MINES AND MINING.

The Land of Big Ledges.

Ainsworth, the oldest and in many respects the best known camp of the Kootenay country, is situated on the west bank of Kootenay lake, about 35 miles north of Nelson and about half that distance south of Kaslo. It is distinctly a silver lead camp, although in the past season or two several very promising gold-bearing quartz claims have been located along some of the creeks tributary to the camp. The work on these, however, has not been sufficient to demonstrate their value and even under the most favorable conditions it will be another year or two before Ainsworth can lay claim to any actual gold producing mines.

It is now more than 14 years ago since Charles Olsen, the veteran landlord of the Hot Springs hotel, penetrated the great northern wilderness, and, attracted by the evidences of vast mineral deposits, constructed a rude cabin and laid the foundation for the present town of Ainsworth. Since that time the old town has had many ups and downs, but withal it has held its own pretty well, and is to day far more substantial and promising than at any time during its history.

Three times it has been almost swept out of existence by fire but the indomitable pluck and energy of its citizens have risen superior to the catastrophe, and each time a new Ainsworth has risen from the ashes of the old. Innumerable times have rich strikes in other camps caused a general exodus of miners and prospectors from Ainsworth until it would seem that the camp would be deserted, but in time the backward drift would set in and Ainsworth would resume its former air of life and activity.

ORE IN GREAT BODIES.

Although the ores of the Ainsworth camp are of low grade the immense bodies more than make up for the deficiency in values and at the present day the low price of mining and treating silver-lead ores warrants the assertion being made that Ainsworth will ultimately become one of the greatest ore producing camps in the province.

The camp at present is overshadowed by the high grade silver camps of Sandon and Whitewater and by the great gold camp of Rossland, but in spite of this a great deal of money is being spent in the steady development of the mines of Ainsworth.

MINES NOW WORKING.

The No. One, which has in past years paid its owners many thousand dollars in dividends, is working a large force of men on a new tunnel which is destined to cut the ore body at a depth of over 500 feet. The mine is stripping but little ore at present, only enough to pay the development work that is going on.

Among the other properties that have been worked during the past summer are the Highlander, Black Diamond, Albion Twin, Rand, and several properties on Crawford creek which are under bond to an eastern syndicate, headed by John F. Stevens, late chief engineer of the Great Northern.

The Highlander is owned by a Philadelphia syndicate, headed by Maxwell Steveston, a prominent lawyer of the Quaker city. The company has about $25,000 in the treasury which will be expended in development purposes. The company has also leased the Black Diamond and Little Phil and is shipping about 40 tons per day from the former property to their own concentrator which is located at Mile Point and is connected with the Black Diamond by means of a cable tramway. The Black Diamond has an immense body of fine concentrating ore which averages about 60 per cent. lead and from 30 to 50 ounces of silver. It runs about seven into one and can be mined, shipped to the concentrator and treated at a cost of not exceeding $2.50 per ton. The cost can be greatly reduced when the property is in condition to ship larger quantities of ore.

A force of men are at work sinking on the main vein of the Highlander and at a depth of 175 feet have encountered a promising body of galena ore which gives every evidence of giving the richest strike yet made in camp. Assays have shown several ounces of silver, and from 50 way up. Numerous assays have been taken. The company has two shifts at work on the Little Phil doing development work and expects to cut the ore vein during the coming month.

The Albion adjoins the Highlander on the north and is owned by a Spokane company of which W.A. Aldrich, secretary of the Spokane Gas company, is president. The company has expended upwards of $15,800 in development work and has cut two veins of ore in its tunnel which has been run in a distance of nearly 500 feet, giving a depth in the first vein to the north and an orechute of 94 feet uncovered. An upraise of 47 feet has been run and is in ore all the way up. Numerous assays have been made from the ore in the drift and upraise, showing total values ranging from $68 to $104. The ore will average from 60 to 65 per cent. in lead and about 40 ounces in silver. Assays for gold have shown from $1.50 to $2 in value. It is the intention of the company to commence drifting on the same vein at once and to continue work through the winter. The company is free from debt and it is expected that enough ore will be shipped this winter to pay for all development expenses.

The Banker adjoins the Albion on the north and the same veins that have been cut in the latter property run through the Banker, but not enough work has been done on the Banker tunnel yet to cut these veins.

The Tariff which lies east of the Highlander is owned by Braden Brothers, the owners of the Pilot Bay smelter, and during the past year they have shipped many thousand tons of ore from the property. At present the mine is closed down, but work and shipments will be resumed this fall.

To the north of the camp the Twin mine is working a force of eight men on a tunnel which will cut the ore body at a depth of 500. The tunnel is now in about 80 feet and there remains about 100 feet of work to be done before the ore body is encountered. The Twin is owned by an eastern Canada syndicate.

FOR THE C. P. R.

A First-Class Steamboat Under Construction at the Nelson Ship Yards.

At the Nelson ship yards a new steel plated steamer is in course of construction. The vessel was originally intended for the Stickeen river trade, but when the Klondyke boom began to subside it was decided to ship the machinery and plates from Vancouver to Nelson and build a steamer for the passenger traffic between Goat river landing and Nelson, pending the completion of the Crow's Nest Pass railway to the latter point. When completed the new vessel will be the largest and finest boat on the Kootenay lakes. It is 160 feet long, 30 feet beam and five feet hold. It is what is known as a composite boat with plank on the bottom and steel plates 5.16 inch thick above water.

The machinery is of the most modern type, the engines having 16-inch cylinders and a stroke of 72 inches. The steam pressure is 175 pounds, and a speed of 15 knots per hour is expected to be attained. It is fitted with steam capstans and a complete system of electric lights.

The smoking room is 48 feet long; the dining room 27½ feet; and the ladies' cabin 40 feet. There are six staterooms which are being fitted up in first-class style. The bar is situated on the port side forwards, and on the same side are the toilet rooms and the linen room. On the starboard side are the purser's office and room and the steward's room. On the upper deck are two rooms on each side for the officers and a large room for the waiters.

The work of construction is being carried on under the supervision of James M. Bulger, forman, and the vessel is expected to be in the water in about three weeks and be ready for service in six weeks.

Fifty-five men are employed and the work is being pushed ahead as rapidly as possible. The fittings of the vessel are first-class in every particular and no pains are being spared to provide for the comfort and convenience of the travelling public.

The Plebiscite Vote.

The result of the vote on Thursday week was a majority of about 40,000 for prohibition. This can hardly be taken, though, as a true expression of the people's wishes, as less than half of the vote of the was polled.

Ontario gave a small for. All its large cities went against and the country places for prohibition.

Manitoba and the territories gave about 10,000 for prohibition.

British Columbia gives a small vote for, though Victoria, Nanaimo and some of the larger towns went against it.

Quebec went some thousands against prohibition.

Nova Scotia went 17,000 strong for the measure.

New Brunswick went 15,000 for and P. E. I. about 5,000 in favor of prohibition.

City Council.

The regular meeting of the city council was held Monday last. Absent Alds. Cunning and Switzer.

The Finance Com. recommended the payment of the following accounts, and on motion of Alds. Broddy and Crawford were ordered paid:

Salaries	$359.16
Fire Dept. maintenance	13 80
Sept. street improvements	126.25
H. Byers & Co.	3 25

Total	$736.82

Public Works Com. reported the completion of the gaol.

A petition signed by Messrs. F. J. Donaldson, J. Bernard and Mrs. Jas. Brown was presented, praying for the appropriation of money for the purpose of opening up a street on "Nob Hill."

On motion of Alds. Hunter and Broddy the foregoing petition was laid over pending the survey of the property implicated.

On motion the meeting was adjourned until Tuesday evening, when the following proceedings took place:

A petition signed by a large number of the realty property holders, asking that the council introduce a by-law for the purpose of raising the sum of $15,000 to aid in making certain improvements on Carpenter creek.

"Creek Improvement" by-law No. 11 was introduced by Ald. Mighton and went through the usual formalities and was finally passed.

Alds. Crawford—Hunter—That a vote of all persons qualified to vote be taken on "Creek Improvement" by-law at the city clerk's office, Thursday the 10th inst.

On motion of Alds. Broddy and Mighton the city clerk was appointed returning officer for same.

Moved by Ald. Broddy and seconded by Ald. Mighton that a vote of all persons qualified to vote be taken at the city clerk's office on Thursday, Oct. 20th on the question, whether or not a "Threatre Comique" license be granted and that the city clerk act as returning officer.—Carried.

AN IMPORTANT DECISION.

Given By Chief Justice McColl in the Bismark Case.

Chief Justice McColl has handed down his decision in the case of L. Peters, et al forming the Free Coinage Co., vs. Chas. Sampson and F. P. Sherwood, in favor of the defendants. The decision involves the Bismark mineral claim, one of a very valuable group now being worked by F. P. Sherwood on South Fork, and aside from the heavy money interests effected, is perhaps one of the most important yet given in British Columbia. Briefly the facts are as follows: The plaintiffs located the Gold Cure on August 12, 1895, and recorded August 23. The following year an order in council was made extending the time in which assessment work shall be done and re-recorded, 60 days in certain cases. Plaintiffs applied to the Gold Commissioner for such extension and it was granted. However, they finished the work within the year, relying upon the extension of time. On the 9th of October Chas. Sampson, knowing nothing of the Gold Cure and seeing no stakes, located the Bismark lapping the Gold Cure. The following year F. P. Sherwood became an innocent purchaser of the Bismark, which he has since developed into a valuable mine. He made application for a crown grant, was adversed, and the case came up for trial last June, with Messrs. McAnn & McKay of this city for the defendants and Messrs. McDonald & Johnson of Nelson, representing plaintiffs. There was little or no evidence taken, the case was of law. The defendants set up the claim that the order in council giving a gold commissioner power to extend the time beyond one year in which assessment work shall be done under mineral act 1896 was ultra vires. There were other points but all minor. The court sustained the defendants and held that section 161 of the mineral act 1896 does not confer power upon the Lieutenant-Governor in council to make an order extending beyond one year the time in which assessment work shall be done as required by the act. He finds for defendents Sampson and Sherwood with costs.

The decision is a most important one and will have wide effect from the fact that under the order in council 1896 many extensions of time were made and all such claims are made invalid.—Kootenaian.

Sandon's Large Ore Shipments.

The following are the shipments of ore from Sandon from the 1st of January to the 30th September:

MINE.	TONS.
Payne	10,080
Ruth	3,134
Star	2,013
Last Chance	1,999
Reco	420
Queen Bess	175
Sovereign	80
Treasure Vault	40
Ajax	33
Canadian Group	22
Goodenough	20
Sapphire	18½
Coin	8½
Wonderful Group	8½
Wonderful Bird	5
Fountain Fraction	7
Argo	2½

Although the spring was most unfavorable on account of slides, accidents to the Payne, Ruth and stoppage at the Star, it is almost a certainty the shipments of last year 24,730 will be greatly exceeded. This will be especially so if rawhiding sets in early, as the Reco rarely does packing, the Last Chance is awaiting the construction of its tram and the Noble Five and many of the smaller mines have much ore collected from summer developments to come down when the snow flies. Altogether we look for busy time of it between now and the New Year.

Slocan City News.

The Evening Star, which was bonded some time ago under English capital, is making extensive development and will soon be an important institution. In addition to the steam hoisting plant, placed a few weeks ago, the company intend erecting a mill for the treatment of the ore on the ground when a sufficient quantity has been blocked out.

The summer's assessment work in the local camp has been very satisfactory and a number of sensational surface showings are the result.

Ernest Mansfield, a prominent mining man of London, has been taking a number of working bonds on properties here for English and French capital.

There are a number of good sized deals quietly under way for properties on Lemon and Springer creeks, which those who are on the inside, say are liable to be closed this fall in time to get to work before the snow flies.

Although winter is nearly two months away the town is beginning to prepare for it. The merchants on the outskirts of the business section are moving into closer quarters, giving our business streets a more compact appearance.

Three cases of mild typhoid is the record so far this summer. The sanitary condition of the town is good and health abounds.

CHURCH NOTES.

Methodist, Rev. A. M. Sanford, A.B., pastor.—Regular services will be held to-morrow at 11 a. m. and 7.30 p. m. Subjects—Morning "Blessed are ye peor"; evening, "Born of water; born of the Spirit."

Presbyterian.—Rev. J. Clelland will preach as usual in the Virginia hall, to-morrow at 11 a.m. and 7.30 p.m.

Union Sabbath School in the Methodist church at 3 p. m. Everybody welcome.

An agreement is being signed by the general merchants, grocers, etc., of the place to close their business places at 8 o'clock p. m. except Saturdays, commencing Monday. There is a strong reason for this. The clerks are confined from 7 a. m. to that hour, and except in the evenings have no time for recreation and improvement that the health of body and mind alike imperatively demands. The movement is but a humane one, and we are glad to see all heartily approve of it. It matters not in a place like this what the open hours are so long as they are reasonable, as it does not affect the business of any one. There is just so much merchandise to be disposed of and there are just so many people to buy, and if they cannot buy after eight they will readily buy before. The public, too, have a duty in this connection, in the interest of the clerks, to perform—they should see the clerks recreation hours are not encroached on, by doing all their shopping before eight p. m. They can just as well as not do it, and earn the gratitude of the clerks besides. We trust the agreement will be scrupulously observed and adhered to.

NEW DENVER.

Delightfully Situated With a Bright Future Before It.

Many residents say that times are dull there at present, but we are confident they will not remain so. In the past, experienced miners and prospectors traversed the hills round about and decided there was nothing there worth developing, but strange to say wisdom is not always confined to those who are proverbially wise. To-day the town has around it—the Mollie Hughes, the California, the Bosun, the Adirondack, Fidelity and Mountain Chief properties that either have shipped or are shipping at intervals, and all promise to be equal to the best, and under further development to be capable of giving employment in the aggregate to three hundred miners or upwards.

But this is not all, the place is as well represented by promising prospects as most successful camps in the country. Here is a partial list of them: Marion, Sandow, Turris, Lone Star, Eclipse, Merrimac, Denver, Lake View, Convention, Chieftain, Queen City, Lost Tiger, Estella and Silver Bell. Though these are not mines, in the full force of the word, many of them are more than prospects, as their leads have been reached and their samples of ore pronounced excellent. It only requires what the whole Slocan is in need of—a little more capital employed to bring them to the front as regular shippers. As many of these can be easily reached from the Three Forks wagon road, they offer special inducements to the capitalist, and all being convenient to the town they will in operation be a source of great strength to it.

In short what is true of the mining surroundings of many of the most promising camps in the country is equally true of New Denver—but little is known as yet of its capabilities.

The town is itself situated on one of the most beautiful inclinations, facing Slocan lake, to be found in the country. A water supply can readily be got, and the site is ample for a place of 50,000 inhabitants. It has much excellent soil, and as a result there are many beautiful gardens, and in a short time will have large orchards. It is a government town with a record and other government offices. It has fine stores, hotels and all the other business places of a go-a-head town.

Three Forks.

This town is coming well to the front with its mining shipments the present year. The following are the ore shipments so far in 1898:

QUEEN BESS.	LBS.	TONS.

February	162,040
March	347,090
April	115,070
June	41,400
July	158,150
August	126,230
September	768,710
	2,216,010	1,108
IDAHO.
February	198,000
March	1,700,000
April	120,000
May	1,742,350
June	165,000
July	781,500
	4,707,750	2,353⅞

July	36,800	18⅜
ALAMO
August	467,050
September	449,600
	916,650	458⅜
Total shipment of		3,938⅝

As this ore is worth probably $100 per ton, it is a gross value of about $400,000 to which must be added the shipments of the Queen Bess at Sandon as given elsewhere.

In the Slocan.

After returning from the Crow's Nest Pass, Mr. Peters proceeded to Sandon in company with Mr. James Osborne of the C. P. R., who is Mr. Shaughnessy's assistant. He reports that the mines are looking well, and the business conditions of the great silver camp are improving in a most satisfactory way.

The party paid a visit to several mines, and Mr. Peters reports that the Last Chance, on which a tramway is being constructed, is showing up well the Noble Five is being systematically developed with encouraging results, while the Slocan Star never looked better. P. Hickey is working the Ivanhoe on Sandon creek, and has a large body of ore blocked out. He intends to start rawhiding as soon as the snow comes, and will put in a tram next spring.

In this connection it may be stated that hitherto, all Slocan ore destined for eastern smelters have been sent by way of Revelstoke. Now that the Crow's Nest Pass road is available they will pass through Nelson instead and a considerable increase in the local staff of the C. P. R. will be needed, in order to handle the large amount of freight from this source.—Nelson Miner.

SANDON CITY BY-LAWS.

BY-LAW NO. 11.

WHEREAS a petition has been presented to the Municipal Council of the Corporation of the City of Sandon, signed by the owners of at least one-tenth of the value of the real property in the said city (as shown by the last revised Assessment Roll), requesting the said council to introduce a by-law to raise the sum of fifteen thousand dollars ($15,000) for the purpose of the fluming of and making improvements in the channel of Carpenter creek and paying for the same.

And whereas it is deemed necessary and expedient to flume the said creek for the convenience of the citizens and for the protection of property from floods:

And whereas it is expedient to borrow the said sum of fifteen thousand dollars for the purposes aforesaid:

7. It shall be lawful for the said municipal council to re-purchase any of the said debentures upon such terms as may be agreed upon with the legal holder or holders thereof or any part thereof, either at the time of sale or any subsequent time or times and all debentures so re-purchased shall forthwith be cancelled and destroyed and no re issue of debentures so re-purchased shall be made in consequence of such re-purchase.

8. This by-law shall take effect on or after the 31st day of October, A.D. 1898.

MINING BRIEFS.

With Scissors and Pen.

The Butte has a foot of solid galena.

The Charleston has 12 men now at work.

The California will resume operations shortly.

The Bosun has now about 30 men at work, and the Eclipse has 4.

The Rosebery mine belonging to the Carnes Creek Co. gives $60 a ton in gold per straight assay.

It will take 120,000 feet of lumber for the Comstock concentrator, and the Hill Bros. are supplying it.

A. W. Wright is in charge of the Palmetto, near the Queen Bess. It is shortly to have a 500-feet tunnel.

J. L. Retallack has made a second payment on the Slocan Boy, which means that the deal is going through.

The B. A. C. Co. are now bonding properties in Idaho. They will soon have girdled the earth with mine boldings.

The Whitewater concentrator will be completed this month, and there is a large amount of ore ready for shipment.

Bruce White is working 15 men on the Mollie Gibson, on Kokanee creek, and is confident he has a good property there.

A compressor plant from Chicago for the Whitewater Deep was transferred from the C. P. R. to the K. & S. here on Sunday last.

Thomas Mitchell, who is putting in the huge milling plant for the Whitewater, is also putting in another for the Comstock on Slocan lake.

The London & B. C. Co. are purchasing the Washington as well as the Slocan Boy alongside, on the Payne mountain, and Mr. S. S. Fowler has the superintendency of the work now going on on both properties.

The Monitor mine, at Three Forks, has quite a staff of hands at work at present and the property shows up well. This mine used to be quite a shipper, but litigation stilled it for a time. It looks now, however, as if all the difficulties were over, and so mote it be.

The Mining Review

SANDON, BRITISH COLUMBIA,

SATURDAY.....OCTOBER 8, 1898.

SUBSCRIPTION $2.00 PER YEAR

STRICTLY IN ADVNACE.

CAPITAL WANTED.

From eastern papers, it is evident that capitalists in the east are coming to the conclusion that there is more of British Columbia that is valuable for ore production than is embraced within the boundaries of Rossland. Of course the Miner of that city will declare this to be a libel on the country; but even at the risk of the anathemas of our confrere, we cannot help saying so. Rossland has at the present several valuable properties; and, as work developes, it will have more; but the Slocan has them by the score, and eastern capitalists are beginning to find it out. Were it not for the intricacies of litigation, and which we would like to see the laws of the country curbing, in the interest of the provinee, Slocan City would have half a dozen or more mines shipping steadily, employing a great many men and encouraging the enterprising people of that place.

Silverton has been less inflicted with restraining influences than its sister town, and as a result it has several properties shipping steadily and the place, forging ahead rapidly.

New Denver also in the Bosun and California has its regular shippers, the Mollie Hughes and others having also made shipments.

Three Forks has two or three regular shippers and would have several more but for that monster—litigation.

Sandon has some 30 properties shipping, most of them regularly, and so on of McGuigan and Whitewater.

Activity has again set in at Ainsworth also, and with the advancing price of silver many of the large bodied low grade mines there can be worked well to advantage.

We think we are doing no injustice to any part of the country when we say investments can be made to great advantage in any portion of this wide Slocan, and eastern capitalists, as we have said above, are commencing to find that out. There are a few things in such connection they should all learn and bear well in mind: It takes but a small fraction of the capital required to work a gold mine in, say the Rossland section, that it does to manage the best paying silver-lead properties of the Slocan; that for the money invested in purchase and operation, there is relatively a larger return from the Slocan mines. In substance while it takes millions to purchase and operate a Le Roi at Rossland as many tens of thousands will purchase a handsome silver-lead property in the Slocan that will turn out $100 to the ton of ore against the $35 of the Le Roi's at Rossland. The company that can command their millions of capital can, of course, buy where they like, and virtually do as they please; but there are mining companies and individuals who have a little capital to invest but cannot reach the higher figure, and the Slocan is the place for them. Here properties with the leads reached can be bought for from $5,000 to $50,000, and made to pay from the day purchased, with handsome dividends assured as work is prosecuted. This is what we want our eastern cousins to fully comprehend.

THE PLEBISCITE.

Although the prohibitionists carried Canada for prohibition by some 40,000 votes on Thursday last, it in no way declares that the Canadians are for prohibition, as not more than one-half the vote of the country was polled. Temperance people had their organization perfect, and polled their entire strength, while one-half of the people, not ardent prohibitionists, felt so indifferent they did not think it worth their while to vote at all. In the vote cast for the plebiscite will be found many ballots cast by Conservatives, in no way interested in the question, simply to embarrass the Laurier government. The Liberal party have time and again told the people of Canada that if they could get a majority for prohibition, they would enact prohibitory legislation, and many Conservatives made up their minds that "they would like to see the government try it." We think the vote has done nothing more than place the government in a dilemma. They will reason this way: "The vote cast is not a solid temperance vote, and even if it was, it is not a majority of the electors, and will be insufficient to place us in office again." We expect nothing but a blow for the government from the result. If they fail to give Canada prohibitory legislation, they will forfeit the temperance vote; and the majority of the electors, as shown by the ballots, are not temperance people and disinterested in the question, will not be influenced by the results in a general election. Prohibitory legislation will not then be in line with the majority vote of the country, and to refuse it will leave the non-interested in their party allegiance as before, and the whole temperance vote arrayed against them. Looked at from any point of view the result only places the government "between the devil and the deep sea."

THE WHIRLPOOL.

Simple Living Should Ease the Strain But There is Small Chance For It.

Probably all of us admit that if we could simplify our lives we should be much happier. No one, of course, would be willing to go back to the nakedness of the savage, the tepee of the Indian, nor to a diet of herbs and raw meat. Civilization has made our bodies and our minds unfit for the privations which our ancestors endured without discomfort. This somewhat vague thing which we call "civilization" has given us tastes, habits and tasks so inexorable in their demands that life often seems not worth living. Men toil ten and twelve hours a day and lie sleepless half the night trying to make money enough to gratify some notion which is not worth gratifying. The men and women who work the longest hours and subject themselves to the greatest strain are usually those who, if the majority worked three or four hours a day, could obtain plenty to supply the simple wants of a calm and happy life, but "civilization" and that imperious founding which we call fashion, transforms us into drudges with scarcely a moment which we can call our own, while we are forced to make bricks whether we need them or not and whether we can find straw or not. The trials of business and social life are intensified ten-fold by the follies of trying to keep up an unnatural pace; bankrupts, swindlers, thieves, suicides float past us down the stream of time or rattle their chains in the prison to which we are perhaps hastening ourselves; but no one seems to take warning. Our tasks follow us to our homes; our trials begin afresh where we hoped to find peace; our burdens press heaviest, oft-times, where we thought to obtain rest.

The little span of life allotted to us is filled with dollar marks and long rows of figures; our minds are storm-swept with speculations, schemes, inventions and efforts to enrich ourselves at the expense of others. Labor must fight capital to get a small share for itself; capital has to fight labor to keep from being swamped; and both labor and capital on this continent are looking across the ocean to the old lands and wondering how, in the coming days, high wages can be paid in the new world while the goods made here must compete with the goods made in the other countries, where labor is cheaper and the wants of the artizans fewer. When we glance into the future intelligently, whether we are laborers or capitalists, we decide that we must simplify our lives, be content with less profit and undertake smaller expenses.

This is as far as ever we get; to-morrow, next day, next year, we will move into the smaller house, eat less luxurious viands, spend less on costly raiment and be content with a family which is not always making demands upon us greater than our resources can bear. When young people marry they think that love will sweeten all the bitter things of life, and, while it lasts, simple things are sufficient, but the love of money soon separates the man from the simple sweets of domestic life, and as he busies himself racing with the rich his wife begins to compete with her neighbors, and fashion and custom and a perversion of maternal love lead her to deck her children in clothes as fine as are worn by any in the street. It does not take long to separate us from our simple ideals, and it seems almost impossible to ever get back to them when once ambition and the delights of conquest in money matters influence, or even notoriety has been tasted.—Toronto Saturday Night.

LAPSED LICENSES.

How They May Be Renewed Under the Mining Laws.

The recorder's office just now is plastered inside and out with notices of application to be relieved from the consequences of a lapse in various people's miner's licenses. Under the old laws if a miner's certificate expired for a single day, all title to uncrowngranted mineral properties immediately lapsed. The prospector was liable to find all his property jumped. The only thing for him to do was to get a new miner's license and re-locate such ground as had fortunately escaped the vigilance of the professional claim jumper.

The statutes passed last winter changed this. Now if one's license has inadvertantly expired, relief is possible. One need only post in the office of the mining recorder notice of intention to adjust the matter, and at the same time forward to the minister of mines a statement of the facts in the case, accompanied by a fee of $5. The minister of mines thereupon issues a new certificate, dated back to the time when the previous one expired. If between the time that the first certificate expired and the time that notice of intention to apply for relief is posted, any of the applicant's property has been re-located, no remedy is possible. On the other hand re-locations of the applicant's ground made by other people after he has posted his notice of intent to apply for relief, are not valid.

A city business man, who gets to work at nine in the morning, takes an hour for lunch and leaves for home at four or five in the afternoon, little understands the hardships of the life of the farmer, who starts to work at break of day and frequently works on into the night by lantern-light.

A man to endure the hardships of a farmer's life, must be robust physically at the outset, and if he would live a long life, always keep a watchful eye upon his health. He should remember that it is the apparently trifling disorders that eventually make the big diseases. It does not do for a hard working man to neglect bilious attacks or spells of indigestion. If he does, he will soon find himself flat on his back with malaria or crippled with rheumatism. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the best of all medicines for hard working men and women. It makes the appetite keen and hearty, the digestion perfect, the liver active, the blood pure and rich with the life-giving elements of the food, and the nerves strong and steady. It builds firm muscles and solid flesh. It is the greatest of all blood-makers and purifiers. It cures malarial troubles and rheumatism. It is an unfailing cure for biliousness and indigestion. An honest dealer will not try to substitute some inferior preparation for the sake of a little additional profit.

"I was a sufferer for four years with malarial fever and chills," writes Robert Williams, of Kiowa, Barber Co., Kan. "Four bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cured me and I now weigh 160 pounds instead of 130, my old weight."

Costiveness, constipation and torpidity of the liver are surely, speedily and permanently cured by Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They are tiny, sugar-coated granules. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. They never gripe. They stimulate and strengthen the jaded organs until a regular habit is formed and may then be discontinued without a return of the trouble. They stimulate, invigorate and regulate the stomach, liver and bowels. Medicine stores sell them, and have no other pills that are "just as good."

Important Summons.

The Ottawa correspondent of the Mail and Empire says that Hon. Mr. Sifton has been summoned very suddenly and urgently to Quebec and the report has it he has been sent for for the purpose of endeavoring to induce him to retire from the cabinet and either accept the governorship of the North West Territories or succeed Mr. Greenway as premier of Manitoba, the latter being, says the correspondent, anxious to retire and go into the senate.

A man in New York was arrested for bigamy. He told the police he had more wives than a street car could carry. The proper way to punish that man is to shut him up in a house with the whole band of them and make him live the rest of his days with them all.

Many persons cannot take plain cod-liver oil.

They cannot digest it.

It upsets the stomach.

Knowing these things, we have digested the oil in Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil with Hypophosphites; that is, we have broken it up into little globules, or droplets.

We use machinery to do the work of the digestive organs, and you obtain the good effects of the digested oil at once. That is why you can take Scott's Emulsion.

About him broods the twilight dim,

A DREAMER.

He opened his eyes. Everything looked much as he had imagined and hoped it would look. On the wall opposite in a black frame hung the picture of a snow-storm from The Illustrated London News of half a dozen years ago. By his bedside stood the table, with a tumbler of water and a bowl of fresh flowers—lilies of the valley. On another table by the window burned a dim light. Here were a medicine bottle, some few articles always found in a sickroom, a couple of books, more flowers and a roll of white linen.

In a low chair near the dim light a woman sat. He could see only her head and a narrow outline of her face. Her head was thrown far back against the pink cushion. Her hair looked brown, streaked with gold where the light touched it. Her dress was black. He could see the corner of a white apron and the curve of a white collar and soft, white cuffs against small, white hands.

He wished he could see more of her. He was afraid to move lest she heard him. Evidently she was young. That was good. Was she also beautiful or even pretty? Would she be soft and gentle and patient with him or hard and stern and matter of fact? How peaceful it was in this little room in the center of the great, silent hospital! Such peace he had never felt before in his life, though he had often sought it. No one could come and worry him here, or stare at him, or ask him stupid questions. He did not care now whether he grew better or worse so long as he could lie in the silent room, with the picture of the snowstorm on the wall, and the lilies by his side on the table, and the nurse asleep in the chair, and everywhere the calm and the peace. It was even better than his room at home. There his mother or his father, his sisters and his brothers would have continually come, and looked at him, and asked him how he felt, and why he was so stupid, and why he was different from other people.

Here none could worry him. He was safe.

What time was it? Evening probably, or perhaps night.

No light came through the blind and the gray, drawn curtains. He could hear no sounds from the street, not even the distant roar of traffic which never ceases.

Should he speak to the nurse and see what she was like? He very much wanted her to be pretty. He still clung to the stupid idea that if she were pretty she would be kind—and forgiving. Did she know all about him, all that other people know or thought they knew? Would she forgive him? But he did not need forgiveness. He had done nothing wrong. She would only consider him like other men. Well, that would be better than thinking him "so different from everybody else." He was quite tired of hearing he was "different."

He turned on his side again to sleep.

The nurse heard him. She rose and came to the bedside and bent over him. "Are you comfortable? Do you want anything?"

He opened his eyes gratefully. The voice was low and deep and soothing. The thought also came to him that it was a forgiving voice.

"No, thank you, nurse. I am all right. I was just thinking how—how quiet and nice it was here. What time is it? Night-time surely?"

"It is early morning, nearly 3 o'clock. You will hear the sparrows awake soon and begin to chirp and chatter in the trees beneath your window. Will you drink this medicine now?"

He smiled. "Yes, if you like. But the knowledge has come to me that medicine is no good. I don't suppose I shall live long. I don't want to live. I have nothing to live for. My ideals I have found only ideals. My dreams will come to nothing. I only want to—I seem to want to make my peace, to come to an understanding with some one or something."

"Hush! You must not talk. There, I will make your pillow comfortable and smooth your sheet."

"I must talk, nurse. I will talk. Do you know I have been awake a long time? I have been lying looking at you. I was wondering if and hoping you were pretty. I am so glad you are. I used to think, I believe I still think, that beautiful women have beautiful minds."

"Hush! You must not talk. You will grow excited."

"Nurse, you know I cannot live long? Well, let me be happy"—he gave a sort of sob-laugh—"be happy for a few minutes. Let me talk just for once. I have been silent all my life. I have thought all my life. I never found any one to talk to—except Ruby, and she ran away with another man. That was because I was poor. Bring over your chair and sit beside me. Ah, that is right. I am glad you are kind and understand me. I suppose you know how I first became ill and my quarrel with my relatives? Of course it is my own fault. I ought not to have been different from my brothers. You see, I was a bit of a dreamer. I read too many books when a boy, and I preferred painting pictures to studying law and writing stories to sitting in a London office. I dreamed a good deal, and I never went about town like my brothers did. I don't know why I did not. My sisters noticed it. They were jolly girls, kind hearted, and that sort of thing. But they didn't care for my taciturn, quiet ways. If my brothers came home late from a fellow's rooms, they used to let them in and help them to their rooms and say nothing about it. They thought it rather good sport and were annoyed with me because I didn't ever stop out late or get mixed up in a row or drink too much.

"I never found any one who took an interest in things I liked. Because I wouldn't go into the law or medicine or banking I was kicked out from home. Give me something to drink, nurse. This doesn't tire you? I am glad. I wanted to tell some one why I failed and all that before I died, and you seem—well, I thought I could work and live with my pen and keep my dreams and ideals to myself. Nurse, I tried. I tried hard. I had money at first. Life seemed gay and jolly. But I kept straight. That was one of my ideals, because I felt sorry—I sort of felt all women were sacred, and unless I loved one—so I kept straight.

"But a London lodging is not inspiring. I began to long for my books and flowers and my comfortable room. I began to long to see my brothers' and sisters' faces. I asked if I might come home and work in my old rooms. I received no answer. I got depressed. My ideals got mixed. Nothing seemed real except vice.

"One night I got drunk with the lights and the noise of London. I supped at a big restaurant, principally on champagne. I met her that night. I never cared for her, and I had cared for others and passed them by. She loved only gold and jewels. She was a lump of ice. Well, I froze my ideals with that lump of ice.

* * * * * * * *

"I wandered about town, tired of everything. I was ill. I grew worse. Then they found me and took me home. How they worried me! How they plied me with questions! How they stared at me! 'Why was I so different from others?'

"I, too, began to ask myself that question. The first time I slip I break my neck, but my brothers make it their business to slip—gracefully and carefully.

"For a long time they kept me at home, always worrying me, trying to make me talk, trying to make me 'sensible.' Then at last I made them bring me here. And at last I am happy.

* * * * * * * *

"There! What have I been saying, nurse? You must not think too badly of me. At the worst I am only a fool. Hark, it is dawn. Do you hear the sparrows chattering? It reminds me of the country. I can see the faint light stealing through the gray curtains, and the wind is shaking the blind to and fro.

"Would you read to me, nurse? I don't suppose you have a 'Swinburne?' He used to be my favorite poet. It was he who made me dream, I think. Nurse, I wonder why I have never been able to talk to any woman as I am talking to you before?

Then he lay for some time silent, listening to the sparrows and the wind rustling the curtains together.

The nurse had risen. She stood opposite the mirror and gazed at herself. She loosened the hair on her forehead a little, so that the wavy curls fell naturally on either side. Then she crossed to the bed and bathed his temples with some slightly perfumed water, and gave him a clean, cold pillow for his head, and sat again by his side.

"I, too, used to read Swinburne"—he turned surprised—"but that was long ago, when I used to dream. Dreams are bad and foolish. We were not meant to dream in this world."

"No," he replied wearily, "I suppose not. But dreams are the only beautiful things in this world. Do you remember, 'Ah, God! Ah, God! That day should be so soon?' That is what I feel now. You won't leave me, will you, nurse? Wait until it is quite day. I am afraid my mother might come to see me, and I never feel comfortable when she is near me. I feel afraid. It is so stupid."

"All right. I won't leave you." She took his hand in hers. She knew his hours were few.

And she wondered why God had always let him meet the wrong women. If she had met him before, perhaps—

His thoughts were similar. "Nurse, I wish I had met you before."

She hesitated a moment. "So do I." She touched his forehead with her soft, scented handkerchief.

"What do you mean?"

"Perhaps we might have both been happier."

"Then you are not happy? Poor little nurse!" His hands gripped hers harder. "Nurse, I wonder—would you—kiss me—directly? It is not wrong or strange to ask you to kiss a dying man, is it?"

"No, dear." She kissed his forehead. His eyes caught hers. She bent again and kissed his lips.

* * * * * * * *

"It must be 10 o'clock, nurse. Hark, there is some one coming! Don't let any one in, nurse—until I am gone—and hold my hand tightly—because it hurts a little, does death. Let me smell those lilies. They remind me of Ruby. She was a wicked woman, nurse, but I was fond of her, poor little thing, because it wasn't her fault. Hold me tighter, and—kiss me again. It is good to have some one to love. Nurse, don't let them in—until I am gone; they will say I am so different. Nurse!"

"Yes, dear!"

"You are there; that is right. Give my love to—everybody. Tell them I wanted to help and— Nurse, where is that picture of the snowstorm gone? I can't see it up there now—and I can't see your pretty face. I only see that woman—the lump of ice—so cold"— His voice slipped away, his eyes closed. God gave him back his dream.—Exchange.

Persistent Zola.

When Emile Zola heard that he got only four votes this time in the election of members for the French academy instead of eight the last time, he said: "What! I have really four! I am surprised, for I never expected it, having taken no part in the poll. The election was arranged beforehand, and therefore it was useless to pay any attention to it. To tell the truth, these academic elections have no effect on me. I confine myself to putting up for every seat vacant, and then I wait to see the result without the slightest emotion. Of course I shall continue a candidate, but I not longer pay the traditional visits. I paid them once, and that is enough. I am again a candidate for the seat of Jules Simon. As regards that of M. Challemel-Lacour, the customary period of mourning has only just expired, and I shall wait a few days more before coming forward for his seat. And I shall continue to go on in this way. Where it will lead me to goodness only knows."

All Foreigners.

The Philadelphia North American quotes the saying of a man who is disturbed about the future of his native land.

Mr. Bannor—The foreigners are getting an awful hold in this country.

Crosby—They are indeed. Why, I read over a list of men naturalized by the cou yesterday, and every one of them was a foreigner.

An Important Discovery.

Bliffers (reading)—Science now recognizes a condition called "intoxication by radiation." Many cases of drunkenness are cited in which the victim had touched nothing alcoholic, but had simply been in the company of drinkers.

Whiffers—Cut that out. I want to show it to my wife.—Pearson's Weekly.

LONDON MINING MARKET.

The London Public Beginning to Recognize B. C.

A gentleman who is intimately acquainted with the mine-promoting coterie operating the British Columbia section of the London market, and has been on a flying visit recently through this country, passed the following observations to a Leader representative re the future outlook at home:

The London market is at the present time absolutely flat and it has been in that state unfortunately ever since the opening of the Spanish war last April. Then the Hooley smash, as every one knows, further retarded a recovery, with the result that the holiday period was on before anything could be attempted. People will be returning to town again now, however, and the winter should see a revival in mining all around. It has been absolutely impossible to do anything in the way of floatations during the past few months. The public would not look at mines.

In regard to British Columbia, it may be said that it is generally looked upon as a new country for investment and it will provoke yet a good deal of attention. Heretofore B. C. has not been so widely known as other countries which have boomed rich discoveries, but which have not been able to show such permanent investments as have already been shown here. The British public are slow but sure, but when they bite they bite hard. They have had some difficulty in comprehending the difference between Klondyke and B. C., but they are beginning to understand Klondyke has not verified expectations and people at home are very shy of anything pertaining to that region. This is due to the exploration companies which were floated last year and never had any real assets to their credit. Their properties were either mythical or quite unproven, and some of the schemes for taking heavy machinery into the country were impracticable and absurd in the extreme and excited the ridicule of the financial papers.

A large number of B. C. companies are now all ready to issue with the first signs of returning confidence on the market. It is believed most of these properties are genuine mining investments, and if the market is firm they will go to allotment on a satisfactory basis.

Both gold and copper properties should be in good demand, but those with a substantial amount of development work done, will stand a much better chance.

Many people look forward to seeing a B. C. boom similar to what occurred in London in connection with Westralia. There is a wide divergence however between the two countries which would preclude such an occurrence here. In Westralia the immensely rich strikes made simply created a fever of excitement in London, which produced startling and not altogether profitable results. Here things are slightly different. The ore of this province are more or less average grade and it is a process of time and development to obtain returns. The element of invest for dividends and consistent returns will be more in evidence here and therefore the increase and expansion of the mining industry will be more gradual but none the less sure.

The Yukon Route.

It is generally understood Mr. Sifton intends to introduce his Teslin Lake railway bill again the coming session. Let our readers enquire what this means. Mann and McKenzie were to get 25,000 acres of land in the country wherever they could best suit themselves with all the minerals thrown in. The government has been selling land in that vicinity the past summer at $10 per acre with minerals reserved. At this rate they would be giving the contractors $250,000 per mile and the minerals besides for the railway, or well on to $40,000,000 in lands and all the minerals found thereon. It is little wonder Mann and Mackenzie stick to the government like a pup to a root.

WEAK, NERVOUS WOMEN

Suffering from palpitation of the heart, dizzy or faint spells, watery blood, etc., can be readily cured.

A Manitoba Lady Tells About Her Case.

There is no need whatever for so many women to be the subject of faint spells, heart and nerve weakness, anaemia, or any of those health destroying ailments peculiar to her sex. Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills regulate the heart beat and make it strong and full, tone the nerves, enrich the blood, and relieve the pain and weakness from which so many women suffer.

Mrs. Alexander Setter, of Pigeon Bluff, Man., writes an account of her case as follows: "I have great pleasure in giving my experience of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. For about ten years I was troubled with throbbing and fluttering of the heart. I tried five doctors and several remedies but none of them did me much good. Lately I heard of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and bought two boxes. Before I started using them I could not do my house work and gave myself up to die, as I thought I would never be cured. Now I feel really splendid since taking the pills, do my work, enjoy my meals and feel as if there was something in life worth living for."

Rosebery Townsite.

The many advantages enjoyed by Rosebery put before the public, CLAIMED WITHOUT OPPOSITION.

Its Advantages as a Distributing Center.

Rosebery is the only town in Kootenay having both railroad and steamboat connection that can ship goods daily to ten different towns, whereby the shipper can see his wares leave his hands and that they will be received by the consignee within two hours.

Its Advantages as a Railroad Center.

Rosebery enjoys the position of king of the funnell as it were, for the railroad business of the whole of the Kootenays. All ore and matter for shipment from Nelson, Trail Creek and the Slocan must, and is now passing out this way to the main line of the C. P. R., as well as all goods coming in from Revelstoke to the Kootenay country.

NOTE. To substantiate this: The C. P. R. are now putting in track weigh scales at Rosebery, the first and only scales that has been put in on any of the C. P. R. branches in Kootenay—which goes to show the importance of this point by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company's actions.

Its Advantages as a Steamboat Point.

Rosebery claims, without opposition, of being the only junction on the lake, unlike Slocan City, where you can step off the steamer to a waiting train and continue your journey. You can take either a north or south train at this terminus; consequently Rosebery is the best transient town in the race. Nevertheless we claim Slocan City second in importance, and would say watch the head and foot of Slocan Lake, viz.—

ROSEBERY AND SLOCAN CITY.

Its Advantages as a Manufacturing Center.

As a manufacturing center Rosebery claims to have demonstrated the fact that after the careful observation of the Denver (Colorado) Ore Coy's manager, as the natural advantages of all points in Kootenay for the treatment of ores the cheapest, Rosebery was selected, and they now are erecting works, with a capacity of 250 tons per day, which will be in operation within 90 days; and it is their intention to pay out monthly in the vicinity of $100,000. I might also add Rosebery has the largest water power from Wilson river flowing into Slocan Lake.

AS TO CLIMATE.

Rosebery claims the mildest climate on Slocan Lake, from its admirable southern exposure and absolute shelter from the north; snow always leaves the place about the 15th of March.

AS A TOWNSITE.

As a townsite, Rosebery is without a peer. It is possessed of all the flat land available at the mouth of the Wilson river leading to the valley—mining region—consequently there is no danger of any contagion. The title is a Crown Grant and is perfect. All purchasers of lots are safe in this respect. The only safe speculative townsite in the Slocan is Rosebery.

Why should I say the only safe speculative townsite in the Slocan? Because Rosebery business lots to-day are only $150 to $200 each and are bound to increase rapidly this summer. These figures can, and will, double before long. The time to buy is now. Don't wait till they are from $700 to $1,000, as you did in Slocan City last May, go in on the ground floor and make a few dollars in speculation; if you want to invest go to Vancouver or Winnipeg; if you want to speculate and and clean up money go quick to Rosebery before lots are out of sight.

What's Wanted in Rosebery.

We want a restaurant.
We want a good hotel right away.
We want a first-class general store.
We want a butcher shop.

Anyone looking for an opening spy out this place at once.

Maps and price-lists on application; prices run from $75 to $200.

TERMS: One-third cash, balance 3 and 6 months. For actual builders special terms can be arranged for a few lots by applying to

A. M. BEATTIE, General Agent, Rosebery.

MOUNTAIN ECHOES.

It is said there are 70 cases of fever in Brooklyn.

Mr. Lyons is moving into his own house up the gulch.

H. Tomlinson has taken up his residence permanently in New Denver.

There are 137 owners of real estate in Sandon but all are not residents.

A fine lot of fashionable new ingrain wall papers just arrived at Cliffe's book store.

Mr. Robertson's furniture stock is now all in his new store south of the C. P. R. track.

Work commenced yesterday on the construction of the Last Chance tram, the ore house being nearly completed.

The city has men at work grading on either side of the creek on Ivanhoe preparatory to putting a bridge across it.

Stop that Cough! Take warning. It may lead to consumption. A 25c. bottle of Shiloh's Cure may save your life. Sold at McQueen's Drug Store.

Winter appears to be setting in, but the frost is here in full force in advance of anything more than a hill capping of the beautiful.

Mr. Haller is giving a dance to the boys at the K. & S. hotel, Meguigan, (Saturday) evening. He expects a good attendance from Sandon.

Hackett, the oarsman, of Rat Portage, defeated R. Johnston, of Vancouver, at Rat Portage on Tuesday, by four lengths. The purse was for $1,000.

At the band meeting Thursday evening, Mr. Trenary was appointed band instructor, and in the selection they have secured a capable and efficient man.

Victor Langley, an Idaho man, threshed W. Boyd, of Rossland, at Rossland on Tuesday evening, in a game of the manly art. The fourth round was enough.

Karl's Clover Root Tea, for constipation it's the best, and if after using it you don't say so, return the package and get your money. Sold at McQueen's Drug Store.

Shiloh's Consumption Cure cures where others fail. It is the leading Cough Cure, and no home should be without it. Pleasant to take and goes right to the spot. Sold at McQueen's Drug Store.

Dr. Young is walking the street on crutches, the result of a kick from a horse, on the hip, on Friday night last. Fortunately the doctor had no bones broken, and will be all right again in a few days.

The new C.P.R. depot is almost ready for occupancy. They are at present working on the inside, and when finished it will be a handsome structure. The ties preparatory to track laying are being put in place.

Several new subscriptions to the brass band fund have been received by the treasurer; but still there is a shortage of over $100. The instruments will be here in a short time, and the boys would like to see this amount made up before their arrival.

Macdonald Bros. are overhauling the Balmoral hotel from cellar to attic. They have re-papered and re-painted, and are now putting in a new front. The dining apartments will be amongst the largest and best fitted up in the country under the charge of Mr. Trenary.

James Hood, of this city, got an arm broken and other injuries while working on the court house at Kaslo the other day. A scaffold he was working on, some 20 feet high, gave way and he came to the bottom. Nothing serious, however, is looked for, and Mr. Hood will take a quiet holiday in this city.

There is talk of organizing a stock company in town to build a union skating and curling rink, with a gymnasium on the second flat. No doubt it would be not only a great convenience but a good advertisement for the place, but it would cost some money to put up a proper building for all three purposes.

In the death of "Doc" Aikens on Thursday last, the Slocan loses one of its oldest landmarks. We believe he was in his earlier days a practicing vet, and in the earlier days of this country he kept a few drugs at Kaslo and latter here posing as a druggist. Eventually strong drink got the start of him and he became considerable of a wreck. He was said to have been clever in his better days, and always of a genial disposition.

There is much changing around in the restaurant business in the city these days. The Balmoral is opening up their enlarged diningroom and restaurant; Messrs. Millard and Thompson have leased the Palace cafe and are fitting it up in palatial style for their customers; Alberni Poirier, of Montreal, has taken over the Bryan cafe, and is now down to work; Mr. Johnson, late of the Clifton house, has taken over Crandall's old stand, and says he is "as busy as a nailer."

If there is one thing more than another the people of this city have to be thankful for it is the excellent sanitary conditions of the place. In the towns all around we hear of fevers, but they are now, and always have been, unknown in Sandon. This is mainly owing to our abundance of the best water in the world. People may make more money in some other places than they do here; but it is a great satisfaction for all, excepting the doctors, to know we have absolute immunity from contagious diseases.

Tom French, a miner, but a short time here from Cripple creek, we believe, attempted to end his earthly troubles on Sunday evening by taking about 50 grains of morphine, enough to kill ten men, the doctors say. His anxiety in the size of his dose was largely the cause of his lack of success. The doctors were soon on the spot, and succeeded in saving the poor fellow. No particular reason for his rash act has been given, further than that he appears to be tired of the world and its ways. Men in that state of mind are true subjects for sympathy.

H. A. Cameron is moving his east end store across the C. P. R. track.

Catarrh cured. A clear head and sweet breath secured with Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy. We sell six bottles for $3 and guarantee an absolute cure. Sold at McQueen's Drug Store.

The fire laddies will hold their first dance of the season, in Virginia hall, on Friday evening, Oct. 11. A good time is promised all who attend. The Sandon Orchestra in attendance.

For Constipation take Karl's Clover Root Tea, the great Blood Purifier. Cures Headache, Nervousness, Eruptions on the skin, and makes the head clear as a bell. Sold at McQueen's Drug Store.

WHAT Dr. A. E. SALTER SAYS.

Buffalo, N. Y.—Gents:—From my personal knowledge, gained in observing the effect of your Shiloh's Cure in cases of advanced consumption, I am prepared to say it is the most reliable remedy that has ever been brought to my attentention. It has certainly saved many from consumption. Sold at McQueen's Drug Store.
