The Fruit Growers.

The annual meeting of the B C. Fruit Growers Association will be held in Victoria on January 6th and 7th next, under the auspices of the Department of Agriculture. Fruit Growers and others interested in the industry are cordially invited to be present and take part in the proceedings.

Since reorganizing last April this Association has trebled in membership and now includes the great bulk of the most progressive fruit growers of the province. This meeting will be arranged to encourage an exchange of ideas and conclusions on the results of the past season and will be valuable in assisting fruit growers to plan for next season's work.

The fruit season of 1910, now practically closed, marks a new high record for total shipments and total returns received. The Association meeting will give yourself a good opportunity to talk over methods of increasing the net prices to the grower without increasing it to the consumer.

The particular problems for careful discussion will be first freight and express rates. C.P.R. and Dominion Express officials have accepted an invitation to be present. Strong committees on this subject have been appointed and resolutions sent into the secretary on any point concerning special freight rates and service will receive careful and impartial consideration.

The discussion on the marketing of the past year will be especially interesting because there will be present a number of fruit jobbers from the prairies and from the coast cities, managers of Associations over the province, and Mr. Metcalf, the markets commissioner for British Columbia during the past two years. Discussion on the development and improvement of markets for British Columbia fruit will be thorough.

Indications are for the most largely attended and representative meeting ever held in the province. It will be a success if every fruit grower will make it a personal matter to be present and aid in the discussion of the business subjects so important to the welfare of the industry.

To the Electors of the CITY OF GREENWOOD

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

Having decided to run for the office of Mayor of the City of Greenwood for the coming year, my sole object will be to devote all the time I possibly can to the interests of the city.

The following gentlemen have kindly consented to run for Aldermen:

SOUTH WARD	NORTH WARD
James McCreath	J. L. White
W. E. B. Fleming	Fred W. McLaine
S. P. Dixon	C. J. McArthur

And we can assure you, if elected, our policy will be one of progress, realizing the needs of our city, such as Recreation Grounds, Music, Sports and attractions to bring into our city visitors and those working in the surrounding camps. These, besides careful handling of our city's finances, will be among the many things for our consideration.

So far as lays in our power our efforts will be to promote the good and welfare of the many, and a square deal for everybody.

FRED B. HOLMES for Mayor.

NEW YORK. — The $7,000,000 Fifth avenue home of ex-Senator William Clark, of Montana has been completed after eight years of work and will be occupied early in New Year. It is said to be the costliest residence ever built in America. The taxes assessed on it by New York city amount to more than $200 a day.

The mansion contains 121 rooms, 31 baths and four picture galleries. No building in the world, according to experts who have inspected the interior, carries as much bronze as has been worked into this mansion. Although the best architects and decorators in this country were employed, Senator Clark himself designed much of the interior, as well as the exterior, of the mansion. The building contains one of the largest pipe organs in the world, which was installed at a cost of $300,000. There are $2,000,000 worth of pictures and $500,000 worth of rugs.

BOWSER, HE ROLLS

HE FAILS TO SHOW 'EM HOW.

Joshed as "Old Beeswax" and Told Not to Put 'Em On—Home For Repairs, as Mrs. Bowser Had Predicted—He Hears a Few Remarks.

By M. QUAD.

[Copyright, 1910, by Associated Literary Press.]

THE other evening as Mr. Bowser got up from the dinner table he mentioned in a way he meant to be careless that he would be out for two or three hours that evening.

"Is it one of your club nights?" asked Mrs. Bowser.

"I may go around to some club."

Mrs. Bowser didn't press the subject, though a bit curious, and he waited around for five minutes before saying:

"There's no mystery about it. I am going out with Barnes. He's been at me for a month to go to the roller rink, and I've finally consented. He wants me to show him a few tricks on the rollers."

"What rollers?"

"Why, roller skates. He's got the craze bad—out every night and bragging what a roller he is."

"But what do you know about roller skating? The only time you ever had a pair on you fell and jarred the whole house and was lame for a week."

"Excuse me, madam," said Mr. Bowser as he drew himself up, "but I beg to dispute you. I don't say that I have had any great practice, but I have looked into the theory carefully, and I think I can show Barnes and all the rest of them a few wrinkles."

"Are you going to take an ambulance and a surgeon along?" she asked as he reached for his hat.

"That will do, Mrs. Bowser! You'd oppose me as a matter of course, but don't try to be funny about it. I shall go with Barnes. I shall put on rollers. I shall cut pigeon wings and figure eights and throw in a few Greek crosses and Roman scrolls. It will take the stiffness out of that left knee. You needn't sit up for me."

"If you are badly injured I suppose they will take you to the hospital and notify me?"

Mr. Bowser choked back a reply, descended the steps with dignity and walked away to join Barnes on the corner. Mrs. Bowser read her book until bedtime, but before going upstairs she laid out on a side table the camphor, the witch hazel, the brandy, a roll of antiseptic and a box of salve.

Mr. Bowser had made but one single trial of roller skating, and that was in his attic at home. He had wabbled along for twenty feet and then met his Waterloo. He had confidence, however. He had read that roller skating depended altogether on confidence. In his confidence he had bragged to Barnes. In his confidence he bragged again as they walked along the street. He smiled in a knowing way and said:

"I'm not after a gold medal for fancy skating, but I think I'll open the eyes of the crowd a little before I'm through. I'll play off at first, and you watch my zigzags when I get down to business. I'm no swan or gazelle, but I think I can cut a few dodges—just a few."

Bowser Reaches the Rink.

The hall was crowded. It was not until Mr. Bowser saw 300 rollers rolling around that his confidence in himself weakened. It suddenly occurred to him that his theories might be wrong and that he should have put them into practice in private. He was trying to brace up against the uneasy feeling when a bad faced young man, who was a spectator, sidled up to him and whispered:

"Don't put 'em on, old Beeswax—don't you do it!"

"What do you mean, sir, by addressing me in this manner?"

"Don't put on the rollers. Yer too fat and loggy. You hain't got no hair to fall on. Yer might roll down hill in a bar'l, but you ain't no pigeon winger on skates!"

Mr. Bowser got mad all over, and from that instant his determination was taken. He would skim that floor as the gull skims the sea, and after the skimming act he would make that bad faced young man beg his pardon for the insulting remarks. He sat down then and there and strapped on the skates he had hired at the door.

"How are you going to start in?" asked Barnes, as all was ready.

"He'll start in with a flipflop and a dumdum!" chuckled the bad faced young man. "When he gets out dere on rollers dere'll be a circus to beat de band. Look at de heft of him! Look at de curves in his hind legs! I wouldn't miss de circus for a hat full of cigars!"

Mr. Bowser was reaching out for the young man with the intention of wrecking his life when Barnes patched up a temporary peace and suggested that the curlycues begin. Mr. Bowser looked up at the heavens and down to the earth. There was no escape. The other skaters began to clear the floor for him.

"Look at him—he's lost his sand!" shouted the bad face.

"He's too innocent!" shouted others.

"Better try to ride a mule," advised a policeman as he came forward.

"Bowser, you go in and astonish 'em," whispered Barnes. "They take you for a greenhorn. Play off a few minutes and then go at the pigeon wings."

He Loses Sand.

"I—I think I'll let it go till some other time," was the trembling reply.

"But you can't, man—you can't. You'd be mobbed!"

"Can't I go home and see Mrs. Bowser and then come back again? Mrs. Bowser always cheers me up."

"Heavens, man, come along with you! Take it easy until you get the rhythm of the thing."

He was helped out on the floor and left there alone. Five hundred had their eyes on him. After a minute of silence 500 people began shouting at him. Bowser moved. He moved again. He moved for the third time. Confidence came. He could do the trick. He smiled and started out with a rush. His theory about roller skating was that it should be rushed at to a conclusion. He rushed it. At his first rush his heels shot forward, his body shot backward, and after an instant he came down with a crash. He came down on the back of his head. He saw a comet, and the tail thereof was a hundred million miles long. He did not hear what the people said, but when he recovered consciousness he had been dragged off the floor and a policeman was saying:

"Now, old man, if you have any home to go to you'd better get there. Your line is jumping eight horses and an elephant, and you should stick to it and let the rollers alone."

Mr. Barnes first talked to Mr. Bowser like a brother and then offered to get a truck to take him home. He called him a braggart and boaster and said he ought to be mobbed for making a holy show of himself. Then he solicitously inquired how many of his legs and backs he had broken and put the blame on the crowd.

Home With a Limp.

"But I'm sayin' de old coon orter git de hard chuck!" protested the bad face. "It's false pretenses. He comes in here"—

It took Mr. Bowser an hour to limp home. Mrs. Bowser heard his dragging footsteps and came down to open the door. One look told the story. He had met the enemy and the enemy had flopped him on his ear.

"Woman," he began as he threw down his hat and hung to a peg of the hall tree, "woman"—

But Mrs. Bowser stopped him with a gesture. Then she gently helped him back to the sitting room, carefully lowered him on to the lounge, and when his legs had been straightened out she softly said:

"Poor man! I thought you would change your mind and climb a tree instead of going roller skating. A limb broke, and you came down and struck the whole United States at once. It may take you years and years to reduce this bump on the back of your head and to get that twist out of your spine, but don't worry. You have a long and happy life before you, and the pigeon wings and curlycues will come again."

Land Falls at High Tide.

According to the report of Professor Milne to the British Association, land adjoining the shore falls as the tide rises. By means of a seismograph placed one and a half miles from the shore at Bidston, Cheshire, it was found that the average deflection due to tidal effects represented a change in slope of about one inch in sixteen miles. The violence of the change appears to depend upon whether the tide rises slowly or whether it rises rapidly and to an unusual height.—London Chronicle.

Burials In Coffins.

Burial in coffins in England was not usual until about 1700 or even later. While the right to naked burial was not denied, it was questioned whether our forefathers could insist upon the privilege of being inclosed in "a big box, perhaps imperishable," and so laid in the earth. At Farnham about 1680 only fourteen out of fifty-five persons buried were buried in coffins.—Manchester Chronicle

Ready For the Heckler.

As his name indicates, Mr. Andrew Bonar Law, M.P., who has completed his fifty-second year, is a Scot. However, he can also claim to be a Canadian, for he first saw the light in the Dominion, his father being the Rev. James Law, M.A., of New Brunswick. Mr. Bonar Law first entered Parliament in 1900. At a demonstration in Glasgow he referred to Mr. Balfour's attitude on the fiscal question. He pointed out that "the English people love a compromise," and instanced the course taken by Henry VIII. at the time of the Reformation, whereupon the following question was handed up to be answered: "Is the candidate aware that Mr. Balfour is a bachelor, and that Henry VIII. was much the reverse?" "Yes," replied the candidate, "but possibly Mr. Balfour might not be a bachelor if he could be sure of getting rid of his wives as easily as Henry VIII."

"Farmer Brown."

An interesting centenarian is Mr. William Brown, of Eltham, Eng., —known in the district as Farmer Brown—who recently celebrated his 100th birthday. His vitality is amazing. A day or two before his birthday, for instance, he mowed the lawn with a scythe, and in the afternoon went for a walk. He enjoys a smoke, but says that he "ought to ha' gone years ago. I have always enjoyed uncommon health," he continued. "Keep clear of doctors and lawyers, I say." A noteworthy fact regarding Farmer Brown is that in his youth he helped George Stephenson to make the railway from Liverpool to Chester.

Sword Stands In Churches.

Sword stands came into use in London churches when it became customary to carry the city sword before the lord mayor as he went to church in state. During service the sword was placed in the stand or case provided for it, and in his own church the lord mayor generally had the stand placed conveniently near to or in his family pew. This custom, which was quite common before the end of the sixteenth century, apparently began in the reign of Elizabeth. The state visits to the city churches were discontinued in the mayoralty of Sir R. N. Fowler, 1883.—London Standard.

Finance of Matrimony.

A Wiltshire squire, says the author of "The Parson's Pleasance," riding to the bench one morning met a farmer. "So, John, I hear you are going to be married again," he said. "Yes, sir; next Tuesday." "You have been married three times before, have you not?" "Yes, s'r; this will be the forth." "And you always did pretty well for yourself, John. Your wives had always a bit of money, I think?" "Yes, sir, but what with bringing on 'em in and carrying on 'em out there ain't no profit."

What a cultured world this would be if people put the same mental concentration into books as into bridge.

WHAT CAN I DO FOR MY SKIN-TORTURED BABY?

Is the Despairing Cry of Thousands of Mothers. A Scotchwoman Tells How Her Child was Cured.

"What can I do for my skin-tortured baby?" How many worried, worn-out mothers, whose children are suffering with eczema, tetter or other torturing, disfiguring humor, have asked themselves this question! Through neglect or improper treatment, some minor eruption has developed into a distressing and unsightly affliction. Simple treatments fail, and stronger ones are tried, sometimes so harsh that the suffering is increased rather than allayed. Even professional aid has proven useless, and the fear is ever-present that the skin disease will become chronic, turning the child's future into a nightmare of physical and mental misery.

Such mothers, who have witnessed their children's suffering and who have undergone the long, sleepless nights and distracting anxiety which they alone can realize, will understand the gratitude that prompted this letter from Mrs John Ewan, 5, Victoria St., Inverurie, Scotland, and will read it with keenest interest:

"I use Cuticura Soap steadily for my baby's skin. She had the eczema when she was three months old. She was in an awful mess all over her body. We never thought she would get over it. We sat with her night and day for about a month, expecting every minute to see her die. The doctor gave me an ointment to rub her with but it did her no good. My mother was home from America and she told me to try Cuticura Ointment and to wash her with Cuticura Soap. There was a great difference when I used the first box. It seemed to soothe her and she slept. I used three boxes of Cuticura Ointment and she was quite cured. She has the purest skin and is the fattest baby now! She is a miracle, the doctor declares. I am glad to tell anybody about it."

And that the success of the Cuticura Remedies is not confined to the treatment of eczema, is amply proven by Mrs. M. A. Schwerin, 674 Springwells Ave., Detroit, Mich., who writes:

"When my little Vivian was about six months old, her papa had a boil on his forehead. At that time the child was covered with prickly heat and I suppose in scratching it her own head became infected, for it broke out in boils, one after another. She had about sixty in all and I used Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment which cured her of them entirely. We do not think any one can praise Cuticura Remedies too highly."

That mothers may test the efficacy and economy of the Cuticura Remedies for themselves, the Potter Drug and Chem. Corp., 121 Columbus Ave., Boston, Mass., will send free on application, a generous trial box of Cuticura Ointment, sufficient to afford immediate relief in the most distressing forms of eczemas, rashes, itchings and scalings of the skin and scalp. Under the influence of Cuticura Ointment, the itching and burning stop, the child falls into a refreshing sleep, the mother rests, and for the first time, perhaps, in many weeks, peace falls on a distracted household. The Cuticura Remedies are sold by druggists everywhere.

MISERABLE WITH DYSPEPSIA

Another Wonderful Cure By That Wonderful Fruit Medicine "Fruit-a-tives."

Mr. Mathias Dery, of 225 Church street, Ottawa, Ont., was treated for years by physicians for Painful Dyspepsia. He spent so much money for doctor's medicines without getting much relief that he had about made up his mind that his case was hopeless.

Seeing "Fruit-a-tives" advertised, however, Mr. Dery thought he would invest 50c in a box of these wonderful fruit juice tablets.

And this famous fruit medicine did for Mr. Dery what all the doctors could not do—it cured him.

He writes:—"Fruit-a-tives" positively cured me of severe Dyspepsia, when physicians failed to relieve me."

"Fruit-a-tives" makes the stomach sweet and clean, insures sound digestion and regulates bowels, kidneys and skin.

50c a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial box, 25c—at all dealers, or from Fruit-a-tives, Limited, Ottawa.

THE BEST MEDICINE FOR LITTLE ONES

The best medicine in the world for little ones is the medicine that will promptly cure all their little ills and at the same time can be given the very youngest baby with absolute safety. Such a medicine is Baby's Own Tablets. They never fail to cure the ills of childhood and the mother has the guarantee of a government analyst that they do not contain one particle of injurious drug. Concerning them Mrs. John Robertson, Streetsville, Ont., writes: "I have used Baby's Own Tablets for constipation with the very best results. They are indeed a valuable medicine for little ones." The Tablets are sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Height of Hard Luck

A group of hoboes waiting for their coffee to boil in a tomato can were telling of their hard luck experiences.

"I've had worse luck than anybody," said one of them challengingly, after listening to the others' tales of woe. Once I had to sleep from Wilkesbarre to Perth Amboy on top of a flat car loaded with hard coal.

"And what do you think?" he went on. "Every car on the next train that pulled in from the same direction was loaded with soft coal."—Everybody's Magazine.

A Yankee while visiting friends once tucked his napkin into his collar to protect his clothing at his breakfast. He laughed as he did it, and said it reminded him of a man he once knew who rushed into a restaurant, and, seating himself at the table, proceeded to tuck his napkin under his chin. He then called a waiter and said, "Can I get lunch here?"

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address:

Didn't Intend to Suffer

Nikola Tesla was talking to an interviewer about inventors.

"The successful inventor," said Mr. Tesla, smiling, "has an odd, quaint mind, a mind full of surprises. Thus Smethurst, I am convinced was an inventor at heart, though circumstances had made a grocer of him.

"'Smethurst,' said an acquaintance 'what have you got in that bottle that I see you carrying about with you day and night?'

"'Chloroform,' said Smethurst.

"'What the deuce are you doing with chloroform here on the Boardwalk?'

"'That big dub of a Jones,' said Smethurst, has threatened to give me a sound thrashing the first time he meets me, and as soon as I see him coming I'm going to take a good dose. I don't propose to suffer if I can help it.'"

Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup is agreeable to the taste, and is a certain relief for irritation of the throat that causes hacking coughs. If used according to directions it will break the most persistent cold, and restore the air passages to their normal healthy condition. There is no need to recommend it to those familiar with it, but those who seek a sure remedy and are in doubt what to use, the advice is—try Bickle's Syrup.

No Draughts in the Arctic

According to the New York Times, Commander Peary has said that when one is really prepared for it, the Arctic weather is not much worse than winter in New York or London. Indeed, there is a story concerning a certain passenger on a Pullman "sleeper" who complained bitterly to the porter of the constant draught in the car. And the other passengers, it seems, were just a bit surprised when they read on his suitcase the name of the famous Arctic explorer who was destined later to reach the pole. You see there are no doors or windows in Greenland, and consequently there are no draughts.

What It Contained

A well-known physician was walking down one of the main London thoroughfares, with his five-year-old son when they were obliged to stop to await the passing of a funeral procession.

The youngster had never seen anything of the kind. His eyes widened. Pointing to the hearse (an enclosed one), he asked:

"Dad, what's that?"

"In that, my son," said the physician, with a grim smile, "is a mistaken diagnosis."

John Smith had worked for the corporation for forty odd years, and decided to retire. The company, in consideration of his long and faithful service, arranged to give him a monetary recognition. The superintendent of the works, a German and an extra good mechanic, was asked to present it. He was advised to use a little sentiment in making the presentation speech, and this is the way he did it:

"John you haff work for the company over forty years?"

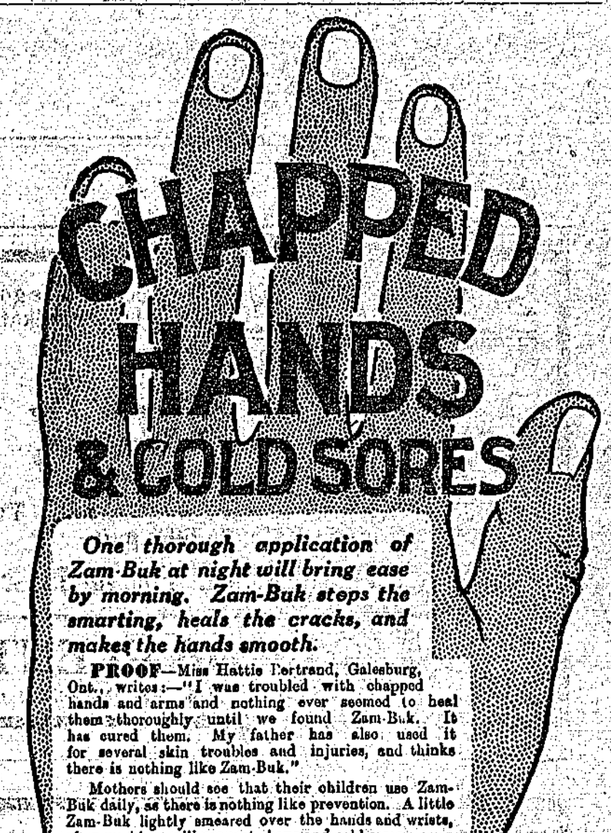
"Yes."

"You are going to retire?"

"Yes."

"Vell, they are so glad of it that they asked me to hand you this £20."

CHAPPED HANDS & COLD SORES



One thorough application of Zam-Buk at night will bring ease by morning. Zam-Buk stops the smarting, heals the cracks, and makes the hands smooth.

PROOF—Miss Hattie Bertrand, Galesburg, Ont., writes:—"I was troubled with chapped hands and arms and nothing ever seemed to heal them thoroughly until we found Zam-Buk. It has cured them. My father has also used it for several skin troubles and injuries, and thinks there is nothing like Zam-Buk."

Mothers should see that their children use Zam-Buk daily, as there is nothing like prevention. A little Zam-Buk lightly smeared over the hands and wrists, after washing, will prevent chaps and cold sores.

Zam-Buk is also a sure cure for skin diseases, eczema, itch, ringworm, blood-poisoning, piles, and for cuts, burns and bruises. 50c box at all stores and druggists, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Refuse harmful substitutes and imitations.

Which of These Pictures Best Represents Your Stable?

IF your Stable interior is of wood, you'll do well to tear down those old, unsightly stalls and mangers—and build new ones of Concrete.

In fact, the entire Stable—inside and out—should be built of Concrete.

This is the modern material—it has the merits of sightliness, endurance, and economy—and is sanitary.

The farmer himself can, by its use, make many little improvements that, with any other material, would require the employment of skilled labor.

IF you would know something of the possibilities of Concrete, fill out the coupon and send it to us. By return mail, we will send you a copy of our free 160-page book, "What the Farmer Can Do with Concrete."

In this book you'll find complete instructions for the construction of almost everything you can think of, in the way of farm buildings, floors, vats, troughs, etc., etc.

Nowadays, for a farmer not to know how to mix and use concrete, is to confess himself away behind the times.

"What the Farmer Can Do With Concrete" will not only inform you—it will also interest you.

STARVING MAN'S GIFT.

Poor Norwegian's Gratitude to Surgeon Who Saved His Life.

Ever since he was first called to attend the late Queen Victoria, Sir Frederick Treves, who has been on a visit to the King at Balmoral, has been very popular with all the members of the royal family, and among the many favors which have been conferred upon him is the very rare distinction of being allowed to add to his shield one of the lions from the Royal Arms. Sir Frederick was born at Dorchester fifty-seven years ago, and when he was four-and-twenty, and a surgeon with all his way to make, he married a Dorchester lady, Miss Annie Mason. Four years later he found himself Hunterian Professor of Anatomy and Wilson Professor of Pathology at the Royal College of Surgeons, and thereafter went from high to higher. He was consulting surgeon to the British forces in South Africa, and was with the Ladysmith relief column, for which he is in possession of a medal and three clasps. The famous surgeon is the author of many valuable surgical books, and is credited with having performed 1,000 operations for appendicitis without a single death. Sir Frederick has in his possession a coin to which a touching story is attached. Many years ago a poor Norwegian was taken to a big London hospital from an illness which prevented him from earning his living. Sir Frederick operated upon him, and completely cured him of his trouble. Some weeks afterwards the man called upon Sir Frederick at his private residence, and, much to his surprise, presented him with a coin. At first Sir Frederick refused to take it, but the man would not be put off. "It is now three years since I left my native land," he said, "and before I came away my wife gave me this coin and told me never to part with it unless I was starving. It is not worth anything to you, but the value to me I cannot express. When I was in hospital I made up my mind that you should have it. Since you cured me I have been starving, but I would not part with the coin because I wanted you to have it as a small return for saving my life." "What magnificent piece of jewellery," says Sir Frederick, when he tells the story, "could equal the value of that coin?" Sir Frederick was educated at the Merchant Taylors' School, and his recreations have been set down as boat-sailing and sea-fishing.

THE RACKING PAINS OF RHEUMATISM

Rheumatism will rack you just as long as there is acid in the blood to cause rheumatism. That's the whole trouble—acid in the blood. Cold, damp weather may start the pains going but it is not the cause. That is rooted in the blood and can only be cured through the blood. Years ago when medical science did not know as much about the complaint as today, rheumatic sufferers were given something to rub on the swollen tender joints. Some people who do not know any better still adhere to the old fashioned way, but it does not cure their rheumatism—and never will.

When the acid is driven from the blood the rheumatism is gone—it's cured. The thing is to get the right medicine to drive the acid out. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have cured more cases of rheumatism than any other disease except anaemia. They do this because they enrich the blood supply, thus toning up the system to a point where the rheumatic acid is expelled through the natural channels and the trouble disappears. They were intended to do this and they do it thoroughly. Mr. Henry O'Donoghue, Viscount, Sask., says: "About four years ago I came here from Scotland for the purpose of taking up land. Even at so recent a date as this the country was quite different from what it is today. Then the nearest shack to me was ten miles distant, and the nearest town much further away. In those days homesteading was not all sunshine, and in the spring of 1907 I contracted a severe cold. I had never been sick in my life before, and paid no attention to the cold, and almost before I realized it I was down with an attack of pluerisy and as the pains of this trouble began to leave me those of rheumatism set in, and my sufferings were something terrible. Help was sent for, but it did me no good, nor did the medicine given me have any effect, and for five months I was confined to the house. Then one day I had an unexpected visit from my brother, who came from Australia, and whom I had not seen for nine years. When he saw my condition he at once urged me to get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, as he knew of a number of cases in which they had made marvellous cures in Australia. The result was he went to town and purchased six boxes, and before I had used the last box I was out working with my oxen and am now as healthy as any man in the province. For this I must thank the Pills and my brother's advice, and I strongly recommend the Pills to other rheumatic sufferers."

Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

MOTHERS SHOULD WATCH CLOSELY

DISEASED KIDNEYS THE CAUSE OF BED-WETTING.

Wellesley Young Man Permanently Cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills, Gives the Public the Benefit of His Experience.

Wellesley, Ont. (Special).—That all diseases of the bladder from bed-wetting to Gravel are the direct results of Kidney Disease, has been proved again and again by Dodd's Kidney Pills. They cure the Kidneys and the Bladder diseases speedily disappear. One of the latest proofs comes in the experience of Mr. George Strebel, the well-known harness-maker of this place.

"I was troubled with bed-wetting for many years," Mr. Strebel says. "The doctor could not give me relief and no one knows how I suffered. I tried many medicines, till in January, 1905, reading the experiences of others led me to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. Nine boxes cured me so completely that I have never been troubled since."

Mothers should learn that when their children are addicted to bed-wetting it is time to look to the cause. The Kidneys are the cause. Cure the Kidneys by using Dodd's Kidney Pills, and not only stop the bed-wetting, but ward off serious and dangerous diseases in after life.

THE PATIENT BRAIN.

A Tireless Worker So Long as Supplied With Rich, Red Blood

The brain is one of the most patient and industrious organs of the body. It can be induced, by good treatment, to perform prodigies of work.

But it is sensitive and will not brook abuse. It responds to the lash at first, but if the lash is laid on too hard it balks.

The brain insists on having plenty of good, red blood wherewith to renew its waste and from which to manufacture the nerve force supplied to the whole body.

Nervous trouble is generally brain trouble, and no suffering is to be compared to mental suffering, with the accompanying dread, suspicion and melancholy.

One-fifth of the blood in the human body is consumed by the brain, so make the blood rich and red by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and you will overcome diseases of the nerves.

There is no other way. Stimulants arouse false hope. Narcotics deaden the nerves, and temporary relief is followed by a condition which is worse than the first.

Get the blood right and the nervous system will adjust itself. Headaches will disappear, irritability will go, digestion will improve, and weakness and despondency will give place to new hope and courage, new vigor and energy.

Mrs. Geo. Fuller, Lakeland, Man., writes:—"Dr. Chase's Nerve Food cured me of nervous headache, from which I was a great sufferer, and I am no longer troubled with twitchings of the nerves in the arms and legs."

Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food will enable you to avoid such extreme nervous trouble as prostration and paralysis. 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

A Peculiar Coffin

Perhaps the most singular coffin in which a human being was ever buried is the one of which the following story is told:

A workman engaged in casting metal for the manufacture of ordnance in the Woolwich arsenal, in England, lost his balance, and fell into a cauldron containing twelve tons of molten steel. The metal was at white heat, and the man was utterly consumed in less time than it takes to tell it.

The war office authorities held a conference and decided not to profane the dead by using the metal in the manufacture of ordnance, and the mass of metal was actually buried, and a Church of England clergyman read the services for the dead over it.

Average Englishman In India Looks Down Upon the Hindoo.

Very few natives are admitted to the circles of British society in India, writes Frank G. Carpenter. The average Englishman looks upon the Hindoo as of a lower race than himself, and he will not allow him to be a member of his club, or to come to his house as a guest. This is especially true of the officials of the lower classes, but less so of those who are high up in the Government, although even among these there is now and then an exception. A story is current about a well-known officer of the army who was riding on the cars in the same compartment with a cultured Hindoo. The army officer had been hunting and was tired out. During the journey he made the Hindoo gentleman get down on his knees and massage his legs from ankles to thighs. The high caste to which this man belonged was scandalized at the treatment and the action caused considerable comment. The better classes of the natives say such treatment is insulting, and they object to any difference being made between them and the British. This is one of the causes of the unrest of to-day.

Even worse than the position of the Hindoos is that of the Eurasians, or half-castes. These are the offspring of East Indian women and the various Europeans who have come here from time to time. Many are half Portuguese, others half French and others half British. There are also quarter breeds and eighth breeds, or Indian mulattoes and octoroons. But whatever the cross it is considered a disgrace by both native and foreigner. They are always well marked. The men are usually dark, and although the women are beautiful and now and then fair, you can always distinguish the Asiatic blood in their features.

These Eurasians are usually subordinate clerks. Many of them go into trade and make money, and now and then one rises to honorable distinction. But they always flock by themselves, having their own society, with customs the same as the English.

Grave of Maurice.

The Rev. John Frederick Denison Maurice, one of the most influential thinkers and social reformers of the middle of the last century, and a friend of Tennyson and Kingsley, passed away April 1, 1872, and was buried at Highgate. Yet, according to the Rev. J. Capel Hanbury, his grave cannot now be discovered.

"Some time ago," says Mr. Hanbury, writing to The Guardian, "I made a pilgrimage to Highgate cemetery to visit the grave of my reverend teacher, Professor F. D. Maurice. After considerable discussion as to the spelling of the name, the clerk gave me a ticket showing the situation and number of the grave. It was at the upper end of the cemetery, where the grass was high and the paths overgrown.

"After a long and fruitless search, thinking that my old eyes were at fault, I engaged the services of two of the workmen of the cemetery, and together we traversed the whole area indicated on my ticket. All in vain; the grave could not be found. It was poor consolation to be told by the clerk that no one ever asked where Mr. Maurice was buried, and it made me sad to think that the last earthly resting-place of a man to whom the Church of England is under such inestimable obligations should seem to be neglected and forgotten."

Commenting on the pain that will be caused to many by the fruitless search for the grave of Maurice, The Guardian recalls the inquiry directed to him by a lady, who asked, "Shall we know each other in Heaven?" to which he replied with the question: "Do we know each other on earth?" There are probably some of his friends who will attempt to rectify the lack of identification in Highgate.

Soldiers Were Stung.

At one of Britain's most important foreign forts the soldiers were once badly trapped, says a London paper in an article on the present spy scare in England.

It was known that a Teutonic spy was in the vicinity, bent on making plans, and so the sentry on a magazine, one moonlight night, kept eager watch, and soon was startled by a loud rustling in the adjacent trees. Going cautiously forward, he suddenly observed the figure of a man perched high on the bough of a tree, half hidden by the leaves.

The sentry's first impulse was to use the business-end of his bayonet; on second thought, he determined to constrain his captive to his uncomfortable perch all night. The idea was thoroughly to the taste of the relieving sentries, each of whom, during his two hours' duty, stood right under the tree, gazing exultantly at the figure aloft, and indulging in satirical remarks, anything but complimentary or consoling.

At dawn, a triumphant guard proceeded to dislodge the captive. He responded not to their taunts; he did not budge an inch. A private at once climbed aloft, and, in doing so, shook down a lifelike effigy!

By this clever ruse, the spy had effectually diverted attention whilst acquiring the information he required, and departed.

Medal for Teetotal Bishop.

The Bishop of Stepney, who has recently spent three days with the hop-pickers near Five Oak Green, Kent, during September, was presented at the mission tent with the Ouks Medal, with one bar, for having kept his total abstinence pledge for exactly one year.

No One Hurt.

"Yes," said the man who had been traveling; "I saw three trains held up in one night."

"You don't say!" exclaimed the innocent bystander. "Was any one hurt?"

"No," said the traveler: "they were held up by women in a ballroom."

The Only Way

"Is there any method that will enable a man to understand a woman?" queried the innocent youth.

"The only way to understand a woman," replied the home-grown philosopher, "is not to try. Under these circumstances she will reveal herself sooner or later."

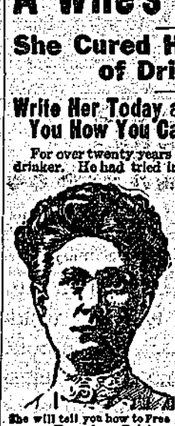
She Cured Her Husband of Drinking

Write Her Today and She Will Tell You How You Can Do the Same



For over twenty years her husband was a hard drinker. He had tried in every way to stop but could not do so, but nine years ago she stopped his drinking entirely by using a simple remedy which any one can give secretly. Hundreds have freed their homes from drink by following her advice. The method is easy and sure. If you have a dear one who drinks we earnestly advise you to write to her at once. She makes no charge for her help, (she asks for no money and accepts none) she only asks that you are personally interested in saving one who drinks. She will tell you how to Free your Home from Drink.

An Irishman's Toast

A good story is told of two Irishmen, members of the famous old Sixty-Ninth Regiment of New York. They were having a pretty jolly time; and after getting well warmed up, Patrick says: "Jimmy, we must give a toast to the Sixty-Ninth." "And sure, Patrick, we must, and here she goes: 'Here is to the glorious old Sixty-Ninth, the last to go into battle and the first to lave.'" "Ah, no, Jimmy, that is not good, that will niver do. I will give one: 'Here is to the glorious old Sixty-Ninth, aqual to none.'"

Mining Cariboo.

When the railway penetrates Cariboo there will be a great revival in quartz and hydraulic mining. The Quesnel Observer says:—

"The magnificent showing in the many quartz discoveries made recently by Mr. E. E. Armstrong and others; the recent big placer strike made by the Venture Mining Co. in the deep ground of Peter's Creek; the good prospects lately obtained by Mr. Joseph Wendle on his hydraulic properties on Willow River, together with many other discoveries of more or less importance, has stirred the Bakerville district in a manner not equalled since the quartz excitement in the days of '68, or the last placer excitement of 1871, when the now famous Lightning Creek was discovered, which, together with its tributaries produced—according to the best authorities—about $17,000,000.

"Among a few of the other large producing Creeks we might mention: Williams Creek and its tributaries, which produced almost $30,000,000; Stevens Creek, $1,000,000; California Creek, $1,000,000; Antler Creek, $5,000,000; Grouse Creek, $3,000,000; Low Hee, $2,000,000; Mosquito Creek, $3,000,000; Nelson Creek, $3,000,000; Burns Creek, $1,000,000; Dragon Creek, $1,000,000; Slough Creek, $1,000,000, and a large number of smaller creeks too numerous to mention here. On a conservative estimate, we are of opinion that, within a radius of 25 miles around the Barkerville district, there are at least one hundred creeks and their tributaries, the majority of which prospect high in gold and other minerals."
