The proceeds will provide a school library and additional sports and a portion will be donated to the Canadian Patriotic Fund.

Out Off His Own Leg

Describing an action in which he lost his leg, a sergeant of the Rifle Brigade says:

"I was just getting up and turning round to take my platoon to the left, when smack went my leg—and didn't I jump!

"It did not blow my leg clean off, it was hanging by a thick piece of flesh, sinews and skin, so I hopped a few yards down the hill under cover, and sat behind some straw, and cut my leg off with a pen knife.

"The shells were still flying round, and one came pretty close to me. I thought my time had come. I lay there for over an hour until I was carried to safety by a sergeant of artillery, and I came across some of my men, who carried me to a cave and put me on a stretcher.

"I might mention I had a piece of string round my leg to stop it from bleeding, which saved my life. I was not sorry when I arrived here and saw the nice white sheets. It was like coming out of hell into Heaven."

Sam Larsen of Rock Creek received a telegram from Ottawa, that Wm. Jones, formerly of Rock Creek was admitted to No. 1, Canadian Hospital, France as having received a gun shot wound in left leg. Wm. Jones enlisted with the 102nd and served in the same Company with Sergeant Cave, who was killed, November 11th.

A Gallant Priest

A bombing party of eight had gone out in the night. They did not return. When morning came the regiment pictured their comrades lying wounded and dying in the mud and the decaying corn. If they could only know for certain what had happened, it would be a relief of a sort. But how to know?

It was broad daylight; the German snipers were in position; even to put ones head over the parapet meant death. Suddenly a Catholic chaplain attached to the regiment, came up to the firing line and asked to be allowed to go out in front and try to find the bodies.

After some hesitation, his request was granted. Wearing his surplice and with the crucifix in his hand, the priest advanced down one of the gaps and climbed out into the open. With their eyes fixed to periscope, the British watched him anxiously as he proceeded slowly towards the German lines. Not a shot was fired by the enemy. After a while the chaplain was seen to stop and bend down near the German wire entanglements. He knelt in prayer. Then with the same calm step he returned to his own lines. He had four identity discs in hand, and reported that the Germans had held up four khaki caps on their rifles, indicating that the other four were prisoners in their hands.

Fighters Who See No Battle

During a sea fight the engine room men tend the great engines of a battleship with all the care that they would bestow upon the same delicate yet mighty mechanism in time of peace, roaming listlessly, yet with a definite purpose, around the engine room with oil cans in hand bestowing drops of lubricant here and there as required. Theirs and the stokers' is almost—not quite—the hardest part of the whole grim drama of a naval battle, for they are absolutely cut off from the fight, and are only cognizant of it by the quivering of their ship as the great turrets over their heads fire or as the enemy's shells thud against the armor or when some stray shots finds its way through the steel wall and the bunkers to the boilers. Such an event blends a whole stokehold in one frenzied orgy of death—death by exploding shell and scattering fragments of steel; death by awful wounds from flying, burning coals, or death by scalding, hissing, blinding steam as the water tubes burst all around them.—Tit-Bits.

It seems incredible now that a president, held in such sacred memory today as is Lincoln, could have been, while in office, so criticized, denounced, and reviled as he was, and that by men whose sincerity and integrity were beyond question. The heart of the people, however, in his own time was with him, and the heart of the people generally is right.

B. C. Mines

The Standard at Silverton has reduced its force.

Coke ovens may be built at Merritt in the spring.

Owing to a lack of water the Ruth mill at Sandon has shut down.

For needed repairs the Napoleon at Boyds, is closed down temporarily.

Near Prince Rupert, on Porcher Island, work will soon begin upon a gold prospect.

The high price of silver should have a tendency to re-open the dead mines around Greenwood.

The Republic Journal says, that it is reported that the B. C. Copper Co. will take over and operate the Belcher mine.

Pat Perkins and partners of Kaslo, have bonded the Patricia and Pat claims near Nelson, to Sandpoint men for $15,000.

In the Okanagan at Garnett valley, galena has been found. Four claims have been staked and some work will be done. The ore so far assayed runs about $10 in silver, and $4 in lead.

Canada Copper's Greenwood, (B. C) smelter is making handsome profits at present copper prices. The output from the single furnace for the first three months of 1916 is about 325,000 pounds monthly. In April this was increased to about 500,000 pounds per month. This gives the company a total production of over 4,000,000 pounds this year. On the basis of the present price of copper at around 35 cents, and a working cost of 15 cents, this production would now indicate earnings at the rate of $800,000 per annum, equivalent to over 80 cents a share on the 900,000 shares of a par value of $5 outstanding, or about 37 per cent on the week's closing quotation. The management believes that when the entire property is whipped into shape the yearly production will be approximately 20,000,000 pounds, with an average production cost of around 9½ cents.—Mining Age.

Condemns Card Playing

A report that a certain prominent church is to relax its decipline so far as to countenance dancing and card playing among its parishoners calls forth in the current number of the New York Medical Journal an editorial on card playing, in which the pastime is denounced as a "pure and simple mental dissipation which grows up on the victim like all other dissipations, to the eventual exclusion of logical and close thinking."

The writer of the editorial expresses hearty approval of dancing as "an art, perfection in which requires study and practice and leads to a healthy fatigue which prevents excess," but he hopes that "any religious body which has the power will continue to enforce a regulation evidently based years ago upon observation of the stupefying effects of card playing, effects which are identical with those of playing the races, a pastime which finally incurred extinction at the hands of none too squeamish Legislature."

Card playing may be "a valuable distraction for the elderly," the writer grants, but once a week only, and upon others, young people in particular, who indulge in it oftener, he declares, "it exercises narcotizing influence with irrestistible force." He says further:

"The legend which attributes the invention of playing cards to the necessity for amusing a mad king of France possesses verisimilitude. Appealing primarily to the unbalanced mind that soon reduce that of a better quality to the same level. They are comparable in every way to the habit forming drugs and lead surely to the neglect of every sane and healthy amusement, to say nothing of business and professional duties.

"Skill counts for only three per cent. in even the most scientific of card games, much less in the popular gambling forms."

BAD STOMACH TROUBLE

Yields to Delicious Vinol

Shreveport, La.—"I had a bad stomach trouble for years and became so weak I could hardly walk or do any work. My appetite was poor, my food would not digest, I bloated and was very weak and nervous. I tried many remedies without help. I saw Vinol advertised and tried it, and now my stomach trouble is completely cured and I am well."—E. L. Marshall.

Vinol is guaranteed to tone up the tired, over-taxed and weakened nerves of the stomach and create strength.

J. L. WHITE, Druggist, Greenwood, Also at the best druggist in all British Columbia towns.

"Thou Shalt Not Covet"

The millennium will never come until men cease trying to compel all other men to live after one pattern. Most people are anxious to do what is best for themselves and least harmful to others. The average man has intelligence enough. If the self appointed folk who rule us—for a consideration — would only be willing to do unto others as they would be done by, that is to say, mind their own business and cease coveting things that belong to other people—if they would do this, Utopia would arrive. War among nations and strife among individuals in community life is a result of the covetous spirit to possess.

Hubbard once wrote: "A little more patience, a little more charity for all, a little more love; with less bowing down to the past, and the silent ignoring of pretended authority; a brave looking forward to the future, with more self-confidence and more faith in our fellow men, and the race will be ripe for a great burst of life and light."—Enderby Press.

To Be An Editor

Most any one can be an editor. All an editor has to do is to sit at a desk six days out of the week, four weeks of the month, and twelve months of the year, and "edit" such stuff as this:

"Mrs. Jones of Cactus Creek, let a can opener slip last week and cut herself in the pantry."

"A mischievous lad of Piketown threw a stone and hit Mrs. Pike in the alley last Thursday."

"John Doe climbed on the roof of his house last week and fell, striking himself on the porch."

"While Harold Green was escorting Miss Violet Wise from the church social last Saturday night, a savage dog attacked and bit Mr. Green on the public square."

"Isaiah Thimmer, of Running Creek was playing with a cat last Friday, when it scratched him on the verandah."—Selected.

Government By The People

The first attempt of government by the people begun in America was in 1619, when Sir George Yeardley was sent from England as governor of the Jamestown colony. His charter provided that he should call a few chosen men, two from each of the 11 boroughs that constituted the colony. The meeting, which was known as the assembly, was held at the church, with the governor and his council presiding. Those who came from the boroughs were called burgesses. and the assembly, which met every year, was styled the house of burgesses. At this period this was the only English colony in America.

Synopsis of Coal Mining Regulations.

COAL mining rights of the Dominion in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the Yukon Territory, the Northwest Territories and in a portion of British Columbia, may be leased for a term of wentty-one years renewal for a further term of 21 years at an annual rental of $1 an acre. Not more than 2,560 acres will be leased to one applicant.

Application for a lease must be made by the applicant in person to the Agent or Sub-Agent of the district in which the rights applied for are situated.

In surveyed territory the land must be described by sections, or legal sub-divisions of sections, and in unsurveyed territory the tract applied for shall be staked out by the applicant himself.

Each application must be accompanied by a fee of $5 which will be refunded if the rights applied for are not available but not otherwise. A royalty shall be paid on the merchantable output of the mine at the rate of five cents per ton.

The person operating the mine shall furnish the Agent with sworn returns accounting for the full quantity of merchantable coal mined and pay the royalty thereon: If the coal mining rights are not being operated, such returns should be furnished at least once a year.

The lease will include the coal mining rights only, rescinded by Chap 27 of 4-5 George V. assented to 12th June, 1914.

For full information application should be made to the Secretary of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, or to any Agent or Sub-Agent of Dominion Lands.
