SIFTON'S OPINION

In an interview at Kingston last Thursday the Hon. Clifford Sifton predicted the downfall of the Laurier Government, and said;

"As a result of my personal observations during this campaign the fact is more and more pressed home that the Conservatives will be returned to power and that the Laurier Government will be defeated. This is the first public statement of such a kind that I have ever made, and I am doing this because I have faith in what is going on around the country, what I see, and what others are seeing. The Conservative campaign will be one of victory. They will make considerable gains in Ootario, the Maritime Provinces and Quebec, and they will hold their own in the West."

No Stampede at Ashcroft.

We have received a report from the coast that on Saturday last there was a stampede of three hundred men te the Tatlayako Lake country, where the latest gold strike has been made. Similar reports have been published in the Manitoba Free Press and other eastern papers. Here in Ashcroft nothing is known of the stampede and not more than a dozen people, all told, have left here for the Chilcotin country.

It is regrettable that such false news should be disseminated through the country. This is the worst time of year that such a stampede could take place, now that the winter is so near at hand, and even those who have the gold fever realise this. There is no question that early in the spring there will be a rush to Tatlayako and this rush must come through Ashcroft, but at present there is nothing in any way resembling a stampede and such rumors should be discouraged, for they only do harm.—Ashcroft Journal.

In Nature's Garb.

"We don't want bathing suits, do we, girls?" chirped the leader of a bevy of chorus damsels from Calgary. They were up at the sulphur basin at Banff, and the attendant at the baths was performing the customary duty of handing out bathing suits.

"Oh, pshaw, no. There's nobody but us here," was the unanimous verdict. "I never did like being hampered by a bathing suit," explained the leader. "It makes me feel so heavy."

Turning to the attendant she assured him that the girls wouldn't wear bathing suits—if it didn't make any difference to him. It didn't, so they disrobed and plunged in and sported around displaying forms that would have turned some of the famous sculptors' models green with envy.

They didn't object to being watched by the bath attendant, either.

BOUNDARY MINES

The ships of Solomon took three years to go and return with the gold of the still mystic Ophir, while thousands of miles nearer home the precious metal could be obtained in abundance. Drawing the parallell nearer home the leading paper of Phoenix says that in this province hundreds of cases could be cited. At the present time men are roughing it in remote parts of the province, while nearer civilization, and even along the steel highways of the country are to be found the riches they seek in less accessible places. As an example take the Boundary and other southern parts of the province, and right here in Phoenix. Men are predicting, foolishly of course, the speedy depletion of the ore in its mines, and looking far afield for other sources of supply, seemingly oblivious to the fact that within a short distance of the Granby shafts are to be found immense bodies of ore capable of being mined in the same economical manner as that of the other big mines of the district. Only recently a party of visitors accomplished the journey in ten minutes from the Brooklyn Hotel and were shown acres of identically the same formation as that which characterizes the famous Granby mines. The property referred to is the Marshall group of copper-gold claims, all crown-granted, comprising in all nearly nine full claims. A test of a 500-lb lot shipped to a local smelter yielded a return of $5.80 per ton. The G. N. railway crosses the group, while electric power for all purposes is close at hand. A standing offer for two years of $40,000 was made for this group by New York capitalists, but was turned down by owners, Messrs. J. Marshall, T. Roderick and others. Scattered throughout the Boundary are scores of other properties with equally promising futures, only awaiting the advent of the capitalist and engineer. To the ordinary laymen these statements may appear illusionary and far fetched, but to the mineralogist and government surveyor its truth has long since been established.

Next week the tunnel of the Phoenix-Greenwood Tramway Co, will be in 3,000 feet, and the Big Tunnel will be entitled to receive $15,000 from the city of Greenwood Before proceeding further the many stringers of ore already struck in this tunnel will be developed.

The Nelson Fair

Visitors to this year's Fruit Fair at Nelson on September 26-27-28th will be well looked after in the matter of amusements, a large and varied list of attractions having been provided for their entertainment. The C. P. R. is offering single fare rates for the round trip from Vancouver to Medicine Hat, and all intermediate points.

Among other attractions will be James E. Hardy who is known the world over as "The High Wire King," and who has recently returned from Europe will be the big aerial feature attraction. He will introduce his great disrobing act, provoking roars of laughter, and providing amusement for everyone.

Do not fail to see Hardy when he shows up as Weary Willie. He will introduce his famous night walk across the Niagara Whirlpool Rapids by crossing his wire blindfolded and with his feet and legs tied in a sack. He will also introduce his great chair balancing feats acknowledged to be the most remarkable exhibition of nerve and skill ever witnessed; and his other daring feats will include his wonderful bicycle riding act in mid-air He will perform upon an ordinary street bicycle, with simply the tires removed, and will execute upon it feats which few would undertake to do on terre firma. The other feats which Hardy will introduce into his daily program will include many of the "stunts" that have secured for him the well deserved reputation of being the greatest and most artistic high wire performer the world has ever known.

The home market is the ruling market. If we had not a home market capable of absorbing about 80 per cent of our agricultural produce, the price obtainable for the surplus in external markets would be much lower than it is.

MRS HUMPHRY WARD
England's Great Woman Novelist

Literary prophecies, like boomerangs, should be handled with extreme caution—they are so prone to recoil. When Matthew Arnold affirmed that no Arnold could ever write a novel, he did not look sufficiently far into the future to see Mrs. Humphry Ward, the daughter of his brother Thomas, recognized as the greatest woman novelist of her generation.

She was born in Tasmania in 1851, and when six years old was brought by her parents to England. Her father, a college professor, changed his college as frequently as his religion; his intense conscientious yearning for absolute truth whirling him from one faith to another like a cork caught in the eddy of a stream, and making him the fit prototype of "Robert Elsmere."

At the age of fourteen, when the family migrated to Oxford, she breathed the University atmosphere that was joy to her heart. She acquired knowledge as naturally as a bird learns to sing, and she was known as a marvelous linguist, being as perfect in German, French, Spanish and Italian as if each were her native tongue. At twenty-one she was married to Thomas Humphry Ward, one of the university dons, whose work as author, editor, critic, has given him a place in English literature. She was ambitious to write, and her earliest efforts were so weighted with learning and research that they were as heavy as dumb-bells and fit only for scholars to read when they wanted to get away from pleasure. She wrote many articles for the "Dictionary of Christian Biography," which paid little in coin but more in credit.

Mrs. Ward was thirty-one before she undertook real fiction with "Miss Bretherton," followed four years later by "Robert Elsmere," which captured the reading public of two continents. Before this, it is true, she had written a child's story, a pale-complexioned, anæmic piece of work, fitly named "Millie and Ollie." Her translation of "Amiel's Journal" from French into English was an exquisite literary gem, expressing so perfectly the subtle windings of the thoughts and emotions of the simple Swiss professor, that it seems as if he himself must have re-thought his whole diary in English, without the touch of a translator. "David Grieve," which paid its author over $100,000, and others which paid fully as much, soon followed, among them, "Sir George Tressady," "Helbeck of Annisdale," "Eleanor" and "Lady Rose's Daughter." In her beautiful country home, in Hertfordshire, she does her literary work, seeking to escape from the storm of publicity her books have aroused and avoiding all society but a little band of devoted friends.

Entered according to Act of the Parliament of Canada, in the year 1911, by W. C. Black, at the Department of Agriculture.

SIFTON'S OPINION

In an interview at Kingston last Thursday the Hon. Clifford Siiton predicted the downfall of the Laurier Government, and said;

"As a result of my personal observations during this campaign the fact is more and more pressed home that the Conservatives will be returned to power and that the Laurier Government will be defeated. This is the first public statement of such a kind that I have ever made, and I am doing this because I have faith in what is going on around the country, what I see, and what others are seeing. The Conservative campaign will be one of victory. They will make considerable gains in Ootario, the Maritime Provinces and Quebec, and they will hold their own in the West."

No Stampede at Ashcroft.

We have received a report from the coast that on Saturday last there was a stampede of three hundred men to the Tatlayako Lake country, where the latest gold strike has been made. Similar reports have been published in the Manitoba Free Press and other eastern papers. Here in Ashcroft nothing is known of the stampede and not more than a dozen people, all told, have left here for the Chilcotin country.

It is regrettable that such false news should be disseminated through the country. This is the worst time of year that such a stampede could take place, now that the winter is so near at hand, and even those who have the gold fever realise this. There is no question that early in the spring there will be a rush to Tatlayako and this rush must come through Ashcroft, but at present there is nothing in any way resembling a stampede and such rumors should be discouraged, for they only do harm.—Ashcroft Journal.

In Nature's Garb.

"We don't want bathing suits, do we, girls?" chirped the leader of a bevy of chorus damsels from Calgary. They were up at the sulphur basin at Banff, and the attendant at the baths was performing the customary duty of handing out bathing suits.

"Oh, pshaw, no. There's nobody but us here," was the unanimous verdict. "I never did like being hampered by a bathing suit," explained the leader. "It makes me feel so heavy."

Turning to the attendant she assured him that the girls wouldn't wear bathing suits—if it didn't make any difference to him. It didn't, so they disrobed and plunged in and sported around displaying forms that would have turned some of the famous sculptors' models green with envy.

They didn't object to being watched by the bath attendant, either.

Thinking Themes

Lord Chesterfield said that a gentleman is never in a hurry, and the Scriptures teach that "he that believeth shall not make haste."

The truest mark of power is repose. The most gigantic forces in the universe are silent. The sun lifts millions of tons of water from the seas daily, besides supplying all earth forces, yet how quietly it shines! Thunders, volcanoes and all boisterous things are weak compared to it.

In a factory there is a furious rattle among the spindles in the top story, but little power, for you could stop a shuttle with your finger; as you descend the noise decreases and the force increases; until in the basement you find the huge Corliss engine, moving like a whisper, yet with such energy in its silent arm that it could crush you like an eggshell.

All noise is waste. If we could save the noise of the trolley car or the locomotive we would have that much more dynamic.

It behooves men, therefore, to cultivate repose of manner, simple and modest speech in gentle tones, for their weight in the world is in inverse ratio to their bluster.

The lamb is the mildest of creatures, yet the Apocalypse tells us that in the Day of Wrath men will call upon the mountain to fall on them and cover them from "the wrath of the Lamb." That is a picture of the awful power of gentleness. God is gentlest of beings: and the greatest men are the Gentle Men.—Dr. Frank Crane.

Not Too Dry.

Kootenay and the Boundary district have both suffered a serious detriment in the opinion of prospective settlers through the impression having been given that irrigation is necessary in the Kettle Valley country and in various parts of the Kootenays, according to General T. R. Tannant of Spokane.

It was General Tannant who, in 1879, when the O. R. & R. company was looking for a route through Washington, proved that no less than 14 townships or 158,000 acres of land in Whatcom and Palouse counties, which had been declared by General Van Vleit, an engineer for the Northern Pacific railroad, to be so arid as to be valueless except for cattle ranching, was sufficiently fertile to grow vast crops of wheat, fruit and other produce, and his opinion on questions relating to moisture of soil may be therefore regarded as of the utmost value.

"I have been over many ranches in the Grand Forks district," said General Tannant, "and in many places I found that orchards were suffering from over-irrigation. This is shown very clearly by the comparison between two places on the Phoenix road. On one side is a Doukhabour ranch where no irrigation has been employed, and on the other side is an orchard which has received the doubtful benefits of a water supply artificially augmented by irrigation ditches. The Doukhabor orchard is in splendid condition; the trees are healthy and are of a much stronger growth than those on the other side of the road where the progress of the young tree has been retarded, I am convinced, by irrigation.

"A simple experiment will give anyone a true test as to whether the natural moisture or sub-irrigation in the soil is sufficient to grow fruit and other produce.

"In a glass jar place some of the grass roots and press it down firmly. Secure the top of the bottle. Then place the bottle for 12 hours in an ordinary living room in a house during the daytime and for 12 hours during the night. If on examination after this 24 hours' rest there is water on the inside of the glass it will conclusively prove that there is plenty of water in the soil for all ordinary purposes."

It may be mentioned that as a result of General Tannant's favorable report on the land in Palouse and Whatcom counties, Wash., which is now producing millions of dollars of agricultural wealth every year, the O. R. & N. before building their line purchased it from the Northern Pacific at the ridiculously low price of $2.60 per acre. —Grand Forks Gazette.

Uncomfortable Position.

Mr. C. E. Laurence of Kamloops, who is touring the interior districts of British Columbia in the interests of the Dominion Commision of Conservation—being engaged by the Liberal government in that behalf—was put in a very uncomfortable position during the meeting which he held at the Nakusp Opera house recently. Mr. Laurence in his address said that it had been the habit of the Provincial government to appoint lecturers from various parts of the Dominion and the States, who held meetings explaining what farmers should do and should not do. The Dominion government had decided to reverse this order of things and had appointed a commission who asked the farmers for their individual opinions how farming should be conducted, with any suggestions which would be gathered and published for the benefit of others. The lecturer's remarks were interesting and thoroughly enjoyed, but when the audience was asked whether there was anything at present or anticipated in the near future with regard to the fruit-growing industry concerning which they desired to put their opinions on record, the chairman and others desired that an answer should be recorded that any change in the tariff would be certainly a detriment. Another speaker drew the lecturer's attention to a similar question being asked at another important centre, which the lecturer had refused to incorporate in his records although the question was the most important one at this juncture. Mr. Laurence said he could not possibly insert the answer as it verged on a political issue. Personally, he was in full accord and sympathy with the audience in this matter, but remained steadfast in refusing to inform the commission of the audience's suggestion in his report. Being informed that it would be in order, a resolution was passed urging on the Dominion government the necessity of opening up the lands between Arrowhead and Revelstoke for settlement in small holdings. Another urged that the Federal government take action to protect the river bank from washing away at points south of Nakusp, as considerable lands are yearly lost. A third resolution was that the government should devise some means of providing irrigation on lands requiring it and where the communities are small.

Letters from Jane Ann

Skibboridge Neuk
Sitha, N. B.

Dear Peggy,—Don't it seem a shame we have to work for a living? This weather, too. If I had my time over again, I'd sooner be handcuffed to a ghost. I would, straight.

It's all right for the Jocks and the Sandies and the Janets and the Maggies round these parts. One lot goes bare-kneed and the other bare-footed. Makes it a bit interesting at first, 'cause when you take a walk you never know what feechurs you may discover in the landscape. On a windy day, its like being in the Garden of Eden before the tailor called.

I don't think I should like a 'usband what had to crawl upstairs backwards when we had company. There'd soon be a breech of the piece. What I mean to say, I should be sure to make unpleasantness.

Oh, but ain't it warm? Straight, I feel like a cake of soap that's been left all night in the bath. And you know how the dye runs in coloured things, dear. Well, if you was to see me——There, talk about the rainbow.

Had such a lark the other day, old sparrow. Mind you, this is strickly between ourselves. Well, one of the shuffers here took a car out of his own. I fancy he was on the joy-ride caper. Anyway, he took some extra cushions, a lot more than he'd want to recline on.

Lady Dumchuck had gone cycling with a very old friend of the family. Said she might be home to lunch, and might not. We knew what that meant. When she goes off with a friend of the family we never sit up for her.

Lord Dumchuck, feeling hipped, I s'ppose, went off with a lady visitor that's here studying nacheral history. His lordship knows a lot about this, so he took the lady out fishing, and to show her how to catch trout by tickling them underneath when they're asleep. His lordship's the champion tickler in these parts, but the trout don't seem to have heard of him, else they ain't got any sense. You'd think a trout would know better than go to sleep while it was being tickled, and with his lordship about, too. What?

Well, while the shuffer was mooning round, he goes and runs over a prize chicken. That's the only sort that gets run over; I s'ppose the others don't think it worth while. Knowing the ways of prize poultry the people what live near the high road won't keep any other sort.

Soon's he run over the article, our shuffer, it seems, hopped out and grabbed it. When he brought the oughter-mow-bill home he didn't know what to do with the chicken. I happened to be passing the stable, just as he was coming out after taking in some clean straw, so he says "Canary for yer," and with that he hands me a paper parcel and nips off.

I felt reel sorry when I see what it was, and besides I looked such a fool nursing a bundle like that. If the man it belonged to had come up he'd very like have said I pushed the pram over it.

Baring other people's burdens may be all right or it may not. Anyway I took the bundle up-stairs and put it in the shuffer,s bed, with the paper off.

He didn't seem to reelise things till the middle of the night, and then he yelled terrifik. He dreamed, he said, that some great bird, eagle or something, flew in at the window and under the bed clothes, and then bit him just for spite. Silly ass.

He didn't seem at all certain what sort of bird it was, though everybody was willing to search his bed and boxes, and when we asked where he got bit, he said, "Forget it," so we all went back to bed. He give me a fearful look, but as I found a chicken a second time I didn't mind. Cook got another hat trimmed for cooking it.

Oh, dear, I've hardly asked about your John, and whether you're any nearer going off, and if you're still in the paygent or back at the firewood bundling or the jam shovelling, or whatever it was you got paid for before you turned pro.

Never mind, birdie, save it for know, 'cause after next week I shall be home again, old cherub, and then you can tell me everything, everything. Ta-ta for now dear, and be good.

Your friend same as ever,
Jane Ann.

Educate the English.

"Notwithstanding all the efforts of the Federal and Provincial governments of Canada to disseminate in Great Britain information concerning this country there appears to be an opening for still greater activity in that direction," remarked the head of a Vancouver engineering firm. "This observation is prompted by the receipt by our firm of the following epistle from the London, England, makers of a specialty which is largely used in the iron-working trades.

"'Under separate cover we are sending you a copy of our catalog in English. An index of the catalogne is given below and if you will write us respecting anything which may be of interest to you we shall have pleasure in sending you full details in your own language, and quoting you prices in your own currency.'"

"That strikes me as being rather too good a joke not to reply to," continued the Vancouverite, "and I am now preparing an answer in Chinook and if the London firm is able to 'come back' in that jargon I will let it go as one on me."

"I would rather have written that poem than won Quebec," General Wolfe is said to have remarked as he advanced on the Canadian capital of one hundred and fifty years ago. "I would rather win Quebec than have written all the blooming poems from Shakespeare to Ella Wheeler Wilcox," is probably Sir Wilfrid Laurier's way of putting it.—Toronto World.

LOWERY'S CLAIM
During the 37 months that Lowery's Claim was on earth it did business all over the world. It was the most unique, independent and fearless journal ever produced in Canada. Political and theological enemies pursued it with the venom of a rattlesnake until the government shut it out of the mails, and its editor ceasad to publish it, partly on account of a lazy liver and partly because it takes a pile of money to run a paper that is outlawed. There are still 25 different editions of this condemned journal in print. Send 10 cents and get one or $2 50 and get the bunch.

About Float.
Float is not a periodical. It is a book containing 86 illustrations all told, and is filled with sketches and stories of western life. It tells how a gambler cashed in after the flush days of Sandon; how it rained in New Denver long after Noah was dead; how a parson took a drink at Bear Lake in early days; how justice was dealt in Kaslo in '93; how the saloon man outprayed the women in Kalamazoo, and graphically depicts the roamings of a western editor among the tenderfeet in the cent belt. It contains the early history of Nelson and a romance of the Silver King mine. In it are printed three western poems, and dozens of articles too numerous to mention. Send for one before it is too late. The price is 25 cents, postpaid to any part of the world. Address all letters to

Great veins of hot water run through the entire house, and bathrooms are always at the service of those in search of material cleanliness. The sample rooms are the largest in the mountains and a pleasure to drummers with big trunks.

W. R. Andrews, of Grand Rapids, Mich., in a toast made the following appeal to the Philipinos, which might do for some Canucks this week:

"You Philipinos don't know what you are missing by not wanting to become citizens of this grand country of ours. There isn't anything like it under the sun. You ought to send a delegation over to see us—the land of the free—land of fine churches and 40,000 licensed saloons; bibles, forts and guns, houses of prostitution; millionaires and paupers; theologians and thieves; libelists and liars; politicians and poverty; Christians and chain gangs; schools and scalawags; trusts and tramps; money and misery; honest and hungry; virtue and vice; a land where you can get a good bible for 15 cents and a bad drink of whiskey for five cents; where we have a man in Congress with three wives and a lot in penitentiary for having two wives; where some men make sausage out of their wives, and some want to eat them raw; where we make bologna out of dogs, canned beef out of horses and sick cows, and corpses out of people who can't eat it; where we put men in jail for not having means of support, and on the rock pile for asking for a job of work; where we have a Congress of 400 men who make laws and a Supreme Court of nine men who set them aside, where good whiskey makes bad men and bad men makes good whiskey; where newspapers are paid for suppressing the truth and made rich for teaching a lie; where professors draw their convictions from the same place they draw their salaries; where preachers are paid $25,000 a year to dodge the devil and tickle the ears of the wealthy; where business consists of getting hold of property in any way that won't land you in the penitentuary, where trusts hold up and poverty holds down; where men vote for what they do not want for fear they won't get what they do want by voting for it; where niggers can vote and women can wear false hair and men dock their horses' tails, where the political wire puller has displaced the patriotic statesman; where men vote for a thing one day and cuss it 364 days; where we have prayers on the floor of our National Capital and whiskey in the cellar; where we can spend $500 to buy a statesman who is rich and $10 to put away a working man who is poor, where to be virtuous is to be lonesome and to be honest is to be a crank; where we sit on the safety valve of energy and pull wide open the throttle of conscience; where gold is substance—the one thing sought for; where we pay $15,000 for a dog and fifteen cents a dozen to a poor women for making shirts; where we teach the 'untutored' Indians eternal life from the bible and kill him off with bad whiskey; where the check book talks, sin walks in broad daylight, justice is asleep, crime runs amuck, corruption permeates our whole social and political fabric, and the devil laughs from every street corner. Come to us, Philies! We've got the greatest aggregation of good things and bad things, hot things and cold things, all sizes, varieties and colors, ever exhibited under one tent."

Trying It For a Year.

Trying reciprocity for a year means:—

A year of the most-favored-nation countries invading our home market without compensation.

A year of Australia and New Zealand invading our home market without compensation.

A year of unsettled conditions on our railways.

Linking our fiscal system with that of the United States during a presidential election year, when trade always is bad.

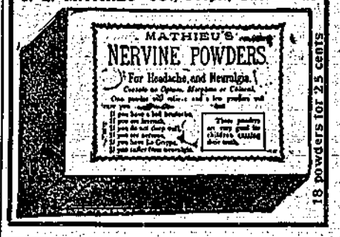
Getting into a quarrel with the United States, who will be angered at our withdrawing from the bargain.

NEEDED WHERE PAIN EXISTS

Headaches, Neuralgia, Insomnia, etc

If your dealer does not keep them we will mail you a box (18 powders) on receipt of 25c

J. L. MATHIEU CO., Props., Sherbrooke



The great baseball player's wife had never seen a game, but he finally persuaded her to view one in which he was to play. He was doing his best, of course. One strike had been called on him and, as usual in baseball anecdotes, two men were out and the bases were full. Our hero was gathering his strength for the swat he was going to give the ball. And the ball came. He knew it was his as the ball started, and with a mighty crack he lifted it into space. Dropping his bat he sped for first, and ere the roar of applause burst out a slight woman in the grandstand arose and called: "Will, come back here and put that bat where it belongs."

"The reciprocity agreement will check the east and west development of Canada and make that country a business part of the United States, with the lines of traffic running more to the north and south. Reciprocity will really cut Canada into two countries. The section east of Lake Superior will merge with the New England States, and the west will become a part of the west of the United States."—New York American.
