Search for the will of F. Augustus Heinze, the former copper magnate, who died at Saratoga proved unsuccessful. Mr. Heinze is known to have made a will several years ago in which he named his mother as sole beneficiary. She has since died. Replying to a rumor that Heinze died penniless, secretary, Charles Saacke, said he thought the estate would at least amount to $1,500,000 all of which will go to Heinze's two-year old son, F. Augustus Heinze, jr.

It is not common in cities situated in gold mining sections of the country for workmen to encounter gold while digging post holes, excavating for cellars, etc. A rather unusual find of rich ore is reported having been made recently in the city of Helena, Mont. While digging a trench for a pipe line in front of the Lockery building on Fuller avenue, so the report states, the workmen uncovered a large piece of rock rich in gold, silver and copper ore. No effort was made to explore in order to find the vein from which the piece of rock came.

Success Attends First Patriotic Concert.

Greenwood's first patriotic concert was held in the Auditorium last Wednesday night and it was a huge success from every point of view. The various numbers were of a more or less patriotic character and taken in connection with the fact that the proceeds will be devoted to patriotic purposes attracted a large and enthusiastic attendance. The hall and stage were most appropriately decorated with the flags of the Allies. Mayor McLaine opened the concert with an address explaining the objects of the war fund and stating with pride that Greenwood was among the first to respond to the appeal sent out from Ottawa for funds. In the matter of local relief he said that the city would look after all cases of distress.

The program was so well balanced that it is difficult to pick out the bright and particular stars of the evening, every number being enthusiastically encored.

"Tipperary" rendered by Mr. Buchannan, of Midway, was much appreciated the audience joining in the chorus, and for an encore he sang the two new verses written by an ex-service man in Ottawa. The songs of Rev. J. H. Hobbins were also much appreciated while the duetts of Mr. McCurrach and Mr. Hobbins were never heard to better effect. Rev. R. D. Porter appeared twice in solos and awakened the patriotic instincts of the audience with rousing and well rendered songs. Miss Graham took the house by storm with her singing "Molly the Marchioness" and "Try again Johnny" The general impression is that this talented lady has musical and acting genius well worthy of the most extended cultivation. A novelty act of two mouth organs, banjo, guitar and drum was one of the best yet. They played Rule Britannia, Hurrah for England and marching off the stage to the tune of Tipperary. On being called back they were headed by Kaiser Bill on a donkey. W. G. Kennedy who took the part of the Kaiser was in a difficult and most dangerous position for the donkey went through all kinds of laughable pranks until finally caught and the Kaiser shot with a 5 cent pistol. Mr. McCurrach was in good voice and was enthusiastically encored. Greenwood audiences never tire of Mr. McCurrach. Mr. Cochrane of Phoenix, sang "Asleep in the Deep" and "Annie Laurie" and were received with as much enthusiasm as if they were being presented for the first time. It was a triumph for the things that never grow old. Mrs. Oliver with her usual ease and acceptance revived memories of the long ago by singing two favorite songs. The recitations by Mrs. Cummins that formed an enjoyable part of the evening's entertainment were in no way inferior to the musical offerings. Mrs. Cummins appealed to to the heroic at a time when we are daily reading of such deeds, by reciting Kipling's "Advice to those about to volunteer," and for an encore pleased her hearers with "Lovely Women." A concert without Mr. Winter, no matter how good, would lack something. He always has something new and his appearance brings forth bursts of applause. He was dressed as a Chinamen and with five ladies singing and dancing in the background very favorably impressed the audience. In Mr. King we have discovered an asset to Greenwood's talent. He is a born comedian and if the audience had their way he would have kept them for hours. Perhaps his best number was the recitation of the "Charge of the Light Brigade" mimiced in the brogues of different nationalities and which fairly brought down the house. Messrs Kennedy and Adams proved themselves musicians and vaudeville artists well worthy the enthusiatic encore they received. They kept the house spellbound with their duetts on the guitar and in roars of laughter in their comical plantation sketch. Their makeup was perfect and homorous skits original and good. They do no appear in public as often as most of us could wish. And last but not by any means least was the tableau representing "Britannia and the Allies" The national airs of the various nations were sung by the ladies taking part, who were dressed in in the colors of the nations they represented, and as each country was announced it brought bursts loyal applause. The tableau was brought to a close with the singing of "God Save the King." Mrs. McCutcheon and Mrs. Oliver had the difficult task as accompanists, which was performed in an accomplished manner.

As a result of this successful concert the patriotic war fund has been increased by over $100.

The committee desire to take this means of thanking all the artists who took part, the manager of the hall, the Electric Light Co., James Clark, who worked at nights to make the donkey, all of whom gave their services free.

The dance which followed was also a great success, a large crowd remained and the music which was voluntary was supplied by Mrs. Oliver and Miss McArthur was much appreciated.

"Jimmy, yer missed it not seein' de game dis afternoon." "De boss wouldn't let me off." Why didn't yer work the old gag on him?" "'Cause I'm savin up my grandmother for one of the decidin' games in the fall."

The mail order house does the business because it tells the people what it has to sell and what price it asks. The local merchant who does not advertise simply takes chances on an occasional call for certain goods. In the meantime the mail order house gets the business. Advertise in your local paper and prosper.

Realism in Art.

They were all artists—the three of them; and they were sitting round the studio fire late telling stories.

"The other day," said one, "I painted a little deal board in imitation of marble with such accuracy that on being thrown into water, it sank immediately to the bottom.'

"Faugh.'. said Number Two. "Yesterday I hung a thermometer near to the easel supporting my picture of the Polar regions, and the mercury at once fell to twenty degrees below zero."

"That's nothing," remarked the third artist. "Why, the portrait I finished some time ago of that American millionaire man is so lifelike that it has to be shaved twice a week."

After this the three friends began to think about going to bed.

With an additional tax upon beer, England may not so well deserve her name as the "tight little island."

A Good Excuse

A second standard boy in one of the L.C.C. schools came in late recently, when the following colloquy between the teacher and pupil ensued:

"Why are are you late, Thomas?

"Couldn't come no sooner."

"You should get up earlier. All the first standard children were here on time."

"I was up on time but I couldn't come no sooner."

"Why couldn't you come any sooner if you were up in time?"

"I—I—I couldn't find my pants."

"That's a good excuse, Thomas. You may take your seat."

Swam too Long.

The attorneys for the prosecution and defense had been allowed fifteen minutes each to argue the case. The attorney for the defense had commenced his argument with an allusion to the swimming hole of his boyhood days. He told in flowery oratory of the balmy air, the singing birds, the joy of youth, the delights of the cool water. And in the midst of it he was interrupted by the drawling voice of the judge. "Come out, Chawncy," he said, "and put on your clothes. Your fifteen minutes are up."

Failing Memory

Pat was on his deathbed, and at his side knelt his faithful and loving wife, Mary.

"In my last moments," said Pat "I want to tell you how we stand financially. Tom O'Rouke owes us eleven shillings."

"Praise be to goodness!" exclaimed Mary, with a look of rapturous admiration to Pat. "Clear in his head to the last."

"And," continued Pat, Billy Dinnin owes us twenty two shillings."

"Mind as clear as a bell and him near to death," interrupted Mary again.

"And" Pat resumed, "Tim Doolin owes us six shillings and sevenpence."

"Was ever man's memory like that?" questioned Mary, ecstatic in her wonder.

"Then," said Pat, "we owe Bill Crocker fourteen shillings."

"The saints preserve us!" cried Mary in distress. "He's daft –raving crazy."

"I heard him behind the door pleading for just one. They must be engaged."

"Naw, they're just married. It was a dollar he was pleading for."

WAR NOTES

We know that the issue that the Germans have precipitated is Militarism; that behind this Militarism stands Kaiserism; that behind Kaiserism stands World Conquest.

Russians are doing so well that they will soon deserve to share in the German hatred that now radiates on Great Britain alone.

Germany's placing of wood on the contraband list was a severe blow to the trade of the Scandinavian countries. The are large exporters of wood, especially for the manufacture of pulp. Newspapers in Sweden having ventured to condemn this uncalled-for vetoing of trade in one of their countries chief staples, the German Government has ordered the Swedish Government to muzzle the newspapers. If the Kaiser were the world Imperator he desires to be, how the subject nations would have to abase themselves.

By reading American papers it is not difficult to see where the sympathy lies.

Russia is not fighting for the realization of ambitious schemes. Most remarkable how the once feared Pan Slavic menace has now dropped out of sight.

The Germans it is said intended renaming Calais to Kales, Bougne to Boonen. What they were going to name London isn't mentioned, but we know what they are calling it now.

It has always been the weary, spiritless and exhausted ages which have played with the dream of perpetual peace. It is a safe be that Germany would welcome the opportunity jus now to play with the dream of peace

The Turks are placing Armenians in frsnt of them in battle to act as shields against rifle fire. Even at that they have failed to come up to the German standard of using women for that purpose.

The fact that the Russian Commander in chief is so chary about claiming victories causes his claims to be accepted as reliable when they are made.

In the east German armies are fighting hard to save themselves from destruction. This situation is far different from the one that the German military staff had planned.

John Bull not only has the men and the ships, he's got the money too.

In the face of Russia's steady advance in the east, who can maintain that she is not a progressive nation.

It will be a cold day for Chile if it permits the Germans to use its territory as a base for operations against British fleets.

Rock Creek Church Entertainment.

A concert organized by Rev. A. M. Lloyd and Mrs. Lloyd was held in Larsen's Hall, Rock Creek on Dec. 4 and about 150 people were present. The entertainment was on original lines, for in addition to the usual ballads that were sung by Mr. Beaven Gane, Miss Gane and Miss Radford and such old favorites as Messrs. Rock and Pentecost, the chief feature was an exhibition of the old English Morris dances, Scotch, Irish, Italian, and French national dances by a number of children and trained by Mrs. A. M. Lloyd, who acquitted themselves with infinite credit and entered with rare zest into the spirit of the thing.

Space will not permit us to notice every item in a very long program. The Irish jig as danced by Viola King and Jessie Rose was encored, but equally good in their styles were the Scotch Reel, by Florence Raiment and Victoria Shillcock, the French gavotte by Annie Anderson and May McMynn and the Italian tarantella by Maud and Jean Richter.

Some very juvenile performers sang and danced very prettily in a fairy scene, in which Ivy Ingram, Sylvie Price, Winnifred Whiting and Evelyn O'Donnell looked very sweet in light and airy costumes with tinsel gauge wings and they also took past in a baby dance and a pretty action song entitled Dolly's Bedtime.

Ivy Ingram as a very juvenile pianist somewhat astonished the audience with her playing of two short pieces, and Triscilla Kerr played in a duett with a mysterious looking person described as Professor Lloyd George. Miss Harrigan and Nita Richter acquitted themselves well in a duett for violins.

A popular item was the song and tableaux of various nations, in which the rose, thistle, shamrock, leek and maple leaf took part, Canada's national song being rendered by the Misses Richter, the whole ending appropriately with Rule Britannia.

Other items were monologues by Mr. Julian and Mr. Thorburn which were very amusing and "Angus MacDonald" sung by Mrs. A. M. Lloyd to whom the major part of the credit for the evening's performance must be given.

Major Anderson presided and proposed a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Larsen for the use of the hall and to the kind people who furnished the refreshments.

Mrs. Larsen very kindly superintended the supper arrangements and the stage had been very prettily decorated with evergreens by Mrs. Lloyd assisted by Mr. Tanner, Mr. and Mrs. King, Miss Ingram and others.

We must not omit to mention the minstrels in which Mr. Price sang a plantation song and made jokes at the expense of Francis Tanner, who as Sambo, and as the clown in the Morris dances, contributed very much to the merriment of the evening.

It is hoped to repeat some of the items at Midway at an early date, as the bad state of the roads prevented a number of Midway residents from being present.

To man, money is like a train running through a tunnel. It goes in at one end and out at the other and leaves nothing.
