Council Meeting

A meeting of the city council was held last Tuesday evening, the Mayor and Ald. Leckie, Jones, and Cox being present. There was very little business to transact, and the session was very brief one.

The minutes of last meeting having been disposed of, it was mentioned that there were no accounts to be passed, a very unusual thing.

The mayor also mentioned that the city were calling for tenders for wood as fuel for the power house.

Mayor Sutherland announced that the Union of B. C. Municipalities were holding a convention at Salmon Arm on November 10th. The city was entitled to send two delegates for the $10 subscription which had been paid. It was important that the council be represented at the convention. The council were at present taking up the question of municipal control of the irrigation system, and he and Ald. Jones had formed themselves into a committee to approach the provincial member on the subject. It might be well if the matter were brought up before the convention.

"Who pays expenses," asked Ald. Cox.

Last time he attended, the mayor answered, he paid his own, but now, as the city was larger, it might possibly raise the amount.

On the motion of Ald. Cox, seconded by Ald. Leckie, Mayor Sutherland and Ald. Jones were appointed delegates.

A sub-division map of part of Block 3 on Manhattan beach was submitted by S. Wright, and approved by the council.

The pound-keeper's report was submitted as follows:

Sept. 12. R. Goldie.....	5 horses	$5
22. H. Lock .....	2 "	$2
23. J. Carsono...2 cows	..2	$2
24. C. Thompson 2 horses	..2	$2
24. J. Carsono ..2 "	..2	$2

The meeting then adjourned.

Sad Death of Mr. Tom Hereron

A distressing accident occurred last Tuesday, causing the death of Mr. Tom Hereron, an old timer in the district, who was found dead with a broken neck in the Vernon road near Ellison. Mr. Hereron was driving home in the afternoon from town to his place at Ellison. He was alone at the time, and it is surmised that the pole of the wagon became disconnected, and the team starting forward dragged the unfortunate man to the ground, breaking his neck in the fall. The team found their way home alone, and two of Mr. Hereron's daughters at once rode back along the road to town and discovered their father lying dead near the waggon. Help was summoned, but it was too late, life being extinct. The greatest sympathy is felt in the district for the bereaved family.

The interment takes place today at the Catholic cemetery.

Mr. H. H. McLeay, the Montreal agent of the Central Okanagan Lands, Ltd., is arranging for an excursion party to Kelowna, taking in also the Apple Show at Vancouver. A private car has been secured for the party, which numbers about eighteen, which will probably run right down to Kelowna, leaving after a few days for the coast, and from there returning direct to Montreal.

The sad news was received during the week of the death of Mrs. F. A. Taylor, who was on a visit to the Old Country with her husband.

The death took place last week of Miss Eliza Gellately, the daughter of Mr. D. Gellately, after a very short illness.

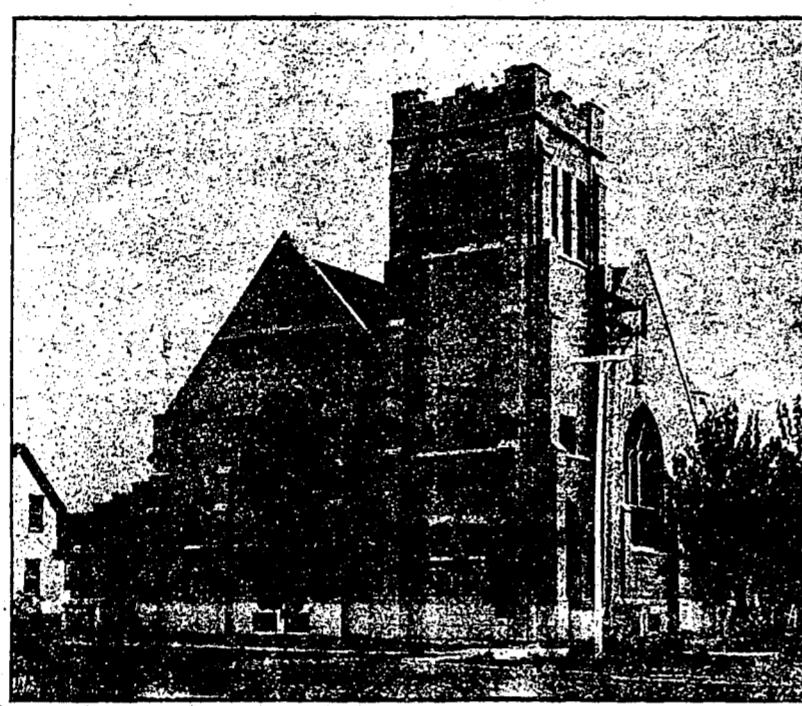

Miss Gunn, of Peachland, is visiting Miss Mawhinney.

Kelowna Presbyterians Open Fine New Church

Splendid Brick and Stone Edifice Erected at a Cost of Nearly $20,000 - Great Crowds Attend Dedication Services Last Sunday and Monday.

The new Presbyterian church is now an accomplished fact, and the congregation in Kelowna possesses an edifice of which it might well be justly proud. The handsome brick building erected at the corner of Bernard avenue and Richter street at a cost of nearly $20,000 is the first really imposing and permanent church structure in the city, and the Presbyterians of the district have every reason to congratulate themselves upon the result of the persevering efforts of the past year or two, prompted as it has been by an unbound faith in the future of the town.

Large Crowd Attends Sunday Services

The dedicatory services were held last Sunday, and the accommodation provided was taxed to its utmost, the great crowds of people who attended testifying to the interest which the successful culmination of the project had awakened in the minds of all classes and denominations.

The three Sunday services were conducted by the Rev. Dr. Mackay, principal of Westminster Hall, Vancouver, than whom few more eloquent and forceful preachers have ever occupied a pulpit in Kelowna. He was assisted by the pastor, the Rev. A. W. K. Herdman, the Rev. D. J. Welsh, of the Baptist church; Rev. C. W. Whyte, until recently Presbyterian minister at Peachland; the Rev. J. W. Davidson, of the Methodist church, and others. A specially augmented choir, conducted by Mr. J. N. Thompson, led the singing, which was of an unusually high order.

At the morning service, when the doors of the church were opened for the first time to the public, every available seat was occupied some time before the commencement. Worship opened by the singing of the Doxology, in which the whole congregation joined. Then followed the Scripture sentence and invocation, Psalm selection and Scripture reading, after which the choir gave a spirited rendering of the chorus from Handel's Messiah: "Lift up your heads, O ye gates." A prayer of dedication was offered by the Rev. Dr. Mackay, concluding with the Lord's Prayer in concert. At the conclusion of an appropriate and eloquent sermon, the Rev. Dr. Mackay in a few brief and well-chosen words, congratulated the congregation on the successful achievement of their noble work in giving so beautiful a church to the city of Kelowna. He expressed the hope that as it was a landmark and an architectural feature of the city, so it might long be a centre of influence and power in the spiritual life of the city.

During the offertory, a voluntary was given by Mrs. F. G. Davis, who presided at the organ, followed by the singing of Sullivan's "The Strain Uprise" by the choir. The first speaker was the Rev. A. W. K. Herdman, who expressed

A prayer by the Rev. D. J. Welsh, a hymn and the Benediction brought to a close the first service in the new church.

In the afternoon the usual Sunday School was abandoned, and a special children's service given, at which addresses were delivered by the Rev. Principal Mackay, and the Rev. C. W. Whyte. The music included a violin solo by Miss Laidlaw, a cornet solo, "The Better Land," by Mr. J. N. Thompson, and an anthem by the choir: "Judge me, O God."

Although the seating capacity of the church provides for something under 400 persons, it is estimated that over 600 presented themselves for the evening service. Seats were placed in the aisles, and as many as possible were crowded into the main body of the church. Both porches were filled with people standing, also the vestry at the side entrance, and many had to go away altogether, from the impossibility of getting near. A splendid sermon was preached by the Rev. Dr. Mackay, which was listened to with great interest by the large gathering. The choral selections were exceptionally fine -- "The Heavens are Telling" from Haydn's "Creation," duet and chorus "I waited for the Lord," and the "Hallelujah" chorus.

The offerings on the Sunday amounted to about $600.

Monday's Supper and Meeting

The space at the disposal of the Ladies' Aid in the old church for the supper proved ridiculously inadequate for the great crowd which flocked into the little building soon after six o'clock. The ladies had been busy for some days previously, and a truly royal spread had been prepared. There was no lack of good fare which was heartily appreciated by those who were fortunate enough to get a seat at the tables. As it was nearly 400 people partook of the supper — a fact which speaks volumes for the energetic efforts and unsparing generosity of the ladies who worked so hard to make the event a success. They are to be congratulated upon having realized from the supper alone the handsome sum of $171.

The church was again crowded for the meeting which followed. Mr. Geo. E. Boyer, who returned only last week from a five months trip to the Old Country, occupied the chair. The meeting opened in the usual way, with a hymn and prayer, after which the choir sang "The Heavens are Telling" from the "Creation," in which Mrs. Brooke showed to considerable advantage in the soprano solos. Mrs. Brooke is a new comer to the town, and her capital voice is already proving a decided acquisition to local musical circles.

The first speaker was the Rev. A. W. K. Herdman, who expressed his own and his congregation's pleasure at the return of Mr. G. E. Boyer, who had done so much for the church in the past. He regretted the absence of Dr. Mackay, who owing to a previous engagement had been compelled to leave that afternoon for Penticton. A letter had been received, he announced, from the Hon. Price Ellison, enclosing a cheque for $100 towards the building fund (applause). He also read a letter from the Rev. Thos. Greene, regretting his inability to be present owing to the sad and unexpected news of the death of Mrs. F. A. Taylor, and extending his congratulations to the minister and congregation on the completion of the new church, which he hoped would enter upon a new era of prosperity and usefulness.

Letters of apology and congratulations had also been received from Rev. C. W. Whyte and Rev. D. Campbell of Armstrong.

The chairman, Mr. Geo. E. Boyer, said it was a great joy to him to preside at the present meeting. He had been looking forward with the pleasant anticipations to seeing Kelowna again, and he had arrived just in time to witness the opening of the new church, and to have the opportunity of seeing all his old friends gathered together again. Five months was a long time to take a holiday, almost too long. He had, however, had a most pleasant visit to the Old Country. He had been renewing old acquaintances and visiting old scenes once more, and had returned feeling fifteen or twenty years younger. Continuing his interesting reminiscences of his tour, he said he had found conditions very much altered in the Old Country during his seven or eight years absence. Unemployment and poverty were on the increase, and there was great unrest in the political life and in the sphere of labor. All this made one feel that we had much to be thankful for out here in British Columbia.

Referring to the new building, he said that as Presbyterians, they now had a most beautiful church, and he was sure they all must feel sincerely grateful to the building committee and others who had worked so hard to produce it. He was most enthusiastic in his eulogies of the pastor, the Rev. A. W. K. Herdman, and asked for still greater support and appreciation for the work which he was doing for the church. He was most warm, too, in his praise of the choir, who had, under the direction of Mr. J. N. Thompson, and along with the organist, Mrs. F. G. Davis, made the musical part of the services such a splendid success.

Next came a cornet solo, "The Flight of Ages," by Mr. J. N. Thompson which was heartily applauded.

The Rev. D. J. Welsh, of the Baptist church, next addressed the gathering. A little over a year ago, he said, he had occupied on the site where the church now stood, a somewhat peculiar position, when he assisted at the ceremony of laying the corner stone of the new church. He had come that day to Kelowna, and had not even had an opportunity of meeting his own congregation. He had, however, known Baptists in various parts of America and Canada, and he had had no hesitation in expressing the sympathy of his church people with the new movement. And he now had to convey the greetings of the Baptists on the completion of their fine new church. They would watch with interest the progress of their work, and would be glad at all times to help, and to work together in the right spirit. Referring to church union, some day, he said, it might come. He himself, however, was more eager for church federation, for the cooperation of the churches in all Christian work. He wished the Presbyterian congregation God-speed and every blessing on their work.

A duet and chorus: "I waited for the Lord," followed with Mrs. Jas. Harvey as soprano and Mrs. J. N. Thompson, contralto. Both choir and principles did their work well, and the gathering was loud in its approval. The Rev. J. W. Davidson, then spoke on behalf of the Methodist church. The Presbyterians had now built their church, and he presented to them the hearty greeting of his own people. He was, in a sense, however, sorry to do so. He would rather have seen the new church built by a united Protestantism of Kelowna, who would have one interest, and one body. That would certainly come in time. As it was, he knew it required no ordinary energy, no ordinary resourcefulness, no ordinary sacrifice to carry through to completion a work of this kind. To the congratulations of the Methodists he would like to add his own sincere personally good wishes.

Mr. Geo. McKenzie, whose rich baritone sounded to good advantage in the large new building, sang "The Eternal City."

The Rev. Mr. Vance, of Rutland, was then called upon. He could, he said, only congratulate the pastor, the building committee and the congregation on such a splendid building. It had cost a great deal of energy and sacrifice on the part of those who had worked for it, but they had something to show for it. A good building, however, he would remind them, did not make a good church. It was only a means to an end. He trusted the present structure would have long and helpful service.

A chorus by the choir, "Judge me, O God," was well sung, and provided effective work for the male voices. The Rev. Mr. Conn, brought congratulations from the friends of Okanagan Centre. He congratulated the building committee who he said, were in reality the women of the congregation. It was the wife behind the building committee who deserved credit for the building of the church. There was great concentrated effort represented in the fine building in which they stood. It was the result of much work and prayer, and noble effort. It stood as an evidence of faith and as a protest against sin. He spoke enthusiastically of the choir and its leader, Mr. J. N. Thompson, and of the organist, Mrs. F. G. Davis. They had performed their part of the services splendidly, and deserved all the credit that could be given to them.

A pretty violin solo was next given by Miss Laidlaw.

The Rev. Jas. Hood, of Summerland, gave an amusing address. We were told, he said, "Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's house," etc., but he certainly did covet Mr. Herdman's church.

Mr. D. W. Sutherland, chairman of the building committee, presented a brief report of the finances in connection with the new building. The contract price, he said, was $15,500. An additional sum of about $3,500 had been spent in various furnishings, etc., making the cost of the church approximately $19,000. Of this $1,000 had been donated in furniture, and $10,000 had been already subscribed, leaving $8,000 to be borrowed. This they hoped to be able to pay off in the near future.

The Rev. A. W. K. Herdman, in his closing address said he had been happy to hear the members of his congregation and the different officers praised for the work which they had done. He wished to thank all who had taken part in the opening services, especially the ministerial brethren who had so kindly given up their services to be present with them. He thanked all who had voluntarily helped the choir, and others who had worked to make the occasion successful.

The New Church

The new church is a large brick and artificial stone building, and has been erected at a cost of nearly $20,000 exclusive of the site, which was donated some time ago by Mr. A. B. Knox. The architecture is comparatively plain but of a bold and pleasing design, and does credit to its architect, Mr. F. W. Peters, of Kelowna, and to the contractor, Mr. H. W. Rayner. At the north-west corner, as shown in the engraving, a massive battlemented tower and belfry. The church is lighted on the north and west by great Gothic windows of tinted cathedral glass. The two main entrances are on Richter street, one under the tower, while a smaller side entrance on Bernard avenue, provides access to the vestry and choir. The building is so arranged that at some future date an addition may be made on the south for Sunday schools, etc. The bell which hangs in the tower, was presented to the church by the Morrison family in memory of their father, the late Robert Morrison.

The interior furnishings are of a most tasteful and appropriate kind. The pulpit was the gift of the mayor of Kelowna, Mr. D. W. Sutherland. The communion table was given by Mr. and Mrs. Geo. E. Thompson, in memory of their daughter, Ella. The communion chairs, by the Sabbath school scholars, and the organ by the Young Ladies' Auxiliary. The books of praise were given by Mr. Geo. E. Boyer, while the Ladies' Aid Society provided the carpets and the chairs for the choir.

Back to the Okanagan

Coast Paper Says Valley Ideal for "Simple Life."

In the current issue of the Saturday Sunset, "Bruce" McConnell who has been making a tour of the southern interior of the province, describes in an appreciative and enthusiastic manner, his journeys through the Okanagan valley.

Discussing the subtle fascination inherent in the cry of "Back to the land" for the town dweller and industrial drudge, he says: "Never before, perhaps, has the "simple life" appealed to the imaginations of the people as it does to-day. Never before apparently have so many people yearned for the happy mean betwixt poverty and wealth as they do to-day. It would seem that many of these people are finding the conditions they long for in the Okanagan Valley, that land of fruit and flowers, smiling lakes and blue skies, of varied interests and beauty, in which I have wandered for the past week."

From Penticton in the south throughout the whole 140 mile stretch of the valley he finds "such a variety of conditions, climatic, commercial, social and otherwise, that almost any preference or taste of the prospective settler may be gratified."

Transportation he regards as one of our chief problems. "That greater transportation facilities will have to be provided for the Okanagan in the very near future is patent to the most cursory observer. While the figures of the present season are not yet complete those in position to know estimate that at least 450 carloads of fruit will be shipped before the season closes. Conservative estimates are that these figures will be doubled every two years as orchards come into bearing."

Though he believes that the prairie provinces with their great influx of settlers every year will always prove the great buyers of Okanagan fruit, yet he wonders why, when one compares the fresh Okanagan product with the flavorless trash from the United States shipped green and ripened in the crates, there is not more of our valley fruit seen in Vancouver.

He gives a sly dig at the hotels in the Okanagan where, "although this is the zenith of the apple harvest and both apples and pears are at their best, yet on not a single hotel table in the valley have we met with fruit fit to eat yet alone fit to maintain the reputation of that valley for these fruits. At the C. P. R. hotel at Sicamous, Okanagan fruits figures on the bill-of-fare and the sample which was served to me was a slander on the valley. It would have been very much better to have left Okanagan out of the bill-of-fare entirely than to associate it with the miserable stuff served up to travelers under that name."

Travelers passing through the country naturally form their impressions and base their judgment of its products by those with which they come in contact. If they meet with poor stuff they naturally can say nothing good about it and there is little doubt that the fallacy which has been widely published, that Okanagan apples are inferior to Ontario fruit has had its origin in the miserable stuff with which travellers have been served in British Columbia hotels.

He does not hold with the fallacy that large capital and equipment are needed for success in the Okanagan. "If success is measured by attainment of a moderate income the establishment of a comfortable home amid ideal conditions of climate, a life in the open air, employment that calls for a healthy exercise of muscles and mind, the rearing and education of a family and the acquisition of competence in old age, if that is what is called success, I know of no spot in Canada where it may be attained more surely and easily upon a more modest investment than in the Okanagan."

Presbyterian Policy On Temperance Reform

The General Assembly's Resolution.—The Assembly would reaffirm the deliverance of former Assemblies that nothing short of the prohibition of the traffic in intoxicants for beverage purposes can satisfy as the goal in temperance reform, and would recommend our people in those provinces where there is no immediate prospect of carrying and enforcing prohibition, to unite with others in working toward this end, by: (a) The curtailment of the traffic by local veto; (b) The abolition of the bar-room and the public treating system associated therewith, and (c) the prohibition of the residue of the traffic, with this proviso that where in cities and towns the said sale is demanded by a majority of the qualified municipal electors, such sale shall be conducted under such conditions as will eliminate the element of private gain. Winnipeg Assembly 1908.

The import of the resolution—It sets prohibition clearly before the public as the goal in temperance reform, so far as the traffic is concerned. Nothing short of this can satisfy.

It advises Provincial Prohibition as soon as public opinion in any province is strong enough to compel the Legislature to enact such a law and to provide for its effective enforcement.

Until public opinion is strong enough to make the enactment and enforcement of prohibition possible, the Assembly advises patient, persistent effort by local veto campaign as the most effective method of creating opinion favorable to prohibition and of limiting the traffic to ever narrower bounds. In this way, in a comparatively short time, it will be confirmed to the large cities and a few other centres where special conditions exist.

The Assembly advises, the traffic having been sufficiently limited to make this possible and yet not sufficiently to secure and enforce complete Provincial prohibition, that by Legislative enactment:

(a) All bar-rooms be abolished where still remaining, putting an end to all drinking on the premises where sold, and the entire public treating system which is admittedly responsible for a large portion of the drinking now practised, and

(b) At the same time the licensed shops wholesale and retail, be suppressed also, but that,

(c) Cities and towns be allowed, by the local option method, the right, should a sufficient majority of the qualified municipal electors so declare, to have a limited number of shops authorized to sell liquor for consumption off the premises, provided the said sale is conducted under such conditions as eliminate the element of private gain.

Such by-laws would of course be in force only for a brief period—a year or two or three as might be determined—unless re-submitted and carried again by the required majority.

To what does this commit the church?—Not to any form of public ownership or operation or control of intoxicating beverages as against Prohibition. It is a temporary expedient to meet a practical difficulty, namely, the making of prohibition effective in a large centre if the law is forced upon it by an outside vote, a majority of its own electors being opposed to such a measure.

It commits the church, therefore, simply to giving such centres, under certain restrictions and safeguards, the right of saying whether they will accept prohibition or insist on having the sale of liquor in their midst. It does not concede to such centres the right of having liquor sold under license for private gain, under any circumstances, but only under such conditions as will eliminate private gain.

When such by-laws are submitted to a vote of the people, the church is free to work and vote against the by-law, and in favor of the general prohibitory law, and therefore at no stage in the process is the church put in the position of favoring the traffic in intoxicants in any form.

ODD CLASSIFICATIONS.

The Way a Carload of Tramps Was Designated in Mexico.

In Mexico the billing of railroad freight requires a knowledge and precision which can only be attained by years of practice. This is due to the peculiar classification of various articles and the different rates of customs duties. A case once occurred which severely taxed the ingenuity of the station agent, although he finally succeeded in meeting all requirements.

The town was overrun with tramps, and the council determined that steps must be taken to rid the city of them. It was finally decided to round them up and ship them out of the country. It would be too expensive to purchase tickets, so they concluded to hire stock cars and ship their tramps as freight.

The cars were procured, and by the aid of the police the tramps were gathered, but then the question arose as to how the shipment should be designated on the bill of lading.

The term "persons" could not be used, as it would conflict with the state law relative to proper accommodation for the traveling public, and it would also be in violation of the company's rules governing the rates of passenger traffic. "Marketable commodities" would not do, as that would subject the carload to a heavy duty upon crossing the tariff zone. Again, they would have to be classified as "perishable" or the dispatcher might order the car sidetracked along the line.

But fortunately there is a customs law which exempts certain kinds of curiosities from duty, and so, after much consideration, the tramps were billed and forwarded as so many hundredweight of "perishable curiosities—unit to eat."

Why Boiled Lobster Is Red.

In all crustaceans, as, indeed, in almost everything in nature, there is a certain per cent. of iron. Upon boiling the lobster is oxidized. The effect is largely due also to the percentage of muriatic acid which exists naturally in the shell. The chemical change which takes place here is almost similar to that which occurs in the burning of a brick. In boiling a lobster its coat ceases to be a living substance, and to a certain extent it takes a new character. It is as a brick would be after burning. This effect can also be produced by the sun, but necessarily not so rapid, as the heat of that luminary, although more intense, is not concentrated sufficiently to produce the result. The sun also exerts a bleaching influence which consumes the oxide almost as fast as it is formed, leaving the shell white or nearly pure lime.

The Tomato.

The tomato, wholesome, toothsome, capable for such variety of edible use as it is, was not found out by man until comparatively recent times. It is a native of western South America, whence it was introduced and cultivated in Europe during the sixteenth century. At first its wrinkled fruits were regarded with suspicion, and it was grown to be looked at as a curiosity more than anything else. Cultivation smoothed out the wrinkles and developed the tomato so that in the eighteenth century both yellow and red varieties were known. There are many old people living to-day who relate that in their childhood the tomato was known as the "love apple" and was poisonous if eaten too much of.

Queer Chinese Headress.

The female headress is carried in some countries to singular extravagance. The Chinese beauty carries on her head the figure of a certain bird. This is composed of copper or of gold, according to the rank of the person. The wings spread out and fall over the front of the headress and conceal the temples; the tail, long and open, forms a beautiful tuft of feathers; the beak covers the top of the nose; the neck is fastened to the body of the artificial animal by a spring that it may the more freely play and tremble at the slightest motion.

Lord Primate's Unique Record.

The oldest prelate in the kingdom, Archbishop Alexander, the Irish Lord Primate, has just entered on his 87th year. As a bishop Dr. Alexander's record is unique. He is the only prelate in these islands who has been over forty years in episcopal orders, and the only survivor of the bishops of the Irish Church prior to its disestablishment. It is noteworthy that during his occupancy of the See of Derry he made a magnificent gift to the diocese by permanently endowing it with $10,000 a year and a bishop's house.

Turned the Laugh.

"Who is there?" cried the impasioned orator, "who will lift a voice against the truth of my statement?"

Just then a donkey on the outskirts of the crowd gave vent to one of the piercing "heehaws" of the tribe. The laugh was on the orator for a moment; but, assuming an air of triumph, he lifted his voice above the din to say:

"I know nobody but a jackass would try it."

His View of Women.

Archbishop Whately said, with flippant but humorous discourtesy, "Women never reason, or if they do they either draw correct inferences from wrong premises or wrong inferences from correct premises, and they always poke the fire from the top."

Hubby's Little Game.

Wife—What's the matter? Husband—Some one has been robbing the firm, and I'm afraid I'll be suspected. Wife—Impossible! Husband—Well, it's best to be on the safe side. Better not buy that new dress you've been worrying me about.

Montreal's Harbor.

It is said that the harbor facilities of Montreal are almost as good as those of Liverpool, and have cost much less.

Boiled Alligator.

Boiled alligator flesh has a taste very much like that of veal. It is much esteemed in India.

Forest Reserves

Likely to be Considerably
Enlarged Soon.

In the report of the Superintendent of Forestry, which forms part of the annual report of the Dept. of the Interior, recently published, are given many interesting details as to the administration and working of the forest reserves.

The indifference with which the ordinary citizen regards the privilege of a vote and a voice in the management of affairs in his own city is almost unaccountable. In theory he speaks of "government by the people for the people" as a noble heritage for which our forefathers poured out their innocent blood against the tyrant and oppressor, etc., etc., and his democratic soul is filled with indignation at the mere thought of government by an aristocracy, but in practice he will not walk across the street to register his vote!

If you want to vote at the next municipal election, see that your name on the list by November 1st" is what the city has been advertising for some weeks, and so far only four have responded.

If you own property in the city and are on the assessment roll, your name will be placed on the list by the City Clerk, provided you have not bought since the roll was made up, in which case you will have to give notice of the purchase.

If you do not own property but have lived in the city since before January 1st, and have paid a road tax or license of some kind, except a dog license, you may vote, but must make a fresh declaration every year. The fact that you voted last year makes no difference.

Better see the City Clerk at once—he'll tell you what to do.

view to its being set aside for a forest reserve.

Much more interesting information in regard to the reserves and the other work of the Forestry Branch is given in the annual report of the Superintendent of Forestry above mentioned. Copies may be obtained on application to R. H. Campbell, Superintendent of Forestry, Ottawa.

News of the Valley.

The fourth annual convention of the Eastern B.C. Sunday School Association is sitting this week in Vernon. A large number of delegates are in attendance from all parts of the province. The principal speaker is Mrs. Foster Bryner of Chicago. The Rev. D. J. Welsh yesterday delivered an address on: "The Argument for Teacher Training." To-day (Thursday) the delegates are to be entertained at a banquet by the Sunday School workers of Vernon. The different Sunday Schools in Kelowna are well represented. Amongst those attending were: the Rev. J. W. Davidson, Rev. D. J. Welsh, Mr. J. Ball, Mrs. Herdman, Mrs. Gaddes, Miss McGee, Miss Mawhinney, Miss Rowe, Mrs. D. E. McEachern, Miss Renwick and others.

The Economy of the Prevention of Conveyance Losses of Irrigation Water

And Use of Concrete for the Economical Construction of Irrigation Structures
By Professor ETCHEVERRY, of the University of California

Read before the Fourth Annual Convention of the Western Canada Irrigation Association, held at Kamloops, B.C., August 3rd, 4th, and 5th, 1910.

The earliest use of concrete linings was in Southern California about 1880, when the increasing value of water made it necessary to do away with losses. Since that time practically all of their canals which are comparatively small, carrying usually less than 100 cubic feet per second, have been lined with concrete, and in some cases replaced by concrete pipes. Until recently very little concrete lining has been done outside of that region; but during the last few years concrete-lined canals have been constructed on many of the projects of the U. S. Reclamation Service and on numerous private projects. As examples: The Modesto System in California has lined portions of its main canal, 64 feet wide at the top and 5½ feet deep, with concrete lining 2½ inches thick. The Lower Yakima Irrigation Company of Eastern Washington has completed seven miles of concrete lining. The Burbank Power and Irrigation Company, also of Eastern Washington, has recently constructed one mile of concrete lining. There are also numerous examples in California, Oregon, Nevada, Idaho, and other states.

While there are many ways of building the concrete linings, they are generally constructed according to two methods. The first method is used where the side slopes of the ditch are flatter than 1 to 1; the second method is used for steeper side slopes.

To construct linings according to the first method the canal is trimmed ready to receive the lining; then the mortar of concrete is spread on the sides and bottom and plastered on in a manner similar to sidewalk work. To obtain the right thickness guide strips are used. The thickness ranges from three-quarters of an inch up to 3 or 4 inches.

To construct the lining according to the second method, the canal is first trimmed, then the wooden form for the side lining is placed in position and the concrete mixture poured or thrown in the space between the form and the sides of the earth ditch. For canals less than 10 feet at the top, usually the form is a wooden trough made of the same cross section as the finished concrete-lined ditch. The thickness of lining is usually from 2 to 6 inches.

The very thin linings of 1 inch or less have been used extensively on many systems of Southern California, and have been very satisfactory. As an instance the Gage Canal has been lined with three-quarters of an inch of cement mortar for almost its entire length of 20 miles. After 10 years of use, the last four years of which water was run continually, giving no opportunity for repairs, the total cost to repair thoroughly all sections was for these four years less than half of 1 per cent. There is no doubt in my mind that such thin linings, while helpful, are not strong enough to be satisfactory, especially where the extremes in temperature are as great as in the Northwest. There is only one example, to my knowledge, of a thin lining built in a region where the ground freezes. That one is in Eastern Washington, where four miles of canal were lined with a lining varying from ½ to 1½ inches thick. When I examined the lining I found it rather badly cracked; but, because of poor workmanship, it was impossible to state how much of the cracking was due to frost. Although this lining was not, in my opinion, very satisfactory, it was nevertheless helpful in preventing seepage losses, for before its construction it was impossible to carry water over this stretch without losing most of it.

As a guide for the proper thickness for concrete linings in the Northwest, I would recommend usually not less than 2 inches for small canals, and preferably 3 inches. There are many localities where 3-inch concrete linings have been used with entire success, even where subject to frost. No matter what the thickness is, unless the concrete is reinforced with steel, or expansion joints provided, cracks are to be expected. These will usually be fine cracks occurring at more or less regular intervals, and the leakage through them will be small; the cracks often silting up. For better appearance and also to distribute the crack at uniform intervals, the lining should be laid in sections 6 to 8 feet long.

To decide intelligently what canals should be lined with concrete, and to know what expenditure is (To be continued next week)

Municipal Voters' List.

Second to None.
This applies to the Cut Glass just received. A nice assortment suitable for Wedding Presents, made by the famous Gandy-Clapperton Co. of Toronto, and which for beauty of design and richness of cutting, cannot be excelled anywhere.

And the price is very reasonable, as a look will convince you.

A piece of cut glass adds adornment to any table, and its brilliancy is lasting.

Don't forget to come and look when in search of something nice for a present.
