He Didn't Travel

The reform warden always made it a point to give each new arrival a chance to do the work with which he was familiar, if the penitentiary dealt in his line. A tailor arrived, and it was ordered that he be employed at that trade, if he was an opening. There wasn't. He was asked if he was adept at anything else. "Yes," he replied, with a smile, "I'm a crackerjack traveling salesman."

"The Secret of the Submarine" is the attraction for Monday. This serial is one of the best that has ever been shown in this city; Wednesday, Famous Player's night; Friday, The Girl From Frisco, while on Saturday evening a good general program will be shown.

Well-Known Citizen Dies

Owen Boyer, died at his residence on Copper street, Saturday afternoon, March 31st, after a long illness brought on by an auto accident, which happened about two years ago.

The late Mr. Boyer was born in Buckingham, Quebec, in the year 1868. He had lived 25 years in the West, locating in Idaho, from there going to Ymir and later to Greenwood, where he spent the last 11 years of his life. The deceased was very well known, having been proprietor of the National Hotel.

Mrs. Boyer and two children, and the late Mr. Boyer's brothers, and other relatives have the sympathy of the entire community in their sad bereavement.

The funeral service was held in the Catholic Church. Father Pelletier of Grand Forks, officiating. There was a large attendance. Interment taking place in Greenwood Cemetery.

Pte. Dave J. McAlman

Pte. D. J. McAlman who went overseas with the second Canadian contingent, came in on Sunday's train and left the next day for Nelson, after spending two weeks at Esquimalt, following his return from England, and 14 months' service in France, where he was wounded March 6, 1916.

Pte. McAlman was at Festubert and Ypres salient where he received wounds which put him out of action. One year was spent by him in hospitals at Boulogne; Leicester, Bearwood and Reading, Berkshire, England. He appears to be in good health, but is still under the care of the medical board and will return to Esquimalt for further observation and treatment at the close of his ten days' leave of absence.

The Golden Star says a number of cattle, chiefly milch cows have died the past week or so at Atholmer and surrounding district, from a very mysterious complaint, and it is feared that a poisoner may be getting in dastardly work. The symptoms are said to resemble those of lead poisoning, and the only other reasonable explanation is that the animals may have been eating or licking the debris from the lead ore that is being shipped from Atholmer to Trail.

Citizens Make Presentation

During the moving picture show in the Star Theatre, Friday evening last, a presentation was made to Pte. Schenck. The presentation was made by Wm. C. Arthurs who said in part:

"Most of you know that we have chosen this evening to pay public tribute to one of our boys, who has returned from the Front. I refer to Private Clifford Schenck, as you all know is one of our own Greenwood boys. He enlisted in October, 1914, shortly afterwards going overseas. He served through a lot of heavy fighting in France and Flanders, and was wounded twice, once at Ypres and again at Courcellette. It was at Courcellette he received the wound which caused him to be invalided home, through going to the assistance of one of his chums. We were all very disappointed not to know he was coming, so that we could have given him a public reception on his arrival. However we are taking advantage of the present public gathering, to present him with a watch and fob, from the Citizens of Greenwood as a slight token of our appreciation of his services to us and the Empire."

The following will be engraved on the watch: To Pte. Clifford Schenck, from the Citizens of Greenwood, in appreciation of his services to the Empire, March 30th, 1917; and that of the fob: The two engagements where he received his wounds, Ypres and Courcellette.

Pte. Schenck wishes through the medium of The Ledge, to tender his heartfelt appreciation to the Citizens of Greenwood on their recognition of his efforts.
