Vol. 6.—No. 2. REVELSTOKE, WEST KOOTENAY, B.C., APRIL 29, 1899. $2.00 a Year.

The Lardeau Railway

SEEING General Superintendent Marpole in town yesterday a MAIL representative interviewed him about railway matters. The most stirring item he had to impart was that work had commenced on the Lardeau railway beginning at head of Kootenay lake end. On Wednesday work began and the contractors put on about fifty men right away to be increased immediately by 200 more. The contractors are Poupore and McVey and they are getting everything in shape for pushing the work through. Surveying parties are out in the field ahead and everything will be put forward as quickly as possible. The company would like to have been able to start work at this end but for strategic reasons, probably it was thought better policy to begin at the south end. It is said to be not unlikely, however, that when the work has progressed somewhat at the south end it will also be commenced at this one and if this is correct the end of the year may see it completed. There is no question of the richness of the Trout Lake and Lardeau camps and now that the company has put its hand to the plow that's to open it up to trade it is to be hoped it will not look back till the connection is made with its main line at Revelstoke.

ANOTHER TROUT LAKE DEAL.

A Snug Bond Put Through On the Silver Crown.

On Monday last E. L. Kinman put through a deal on the Silver Crown group consisting of the Silver Crown, Hidden Treasure and Pine Tree mineral claims located on the north side of Trout Lake two miles from the lake and ten miles from Trout Lake City. These claims were owned by John Stauber, N. E. Lay, W. F. Crage, T. L. Haig, A. Johnson and E. L. Kinman. The bond is for the sum of $14,000 in three payments, all falling due before January 1st, 1900, with a very substantial cash payment down.

The purchaser of this group is Mr. M. Axehad, of London, England, the well known fur man, and it is thought by those knowing the property that he has one of the good prospects of the country and one very easily worked. It lays on the same belt with the Silver Cup, Mable, Nettie L, Great Northern and many other promising mines and prospects.

Board of Trade.

The regular weekly meeting of the board of trade council was held Thursday evening in the board room. Present—President H. A. Brown, J. M. Scott, F. B. Wells, J. Abrahamson, W. M. Lawrence, T. L. Haig and J. D. Sibbald.

A committee was appointed to wait on the gold commissioner and make arrangements for putting back electric lights which had been removed from board room.

Moved by J. Abrahamson, seconded J. M. Scott, that in the opinion of the council the by-law regulating the meeting of the council should be altered so as to admit of a meeting of the whole board on the first Thursday in every month; and that this recommendation be brought before a special meeting of the full board to be held on the first Thursday in May. Carried.

The application of Dr. Jas. W. Ross for membership was received.

A communication referred to the board by the recipient from a Mr. Philby re transportation north of Revelstoke was received and read.

Moved by J. M. Scott, seconded W. M. Lawrence, that we communicate with Mr. Philby that in our opinion there will be sufficient traffic to make a boat on the Columbia river pay. Carried.

Moved and seconded by J. D. Sibbald and F. B. Wells that the secretary submit the account of Mr. Brewster's trip to Victoria in connection with incorporation to the city council together with a copy of the resolution appointing him delegate, pointing out that the board considers this an expense incidental to the incorporation of the town and recommending the payment of the account to their favorable consideration. Carried.

The meeting then adjourned.

Expert Mineralogist.

W. Pellew-Harvey, F. C. S., member Institute of Mining & Metallurgy, London, and for many years with Vivian & Sons, Swansea, and at present their representative in this country has extensive metallurgical works in Vancouver, and is making a specialty of advising on the cyanide treatment of ores, and making tests by amalgamation, chlorination, and concentration. Another feature of the business is checking smelter pulps, assaying in all branches, with chemical analysis.

Having had ten years' experience with the ores of British Columbia, in addition to a long practical training in Europe, the results reported by him can be entirely relied on. There are no pupils kept in the business, the assistants being:

Metallurgists and assayers—Cecil Bryant, Associate Royal School of Mines, London; A. F. McEwen, Fellow Chemical Society, and late chief chemist and metallurgist with the Cassiar Central Railway Co.

Analytical Chemist—A. A. Watson, Fellow Institute of Chemistry, London, and Bachelor of Science, with honors in chemistry, who has had a long and varied experience in Chili and Queensland.

W. Pellew-Harvey, represents the following firms in Canada, viz.: Vivian & Sons, Swansea; The Elliott's Metal Co., Burry Port; The Cassel Gold Extracting Co., Glasgow; James Bros., mining engineers, London. He is also special government examiner for the provincial assayers' examination.

Further particulars on application to the office, Fairchild Block, Vancouver.

BIGGEST DOCKET YET.

Large List of Cases Heard at County Court Sitting.

The largest county court docket ever taken up in Revelstoke was that of Wednesday before Judge Forin. There were thirty-eight cases altogether on the list, but some were settled out of court. The remainder were put through in one day. Another interesting feature of the proceedings was the issuance of naturalization papers to the following large number of people: Charles J. Johnson, J. F. Ablin, Elof Carlson, Charles Beck, Augustus W. Upton, Angelo D. Sutro, Nicola Damone, Nicola Jazenza, Wm. D. Keating.

The Lyceum Company.

The visit of the Lyceum Co., gave general enjoyment. The several plays were put on with taste and fitness, and the acting was throughout of a first class character. Their Othello was very good considering circumstances, and especially good in the parts of Othello, Cassio, and Desdemona. Under Two Flags was also excellently played, and tonight the Merchant of Venice will bring to a regrettable close a visit of more than ordinary merit. There should be a good house tonight. J. G. Allan deserves great credit for his enterprise in introducing this company to Revelstoke.

Work at Laforme Creek.

Ed. Adair returned Tuesday evening from the Adair group on Laforme Creek having made the trip in one day by a hard effort. He reports all the supplies in at the property after considerable trouble on account of the weather experienced it having snowed or rained every day after leaving the Columbia river. When he left they were in fourteen feet on the tunnel with three men working. He will take up some more supplies later on and increase the force likely. He has every hope of making a good showing by the end of the season.

Insect powder, Dalmation. A large consignment of new and freshly ground just received.—Geo. F. Curtis, The Druggist, Taylor block, Revelstoke Station.

Dr. McLean has had to abandon his trip to the east on account of a rush of business and the inability to secure a locum tenens to attend to his patients during his absence. Mrs. Hamilton will however come to her daughter here just as soon as necessary business affairs are completed, allowing her to leave Bellville.

ROYALTY LODGE

S. O. E. B. S. Was Instituted Tuesday Night.

Royalty Lodge, Sons of England, became a Revelstoke institution last Tuesday night, when Rev. H. G. F. Clinton, D. D. G., assisted by Past Grand Lee, of Shakespeare lodge, Winnipeg, Capt. Bach, of Victory lodge, St. Catherides, Ont., and Visiting Bro. Atkinson, initiated 25 members, installed the officers and dedicated the lodge. Business over, pleasure was in order, and at midnight the lodge was driven to the Hotel Victoria, the members lustily singing "Britannia" en route. Arriving at the hotel, the members and guests were ushered into the tastefully decorated dining room, and with music and jollity full justice was done to one of the splendid dinners for which the Victoria is justly celebrated. The menu:

The toast list was opened with "The Queen, God Bless Her," and with good music, happy songs and bright speeches, the jolly hours were passed, and the day light was broadly streaming in when with "Should Auld Acquaintance Be Forgot" the party dispersed, congratulating each other on the auspicious institution of the lodge and the most successful dinner following. I. O. O. F. Anniversary Ball.

Tuesday night's ball given by the local I. O. O. F. lodge in Tapping's Theatre was a grand success, and the members of that society are to be congratulated upon the standing of the order in the community and the amount of interest taken by outsiders as well as residents of the town in making their social functions pass off so favorably. Notwithstanding the fact of other attractions, such as the Sons of England institution, falling on the same night there was a large attendance of pleasure seekers. Dancing was kept up steadily from 9:30 until 3 o'clock with an interval at midnight when supper was served by Mr. A. N. Smith. Music was furnished by Messrs. Matthews, Smith, Brown and Ahlin. All present spoke well of the evenings entertainment afforded them by the Oddfellows.

Columbia River Improvement.

The Dominion estimates are down and include several items of much interest to Kootenay: Columbia river improvement above Golden, $4000; Columbia river improvement in narrows between Arrow Lakes, $25,000; Columbia river, removal of rocks above Revelstoke, $3000; Duncan river improvement, $3000.

PROVINCIAL NEWS NOTES.

Interesting Items From All Over The Province.

News has been received here that the survey of the Atlin townsite has been completed, and a topographical survey is now being made by the engineer in charge. It is also stated that he claims that the boundary line between British Columbia and the Northwest Territory is between 20 and 30 miles north of Atlin.

The Columbia river is now free of ice south of Golden and the steamboats are now running.

F. W. Jones, secretary-treasurer of the Columbia River Lumber Co., has arrived at Golden and has entered upon the duties of his office. Mr. Jones succeeds the late W. G. Neillson, M. P. P.

The Nelson merchant tailors who employ journeymen tailors living in Nelson and have their work done at home are trying to drive out those who only act as agents, taking orders and having their work done in eastern sweat shops.

It is the general belief in Fort Steele that the Great Northern people are interested in a road which will leave the Great Northern at Kalispell, Mont., and run through Fort Steele and on through the many rich mining camps to Golden. A party of engineers are now engaged in surveying this line, which will run through all the richest mining camps of East Kootenay.

The war over Deadman's Island, Vancouver, between the city authorities and Mr. Ludgate's contractors and workmen is assuming a very serious aspect, and the island is being defended from the assaults of the workmen by armed guards. The United States should detail a military attache to study the war and secure pointers on how to conduct the Philippine campaign.

A. Macdonald & Co., have disposed of the lot and building now occupied by them in Nelson for $11,500, and will erect a new building in a different location.

The Nelson city council has under consideration a proposal from the British Election Traction Co., for the building and maintaining of a tramway system in Nelson. The council decided to submit a by-law to the ratepayers authorizing the granting of a charter. All that is asked for by the company is a charter for 35 years and exemption from taxation of its property.

The steamer is again making regular trips on the Duncan river. The river is navigable for 25 miles above Duncan City.

The Chinese Joss house at Kamloops was destroyed by fire Tuesday evening. The heathens and their gods had a warm time that night.

Vancouver is to have a $22,000 drill hall for her amateur soldiers.

Victoria does not want any blue laws. The Sunday closing by-law met a sudden death at the hands of the city council Monday night.

Emigration Statistics.

The imperial emigration statistics for the month of March show that Canada is still holding her own in the proportion of settlers coming to her shores. The figures given show 1,596 Britishers left England for Canada as against 1,560 in March of last year, and 1,172 foreigners as against 700 last year. In both the British and foreign classes there is a considerable falling off in the number going to the United States and the total emigration for the month is also less than it was a year ago. The figures for the three months ending March 31st from Great Britain are, in 1899, 2,622; in 1898, 2,595; foreigners in 1899, 2,317, and in 1898, 1,477, or an increase of twenty per cent. The total emigration from Great Britain in the same period shows a decrease of about eight per cent.

Revelstoke Brick Co.

E. C. Fromey says that this year the Revelstoke Brick Co. will have a change of location having bought from F. B. Wrong his four acre block on the cemetery flat. The machinery is being removed from the company's old stand across the river and put in place on the new premises. Work will be started on brick making as soon as the weather permits. A large quantity of brick will be required for the new I. O. O. F. hall and in all probability the local company will have the furnishing of them, thus making a good start for the season's work.

Revelstoke's City Dads

THE city council met last night all present. Minutes were read. The mail bag brought applications for purchase of portion of Ben on street between Morris & Steed's and Oriental Hotel from P. R. Peterson; from Miss Martin re typewriting services; from Board of Trade asking payment of delegate's expenses to Victoria re incorporation and from a Revelstoke paper offering 175 copies of an illustrated annual for $175. The board of trade request was not granted by motion of Ald. Kilpatrick, and the other communications were referred to proper committees.

The finance committee recommended payment of returning officer's account less $20. There was discussion as to whether the city should pay the parties to the account or deal only with the returning officer, and on motion of Ald. Wells the city was ordered to pay the accounts deducting $20 from Mr. Fraser himself applying it as recommended by committee.

The public works committee recommended the appointment of L. H. Buck as city engineer for a term of five months at $150 per month. The report was accepted and the mayor authorized to complete the agreement by motion of Ald. Kilpatrick. The public works committee also considered it inadvisable to sell any portion of King street as applied for by Mr. Consier. Report was accepted with instructions to notify Mr. Consier; Mr. Peterson was also notified to same effect.

The council went into committee of the whole on by-law No. 10, regulating weight and sale of bread. It was reported and then the bill was read a third time. By-laws Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8 and 9 were finally reconsidered and adopted and the mayor empowered to attach the seal thereto.

Inquiries were made about police and license commissionership about sidewalk near Bourne's and the dangerous condition of same; the rate of wages for day labor and the filling of holes in streets made by water company. The meeting adjourned.

WILL COMMENCE MONDAY.

A Promising Real Estate Firm Opens New Offices.

Messrs Crage & Mayne open up in their new and handsomely finished offices on First street on Monday next. Ald. Crage, who thoroughly understands the local real estate market, needs no introduction to the business public of Revelstoke, but Mr. Mayne is a recent arrival in the capital of North Kootenay. He is a young man of considerable experience in this province, in Alaska, S. Africa and other mining camps, so the firm starts out with every prospect of success. They will be sole agents for the Kootenay Trading & Smelting Co.'s property, than which there is no finer or better situated in the city, and will also deal extensively in mining properties, as a good British and American connection is partly secured already. Fire, life and accident insurance in reliable companies will also be solicited.

The offices are quite an addition to the town, being 25 x 33 over all, and divided into a suite of three large well lighted offices, all with a natural wood finish. The large office opens directly on the street with a private one for each member of the firm. The building and fixtures were constructed by J. E. Wood.

Stop the Rowdyism.

Editor KOOTENAY MAIL:

Dear Sir,—Through the medium of your paper, and as one of the many who were present at Tapping's theatre last night when Shakespeare's "Othello" was most excellently performed by a most excellent company, I would like to ask,

1. When is an effectual stop to be put to the heathenish behavior exhibited in the gallery?

2. Why do not the police arrest these ignorant interrupters and place them where they belong?

3. What encouragement is it to bring good companies to our town, when they are continually interrupted in their performances by these "smart alecs?"

4. Why do not those gentlemen in the gallery who know how to behave themselves attempt to assist in preserving order?

5. Is it not time that some action was taken when it comes to the actors themselves having to appeal to the audience.

In conclusion, as one of the majority who so thoroughly appreciated the efforts of the excellent company which presented "Othello" last night, I wish to say that I do not refer to the gallery as a body, but I do call upon the citizens of Revelstoke, or those in authority to turn out these roughs who enjoy the pleasure of spoiling other people's enjoyment by the exhibition of their own "talent."

Yours very truly
ORDER.

Close at Seven Every Evening.

The early (?) closing movement is a go; on and after Monday next the stores will close at 7 o'clock every evening except Saturdays and nights preceding holidays. Editorial

IN the Methodist church last Sunday the pastor, Rev. S. J. Thompson, severely censured the liberal government for deciding to do nothing on the result of the recent prohibition plebiscite. He then took a vote on the recent Dominion alliance resolution and the result was just as it was in the plebiscite "some members of the congregation voted in favor of the resolution but the others voted neither for nor against it." Will it be in order to severely censure Rev. S. J. Thompson if in face of this result he decides that the people are not quite prepared to give a decided opinion on the subject. Not but if he said, "you must have it, whether or no" censure would not be out of place because it would be force. If once regarded as tyranny a good cause would be spoiled for years and years, and blame would attach solely to those who killed it by indiscretion. The world is believed to be making progress in temperance, and if prohibition is the way out of the drink sloughs of the nation time is all in its favor. Canada has gone further in the experiment than most nations, and under a liberal government it will give temperance people every reasonable opportunity to test the strength of the cause they believe right.

THE C. P. R. will not now have to put up another lobby against the Corbin road as the latter is not to be pushed this year. The national highway was opposing this charter because of its desire to have our ores smelted at home and it stood between us and American smelter trusts and railway operators. The opportunity is excellent, now that it will be a year before the American can get in his wily work, to back that smelter trust and save us all the advantages by supplying home treatment at reasonable rates.

WE would again like to call the attention of the provincial government to the growing importance of Revelstoke and the practical need of recognizing it as the seat of supreme court sittings and sheriff's headquarters for North East and North West Kootenay, just as Nelson is for the southern portions of the district. All the rest of Donald is now here and these privileges should be here too. Perhaps the city council would assist the matter by resolution.

ONE thing the new amateur athletic association might take early hold of is the formation of a cycling club representing all riders who have ridden for insignificant money prizes and uniting with the C. W. A. Then we could have official handicaps and issue invitations that would much improve the sport. Will it take hold of this?

THE minister of public works at Ottawa has opened his heart a little this year and we get $1000 more for river improvements north of Revelstoke. Blessed are they that expect little for they shall not be disappointed—how much was suggested for our Tête Jaune Cache route?

THOSE terrible lynchings in Georgia must be deplored by everybody. Surely all the sacrifice of the civil war was not made in vain.

WE notice $3,000 mentioned in the estimates for a post office at Kamloops. Where is the Revelstoke central office appropriation? Ask the board of trade.

An Atlin City Letter.

A letter has been received from Dan McKinnon, who left some time ago for Atlin. He says that they got all their stuff landed at Discovery City on March 20th, and in doing so had to make three trips over the Teochie trail from the summit of White Pass. This represented a distance of 540 miles that they had made in a month. The weather was as much as 40 degrees below zero some mornings since they had come in. The government had not sold any lots so far, although some of the town lots have been surveyed. There was about three feet of snow at Discovery and more up the creeks, but no one is doing any sluicing yet. There are three sawmills in Atlin and lumber is worth from $100 to $112 per thousand. There is quite a lot of building going on and carpenters and mechanics are getting $7.50 per day. Meals cost $1 each at the hotels. Provisions are high, but will be cheaper soon.

A Significant Omission.

It is strange that when all other matters of discussion in the east have been overshadowed for the past two weeks by the indiscriminate and incoherent charges against the administration of the Yukon, and when the chief and most striking of those refer to the late administrator, whose home is in Brockville, Ont., the entire subject has been practically ignored by opposition speakers in the bye election campaign in that city. One would have imagined that such an opportunity to drive home the charges and clinch the indictment on the spot would have been eagerly seized by the opponents of the government, but on the contrary the position has been to all intents and purposes abandoned. Has it come that Sir Charles Tupper, stung into action by the pitiless castigation his worthy son who is the member for Pictou has received on all hands for his reckless and misobstantiated speech earlier in the debate, has talked an hour to reiterate much Sir Hibbert said, repeating the allegations with true Tupperesque disregard for facts and made no attempt to produce corroborative evidence. But the country has got so thoroughly used to the peculiarities and idiosyncrasies of the Tuppers that they produce little effect on the country, and even in the house itself the honorable gentlemen's personal supporters and colleagues will not stay in the house and listen to them.—Ottawa Correspondent.

Two Trains A Day.

Under the new time card to go into effect next month on the C. P. R., it is expected two trains daily will leave Winnipeg for British Columbia, the fast transcontinental train for Vancouver and an additional train having Nelson as its terminus. The latter train will serve Crow's Nest Pass points from Winnipeg direct.

WON THE MEDAL.

The Crew of Engine No. 374 Were the Winners.

Peter Righter of Engine No. 374, and E. Mackenrot, his fireman, both of Vancouver, are now as proud as peacocks. They have won the first medal ever offered by the C. P. R. on the Pacific division to the pair who could get along with the least coal in a month's running. Elevation for this contest a medal will be presented every month. The medal is prized more as an ornament and honorarium for its intrinsic value. It is about twelve inches in diameter and made to go on the cab of the engine. The medal was placed on Mr. Righter's engine Saturday afternoon. No. 374 makes a run of 250 miles everyday. There is considerable speculation as to who the lucky boys will be for next month.

A dispatch from Montreal says Sir Wm. Van Horne will spend several weeks in British Columbia on his forthcoming trip to the west.

Pettipiece's directory and map of the city of Revelstoke is now in the hands of the printer, and will be out in or about May 1st. It is very complete in every detail. Price 50c.

G. W. Baldwin, of Winnipeg writes stating that marten and dark furs are in great demand this year. He will be in Winnipeg until August 15th, and is prepared to make prompt returns for any shipment of furs sent to him there.

The C. P. R. round house at Port William was nearly all consumed by fire Tuesday night. Seven of the engines of the company were destroyed. Several engines were saved also the workshop at the east end of the building.

A letter from Wm. Cross, of the Boston & British Columbia Mining & Smelting Co., Boston, says his company is flourishing like a green bay tree. Col. H. B. Meech, the smelter expert of the corporation, had just returned from Denver, and within a few weeks will in all probability be at Revelstoke in the interests of the company.

A TEA AT CARLYLE'S.

The Great Pessimist as He Appeared In His Own House.

Thomas Carlyle was one of our earliest visitors, says Mrs. Julia Ward Howe in The Atlantic. Some time before leaving home Dr. Howe had received from him a letter expressing his great interest in the story of Laura Bridgman as narrated by Charles Dickens. In this letter he mentioned Laura's childlike question, "Do horses sit up late?" In the course of his conversation he referred to the question again. He invited us to take tea with him on the following Sunday.

When the day arrived, my husband was kept at home by a severe headache, but Mr. and Mrs. Mann, my sister and myself, drove out to Chelsea, where Mr. Carlyle resided at that time. In receiving us he apologized for his wife, who was also suffering from headache and could not appear. In her absence I was requested to pour tea. Our host partook of it copiously, in all the strength of the teapot. As I filled and refilled his cup I thought that his chronic dyspepsia was not to be wondered at. The repast was a simple one. It consisted of a plate of toast and two small dishes of stewed fruit, which he offered us with the words: "Perhaps ye can eat some of this. I never eat these things myself."

The conversation was mostly a monologue. Mr. Carlyle spoke with a strong Scotch accent, and his talk sounded to me like pages of his writings. He had recently been annoyed by some movement tending to the disestablishment of the Scottish church. Apropos of this he said: "That auld Kirk of Scotland! To think that a man like Johnny Graham should be able to wipe it out with a flirt of his pen!" Charles Sumner was spoken of, and Mr. Carlyle said, "Oh, yes, Mr. Sumner was a very dull man, but he did not offend people, and he got on in society here."

Carlyle's hair was dark, shaggy and rather unkempt; his complexion was sallow, with a light glow of red on the cheek; his eye was full of fire. As we drove back to town Mr. Mann expressed great disappointment with our visit. He did not feel, he said, that we had seen the real Carlyle at all. I insisted that we had.

After the Winter

When nature relents, oftentimes during the transition, troop along colds, coughs and many bronchial troubles. Getting the right remedy—the remedy that cures and cures promptly, is of greatest importance. It's a period when you cannot afford to take chances—you'll want only remedies that have been tested—that have cured others.

AS QUICK AS A WINK.

SOME WONDERFUL SHOOTING DONE BY FRONTIERSMEN.

A Deputy Marshal and a Desperado Who Both Felt Dead When They Met—A Little Slip That Cost a Red Handed Ruffian His Life.

"I read in a newspaper the other day," said an old frontiersman, "of two men who met up in Montana, indulged in a little rapid gun play, and both fell mortally wounded at the first shot. Incidents of this sort are not so uncommon as one might think. Men on the frontier who use a gun at all learn to be quick with the trigger, as the fraction of a second may mean life or death. I recall one such incident in particular.

"In the early seventies Charley Collins was one of the most famous and perhaps the most desperate of the criminals on the Texas border. He held up trains, robbed stages, stole horses, murdered traders and committed other crimes until the rewards offered for his capture dead or alive exceeded $10,000. At that time Will Anderson was deputy United States marshal at Dallas. He was the nerviest man I ever knew. He was a dead shot, absolutely without fear and the terror of evildoers. A native of Illinois, he went to Texas before the war. During hostilities he served in a northern regiment, and when the war closed he went back to Texas, and his courage and quick handling of a gun brought about his appointment as deputy United States marshal. Before long he was the terror of border bandits. No man got the drop on him, and more than one man who tried it had his career suddenly brought to a close.

"In 1875 Anderson started out to run Collins down. He soon made Texas too hot for him, and Collins fled to Colorado, and thence to Wyoming, and to the Black Hills country, then filled with about the toughest aggregation of men ever brought together. Anderson kept close after him, and Collins started north for the British possessions. Anderson divined his plan and made for Pembina, then the gateway to Manitoba. He had to wait only a few hours when Collins came into town. Both men were on the alert. They met in the street, caught sight of each other at the same time, pulled their revolvers, fired on the instant, and both fell dead. Neither spoke a word after being shot. Anderson was taken back to Dallas, where he had the biggest funeral ever seen in that city. His family got the reward. Taking everything into consideration, it was about the most persistent pursuit and the most tragic climax I ever knew of.

"About the same time there took place down in New Mexico an affray which was for many years the talk of that region. In the early seventies, when justice in this wild western country was done by vigilance committees, many bad men infested that region, and the most desperate of them all was Chunk. Who he was or where he came from no one knew, but all recognized him as a thoroughgoing desperado and respected him accordingly. The most cold blooded and outrageous crimes were attributed to him, and he boasted of having committed them. With ugly scars on his face and a brace of six shooters and a bowie knife in his belt, he presented a figure which made men uncomfortable when he met them in lonely places. In direct contrast to Chunk was Clay Allison, also a desperate man, but possessed of many good qualities. He lived on the Pecos in New Mexico and died there only a few years ago. It was he who rid the country of the terrible Chunk, and that he was not killed in the encounter was surprising.

"Early in 1876 an emigrant going into New Mexico stopped at an old adobe house beside the trail. Chunk, who was also there, invited the stranger to go for a short tramp. The newcomer appreciated that there could be no safe refusal to the invitation and went. Within a few hours Chunk returned, but nothing more was ever heard of the emigrant. The natives knew that the stranger had been murdered and robbed, but nobody dared to refer to the fact openly. Chunk sat around awhile and then left. Soon Clay Allison arrived. The story of the murder was related to him. In straight English, naturally embellished with swearing, Allison expressed his opinion of Chunk. Somebody who heard him repeated Allison's remarks to Chunk, who announced that Allison must die. It was some time before the men met, and meantime Allison had been informed of the threat made by Chunk. Both made preparations accordingly.

"In the old adobe house the two men met for the first time. Chunk accosted in the most friendly manner the man whom he had threatened to kill, and the salutation was returned, neither being thrown off his guard by the apparent friendliness of the other.

"'How long will you be here?' asked Chunk.

"'I'll stay for dinner and possibly longer,' answered Allison.

"Chunk thereupon extended an invitation to dinner to Allison, and it was accepted. As good a dinner as the house could afford was ordered by Chunk for two, and among the edibles was roast beef. When dinner was ready, the two entered the dining room, both aware that the crisis was approaching, and each watching the other intently. They sat at opposite sides of the table with the roast beef in front of Allison.

"'Will you carve?' asked Chunk.

"It was a perilous situation, but the man on the other side of the table had no alternative. Had he refused he would have been branded as a coward. With a smile he answered, 'Certainly,' and, taking up the knife and fork, prepared to cut the meat. As the knife was sinking into the roast Chunk drew his revolver, but in elevating it struck the muzzle against the edge of the table. The interference caused only a moment's delay, but that moment cost Chunk his life. Almost at the same time that the weapon struck the edge of the table a shot rang out, and Chunk sank forward on the table dead, with a bullet hole in the center of his forehead. So quick was Allison's act of drawing and firing that the probabilities are that both men would have fired at the same time had Chunk not been unlucky with his revolver.

"Allison quietly put away his revolver and was soon on his way from Red River Crossing. He said nothing, and nobody spoke to him, but settlers whenever they heard the story praised him for ridding the country of Chunk.

"These are only incidents to show the character of men who were on the border years ago, and how an instant's delay might mean life or death."—Denver Cor New York Sun.

TELLING STORIES TO CHILDREN.

There Should Be Variety, but the Old Favorites Bear Repetition.

"When one speaks of telling stories to the little people, prose narratives seem to be commonly understood, and as commonly used, but there is no mistake greater than to suppose that children are not susceptible to the charms of poetry," writes Nora Archibald Smith of "The Kindergarten Possible to Every Home and Village," in The Ladies' Home Journal. "They care more for poetry, on the contrary, than the majority of grown people, whether for the melody, the rhythm, the rhymes, the short lines, the simplicity and picturesqueness of expression or for all these reasons together, which make it a thing pleasantly different from common speech. Goethe advised that every child should see a pretty picture and hear a beautiful poem every day, and if we would not banish the charm of poetry from mature life it behooves us to follow his advice and subject the child to its influence at the time of greatest susceptibility.

"We must beware, however, of giving a one sided development by confining ourselves too much to one branch of literature; we must include in our repertory some well selected myths, fairy stories which are pure and spiritual in tone and a fable now and often. Nature stories, hero tales, animal anecdotes, occasional narratives about good, wholesome children, neither prigs nor infant villains, plenty of fine poetry, as has been said, and for the older ones of the family legends, allegories and historic happenings. A large stock of stories is not essential for little children. They feel, as Bulwer said, the beauty and the holiness that dwell in the customary and the old, and they are well pleased—and it is best that it should be so—with hearing the same old favorites repeated again and again, in song or in story, from their mothers' lips."

Loss of Gutturals.

A word in constant use which has lost a guttural is "not." This is contracted from "nought," in old English often written "noht," and having, as now, a more emphatic signification than merely "not." The simple negative adverb was "ne," as we find it continually in Chaucer, and in Spenser also, but this is well known to be an archaism. Chaucer, however, sometimes uses "nat," or "nought," in cases where the mere negative would seem to be enough, and we can easily see how from being often used the word would lose its guttural and become "not," and that, as in the case of "ho" and "him," the greater emphasis laid on the word, when it had a substantive meaning, would cause the guttural to be sounded to a later period, and thus to be permanently settled in writing, while when it was simply a negative the consonant would disappear, like the initial of "hit," from the word having less emphasis. In German the adverb is still "nicht," often indeed, pronounced "nit," while the substantive has "s" added, "nichts."—Gentleman's Magazine.

Not According to Agreement.

An Irish principal in a recent impromptu mill, realizing that he was being badly worsted, vigorously protested to the bystanders against the methods of his adversary.

"Sure, an wasn't it to be a fair stand up fight?" he excitedly exclaimed.

"It certainly was," returned an onlooker, who had been a witness of the preliminary arrangements.

"An how, thin," retorted the defeated candidate, "can he be ixpictin me to shtand up and folght 'im fairly if he do be knockin me down all the toime?"—Richmond Dispatch.

He Wasn't Afraid.
