverbs, "escape your fate, even on a horse."

"Whoever," says another, "has maize will soon find one who will lend him flour."

"If a dog has to be beaten," says a third, with a familiar though perhaps more elegant ring, "there will be no lack of sticks."

A fourth proverb points out that "Whoever is seeking pearls must go to the depths of the ocean." Yet another shrewdly remarks that "Even a sooth-sayer cannot foretell his own fate." A very cynical proverb says that "Whoever trusts a woman has been smitten by God, and God punishes everybody according to his deserts."

Kitchener a Stage Manager

An interesting incident in the life of Lord Kitchener was recorded some years ago by Mr. Hermann Klein. Refering to the rehearsals of "Human Nature" at Drury Lane, in the days of the late Sir Augustus Harris, Mr. Klein says: "Actively assisting in arranging an African fight was a gentleman in a frock-coat and tall hat, of undeniable military appearance, who impressed me both by his quiet, masterful manner and the imperturbable patience with which he directed manoeuvres to be repeated over and over again until they were satisfactorily executed. After the rehearsal was concluded I went upon the stage. Augustus Harris was talking to his military adviser. He beckoned me to approach. 'Klein, I want to introduce you to my friend, Major Kitchener, who has been kind enough to come and help me with this "soldiering" work. What do you think of it? Did you ever see such fighting and marching on the stage before?"

Changing Habits in Britain.

One who served as manager of a leading hotel in London for twenty-five years, tells in a recent publication of the changing habits of British business men. He says when he first assumed the management of the hotel in question, business men made it a practice to go to their offices by eight or nine in the morning, and thought nothing of staying until until seven. At that time, however, they spent two hours over luncheon in mid-day. Now the usual practice is to start the day at half-past ten and quit at half-past five, but to take a hurried lunch in mid-day, and to keep under high pressure from the time they start until the time they actually quit.

THE CHINAMAN

What a Late Chaplain to the Forces at Hong-Kong Thinks of the Chinese.

Napoleon said that when China was moved the face of Europe would be changed. Yet, as the Chinese are naturally peaceful, we think that the Yellow Peril is a commercial one. The peril is that China will manufacture things cheaper than Europeans can and dismiss us from the trade of the Far East. How can we, with our high standard of comfort, strikes, and unrest generally, compete with the Chinese, combining, as they do, the active industry of the most civilized people with the passive patience of the North American Indian? Far more than we do the Chinese believe in the power of character and intellect. With this, rather than with armies and navies, they will conquer.

A Chinese is nearly always a person of resource. A young man was accused of knocking out his father's teeth, and was in danger of being put to death. A friend visited him and whispered in his ear, "It's a bad case."

Suddenly seizing the ear between his teeth, he gave it a severe bite.

"What do you mean?" asked the young man, raising his fist.

"I mean," was the answer, "that you are saved; you have only to show the marks of my teeth and say that they were made by your father, whose teeth, being shaky, dropped out."

Business Before Sentiment.

Two small things impress foreigners with the skill of the Chinese. One is the way they carve ivory balls, one within the other, to the number of seven or eight; and the other the inscription of minute characters inside agate or crysta snuff-bottles.

A Chinaman always appears to be looking round the corners of his eyes at you, and to have a meaning that you cannot get at. He gives you the impression that somebody, when he was born, sat on his nose, and that he has been lamenting the calamity ever since. And yet, though he never lays aside this expression of resigned wretchedness, the average Chinese is not at all more miserable than the average Britisher.

Speaking of Britishers, we may say that they and Chinamen have much in common. Both have a great capacity for making and enjoying money. Both have business aptitude and integrity, do their work well, and appreciate a good dinner. Equally with Englishmen, Celestials have common sense and respect for law, and do not allow sentiment to interfere with business. The Chinese are the British of the Far East, and the Japanese are the French.

Fond of Sport.

The Chinese are not less conservative than the English. They dread any change that may cause trouble or disorder, and this is why they have put up so long with their wretched government. "Better be a dog in peace," they say, "than a man in anarchy." The "dog in peace" has now risen to war; let us hope that the splendid empire of China will not remain in anarchy.

Like the British, also, the Chinese are fond of sport, though their idea of sport is peculiar. They train quails, thrushes, and even fish to fight, and they bet on these, and on almost every other event.

The Chinese contrivances for the management and capture of beast, bird, and fish are as ingenious as they are simple. If, for instance, a donkey disturbs by braying in the night, a big stone is tied to his tail, and this humiliates him into silence.

When a Chinaman wishes to catch wild ducks he mixes an intoxicating spirit made of rice with corn and leaves the mixture for the birds. They become intoxicated, and are taken in their cups, so to speak. Another way is to put a gourd on his head and swim gently among the ducks. They are not frightened, because they only see the gourd and are accustomed to that, and the artful John pulls one duck after another by the legs into a bag attached to him. Everyone knows that John Chinaman trains cormorants to catch fish, not for themselves, but for him.

After cold water, there is nothing the Chinese so much fear as ridicule and disgrace, or the "loss of face." A magistrate who was to be beheaded asked that, as a special favour, he might wear his robes of office in order to save his face!

The Chinese are great at organizing. The trade guilds which are established in every town are quite as powerful as our trade unions. Even beggars and thieves have guilds. Every morning the king of the beggars sends a detachment of his sackcloth-clad or nearly unclad subjects to collect poor-rates in the districts assigned to them. Owners of property pay so much a year to "the honourable guild of thieves" in order not to be robbed.

SHAM BATTLE SHAMS

The military manoeuvres were in a muddle. The "Purples" were supposed to be invading the territory of the "Greens," but why they were or what they were they didn't exactly know.

A large detachment of the 'Purples' began to cross the river by a wooden bridge to attack a small detachment of 'Greens.'

"Hi!" roared the 'Greens.' "Hi! You mustn't cross here! Can't you see the notice? This bridge is supposed to be destroyed."

"H'm! Is it?" responded the captain of the 'Purples,' grimly. "Well, then, we're supposed to be swimming across."

Costly Panama Hats

Even in modern times there have been men's hats which cost far more than anything worn by the ladies. That, for instance, presented to General Grant when he was in Mexico cost $1500, and justly claims to be the finest sombrero ever made. The admirers of Mr. Steward, a member of President Lincoln's Cabinet, too, paid $1000 for the Panama with which they presented him.

Amusements

"Managing Mildred"

"Managing Mildred" a two act musical comedy farce, appears this season in a brand new dress and many original costumes. The piece has been entirely rewritten, and every number in the brilliant little show is new and composed especially for Juanita Rush, the clever little comedienne, and Chas. Picquet, both of whom are well known to our local amusement seekers. Two new members are added to the caste, and a new four piece ladies orchestra, carefully culled from the important musical centres, travels with the Company. Another new feature is the specially painted scenery by the Belgian scenic artist Paul Hender. All in all "Managing Mildred" promises much and will apparently do more than that. This company will appear in the Kelowna Opera House for one night only, Tuesday, October 8th.

A Romance of the Sea

When the Titanic sank under the ice-covered Atlantic last spring one of the first cabin passengers among the rescued was a young girl, scarcely out of her teens, and the curve of her lip still faintly suggesting childhood. She had saved her dearest possession, and held it clasped in both arms as the lifeboat bumped and swayed amongst the ice. It was her violin, and instinctively her slender fingers sought the sodden strings, as cold and dank as her half frozen hands. Next to her sat a French girl, wide-eyed and silent. Thus Wilna Bains, violiniste, and Marie Tris, pianiste, met for the first time and their unusual companionship rapidly cemented into intimacy during that fearful night and following day amongst the icebergs. Marie was on her way to Montreal to visit a school girl friend, with whom she had studied in Paris a few years previously. She invited Wilna to accompany her when the refugees reached Halifax. The Montreal friend was Mae Thomas, who played 'Cello, and hearing of these girls through his agent, Charles Picquet secured them for the nucleus of his orchestra which is part of the "Managing Mildred" company.

Summerland Players Coming

"The Summerland Players" those talented amateurs, who made such a hit in the "Truth" last spring will again visit Kelowna on Tuesday, October 15th. The bill this time will be that clever comedy, "Cousin Kate."

When you have a bad cold you want the best medicine obtainable so as to cure it with as little delay as possible. Here is a druggist's opinion: "I have sold Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for fifteen years," says Enos Lollar, of Saratoga, Ind., "and consider it the best on the market." For sale by all dealers.

Write for the "Concrete Book"

IN Canada, where the winters are long and cold, houses must be solid and substantial. No "gingerbread frills," such as distinguish California bungalows, can be permitted. Canadian homes should be built to defy wind and cold, to keep warm inside when it's thirty below out-doors.

IT is because Concrete, of all materials, best withstands wind, water and cold, that it is fast becoming popular with Canadian home-builders. Concrete houses are warm in winter, requiring less coal for heating; they are cool in summer. A Concrete house never needs repairs; because, instead of decaying, it actually grows stronger with time and exposure to the elements.

VERY attractive architectural effects may be obtained with Concrete, especially for houses in the country, where the rough concrete surface harmonizes with its surroundings.

SINCE it never requires repairs, the first cost of a concrete residence is its last cost; and it is cheaper, for this reason, than any other kind of home.

NOT only is Concrete the best material for house-building. It may also be used in scores of other ways around the home and on the farm. For each of these purposes it is the best material known.

IF you haven't investigated the use of Concrete around the home and on the farm, write now for our free book, which tells all about the mixing and placing of Concrete, and describes hundreds of practical uses for it. Just say "Send me your book" in a letter or on a post card, and the book will be sent you absolutely free.

Canada Holds Key to Naval Situation

It has just been discovered that Canada possesses the Key to the European naval problem. When Schneider in 1889 introduced the use of nickel into the manufacture of steel armour plate, he little realized that he was placing in Canada's hands a great means for maintaining the peace of the world.

Battleships without nickel steel armour would be utterly helpless before modern guns. If nickel were no longer obtainable, armour construction would go back a quarter of a century.

Canada to-day produces about 90 per cent. of the world's supply of nickel. Practically all of the remainder comes from New Caledonia, an island in the south-western Pacific controlled by France.

In 1910, the value of nickel ore and matte exported from Canada to the United States was approximately $3,450,000. As the only refineries in America are in the United States, nearly six-sevenths of the Canadian nickel was refined to the south of the border. The refining process raised the value of this Canadian ore to nearly $12,000,000. The major portion of this refined nickel is used in the manufacture of nickel steel.

Consequently, if Canada were to prohibit the export of nickel, the nickel steel industries of Europe would fall into decay, and high-grade armour plate for battleships would be an impossibility.

Naturally such a course would be a bit hard on Canadian nickel producers, but then see what it would do to the world's expenditure on navies.

In these times of wars and rumors of wars it is assuring to know that Canada possesses such a potent weapon making for world peace.

The C.N.R. have secured an extension of a month on options on properties near Armstrong.

A young Swiss named Frank Holm met his death last week near Summerland in the first fatal accident on railway construction in the district. He had crawled into a coyote hole to load it preparatory to blasting. The earth caved in burying him to the waist, and he was smothered before he could be extricated.

The Province of Ontario has six forest reserves having a total area of 17,930 square miles. In addition to these, there are two provincial parks, the combined area of which is 2,075 square miles.

James Cossar, who owned a ranch just north of Summerland was drowned in the lake last week. He had been camping near the Landing and had paid a visit there Saturday evening. His boat was found adrift later with only his dog in it, and it is supposed that the man had fallen overboard. The body has not been found.

SYNOPSIS OF COAL MINING REGULATIONS

Coal mining rights of the Dominion in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the Yukon Territory, the North-west Territories, and in a portion of the Province of British Columbia, may be leased for a term of twenty-one years at an annual rental of $1 an acre. Not more than 2,560 acres will be leased to one applicant.

Application for the lease must be made by the applicant in person to the Agent or Sub-Agent of the district in which the rights applied for are situated.

In surveyed territory the land must be described by sections, or legal subdivisions of sections, and in unsurveyed territory the tract applied for shall be staked out by the applicant himself.

Each application must be accompanied by a fee of $5 which will be refunded if the rights applied for are not available, but not otherwise. A royalty shall be paid on the merchantable output of the mine at the rate of five cents per ton.

The person operating the mine shall furnish the Agent with sworn returns accounting for the full quantity of merchantable coal mined and pay the royalty thereon. If the coal mining rights are not being operated, such returns should be furnished at least once a year.

The lease will include the coal mining rights only, but the lessee may be permitted to purchase whatever available surface rights may be considered necessary for the working of the mine at the rate of $10 an acre.

For full information application should be made to the secretary of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, or to any Agent or Sub-Agent of Dominion Lands.

Better Dinners

"Is dinner ready, Mary?"

"Yes, Madam—it is ready, and, I think, a great success."

"Your cooking is improving."

"Well perhaps it is, and I hope so, but really, Mrs. Housewife, I think our new Gurney-Oxford is partly responsible for the success I have had lately. I was never able to cook roasts and fowl so well on our old stove, and as for bread and biscuits, I used to tremble when I went to take them from the oven—they were so often soggy and heavy. Now they are always light and beautifully brown, and, if I do say it myself, something to be proud of."

"That's true, Mary, my husband has said almost the same thing. I'm awfully glad you approve of my choice of a Gurney-Oxford. He approves because of the saving in coal since we got it, also because of the better meals he is getting."

"Indeed he's right, Madam—and it requires so little attention."

"That's fine, Mary. Will you serve dinner in a few minutes please."
