Meeting of City Council

Council Will Investigate Question of Raising Telephone Rates - Petition Presented From Business Men

The council met Monday morning last, the only absentee being Aldermen Raymer, who is at present on a visit to the coast.

A communication which had been laid on the table from a previous meeting from the Kelowna Canning Co., and the Kelowna Farmers' Exchange, asking for the construction of a plank sidewalk under the Local Improvements Act was taken up again.

Mayor Jones thought the Board of Works might now proceed with the work. The sidewalk was certainly a very necessary one.

Ald. Copeland, as chairman of the Board of Works, said he had been over the ground. He agreed that a sidewalk was very badly needed. In that particular case, the cost of a cement sidewalk would be too great at the present time. There was nothing for it but to put in a plank walk.

A letter was read from the Burrough's Adding Machine Co., asking what the council intended doing with respect to the adding machine which had been on trial in the clerk's office for some time. This was referred to the finance committee.

Mr. H. Lysons of the Kelowna Greenhouses wrote respecting the order for plants for the public park. He understood that the goods he had supplied during the past two years had been quite satisfactory, and pointed out that if the council were thinking of obtaining any this year it was neceseary to get the order in early so that the plants could be started in good time. It was decided to let the matter stand over until the park commissioners had been appointed.

A plan of a subdivision of Block 28 was submitted by Mr. Harvey. The plan had been submitted to the 1911 council but had been referred back for some alterations.

Some little discussion arose on on the subject of subdivisions generally. The plan under consideration showed two streets which were not in line with those of the next subdivision. The difficulty was due to the fact that a number of years ago several blocks in the city had been badly subdivided, and it was now almost impossible to make blocks in the same neighborhood fit in with them, so as to preserve the regularity and straightness of the streets. The mischief had been done before any proper system had been adopted by the council.

Ald. Sutherland suggested, in order to avoid any similar difficulty in the future, that an engineer be engaged to subdivide the remainder of the city. Owners of the blocks would then follow the plan adopted.

The plan was eventally passed.

Mr. W. Lloyd-Jones waited upon the council in connection with the proposal of the Okanagan Telephone Co. to raise the rates in the city. He had been presented with a form of contract by the telephone company for the next twelve months. The contract called for a raise in the rates on business 'phones from three dollars to five dollars per month with a rebate of a dollar for payment within fifteen days. On residence phones the advance was one dollar, which would however be returned for similar prompt payment. He had thought it advisable, before signing the contract to seek the advice of the city council.

Most of the other business men in the city had adopted the same view, as was shown by the following petition which he read:

"To the Mayor and Council of the City of Kelowna,

"We, the undersigned business men and citizens of the City of Kelowna beg you to investigate the telephone franchise granted by this city to H. H. Millie, and also the the authority of the Okanagan Telephone Co. to raise the rates."

The petition was signed by twenty-six of the principal business men of the city.

It was thought advisable, concluded Mr. Lloyd-Jones that the council should take the matter in hand and notify the citizens as to what steps they ought to take when the company's contracts were presented to them for signature.

Mr. D. Leckie who accompanied Mr. Lloyd-Jones also expressed the opinion that the council should assume any deal which might have have to be made between the city and the company, and arrange so that anyone asked to sign the contract in dispute could refer them to the city council. This would put the business men in a much better position and save them from any annoyance. The original contract between the city and Mr. Millie it seemed, gave the use of the streets on condition that the rates charged should not go above a certain figure. If the city agreed to a raise in the rates that clause would be destroyed.

It had been said that the new company could raise the rates anyway, whether the city agreed or not. It was clearly the duty of the council to go carefully into the matter, and in the meantime to notify telephone users not to sign any contracts until they had had an opportunity of ascertaining whether this was so or not.

Ald. Millie stated that the original franchise under which he had been working still belonged to him. he had not sold the franchise, but merely the poles and wire and plant generally. The new company had a franchise of their own from the Provincial Government.

Mr. Leckie said it was up to the company to either acquire or repudiate the original franchise. If the company could come and take over the poles and ignore the contract under which they had been placed on the streets, it looked as though the city were being jockeyed out of their rights. The one ray of light in the contract with Mr. Millie had been that the city had control of the rates. The city had still some authority regarding the placing of the poles in the streets. If they allowed the company to take over the existing ones they should endeavor to enforce the condition that the company also take the franchise, and thus retain control of the rates.

The discussion continued for some time, when finally on the suggestion of the mayor, a special committee consisting of Ald. Taylor. Ald. Sutherland and Ald. Raymer were appointed to go into the matter. It was decided to take advantage of the fact of Ald. Raymer being at the coast by getting into communication with him with a view to obtaining expert legal advice.

Meanwhile the council would advise the people to refuse signature of the contracts while the enquiry was pending.

The council then adjourned until Monday next, January 29th.

J. A. Macaskill, of Celesta, near Salmon Arm fell through the ice a few days ago and was drowned.

A man named E. McMinns, an employee of P. Burns & Co., was asphyxiated in a launch near Kamloops.

J. Wilson, Geo. Goldsmith, Alf. McLeelan, Geo. Murrill, and E. Fowler returned Thursday last from Vernon having passed their respective examinations for steam engineer's certificate.

Reports from Bexley heath, Kent say that Sir Charles Tupper's improvement has been continuous for the last ten days and that he is now able to rise daily. He converses cheerly and interestedly.

"The Players," of Summerland, are visiting Kelowna next week with a comedy, "The Truth," under the management of Mr. Wm. Sauter.

Dr. Brown, formerly of Carmen, Man., but now of Vancouver, has been visiting friends in town this week.

Teams have been busy lately hauling out lumber for the rebuilding of two more of the "Five Bridges." New bridges are also to be built along the K. L. O. road.

Hockey

On Friday last the Shamrocks journeyed up the lake first meeting the Vernon team. They were hopelessly outclassed there suffering an ignominious defeat by 17 to 2. At Armstrong, however, they retrieved some of their lost laurels, winning out by 6 to 3.

The Billikins played Summerland College last Friday at Summerland. The match resulted in a win for the Kelowna team by by 4 to 3.

Local hockey has been a rather uncertain quantity lately owing to the mild weather. The schedule arranged at the beginning of the season has consequently got into some confusion through matches having to be abandoned. Games are being sandwitched in whenever there is ice. On Monday night the Fire Brigade beat the Billikins by 6 to 1.

A girls' hockey match was played last Thursday afternoon between teams selected from the High School and the Public School The result was a win for the High School girls, who carried off the box of chocolates offered by Fuller Bros. as a prize. There is talk, if the weather man will permit, of organizing a permanent girls' hockey team.

New Legislation Regarding Race Meetings

Race meets held by associations that do not boast incorporation by acts of parliament, says an Ottawa despatch, are to be no more.

The minister of justice will bring in a bill to amend the criminal code, making the holding of such meets illegal.

A racing association hereafter will have to get its authority by an act of the federal as well as the provincial legislature, instead of merely obtaining letters patent.

The object of the amendment is to lessen the number of gambling meets.

Smallpox Held Up Postal System of Ottawa

An unprecedented situation regarding the local mails arose at Ottawa last week. A sorting clerk was said to have been found to have small pox and a flurry arose in all the local branches. A rigid quarantine was enforced and no employee that was caught was allowed to go out until vaccinated. Meantime all the mail matter received in Ottawa was held, and the whole institution was closed until a thorough fumigation of all had been made by the local powers. At midnight fumigation of mail matter was complete, and all matter held up was released for delivery. There were about ninety employees vaccinated. Those mails received up till early afternoon were sent out and many more important mails had already been despatched before the hour of notification of disease and quarantine.

The C. P. R. last year brought 150,000 settlers to Canada from the United Kingdom, as compared with 25,000 in 1910.

The "Daily Telegraph's" Peking correspondent says he is informed officially that the Peking Government will be obliged openly to declare China's bankruptcy at the Chinese New Year on Feb. 18.

COMPANIES ACT 1910

In the matter of the voluntary winding up of the Kelowna Tobacco Co., Ltd,

Take notice that pursuant to section 229 of the Companies Act 1910, a meeting of the creditors of the above company will be held at the offices of the Okanagan Loan and Investment Co., Ltd. Kelowna, on Tuesday, the 6th day of February 1912, at the hour of 10 o'clock in the forenoon; and further take notice that all the creditors of the above named company are required on or before the 6th day of Feburary, 1912 to send their names and addresses and particulars of their claims or debts to the undersigned liquidator of the company.

Annual Vestry Meeting

St. Michael and All Angels' Church

The Annual General Vestry of the above parish was held on Wednesday, the 10th inst. The Rector presided; the following is a summary of his address:

The year just closed has shown a general improvement in Church matters. The church population has increased considerably, and with this there has been a corresponding increase in the number of communicants. The need of a hall in which to hold parish meetings grows each year more urgent, but nothing can be done towards building it until the new church is finished. In October, the Rev. C. H. Meyrick, an Oxford graduate, was appointed assistant-priest; the Rector finds in him an able and sympathetic coadjutor. He has charge of S. Andrew's, Okanagan Mission, where he holds services on the 1st and 3rd Sundays of the month, and on the great festivals. On the other Sundays he assists in the parish church. In spring he will visit various out-stations, and hold services at them at regular intervals. Mr. E. M. Carruthers, manager of the K. L. O. Ranch, who has been identified with the parish since it was formed in 1894, and was also Lay Delegate and Churchwarden last year, is leaving to take charge of the company's Old Country business, with headquarters in London. His departure is much regretted, and we wish him every success in the important position to which he has been advanced. Mr. F. G. Tollit, who has been organist for nearly a year and a half, has been reluctantly obliged to resign his position, on account of increased office work, and the distance he resides from the church. The choir and congregation owe much to him for the ability he has displayed in the conduct of the musical part of the service. Mr. B. G. Meyrick has been appointed in his stead, and will take charge in March. In the meantime Miss Walters has charge of the organ and choir. Arrangements are being made to localize the magazine "Across the Rockies" as a parish magazine. It is a venture which it is hoped will be well supported by the congregation. The first number will be published before Easter. The Sale of Work held jointly by the Women's Auxiliary and the Chancel Guild for the building fund of the new church was a great success, and netted the handsome sum of $691. The Chancel Guild, in addition, contributed out of their funds the sum of $74.00 towards the same work. Too much praise cannot be given to these two societies for their unselfish labors. The men of the congregation might well follow the example thus set them, and do something besides giving an annual subscription to church funds.

The People's Warden, Mr. A. H. Crichton, read the financial report. The open offertory showed a large increase on the previous year, but the annual subscriptions were not correspondingly increased. This was recommended to the attention of the new wardens. There are no debts and the parish accounts show a good balance in hand. Mr. G. C. R. Harvey, People's Warden, S. Andrew's, Okanagan Mission, was present, and gave a verbal report of the work in that district. This was most gratifying and will appear in their congregational report.

The election of officers for 1912 was then proceeded with. The Lay Delegates are: Dr. N. Shepherd, Messrs. F. A. Taylor and T. W. Stirling. Substitutes: Messrs. A. H. Crichton, J. B. Whitehead and L. E. Taylor. Churchwardens: Messrs. F. A. Taylor and R. E. Denison. Sidesmen: G. Royle, W. R. Jones, E. R. Bailey, J. B. Whitehead, E. Wilkinson, Dr. Boyce, Dr. Shepherd and D. Cameron. Many important matters were discussed, one being the question of the Clergy Superanuation Fund. In this connection the Rector read a resolution passed by the Summerland Vestry suggesting that their congregation lay aside a sum equal to one-tenth of stipend towards superanuation. After some discussion it was unanimously resolved that the lay delegates be instructed to support the above resolution at the coming synod which meets at Nelson on the 14th February.

Votes of thanks were unanimously passed to the retiring Wardens, to the Organist, Choir, Women's Auxiliary and Chancel Guild.

The meeting was brought to a close by the Rector pronouncing the Benediction.

Kelowna Conservative Association

Annual Meeting and Election of Officers

The Annual Meeting of the Kelowna Conservative Association was held last Thursday evening in Raymer's Small Hall, the president, Mr. H. W. Raymer in the chair.

The financial statement as read by the secretary showed a deficit of $83.55. Of this $63.00 was on account of the banquet to the Hon. Martin Burrell. Later in the evening the deficit was cleared off by a private subscription list which was handed round to the members.

The officers elected for the ensuing year were as follows:

Hon. President, H. W. Raymer.
President, His Worship the Mayor, J. W. Jones.
1st Vice-President, F. W. Buckland,
2nd Vice-President, R. A. Copeland.
Secretary, R. F. Morrison.
Asst.-Sec., Mr. Wollaston.
Treasurer, J. A. Bigger.
Committee: G. C. R. Harvey, W. A. Pooley, A. Patterson, L. Dilworth, T. Bulman, G. A. Melville, F. Fraser, Dr. Gaddes, E. Weddell, Geo. Ritchie and Geo. Rowcliffe.

A number of resolutions on various matters were passed, and votes of thanks accorded to the retiring officers.

Insured Five Million Dollars For Three Hours

A five million dollar insurance policy, the life of which was three hours, was issued to guarantee a New York banking house against loss by highwaymen during the transfer from the burned Equitable building of a fortune in cash and securities which had to be carried six blocks. Although the surety company assumed the risk of loss, the actual protection devolved upon the city, for a squad of police were the only guards. The surety company called the policy a "Hold-up and Robbery Policy," and received $500 for the risk.

Two Miners Killed at Hedley

Two miners, William Coward and Archie McCalister, were accidently killed in the Nickel Plate mine, Hedley, last Friday. The accident was due to a mised hole which the men knew about. When looking for and while clearing away the muck preparatory to setting up the machine one of them must have struck the powder with his pick. Both men were badly torn by the explosion.

British Coal Strike Pending

The coal miners' strike in England will begin on March 1 unless efforts to effect a compromise are successful. Leaders of the Miners' union announce that the recent ballot showed 445,801 for, and 115,921 against the strike, unless the operators consent to the demand for a minimum wage. If the men go out an industrial crisis will result. There is only coal enough on hand to last a month. Sir Geo. Askwith, industrial commissioner is taking steps to try and secure a compromise.

The death took place at the Kelowna Hospital yesterday morning of L. McMillan, from acute pneumonia. The body is to be removed to-morrow to the coast for burial. McMillan's mother arrived from Vancouver Wednesday, too late, however, to see her son alive.

Government Propose to Abolish Poll Tax

Report of Tax Commission Is Presented

At Tuesday's sitting of the legislature, the Hon. Price Ellison brought in a synopsis report of the commission on taxation. They recommend the abolition of the poll tax which last year yielded $313,338 to the treasury. They recommend also the abolition of the personal property tax. In income tax a withdrawal of any exemption from incomes over $50,000 and an addition of a surtax of five per cent. for that part of the income which exceeds $50,000; an exemption of $200 for each legitimate child under 18 for certain classes of income for parents; an exemption of an additional $150 for farmers, and an average system for assessing incomes from trades. The commissioners state that their object has been to reduce taxation on citizens with smaller incomes, and at the same time to readjust its incidence on possessors of large incomes. They recommend a periodical reassessment of property according to the value as defined; the abolition of taxation on improvements; legislation enforcing registration of real estate on affidavits setting forth the true consideration for purchase; that the registration fee be one-fifth of one per cent. on value of real estate up to $5,000 be extended to all real estate irrespective of value. The present tax of four per cent. on land will remain. Dealing with the coal tax they recommend that the tax on coke be reduced from fifteen to ten cents per ton. There is no change in the mineral tax.

Mrs. Arthur Cross met with a serious accident last week while gathering up kindling wood, she unfortunately having an axe brought down on her hand, cutting off the top of the middle finger and gashing two others. The wounded hand is healing up nicely although Mrs. Cross is suffering from shock.

At the Literary society last Friday evening Mr. L. V. Rogers, B.A., of the High School, read an interesting paper on "War: is it an economic necessity?" In his opening remarks Mr. Rogers announced his intention of avoiding altogether the moral aspect of the subject, and of considering solely the economic effect of war upon the nations. Although apparently a dry subject, the speaker dealt with it in a most entertaining and convincing way, taking the position that far from being an economic necessity, war was an economic waste and a hindrance to trade and commercial development. A discussion followed the paper, which was highly appreciated by all. Songs were contributed during the evening by Miss Duggan and Mr. Whiteway.

Tomorrow night is "Magazine Night," consisting of short contributions from the members. For next week, February 2nd, a social has been arranged and an interesting evening is anticipated.

Mr. D. M Turner, of Calgary is visiting with S. Gray for a few days.

Publishing Proceedings of School Trustees' Meetings

Kelowna, B. C.,
Jan. 22nd, 1912.

The Editor, "City Record,"

Dear Sir,—At the meeting of the ratepayers on the 9th inst. we were informed that one-third or over 33 1-3 per cent. of the total assessment had been used on the schools during the past year.

The chairman of the School Trustees also told us that he thought that he had a more important job than either the Mayor or the Alderman, and warned us that this large expenditure would have to be increased in the ensuing year.

In view of these statements would it not be very desirable, in the future, for the trustees to take the ratepayers a little more into their confidence and let them know something of what is being done throughout the year.

Why should not the meetings of the trustees be regularly reported in the press as are those of the council so that the electors may learn more about their doings than can be gathered from a mere financial statement once a year.

In view of the apparent small interest shown in educational matters these repoits would tend to encourage some feeling on this important subject and perhaps next year the trustees might arrange for a municipal meeting on their own account, as is already done elsewhere in the valley. At such a meeting more details of their stewardship would be welcomed

Yours truly,
J. B. WHITEHEAD.

[There seems to be no particular reason, so far as we can learn why the proceedings of the School Trustees have not been given just as wide publicity as the doings of the council or any public body. It has not been customary in Kelowna, that is all. The chairman of the trustees, Mr. Thomas Lawson, assures us of his entire willingness to cooperate with the press in remedying the deficiency. Ed.]

Ex-Alderman Cox Writes on Conditions in the Old Country

We received the following letter the other day from ex-alderman Cox, who since last fall has been visiting the Old Country after an absence of many years:

Coleford, Nr. Bath,
Somersetshire, England.
Jan. 1st, 1912.

Editor of the "Kelowna Record,"

Dear Sir,—The reciprocity question is no doubt a dead letter now throughout Canada. Yet while this may be so one can hardly forget what the consequences might have been had it become law.

I have made it my business while travelling through the West of England to make enquiries regarding trade through this part. Free trade some say is a boon to England, but it has caused the Old, Country to become a dumping ground for every conceivable article. Among many others I found one factory that used to employ thousands of hands now standing idle. I enquired the reason and was informed that they used to manufacture rails for the companies in England. Now our friend the German has the trade. Not only do they supply the rails, but when they are worn out, they are shipped back to Germany to be melted and made up again. I also found a sash and door factory with but a few hands employed. Germany had the trade, and mechanics working on starvation wages. The hardware business is the same, the very locks and fastenings on our doors and windows are from Germany.

Then we have cheap worthless cloth shipped in from that same country. Our manufacturers have to compete with this sort of trade, and consequently cheapen the quality of the goods.

I have a relative in the cloth trade who stated to me that it was impossible to obtain the quality of cloth which he had been accustomed to handle in former years.

I also see a danger of the retail trade being in the hands of a few. I think I am safe in making the statement that there are 500 vacant stores in the city of Bristol alone. Every reasonable man knows what this means. Is it any wonder there is want in this beautiful old land. Can we wonder at energetic young men leaving to better their condition.

I see more and more the necessity of supporting home industries.

Thanking you for this space and wishing the town of Kelowna all prosperity, and thanking the people for their kindness.

Yours sincerely,
A. S. COX.

During the year 1911 the C.P.R. established 41 new towns in the three prairie provinces, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. This year with the large number of branch lines and extensions completed it is possible that the railway will establish more new municipalities. Infertile Eggs Keep Best

A large part of the heavy loss from bad eggs can be obviated by by the production of infertile eggs. This has been demonstrated beyond doubt by the investigations concerning the improvement of the farm egg which during the past two years have been conducted in the Middle West by the United States Bureau of Animal Industry of the Department of Agriculture.

Secretary Wilson of the Department of Agriculture estimates that between the producer and consumer, there is an annual loss of $45,000,000 in the egg crop of the United States, the greater portion of which falls on the farmer, who is by far the largest producer. Of this enormous loss, about one third $15,000,000, is what is known to the trade as a "blood ring." As it is impossible to produce a "blood ring" in an infertile egg, such an egg will stand a higher degree of temperature without serious deterioration than will a fertile egg.

The secretary says that if farmers and others engaged in the production of eggs would market their male birds as soon as the hatching season is over, a large saving would be made, as practically every infertile egg would grade a first or second if clean and promptly marketed.

No more simple and efficient method for the improvement of the egg supply could be adopted than the production of infertile eggs.

South Fort George is agitating for incorporation as a city.

Five millions is to be expended on Vancouver street works during 1912.

So far as is known, at least, 100 lives have been lost during the terrific gales prevailing round the British coast. Many ships have foundered with their entire crews.

The new Republican government of China has sent an appeal to the powers for recognition. This took the form of a circular which was sent to London, Paris, Berlin, St. Petersburg and Washington, and was signed by Wang Chung Wei, the former minister of the Republican cabinet.

It is understood that surveys of a plan for double tracking the Canadian Pacific Railway between Hope and Spencer's Bridge have been completed. A start at this vast improvement, involving an expenditure of between $20,000,000 and $25,000,000 will likely be made early next year. While the initial cost of doubl -tracking will be high it will effect a great economy in operating charges and thus better enable the C. P. R. to compete with its coming rival.

Many important changes in the forestry laws of the province are contained in the bill which Hon. William Ross introduced into the Legislature Saturday. It constitutes in fact, practically a new law on the subject and is the outcome of the extensive enquiry made by the special commission which presented its report about a year ago. The measure sets up a separate forestry branch of the department of lands. Any future timber licenses that may be issued will be granted by tender to persons offering the highest bonus in addition to the royalties fixed by statute. These royalties will be considerably higher than at present. There are also a series of provisions embodying the most stringent precautions against fire.

A National Telephone System

At the beginning of this year the postal department of Great Britain took possession of all the private telephone lines in the United Kingdom. These had been either established or absorbed by the National Telephone Company, which some years ago had an income of $13,000,000. The government is paying the private owners some $80,000,000 for their plant. No allowance is made for goodwill. The department is able to acquire the properties on good terms, as the companies were never given any valuable franchises the government refusing to allow the municipalities to make important concessions. The company has been compelled to pay the post office a ten per cent. royalty on all the income, and was greatly restricted as to the privilege of erecting poles or establishing underground systems. Several cities established municipal telephone systems, but some were afterwards taken over by the National Telephone Company, and some, including that of Glasgow, by the Post Office.

Here is a remedy that will cure your cold. Why waste time and money eeperimenting when you can get a preparation that has won a world-wide reputation by its cures of this disease and can always be depended upon? It is known everywhere as Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and is a medecine of real merit. For sale by all dealers.

Gentlemen :--

I am much interested in your plans for the match factory, and have personally satisfied myself that your proposition is good and bona fide. Being associated already with your President, Mr. Tucker, in another business transaction, I would like to be with you in the capacity you request, if I can arrange it.

Very truly yours,

Investors, Attention!

This is an opportunity you can't afford to overlook

The Dominion Match Comp'y, Ltd.

Is incorporpted under the laws of British Columbia with an authorized capital stock of one million dollars, divided into one hundred thousand shares of the par value of ten dollars each, fully paid and non-assessable. In full payment of its patents and match formulas, it has issued to the inventor, Mr. William H. Parker, forty thousand shares of its capital stock and forty thousand shares have been subscribed by an underwriting syndicate to build a factory and equip it with these Parker continuous match machines and other machinery and equipment incidental to the manufacture of matches, with a capacity of one carload of matches per day of five hundred cases of one gross each, so that after payment of patents, formulas, factory and equipments there will remain two hundred thousand dollars of its capital stock to be used as a working fund in a going concern capable of earning on a conservative estimate at least 25 per cent. on its entire capital stock.

FACTS AND FALLACIES ABOUT TUBERCULOSIS.

A Child May be Born with a Tendency to Consumption, but if Proper Care is Taken It May be Overcome.

Although there are many things that we do not know about consumption ,or tuberculosis, there are some that we do and a few that we are in the act of learning

We do not know, for example what makes for susceptibility and what for immunity. Strong and robust persons are sometimes stricken down with it; invalids and convalescents from other diseases are no more susceptible to it than are other people, and it is possible to live for an entire lifetime in the condition known as "run-down" or "weak" without becoming tuberculosis.

People, says a writer, still speak of consumption as "inherited," but it is not inherited. A child may be born with a certain tendency to it, but if proper measures are taken early, and kept up steadily and long enough, this tendency can be overcome. A child whose parents before him, and their parents before them, perhaps for generations back have been poor breathers, will probably inherit a small, meagre chest, and will therefore be the natural victim of the consumption germ as soon as it reaches him. That child will have to be taught to breathe. The tendency to pigeon-breast can be overcome and a narrow chest developed to a normal capacity; but to do this, the child must be kept constantly in good air, and taught how to develop and use the lungs. A pigeon-breasted child who is being brought up on the coddling process—oversheltered, overfed and overclothed—is in as much danger as if he lived under the famous sword hanging from a hair.

WATER CARRIERS IN PARIS.

In the Modern Babylon Water is Still Brought in the Old-fashioned Way.

Paris is rich in contrasts, and sometimes the irony is charming. In the height of fashion to-day is still to be seen the picturesque water-carrier, and the scarcity due to the drought once more calls attention to his existence. On the heights of Montmartre are to be seen these robust Auvergnes, marching with their measured steps—and, by a fiction, the Parsi water-carrier must always be an Auvergnat—with his two buckets. The extension of the water system has gone hard with the "porter d'eau," who in days past made a fairly good living. In 1860 there were 1,253 porters; in 1880 the number had fallen to 800; and to-day there are few indeed. A barrel of water contains about 1,000 litres, and its market value is about five francs. Like most other occupations in France, the water-carrier was under State or police supervision, and each night he had to fill his barrel and place it in the district he worked, so as to be ready in case of fire, but the supervision has fallen into desuetude.

Sword in a Plank.

A curious discovery has been made at Oakley Station, near Dunfermline, Scotland. In the course of alterations for the purpose of heightening the platform, it was found necessary to substitute a fresh plank of wood for an old one. The latter was being sawn up for firewood when a sword was found imbedded in the heart of it The plank had formed part of the platform support for at least fifteen years. There was little rust on the weapon, which was an old-fashioned type, a short cross piece forming the handle. How the sword could have got where it was discovered is a mystery, as there was no indication from the outside of the plank where it had entered, and it is believed that it had been picked up by the tree at an early period of its existence and encircled with the growth.

A King's Retreat.

We often hear of Boscobel Oak, people pointing to it as the very tree which sheltered Charles II. after the Royalist forces had been shattered at the battle of Worcester. But the Boscobel Oak is not the original tree; it has grown from an acorn taken from the original tree. Boscobel House, near by, is, however, the very house in which he hid. He lay concealed in a hole beneath a trap-door in the cheese-room, but as soldiers were everywhere about he had to crawl out of the chimney and make his way into a wood and hide in an oak tree. Returning when the danger was for a moment passed, he spent another night at the house, then, early in the morning, took food and drink with him to the oak tree, climbed up and stayed there for twenty-four hours. During that time Cromwell's soldiers passed beneath the tree searching for him, and he heard them saying what they would do if they caught him.

Complicated Census Work.

Census taking in China, it would appear, is a business complicated by Chinese customs. Thus the Chinese method of reckoning age is not the same as the European. A Chinese child at birth is said to be one year old, and after it has passed one New Year it is said to be two years old; so that if born in the last month of the year it may be said to be two years of age before it is 30 days days old according to European reckoning. Difficulties are encountered in China, as elsewhere, in regard to the ages of females. There was an old lady of Ching-tzu known to be over 100 who insisted on the enumerator entering her age at 99. This was because it is a customary term of abuse to call a person a "hundred years old donkey," or "ten-toothed donkey," which has the same significance. It is stated to be a common thing for a Chinese mother to give a son the name of a girl, presumably to deceive the fates, it being a common and true saying that a girl is easier to rear. This of course is another source of trouble to the enumerators.

POWER OF CO-OPERATION.

Chinese Have Steadily Combined Together, To Arm Themselves with an Invisible Weapon for Protection.

In order to enforce their rights by the simplest and most bloodless means, the Chinese have steadily cultivated the art of combining together and have thus armed themselves with an immaterial, invisible weapon, which simply paralyses the aggressor, and ultimately leaves them masters of the field. The extraordinary part of the Chinese boycott or strike is the absolute fidelity by which it is observed. If the boatmen or chair-coolies at any place strike, they all strike; there are no blacklegs. If the butchers refuse to sell, they all refuse, entirely confident of each other's loyalty.

Foreign merchants who have offended the Chinese guilds by some course of action not approved of by those powerful bodies have often found to their cost that such conduct will not be tolerated for a moment, and that their only course is to withdraw, sometimes at a considerable loss, from the untenable position they had taken up.

The other side of the medal is equally instructive. Some years ago the foreign tea merchants at a large port, in order to curb excessive charges, decided to hoist the Chinese teamen, or sellers of tea, with their own petard. They organised a strict combination against the tea-men, whose tea no colleague was to buy until, by what seemed to be a natural order of events, the tea-men had been brought to their knees. The tea-men, however, remained firm, their countenances as impassive as ever. Before long, the tea merchants discovered that some of their number had broken faith, and were doing a roaring business for their own account, on the terms originally insisted on by the tea-men.

OUR WONDERFUL LANGUAGE.

How Allah Fashioned a Tongue for the Englishman.

In spite of certain undeniable disadvantages, the English language steadily makes headway. There are few tongues so hard to master. One foreigner, who has had his troubles, but has won his way to a perfect command of the language, has presented some of the humors of the difficulties which belong to this richest of living languages.

As a boy, I heard a fantastic Turkish legend, which, to my mind, aptly illustrates the actual facts concerning the origin and formation of modern English.

After creating the first parents of each of the races, the story runs, Allah took a large piece of meat, and cutting it into slices, distributed them among all the people to serve them as tongues. For some reason the Englishman was absent when the others received their share. At last he came into the presence of his Maker, and in mute humiliation beg him to put a tongue into his mouth. But nothing was left of the meat. So Allah was obliged to cut a little piece from the tongues of all the others, and joining these pieces, he fashioned a tongue for the Englishman.

The Golden Opportunity.

Among the persons who have recently made provision for old age when it comes are two sisters, aged respectively 33 and 34 years. They have purchased from the Canadian government a Last Survivor Annuity, that is an annuity which will give them together an income of $600 a year so long as they both live, and to be continued to the survivor so long as she lives. The cost of this Annuity, $3,643.65, has been invested at 5 per cent., and had brought in less than $185.00 annually, with the difficulty and annoyance of re-investment. The Annuity becomes payable when the younger sister attains the age of 55, and should both die before that time the purchase money will be refunded to their heirs with 3 per cent. compound interest. Each is now earning her own living, and the sum paid is the fruit of their labors for a number of years. They were thus able the better to appreciate their splendid opportunity. A card of enquiry addressed to the Superintendent of Canadian Government Annuities, Ottawa, will secure for you any information you desire on the subject.

Kingsley Would Smoke.

Archbishop Benson, when headmaster of Wellington, was a great friend of Charles Kingsley, whose rectory of Eversley was but a few miles away. A. C. Benson gives many interesting reminiscences of Kingsley as he remembers him in those days:

"My father used to tell how once he was walking with Kingsley round about Eversley, when Kingsley suddenly stopped and said, 'It is no use; I know you detest tobacco, Benson but I must have a smoke!' and he had accordingly gone to a big furze-bush and put his arm in at the hole, and after some groping about, produced a churchwarden pipe, which he filled and smoked with great satisfaction, afterwards putting it into a hollow tree, and telling my father, with a chuckle, that he had concealed pipes all over the parish, to meet the exigences of a sudden desire to smoke.

Growth in Naval Expenditure.

Since 1902 the naval expenditure of the principal countries of the world has increased from £90,383,000 to £145,319,000. Great Britain is responsible for an increase of £13,000,000, Germany for $12,000,000, the United States for £10,000,000, France for over £4,000,000, and Russia for £3,000,000. In the last ten years the eight chief naval powers have spent the stupendous sum of upwards of one billion pounds sterling on naval defence.

ILLUSTRATION OF PUBLIC OWNERSHIP.

The United States Government is Running Department Stores, Hotels and a Steamship Line in Panama.

The United States government, as everybody knows, is engaged in building as a public enterprise, a canal across the Isthmus of Panama. What the world does not generally understand is that as part of this operation the government is also running lines of railway, a departmental store, hotels and a steamship line. At this government departmental store it is possible to buy almost everything, including ladies' patent leather shoes, briar pipes, teething rings for babies, sugared almonds etc. No less than fifteen hotels are operated, besides 18 mess halls. During one month these places served nearly 1,000,000 meals all told.

This has led a writer to suggest the possibility of the United States government developing Alaska by means of railways operated by the government itself.

Does not what has been accomplished suggest something more—the possibility of solving the trust problem by means of public ownership? It seems futile to talk of going back to the old days of small industries and free competition. The economy in large operations is something the public will not readily consent to surrender. Neither does it seem altogether easy to solve the problem by public control of corporations. The only easy way out would seem to be going the whole length and providing for public operation, something which does not, in view of what is being accomplished in Panama, appear so very difficult after all.

TWO WAR PICTURES.

Reminiscences Written by a Non-Commissioned Officer Who Served During the Napoleonic Wars.

There has recently been published a book containing reminiscences written by a non-commissioned officer who served during the Napoleonic wars. In these reminiscences there is given this description of a scene after the British attack on the French forces in Alexandria: "After the action was over we were ordered to go and take all the wounded of both armies and carry them to the boats . . . . It was truly a horrible sight to see the French and British writhing in agonies of death, and making friendship, who had only a few minutes before been filled with rage and hatred at one another—all their fierce passions stilled, and like a hushed child, taking one another in their dying arms."

This other picture is of the scene presented by Waterloo the morning after: "When morning came I went out to see the field on which so many brave soldiers had perished. The scene which met my eyes was horrible in the extreme. The number of dead was far greater than I had ever seen on any former battlefield. The bodies were not scattered over the ground, but were lying in heaps—men and horses mixed promiscuously together. I turned away with disgust from this heart-moving spectacle. . . . I confess my feelings overcame me; I wept bitterly, and wished I had not been a witness of such a scene."

"As It Was in the Beginning."

When William Pengelly was a sailor boy, weather-bound on the coast of Devonshire, he had his earliest geological experience, and Mr. S. Baring-Gould says he was wont to relate it as is printed below:

I received my first lesson in geology at Lyme Regis very soon after I had entered my teens. A laborer, whom I was observing, accidentally broke a small stone of blue lias and thus disclosed a fine ammonite—the first fossil I had ever seen or heard of.

"What's that?" I exclaimed.

"If you read your Bible you'd know what 'tis," said the workman, somewhat scornfully.

"I have read my Bible. But what has that to do with it?"

"In the Bible we're told there was once a flood that covered the whole world. At that time all the rocks were mud, and the different things that were drowned were buried in it, and there's a snake that was buried that way. There are lots of 'em, and other things besides, in the rocks and stones hereabouts."

"A snake! But where's his head?"

"You must read your Bible, I tell 'ee, and then you'll find out why 'tis some of the snakes ain't got no heads. We're told there that the seed of the woman shall bruise the serpent's head; that's how 'tis."

Why a Chinese Republic?

The statement that the revolution is likely to result in the formation of a Chinese Republic has caused a good deal of surprise in the Western world. When one thinks of it, however, this seems the most natural solution of the problem that will be presented by a successful revolution. The Manchu, a foreign dynasty, which has held power in China for some 300 years, is, of course, impossible since, as a matter of fact, the present revolution is for the purpose of driving that dynasty from power. On the other hand, the old native dynasty has been out of business for so long that it would probably be impossible to find any legitimate claimant of the throne in that quarter. The natural aversion to Japanese tutelage shuts that country out of consideration as the source of possible supply for a king, and of course a European prince would be altogether out of the question.

O'Hara once saw an advertisement in a street car reading—"Buy your stove at O'Brien's and save half your coal." "Begorra," he said, "I'll buy two stoves and save all my coal."

BEFRIENDING ROCKEFELLER

Not Bright Enough to Do Business in New York, Better go Back to New York, According to the Hat Boy.

Some folks think that Percy Rockefeller is the rising hope of the Rockefeller family. He is credited with being wise and wary, equipped with a positive gush of conversation that doesn't commit, when that sort of chatter is needed, and to be so silent at other times that a dungeon in a deaf and dumb asylum would sound like the whispering gallery in St. Paul's Cathedral in comparison. He keeps a thumb on the public pulse, and knows a lot of things about popular sentiment that many other rich men do not know.

The other night he went to a restaurant with a party of friends. The restaurant is rather a favorite of his, and the immature pirate in charge of the hat-room had learned to know him. Mr. Rockefeller handed him his mushed and desiccated old brown hat as he entered. It was a good hat, —once. The hat pirate looked on Mr. Rockefeller with pity in his gaze. By and by Mr. Rockefeller's little supper ended, and he returned to the coat-room to retrieve his hat. Instead of that decrepit old brown lid, the boy handed him a brand-new one, of the same general form and bearing the label of America's most expensive maker. It fitted Mr. Rockefeller perfectly, but he handed it back. "That isn't my hat," said he.

"Get wise, boss," said the hat pirate. "Nudge by with it while you can. It's worth ten of them old kettles you been wearin'."

Mr. Rockefeller said that was undoubtedly true, but he did not want to rob an unknown of a new hat.

"Say," said the boy, in disgust, "I thought I was doin' you a favour, because you been a good feller. But you better go back where you come from. You ain't bright enough to do business in Noo York."

EDISON'S ESTIMATE.

Declares the British Standard of Business Integrity the Highest in the World.

Modesty is an admirable virtue which may be with advantage cultivated by nations as well as individuals. But it must not be overdone. In these times of self-assertion, the inhabitants of the British Islands are familiar with comparisons which suggest that the Germans and the Americans are chief of the world's good and smart men, and that the Briton is now something of a back number. Faint hearts who permit themselves belief in this uncomfortable doctrine may find relief in Mr. Edison's latest pronouncement. It is not an invention this time. He declares that the British—he calls it English—standard of business integrity is the highest in the world, and that Germans themselves admit the soft impeachment. But that is not all. In the old world, says Mr. Edison, the British—again he calls them English—are the highest type, physically, morally, and mentally. These are grateful words. The only doubt left on the subject is caused by Mr. Edison's neglect to say how we stand in relation to his own countrymen. The omission cannot be due to modesty because he predicts that the business men of the United States will some day show the Germans how to hustle in their own country. It will be a fine sight.

His Original Sin.

In a country seat in one of the middle Western States dwelt a lawyer who, after a practice of thirty years, had accumulated a competence and retired. Being a man of much more than ordinary ability, an excellent speaker, entertaining decided political views, and enjoying the confidence of the community, he was urged by his friends to run for Congress. He refused. A man high in the political councils of the State came to see him, and added his persuasion.

"You ought to take that office," he said. "It might lead to something higher. You would make a national reputation."

"That's what I am afraid of."

"What do you mean by that?"

"Well," answered the lawyer, hesitatingly, "I will tell you, but it is in strict confidence. It must not go any further. Many years ago, when I was young and inexperienced, I published a small volume of original poetry. So far as I know, there is not a copy of that book in existence now, but one would turn up in some corner of the world if I were to run for office, and the papers would print extracts from it. I wouldn't have that happen for a million dollars. No, sir nothing doing!"

Dogs Go Wild.

Our tame dogs would all go wild if left to themselves for a few years. They tried the experiment once on Robinson Crusoe's island. They left some of their dogs there, and nobody called at the island again for about thirty years. And they found all the dogs had become quite wild. They hunted just like wolves, and they had forgotten how to bark; they could only howl. It was not till they became used to men again that they learnt to bark. A few years ago two dogs near to Nottingham lost their owners, so they made homes for themselves in a field. They hunted sheep and lambs, and did a great deal of damage, just as the wild dogs of India and Africa and Australia do. They looked just like wolves—so much had they changed during the months they had lived the life of wild dogs; and, finally, they had to be shot.

FIRST LOVE OF KAISER WILHELM

The Stern Necessities of Politics Cast a Cloud Over Two Young Lives and Compelled a Prince to Desert His Love Who Died.

The touching story of the romantic attachment of the Emperor William I. to Princess Eliza Radziwill when he was a young man and she a girl, and of the obstacles that arose to prevent their union, is related in detail in a book just written by Dr. Bruno Hennig, of Berlin. The stern necessities of politcs cast a cloud over these two young Royal lovers, and compelled Prince William — as he then was — to desert the girl he loved to contract a union based on prudence instead of on personal inclination.

Towards the end of the eighteenth century Prussia had absorbed a portion of the ancient kingdom of Poland, and was engaged in the difficult task — still only imperfectly accomplished — of assimilating the conquered Poles, who regarded their German masters with repugnance.

The hopes of Prussia in those days were largely centred in Prince Antony Radziwill, one of the Polish magnates, who accepted Prussian supremacy over his native land in a friendly spirit, and married Princess Louise, a niece of Frederic the Great, after which he was appointed Viceroy of Prussian Poland, with his seat of government at Posen. His real home, however, was in Berlin, and it was here that his daughter, Princess Eliza, who as a Hohenzollern on the maternal side associated freely with the Prussian Royal Ramily, met Prince William, the second son of the reigning King, Frederic William III.

Prince William and Princess Eliza grew up from childhood together, and it was not until 1820, when he was 23 and she three years younger, that their friendship ripened into love. The first words of love were spoken at a pic-nic in the forest round Berlin, at which Prince Antony and Princess Louise Radziwill and the King's remaining children, the Crown Prince, Prince Charles, and Princess Alexandra, were also present. "Dear, Dear Lulu," wrote little Princess Eliza to her friend, Countess Stosch, "how happy, how supremely happy I was with William."

A Shadow

During the next two years the young couple saw one another constantly, but a shadow had fallen across their happiness owing to the degree of difference in their respective ranks, which constituted a bar to their marriage. When Princess Eliza's mother — a Hohenzollern Princess — married Prince Radziwill, her inferior in birthright, she descended to his rank, and their children were not Royal Princes and Princesses, but merely the descendants of a Polish noble family, with Royal blood in their veins.

A marriage between Prince William and Princess Eliza would thus have been a morganatic union, and the right of their children to inherit the Prussian Throne would, according to the "House Laws" of the Hohenzollern dynasty, have been open to doubt. The question was raised whether Princess Eliza could not be raised to the rank of "Royal Highness" either by the King of Prussia or by the Tsar, and the two lovers went through an anxious time, which extended into several years, while this matter remained undecided.

But Prince William was obliged by what he considered his duty to the State to desert the girl of his heart, and in February 1829 his engagement to Princess Augusta of Weimar was announced.

Princess Eliza did not live long after the marriage of William to Princess Augusta of Weimar.

HOW VANDERBILT SQUEEZED

Many are the battles royal fought between the "Bulls" and "Bears." Those who read money articles in newspapers have often seen the phrase, "Such and such a share rose sharply on what is believed to be a 'bear' squeeze." What is a "bear squeeze?" The uninitiated might be pardoned for thinking that the "Bears" must have caught the "Bulls" and were proceeding to hug them. Whereas it is in reality a painful operation inflicted upon the "Bear." The best illustration of it is the classic instance of how a big railroad magnate "squeezed" a whole Legislature in America a long time ago. It was in the days when American Legislatures were rather corrupt. It appeared that this body promised Commodore Vanderbilt certain railroad concessions which inflated the value of his stock. They then formed themselves into a "Bear" clique, and sold it heavily. The "Bears" kept on selling until they had sold a good deal more stock than there was actually in existence. When they thought they had made millions they repealed their grant of the concession. The stock had come down very little despite all the selling, but they thought that when their decision was announced it would slump. It did not. Some of them then decided to "cover." The price they sold at was 75, and it had dropped to only 73. If they could close their deal at that figure they would have a profit of two points on each share. But when they came into the market there was no stock to be had. They started bidding, and the price rose with amazing rapidity to 179. The Commodore had all the stock! He allowed the "Bears" to settle at 179. They lost millions, and he raked in millions as the result of his great "corner."

Brown: "It's a fine thing to have the advantage of a college education."
Jones: "Yes, I've found it so."
Brown: "But you didn't go to college."
Jones: "No, but my wife did."

Immense Dividends Will Be Paid By The Dominion Match Co., Ltd., Of New Westminster, B.C.

Very few people have any conception of the magnitude of the match industry, said C. L. Godding who is stopping for a few days at the Lake View hotel and representing the Dominion Match Co. It is such a tremendous factor in the commercial world that governments have made the industry a government monopoly, prominent among which is France from which is derived an annual revenue of approximately six million dollars. Please understand this sum is net profit.

There are no seasons in the match business. It is not effected by crop failures or panics. When practically every other industry is paralyzed, the match manufacturer is experiencing his most prosperous period, on account of the fact that he obtains his supplies cheaper, and his labor cheaper, the consumption of matches actually increases, because it is a well-known fact that men consume more matches out of employment than they do while at work. This country is importing matches from Sweden, Norway, Russia and Japan, notwithstanding an import duty of 25 per cent., which amounts to over a dollar per case of one gross of 500.

The Dominion of Canada consumes, approximately, two thousand cars of matches annually. Mexico and South America and Oriental markets offer unlimited fields for the sale of matches, and no seaport is more favorably situated for supplying this than Vancouver, British Columbia, with its unlimited fields of virgin forests.

The attention of investors is invited to the following brief plans and cost of manufacturing matches under Parker's Continuous Process of manufacturing matches, the sole right of which for the Dominion of Canada has been acquired by the Dominion Match Company Ltd., with offices at 328 Hastings St. West, Vancouver, B. C., and with its factory now being erected by McLellan & Beer, contractors; Gamble & Napp, architects, Vancouver B. C., and arrangements now being made with with the C. P. R. for laying tracks to the factory buildings.

The Dominion Match Company, Ltd., now owns and has the exclusive right to use for the Dominion of Canada a new process of manufacturing matches, known as the Parker Continuous Process, by the use of which a wide variety of cheap raw material, such as alder, hemlock, cottonwood, fir and spruce, which is found in great abundance, is now being made available for manufacturing match sticks, materials which can be obtained for a mere fraction of the cost of white pine, now being used by the old dye methods; and by the use of these cheap raw materials, and the labor-saving features of the process, the cost of manufacturing safties, parlors, and double-dipped matches is reduced, approximately, 50 per cent.

My people are not looking for the small investor who is always willing to be taken in by the tales of a shrewd stock salesman who has nothing but his commission in view. Our proposition appeals to the hard headed business man with money to invest that is worth while to himself and the company. Stock is now selling at par $10 per share. I will be here till Saturday and hope to secure some of the prominent men as stock holders. As without doubt we have the best investment on the market to-day and stock will soon be out of reach. People investing now will not only reap the benefit of handsome dividends and the increase of their stock will be in itself a good investment.
