Meeting of City Council

Not Necessary to Enforce Vaccination Regulation - Orders Placed for Power Plant Extensions

The usual council meeting was held last Saturday evening, with a full attendance.

A letter was read from the medical health officer, Dr. Huycke, stating that he had examined the papers submitted by the council in connection with the provincial order for the enforcement of compulsory vaccination, and while he firmly believed in the principle of vaccination in preventing or diminishing the gravity of an attack of small pox, he did not think it necessary to enforce the regulation here.

The mayor reported that legal opinion had been obtained from Mr. Billings, of Vernon, with reference to the extension of St. Paul street through to Bernard avenue, to the effect that they could not assess the cost of continuing the street on any property owners except those where extension had been made. The expense could only be assessed against the actual frontage contained in the extension.

Ald. Copeland said the property owners were quite willing to pay for the extension. The mayor said he understood they were willing to pay, but if the city could not make an assessment against their property there was no guarantee that the city could collect.

Legal advice had also been obtained on the irrigation question, but they were going further into it before reporting.

By-law No. 85, to borrow money for current expenses, was re-considered and finally passed.

Ald. Leckie, on behalf of the Water and Light Committee, reported on the proposed extensions to the plant. Tenders had been received from various sources and the committee had decided to accept the following tenders:

Canadian Westinghouse Co., for a 50 kilowatt generator for $1,012.50; exciter, $285.20; Tirrill regulator, $320; switchboard, $776. All these prices were f. o. b. Kelowna.

Canadian General Electric Co., Vancouver, a compound duplex steam pump and pressure reducing valve, made by the Canadian Foundry Co., Toronto, $695 f. o. b. Toronto.

Goldie & McCulloch Co., Galt, Ontario, an "Ideal" engine to supply the motive power for above, $1,735, f. o. b., Galt.

The orders had been practically placed, but required to be confirmed by the council. The cost of the additional plant laid down here was $5,185. To add to this there would be the expense of foundations and the putting in of steam pipes, etc. It looked as though the total outlay would come well within the $7,000 asked for in the by-law. They had given the contract, said Ald. Leckie, for the engineering part to Juill, Mather & Co., of Vancouver. Mr. Juill had drawn out the plans for the extension, and would examine and test when installed on a five per cent. basis.

Ald. Dalgleish asked what guarantee they had of the proper running of the machinery.

Ald. Leckie said the plant was all bought on the sellers' own guarantees of satisfactory working and agreement with specifications, which he thought would effectually cover the city. The pump, for instance, was guaranteed a certain capacity for a certain number of strokes, and so on with the other items.

Ald. Jones asked how long it would be before the new plant was ready for operation.

Ald. Leckie said the makers undertook to ship in eight weeks and the machinery would be here just as soon as the car could come through. He thought the plant should be working in about three months' time.

Ald. Leckie also suggested that any surplus which might be left out of the money voted for the new plant might be well used in putting up a building to hold stores and tools belonging to the city. It would be quite permissible under the by-law to use any surplus in that way.

A formal motion was passed placing the order with the various firms as above.

A petition was read from a number of residents on Wilson street, calling attention to the bad state of that thoroughfare and asking to have it graded and put into shape. The matter was referred to the Board of Works.

Ald. Dalgleish said the Board of Works were of opinion that it would be advisable to gravel Harvey avenue while they were at work on Richter street. The grade was good, but the street was in a very bad condition.

Ald. Copeland agreed that it was quite necessary. It could, moreover, be done very much cheaper now while they had the men at work.

Ald. Dalgleish also pointed out that something should be done about securing a pound-keeper.

Ald. Copeland said he had been to the two livery barns in connection with the appointment, and they had refused to have anything to do with it. He thought they might have some difficulty in filling the position, as there was a certain amount of reason in the contention that 50c. per day was too little pay for feed, etc., when one considered the present high price of hay.

Mayor Sutherland said it would mean a new by-law to raise the fees. He suggested that the city should give its share of the fees to the pound-keeper. This would increase his revenue a little and in most cases would practically amount to the same as getting $1 a day for board as asked for.

The matter was eventually left in Ald. Copeland's hands to arrange. The meeting then adjourned to Saturday next, at 8 p.m.

Successful Musical Evening

The home of Mr. and Mrs. D. Lloyd-Jones was the scene last night of a highly successful musical evening in connection with the Women's Auxiliary of St. Michael's Church. Over eighty people were present, and a most attractive programme of songs and recitations had been arranged. Refreshments were served during the evening. The following programme was given, and much appreciated, judging from the frequent calls for encores:

- Pianoforte Solo.....Mrs. Butler
- Violin Solo.....Mr. MacBean
- Song: "Lullaby".....Mrs. Jas. Harvey
- Pianoforte Solo.....Mr. Boyd
- Song: "My Rosary".....Mr. Ferrier
- Banjo Duet.....Misses Hensman
- Recitation.....Miss Hogarth
- Song.....Miss Cockrell
- Violin Solo.....Mr. MacBean
- Pianoforte Solo.....Mr. Boyd
- Song: "Marguerite".....Mr. Ferrier
- Recitation "How Jimmy and I fell out".....Miss Harding
- Song: "Sunshine and Rain".....Mr. MacBean

Mrs. Tatcher was amongst the arrivals by Wednesday's boat.

Property sales are becoming pretty brisk in the district lately, many important holdings having changed hands in the last week or two. The latest is a sale by Mr. D. McEachern of his ranch by the creek, adjoining T. G. Speers' orchard. This was the first farm taken by Mr. McEachern on coming to the district, he afterwards moving to his present place at Benvoulin. Mr. Cather is the purchaser, the price realized being $16,000.

Anglican Synod at Revelstoke

The Anglican Synod held last Wednesday and Thursday at Revelstoke is reported as one of the most important conventions ever held in the Kootenay. The delegates from Kelowna, who returned Saturday last, were the Rev. Thos. Greene, Mr. D. Lloyd-Jones, Mr. A. H. Crichton and Mr. E. M. Carruthers.

Bishop DePencier's charge to the Synod contained some interesting references to the development of Church work in the diocese, due to the rapid settlement of parishes hitherto thinly populated and scattered over a considerable area. He regretted that through lack of time he had not yet been able to visit the Kelowna district, and spoke in a very appreciative manner of the way in which Mr. Greene was developing the work under his charge, having completed the building of a new church, (South Okanagan) and claimed the grant which freed it from debt. He hoped this summer to have the pleasure of a personal inspection of "that most beautiful and richest part of the diocese."

He referred to the question of the formation of a new ecclesiastical province west of the mountains, a draft constitution of which had been drawn up at a conference of the bishops of the province last July. He also read the plan for the foundation of a Theological College for British Columbia.

A committee which included Rural Dean Greene was appointed to report on the charge which was commented upon very favourably by them and received by the Synod as a whole.

Various reports were submitted showing the work of the diocese generally to be a most progressive condition, after which His Lordship the Bishop, introduced a motion touching the formation of an Ecclesiastical Province, with a Provincial Synod to be elected afterwards. The motion was carried on being submitted to the vote.

The committee appointed to report on the Bishop's address asked that a committee of three clergymen and three laymen be elected to deal with the theological questions contained in the address. This was done, Rural Dean Greene being amongst the clergymen elected.

In the election of officers of the Synod, Rural Dean Greene was also appointed to the executive committee.

The reputation which the Kelowna Dramatic Society has already gained for the cleverness and thoroughness with which they carry out anything they undertake, is ample justification for the eagerness with which the production of "H. M. S. Pinafore" on Monday and Tuesday next, is being looked forward to. The work itself is one of the most attractive of the Gilbert and Sullivan operas, and no pains have been spared by the Society to do it full justice. New scenery has been painted, and a good deal of time and money spent in correctly staging the work. It is a matter of great regret that Mrs. Huycke has been prevented at the last moment from fulfilling her part owing to a sudden bereavement. An efficient substitute, however, has been found in Mrs. J. N. Thompson, who has kindly consented to step into the breach. Mrs. Thompson took the part when the opera was produced by the Society three years ago.

Mr. Axel Eutin returned Wednesday from the coast.

Mr. S. T. Elliott is now busy making active preparations for opening his branch store at Penitction. During the week a car of implements and a car of buggies have been shipped down.

The Kelowna Junior Hockey team made good last weekend by giving the Summerland College a licking to the tune of 4 goals to 1.

Large Increase in Year's Estimates

Okanagan Vote Second Largest in Province

The estimates presented to the legislature last week show that in the financial apportionments of the British Columbia Government for the coming year, the necessities of the great Okanagan district have obtained full recognition, strictly local votes aggregating almost a quarter of a million having been included in Finance Minister Ellison's provisions for the ensuing twelve months. A considerable portion of this very large sum is necessarily hidden in the large general votes for education (provincial contributions to city and rural schools not being specified), hospitals, government service, administration of justice, etc. Aside from these altogether, however, the general Okanagan vote for roads, streets, bridges and wharves has been increased from $120,000 to $156,000, and now takes place as the second largest in the province, only exceeded by Skeena, (including Prince Rupert and Stewart). The supplementaries also include a general Okanagan vote of $19,000, augmenting the $120,000 voted last session.

In addition, the Okanagan will share in the general appropriation of $600,000 for bridges, and $75,000 is specially provided for the new court house at Vernon. There is also provided $2,928 for provincial police service in the Okanagan district with a chief constable stationed at Vernon and officers at Enderby and Kelowna. The hospital for the insane at Vernon is granted $6,500; the Kelowna ferry, $1,000; the Government agency at Vernon, $6,012; and that at Princeton, $13,680. In the hospitals and charities vote is included $300 for a resident physician at Princeton, while new assisted schools are provided for at Hidden Lake, Richland and East Kelowna. Provincial teachers salaries generally are increased from $250 to $10,000 per month, according to the success demonstrated by the school reports and pass lists.

Roughly speaking an increase in revenue of about fourteen per cent. is anticipated for the ensuing twelvemonths in the estimates for the fiscal year ending 31st March, 1912, the prospective receipts from all sources being placed at $8,192,101.06 as compared with $7,000,026.66 for 1910-11.

As plainly indicated, the intention is to expend this revenue and a considerable portion as well of the handsome surplus with which the province finds itself blessed, in reproductive public works necessary to enable the machinery of government and facilities in education, transportation, etc., to keep pace with the growth and general progressive movement of the province, the House being asked this session to provide in both main and supplementary votes a total of $12,103,567.19 as against $9,019,559.57 constituting the total of last year's vote. In connection with the apparent disproportion between estimated revenue and estimated expenditure two significant facts must always obtain consideration—that the disposition of the present government is always toward safe conservatism in estimates of prospective contributions to the Treasury, and there remained in hand at the close of last year a surplus of no less than $2,224,747.18, the actual revenue during the last year having exceeded the estimates by upwards of thirteen per cent., while actual expenditures were two million dollars—$2,369,564.81 to be exact—within the provisions made in the money votes of last session's supply.

The provincial estimates for next year contain an appropriation for clearing the land at point Grey for the University of British Columbia.

Russian Relations With China

The relations of Russia and China are strained to the breaking point. Russia, last Friday notified the governments of Great Britain, France and Germany of her intention to make a military demonstration on the Russo-Chinese frontier, owing to China's present violation of the St. Petersburg 1881. Russian troops were sent forthwith into the district of Ili. The extent of the demonstration, it is added in the note, will depend entirely on the attitude assumed by China. The vital questions involved are free trade in Mongolia, extra-territorial rights of Russians in China and the office of a Russian consulate at Keobdo, Mongolia.

Armstrong v. Kelowna

The Armstrong hockey boys favored Kelowna with a visit last Tuesday playing the Shamrocks' team. The match took place at Haug's rink and attracted quite a number of spectators, who were rewarded with an interesting game. The visitors it must be admitted put up some good play, but the home team proved the biggest scorers, winning out with a score of 6 to 1. The line up was as follows:

Kel. Shamrocks	Goal	Armstrong
J. Kincaid	Point	Hardy
L. Watt	Cover	Fowler
J. Copeland	Rover	Murray
L. Pettigrew	Centre	Armstrong
J. Patterson	R. wing	Mundrell
C. Raymer	L. wing	Hazard
A. Raymer		Cavers

An interesting hour was spent last Monday evening at the Epworth League of the Methodist church. The missionary committee had charge of the meeting and a bright discussion on the Forward Movements for Missions was led by Mrs. Adams. Subject next Monday will be "How we get our Bible," will be taken by the Rev. J. W. Davidson.

The Baptist Church Young Peoples Society are following a course of interesting subjects at their meetings every Monday evening. The subject for next Monday will be "Housing and Sanitation." After the reading of a paper the time is devoted to open discussion to which all are welcome.

One of the first of the new settlers who have taken up land in the Glenmore district to arrive is Mr. G. W. Ward, who came in by Monday's boat from Montreal. It is Mr. Ward's intention to make preparations for his family by putting up a house at once, and has already purchased the lumber for that purpose.

The ways of the heathen Chinese may be dark and peculiar, but it is necessary to be up very early to get ahead of him. Sam Lee got his wash house burnt last Wednesday, and has to rebuild. At the same time the council have in hand a by-law to include Chinatown in the fire limits. Sam does not see the fun of putting up a costly fire proof building, so he started in to beat the council by getting his building up before they could get the by-law passed. And he's going to do it. On Saturday, according to his own statement he had a force of 92 Chinks clearing away the rubbish. By day break Monday morning a big force was on the spot, hammering, sawing and jabbering to beat the by-law. No catchem Sam Lee—not if he knows it!

On Wednesday next the 28th the last grand concert of the season will be held in the Ellison school house, to commence at 8 p.m. prompt. A strong array of talent is assured. Refreshments at the close. Admission 25 cents ladies with baskets free. Come in crowds.

McBride Condemns Reciprocity

Would Hamper Development of the Province

In the course of a speech in the House last week, in which he strongly condemns the bad bargain into which the Dominion government would enter with the States on the tariff question, Premier McBride referred to its effect on the B. C. fruit industry.

He said there could no doubt that a great deal of the attention British Columbia attracted abroad had been in consequence of the wonderful development of fruit-growing in this Province. He recalled how the late Captain Tatlow had spoken of British Columbia as "the orchard of the Empire," when speaking of records the Province had first made in competition in fruit growing with other sections of the Empire. The value of the British Columbia fruit crop in 1910 was $2,500,000, and yet the people were told it was a mere bagatelle compared with what it would be in another three or four years, when thousands and thousands of acres recently planted would be coming into bearing. If they took the fruit growers at their word, and they must do so, and agreed that their work would be greatly hampered by this agreement, how much greater would be the mischief wrought against them when their business approached the condition just outlined? It was well known that persons in control of fruit lands in British Columbia might go abroad, and secure ample funds for their development, so strong was their faith in fruit growing, but how shaken this faith would be when the protection which had helped to bring the industry to its present state was taken away. This agreement would bring the Provincial fruit growers into competition with Washington, Oregon and California all older communities, where there were easier conditions for development, where labour was more plentiful, and transportation cheaper. In this Province we had not yet come to full manhood in fruit growing. We were, indeed, in our earliest infancy in this respect.

The Province was not provincial in its attitude on this question. They had the sympathy of fruit growers of Eastern Canada, as represented by the convention of Niagara district growers, which met at St. Catharines on January 28th, and passed a strong resolution against the adoption of the agreement.

A bill was introduced into the legislature last Friday for the suppression of foul, or black brood in bees. This is a first attempt in this province to eradicate what may be spoken of as the greatest obstacle to successful apiculture. Under this new measure provision is made for the appointment of inspectors as may be necessary, to examine apiaries for signs of the disease. Where the inspector is satisfied of the existence of the disease in a malignant form he is empowered to order all colonies affected, together with the hives and their contents if these can not be effectually disinfected immediately destroyed by fire under his supervision.

Bill to Suppress Foul Brood

Mr. W. C. Blackwood returned last week from a winter trip to California staying a short time at Vancouver and New Westminster. Whilst at the coast Mr. Blackwood became interested in a fine residential section between Vancouver and New Westminster on the new route of the B. C. Electric, and overlooking Burnaby Lake. Buena Vista is the name given to the new section and anyone interested may get all particulars, plans, etc., from Mr. Blackwood.

Town and Country

Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Morrison and family were amongst the arrivals by Saturday's boat. Alex is turning his back upon the coast where he went some eighteen months ago, and will make his home once more in Kelowna. He is entering the Oak Hall along with his brother.

Mrs. J. B. Knowles returned Saturday from a visit to Kamloops.

Mr. R. Rowe left last week for Ontario, where he is taking up farming once more. His family remain here for a short time.

The Rev. A. W. K. Herdman returned Saturday from Vancouver where he attended the Temperance Convention held last Thursday and Friday. We understand that a change of policy is to be decided upon for the temperance forces of the province. The more or less unpopular Canada Temperance Act is to be abandoned, and pressure brought to bear upon the government for local option measure. The convention raised the number of the provincial executive from 16 to 25, including women for the first time on the list.

The Rev. Ferguson Millar of Penticton will preach at Knox church next Sunday. The Rev. A. W. K. Herdman goes down to Penticton by direction of the Presbytery to arrange for the settlement and introduction of Mr. Millar as the Presbyterian minister of that place on the 27th inst.

The Rev. C. A. White, formerly of Peachland, has accepted a call to Field, B. C. His induction takes place early in March.

A Talent Tea is being held this afternoon by the Ladies' Aid of Knox church at the home of Mrs. R. F. Morrison from 4 to 6 p.m.

If you miss seeing the "Pinafore" either Monday or Tuesday next, you will regret it.

The Rev. Logie McDonnell, owing to continued ill health has been compelled to resign his charge at Vernon. The resignation was accepted last week. The Rev. A. W. K. Herdman has been appointed interim moderator of session.

Quite a large party of Kelowna's hockey enthusiasts went down with the junior team Monday afternoon to Summerland. There was great jubilation on the wharf in starting, but alas! and alack! they came back—with a score of 7 to 1 against them.

BIRD—SANDERS

An interesting wedding took place last Wednesday evening at the Methodist Parsonage, when Percy O. Bird was married to Miss Mary E. Sanders. Mr. and Mrs. Bird have taken up their residence on Abbot street in the house formerly occupied by Mrs. Tatcher.

Mrs. Mark England and children left last Thursday morning for the Old Country, where she will reside with her parents. She is accompanied by her brother-in-law Ernest England, who however will probably return to Kelowna.

The fourth monthly meeting of the "S. S. Teachers' Association" will be held in the Methodist church at 8 p. m. on Wednesday March 1st. The subject for discussion will be, "The Teachers' Preparation for Teaching," under the leadership of the Rev. D. J. Welsh. A good attendance is looked for.

Dr. Pfyffer of the Mission Ranch had the misfortune to lose a calf last week, which explains why the school-house flag was at half-mast all day Friday. Poor Bossy!

The opening services in connection with the new Mission church of St. Andrew's at South Okanagan took place last Sunday. The seating capacity of the church was taxed to its uttermost, the congregation included many people who drove out from town. The preacher was the rector of Kelowna, The Rev. Thos. Greene. The building of the new church and the increasing work in the district will necessitate a Curate being placed in charge, and the Rector has received instructions from the Bishop of the diocese to make the appointment.

MARTIN-SENOUR PAINT

100 PER CENT PURE

The Martin-Senour Paint is prepared ready for the brush and under ordinary conditions, and for finishing coats needs no thinning.

It is the best paint that can be made, and while the first cost may be a little more than some of the cheaper brands of paint on the market, the fact is that it will cost from 15 to 20 per cent, less to paint an average size building with the Martin-Senour paint, than with a cheap and adulterated paint.

For example:—A building containing 4000 sq. feet will require 10 gal. Martin-Senour paint (1 gal. covers 400 to 450 sq. feet), at $2 per gal.—$20. To paint the same amount of surface with an adulterated paint, covering 300 to 350 square feet per gal., would require 13½ gals., at $1.75 per gal.—$23.33. It cost no more to apply the Martin-Senour paint, and besides it looks better and will wear twice as long. Any person can apply it by simply following the directions on each can.

We guarantee every can (except a few dark shades that cannot be made from pure lead and zinc alone), to be 100 per cent. pure white lead, pure oxide of zinc, pure linseed oil, pure colors, and turpentine dryer, and to be entirely free from adulteration or substitution, and sold subject to chemical analysis.

We will be pleased to quote our prices on above paint.

AN INTERRUPTED LOVE STORY

The Final Happy Meeting at the Old Stone Fence.

By KEITH GORDON.

At the tender age of eleven years she used to station herself behind the stone fence that divided their grounds from the road to see the boy pass by. Regularly at 8 o'clock five days in the week she was at her post, peeping over the fence very cautiously lest the boy himself should discover her.

There was something about this particular boy that she liked. His eyes were as blue as those of Gladys Arubella, her favorite blond doll. That in itself was enough to draw her stormy gaze like a magnet. But there were other things besides. There was the easy way that he sat on his pony, there was the way he pulled his cloth cap rakishly to one side, there was—well, there was a darling, dashing, fascinating something about him even at fourteen that proclaimed him one of the conquerors.

For weeks she had paid him the silent homage of that trip to the fence each morning. Then one day, waxing careless from long security, her black head and big dark eyes appeared just above it. He slackened his pony and stared at her with open curiosity.

"Hello, there! What you staring at, slissy?" he called out with boyish roughness. The head disappeared.

He waited a moment, but as she failed to reappear he dashed off down the road laughing.

After that it was his delight to catch her watching him. He would turn at the most unexpected moments to see if he could surprise her. But when, once in awhile, he succeeded in getting a glimpse of the gypsy-like head and the fiery dark eyes his brusque "Hi there, slissy! See anything green?" always had the same effect. She dropped out of sight.

It was a private school for boys kept by an old friend of the family. So her parents sought a place for her there when it was necessary for them to sail without their small daughter.

For her the excitement of being placed in the school where the boy went each day was delicious. They had known each other for a year—that is, she had watched him and he had known that she was there.

"My eye! It's the girl who's always peeking over the fence," he remarked to his chum at his first glimpse of the new pupil. "Isn't she a regular Indian, though!" and he gazed curiously at the straight, shining black hair and the black eyes. He did not mention to his chum that he liked shiny black hair and eyes like big dark stars.

After awhile he looked toward her and smiled, a foolish friendly smile. Instead of meeting this overture with the ladylike graciousness that her training had taught, she made up a face at him. Guess he wouldn't think now that she liked him—that horrid boy!

For some time after this he ignored her, but at last he impulsively proffered her a stick of horehound when they met in the corridor one day.

With a stamp of her foot she threw it to the ground. "If your mother makes you eat horehound, eat it yourself. I'm not going to eat it!" she flashed out with spirit. Then, in a tumult of happiness, she fled, leaving the astonished boy gazing after her with an open mouth.

"Spitfire!" was his greeting when next they met.

Thus the ice was broken. Morning after morning now he came to school with some offering for the girl. Often it was a bunch of roses begged from the gardener. "The prettiest ones you have," he would command importantly, never guessing that their fresh beauty was instantly quenched in the darkness of the girl's small trunk. Each time that she lifted the lid to put in a fresh bunch the exquisite scent of the withered ones seared out into the room. Years afterward the drifting scent of roses would bring before her the laughing face of the boy.

Once, indeed, it did more. It was a moonlit night in California. Propped up by pillows of mystical, Japanese design, she lounged in the oriental chair that was her special delight.

Her companion leaned toward her and began to speak in a low, eager voice. His words of love seemed natural—a part of the breathless enchantment of the time and place. Why not decide her fate now and have it done?

Borne on the light breeze that ruffled the leaves of the toyon tree at her side, a breath from the rose garden brushed across her face. A subtle change came over her.

"No, no, Hugh. Please stop, dear, please!" she pleaded. "I'm so sorry, but I can't say yes to you. I can't!" She could not tell why, but it was the scent of the roses that had decided her.

The old boy and girl affair had died the usual death of such attachments. He had gone to college and she to a finishing school. They had sworn never to forget and to write twice a week. And for six months they kept their vow.

Later a certain society belle whose "dark beauty" was much exploited by the newspapers occasionally found herself wondering, in off moments, what had become of the boy. And he—she must not be hard on him. The world is so full of pretty girls, and his eyes were blue and daring, his shoulders broad, and he was gay and debonaire.

She had reached the mature age of twenty-five on a gray day in November, and the girl and her companion paced aimlessly up and down the platform of the little Scottish railway station, waiting for the southbound train.

A handsome young man who had been taking a turn up and down the opposite platform, waiting apparently for a train to the north, glanced across at the people who, like himself, paced back and forth impatiently. As his eyes fell upon the tall, graceful girl with a face like a brilliant flower, he paused in astonishment. Then a wave of warmth and excitement surged over him and he dashed across the tracks and advanced with boyish eagerness toward her.

It was a pretty bit of comedy sparkling with pleasure, surprise, eagerness. Then the big black engine swept down upon them with a wild, triumphant shriek as much as to say: "No more of this nonsense. Come with me to London, young lady." And in the midst of their excited greetings they were obliged to part.

"Not married?" she laughed as he stood at the door of the compartment.

"No; I'm waiting for the lady fair," he answered gayly. "And you?"

"Waiting for the gentleman dark," she replied archly.

Then the guard called "All aboard," and as she waved her hand in gay farewell the train pulled out of the station.

The world seemed suddenly flat to him. "And I didn't get her London address!" he exclaimed aloud as his stupidity dawned upon him. "Well, I'll be hanged!"

Two years later the servants at Fairacre received notice from their young mistress of her intention of opening the house for a few weeks. The old place had been closed since her early childhood.

She had traveled far and wide, been courted and admired. But after awhile one got tired—so tired. In the very midst of the season, when gaiety was at its height, thoughts of the dear old days haunted her mind. They were gone forever, those wonderful childish days, but at least she would go back and have a bit of "make believe" all to herself.

Tears rose in her eyes as she was driven up to her own door. How well she remembered the quiet supporting pillars and the broad veranda! The sun was just dropping out of sight, but its faint golden glow lingered lovingly on the place. In the darkness of her old room that night she thought with wet eyes of the little girl of other days.

At 8 o'clock the next morning she stole down to the stone fence once more, smiling foolishly to herself as she did so. There was no need to hide; the boy would not go by. And so she leaned upon the wall, thinking pensively of the past.

A weird buzzing aroused her, and she looked up to see a big red touring car spinning down the road toward her. For a moment she watched it indifferently. Then as it drew nearer and the outlines of its occupant became clear her heart jumped with delight.

"It's he; it really is!" she exclaimed excitedly.

At the same moment the automobile slackened speed, and the man inside lifted his hat with a flourish and sang out joyously: "Hello, little girl! What you staring at?" As of yore, she dropped suddenly down out of sight.

"But isn't it strange that you should happen along this very first morning that I'm home?" she queried when, their nonsense over, they stood talking across the wall.

"Well, not so odd as it would have been if I had not known you were coming," he admitted laughingly. Then a queer look came into his eyes.

"Why haven't you married?" he demanded abruptly. She opened her lips to reply, but something in his face arrested her. She flushed furiously. He laid his hand on hers.

"Haven't we been a pair of idiots?" he asked, with a happy laugh.

The Gladiolus.

I believe if I were limited to just one flower for my own growing I would choose the gladiolus in preference to anything else. It has absolutely no insect enemies and no diseases. It has every color in the rainbow. It is beautiful either growing or picked. It blooms for three months steady. And, best of all, it will grow and bloom in any soil, any weather and for any one. I have never known any one to fail with it if he had good bulbs to start with. Another thing, it is a case where you can "have your cake and eat it, too," for, besides the beautiful blooms, the bulbs increase about threefold, and your supply keeps on increasing from year to year. Most people when you speak of gladiolus think of the old fashioned red and yellow flower common a generation ago and have no idea of the immense improvement that has taken place in it. Every color of the rainbow is now represented, and in form and color and size no lily or canna can equal it. Some of mine are six inches across and of the most wonderful and beautiful coloring imaginable.—Henry Field.

Crazy, Sure.

Teacher—Jimmie, suppose you had ten apples and ten oranges and gave nine-tenths of them to some other little boys, what would you have?
Jimmie—I'd have my head examined.—London Tit-Bits.

News of the Valley.

Emanating from the Associated Boards of Trade meeting at Summerland, and endorsed at Vernon, a petition is to be circulated throughout the fruit sections of B. C., protesting against the reciprocity proposals. This is to be backed up by a strong delegation to Ottawa.

Naramata and Summerland have both passed strong resolutions condemning the reciprocity proposals.

F. J. Mack of Vernon, shot himself in the New England Hotel, Seattle, last week. Two empty morphine vials were found in the room. Mack was about forty years old, single, and a recent arrival in the city. He had been a sufferer from rheumatism and this is supposed to have caused him to end his life.

A body discovered in Arrow Lake last week has been identified, by papers in the pockets, as that of Wm. Bull, the commercial traveller who disappeared last October. A ticket from Vernon to Nelson was found on the body, and it is generally thought that the unfortunate man fell overboard from the steamer during the night, while proceeding on his journey.

Managing Mildred

Wednesday March 1st, will be a special at the Opera House, when the English Opera Singers appear in "Managing Mildred."

So great was the success last season of the English Opera Singers and Orchestra and so insistent the demand for return dates that the management have arranged for their appearance as principals this season in the sparkling musical comedy "Managing Mildred," written especially for them by Walter S. Lockwood, the clever young Chicago author. During the action of the play musical numbers including most of the late and popular successes will be introduced. The company retains their complete orchestra which greatly adds to the musical strength of the organization. The play is a comedy in every sense of the word. From the rise of the curtain the clever lines and funny situations keep the face in a constant oscillation from a smile to a laugh and back to a smile.

Dr. Forbes Winslow, the famous alienist, says that insanity and inebriety, go hand in hand, and children of drunkards inherit either the one or the other. The present alarming increase in lunacy is, in his opinion, the result of the continued drunken habits of our ancestors. To arrest the progress of lunacy he advocates the confinement of all uncontrollable drunkards who should be regarded as lunatics.

Mr. Keir Hardie, M. P., speaking at Neath, said his travels in Scandinavia, Germany and Belgium had taught him the value of total abstinence. Temperance should be treated as part of the general movement for the redemption of the working classes. It was strange to see how party politics evaporated when temperance legislation was discussed in the House of Commons, and how Liberal and Tory brewers united to oppose such legislation. But a sober democracy is essential to the welfare of the country.

Mr. Herbert Samuel, M. P., the Postmaster General, speaking at a Rechaite demonstration in the Free Trade Hall, Manchester, referred to recent investigations into the causes of infant mortality, and said it was a significant fact that of the seven English countries first on the list as having the highest rate of infant mortality, six were also among the seven having the highest statistics of intemperance. It seemed proved that the two things had a close connection, and it was but natural to expect that the poverty and ill health which follow intemperance must have their effect in the waste of life.

If the people are to be reformed they must be the authors of their own reformation. This is the principle of local option.—The late Sir William Harcourt.

Lord Alverstone, who sentenced the man Crippen to death says: "I have no hesitation in saying 90 per cent. of the crime of this country is caused by strong drink."

It is alleged that you cannot make people sober by Act of Parliament. You cannot, it is true. But I will tell you what you can do; you can give the people by Act of Parliament the power to make themselves sober.—The late Lord Randolph Churchill.

What Has Dandruff Got To Do With Baldness?

You see the statement every day that the one cause of baldness is dandruff. But is it? True, dandruff often precedes the departure of the hair. It is equally true that you know men with a shock of hair you can hardly pull a comb through, who have carried around a dandruff laden collar as long as you have known them. You have also seen men whose scalp was kept as clean as a baby's whose hair was surely departing. That dandruff talk sounds well and convinces a good many of us, but let us not fool ourselves. Of course dandruff isn't a good thing to carry around, but it is only an indication. The same trouble that causes the hair to fall out usually causes dandruff, so if you get at the cause and arrest the loss of hair, you will stop dandruff too. Those who use Nyal's Hirsutone find it the most satisfactory hair healer and hair dressing they have ever used. It does stop the hair from falling out. It will also stop dandruff. Your Nyal Druggist cheerfully recommends it—$1.00 and 50c in sprinker bottles.

Nyal's Hirutone will do it better than anything else.
It is not claimed that Hirutone is a wonderful scientific secret—but it is the concrete result of all that is proven in the scientific treatment of sick and diseased hair and scalp.
It is a happy combination and you will notice a prompt improvement in the feeling of the scalp and the look of the hair.
Hirutone loosens and removes all scaly and matted deposit on the scalp—stimulates the hair bulbs and gives new life and vigor to the hair itself. Nyal's Hirutone gives back to the hair and scalp just what it has been robbed of by your neglect and abuse. It is time to start right. Use Hirutone.
It is one of the Nyal remedies and no higher recommendation can be given to it. They are all good. Ask your Nyal Druggist. He recommends it.

All propose to operate in the vicinity of Morinville Alberta, where the petroleum rights on over one hundred sections of land have been leased from the Dominion government by individuals. President Taft's reciprocity agreement with Canada, was passed in the House of Representatives through the support of an almost solid Democratic vote. The McCall bill, carrying the agreement into effect, was passed by 221 to 92. The McCall bill now goes to the Senate. What its fate will be in that body is problematical. President Taft believes that if a filibuster can be avoided and a vote taken, the bill will pass. He is insistent that the Senate shall act one way or the other, and has indicated that he would call an extra session congress if it does not do so.

What Has Dandruff Got To Do With Baldness?

You see the statement every day that the one cause of baldness is dandruff. But is it? True, dandruff often precedes the departure of the hair. It is equally true that you know men with a shock of hair who can hardly pull a comb through, who have carried around a dandruff laden collar as long as you have known them. You have also seen men whose scalp was kept as clean as a baby's whose hair was surely departing. That dandruff talk sounds well and convinces a good many of us, but let us not fool ourselves. Of course dandruff isn't a good thing to carry around, but it is only an indication. The same trouble that causes the hair to fall out usually causes dandruff so if you get at the cause and arrest the loss of hair, you will stop dandruff too. Those who use Nyal's Hirsutone find it the most satisfactory hair healer and hair dressing they have ever used. It does stop the hair from falling out. It will also stop dandruff. Your Nyal's Drug Store cheerfully recommends it—$1.00 and 50c in sprinker bottles.

GETTING INTO CANADA.

Robert Barr Misrepresents In Order to Make Magazine "Copy."

In one of his latest stories Robert Barr brings his hero, Lord Stranleigh, to Canada, where he has an amusing experience with the Immigration officer. The trouble with the incident is that it could not have happened, and the officials at Montreal and elsewhere are annoyed. Mr. Barr represents Stranleigh as traveling with his valet and bearing with him letters of introduction to bankers in Montreal, Toronto and New York. At Montreal he met with an experience which made him wonder if he were within the boundaries of the British Empire. No doubt he will be excused by many because of the purpose he had in view in making protest against one feature of the Canadian regulations governing the admission of emigrants, but he quite failed to master his facts. He describes the immigration official as being the man who had discovered that on several occasions immigrants, assisted by their friends, had traveled first-class instead of second or third in order to escape the restrictions set up against the admission of paupers. This is where Mr. Barr goes astray. No man would pay $40 or $50 extra in passage money in order to avoid the necessity of possessing $50 on landing. But Mr. Barr had to create this kind of situation in order to bring Lord Stranleigh, "the richest man in the world," up against one of our immigration officials. And so the official, little knowing the man he was dealing with, tackled his lordship.

"Do you possess twenty-five dollars?" asked the official sternly of the richest man in England, who gave the name of Edmund Trevelyan.

"I've got two dollars," answered Stranleigh, "or perhaps sixpence less since my last bottle of Bass."

"Are you a farm laborer?" was the next question.

"I have occasionally worked upon a farm, but I never made any money at it."

"Did you earn the money that paid your passage?"

"Well, now that you corner me, I can't say that I did."

"Were you assisted by friends, or did you come over through the help of any charity?"

"Through the charity of old George Selwyn I received some assistance."

"Then you must go back."

"I intend to."

"If you have a return ticket why didn't you say so?"

"Because I didn't take a return ticket. I sail for England in a month or two via New York."

"Merely came this way to view the scenery?" suggested the officer.

"Exactly. Still, I hope to get some assistance when I land. I carry letters to people over here."

"You won't land," said the guardian of his country with decision.

"The Dominion expects every man to pay his own way, and we consider it servile for anyone to accept outdoor relief. You flash up twenty-five dollars or else stay aboard this ship."

"I agree with you," said Stranleigh, "that that's a very good spirit to work on."

He dug down into his pockets and fished up some Canadian money, which he counted.

"I find I have only a dollar and eighty cents. That last bottle of beer has wrecked me. What do you suggest?"

"I don't suggest, I order. It's you for the raging main once more. I've caught several of your tribe already."

"Ah! I understand now why Lord Kitchener avoided Canada and came home through the United States. Horatio Herbert Kitchener is a wise man, and there are not more things in heaven and earth, Horatio, than are dreamt of in your philosophy."

The young man glanced to the rear.

"Ponderby," he said quietly.

The deferential valet stepped forward.

"How much money have you?"

Ponderby had been trained to substitute "sir" for "my lord."

"I have about a thousand dollars in currency, sir, and the letter of credit for ten thousand."

"Bring hither the wherewithal and crush this official. Perhaps we can both crawl into Canada under cover of our ill-gotten gains."
