Alexander Robinson, president and manager of the Deer Trail Mining Co., and H. R. Moss, of the California Extraction Co., were in camp a couple of days, leaving Saturday morning for the Spokane Mining Congress. Mr. Robertson is not a stranger here, having visited Chesaw about a year ago and holds a lease on the Review group, north of town. Mr. Moss is an expert in reduction and extraction processes, and the visit of the gentlemen to Chesaw to look over the Review has a very significant tinge, in the opinion of the casual observer. They took out a considerable quantity of samples with them and we anxiously await developments. At present Mr. Robertson is opening up a silver-lead property, the Deer Trail, in Cedar Canyon, near Turk, in lower Stevens county, and is installing 100-ton mill. It is in this capacity that Mr. Moss is with Mr. Robinson, and he believes that they are putting in a plant that will save 95 per cent of the low grade values by cyaniding and concentration. Mr. Moss says approximately 65 per cent of the silver values will be recovered by straight cyaniding.—Chesaw News.

Another Hero Dog

Toots, a fox terrier, once saved a passenger train on the Lackawana Railroad from being wrecked near Bloomfield, N. J.

The crossing-tender, in addition to raising and lowering the gates, was required to attend to the switch, there being only a single track from Bloomfield to Montclair. On the day in question a westbound train was approaching and the gateman dropped his red flag and ran to throw a switch. At the same time an eastbound passenger train was rounding the curve and coming down grade towards the crossing.

Toots who had spent much time around the flag shanty and who was familiar with the duties, seized the flag in his teeth and ran up the track. The engineer saw the danger signal and stopped his train just in time to prevent a collision.

Toots died recently at the advanced age of fifteen and was buried with honors.

Today's Oddest Story

Dalls, Tex.—Otto H. Lang, street commissioner, when asked by a young man in his department for a raise, told him he didn't deserve a raise because he did not do any work at all during the year. Lang proved his assertion like this: Each year has 365 days. You sleep eight hours each day, which equals 122 days. This leaves 243 days. You rest eight hours each day, which equals 122 days. This leaves 121 days. There are fifty-two Sundays that you do not work or 52 days. This leaves 43 days. You have one and a half hours each day for lunch, or 28 days. You get two weeks' vacation each year or 14 days. This leaves one day, and this being the Fourth of July we close on that day, so you've done no work at all.

Death usually occurs as a result of failure of heart, failure of respiration, weakness, failure of the pneumogastric nerve or shock. Almost always the nerve centres in the upper part of the spinal cord are the controlling factors rather than the organs themselves. In general, the process of death begins at the outer surface of the nervous system and ends at the centre, and so the symptoms of approaching death are generally first observed at the outer surface and later can be traced to the centre. Smell is the first sense to go; then follows taste and sight, and hearing last.
