Sad Double Drowning Disaster

Sailing Boat Caught in Sudden Squall and Overturned - Two Drowned and One Rescued With Difficulty

A distressing drowning accident which resulted in the loss of two lives and very nearly a third, occurred last Wednesday afternoon soon after one o'clock.

Tom Wardlow, Mark England and Robert Lloyd, three carpenters employed by Mr. Raymer, who had been engaged for some time past on the building of a house for Mr. Harry Chaplin on the west side of the lake, having completed the contract Wednesday morning, started to cross over to Kelowna in a sailing boat. When about the middle of the lake a sudden squall sprang up, the boat was capsized, and the three men were precipitated into the water.

Frank Bastier, who was working on Dane's place, over-looking the lake on the west side, heard their shouts of distress. He at once hurried down to the brewery, a short distance away, and he and W. Dimmock and Oswald Jones quickly got out the brewery launch, and hurried to the assistance of the drowning men.

As they drew near to the overturned boat they could see two men clinging to her, the third, Mark England, having already disappeared. They tried for some time to get near enongh to reach the unfortunate men, who were rapidly becoming exhausted, but the engine stopped and the rough sea drove tnem back. Again and again they drew near, but were carried awav each time. Finally Frank Bastier, with splendid heroism, sprang over the side of the launch. A few powerful strokes enabled him to seize Lloyd, exhausted, numbed with the cold and well-nigh dead. The strong breeze had lashed the lake into an angry sea, but bravely the rescuer held on and managed to keep afloat nntil the launch could get alongside, when Dimmock and Jones pulled them aboard.

In the meantime the sailboat had been rolling heavily, and before the launch could get round again, had turned completely over, shaking off the desperate hold of the remaining man, and poor Tom Wardlow sank from sight.

For a few minutes the launch hung over the spot on the chance of his rising to the surface again, but all to no purpose, then set out at full speed for Kelowna. Lloyd's unconscious figure was carried into the Royal Hotel.

When Dr. Martin, who had been summoned arrived, there was scarcely a sign of life, and for a long time his efforts seemed useless. At length, however, his patience was rewarded, and indications of returning animation became evident.

It was an hour or more before Lloyd was sufficiently recovered to be able to sit up in bed and give his version of the accident. His story was pathetic in the extreme. The three of them had finished work on Chaplin's house that morning and were returning to Kelowna. They had started about 10 o'clock in the morning. The day was fine but cold, and all three were well wrapped up with heavy overcoats. For some time Lloyd, who is an experienced sailor, used to the sea all his life, and holding a master mariner's certificate, had held the tiller with one hand and manipulated the sheet with the other. But his hands, becoming numbed with the cold he had got Mark England to relieve him with the sheet while he still kept to the steering. When the squall struck them he shouted to Mark to let go the sheet, but the line had jambed in some way and refused to work. The boat heeled over and half filled with water, and before he could get her righted, his companions had rolled or jumped into the water. and the boat rolling completely over carried him under. He was under for what seemed a terrible time, and when he did come up he was in a pretty bad state. All three, however, managed to catch hold of the boat, but they were hampered by their heavy coats and the heavy rolling of the craft. He saw Mark England hang on for about ten minutes, and heard him complain about the terrible cold, but he never saw him again. Tom Wardlow had managed to divest himself of his overcoat, but Lloyd could not get his off, or he says he would have struck out for shore. The coldness of the water was paralysing every muscle and his strength was going fast, when he heard Wardlow shout: "Hang on Bob, there's a launch coming!" He has no recollection of being carried ashore.

The case of Mark England was particularily sad. He was a bright young fellow from the Old Country and leaves a wife and two young children, one not a year old. He has a brother in Kelowna, but his parents reside in Essex, England.

Tom Wardlow was Mr. Raymer's foreman. He was unmarried, his parents and two brothers residing in Kelowna.

Mr Claude James went out soon after the accident in Hayman's new boat and after searching around the spot brought in the overturned boat. Several searches have since been made, but it is extremely unlikely that any trace of the bodies will ever be found.

British Parliament Dissolves

Premier Asquith announced today that parliament will be dissolved Nov. 28 thus insuring a general election before Christmas.

The announcement of the prime minister was a surprise, as many on both sides were hopeful that a compromise would be reached. The premier was defiant when he addressed the House of Commons the other day.

"It is useless to continue the farce any longer," he said "To reform the House of Lords and simultaneously to permit them to retain the right of veto simply makes the government a farce. The suggested compromise has not been in the interests of the people. The government has a distinct programme which must be carried out."

COUNT TOLSTOI DEAD.

Count Leo Tolstoi, the noted Russian novelist and social reformer, died on Sunday last at Astapova, Russia. Entering the army when 23 years old, he served in the defence of Sevatapol against the French and the British. He first came into prominence in literature by some vivid sketches written from Sevastapol.

He was devoted to the interests of the Russian peasantry, and began early to organize for the uplift of that much degraded class.

Accurate information is difficult to get, but advices so far make the total output of fruit and vegetables in car lots, in the neighborhood of 930 cars. The C.P.R. always estimated about 1200 cars for 1911, and with the many new orchards now first coming into bearing, that estimate will likely come far short of the mark.

Mr. R. E. Harriss imported last week a registered Holstein bull from Aylmer, Ontario. It is from a celebrated milking strain, and was bred by Messrs. Laidlaw & Son and changed hands at a very high figure.

Mr. S. Gore is starting up in the laundry business. He has taken Stubbs' house on Pendozi street, and is at present having it fitted up ready for the reception of the machinery which is on order. Mr. Gore expects extensive patronage from people who object to having their laundry handled in Chinatown.

Meeting of the City Council

Waterworks By-law Passed

A meeting of the city council was held Monday last, Mayor Sutherland, and Aldermen Leckie, Cox and Jones being present.

The minutes of the previous meeting were passed and the following accounts referred to the finance committee, to be paid if found correct:

North West Electric Co., W. P. Wire		$ 88	40
North West Electric Co., electric meters		239	95
G. F. Teal, work on waterworks		48	00
J. Walgod,	do. do.	10	58
R. Draper,	do. do.	3	33
S. Hanjnarck	do. do.	18	47
do.	do. do.	1	50
A. McMillan	do. do.	3	00
C. P. R., freight		8	57
G. F. Jones, fire hall supplies			65
Can. Rubber Co., 500ft. hose		450	00
J. W. Sanders, waterworks connections		44	36
W. C. Blackwood, gravelling streets		109	50

Mr. S. T. Elliott attended with a plan of his sub-division on Pendozi street. This was approved by motion of the council.

A plan submitted by the Aquatic Association was also approved.

Waterworks By-law No. 80 then came up for final consideration. Mayor Sutherland mentioned that it had been submitted to the city solicitor and no changes suggested. A motion was accordingly put through that the by-law be finally passed.

Mr. Claude James attended with a request for permission to extend the ferry building out towards the lake as far as the water line. He wished to know if the addition could be constructed of wood, as it would be a difficult matter putting a concrete or brick building on the sand.

There was some doubt as to whether the site in question was within the fire limits, but on looking the matter up it was found that an amendment to the by-law relating to fire limits made last year had struck out all west of Abbott street. Mr. James was accordingly assured that the building could be of wood so long as it met with the approval of the building inspector, to whom plans would have to be submitted.

Ald. Jones enquired how many hydrants had been purchased by the waterworks committee, and where they had been placed.

Ald. Leckie said that twelve hydrants had been purchased, but they were not all in position yet. They were being put wherever it was considered essential and at distances apart so as to cover most ground with the hose.

Ald. Jones remarked that the placing of these hydrants should now give the town ample fire protection.

Ald. Cox wondered if there was not some disadvantage in placing the hydrants so low in the ground.

Ald. Leckie thought that this did not in any way interfere with their usefulness. They were smaller hydrants, costing about half the price of the first ones and he believed would do the work equally well. He said the fire brigade boys intended testing them as soon as they were all in position. He also said that in future the water cart could be supplied with a short length of hose for attaching to the hydrants, thus avoiding the former method of filling which had not proved very satisfactory.

Mayor Sutherland said he had to apologize to the aldermen for not bringing in the Electric Light by-law as promised last week. He had been delayed in the work of preparation by having contracted a cold. The by-law, however, would be ready for next meeting.

The meeting then adjourned until Monday next, Nov. 28th, at 8 p.m.

Born, to Mrs. Ernest Clement, November 16th, a boy.

Mr. J. T. Campbell, Sunnyside Ranch, should be credited with the prize winners of last week, instead of J. J.

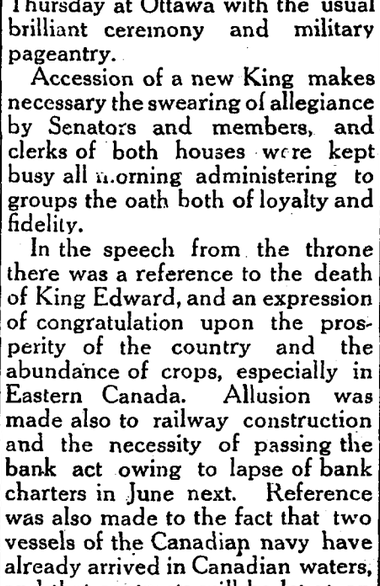
Parliament Opens at Ottawa

The third session of the Eleventh Parliament of Canada opened last Thursday at Ottawa with the usual brilliant ceremony and military pageantry.

Accession of a new King makes necessary the swearing of allegiance by Senators and members, and clerks of both houses were kept busy all morning administering to groups the oath both of loyalty and fidelity.

In the speech from the throne there was a reference to the death of King Edward, and an expression of congratulation upon the prosperity of the country and the abundance of crops, especially in Eastern Canada. Allusion was made also to railway construction and the necessity of passing the bank act owing to lapse of bank charters in June next. Reference was also made to the fact that two vessels of the Canadian navy have already arrived in Canadian waters, and that contracts will be let at an early date for eleven other vessels, provided for in the legislation of last session.

Satisfaction was expressed by the Governor-general that reciprocity negotiations have been entered into with the United States Government. The agreement between Canada and the United States for the consideration of international fisheries was noted with great satisfaction. The finances of Canada were declared in a most satisfactory condition.



Rev. F. A. Robinson, B.A., who is conducting Evangelistic Meetings in Knox Church, and who will bring the mission to a close on Sunday.

More Members for B.C. at Ottawa

The Dominion census will be taken next summer, probably in June, will show that British Columbia has at least 300,000 people. The cencus of 1901 showed B. C. population to be 190,000. British Columbia is at present represented at the Dominion House of Commons by seven members. The British North America Act provides that the number of members in the house may from time to time be increased by parliament according to a fixed proportion calculated from the latest census. The census of next summer will, according to arithmetic and the act, give British Columbia twelve members in the House of Commons.

Mr. D. H. Rattenburg who has only recently returned from Fort George, B. C., where has spent the last eight months has sold the ten-acre orchard of Mr. Frederick Woolridge to Mr. W. J. Cavanaugh a well known real estate broker of Vancouver who will take up his residence here in the near future. Mr. and Mrs. Cavanaugh are just returning from a trip round the world and are at present staying at the Lake View.

Mrs. Max Jenkins and her little child returned last Thursday from Grenfell, Sask., where she has been staying for the past few weeks.

Sensational Charge of Blackmail

Story of Anonymous Letter and a Glass Bottle

The hearing of an enquiry into a remarkable case of alleged blackmail, arising out of an anonymous letter sent last Friday to Mr. E. J. Pettigrew, was commenced before Magistrate Burne last Wednesday morning. It reads like a drama from the moving picture show translated into real life.

It appears that Mr. Pettigrew, who a few months ago had his confectionery store on main street destroyed by fire, on getting up last Friday morning, found a letter pushed under his door. The letter asserted that the writer had two friends who were in possession of certain damaging information as to the cause of the fire. They were anxious to go to Australia, but had not money enough to pay the passage. He advised Pettigrew to place $150 in a bottle in the end of the culvert on Pendozi street just south of the bridge. He, the writer would give the money to them and thus prevent making any disclosures.

Mr. Pettigrew, in his statement said that at first he was inclined to treat the matter as a joke, but finally he showed the letter to Constable MacRae. The latter regarded the letter as serious, and it was arranged that a dummy roll of bills should be put in a sealer and placed in position as directed.

Soon after Friday midnight, Pettigrew was aroused from his slumbers by a noise at his door. He heard smeone shout: "Don't forget that money!" and then run away. He went to the door but could see no one.

The bottle was put into place Saturday evening, and Bert Johnstone, Joe Cowan and Pettigrew stationed themselves behind some trees and awaited developments. Nothing happened, however, and they were relieved about half past seven by Constable MacRae and Max Jenkins, who got under the sidewalk, which is supported on trestles at that point, and close up to the culvert.

They had not waited long, the police evidence stated, before they espied a mysterious figure on the other side of the road. The man crossed the road, came along the sidewalk, stopped a while, then commenced to get under the sidewalk by the culvert, reaching forward as if to get the bottle. "Hands up!" ordered the constable presenting a revolver. For answer the man turned and made off, but tripped over a root and fell. He was quickly secured and taken to the lock-up. He gave his name as Hatch and demanded to know why he was arrested. He was told that the charge against him was blackmail. On searching his house the police found a writing pad, on the blotter of which were traces apparently corresponding to the letter sent to Pettigrew.

The accused, G. E. Hatch, a carpenter by trade, stated that he had been down town Saturday evening after his mail and was returnhome along Pendozi street, reaching the crossing a short distance from the culvert, when for private reasons he found it necessary to return and get under the sidewalk which at that point was raised well above the ground. Hardly had he reached the spot when he found himself covered with a revolver. Thinking it was a hold-up of some kind, he turned to run, but fell. Someone came on top of him, and when his captor produced a pair of handcuffs, he realised for the first time that it was a police trap, and demanded the reason of his arrest. He denied all knowledge of the letter, and protested that the whole thing was a mistake on the part of the police, who had trapped the wrong man. Mrs. Hatch was called and corroborated her husband's statements.

Accused was committed for trial at next assizes, bail being allowed.

No Liberal in the Yale By-election

Mr. Alexander Lucas, of Agassiz, has been nominated Conservative candidate for the seat in the Yale district made vacant by the resignation of Premier McBride, who was member for both Yale and Victoria and who has retained the latter seat.

Nomination day for the vacant seat has been fixed for November 26, and the election two days later, on the 28th. At present, however, it seems extremely unlikely that any contest will take place. A Liberal convention was held last week at Spence's Bridge for the purpose of choosing a candidate, but although the various parts of the riding were well represented no nomination was made owing to the various delegates being unable to come to an agreement.

The delegates to the convention were divided between Mr. Stuart Henderson and Mr. John Oliver, the latter being the former leader of the Liberal opposition in the province, who was defeated in his home constituency of Delta last election. Merritt sent a resolution against contesting the election.

Mr. Henderson refused to stand as candidate unless he was the unanimous choice of the convention and it was not possible to arrive at the desired unanimity from the fact that the Nicola delegation had been sent pledged to Mr. Oliver's cause.

With the failure of the Liberal convention to make a nomination, the only opposition in sight to Mr. Lucas' election is T. E. Julien, the prospective Independent candidate, whose retirement from the contest is already rumored.

Westbank Fruitgrowers Organize

On Friday Nov. 18th inst a meeting was held at the Lakeview Hotel at West Bank, and was attended by a large number of the inhabitants of the west side. The meeting was called to discuss several important questions of interest connected with the place. The question however, which occupied the greater part of the evening was the advisability of sending a delegate to Victoria to urge upon the government the necessity of establishing a water system which would be adequate for the requirements of this large and rapidly growing settlement. It was proposed that an organization be formed to handle such questions and to be known as "The West Bank Fruitgrowers' Association." Another meeting will be held next week, when officers will be appointed and other general business transacted.

The unsafe condition of the government wharf was then discussed and it was decided that a petition be drawn up and forwarded to the Minister of Public Works.

The Financial Aspect of the Liquor Question

There are some people who are not effected by the moral aspects of the liquor question, impressive and convincing as these are, who might be led to change their attitude towards temperance reform if they were shown that the financial arguments, though not the most important, are equally against the saloon: One of the stock arguments commonly employed against the prohibition of the liquor traffic is the loss of revenue which would entail. The following figures taken by the Montreal Witness from a recent address by Mr. Guy. Hayler bringing out very forcibly the fallacy of its contention. Mr. Hayler said England has spent no less than £1,700,000,000 on alcoholic licquors in the last ten years, an average of £170,000,000 per year. Of this amount the working classes spent £100,000,000, or about a tenth of their annual income. By far the larger proportion of this high sum went in profit to the liquor seller. For instance, Guiness & Co. of Dublin, employ about 2,000 hands, pay in wages £100,000, and have a profit of about £1,300,000. Thirteen times more profit than wages! Little labor and great profits are the general results of the money employed th the manufacture of alcoholic drinks. It has been noted that England, which spends this £826,000,000 or so on drink, spends less than £645,000,000, on bread, butter, cheese and eggs. Less than £680,000,000 on tea, coffee, cocoa, sugar, milk, fish, potatoes and all kinds of vegetables and fruits. Less than £729,000,000 on all woolen goods, cotton, linen, boots and shoes, furniture and coal for household uses. With all this expenditure the trade employs only 211,833 individuals in the manufacture, sale and distribution of liquor against 832,181 cotton and wool workers and 648,944 coal miners. The loss of revenue is a small thing in comparison to the tremendous waste by which thousands are beggared to enrich a few, not to mention the moral ruin of the victims of intemprance, the misery and sorrow which it creates on every hand and the cost to the nation of the crime of which it is directly or instrumentally the cause.

Mr. J. B. Hawkes, of Regina, who lately visited Kelowna, was interviewed last week on his trip by a representative of the Regina Standard. He declares that if a poet were to describe the town of Kelowna, he would probably call it a veritable utopia. The apples were still on the trees when he visited it (November) and the grass green and the flowers in bloom.

Mr hawkes was shown the tomb built by Mr. Rembler Paul. "Though he is still hale and hearty" he says, "and has fair prospects of living at least another decade, Rembler Paul, aged 80 years, pioneer of the Regina District, has builded for himself a tomb in the face of a mountain situated near his palatial home at Kelowna, where he has been living retired since leaving Regina some seven years ago. Mr. Paul argues that it is just as aeasonable to prepare a place to recline after death as it is to insure ones life. The mortuary is constructed of concrete, and is situated in a pleasant location being secluded on all sides by rocks and trees."

You Want a Wagon?

There is no Wagon made which presents so many reliable, lasting, and superior features as the

ADAMS WAGON

Known from the Atlantic to the Pacific, as the last word in wagon manufacture.

We have them in several styles to suit every purpose.

GET A GOOD WAGON,

It is the foundation of a prosperous farm business.

Don't fool with a broken tumbledown old heap of junk on wheels, which will cost you more in horseflesh and repairs than it is worth, to say nothing of the worry and anxiety and trials of temper such an outfit gives.

Plows, Harrows, Orchard Cultivators, and all kinds of Farm Implements.

S. T. ELLIOTT - Kelowna, B. C.

News of the Valley.

Salmon Arm, which carried off the first prize in the two-two exhibit at Vancouver apple show, has accomplished the same feat at Spokane.

A gang of three men—Peruvians—broke into Fulton's hardware store at Enderby last week, and took the entire stock of revolvers, a couple of boxes of ammunition and several heavy jack-knives. With this deadly array of weapons the men got away, but were captured a short distance from town.

Mr. S. V. Bray, of Kelowna, has purchased twenty acres from Boss Bros. and is calling for tenders for slashing, stumping and plowing same ready for spring seeding.—Armstrong Ad.

The Rev. N. K. Simpson, a former Baptist minister, who was acting as water commissioner for Mr. Jas. Ritchie at Kaleden, met his death under very sad circumstances last week. He was riding at the time, and his horse stumbling, threw him to the ground with great force, crushing him so that he never regained consciousness. He was an extremely popular man, and his death is much regretted by everybody. He leaves a widow and daughter.

The building of a new wharf at Chute Creek—the site for North Naramata the town yet to be—will be the first step toward the development of the new townsite. The building of the wharf will be undertaken by Government officials.—Sum. Review.

Mr. Donaldson, of Okanagan Landing, is offering $1000 for the conviction of the person who shot one of his Jersey calves—presumably in mistake for a deer!

That Photograph you intend to send at Xmas or New Year's can be made at Grays Studio any Wednesday to Saturday inclusive. Rowcliffe Block.

The old, old story, told times without number, and repeatrd over and over again for the last 36 years, but it is always a welcomd story to those in search of health. There is nothing in the world that cures coughs and colds as quickly as Chamberlain's Cough remedy. Sold by all druggists.

There was something like a riot last week outside the municipal hall at Penticton. The council had assembled to investigate a complaint lodged against Constable Henry Murk on the information of a man named Welland. He had been arrested by Murk, but claimed that the latter had told him that it was Reeve Foley Beennett, and not the constable, who was in reality apprehending him. It was generally understood that the investigation was to be an open one and a crowd collected about the municipal office only to find that the doors were closed. The crowd dispersed but a number later returned and showed their disapproval of the star chamber proceeding by engaging in a free fight on the streeet and battering away at the door of the municipal hall. Constable Murk was asked to investigate. His appearance on the street was the signal for a small riot. The Reeve and councillors rushed out to find him seated upon one of the disturbers while several others were dancing about him. To add to the confusion the arrested man's wife, alarmed by her husband's cries, rushed to the scene and promptly fainted in the arms of one of the municipal officers. While in this embarrassing position a bucket of cold water was dumped over the impromptu gallant and the lady by an excited spectator. Constable Murk took advantage of the confusion to get away with his prisoner. The latter, a man named Pringle, was fined and severely reprimanded by the Stipendary Magistrate.

At the Opera House

"Ole Olson"

"Ole Olson," the comedy which has delighted millions and which has won its place as an everlasting success, with crowded houses as steppinb-stones, will be presented at the Opera House, Saturday, Nov. 26.

"Ole Olson" has no end of opportunities for the display of his delectable Swedish drollery, amid the environment of fresh and graceful medley, songs and dances. Do not confound this play with any other, as there is only one "Ole Olson" and it is the only real Swedish dialect comedy. A caste of excellent reputation and the production one of pure, clean comedy and a beautiful story that illustrates why merit wins.

"Joshua Simpkins"

"Joshua Simpkins," a four act New England play, will be presented at the Opera House, Wednesday, Nov. 30. The climax of stage realism, it is asserted, has been reached in the presentation of this stirring saw-mill scene in "Joshua Simpkins" and will be presented in this city by a peculiar mechanical device, which has never been introduced here before. This saw-mill scene is claimed to be a vast improvement over any attempts in a similar line. The company also boasts of a splendid orchestra, which is carried complete by the organization, to aid in the proper presentation of the play, which is said to abound with musical and dancing specialties of a high order. To assist "Joshua Simpkins" in popularity, a band of music is also carried, and a concert is given which is said to be far above anything usually heard with a travelling musical organization. The parade will leave the theatre at the usual time and take the usual route, making a burlesque parade.

- Provincial and General News -

Ralph Johnstone, of Denver Col., the brilliant young aviator, holder of the world's altitude record, fell from a height of 500 feet into the enclosure at Overland Park aviation field last Thursday afternoon and was instantly killed. A frantic crowd of souvenier hunters swarmed over the wreckage almost as soon as the machine touched the ground and some disgraceful scenes were witnessed. Before the doctors or police could reach the scene one man had actually torn out from the mangled body of the aviator a jagged splinter of one of the stays of the machine, and run away bandishing his ghastly prize. The crowd tore away the canvas and fought for the very gloves on the dead man's hands.

An army of suffragettes, 1,000 strong, marched last week on the House of Lords. The suffragettes had determined if possible to force the police cordon about the House of Lords, and reaching Premier Asquith to insist on the introduction of a woman's suffrage bill. The police however were too strongly entrenched and the women, who tried every means in their power to force the line were thrown back. Eighty two of them were arrested.

Amongst resolutions adopted at the recent Conservative Convention at Nelson was one calling upon the government to pursue some policy of colonization with the idea of filling British Columbia's fertile valleys with settlers. The Convention affirmed the "White British Columbia policy," and wants to see the adminstration take steps to bring in Old Country people for the land.

A handsome gift to the Church of England was made by Mr. W. J. Walker, of New Westminster, who has undertaken to build and equip six new church buildings and to bear the cost of the support of one clergyman.

Jas. Berry the ex-hangman who s now "converted" and touring the country as an evanglist, sued Rev. Geo. Dymock, of the Blackburn (England) People's Mission, for £4 17s 4d for services rendered. Berry had conducted a weekend evangelical mission. The terms agreed upon were that he should receive the entire proceeds of the lecture on his life. During an interval an official handed him about $50. Berry contended that as the place accomodated 800 persons, and charges of 6d and 3d were made, he was entitled to a larger sum. The defence was that the the accomodation was only for 532 persons and that Berry received the entire proceeds.

Despite the removal of fifteen prisoners from the provincial jail to Victoria, there are still over 100 in that place, although accomodation is provided for only 66. A rumor that a new jail was to be built on Lulu Island but has been denied by the authorities.

During the first four months of the fiscal year 155,549 immigrants arrived in Canada, as compared with 90,249 for the corresponding four months of 1909. American immigration jumped from 40,982 to 100,852, or an increase of 102 per cent. During July alone 25,218 immigrants arrived in Canada, as against 16,113 for July, 1909, an increase of 57 per cent.

In addressing the delegates at the Conservative convention at Nelson last week, the Hon. W. R. Ross created a furore of excitement when he described Premier McBride as the coming man in federal politics. He declared that the Hon. Richard McBride would hold the highest office in the gift of the Dominion Conservatives when next they held office at Ottawa. The premier himself also spoke and in the course of his address outlined the sessional programmes both for the Ottawa house as disclosed by the speech from the throne, and for the Provincial House as considered by the government. He criticised Sir Wilfred Laurier's Asiatic policy, and expressed the firm opinion that the Federal Liberals were nearing the end of their term of power.

A London despatch states that political crisis whose prospect startles even the Conservatives in contemplating, faces England to-day. A monarchial revolution in addition to the revolution against the House of Lords, hangs suspended at the pleasure of King George, and should the king, as it is generally reported today, refuse to create additional Liberal peers to provide for curtailment of the privileges of the Lords, the gravest happenings in centuries in the United Kingdom are expected.

Penticton Constable in Trouble

After a perliminary hearing lasttng over two days former Municipal Constable of Penticton, Henry Murk, was sent up for trial before a judge at the next sitting of the court in Vernon.

Murk will be called upon th face the charge of purgerv, which has been preferred on the information of W. H. Tapley, formerly proprietor of one of the Penticton hotels. The charge arose out of circumstances in connection with theinterruption of a closed door meeting of the council held last Monday, when Murk, then constable, performed one arrest. A summons was later lodged against Tapley in which it it was allegedthat he was one of the disturbers. The case against Tapley was dismissed and the latter accusee Murk of commiting purgery in having given certain evidence against him.

The perliminary hearing commenced an Friday afternoon, Municipal solicitor Gahan, appearing for the prosecution and Murk undertaking his own defence. A considerable number of witnesses were called on both sides. Murk, who handed in his resignation as constable on Saturday, was admitted to bail bonds in $800.
