Mining Notes

J. W. Clark has a crew busy loading ore from the Providence mine dump for shipment to the Consolidated Company's smelter at Trail. Mr. Clark has received a favorable rate from the smelting company and he will ship this ore instead of putting it through the local mill.

The Western Canada Mining News of Vancouver says: Duncan McIntosh, one of the owners of the Bell mine at Beaverdell, was a caller at the office of Western Canada Mining News. This is one of the mines in British Columbia that is paying handsome returns to its owners. The best paystreak was uncovered when blasting out a stump to make a tennis court a year or two ago. The vein encountered then was one worked previously, but which had faulted. Messrs. McIntosh and Crane have fourteen men at work, getting out about a carload of ore per month, which amounts to close on to 50 tons. Last year returns from the ore were 351 ounces silver, 12 per cent. lead and 12 per cent. zinc, approximately $255 to the ton.

A Hint To Our Towns

Townspeople, says a Western farm paper, are notoriously ready to give advice to the farmers, and, it asks, why should not the farmer who takes pride in his farm and his home give a little good advice to his grocer and garage man and lumber dealer and hardware merchant. It thereupon proceeds, on behalf of its farmer subscribers, to tell the townspeople some home truths.

Trees and flowers, beautiful homes, with attractive surroundings, are, says this paper, to be found in practically every farming district in the West, but the towns and villages are lagging far behind and most of them are becoming uglier and more hideous with the years. Unpainted stores, unattractive shacks in many cases to begin with, ramshackle outbuildings and sheds, down-at-the-heels fences and weedy, neglected gardens—how many of the country towns in the West answer this description?

The word picture sketched by this farm paper is by no means overdrawn. While the cities, and farmers by the thousands, have gone in extensively for the planting of trees and the beautifying of the surroundings in which the people pass their lives, very few towns and villages have made any effort to make them attractive. Most of them present the appearance of a group of squatters' huts, occupied by transients, having no intention of remaining permanently and establishing real homes, but expecting to move on. They give the impression of "boom" oil and mining towns where anything is good enough for the time being until the boom bursts and the town dies.

Country roads are frequently better than these town and village streets with their gutters overgrown with grass and weeds, and with backyards and lanes common dumping grounds for refuse and junk of all kinds. In such surroundings it is little wonder that very soon store windows remain unwashed and in a generally unkempt, untidy, dirty condition. A city store which presented the same indications of sloth would drive away rather than invite customers. Yet many town and village merchants wonder why people pass their doors to trade elsewhere.

Complaint is also voiced because of the difficulty of obtaining and retaining the services of qualified help in these smaller communities. But why should any self-respecting, ambitious young man or woman settle down to spend their lives in a town or village where the people lack even sufficient enterprise to paint their buildings, tidy up their premises, and convert their bald prairie streets into avenues of trees, and their private grounds into flower and neat vegetable gardens?

Speaking for the farmers, the paper already quoted says: "A clean, bright cheerful town certainly makes a better bid for business than a shabby and ugly one, and when everybody has a car the progressive town will draw the trade." Absolutely true! Shakespeare said, "The apparel oft proclaims to the world its progressiveness or lack of it." A shabby, unpainted, neglected-looking collection of buildings is not apt to impress a prospective buyer or new citizen as being the home of up-to-date merchants where good value for his money can be obtained.

Western towns and villages should also appreciate the fact that the motor car and the rapid extension of systems of good roads is working a revolution in the tourist trade—and a lucrative trade it is. Motor tourists arriving at a neglected looking town quickly pass on, but a town of neat, nicely painted buildings, well treed streets, trimly kept gardens, and an attractive little square or park, invites a stop. It is in such towns tourists stop for the night and make their purchases; the other places get the go by.

Travelling across this country, either by train or motor, how often is the remark heard: "I'd hate to live in a town like that." On the other hand when one of our all too few little garden towns is reached, people are heard to comment on its attractiveness and to say: "Now there is a place I wouldn't mind living in."

Probably the reason why nothing is done to improve the appearance of most places is fear of the cost. But experience has demonstrated over and over again that the cost of planting trees, of laying out a small park, of keeping the town neat, is comparatively small, while the resulting benefits are large, yielding big dividends on the investment, for, after all, these things are practical, dividend-paying investments just as truly as is the provision of fire-fighting equipment. And if the community as a whole improves the appearance of the streets and paints up, such action becomes infectious and very quickly individual citizens put their private grounds and buildings into shape.

Certainly there is a grand opportunity open to a few public-spirited men and women in most of our Western towns and villages to render real community service by inaugurating Town Beautiful crusades.

A railroad official unloaded a car of steers in Oklahoma and watered them. Then he found there wasn't room enough for them in the same car.

Short faces with eyes far apart are said to be characteristic of people with musical talent.

Miss Amy Lowell, the well-known poet, who died recently, said at a dinner in Greenwich village:

"Our magazines grow rich and successful, but they offer little hospitality to the poet.

"I know a poet—and a great poet he is—who entered the office of a magazine the other day.

"'Sorry,' said the office boy, 'but the editor's out.'

English Teachers Visit Canada

His Majesty Conveys Message to Departing Pedagogues

The party of 100 school teachers from Britain who are visiting Canada, received the following message from His Majesty the King before their departure:

"His Majesty congratulates the league upon the happy conception of the undertaking which will give opportunities to study the educational system in Canada and to gain an insight into her history, development and general resources. The King feels sure that the results of this experience will be fraught with good and far-reaching effects, not only on the teachers themselves but also on those who will in the future come under their influence and instruction and upon the relations between the Motherland and the great Dominion.

"From his recollections of Canada and her warm-hearted people, His Majesty can assure the teachers of the very hearty welcome which they will receive and wishes them God-speed and an enjoyable stay in that vast and beautiful country."

The message was received with enthusiasm by the teachers aboard the Empress of Scotland, on which they sailed for Canada.

Chicago-New York Night Air Mail Gives Wonderful Service

To Chicago and back in forty-two hours, which is exactly what the night air mail means to correspondents between the two cities, is hailed by Lester D. Gardner, editor of Aviation, in a congratulatory dispatch to Postmaster-General New as "the fastest mail service in the world."

Actually the letter which Mr. Gardner started for Chicago at five p.m. Wednesday and received on its return at eleven a.m. Friday was in the air only sixteen hours of the total elapsed time. So it is possible to bring about, ultimately, when the service is expanded to day and night both, actual intercommunication over the hundreds of intervening miles within a single day.—New York Telegram.

Homestead Entries

Decline in homestead entries as the settlement of the west proceeds is interesting to contemplate. In 1905-06 and 1910-11, the two largest years in history, Saskatchewan accommodated 27,692 and 25,227 homesteaders respectively. In 1921, 2,729 homesteaders filed on Saskatchewan lands.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

AUGUST 9

BEGINNING THE SECOND MISSIONARY TOUR

Golden Text:
He shall have dominion also from sea to sea,
And from the River unto the ends of the earth.
Psalm 72.8

Lesson: Acts 15.36 to 16.5.
Devotional Reading: Psalm 67.

The Text Explained and Illumined

The second missionary journey planned, verse 36.—"After some days"—an indefinite expression denoting a considerable lapse of time—Paul suggested to Barnabas that they revisit the churches founded on their previous journey and see how they were faring. "He would visit them that he might acquaint himself with their case, and impart unto them such spiritual gifts as were suited to it; as the physician visits his recovering patients that he may prescribe what is proper for the perfecting of his cure, and the preventing of a relapse" (Matthew Henry).

On that previous journey they had suffered much. They had been expelled from Antioch of Pisidia, they had been driven from Iconium with threats of stoning, and at Lystra Paul had been stoned and left for dead outside the city. Now Paul proposes retracing the same route.

"Give us the courage that prevails,
The steady faith that never fails"

Vancouver A Busy Port

Remarkable Strides Made in the Past Five Years

Forty-two regular steamship lines are now operating out of the port of Vancouver, the gross tonnage for last year being 14,473,518, which is over a million tons in excess of the 1923 figures. Remarkable strides have been made by this port during the past five years, and Vancouver is now rated as one of the leading ports on the Pacific.

NEW HEALTH FOR SUFFERING WOMEN

Aching Backs and Tired Limbs Need Not Be Endured

Too many women endure suffering that casts a shadow over half her existence. An aching back, tired limbs, attacks of faintness, splitting headaches need not be a part of woman's life. Such trials indicate plainly that the blood is thin and watery and that the sufferer needs the help of a real tonic such as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Suffering women who have used this medicine speak of it in the highest terms. Among those who have been thus helped is Mrs. Ada L. Harman, Virden, Man., who writes:—"Following the birth of a still-born child a few years ago, I had a very serious time. I was so weak for months that I could not walk across the room without a feeling of faintness. I had scarcely strength enough to stand up, and when dressing would have to sit down two or three times. My face and lips were colorless, I had no appetite, and life did not seem worth living. A friend urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I got six boxes. Before they were all gone I felt improved. My appetite was returning, color was coming into my face, and I was visibly stronger. I continued taking the pills and fully regained my former good health. I consider Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a blessing to weak women, and hope my experience will induce some other sufferer to try them."

You can get these pills from any medicine dealer, or by mail at 50 cents a box direct from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

An American recruiting sergeant was endeavoring to persuade a coffee-colored gentleman to join the colors. "See here, you feller," he said, "I'm askin' you to jine one of the finest little standing armies in existence." "Ain't no good, boss," said the nigger, "I got to hev a job whar ah kin sit down."

Eczema On Hands For Two Years Cuticura Healed

"For about two years I suffered with eczema on my hands. It started with small scales and then turned to a rash and was very sore and red. It itched terribly at times and kept spreading until my fingers were covered with it. I could not put my hands in water nor do any work. I did not get much sleep at night on account of the irritation.

"I used other remedies without much success. I saw Cuticura Soap and Ointment advertised and sent for a free sample. After using it I purchased more and in a month's time I was completely healed." (Signed) Lawrence Chauvin, West Chazy, N. Y., Sept. 27, 1924.

Britain Will Keep Defences In Egypt

Must Maintain Adequate Naval Patrols On Suez Canal

London.—The Daily Express says the committee on imperial defence, to which Ramsay MacDonald referred the question of British military policy in Egypt, has reported that it is of vital strategical consequence to maintain adequate British forces on the banks of the Suez Canal, adequate naval patrols on the canal itself and that with a view of insuring the safety of these forces the present British garrison at Cairo must be maintained as it is now. The paper adds the cabinet has accepted the report which will form the basis of the British policy.

With the intention of making further investigation into the tar sands of the Fort McMurray district, S. C. Mr. Ells is taking with him a drilling machine, and it is hoped to secure by means of boring, more detailed knowledge of the deposits than has ever been obtained before.

Taking Care Of War Graves

No Other Country Honors Dead Like England

Not far from the main line of travel to Paris and the south of France, among the sand dunes of Etaples, are buried 11,000 English soldiers. This, one of the largest English cemeteries in France, is visited every day by scores of tourists making the rounds of the battlefields and cemeteries.

Probably no country among the Allies has taken such pains as England to honor the memory of the men who died in her defence. In every part of the world, on every continent, on every island where the great war was fought, lies dead Englishmen, and to the Imperial War Graves Commission has been entrusted the task of perpetuating the last resting places of more than a million sons of the empire.

The work of this commission has assured to the British dead of the late war what was once the right only of generals and great statesmen—permanent sepulture. The work of engineers and architects among the most prominent in the empire has gone into the task of making stable and durable the graves of the million dead warriors.

In all cemeteries is the reproduction of the great Cross of Sacrifice, designed by Sir Reginald Blomfield—"a carven stone and a stark sword brooding on the bosom of the cross," as it was described by Rudyard Kipling in a poem commemorating King George's pilgrimage to the war cemeteries three years ago. In each of these cemeteries, from that at Soissons to that on the Mount of Olives itself, stands the great Cross of Sacrifice, and in the larger cemeteries is a companion memorial.

At Chatham, Portsmouth and Plymouth, in England itself, are memorials to the dead of the navy. A tablet to the dead is also in the Church of Notre Dame at Paris. Others are scattered throughout the world.

Dogs Hauled Lumber

A team of five Malamute dogs was used successfully last winter to haul lumber from a mill on Grant Lake, west of Cordova, Alaska, to the Alaska railroad, two miles distant, for transportation to Seward and Anchorage markets.

The shipment of 15,000 feet was made from the mill in loads averaging three-quarters of a ton.

Says British Nation Not Properly Fed

Diet Poorest in World According to London Doctor

The British nation is the worst fed nation in the world, and chemists have become the greatest slayers of mankind, Sir William Milligan, M.D., declared in opening a food exhibit at Manchester. The British diet, on the average was insufficient, ill-balanced and monotonous, he said; cooking left much to be desired, and the quality of food supplies was open to grave suspicion. He attributed much of the dyspepsia, gastro-intestinal disease and intestinal lethargy to the tendency of people to live on preserved foods.

"Our chemists," he added, "have become, because of this tendency, in a sense almost the greatest slayers of mankind. Responding doubtless to a popular demand, they have worked at the discovery of food preservatives and these have been so largely used that, along with the results of cold storage, food became literally mummified."

Japan's Most Serious Problem

Country's Food Production Not Adequate For Increasing Population

The food and population problem still continues the most serious one confronting Japan. At a recent meeting of high officials of the department of agriculture and forestry it was decided that the government should revise the regulations for opening up and bringing land under cultivation.

The officials were of the opinion that there are considerable areas in Hokaido and Korea which might be opened up and tilled if proper encouragement were offered settlers. It was stated that, while the area of land in Japan and the volume of foodstuffs have been materially increased, the rate of increase has begun to fall off lately and is not keeping pace with the increase of population.

Consequently, additional inducements are to be offered settlers in the districts which are still open to cultivation.

Young Men Outlaws

Idleness Believed to be a Prime Cause For Lawlessness

A surprising and distressing thing is the great number of young men engaged in outlawry. The papers are full of burglaries and hold-ups committed by young men ranging in age from eighteen to twenty-two. There is a way to at least partially stop this disgraceful state of affairs: Enforce the law against vagrancy. The vagrancy law is still on the books everywhere. Wherever a young man is found who has no visible means of support, let him be arrested for vagrancy. If he is not a thief, he is at least imposing cruelly on parents or other relatives. In all the arrests being made for outlawry by young men, not one case has been discovered where the thief had a job; everywhere these crimes are being committed by men who hang around pool halls, soda water counters, or otherwise show the marks of loafers.—E. W. Howe's Monthly.

Insane Woman Brilliant Writer

A woman patient in a London lunatic asylum has written a number of brilliant short stories which will soon be published. They are said to be extremely clever in their human appeal. The asylum authorities say the writer appears perfectly sane while writing fiction, but at other times is hopelessly mad. Her name is to be kept secret.

Mail coaches for the conveyance of letters were first set up at Bristol, England, by John Palmer of Bath, on August 2, 1784. They soon became general. The mails were first sent by steam railway in 1838

Wonderful Features At Leipsic Exhibition

Huge Underground Hall Considered Technical World's Wonder

The coming Leipsic fair, to be held from August 30 to September 9, promises to surpass any previous Leipsic exhibition. It is expected the attendance will be nearly double that of the spring fair, at which there were more than 180,000 business men from all parts of the world, with 14,000 exhibitors from 18 countries.

One of the features of the coming fair will be the huge underground exhibition hall, generally considered a technical world's wonder. Another prominent feature will be the machinery hall, conceded to be the largest exhibition hall in Germany. It occupies an area of 21,000 square meters. The old house for electrotechnics has been materially enlarged by two wings each two stories high. In order to furnish the necessary space for the erection of a number of new exhibition buildings, the municipality of Leipsic has placed a further area of 130,000 square meters at the disposal of the administrators of the fair. This permits sufficient space for the construction of a special freight station.

There is also a plan on foot to have foreign firms display their exhibits in special halls in a "Street of Nations."

The magnitude of the Leipsic fair has made division into two sections necessary. "The General Sample Exhibit" and "The Technical and Constructive Exhibit." The latter exhibition will continue four days longer than the former and will be arranged in 15 halls. The "Sample Exhibition" will be contained in 80 halls and special buildings.

World's Largest Cities

London, New York and Berlin Head the List in Order Named

Though London, with its 7,476,168 and New York with 6,103,384, still lead the cities of the world in point of population, recent estimates show Berlin to be gaining on her rivals. Berlin is now third on the world's list, with a population of 4,114,000—an increase of 310,000 over the previous decade. Paris, with 2,907,000, follows Chicago's 2,995,239, while Buenos Aires, according to late dispatches, now climbs into this group with a census report of 2,310,441.

Tokio, before the earthquake, had nearly reached the quota of south America's largest city; but late figures received from Japan place that city's present population at approximately 1,917,308—a trifle less than Philadelphia's quota, which at the last census stood at 1,979,364.

Other cities in Europe whose populations approximate this latter figure are Vienna with 1,863,729 and Moscow with 1,551,025. The cities of Madrid and Pekin have also shown considerable growth during the past decade, the former now having 1,000,000 persons, according to late census figures and the latter city 1,200,000.

Beaver Strategy

How These Cunning Animals Circumvented Well Laid Plans of Man

Among the most interesting of the smaller mammals, and also typically Canadian, is the beaver, whose intelligence, industry and engineering ability have pointed many a moral and adorned many a tale. The latest story illustrating these qualities is told by A. Derieux in the American Magazine and makes good reading. Incidentally it may strengthen the sentiment that it would be a decided loss to Canadian wild life were these capable "woodmen," builders and strategists permitted to disappear from our forests and rivers.

The beavers of the Bronx Zoo inhabit a beautiful spot with a lake, where they have a dam and a house that they have built themselves. They work in unison; two cut down a tree and drag it to the dam; two others are engaged in actual construction, and one or more; the bricklayers or plasterers, daub the chinks with mud.

Now the space allotted to them at the zoo is large; they occupy a whole valley. The only sign of captivity is the fence that surrounds the lake and the valley; the fence is of iron stakes and is set in a concrete base embedded deep in the ground, so that the animals cannot dig under it. At the end of the lake grows a large oak tree, near which the fence runs. There, because of the roots of the trees, the concrete was not poured very deep; the massive roots seemed sufficient to keep the beavers from going far underground.

How the creatures chose that one weak spot no one knows. It must have taken them weeks to dig their tunnel. Starting at the shore of the lake, they dug to the roots of the tree and then through them, thereby dodging the concrete. The tunnel came up ten feet on the other side of the enclosure.

All of the animals escaped but one, and therein perhaps lies the supreme mystery of the whole incident. Why did they leave him? One thing is certain. By staying behind he concealed the escape of the others. Beavers seldom appear all at once; the keepers would see this one and think the others were nearby. Moreover, he made many tracks in the mud and ate a good deal of the corn which they are fed.

The keepers knew nothing about the escape until reports came in from the botanical gardens, a mile away, that beavers were cutting down valuable trees. Then they discovered that only one beaver was left—and he had been left as a blind.

TIRED OUT ALL THE TIME

Nerves Gave Little Rest

Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Harrowsmith, Ontario.—"I took your medicine before my baby was born and it was a great help to me as I was very poorly until I started to take it. I just felt as though I was tired out all the time and would take weak, fainting spells. My nerves would bother me until I could get little rest, day or night. I was told by a friend to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I only took a few bottles and it helped me wonderfully. I would recommend it to any woman. I am doing what I can to publish this good medicine. I lend that little book you sent me to any one I can help. You can with the greatest of pleasure use my name in regard to the Vegetable Compound if it will serve to help others."—MRS. HARVEY MILLIGAN, R. R. No. 2, Harrowsmith, Ontario.

In a recent canvass of purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over 100,000 replies were received and 98 out of every 100 said they had been helped by its use. This medicine is for sale by all druggists.

Russian Peasants Are Superstitious

Believed Property Was Damaged As Penalty For Sins

An amazing trial illustrating the ignorance and superstition of the Russian peasantry recently was held in the Minsk district. In order to increase the income of the village priest and to strengthen his authority over the local peasantry a group of villager parishioners resolved to frighten the peasantry with the pretence of a "real" devil in the village.

A village boy was dressed up to resemble a devil. During the night he went to the village dwellers to frighten them. He was instructed to carry out secretly slight damages to peasants' property. This went on for several months, and the ignorant peasants took it all in earnest, as a penalty for their sins. They flocked to the church, induced the priest to hold special services and organized common prayers and religious processions.

A special commission had to be sent from the district town to investigate the peasants' troubles, which were brought to an end only by the arrest of the "devil." The priest and the local authorities were placed on trial and sentenced to many years imprisonment.

Indian Potentate Likes Golf

Says Low Score Gives Bigger Thrill Than Shooting Elephants

A rose-turbanned potentate with gold sport shoes is going to chase a little white ball with various sticks on cross-country walks through fairways, jungle rough, desert-like sand traps and velvety greens in Canada and the United States.

The Zammindar of Palayampatti and Paladanathan—take it from the passenger list—came to New York on the Aquitania recently.

"You Americans come to India to shoot tigers in our jungles," he remarked. "I come to America to shoot golf on your courses." He added that there was a bigger thrill in making a lower score on the links than in shooting an elephant.

He is going to Chicago and San Francisco and return to New York by way of Canada on the way home, and on the journey he will play his favorite game as much as he can.

It Testifies, for Itself.—Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil needs no testimonial of its powers other than itself. This shows why this Oil is in general use.

Women Equal Men In Driving Test

In Fact They Slightly Surpass Them Says Automobile Association

Scientists and psychologists have determined after a series of tests that women automobile drivers are just as competent, if not more competent than men, the American Automobile Association announced at Washington.

In two tests women were found more competent. They are, first, the speed with which the driver reacts to danger and takes steps to avert it; second, the consistency with which the driver responds in such a situation.

In the first test, the experts found it took ten college women 56 seconds to react to danger, and men 20 seconds.

In the second test the variability of ten women was only 17 seconds, while that of ten men was 22 seconds.

Canada's New Headquarters

Building in London is Famous Union Club Remodelled

A good deal has been published recently about Canada's new headquarters in London, but, perhaps, many do not know that it is the famous Union Club remodelled. This was the club of the great Duke of Wellington, who overthrew Napoleon.

This transformation of an old clubhouse into the offices of a Dominion Government is a unique event. It is a symbol of the blending of old and new which has widened and strengthened the foundations of the British Commonwealth of Nations. Such a conjunction between the haunts of an old club and the busy quarters of a younger government, with its manifold and teeming activities, stimulates the imagination and presents a happy development.

The word Oregon is said to have come from the term "Oregones," meaning big-eared men.

Trade With Russia

The small value of the recognition of the Soviet Government was shown by figures quoted in the British House of Commons by A. M. Samuel, undersecretary of the board of trade. He said the British exports to Russia in 1924 amounted to $55,000,000, while those of the United States for the same period amounted to more than $47,500,000. The United States has not recognized Russia.

KEEP CHILDREN WELL DURING HOT WEATHER

Every mother knows how fatal the hot summer months are to small children. Cholera infantum, diarrhoea, dysentry, colic and stomach troubles are rife at this time and often a precious little life is lost after only a few hours illness. The mother who keeps Baby's Own Tablets in the house feels safe. The occasional use of the Tablets—prevent stomach and bowel troubles, or if trouble comes suddenly—as it generally does—the Tablets will bring the baby safely through. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Trapping Leases

Trap lines in the fur country are to be registered and the territory over which they run will become the licensed property of the particular trappers to whom the ground may be allotted.

This radical departure in the handling of trapping territory will be officially noted in the new game protection regulations to be announced shortly by the British Columbia Game Board.

Announcement of this is made by Mr. M. B. Jackson, K.C., chairman of the board, who has just returned from an inspection of the central game districts.

He interviewed trappers, farmers and sportsmen. Conferences were held with Col. Rogers, park commissioner at Jasper, regarding game sancturies. Announcement will be later made as to the board's conclusions with regard to game preserves.

"By the registration system for trap lines, which will give trappers exclusive rights in the certain bounds, the fur harvester will be inspired to preserve, rather than deplete, the district where fur-bearing animals are found, said Mr. Jackson. "This will result in saving the breeding animals. Before the white man entered the trapping business, the Indians followed the system of maintaining breeding stock. Under the new regulations, which meet with general approval of trappers, the trap line in reality will become fur farms."

The Late Ari Hopper

Ari Hopper, widely known as "Dad" Hopper died in Grand Forks on July 24th. In referring to the passing of this pioneer the Grand Forks Gazette says:

"General regret was expressed in the city when it became known that Ari Hopper had passed away in the Grand Forks Hospital last Friday evening. Deceased was in his 81st year and had been gradually losing ground for some months and his end was not entirely unexpected.

The late Ari Hopper was born in St Louis, Mis., and was an old-timer in the Boundary, coming to British Columbia 30 years ago, and resided in the Rock Creek district, where his death is regretted by a large circle of friends. For the last two years he resided in Grand Forks.

He is survived by his wife Mrs. Virginia Hopper, three daughters, Mrs. W. M. Powers, Midway; Mrs. Geo. Lord, Rock Creek, and Mrs. J. W. Reid, of Grand Forks, and one son, Calvin Hopper, of Midway., to whom the deepest sympathy of the community is extended in their bereavement.

Funeral services were held in the United Church last Sunday afternoon, and were conducted by the Rev. F. E. Runnalls, following which the cortege proceeded to Evergreen cemetery where interment took place. Many beautiful floral tributes were sent in respect to the memory of the deceased, among these contributing being: Mrs. McEwen and family, Miss J. Clery, Mr. and Mrs. T. K. Needham, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. McPherson, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Graham, Mr. and Mrs. E. Waldron, Mr. and Mr. D. R. Docksteader, Mr. and Mrs. Lord, Mrs. Bubar, Mrs. Powers and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Reed."

"Yes, we will get married some day," and she took off her stockings "We will have the sweetest little bungalow," and she took off her sport sweater. "We will have a lot of little flower beds," and she took off her skirt. "Tom, dear, why can't we be married in the spring when all the world is filled with laughter?" and she took off her camisole. "If you prefer the fall I prefer it too, because we are as one, sweetheart," and she took off her petticoat because she was an old-fashioned girl. "Tom dear, tell me once more that you love me," and she removed the last vestages of her clothing. "Tom, honey, I better say good-night for I have to get up early in the morning." And she hung up the receiver.—Exchange.

Riding in Canadian Rockies: A Growing Summer Diversion

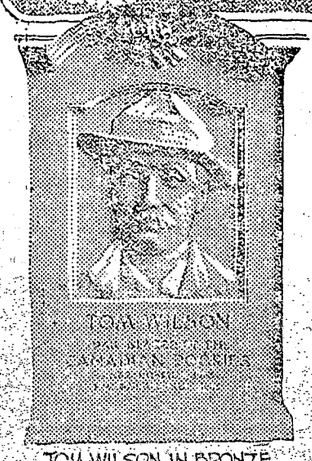
TRAIL RIDERS IN CANADIAN ROCKIES



TOM WILSON IN BRONZE

Lake O'Hara will be the scene of three events this summer. The organizations that will meet in this wild, romantic spot in the Canadian Rockies are: Mountaineering Club of British Columbia; Alpine Club of Canada's annual camp from July 27 to August 8, inclusive; and the Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies on August 9th.

The special expedition to climb Mt. Logan, the highest peak in the Canadian Rockies, headed by Capt. Albert H. MacCarthy, will return in time to report to the Alpine Club.

Lake O'Hara has been painted by the late John Singer Sargent and by Carl Rungius and Richard M. Kimbel, the two latter are New York artists and members of the artist colony that summers at Banff. Lake O'Hara threatens to rival Lake Louise whose close neighbor it is.

The Alpine Club's main objective this year is to climb Mt. Goodsir, the highest peak visible from the Canadian Pacific Railway, and the ascent will be made from a sub-camp.

Last year's initial Pow-Wow of the Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies was held in Yoho Valley near Field, B. C. Two days of trail riding and social gathering in a big lodge in the evenings were enjoyed by more than 200 members and novices, the latter qualifying for membership, one of the requirements of which is to have ridden fifty miles over Canadian Rockies' trail. Dr. Charles D. Walcott of the Smithsonian Institution at Washington, D. C., is the honorary president of the Trail Riders' order.

Several hundred trail riders are expected to take part in this year's meeting, which will be held Aug. 8-10 inclusive. The start will be from Banff and Lake Louise by motor to Marble Canyon where the horses and guides will be in waiting for the three days' ride. Program is as follows: first night, tent camp on Goodsir Plateau, 6,500 feet above the valley; second night, tent camp on the shore of Lake O'Hara, rivalling Lake Louise in beauty, but of a wilder type; third night, Tipi Camp beside Lake Wapta and Pow-Wow held in Sun Dance Lodge. There will be a sing-song each night in camp.

Riders must bring either a sleeping-bag or two warm blankets. A change of underwear and warm coat or mackinaw for the hours around the camp fire, is all the equipment that is necessary. No grips will be accepted. One pack horse for each three riders. A word of caution, unless one is prepared to rough it he should not ride; but if one delights in the feel of a saddle and pony, he, or she, may be a Trail Rider.

The Rocky Mountains Guides' Association, an organization of all the guides in this territory, with headquarters at Banff, is looking after the arrangements for horses and guides.
