OIL IN B. C.

A. A. McPhail, who with Richard Parnall, secretary of the British Columbia Oil Fields, Ltd., have been completing arrangements at Skidegate for transporting drilling machinery and supplies to the new oil fields at Blue Creek on the west coast of Graham Island, have left with Captain Haan on the Wee Jeanie to erect camps and get everything in shape to begin drilling as soon as the tug arrives to take out the boiler and other heavy parts of the drilling machinery.

Mr. McPhail took half a dozen men with him, among whom are J. T. Peat, who will have charge of the boring operations. Mr. Peat comes from Petrolia, Ont., and has had a long experience in boring for oil, having operated drills in various oil fields in different countries for the past eight years.

The company holds twenty-two claims of 640 acres each under licence, and has sufficient money in its treasury to continue operations for six months or more. It is expected that rapid headway will be made when once the drill is put in operation. Sinking should proceed at the rate of twenty to thirty feet per day unless unforeseen obstacles arise to cause delays. The first bore hole will be sunk near the mouth of Blue Creek on the shore of Otard harbor.—Prince Rupert Journal.

EXPENSIVE COLLECTION

Pete Turano and Stevo Miller appeared before Judge Brown last week charged with assaulting and robbing Alex Ozello. It appears that Ozello owed a bill at the Dominion hotel in Phoenix and would not settle. Turano and Miller met him on the road near Boundary Falls and undertook to collect the bill without the formality of court proceedings. Miller was discharged on both counts, and as it was evident that Turano had no intention of robbing Ozello he was discharged on that count, and fined $75 for assault. The court gave Ozello the revolver and $10 that had been taken from him.

It believes that advertising is the life of trade; and that one of the noblest works of creation is the man who always pays the printer.

The Ledge is $2.00 a year in advance, or $2.50 when not so paid. It is postage free to all parts of Canada, Mexico, Great Britain and the county of Bruce. To the United States it is $2.50 a year, always in advance.

THE TOURIST TRADE

We have always been imbued with the idea that one of the principal assets possessed by British Columbia was its scenic attraction for the tourist. The tourist must have money, and he is always willing to pay for the goods. B. C. has probably more and finer scenery than any other part of the world, but until recently it has been short of publicity agents. Years ago we christened New Denver, the Lucerne of America and began boosting Sloean lake touristically. We wrote Sir Thomas Shaughnessy in 1897 and suggested that if the C. P. R. built a tourist hotel at New Denver there would be millions in it. He replied that the C. P. R. was not after millions, and that other people should build the hotel and get the millions. The tourist trail was too fresh, and, finding that unless scenery could be turned into cash our internal anatomy would cohere for a lack of protein substance, we retreated from the beautiful Lucerne, thereby leaving the Sheriff in the dim distance. However our dreams are gradually becoming true for we notice that the C. P. R. has at last built a tourist hotel on Kootenay lake, and is preparing advertising literature for the purpose of making globe trotters turn their eyes towards the glorious climate, and the beautiful scenery of the Kootenay and Boundary districts. In time the C. P. R. will build more hotels as the trade increases, which it is bound to do if the ad man is not permitted to become entirely wedded to Morpheus.

A HEAVENLY ROAD.

If you want to sail through the clouds without using an aeroplane drop into Greenwood and take the high road to Phoenix. You can begin the grand ascension just where Greenwood's leading excitement butts into the scenery. The heavenly ride was recently described by that sweet and charming writer, Lady Van, in the Saturday Sunset. Here is how she describes the world famous mountain ride between the two greatest copper camps in Canada.

"If but one day's trip is undertaken Grand Forks is the turning point. But to go means still climbing towards the clouds for many miles, then a long slide into Greenwood. The country is surpassingly beautiful and the mountains will never be forgotten.

An excellent plan is to change cars at Eholt Junction and go to Phoenix, one of the most famous mining towns in this district. At Phoenix carriages may be secured and the drive down the mountain to Greenwood will give you conversation material for a month to come. This is conceded by many to be one of the finest drives in the world. It is a journey through the clouds."

The drop between the two towns is more than 2,000 feet in four miles, and if your horses run away on the down hill pull your wild soul will swell with delight until the bump comes, and then it may be oblivion, or just $40 and costs at the livery stable.

When a white man takes an oath in court he kisses a book, and we don't laugh. When a yellow man takes an oath in court he kills a chicken and burns some paper, and we laugh. When a white man dies we cover his grave with flowers, although the dead can't smell. When a chink dies his friends put roast chicken in his grave, although the dead cannot eat. And still, dear Daphne, it beats all how civilization jogs along.

It is quite evident that the law of compensation makes all things equal. The rich man has ice in the summer, and the poor man in the winter. The hobo has the appetite but not the price. The millionaire has the price but no appetite. The editor gets his hell in this world, while the delinquent subscribers get it in the next.

Owing to a rush of job work we did not have time to attend the Coronation, but will endeavor to be present at the next one.

Last week London drew to a King and Queen, and wound up with the greatest royal flush known to history.

The Waiterless Cafe

By ELBERT HUBBARD

Fate has sent her edict. The gray-scarred Tuxedo will have to go.

Its wearer, like his brother in well-doing, the cabby, must adjust himself to new conditions or else perish. The handwriting, limned in gray, is on the wall.

Lo! the time is at hand. Flunkysm is on the blink.

The Los Angeles Waiters' Union has issued a circular to its members warning them that they had better look for new jobs, rather than cling longer to the old and honorable profession that has now fallen upon evil days.

This Los Angeles circular adds, "The cafeteria has done it." The cafeteria is a finger pointing the way—a John the Baptist in the Wilderness—an index to the tendency of the times.

We are eliminating lost motion. We are taking up the economic slack.

Waste is the only sin—waste of time, waste of energy, waste of materials.

Brother Brandeis is right. But he is not alone in this work—hundreds of thousands of strong men and women are bending their energies to the same purpose.

If the middleman is a necessary factor to our happiness, we will keep him; if not, he will have to pass. In any event, he is now under surveillance.

We are all from Joplin. The Christian Scientists have peppered two of them: the preacher and the doctor. And even the enemies of the Christian Scientists do not doubt that they are better off than in the days of yore.

The lawyer, too, is under indictment as a flunky, raised to the grade of hold-up.

The butler, lordly and inglorious, is the father of the whole Tuxedo tribe. He and his minions were an importation to America, at the best. They never really belong here. They go with kings, Lords, Dukes and such other human junk.

About the only folks in America who sought to gain the good will of the Tuxedo were members of that giddy, glib, gilded gang who gobble, giggle and gabble at after-theater suppers. They are really not hungry—eating is an excuse—they go to the grub studio that they may see and be seen, but most of all to secure, if possible, the approving nod of the servile, greasy and ubiquitous Tux.

Honest folks, intent on eats, do not want to select from a menu that looks like a Sunday edition, and then have their wants written out by a Count in Exile, who hands the document to an attache of the court, who moves silent and slow to the nether regions, making pretense of having something prepared for you "very special."

In all this there is about seventy-five per cent. lost motion.

The time of the black-coated, solemn ones who stand behind your chair, now and again falling over one another to pass you the salt, watching your every move to see that you gobble with the right utensil, is all charged up in the bill, and is paid for eventually in human energy, for it takes energy to secure the dolodocci to pay your check and attend to the tips.

For without tips flunkies would cease to flunky and the world would be at rest.

I use the good old word, "tip," although some people prefer stipend, prepand, fee, or honorarium.

Flunkysm is lost motion. Have enough flunkies in a country and the nation is headed for the cliff on the high clutch.

The less you need waiting on, the greater and better you are.

So here comes then the Cafeterie and the Baltimore Restaurant and free us from the tentacles of the flunky.

A butler at best is a sort of bastard bishop—or, more properly, a bishop is a butler raised to the nth power. But possess the loft impassiveness and the supercilious eyebrow that token the lowbrow.

The bishop and the butler originally derived their power from the same source—the Strong Man, the Destroyer, the Telly Da Roose of the time.

Also, it is well to realize that the people who so languidly allow the flunky to take their wraps, and alternately patronize and snub him, are, themselves, but escaped lickspittles.

The different between the waiter who wears full dress all day and the man who wears full dress only in the evening is often merely microscopic—that is to say, a question of gray stains.

When the members of a Waiters' Union give a banquet, as they occasionally do in New York City and Boston, they employ only colored waiters, and tip the coons generously. Thus they draw the sharp social line of cleavage between guest and servant. Colored waiters are not admitted to the Unions; and what I here say does not apply to the colored brother—he deserves a chapter by himself, and later I will honor him with one.

The man whose highest ambition is to impress a waiter is with us yet, and he probably will die hard. He is the real mischief-maker—not the flunky. Were it not for the "good fellow," the flunky would shed his donatured sable ways, and take his place in the industrial ranks as a man and a comrade.

The idle rich, and the folks who imitate the idle rich, are the actual degens.

Frederick Townsend Martin says the idle rich are passing and he knows, he has been one. He is rich yet, but he is not idle. Brother Martin brings the world glad tidings of great joy. Zing, zing!

Nowhere in America is the cost of living so low, or so high, as it is in California. The high cost comes from the fees of the flunky.

The low cost is owing to the fact that God has here been so lavish in His gifts.

Everywhere one sees the cattle on a thousand hills. And if I should state the quantity of oranges, figs, olives, lemons, prunes and grapes that are raised on a single acre in San Joaquin Valley, many good people would simply say I was a candidate for the Ananias Club—and let it go at that.

Vegetables of every kind and sort are brought to your door by the Chinese gardeners, and the prices are astonishingly low. You can buy oranges at five cents a water bucket, grapefruit for a cent a piece, and vegetables in propor-

The cafeteria—which is, by the way, a woman's device—serves the best of food at a price beyond the dreams of avarice.

At no Exposition ever held in America will the visitors be fed so well and at so low a price as they will at San Francisco in Nineteen Hundred Fifteen.

In front of a cafeteria in San Francisco I saw a donkey carrying sandwich-boards upon which was lettered the legend, "This Cafeterie employs non-union labor. Do not patronize it!"

All day long, day after day, and far into the night, the donkey stands there or is led backyard and forward by a sad-eyed derelict.

I saw the donkey before I saw the cafeteria. In fact the donkey and the derelict called my attention to the cafeteria. I thought they were advertising the place.

I went inside and dined sumptuously at a cost of thirty-two cents. I flunkied for myself and pocketed my own tip.

The place was filled with a happy, intelligent, prosperous lot of men and women.

"How many people do you feed here a day?" I asked the cashier.

"Between five and six thousand," was the answer.

"And no waiters?"

"And no waiters."

As I passed out on the street I noticed the donkey and the derelict.

Pity touched my heart.

I reached into my pocket, took out a quarter and gave it to the man holding the donkey. He was surprised, but quickly recovered himself and pocketed the tip with the grace and deftness of an adept.

"Were you once a waiter?" I asked.

"Yes, sir; I have been a waiter all my life. I made money, and I spent it. I am sixty-five years old, and now I am out of work and out of money. The Union gives me a dollar a day to lead this burro—but you know, for you have a kind heart, that I am a gentleman just the same."

The chill night wind seemed to shake his thinly clad form. His voice was husky. He leaned against the donkey for support. I thought I saw big tears chusing each other down his furrowed cheek. I am not sure about this for my own vision was dimmed.

The people were streaming in and out of the cafeteria.

"You seem tired and cold," I ventured.

"I haven't had anything to eat since morning."

"Well," I said, "why don't you go into the cafeteria and get a bite?"

"I would if there was some one to look after the jackass!" he answered.

"I'll take care of him," I said.

So I led the donkey jasadwards back and forth in front of the cafeteria until my friend returned.

The burro waved his ear unmoved: it was nothing to him—he was sustained with a solemn pride in the thought that Christ had ridden one of his ancestors into Jerusalem.

The Government of Peru purposes a ten per cent. duty on crude rubber exports. The country is short of revenue.

Recently Wm. Lawson arrived in Hazelton with a ton of California honey. For years he has been selling honey in Alaska.

Queer Ducks

An Exchange says: Men are queer. Wouldn't there be a roar when they went home to their meals if they had to climb up on a high stool in front of a table on which there was no cloth, and eat their meals in that fashion. Yet the majority of men, when they go to a restaurant, will pick out the high stool and the feed board with no cloth on it in preference to a comfortable chair with a cloth covered table. A man will borrow a chew of tobacco and most of them will set their teeth into the plug where some other man has gnawed of a chew. Offer him a piece of pie at home from which his wife or one of the children had taken a bite and he will holler his head off. At home he will not drink out of a glass or cup for which one of the family has been drinking. Call him into a back stall of a livery barn, pull out a bottle and he will stick the neck of the bottle half way down his throat in order to get a swig after half a dozen fellows have had the bottle in their mouths. Truly a man is a queer duck.

The Satisfaction of Age

At 79 Goethe found his life more valuable and satisfying than in his so called prime. He was superior in many respects, he said, at 40, but time had more than paid for the advantages of which it had deprived him. We loose with age unless we are able to make good use of experience—to feed, as Meredith puts it, upon the advancing hour. If action is all we appreciate, old age must mean loss; but if contemplation is among your pleasures, the cool of the evening

About Float.

Float is not a periodical. It is a book containing 86 illustrations all told, and is filled with sketches and stories of western life. It tells how a gambler cashed in after the flush days of Sandton; how it rained in New Denver long after Noah was dead; how a parson took a drink at Bear Lake in early days; how justice was dealt in Kaslo in '93; how the saloon mah outprayed the women in Kalamazoo, and graphically depicts the roamings of a western editor among the tenderloin in the cent belt. It contains the early history of Nelson and a romance of the Silver King mine. In it are printed three western poems, and dozens of articles too numerous to mention. Send for one before it is too late. The price is 25 cents, postpaid to any part of the world. Address all letters to rate a few years will render conditions not only perilous to property, but most dangerous to human life as well. Barkerville, which is the oldest and most historic town in British Columbia, is a registered township. The citizens who have purchased lots, erected dwellings and business houses, and put a large amount of capital in general merchandise to supply the needs of the surrounding district, did so when things were at normal conditions. Later the Government has granted to the mine owners water from Lightning Creek, Jack O' Clubs and a number of other water sheds to be brought into the headwaters of Williams Creek by ditch and flume, for the purpose of hydraulicking the old creek beds of Stout's and Kouklin's gulches, both of which dump almost directly upon top of town. Under these conditions we certainly think that the people of Barkerville have grounds for complaints. Barkerville has been and always will be the centre of the mining section of the Cariboo District. The Government offices of the Cariboo District are situated here, and have, for the past three years, collected in revenue from the mines, timber and land, an average ranging from forty to one hundred and fifty thousand dollars per month.

FLOOD IN BARKERVILLE An eye witness to the recent flood in Barkerville tells about it in the Quesnel Observer as follows: On Saturday evening just after the dinner hour the citizens of Barkerville were aroused by the tumbling of timbers, and within an instant Williams Creek, which is at this season of the year a river of mud and gravel, came rolling down the main street of Barkerville, carrying wood piles, sidewalks and all kinds of loose material, while a number of children were rescued just in time to prevent them being carried away.

NEW ADVERTISING SCALE. The newspapers in Greenwood, Phoenix and Grand Forks have adopted the following scale for legal advertising: Application for Liquor Licence (30 days) $4.00. Certificate of Improvement Notice (60 days) $7.50. Application to Purchase Land Notices (60 days) $7.50. Delinquent Co-owner Notices (90 days) $10.00. Water Notices (small) $7.50.

to protect the town is almost a hopeless case. It will be a continual outlay by the Government and in the end useless and most dangerous to the property and lives of the citizens.

Good Old Summer Time A story comes from Victoria, where street car conductors are not allowed to handle the corporations money, but passengers are confronted with a slotted box in which they drop their fare.

Great Ocean Steamship. The building of the "Europa" by the Hamburg-American line is a new record in steamship construction. It is easy to say that it has a length of 900 feet and a beam of 96, that it has nine decks, that it carries a crew of 1000 people, and has accommodation for 4250 passengers. But it is only upon comparison that the figures begin to possess their real meaning.

Grief Over Dog Not often does the death of a dog call forth such expressions of genuine sorrow from a whole neighborhood as did that of a much loved St Bernard, known as Leo, in Bedford Park, New York City. Leo died of poison and the family in which he had lived all his life were prostrated with grief.

B. C. MINING NEWS

In the Sloean John Cory has struck 100 ounce ore on the Silverite claim, adjoining the Queen Bess.

Another coal mine is to be opened up at Blairmore.

James Dunsmuir, formerly lieutenant-governor of B. C., and the richest man in the province, recently inspected the Black Fox and other mining properties that he owns in the Sloean.

Lenses are working the No 1 mine at Ainsworth, and recently made a shipment of two carloads of ore.

Wm. Schmuck and his partners have a deal on for their gypsum claims in the Tulameen district.

The B. C. Anthracite Coal Co., has 40 coal claims at Groundhog mountain, 150 miles north of Hazelton. There are 30 seams of coal on these claims from three to 16 feet thick. It is said to be the largest deposit of anthracite coal in Canada.

Up the Skeena river in the vicinity of Copper City, work is being done on several free milling gold claims.

Much of the country rock in the Steamboat camp assays from 20 to 60 cents in gold to the ton.

Owing to litigation work has been suspended on the Engineer gold mines in the Atlin district.

John A. Finch says that the ledge in the Standard mine, near Silverton is 131 feet wide. The mill at this mine will have a capacity of from 125 to 150 tons daily, and shipping will begin September. The owners are making ready to do some work on the Emily Edith group.

Frank Fritz is reported as having found a deposit of copper ore in the Steamboat camp.

Archie Cooper is working the Phoenix group, 18 miles from Hope. The ore is free milling gold of a high grade.

Placer gold in paying quantities has been discovered on the Naas river says C. T. Baker to the Stewart Miner. Since last February when the first claim was staked, about 50 prospectors have crossed the divide, and taken up ground. The one claim that has been worked shows four feet of washed gravel that will pay two cents most consistently. In four days with a crude rocker made out of a toboggan one man rocked out almost an ounce of heavy gold. Considering that bedrock has not yet been reached this is most encouraging. It is thought that bed rock can be reached in from 15 to 20 feet. There is plenty of ground to prospect on the various creeks that flow into the Naas river.

The Stewart Miner says that the Granby Co., will build a 2,000 ton smelter at Goose Bay that will have a weekly payroll of $42,000. Must mean a month?

In spite of the fact that one of the principal claims in the Steamboat Mountain camp is said to have been salted, the owners of claims in that district will develop their properties in order to prove to their own satisfaction, whether there is pay ore, or just hot air on Steamboat Mountain.

R. C. Campbell-Johnson and G. F. Monckton, accompanied by 17 miners and 58 pack horses have left Hazelton for Groundhog mountain to develop a number of anthracite coal claims.

BOUNDARY MINES

The Granby Co. has acquired the Hidden Creek mines at Goose Bay, and in 18 months expect to be producing 2,000 tons daily. It is estimated that the Granby now has 13,000,000 tons of ore in the mines—6,000,000 tons at Hidden Creek, and 7,000,000 tons in Phoenix.

The length of the Lone Star tramway to Boundary Falls is 28,437 feet. It is divided into six stations and has 68 towers, the highest being 67 feet. There are 82 buckets each capable of carrying half a ton. The capacity of the tram at present is 22 tons an hour, and the bins at the unloading terminal will hold 900 tons.

The New Dominion Copper Co., owns 15 mining claims, most of them being in the Phoenix Camp.

Harry Dickenson has taken a 30 day option on the Elkhorn for $30,000. He expects to sell the property to Spokane capitalists.

THE ARGO TUNNEL

The second annual meeting of "The Argo Mining and Tunnel Co., Ltd.," was held in the offices of the company on Saturday the 24th inst., at 8.30 p. m., which was attended by a large and representative number of the shareholders, presided over by Olaf Lofstad, president of the company.

The minutes were read by A. S. Black, the secretary and adopted. The president then delivered his address to the shareholders, detailing the work done during the past year, and outlining the plans for future development and for an aggressive campaign to be pursued in furthering the ends of the company.

He stated the capital to be $125,000 divided into 500,000 shares of 25 cents each and that the stock was being very satisfactorily subscribed for. A very pleasing feature was that the men employed by the company were nearly all taking a very considerable part of their pay in stock thereby showing their faith in the future of the company and their confidence in the present management.

The tunnel had been driven continuously during the last 12 months and was now in close to 600 feet. The Government had built a wagon road to the property, during the construction of which two leads had been encountered, showing good ore carrying gold, silver and lead values. In the tunnel several small leads were struck and indications were very favorable for striking the main body before very long.

After some further remarks and discussion by the shareholders the President called for the auditor's report, which showed a sum of some $11,500 expended to date for development purposes, and the finances of the company to be on a sound basis.

The proceedings were terminated by a hearty and unanimous vote of thanks to the president, secretary and directors, for their earnest work and successful management of the company's affairs.

GOT THREE MONTHS

At Grand Forks, last week, Giovanni Masterello was tried before Judge Brown for cutting Dominic Siraftno with a razor at Fife, on May 25. He was given three months at hard labor. The two men had been partners for a year, and in view of the fact that since the cutting Giovanni had tried to make amends for his rash act by paying Dominic's hospital bill, etc., the court gave him a light sentence for treating his old partner in such a rude and painful manner.

CUT HIS THROAT

Joe Walsh attempted suicide last week at Westbridge by cutting his throat with a jack-knife. He made a terrible gash, and severed his windpipe, but it is quite likely that he will recover. He had been working on the railway, and evidently had been indulging too freely in booze. Walsh hails from Boston and if he does not leave the country he will likely be tried for attempting suicide.

The officers and members of Grand Forks Lodge No. 30, Knights of Pythias wish hereby to publicly thank all our numerous patrons of the Pythian Picnic held on Coronation day, at Christina Lake, and especially the Knights of Greenwood Lodge No. 29, who so faithfully assisted at the outing.

Signed by the officers of Grand Forks Lodge No. 30.

SHORT OF COAL

So serious has the shortage of coal, caused by the Crow's Nest strike, now become that some Alberta industries are forced to import fuel from Pennsylvania. In order to avoid a tie-up of its entire plant the Western Canadian Cement Co. of Exshaw is bringing in 4,500 tons of Pennsylvania coal. The freight alone will cost the company in the neighborhood of $25,000. The Calgary branch of the Cement Co. is also short of coal though it does not need as much as the Exshaw plant on account of the fact that it has electric power. For its immediate needs this company is importing fifteen hundred tons of Pennsylvania bituminous coal, the freight on which will amount to $5 or $6 per ton.

It costs 15 cents a pound to pack supplies from Hope to Steamboat. There are 80 animals on the trail, and the round trip is made in four days.

TO THE PUBLIC
It having been circulated that all the stores of Greenwood will be closed every Wednesday afternoon during the summer months, I wish to give public notice that the Dry Goods and Clothing House of C. F. Stork will not be closed at any time this summer only upon legal holidays. I do this for the best interests of the public.
Last summer it was agreed by the merchants of Greenwood to close every Wednesday afternoon, which was observed by C. F. Stork and F. W. George, while in some of the other stores there was a man waiting inside to turn the key to anyone who might wish to purchase goods. Great complaint was made by the people working at the mines and smelter and particularly the farmers who came in to make purchases. The city needs all the business it can get, and I will not be an instrument to prevent the farmer and laboring man from getting the accommodation they need whenever they wish. Many stores will not be closed in Greenwood this summer, on Wednesday afternoons, especially the Dry Goods Store of yours respectfully, C. F. STORK.
