His mother sent him two boxes of food, but there is little chance that he will receive it. Prisoners will be the first to starve in Germany.

A very pleasant surprise was tendered Mrs. Guy Wright on Wednesday evening the 17th, when about 30 of her friends presented themselves at her home. Mrs. Wright was taken completely by surprise, but quickly rose to the occasion, and gave every one a hearty welcome, The evening was spent in music, dancing and games until midnight when a bountiful lunch was served, after which the guests voted surprise party's the best ever and Mrs. Wright an ideal hostess.

A surprise party of about fifty people entered the home of Mrs. G. A. Smith on Friday evening last, and everyone with the spirit of good time, therefore, needless to say, the event was a great success. The evening was spent at different games: "Pinning the Donkey's Tail," "Five Hundred" and "Fortune Telling," the latter bringing roars of laughter. The ladies first prize for pinning the donkey's tail was awarded to Mrs. Moll, and the gentlemen's to Sutherland Smith. The refreshments were worthy of special mention, not only being dainty but most delicious. 'Tis said that another "Surprise Party" entered the kitchen and helped themselves to a few cakes, etc., but, "may their shadows never grow less," such an abundance being brought there, it was never missed. At the close of the evening, Mrs. Guy Wright presented Mrs. Smith with a beautiful hand-painted celery dish, on behalf of her many friends as a token of remembrance before her departure for Grand Forks. Mrs. Smith, in a few well chosen words expressed her gratitude to each and every one. Before leaving, the crowd gave three cheers and a tiger to Mr. and Mrs. Smith and family, with all good wishes in their new sphere.

A very successful wind up to the bonspiel was a smoker given to the visitors at the Greenwood Club.

ROCK CREEK

On Sunday the 14th February, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Martin celebrated the fifteeth anniversary of their marriage. Quite a number of their friends gathered at their home to offer congratulations and many beautiful presents appropriate for the occasion were received, showing the high esteem in whice they aae held by their Rock Creek friends.

A recherche lunch was served by Mrs. Martin, assisted by her daughter, Mrs. J. Lindsay, the table being beautifully decorated with gold after which with music and toasts a very pleasant afternoon was spent. Mr. Martin in his usual affable manner thanked his friends on behalf of Mrs. Martin and himself for this kind remembrance of them. Mr. McLennan replied thanking Mr. Martin and family for the very kind reception received and hoping that all present would again meet with Mr. and Mrs. Martin on their diamond wedding.

On Monday the 15th Mr. and Mrs. Hatton entertained in honor of Mr. and Mr. Martin, covers being laid for twenty and the table decorations were again carried out in gold. The guests were, including Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Martin, Mr. Harry Martin, Mr. and Mrs. James Lindsay, Mr. and Mrs J. S. Shaver, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. McLennan, Mr. and Mrs. Beam Gane, Mrs. Gane, Miss Gane, Mrs. McLean, Mr. Charlie Hamilton, Mr. Yonkins, Mr. Relletin, Mr. Thorton and Mr. Eddie Rush. A sumptuous repast was served and many good wishes were received by the guests of honor. Mrs. Lindsay and Miss Gane assisted by Mr. Gane and Mr. Thorton rendered several songs which were much appreciated. Games were also indulged in, one guessing game in which Mr. Relletin was taken in as a German prisoner guarded by an Englishman with gun in hand followed by two Scotchman with drawn swords caused quite an amusement but in a serious manner the Germans part was not enviable as two Red Cross nurses took up the rear. The guests departed late in the evening all of the opinion that Mr. and Mrs. Hatton were jolly good fellows.

Mr. Harry Martin only son of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Martin, who came from South Dakota to be with his father and mother on this memorable occasion left on Tuesday morning by Bridesville for his home. Many good wishes accompanied him for a safe return, as having been a visitor to Rock Creek before he has made many warm friends here.

Mrs. C. H. Weed superintended the arrangements for supper while Joseph Grey acted as floor manager.

WAR NOTES

Mr. Wigin is a rancher at Rock Creek, and recently went to England to join the Army Medical Corp. The following extaact from a Yorkshire paper tells how his sister escaped from Germany:

"Often they asked me if I were not ashamed to be English, and would I not like to become a German? I laughed in their faces. A German? No; rather die!

"I was staying at a convent when the war broke out, and for a fortnight was not allowed to leave the grounds for fear of being stoned to death. I certainly was not keen on doing so, because on the only occasion when I went into the villiage a man attempted to horsewhip me, while as for spitting on me and hurling insults at me, those were merely minor details.

"As times went on things got worse, and I decided in spite of all dangers to do all in my power to reach England at any cost. I telephoned to Munich (I was in the Passu district) for permission to travel over Austria, intending to take the route over Geheva, Paris, Dieppe. After waiting over a week, and no passport being forthcoming. I decided to present myself personally to the American Consul at Munich. I intended leaving the convent about the 6th or 7th of this month and asked the mayor of the village if I might do so, as it was already Thursday the 3rd inst.

"But before I could get his consent, I heard that, unless I was out of Germany by Sunday, the 6th, I should be detained until the end of the war perhaps, and certainly for some months. Realizing that I should have to make a dash for the frontier, I decided to go without permission from the mayor. I did not think I should have any difficulty in this, but was sadly mistaken, for unhapily he saw me enter a motor to go to the station at Passu, and guessing my intention, telegraphed through to stop me. However, being able to speak German well, passed off as one, and sat quietly in the corner of my carriage, while I saw them searching and heard them enquiring for an escaped English girl. The train started at last, and all that remained now was to get my passport and race off to the frontier town of Bentheim, between Germany and Holland.

"In Munich all went well, and after a wretched 24 hours in the train I arrive at Bentheim at 10.30 on Sunday night. I had to show my passport to about six different officials, who examined it and everything I possessed, while a soldier stood behind me with fixed bayonet.

"I was then told I had to be stripped and searched in case I should have hidden papers on my person, and when I complained they answered, 'You ought to be very glad to be treated so well, and not so cruelly as the English are treating our poor German girls!'

"I was relieved to find that a woman was at hand for the searching purpose, for (I have heard) on several occasions that men had undertaken this business. From the way I was treated, one would have thought I was a strong man instead of a girl of 20. The only luggage I brought was a strong cardboard box, in which I had an English letter which intended posting over here.

"It was an absolutely harmless letter, but unhappily, and unknown to me, it happened to be stuck a little at one corner. I was therefore marched on to the police-station (a matter of 29 minutes walk) where they told me the punishment for such an offence was a year's imprisonment. I laughed at them, and told them to do their worst, at the same time tearing the letter to fragments. After a short time they let me go, though this little affair caused me to miss my train, and delay my journey 24 hours."

Miss Wigin says the sea passage from Flushing was calm, but dangerous. In the district where she was living, white bread, coffee and tea cannot be had. The long lines of railway she travelled on her way home were, she said were all guarded by soldiers."

The Prison Farm

Editor Ledge.—
Dear Sir:

Recently when in Vancouver an opportunity offered of paying a visit to the Prison Farm at Okalla of which an old friend and former Government Agent at Greenwood, Mr. W. G. McMynn, is the Warden and it seemed that a few lines, telling of the good work in which he is engaged, would be welcome to his numerous friends among your readers.

Okalla is some nine to ten miles from Vancouver, the prison farm being situated on a wooded knoll surrounded by hills and gulches covered with heavy underbrush, now being cleared and transformed into cultivated land planted with a view to its usefulness in furnishing the prison with vegetables of all kinds, not forgetting an orchard, while some rare trees, received from the Dominion Government are planted on the terrace of the main building, giving a touch of artistic beauty. The new prison building, not yet occupied, is most commodious, the work having been most thoroughly carried out in accordance with the latest word as to safety and convenience.

This new departure in the praiseworthy effort for the reclamation of our criminal population, should receive the utmost sympathy and support of those who are interested in the upbuilding of our province. Mr. McMynn, at the instance of the Dept. visited some of the prison farms now established in the United States, with a view of collecting the most up to date information in connection with the management and treatment of the inmates. The knowledge acquired on this trip has been of the utmost benefit in planing and carrying out the development of the Okalla farm. This development is being carried out under the immediate supervision of Mr. McMynn, who takes the deepest interest in the work—this work is not confined to outside work, such as building, clearing, cultivating the land, etc., some of the inmates being employed in the carpenter, tailoring and boot making shops attached to the institution, each one being put to work most suitable for him, so that the farm in a measure, may eventually become self supporting. This is not the only benefit, Mr. McKynn informed me that the occupation and trust given, has already had a most beneficial effect, appealing as it does to the best instinct of the inmates, giving reason to look forward hopefully to the future for many of them.

Yours truly,
HENRY NICHOLSON, J. P.

Vanity

Vanity and the desire for honors are always a bad symptom, for both rest at bottom upon a self-condemnation which tries to supply the missing inner contenment by outward show or the approving judgement of others.—Carl Hitty.

Red Metal

Practically all of the companies dove now reported an increase in production, The Michigan mines are on full time and operating to full capacity and fair prices for the first time in two years. Anaconda has re-opened its largest mine, the Mountain View. Utah copper has added another steam shovel, increasing production by 10 or 15 per cent. The other porphyries have also increased output by a similar amount. At Bisbee, Calumet & Arizona and the Copper Queen are gradually expanding operations. The other south-western coppers are increasing output. Greene-Cananea is ready to resume, and, up in British Columbia, Granby has increased its output.

All told, however, the increased production will add less than 20,000,000 pounds per month to the mines output of the red metal. It will take two to three months time, moreover, before this metal can pass through the refineries and be put on the market.

The increase in production already ordered is not enough to take care of the heavy demand for copper for war purposes in Europe, and for domestic consumption this side of the Atlantic. A further increase in production is probable, and will certainly take place if American consumers of copper make their appearance in the market. They have been absent for a long time now.

In January Europe placed orders in this country for between 70,000,000 and 75,000,000 pounds of copper. Figuring domestic orders at around 40,000,000 pounds, which is less than sixty per cent. of the normal demands in the United States, there is a total demand for 110,000,000 to 115,000,000 pounds against a mines and smelters' production estimated around 72,000,000 pounds. The sales in January therefore exceeded production by approximately 40,000,000 pounds.

The increase of less than 20,000,000 pounds per month ordered by producers therefore still falls considerably short of meeting the demands of the market.

This explains why in the face of the important increase of production, the price of the red metal has refused to budge one iota.—N. Y. mining Age.

The Granby

Granby Consolidated now has six of its eight furnaces at Grand Forks in blast and two of the three furnaces at Hidden Creek. This gives the property an output capacity of approximately 70 per cent. normal. Two furnaces were added to Grand Forks February 9.

It is likely that the March meeting of the directors will produce something in the way of dividends after the June payment in 1914, amounting to $1.50 per share. It is expected that by the time of the next dividend in June 1915, the company will have accumulated sufficient profits to permit resumption of dividends and there are some who would express no surprise at a Granby dividend in March.—Mining Age.

Half Million Like Her

A paper has printed a picture of an old lady, sitting alone in sorrow on a bench in a park in London. She is the mother of a man who has gone to war and the story beneath the picture runs:

"Silent she sat, bowed with a weight of woe upon a bench in Hyde Park, London.

"Great stories of bravery gleam from printed pages—of courage on battlefields and heroic deeds when death and life were pawns in a game of nations, but it means nothing to her for the printed lists of death have broken her heart and taken from her all joy in life with a line of agate type which spells the name of her son.

Today she is half a million in number—this mother who morns for the 'cannon food' that lies in a trench. She lives in England and Germany and Belgium and France and Russia and Austria.

"Tell her of the glories of war, of the din of battles and the victories of arms—and get the answer in the eyes that are tearless, in the shoulders bent with sobs, in the lines of her face which but reflect the furrows in her heart in which hope and gladness are forever buried."

Ocean Billows Roll

"I was coming from Liverpool upon one of the famous liners," says Bishop Potter, "and although the sky was clear and the weather warm a somewhat tempestuous sea had occasioned more than the usual amount of sea-sickness among the passengers. As I paced the deck one afternoon, I noticed a lady reclining upon one of the benches, and the unearthly pallor of her face and the hopeless languidity of her manner indicated that she had reached that state of collapse which marks the limit of seasickness.

"Touched by this piteous spectacle, and approaching the poor creature, in my most compassionate tone, I asked: 'Madam, can I be of any service to you?'

"She did not open her eyes, but I heard her murmur faintly: 'Thank you, sir, but there is nothing you can do—nothing at all.'

"'At least, madam,' said I, tenderly, permit me to bring you a glass of water.'

"She moved her head feebly and answered: 'No, I thank you—nothing at all.'

"'But your husband madam,' said I, 'the gentleman lying there with his head in your lap—shall I not bring something to revive him?'

"The lady again moved her head feebly, and again she murmured faintly and between gasps: 'Thank you sir. but—he—is—not—my—husband. I—don't know—who he is!"

He had been a very, very heavy soaker, and at last, yielded to the earnest and continuous entreaties of his friends, he entered an inebriates' home.

"You're all right exclaimed the cheery doctor when he examined him. "We'll have you out of here in a couple of weeks!"

Then the patient went of gaily to write a letter. Having finished it, he started to lick the stamp, but the latter fell of his hand, and by chance alighting on the back of a beetle scurring across the room. Now, the soaker never saw the beetle, but he gazed spellbound at the sight of a postage stamp zig-zagging across the floor, and finally disappearing into a crevice.

"Hell," he exclaimed, bitterly. "Two weeks, indeed; I shant be out of here for three years."

Synopsis of Coal Mining Regulations.

COAL mining rights of the Dominion in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the Yukon Territory, the Northwest Territories and in a portion of British Columbia, may be leased for a term of twenty-one years at an annual rental of $1 an acre. Not more than 2,560 acres will be leased to one applicant.

Application for a lease must be made by the applicant in person to the Agent or Sub-Agent of the district inwhich the rights applied for are situated.

In surveyed territory the land must be described by sections, or legal sub-divisions of sections, and in unsurveyed territory the tract applied for shall be staked out by the applicant himself.

Each application must be accompanied by a fee of $5 which will be refunded if the rights applied for are not available but not otherwise. A royalty shall be paid on the merchantable output of the mine at the rate of five cents per ton.

The person operating the mine shall furnish the Agent with sworn returns accounting for the full quantity of merchantable coal mined and pay the royalty thereon: If the coal mining rights are not being operated, such returns should be furnished at least once a year.

The lease will include the coal mining rights only, but the lessee may be permitted to purchase whatever available surface rights may be considered necessary for the working of the mine at the rate of $10.00 an acre.

For full information application should be made to the Secretary of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, or to any Agent or Sub-Agent of Dominion Lands.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy Minister of the Interior.
