Frozen to Death on New Year's Day

Disastrous Ending to Festive Gathering

Frozen to death on New Year's day only a short distance from home was the fate of Beauchamp B. Starkey, upon whose body today an inquest was commenced yesterday. Starkey's corpse was found in the snow frozen stiff in a gully about one and a half miles south of Nahun.

The unfortunate man it appears had been staying during Christmas with Mr. H. B. Kinnard, postmaster at Nahun. On the last day of the old year he set out to visit the Somerset brothers about two miles away. A party of some eight men had got together there to see the old year out. He stayed there all night and about 3 o'clock on Monday started to walk back to the postmaster's house. He had a trail of about half a mile to traverse before striking the wagon road, but he seems to have been more or less under the influence of liquor, and blundered around in the snow for a short distance falling several times as his tracks plainly show finally giving way to the stupifying cold, and lying down to die. He was clad only in a light suit, and entirely unable to stand exposure to the intense cold of New Year's day.

The inquest was opened yesterday morning but adjourned to arrange for attendance of witnesses, and for the result of a postmortem examination. Starkey was an Englishman, but had been in America and Canada for a number of years. He was fairly well-known in town having worked for a short period with Collett Bros. He is said to leave a wife (divorced) and two children in Seattle.

McKenzie, Ferrier, Tom Hill and Pedlar, and readings by Mrs. Armstrong and Miss Hogarth. The accompaniest was Mr. H. T. Boyd.

The second part was a one-act comedy, "My Turn Next," in which the dramatis personæ were as follows:

The Curling Club has had things in full swing this week, the weather having been ideal for the popular winter sport. The club has now two sheets of ice in first-class order, and there has been a large attendance of members during the past week. The rinkf have been drawn for the season, and the competitions have already commenced.

THE MAYOR

Opening of New School-house for Ellison District

Hon. Price Ellison Present - Big Crowd Attend Concert, Supper, and Dance

The new Ellison school-house, which was opened on Tuesday by the Hon. Price Ellison certainly received a thorough housewarming at the concert, supper and dance which marked the event. The crowd of people, probably about 400, who assembled from far and wide exceeded all expectations, and those who had charge of the arrangements had their hands full to provide accomodation. A temporary shed, 200 feet long had been erected to shelter the horses of the visitors, but this was filled up early, and every available post in the neighborhood of the school seemed to have a horse tied to it. The roads were in perfect condition for sleighing, and although a little cold, the clear air and wonderfully bright moonlight, tempted sleigh loads of peofrom town and country.

The new school is a fine two-roomed structure with a full basement, and was built at a cost of $7,200 by Mr. J. A. Biggar, of Kelowna. The partition between what should have been the two rooms had been omitted so as to provide a large room for public meetings, etc. The school is handsome in appearance, well-lighted, and heated by means of a furnace. Ellison people are proud of their new school and with good reason, and it was decided to mark the opening with a big celebration.

The meeting was to have commenced at eight o'clock, but it was a little later when Mr. M. Hereron, secretary of the school trustees, who with his well-known loyalty to Ellison district has been largely instrumental in having the new school built, took the chair, and on behalf of the trustees and the people, he expressed the general pleasure and gratitude to the government for providing the new school, and to the Hon. Price Ellison for his energies in avocating the claims of the district.

An address of welcome and gratitude to the Hon. Price Ellison from the school children was read by Master Willie Hereron.

Mr. J. Cummisky, of Vernon, was the first speaker. He congratulated the people of Ellison on the handsome school building which they were opening. He had been interested for many years in educational matters in the province and it was a great pleasure to him to be present. He reviewed the early history of the educational movement in Canada and the difficulties which had been experienced by the early pioneers in laying the foundations of the splendid educational system of the Dominion. He referred in high appreciation to the work of Sir Charles Tupper, who in 1857 founded the fiirst free schools in the Dominion of Canada. In the Okanagan the progress of educational facilities had been rapid. The many fine school buildings which were now to be found in the Valley were evidences of the great interest which had been taken in the cause of education by the Hon. Price Ellison.

Mr. L. V. Rogers, B.A., of the Kelowna Public School, in an eloquent address, urged the importance of education, and the necessity of fostering in the minds of the young a national spirit, and loyalty to their own country of Canada as a unit of the British Empire.

Mr. Thomas Lawson, a Kelowna school trustee and ex-chairman of the B.C. School Trustees Association, added his congratulations on the magnificent building which the people of Ellison now possessed. One of the significant features of educational matters in the province was the great improvement in school buildings over what had been considered satisfactory in days gone by. This was due in a large measure to the greater interest which was being taken by school trustees in the work of education. And not only were good buildings necessary, but good teachers also. When good teachers were secured it was policy on the part of the trustees to pay them well, and retain their services. Frequent changes were bad for the school, and a hindrance to the advancement of the scholars.

Mr. A. R. Lord, B.A., principal of Kelowna school, said that the Canadian system of education was second to none in the whole world, and that of British Columbia was second to none in the Dominion. The great advancement which had been made in the last few years in the province was due mainly to the greater financial support which had been given by the government to the cause of education.

Mr. H. H. Millie gave some reminiscences of his early school days, and said the Ellison people should consider themseves fortunate in having so fine a school building. He urged them to give every support to their trustees in their efforts for the young.

The Hon. Price Ellison, who was received with great enthusiasm, expressed in his own hearty way the pleasure he felt in being present at the opening of the fine school in which he had taken a good deal of interest. Everything about the building was in every way modern and first-class, and and the possession of such a school was a privilege the people of the district could be proud of.

The building was theirs to use and enjoy. It was designed for other purposes besides education. In it the people would have a place to gather together for amusement and recreation.

He was glad to see present his old friend Mr. Joseph Christian, who was the oldest school trustee in B. C. and probably in Canada, and with a long record of faithful and energetic service. His own wife, Mr. Ellison said, had taught taught school under Mr. Christian in years past.

He realized keenly the importance of education to the young, and one of his greatest pleasures was in lending his assistance to the building of schools. Nothing was too good for the work of training the young, upon whom the hope of Canada's great future depended. The government of B. C. were doing all they could to help on the educational work, and the new university which they were about to establish would be made second to none. The best that money could secure would be brought to it, and when it was completed the people who lived in the province would be able to educate their children from the ground up as it were, at a trifling cost.

He turned aside from his subject to speak of the approaching railway development in the valley. Although somewhat early, he was in a position to say that at the present moment there were two great railroads engaged in a race to get into the valley. The C.P.R. in the shape of the Kettle Valley railway were making active endeavors to take up the work attempted under the old Midway-Vernon charter and the Canadian Northern were preparing to extend their line into the Valley, for which the government had promised to guarantee the bonds. He could assure his hearers that it would not be long before we should have a railway down this magnificent valley. Engineers were already at work making surveys for the lines. And it was coming it us. We had waited long and patiently for it, and although, perhaps a little premature he congratulated the people upon the prospects before them. It was rather out of place perhaps to speak of such matters at the present gathering, but he was so full of the subject he could not help it. The coming of the railroad meant much for the valley, and there would be no slip this time, because there were the right men behind it.

Returning again to the subject of the evening he again congratulated the Ellison people on their new school, and hoped it would not be long before they would have to ask the department to add the two rooms on top for which the building was designed.

He stated for the benefit of the Rutland people present that it had been decided to grant their application for a four roomed brick school, and just as soon as they could deliver the conveyence of a suitable site the work would be commenced.

He thanked the school children who were seated near the platform for the address with which they had presented him, and spoke to them in a kindly and encouraging way.

In conclusion he declared the school open, and wished all present a happy and prosperous New Year. If, he said, he was in telegraphic communication at all when they decided to add the other two rooms, he would be pleased to visit them again.

On taking his seat the hon. gentleman was greeted with the singing of "He's a jolly good fellow," and enthusiastic applause.

Mr. G. H. E. Hudson, who had been arranging his cameras on the platform, then took a flash light photograph of the gathering to the no small alarm of the youngsters.

As the hour was getting late and supper waiting below, the programme of music had to be curtailed a little. Mrs. Thos. Lawson who possesses no mean powers as a reciter, delighted the audience with a touching incident of railroading on the prairie. Mr. Geo. McKenzie sang "The Veveran's Sond," and being loudly encored, returned andsang a humorous song. Mr. Ferrier sang "Jack's Yarn," and as on encore "My Rosary." Mr. Harold Todd Boyd accompanied.

An adjournment was then made to the basement, where the tables were groaning beneath a load of good things.

After supper the schoolroom was cleared for dancing which was continued until about 4 a.m.

Items from Ellison

(From our own correspondent.)

[Our Ellison correspondent was so overcome by the stirring events of Tuesday night, and the glory of the moonlight that he bursts into poetry.]

The night was calm and cloudless,
And still as night could be,
When the stars came forth to listen
To the sounds of revelry.
And the mountains all around us
Fashed in the bright moonlight,
And the sleighbells tinkled loudly
On the Vernon road that night.

A beautiful, clear sky with a touch of frost in the air, and Luna floating on high, lighting up the surrounding mountains and shedding forth a glory such as can only be found in a few favored spots on this mundane sphere, served to bring together a large and brilliant audience to celebrate the one event which we have looked forward to weeks.

The annual Christmas Tree and concert took place on Friday last, December 22, when the prettily decorated schoolroom was filled by a large and enthusiastic audience. The children, under the skillful direction of their teacher, Miss P. Raymer, rendered the programme in first class style. Santa Claus arrived at the close and distributed the various presents to the children, also the several jokes which had been prepared for the batchelors of the district.

Burnt to Death at Vernon

A sad story of disastrous fire on New Year's Day, in which the wife of Alex McDonald of the B. X. ranch lost her life, came from Vernon. It appears that the family were alarmed early New Year's morning by an outbreak of fire, and hastened from the house. Mrs. McDonald, however, ran back into the house for some purpose and was overcome by the smoke, and being unable to get out again was burnt to death. Her daughter also received severe burns, and is now in the hospital. The sad affair has created a great sensgtion in the district. The McDonalds are old timers in the valley and highly respected.

The Batchelor's Ball held last Thursday evening was a highly successful function and well attended.

Rutland News.

From our own correspondent.

The Rutland Literary re-opens again to-morrow (Friday), after the Christmas holidays, with a paper from Mr. J. W. Jones on "President Lincoln." The next week's programme is yet to be arranged, and on January 19th a paper is to be read by Mr. Rogers of Kelowna Public School, on "War" in its relationship to present day civilization. All are cordially invited.

The Methodist Sunday School held its anniversary and rally-day Sunday morning last, an interesting feature being a Bible knowledge contest, in which five scholars took part:- Joy Fleming, Loraine Woolsey, Lillian Sproule, Rita Maxwell and Kathleen Campbell. All received the necessary number of marks for award. The secretary, Miss Flossie Dilworth, read a well prepared report of the year's work, and the Rev. W. Vance gave an interesting address to the children.

East Kelowna

On Friday, December 29th the usual fortnightly meeting of the East Kelowna Debating Society was held. The subject for debate was "Resolved that the Home Government has a right to involve the Overseas Dominions in war." Despite the inclemency of the weather the largest audience of the season turned out. The debate was conducted in a most spirited fashion, Messrs Allen and Affleck sustaining the affirmative and Messrs. Reekie and Salvage the negative. The speakers for the affirmative asserted that the Home Government had a legal right of declaring war on behalf of the Empire, while those for the negative objected to this as taxation without representation, and advocated an imperial parliament. The judges, Messrs. Wallace, Gilmore and Leggatt had a hard task, but finally decided in favor of the affirmative. On Friday, January 12 they are promised a treat in the shape of a paper on "Browning" by Mrs. Wallace.

Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Thompson take this opportunity of thanking the Presbyterian congregation of Kelowna for their beautiful Christmas gift, as well as their kindly good wishes, which they heartily appreciate.

Arthur Gator, a cigar maker died last Saturday night in his room at the Royal Hotel. Deceased suffered from an affection of the heart, but his death was, no doubt, accelerated by over indulgence in liquor during the past week or two. He leaves a wife and two children in Spokane. The remains are being held for interment pending a communication from his mother who lives in Chicago.

The annual Vestry meeting of the Parish called for Monday next has been unavoidably postponed until the following Wednesday evening, January 10th at 8 o'clock.

The annual ratepayers meeting has been called for Tuesday next at 8 o'clock.

The talk of a railroad down the Valley, a project which has peen the subject of hope and conjecture in Kelowna for a long time, has lately been gathering in interest, and now seems to be crystalizing in something more definite. That parties of engineers and surveyors have been busy in the district has been common knowledge. The fact that the announcement of the purchase by the C. N. R. of the Coteau Power Company's charter for the electric Vernon-Kelowna line should be followed so closely by the application of the C. P. R., or rather its offshoot, the Kettle Valley line, for an extension to its charter to build up the Valley to Kelowna and Vernon is significant. It seems as though the valley which has waited so long for a railway was going to be the object of competition between the two most powerful systems in the country for first place.

And for this view, which has gradually been growing upon the minds of those who have followed the different moves made, we have now the authority of no less a person than the Hon. Price Ellison, who as minister of finance of the province, is in a position to see a little more than the ordinary individual. In the course of his remarks at the Ellison School opening, he made the statement that the race between the C. P. R. and the C. N. R. for a right of way down the valley was already on, and going strong. The first important move of the Mackenzie & Mann interests in purchasing the electric line franchise had stirred up the C. P. R. to action, and it would not be long now before the puff of the locomotive would bring development and prosperity into the valley.

It is now authoritively announced says a recent issue of the Province that applicatian has just been made to the Minister of Railways at Ottawa for an enlargement of the charter powers of the Kettle River Valley Railway Company, the subsidiary of the Canadian Pacific, of which Mr. James J Warren is president, authorizing the early extension of this line from Kelowna to the City of Vernon.

Surveys for the new link assuring direct communication between Vernon and the Kootenays are now in progress, and it is expected that construction of the new section of about thirty miles' length will be actually in progress during 1912. It is understood that no request will be made for any provincial assistance in the establishment of this new transportation artery. The decision of the K. R V. to extend as far as Vernon is well understood to have been largely influenced by the recent purchase of the Coteau Power Company's charter and franchises by Sir William Mackenzie, Sir Donald D. Mann and their associates, who plan to proceed at once with the building of this electric system, circumnavigating the Okanagan lakes and which will serve as an important feeder of traffic to the Canadian Northern Pacific and Canadian Northern system.

All this means much for Kelowna, and Kelowna must be ready to take advantage of it, and to turn its benefits this way. There is no doubt that a tremendous responsibility will fall upon the new council to be elected next week, and the ratepayers should not hesitate to put aside all other interests, which are petty and unimportant when measured beside the greater issue, and put in the men who they know are best qualified to deal with the representatives of the railway companies.

Just think, wire nails $4.25 per keg, at the Kelowna Hardware Store!

The quicker a cold is gotten rid of the less danger from pneumonia and other serious diseases. Mr. B. W. L. Hall, of Waverly, Va. says: "I firmly believe Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to be absolutely the best preparation on the market for colds. I have recommended it to my friends and they all agree with me." For sale by all druggists.

Communications

Under this heading communications will be received upon any subject of interest. Letters must be signed, be brief, avoid personalities. The Editor does not necessarily endorse opinions given below.

To the Editor,

Dear Sir:—Is it not time that the poultrymen of Kelowna and district took steps to form an association to help forward the poultry industry in this neighborhood.

I see by the Vernon paper that a few weeks ago there was a meeting of those interested in poultry keeping at which they organised a Poultry Association on similar lines to what they have at several other places in the Province. Such an organization would be of great benefit to this district and would be the means of creating greater interest in the keeping of pure bred poultry, as well as aiming to put the business part of it on a proper basis. Not only fanciers, but everyone who is interested in the utility side of poultry keeping should get together, and see to it that Kelowna does not lag behind. I would like to see this question taken up by some of the prominent poultrymen in Kelowna and the district.

Yours truly,
INTERESTED.

Arrangements are being made for the inauguration of the investigations assigned to the Royal Commission on the Provincial milk supply.

This body consists of Dr. C. J. Fagan, Mr. Colthard of New Westminster, and Dr. Knight, who will make a comprehensive and thorough study of all provincial conditions affecting the milk supply, the statistically determined best herds for dairy puposes, dairy sanitation and policy, herd foods and ailments and bovine tuberculosis.

Evidence will be taken and conditions enquired into in all parts of the province, and the commission's report when presented will be one of great value, covering as it will all phases and aspects of the vexed milk question, save the element of price.

Postmasters in Ontario have been instructed to charge a discount of one half of one per cent on American currency in circulation there. The provincial jail at Nelson is quarantined owing to a case of smallpox developing.

It was decided that British Columbia as a province will not undertake the preparation and staging of an exhibit at the great Panama Exhibition which is to be held in San Francisco during 1915; but that, instead, strong representations be made by the Provincial to the Dominion government that, as a matter of national policy, interest and duty, steps should be taken at an early date to arrange for thoroughly adequate and creditable Canadian representation. Upon a decision in this regard being reached by the federal authorities, as no doubt will be the case, the Province of British Columbia will cordially co-operate in every possible way, in order that the very best possible display may be made of the resources and characteristic products of this province as an integral and very important part of Canada.

A Unique Christmas Gift

One of the most curious and highly original Christmas boxes received this year by any British Columbian, it is safe to say, was that which arrived at the Legislative Assembly building, literally plastered over with label warnings of the necessity of extra careful handling, and addressed to the prime minister, Hon. Richard McBride. The package, upon being cautiously opened, was found to contain two ornamental frames—the one of samples illustrative of spun British Columbia silk as taken from the cocoon and the other a living colony of Italian silkworms busily engaged in the production of the raw material for my lady's gown.

The unique Christmas gift came from Trail, in the Kootenay, where Vannucchi di Giusti & Co., are the pioneers in the establishment of the silkworm industry, already giving promise of the attainment of profitable proportions in this province. Climatic and food conditions are stated to be all that could be asked in the district in which operations have now safely passed the experimentation stage, and the silkworms of Trail are thriving famously. Premier McBride's Christmas present from the pioneers of the new provincial industry will probably find a place in the botanical museum of the department of agriculture, where it is certain to attract wide and appreciative interest.
