Ainsworth-Slocan Mines

S. Cavanaugh has secured a renewal of his lease on the Silver Cup.

Much prospecting and development work is in progress around Ferguson.

It is rumored around town that upwards of a hundred men will be put to work at the Lucky Jim shortly.

Ewing White has taken R. E. McMillan and Arthur Gould up to the Lady Franklin group on Lemon creek, above Slocan City and expects to do extensive development during the summer.

By the latter part of last week the ore body developed on the Black Grouse claim, north fork of Carpenter, is said to have attained between two and a half and three feet in width. This property is under lease and bond to Barner and Hughes. Assays gave returns of about 200 ounces. The ore is of a "dry" variety.

The improvements and changes in and around the Ruth concentrator, at Sandon, are nearing completion and the management expects that the tramway to the No. 5 level of the Hope mine will be ready to handle ore by about the middle of the present month. The mill may be expected to begin operations about the fifteenth.

George Chew, a mining man from Spokane, interested in the Silver Hoard mine at Ainsworth, was in Rossland recently watching the results from a car of ore from the Hoard which was sent to the Le Roi mill for testing. He was apparently satisfied that a good separation could be made and indicated that the installation of a small concentrator at the Ainsworth property would take place in the near future.

C. F. Caldwell, manager of the Utica mine, returned Saturday from a trip to the east and while away succeeded in making a temporary arrangement with the smelting company at Blende whereby that concern will take double the quantity of Utica Zinc ores hitherto shipped, thus making it possible to send down somewhere in the neighborhood of two cars of zinc-silver ore per month. He also learned while away that the Lucky Jim trustee, A. G. Larson, has secured a contract for the disposal of five or six hundred tons per month of the Jim ore.

Great activity in the building line prevails around the Cork-Province, the mine sawmill, under the capable direction of A. F. Billings being very busily engaged in turning out all kinds of lumber for building construction purposes. A stable erected and an addition made to the present cook houses and bunkhouse, giving more dining room accomodation, and providing a comfortable sized engineering office up stairs. A wash house and bath house is under construction and an eighty-foot bunkhouse is planned. A set of big scales, capable of weighing the wagons, as they come loaded from the concentrator, is also being put in.—Kaslo Kootenaian.

A man was recently seen in Sandon, who had never seen a table with a hole in the centre. He should take a look at Fred Holten's museum.

The rivers along the north fork of the Fraser are being renamed after heroes who fell in the war. The new names are Nation, McGregor and Bell-Irving.

Dealers in Vancouver have received orders from Australia for 10,000 crates of potatoes. Dry weathsr has made food scarce in the land of the Southern Cross.

D. R. Young died last month in Port Angeles, Wash., from heart failure. He was well-known in Slocan City and other B. C. towns. He was an optimist of high degree.

Al Smith and Walter Waddell, of Keremeos, were recently sent to Kamloops for six months and nine months. The people of Keremeos think that this is a very light sentence for cattle thieves.

To show its patriotism, The Islander at Cumberland recently printed a red, white and blue edition. The picture of a Serbian trench on the front page would terrify any sober German.

J. M. Harris arrived April 7th, 1892, at the spot now known as Sandon. He is king af that city, and keeps himself busy mining, keeping hotel, making garden, and training his two fine dags to catch coyotes.

The editor of the Hope Review recently drank two glasses of hard cider. It put him to sleep and he dreamed that 200 people paid their subs to his paper in one day. When he awakened and found it a dream he resolved to only drink rye in the future.

In New Denver, Jim Grier has a new dog. The dog will soon be big enough to keep the preachers and politicians away from the print shop in daytime, and the horses at night. The dog will be baptised in time, and his name will be Paul, or My Chum.

In New Denver, Charley Aylwin milks the cows in the morning, feeds the chickens and then walks four miles to Silverton, where he has the contract for loading barges at the Standard mill. In the evening he walks home, does his chores, says his prayers, and goes to bed.

It was reported this summer that a $40,000 gold nugget, had been found in the Engineer mine at Atlin. This was not so. The story was started through the finding of a pocket of small nuggets on the vein. Such finds are common in Atlin, and create no excitement in that camp.

The Big Tunnel

Last week Wm Patterson, of Chicago was in the city. He is the secretary of the Greenwood-Phoenix Tramway Co. This is the company that began the driving of a big tunnel from Greenwood to Phoenix a distance of three miles. Work was suspended some years ago after the tunnel had been driven over 3,000 feet. The company will hold a meeting in Chicago about the 1st of September to arrange plans for the immediate resumption of operations upon this great enterprise. At first only one shift will be employed. The big tunnel is a favorite speculation with the Chicago men, and they say that it is a crime not to reach the contact. The resumption of operations at this tunnel means a great deal to the Boundary district and the entire province.

Piping Times

Bob Cunning and A. McDonald of Sandon spent Monday in town. Bob has sent to the old sod for a set of Irish pipes. He believes there are greater possibilities of melody in the Irish than the Scotch pipes, while Mr. McDonald holds the opposite view. When the musical duel starts many of the residents of Sandon will take their summer holidays on the lake.—Slocan Record.

Card of Thanks

Mr. and Mrs. R. Lum wish to express their thanks for the kindness shown them in their late bereavement, by their many kind friends.

The Bostonian's Bull

A Boston mam was on his way West on important business. In the opposite section of the Pullman sat a sweet-faced, tired appearing woman with four small children, and feeling sorry for the mother, the Bostonian soon made friends with kiddies.

Early the next morning he heard their eager questions and the patient "Yes, dear," of the mother, as she tried to dress them; and, looking out, he saw a small, white foot protruding beyond the opposite curtain. Reaching across the aisle, he took hold of the large toe and began to recite:

"This little pig went to market; this little pig stayed at home; this little pig had roast beef; this little pig had none; this little pig cried, 'Wee! wee!' all the way home."

The foot was suddenly withdrawn, and a cold, quiet voice—that of the mother—said, "That is quite sufficient, thank you."—Harper's Magazine.

Alexander was before Tyre.

"To succeed," counselled the generals, we must invest the city."

Aleck frowned.

"To make our revenge keener, why not compel the citizens to do the investing; let us be the promoters," he answered.

THE PULL EVIL

THERE is too much political pull in the Canadian army. Many men through a pull are holding positions as officers who are unfitted by nature or training to rule or command, even a corporal's guard. Officers should be appointed through merit, and not because their rich relatives or political dads have a pull with the upper powers. We hear many complaints about the way the Vernon camp is conducted, and if they are true we certainly need more brains to rule and guide our common soldiers. Speaking on this subject the Rossland Miner says:

"The scandalous truth of it must be told,,is that there is too much politics contained in the brew of Canada's military activity. Without qualifications we see men because of their political pull, appointed to responsible positions, where their presence at a critical time, may, from their very inexperience, seriously endanger the men under them.

The instance of a young man from Rossland who recently obtained a responsible military position through political influence, is fresh in the minds of residents. If it is necessary to mention other instances, we have only to cast our eye over the roster of the 54th Battalion and note there the name of an officer who personally may be a very nice fellow, but who is absolutely unqualified to act in the capacity of paymaster.

Lord Northcliffe, while extreme in many ways, has laid his finger upon a very sore spot on the naked body of our empire when he asks if Britain is going to be content to muddle through the present war with these antagonistic influences of individual and political greed, sapping the strength from our virile army.

Are we content to muddle along? Let us ask ourselves the question. Are we satisfied to trust the care of these brother and sister Canadians to the tender mercies of a few rapacious wolves?

Inquire if the dependents of those who have fallen have received their government pittances. Discover if the wives of the men at the front are ceing cared for. Do not let our hate for Germany blind us to internal conditions that must be rectified before we can concentrate our best energies and strength against the enemy.

Canada is too big and wide and free a country to stand for these things, these petty crimes against patriotism that may prove so vital to the lives of brave men. We, as honest and honorable men, cannot countenance them and, irrespective of party, Conservative, Liberal, Socialist or Labor advocates, we must devote our energies to a policy of co-operation unpolluted by politics, and which is tempered only with the desire to aid Britain's righteous and just ideals and principles."

THESE days it is zinc or swim in the Slocan.

MANY editors and speakers who are not pro-German, murder the English.

IT looks to us, as though it takes more than a full house to see the Dardanelles.

TROUBLES never come singly. Not a hen has laid a fresh egg in our backyard this summer.

AT last the germs and Germans have got Warsaw. We pity the children and women of that large city.

IN Canada this year many people will not wear German sox, while not a person is to be found, who is willing to take German measles, even as a gift.

IN May, 1914, the United States imported $20,000,000 worth of goods from Germany, and in May, 1915, only $400 worth. The British embargo has been successful.

THE Chesaw News has moved to Orient. Its editor will have to keep moving if he expects to make his paper pay. In small towns when the novelty of having a newspaper wears off, it is time for the editor to move, while the soles of his boots are intact, and the walls of his stomach do not have to brace each other in search of nourishment.

More Money Wanted

The following letter has been sent to the editor of The Ledge by the Canadian Red Cross Society of Vancouver:

"DEAR SIR—May we enlist your assistance in a Provincial-wide movement to provide the Fifth Army Medical Corps with surgical and ambulance equipment in addition to that provided by the Dominion Government. This equipment will be used for the purpose of saving the lives of British Columbia soldiers. The principal item to be provided will be special surgical instruments, X-ray apparatus and powerful motor ambulances; the latter to convey the wounded soldier from the battle line to the hospital in the quickest possible manner, and the former to enable the surgeons in charge to quickly and painlessly determine the extent and nature of his injuries, to locate bullets and shell splinters definitely; thus enabling their extraction with a minimum loss of time and the least amount of suffering to the soldier.

Many lives have already been sacrificed because such apparatus was either lacking or inadequate in amount to enable all the wounded to receive its benefits. Many more of our boys will fail to return unless such equipment is provided.

While the enthusiasm for furnishing machine guns is at fever heat it must not be forgotten that the saving of our own soldiers is just as important as the destruction of the enemies troops.

It is estimated that at least $25,000, will be required to meet the exigencies of the case, and the B. C. branches of the Red Cross Society and the St. John Ambulance Association have combined their forces to direct and stimulate the raising of this amount. All other patriotic organizations of the province will join hands with us. Without the co-operation of the press throughout the province the campaign cannot meet with the success which its importance deserves.

We realize the powerful influence that the papers exert, and appeal to your patriotism to lend your columns in support of the cause, which is provincial wide in extent. In towns and cities where Red Cross or St. John Ambulance branches have been established the treasurers of these societies will be the natural custodians of funds collected until they are forwarded to the central fund in Vancouver. Where there is no branch of either society we would request you to co-operate with the Mayor or Reeve (as the case may be) with respect to the funds while the campaign is in progress."

Suggestions for Sleep

The bedroom should be well ventilated, a window being kept open all night, if that can be managed without a draft playing upon the sleeper. Where there is a chance of drafts ventilation may be safely accomplished by inserting a board six inches broad so as to raise the lower sash and fill the gap completely. Air then enters between the sashes in an upward direction and becomes diffused in a harmless fashion.

About his bed-bedclothes and pillow the sufferer from insomnia must not dogmatize, but try experiments. Sometimes an extra high pillow does the trick. The covering should not be excessive, but the feet must be kept warm—by an eiderdown across them, a hot bottle or bed socks—since chilly extremities are fatal to sleep. The same latitude must be allowed in regard to supper. Sometimes no supper is best, sometimes a light supper rather more than an hour before retiring, sometimes a glass of hot milk or hot gruel when one is actually in bed.

A short, smart walk before bedtime enables many folks to slip into dreamland. For others a hot footbath is better. Still more obstinate cases will yield to the soothing effect of a complete hot bath, with or without some mustard.

A Lincoln Letter

No man in history stands out as possessing a more humane heart or a greater command of sympathetic expression than Abraham Lincoln, the Liberator. It may not be amiss to recall a letter which he once wrote to a mother who had lost five sons in the American Civil War, and which has long since taken its place with the classics. This is the letter:

"I have been shown on the file of the War Department a statement of the Adjutant-General of Massachusetts, that you are the mother of five sons who had died gloriously on the field of battle. I feel how weak and fruitless must be any word of mine which would begile you from the grief of a loss so over-whelming, but I cannot refrain from tendering to you the consolation that may be found in the thanks of the Republic they died to save.

"I pray that our Heavenly Father may assuage the anguish of your bereavement and leave only the cherished memory of the loved and lost, and the solemn pride that must have laid so costly a sacrifice upon the altar of freedom."

Fishing Advice

The first consideration is bait; it is also the last.

Take plenty of flies; mosquitos, gnats, etc., to be found on the ground.

Even the fish have become weary listening to the frazzled phrase, "Line's busy!"

It is no longer fashionable to say "the biggest fish got away." Say "He struck out."

Always bear in mind that scales won't lie, but what has scales to do with fishermen?"

It is no longer considered the thing to fish on rainy days. A man wet without and wet within will soon become waterlogged.

The friend who can row a boat well, and who likes to do it, is the one most desirable to invite to your camp for a week's fishing.

For ladies who love to fish, the following rules of dress may be observed: if going after blackfish, were black; bluefish were blue; whitefish, wear white. If lobstering, wear bathing suit, any color.

It's the easiest thing in the world for a bachelor to get engaged to a young widow; all he has to do is to give her half a show.

Impromptu

"Most people spend so much time in getting a living that they have no time to live."

One of the magazines prints these words in large type in the centre of the page. The statement is not only terse and striking, but wonderfully true. It is a common mistake to lose the end in the means that lead up to it. Life is always more than meat and warmth than raiment. It is said that when men become so busy in making a living that they are disqualified for living.

Life is a struggle from birth to death. Especially is this true if a person seeks to do right. The man who acts conscientiously will be sure to run up against the one who represents craft and graft. The man who fights the drink traffic will not be likely to receive boquets from the holder of a saloon license. In view of this it is necessary that good men should assume an attitude of actual stoicism toward the criticisms and thrusts of evil men. A little mud thrown will not hurt anyone as long as it dosen't stick to us. A righteously aggressive man needs to be as good an anvil as he is a hammer.

Morning Ablutions

"Cyril," said his mother, as they sat down to the breakfast table, "did you wash your face this morning?"

"Well, no, mamma," said he, slowly, evidently casting in his mind for an excuse, "but," he added, reassuringly, "I cried a little before I came downstairs."—Delinator.

Synopsis of Coal Mining Regulations.

COAL mining rights of the Dominion in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the Yukon Territory, the Northwest Territories and in a portion of British Columbia, may be leased for a term of twenty-one years at an annual rental of $1 an acre. Not more than 2,560 acres will be leased to one applicant.

Application for a lease must be made by the applicant in person to the Agent or Sub-Agent of the district inwhich the rights applied for are situated.

In surveyed territory the land must be described by sections, or legal sub-divisions of sections, and in unsurveyed territory the tract applied for shall be staked out by the applicant himself.

Each application must be accompanied by a fee of $5 which will be refunded if the rights applied for are not available but not otherwise. A royalty shall be paid on the merchantable output of the mine at the rate of five cents per ton.

The person operating the mine shall furnish the Agent with sworn returns accounting for the full quantity of merchantable coal mined and pay the royalty thereon: If the coal mining rights are not being operated, such returns should be furnished at least once a year.

The lease will include the coal mining rights only, but the lessee may be permitted to purchase whatever available surface rights may be considered necessary for the working of the mine at the rate of $10.00 an acre.

For full information application should be made to the Secretary of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, or to any Agent or Sub-Agent of Dominion Lands.

W. W. CORY,

About Float.

Float is not a periodical. It is a book containing 86 illustrations all told, and is filled with sketches and stories of western life. It tells how a gambler cashed in after the flush days of Sandon; how it rained in New Denver long after Noah was dead; how a parson took a drink at Bear Lake in early days; how justice was dealt in Kaslo in '93; how the saloon man outprayed the women in Kalamazoo, and graphically depicts the roamings of a western editor among the tenderfeet in the cent belt. It contains the early history of Nelson and a romance of the Silver King mine. In it are printed three western poems, and dozens of articles too numerous to mention. Send for one before it is too late. The price is 25 cents, postpaid to any part of the world. Address all letters to
