THE ENGLISH SCIENTISTS.

Delighted With What They Saw Around Sandon.

Some time ago the Dominion government, the C. P. R. and other organizations of Canada gave a general invitation to "The British Association for the advancement of science" to visit Canada that a knowledge of its resources and capabilities might become thereby better known abroad. The invitation was accepted and about 2,000 of their number came to Canada, among the lot being some 40 of the most noted scientists of the mother country. Their visit, however, is under no special auspices, nor are they committed to the making of any special reports on their return; though it is a certainty that through different channels much light will be given to the British people in general on the resources and capabilities in general. Some of the number are professors in colleges, and, of course, their classes will in various ways become great gainers through the visit. Others in writing for the press and periodicals will give the public the benefit of their observations. As the press of England, however, is not as much given to interviewing as their confreres in Canada and the States, the people will not learn as much through that channel as they otherwise would.

On reaching this province again the company split into segments, but three or four taking in the Kootenay country. This section had with it as an associate Dr. Dawson, of Ottawa, head of the geological department at the capital. The doctor is quite familiar with mining in British Columbia, and well versed on the mineral wealth of the Kootenay country, so his suggestions to his companions from time to time were of special interest.

The entire party reaching Sandon on Wednesday, after having visited Rossland, Trail, Nelson, Kaslo and Whitewater, consisted of: C. Le Neve Foster, Prof. in the Royal school of mines at London, and expert geologist for the British government, Mrs. Foster and the Misses Foster; Prof. Cruikshank, of London, one of the foremost chemists living, and Mrs. Cruikshank; Sir George Robertson, of London, one of the council of the Royal Geographical society, and Dr. Dawson. They took rooms at the Goodenough, and visited the Ruth mine on Wednesday and the Star concentrator on Thursday forenoon. They were all delighted with their observations here, boldly acknowledging that in the reports in the press they had seen "the half had not been told." As the company came to learn, the public can easily understand that they were quite as anxious to get information from those around them as they were to give it. They were astonished to find that with all our mineral wealth our coin was for the most part American production. These facts led them to the conclusion easily that a home mint would be a good thing for Canada. Sir George also conceded that the conclusion of the Bank of England to retain one-fifth of its reserve in white metal would strengthen the chances of bi-metalism, not only in England but in other countries, as mankind were great copyists and disposed to follow leaders, and the Bank of England was a leading monetary institution. He was also disposed to say that there was not currency enough in the world for the commercial necessities of the people, and if the necessities could not be met in gold the next best thing was to make up the balance in silver.

After learning all they could of mining in this section, the party left via C. P. R. for Revelstoke on Thursday, and we are of the opinion that in whatever observations they make at any time on the resources of the Kootenay, Sandon will be a conspicuous element and its mineral surroundings will be referred to with more than ordinary emphasis.

A GIGANTIC ENTERPRISE.

A Wagon Road and Stage Route From Edmonton to the Yukon.

The Great Canadian Development and Mining Company, contemplates a gigantic enterprise—the building of a wagon road from Edmonton to the gold fields. In this work the company has not only the hearty co-operation and support of the Dominion government and the Canadian Pacific Railway, but it is backed by ample capital to push the work to completion. Capitalists of Ottawa, Montreal and Toronto, whose wealth is estimated at millions, are back of the scheme, the capital is ready, the charter secured and Mr. Powell has been appointed manager of the enterprise.

The survey party started from Edmonton about the first of September and will work all winter building bridges, stables and stores. None but good men employed will be allowed to go with the surveyors. The plan is to build one road by the way of Laird river, one of the main branches of the McKenzie river, and another by way Pelly river, which is one of the head waters of the Yukon.

Stables will be built so as to provide passengers with relays of horses every 12 miles, thus enabling them to make 100 miles per day. On some portions of the road it may be necessary to use reindeer, and possibly dogs will be used in some of the higher altitudes up north.

Stores will be provided at frequent intervals and will be well provisioned.

The company will give a man transportation and food for one year for $500. The plan is to issue a certificate on the coupon plan good at the stores for food, which will be negotiable. The latter feature it is thought will be especially attractive, as the companies now contracting to take men into the diggings will not make the agreement transferable. Under the new arrangements contemplated a traveller who wishes to turn back need not lose his entire investment, but may dispose of his food certificate to the best advantage.

POLICE COURT NEWS.

Acquainted Before, But Quarrelled As Lovers.

A peculiar case came before Justice Lilly on Monday last. Mrs. Essie Gibbons, who has been for some time stopping at the Hotel Vancouver laid an information against John Parks, who has been working at the Reco mine, for assult. Mrs. Gibbons says she is a widow and was acquainted with Parks in fact a lover of his in the States. They subsequently came to Rossland where they were lovers but quarrelled, and he was bound over to keep the peace. They met here again accidentally or otherwise, deponent saith not, and the amenities of yore, were a natural result, loving and quarrelling. Mrs. Gibbons told the court she did not want her lover harshly dealt with, only bound over to keep the peace, and he was bound accordingly.

FINED $10 AND COSTS FOR ASSULT.

Laura Christopherson is a washerwoman, living with her husband at So Ho camp near McGuigan, Joseph D. Godbout, a Frenchman, lives at the camp also. She claims that in the absence of her husband, defendant brought a bundle of clothes there, and said that it ought to be worth a kiss. She said it was not, and he made three unsuccessful efforts to kiss her. He then gave here $5 and promised to get her a new pair of boots, and ende vored take improper liberties with her. His contention was that the third attempt at kissing she kissed him. He said it was ruleable in his country, France, for a man to kiss the woman of the house where he was stopping to establish acquaintance. Justice Lilly thought such a rule might be good enough in France, but it was not workable here and so fined defendant $10 and costs $18 in all. According to Godbout's story Mr. Lilly would not make a good J. P. in France.

LOVATT VS FLETCHER.

Squire Lovatt got there with both feet on Wednesday in his action against D. C. Fletcher for taking logs off his premises. Mr. Fletcher used the logs in cribbing the river on the Cody road, and the Squire though the should have either paid for them or got permission to take them. Fletcher was taxed $10 for the logs and $10 of a fine and costs.

CASE AGAINST KARR DISMISSED.

Mrs. Tyrrell's action against Karr et al in the police court on Wednesday for assult was summarily dismissed.

MINOR CASES.

The Cadi fined Sadie Woods $1 and costs for assult.

Chas. McDonald a drunk and disorderly was cautioned to sin no more, and he bid them the time and departed.

Ronald Grant another d. d. in a greater degree than his predecessor was taxed $1 and costs.

John Flanagan, a miner, got half seas over, and abused the peeler who was attempting to arrest him. This cost John $50 or three months at Kamloops.

W. E. Doaw for refusing a cop when asked to assist in an arrest was taxed $10 or a month.

FIVE FEET OF SOLID GALENA.

A Big Strike on the Last Chance Property.

Last July Mr. Tomlinson started his third tunnel. It is located on the first "hog-back," looking from the Last Chance cabins towards the American Boy, about 700 feet on the lead across and below the other workings. He cut the lead last Friday morning about 80 feet under ground and in 150 feet and to use a little every day slang, "he didn't find a thing." At the point cut the lead is fully five feet in width, and from wall to wall it is shipping ore, carbonate going about 175 ounces and solid galena running 246 ounces silver and 69 per cent lead. He has turned on the lead and will now run to get under the breast No. 2. This will give him 400 feet of depth and when he raises to meet a winze already started in No. 2 he will have an opening through No. 1. No. 3 will be the main working tunnel of the mine. He proposes to push it ahead and through it work all the other claims on the lead.

In the bottom of the winze in No. 2 there is now 18 inches of solid galena running 214 ounces silver and 73 per cent lead. There is little doubt that this ore goes down and is waiting a hundred feet below for No. 3 drift to come and claim it. Mr. Tomlinson cannot say that the new strike is on same chute as the upper workings but he will soon know. Should such prove to be the case, another Payne is the inevitable result.

The fondest dreams were more than realized on Wednesday this week, when on pushing operations a five foot vein of solid galena was struck; which assays 240 ozs. silver and 70 per cent. lead. This is all the more significant from the fact the American Boy and other promising mines are on the same lead.

Holding Too Many Claims.

As a result of Mr. Carlyle's tramp around the different sections of West Kootenay an Amendment to the Mineral Act may be expected during the next session of the Legislature, remarks the Nelson Tribune. Throughout the entire district, but more especially in outlying sections, he has observed a tendency on the part of claim holders to cheat the provision of the Mineral Act dealing with the performance of assessment work upon claims. Though the present act is most liberal in that it admits of the recording of locations before performing any development work whatever, there is a disposition on the part of claim owners to shrink the annual assessment falling due within the years following the location of claims by a system of relocating. The effect of this is that large areas are staked off and no work is performed beyond the driving of the stakes. In one district—Trout Lake—Mr. Carlyle came across one individual who was holding 60 claims. These men are unable to do the necessary assessment themselves, and by evading the spirit of the act, they stand in the way of those who are willing and able to do the necessary development. The system naturally tends to retard all new districts. To overcome the difficulty Mr. Carlyle is of the opinion that the Mineral Act should be amended, so that before a location can be filed in record office, the locator of a claim should be required to perform $100 worth of work. As the opinion of Mr. C. will no doubt have considerable weight with the Minister of Mines, some such amendment may be made to the Mineral Act next session, unless Mr. Carlyle can be induced to change his mind in this respect before the Legislature meets again.

News in General.

The steamer Nakusp is strandard in the Columbia river near Trail, and it will cost $5,000 to raise it.

Millthorp a young English horse ran a half mile race at Grand Forks on Tuesday in one minute and ten seconds and beat Huntley's Honest John 200 feet.

A. J. Privitt, of Frand Forks, shot and killed a highway man on Tuesday night in a "hold up."

All told 21 miners were killed by the Sheriff's bailiffs in the Hazleton riots.

A Mrs. Rideout got $3,000 damages against John McLeod for trifling with her affections, in a Nelson. They settled the matter by getting married.

The Nelson Miner has a libel suit on hand, if it does not retract.

Councillor Keery, of New West minster accidentally shot and killed his brother Joseph while out grouse hunting on the 15th, near that city.

Two tramping miners were given nine months apiece at Kamloops, for theft at New Denver a few days ago.

O. Wegener has found Jack Quincy at a mine near Golden. He says Quincy will give valuable information in favor of the condemned man Creamer.

Important Legal Opinion.

A question touching the legality of notices of improvement, on which the issuance of crown grants are based, was discussed in Mr. Justice Drake's court on Wednesday. The opinion handed down was to the effect that when a notice of intention to apply for a certificate of improvement contains the notice of application of more than one mineral claim, the notice is illegal. The argument before the court on Wednesday was on the motion of the "Contact and Excelsior" mineral claims for leave to issue wait. The Excelsior people applied for a certificate of improvement on which to obtain a Crown grant, but on account of the illegality of the notice as it appeared in the Gazette, the judge allowed the "Contact" owners to bring their motion for leave to issue writ.

A Highway Robbery.

On Monday evening J. S. B. Weller, a prospector from Eureka, South Dakota, was held up by two men in the town limits of Silverton. Weller was returning on foot from New Denver, and in passing through the woods before coming to the bridge he was seized from behind and a gun shoved in his face. He was unable to resist and his two assailants neatly cut out his pocket and decamped. Grant Thorburn and Al. McDonald started in pursuit of the footpads as soon as the news reached Silverton, but as Weller could not identify the robbers and as the pursuers had no clue to work upon the hold-upers escaped. The booty consisted of a watch, three plugs of tobacco, and $210 in American money, $150 of which was in $50 bills.—Ledge.

Information Wanted.

We are asked to publish the following:

To THE PRESS:

J. I. Wilkins left home, in Farragut, Iowa, July 22. He drove a brown pony to a top buggy, and had two boys, aged 4 and 6 years respectively, with him.

Mr. Wilkins is a school teacher and telegraph operator, wears an artificial foot, causing him to walk lame. He was last heard from when passing through Canby, Minnesota. Any information as to his whereabouts, or that of the boys, will be thankfully received by his wife, left destitute, and very anxious for information as to their present location. Benevolent people, especially mothers, are earnestly requested to write to a suffering mother, giving information in regard to her lost boys.

Address: MRS. MARY WILKINS,
Farragut, Iowa.

Newspapers kindly Notice.

A Find of Tellurium Ore.

D. R. McLean, of Sandon, has just returned from an extended trip all through the Duncan creek slope district. He examined properties closely. He stated in an interview with your correspondent that great excitement prevails wherever the recent great find of tellurium ore, on Duncan slope near the head of Gaynot creek, is known. He says a party of men are working back of Duncan, surveying from the head of Kootenay lake to Trout lake. It is supposed that they are working for the Kaslo & Slocan railroad.—Rossland Miner.

The Ruth Company Re-organizes.

The Ruth Mining company, of this town, has been re organized getting in some new parties and additional capital, the capital now amounting to $120,000. Mr. Alexander still remains manager, and but little change will be made except that a largely increased force of miners will be put on for more extensive operations.

Undoubtedly the Best.

GENTLEMEN,—I wish to say that Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry has proved a wonderful remedy in my family. We would not be without it for twice it sprice. I say it is the best (not merely one of the—but the best) medicine ever brought before the public for summer complaints or diarrhœa, either in children or adults.

ABSENT BUT NOT FORGOTTEN.

They Fold Their Tents and Steal Away in the Night Like Wandering Arabs.

For something like a year and a half P. Ananace and A. D. Williams had been residents of this town, Anance doing one thing and another in the interval. Williams was in the brokerage and agency business in partnership with J. K. Leighton, of Nanaimo, this province. Some thought Williams was making a little money in his business, but no one knew much about the affairs of one or the other. Some six months ago, however, they formed a partnership and erected and fitted up the Filbert hotel [illegible] ly on face, as it appeared. About 9 o'clock Friday night last they disposed of the hotel, and put the price in their pockets some $4,500 and left for Kaslo on a hand car on the K. and S. road. At Kaslo they took a boat and was at the boundary about eleven o'clock Saturday, as early as most people knew of the levant. So far as estimated they have left an indebtedness of about $3,500, and what is worse, most of it is to local firms who are not well able to stand their losses.

From the way things are turning out, this defrauding was contemplated for some time and planned as time went on. Some creditors the day before surmised what was going on, and applied to the law officers for warrants to detain the absconders, but by some means were unable to get them, so they had to quietly bear their disappointment, with the defrauding going on before their eyes.

Mr. Leighton, of Nanaimo, Williams' partner, is now in the city looking over the situation. He says that once before he had to put up a sum of money to keep Williams out of quad in Nanaimo, and he hoped on coming here he would take a turn for the better with his experience, but it appears he has not done so.

Many think that Anance is the greater offender of the two, and if the reports we hear about his methods are true, his game from the first was to bluff and crib.

A younger brother of Williams is now in quad at the instance of some of the creditors, not because he is a participant in the defrauding but, because his relations with the brother hold him in law.

It apears A. D. was unable to hold property in his own name, that he held it in that of his brother, and the circumstance to some extent at least implicates the latter. It is not unlikely the father who is said to be in comfortable shape may arrive on the scene and assist in quieting the matter in some form; but in the meantime the public are sympathising with the creditorr.

American Enterprise.

An Enterprising medicine man, who has read of the cholera hoax in Sandon is sending the following to all residents. If he gets paid for his ink to say nothing of the postage and stationery, he will be a very fortunate man:

DES MOINES, IOWA,
SEPT. 7TH, 1897.

MR.——

Sandon, B. C.,

Dear Sir:—

We see by the press dispatches that there is an outbreak of cholera there. As we manufacture a remedy which was used with great success during the epidemic at Honolulu we take the liberty of calling your attention to it. If Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera & Diarrhœa Remedy is given as soon as any unusual looseness of the bowels appears it will prevent the attack. Your local druggists may have it in stock; if they have not they can get it for you in a very short time from Langley & Co., Victoria, and will be glad to do so if you request it.

Yours truly,

CHAMBERLAIN MEDICINE CO.

Montezuma Wagon Road.

The finishing touches were given the Montezuma and South Fork wagon road Monday, and yesterday the first teams, loaded with timbers for the Montezuma mine, went over it. The road is said to be well built. It is nearly three miles long and cost a trifle over $2,500. No time will be lost now in getting the Montezuma mill material and machinery on the ground.—Kootenaian.

BANK OF ENGLAND.

A Director Replies To The Times Correspondent

London, Sept., 13. Mr. Henry Grenfell, a director of the Bank of England and a former governor, has a letter in the Times this morning in the course of which he asks: "As a bi-metallist and as one of the senior members of the bank court, I think I have a right to ask, on what grounds the writer of the article entitled "A Remonstrance," in your Saturday's issue, makes his assertion that the bank has decided to hold a fifth of its reserve in silver. Had the bank done so, its action would have been strictly in accord with the bank act of 1844 and equally in accordance with the action taken in 1881 by the president. What the bank did in 1881 was to assure the treasury that the bank would always be open to the purchase of silver on condition of the return of mints of other countries to such rules as would ensure certainty to conversion of gold into silver and of silver into gold. Bi-metallists declare that the effect of a double standard in France alone was that the two metals did exchange throughout the world at a legal ratio, or with such slight variations as might, in consideration of this great subject, be neglected. There is no ground for saying that any one connected with the bank has officially gone beyond the position. Indeed I doubt if any opinion has been recorded, or any determination come to, at all. Your correspondent's whole letter seems founded on a supposition of what may, or may not, have arisen, in the necessity for preliminary discussions with regard to the watering of the bank's reserve with silver on the condition mentioned in 1881. If I am not mistaken the very persons who deprecate this dilution, have always been most desirous of much greater dilution of the issue of pound notes, on a more or less fiduciary basis. I may conclude by saying that the expression 'Certain Americans' is scarcely a fitting description of the commissioners now officially charged by their government for their difficult arduous task.

WILK-TARTE RETIRE?

An Inspired Authority Says He Is Liable To.

Toronto, Ont., Sept.—The Montreal correspondent of a morning paper wires: Agitation for the retirement of Mr. Tarte from the cabinet is becoming so widespread it is doubtful if Premier Laurier can ignore it much longer. A year ago it would have been considered a safe venture to wager that the minister of public works would remain in office as long as any of his colleagues. To-day political wiseacres in both parties are speculating as to the time and manner of his going. The outspoken demand of the independent portion of the government press for the removal of this minister is a significant development, and is merely the smoke shows a smouldering fire beneath. Before such a public step was taken it is absolutely certain that many confidential representations were made to the premier on the subject. That he has delayed action till patience had ceased to be a virtue, or that he has discouraged agitation, must be responsible for the publicity that has recently been given to the movement.

There is abundant proof that Mr. Tarte has for many months been aware of the mine over which he stands.

Last session he declared in parliament when discussing the Drummond county deal, that he was being under mined. He said: "I know the bottom of the whole conspiracy against myself," and he added, turning to the Liberals behind him: "Every man has his enemies, sometimes even in his own camp." Such a scene was not acted without reason, and it was done as a check to the growing opposition to the suspected minister.

Mr. Tarte some time since announced a trip to Europe. He was to meet his chief at Rome and together they were to bow before the throne of St. Peter. No ordinary reason could turn a devotee from such a purpose, but the pilgrimage was cancelled and the minister of public works spent his summer in discovering ways of making himself solid with allies in various parts of the Dominion.

Providence Thanked.

It is with pleasure that I recommend B.B.B. for the cure of indigestion and impure blood. I had tried many medicines but received no benefit until, I thank Providence, I was advised to use B. B. B., and it was with perfect success.

MINING BRIEFS.

The North Fork of Lemon Creek received a hard blow last June when the Hall Mines Co., threw up their bond on the Chapleau, a dry ore proposition, and closed the property down. Now comes the cheering news that A. E. Teeters, of the Howard Fraction, who shortly afterward took a lease on the property, has come into a large body of very high grade ore. Mr. Teeters now has a good force of men at work; he is taking out ore, and says he has every hope of making the Chapleau a mine. Those who have seen the property recently, support Mr. Teeters in his belief. The property is owned by Messrs Gwillim, Frank Dick and others.

Work on the Tennessee mine near Nelson is to be pushed vigorously.

Messrs. Wilson Bros. claims, the Last Chance group, above Cottonwood lake, are improving daily and it has been found advisable to work night and day shifts. The ore is solid yellow copper in veins of white quartz, of which there are a great number on this property, and in almost every instance they have widened as depth was gained. Messrs. Wilson hope to send a good large smelting sample down before snow flies.

After running for some time the Enterprise mine on Ten Mile creek has shut down. This is the result of a visit from one of the owners at Spokane the other day. It throws a large number of miners out of work for some time. We are informed a contemplated change of ownership and management are directly the cause. The mine is an excellent property, and has a showing ahead to warrant very extensive operations from the start.

A cave in took place at the Star mine a few days ago by the dropping of a piece of an over hanging wall. It has occasioned the lay off of a number of men for a few days, but fortunately with no worse consequences, no one being hurt. Mining is attended with draw backs as well as any other business—it is not all profit.

OPPOSITION VS. GOVERNMENT.

From appearances it is reasonable to infer we are shortly to have a general election in this province, and the circumstance ought to set the people a thinking. Col. Baker has just made a tour of the country in the interest of the government and the opposition are fully on the war path. To one who looks carefully into the matter it is evident there is much in the province to correct, but from the utterances of the leaders of the opposition they are not taking "the bull by the horns," in the correction of abuses. With them it appears more like "Turn the rascals out," and put us in their places.

Per capita this province has quite double the revenue of most of the other provinces of the Confederation, and it is not being spent in the country according to deserts; and after all the proper expenditure of public money is the proper balance on which to weigh any administration. Their opinions of this, that and the other are matters for proper consideration, but the proper use of our money is that which comes home to us with most orce; and on this matter the opposition seems next thing to silent.

Our House and Cabinet representation, not at all too numerous, but both are ample if they were only properly distributed on the basis of say one member for every 4,000 to 5,000 people. Here in the Kootenay country each representative covers three or for times that number and a territorry large enough for a fair sized province. The first thing we should have is a proper redistribution bill on something like the basis of population; and the next thing is a full consideration of the government's financial policy.

It does not require an ounce of discretion to show the late heavy expenditure on government buildings was not only unwarranted but manifestly unjust to the country. Victoria, for instance, is not at all convenient for the capital, and such an expenditure on buildings there is only muzzling the country by brute force—the west having a representation acquiescing in the the expenditure, to which it is not entitled. If we had a year or two hence a proper representation, that representation would scarcely be free in looking at the province's interest in locating the seat of government elsewhere, because of the heavy expenditure that is now irrevocable. A government friendly to the country at large would have given the country proper representation before it was saddled with such a burden—that the people in the selection of the capital, and judicious expenditures thereon, might have spoken for themselves. Then again, the machine appears to be run on the aristocracy basis—"the lords of the soil consuming the loaves and the fishes," while the masses are paying the piper. What we want more particularly to say is that the outlying districts are in no respect getting a reasonable expenditure of money in proportion to their taxation. The rural parts are putting up the revenues that are expended on the aristocracy.

In our issue of last week we showed how revenues were extorted from the people of this town on infraction of the health regulations, and the government failed to correct its own infractions—leaving them also as legacies to the common taxpayers, and so on along the line. To us it is a matter of supreme indifference which party is in or out, if we only have proper government; and while sympathy is with the opposition, merely because the feeling is that the government is heedless of the requirements of the people, we, at least, would like the opposition to express themselves fully on the government's weaknesses, and show the public in clear lines how they would correct them. Let us have clearness on this matter, and that as soon as possible. It is but little consolation to be told that our family physician is inefficient unless we are shown where we can find one who will be an improvement. In the present case the issue should not turn on political lines, but wholly and solely on a distinct outline of the government's mal administration, and the remedies for its ills.

BETTER GOVERNMENT.

The trend of politics and the wiles of politicians in Canada must be amusing to those who give the matter attention. One half the cries against governments by oppositions are merely to let the latter have the handling of the loaves and fishes. None can deny that government in Canada, Federal as well as Provincial, requires remodeling in the interest of the common taxpayer; and though oppositions are profuse in their promises to catch suffering humanity before elections, on trial like Bob Acres, they allow their courage to ooze out at their fingers' ends, lest they should lose some patronage for their hungry followers.

In the late Federal elections, the opposition cries were Free Trade, abolition of the senate, reduced officials in numbers and salaries, greater economy all around, and no separate schools for Manitoba. It is true that a change in the tariff has been made, that is in the right direction, but it is far from what was promised, Free Trade, and the declaration in Great Britain that Canada has the right to make its own commercial treaties, is in no respect the outgrowth of the altered tariff. It is only one expression on a point of constitutional law that was never before brought up. We hear nothing now about the abolition of the senate, and reduced officials, except in the turning out of Tories and their being replaced by Grits. While the principle of separate schools is not forced on Manitoba, they are there in fact. Just the other day Greenway imported a Roman Catholic school inspector from Quebec, and for what? surely not to inspect ordinary public schools as the country is full of men capable of performing such duties. No, but to oversee Catholic schools which are there in fact, if not in theory. This is the end of the boasted "no surrender."

Canada is overgoverned, over officialed and overtaxed in the interest of an aristocracy, and what the country wants is opposition members in the Houses with brains and principle, grounded in a conviction as to public needs. Let one-half the money spent on high salaried officials, who do little more for their money than strut around the country like Capt. Phillips-Wolley showing their authority, be given to realizing the needs of the people in better roads, better and more simplified court processes, that poor people may be enabled to find the means of getting justice, when their interests are imperiled. Let there be oppositions with reforms like these emblazoned on their banners, and they will soon capture the public vote.

The visit of the English scientists cannot fail to be of service to the mining sections of this province, in that it will post the English people generally on the natural wealth of this section. Though there are many educated men across the ocean, yet considerable ignorance exists in even educated quarters, as to affairs in this country; but when the educated men do come they never fail in taking with them an intelligent comprehension of things as they exist. The scientists, one and all, say they never had a conception of the actual wealth of this country. They knew there were mines here, but their capability and the extent of the mining country were all a mystery to them.

THE LARDEAU BONANZA.

The Assay Is Said To Have Given Remarkable Results.

D. W. McVicar during the past week has been displaying some samples of ore from the Lardeau district and an assay certificate which have excited considerable comment. The ore is from the Olive May, Little Fred and three other claims owned by Lade brothers and Arthur Gunn and the assay certificate gives a value of 148½ ounces in gold. Calculated at $20 per ounce, the result shown is $2,960 per ton. The ore shows iron pyrites and graphic tellurium and according to the statement of Mr. McVicar it was taken from an 8-foot ledge. He does not know the width of the pay streak. There are three different ledges on the group and were discovered about one month ago. Two tons have been shipped to the Nelson smelter for testing and a large sample has been placed on exhibition in the Bank of British Columbia. Mr. McVicar states that the ore is identical with that taken from Boulder creek.

SLEPT BY HAUNTED BUTTE.

Strange Experience of a Prospector in the Wilds of Slocan.

Rossland, B.C., Record: "The Haunted Butte" is the name of one lonely mountain in the Northern Kootenays. Strange, wierd sounds are borne upon the air to prospectors who visit this mountain, and many a tired prospector, after camping for the night, has perforce seen fit to move on to more congenial quarters.

Wm. Leitch, a prospector, in describing his experience, said:

"One day I met two prospectors, who told me a strange tale about a certain mountain. Having been partly over the mountain myself, I laughed at their story, but they were so earnest, I finally became convinced that they had seen something.

"The mountains of Slocan are not like the mountains here; they are lofty and grand, with towering peaks overshadowing dark, precipituous canyon ways. A prospector often takes his life in his own hands scaling the jagged cliffs. Large and small game are plentiful.

"Shortly after I had met the prospectors, I found myself one day scaling the 'Haunted Butte.' I camped near the edge of a dark gorge. It was indeed a wild spot. Toward evening the wind arose and commenced soughing down the gorge. I cooked my supper and made myself as comfortable as I could for the night. While nearly dropping into a doze I was startled by hearing strange sounds like music floating in the air, which was simply sublime. It sounded like the clashing of cymbals, and a hundred fine string instruments playing at once, and then by degress grew softer and fainter until it had died away in a sigh. I lay on my elbow like one paralyzed and listened. The first thing I heard was a faint twang, then came a flute-like silvery peel, followed by the chimes of bells. Every instrument you could think of seemed to be swept by a master hand. Low at first and only at intervals, the melody of sounds intermixed and swelled until they sounded like the triumphal clash of some great orchestra, only wilder and more melodious, and then the sound would fade gradually and end in a sad wail.

"This happened less than twenty miles from Sandon.

"People who know me do not accredit me with superstition, and I have always flattered myself that I had very little of it in my composition. But that night I thought of spirits, angels, fairies, devils and everything connected with ancient lore. Like Hamlet, I came to the conclusion that there are more things in heaven and earth than is dreamed of by man.

"Several times that night the music was repeated, but the next morning, when I awoke, the sun was blazing in the east and sending long shadows up the mountain sides. The noises of the tumbling waterfall above me was the only thing that reached my ears and I wondered if I had been dreaming.

"To make a long story short, I found that it was the wind that produced those heavenly sounds. At night when everything was still, of course, sounds were heard much plainer. When the wind blew strong enough from a certain direction it swept down the canyon and struck the waterfall in such a way as to produce the noises."

Away Down East.

From east to west people have heart trouble. It causes violent headaches, neuralgia, nerve trouble and prostration. Says Mrs. Somers, of Moncton, N.B.: "I tried many remedies but never found anything to give me such prompt relief as Millburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have done. I suffered from the above symptoms, but now gladly testify to the cure these wonderful pills have made in my case, and I hope all sufferers will try them."

A Turn In the Tide.

This new and surprising thing will be in the shape of a migration from from the United States to Canada, says the Toronto World. For years our sons and daughters have been crossing the line and building up the great republic to the south. There was an exodus and our politicians deplored the fact, and made what they could out of it. Now, the flow is to be from the states into Canada All over that country individuals are getting ready and syndicates are getting ready to move into British Columbia and the Northwest Territories early next spring. The Klondyke fields have caught the world, and caught no one so ardently as the people of the United States. There will be no controlling the rush once it starts. The great republic is full of restless, pushing men, only waiting for a field of some kind wherein they may unloose their energy and their muscle, and the gold fields of British Columbia and the Territories beyond are to prove the new centre of restless industry. The great west gives way to the golden north. Britsh Columbia and our Yukon country, the Peace river country are rich with gold beyond computation or past experience. The Rocky Mountains, in Canadian territory, include the most valuable mineral stores in the world. The golden north is the rising giant of the day, and toward it turning. Australia is getting ready her contingent; so is Europe, but, most of all, the United States. And not only the gold fields of the Rockies, but the wheat fields of our Northwest, are commanding the attention of the people of the States. Colonies are getting ready to leave Kansas, to settle in Canada. Let them come. All they have to do is to become Canadians and grow up with the country. The exodus boot is to be on the other leg.

Important Mining Transactions.

It is understood that Mr. Hugh Sutherland with whom are associated strong parties in the east, has acquired a considerable interest in a very valuable property consisting of two groups on White Grouse mountain. There are fourteen claims and four fractions included in the transaction and the sum paid in cash is a very handsome one. A large amount of development has already been done upon the properties which are tributary to the Crow's Nest Railway, and it is understood that the parties interested will continue to develop energetically and be working at full capacity by the time the road reaches Kootenay lake.

Miners Make an Attack on a Sheriff.

Hazelton, Pa., Sept. 10.—The strike reached a terrible crisis on the out skirts of Latimer to-day when a band of deputy-sheriffs firired into an infuriated mob of miners. The men fell like so many sheep and the excitement since has been so intense that no accurate figures of the number who were wounded can be obtained. Reports ran from 15 to 20 killed and 40 wounded. Many of the latter will die.

One man who reached the scene to-night counted 18 corpses. Four others of the dead lie in the mountains between Latimer and Harleigh. Those who were not injured carried their dead and wounded friends into the woods. Three bodies were found to-night on the road near Latimer. The strikers left Hazleton at 2.30 p. m., announcing their intention to go to Latimer. As soon as this became known a band of deputies got on a trolley car and went across the mountain to the scene, where the conflict followed. After reaching Latimer they left the car and formed into three companies.

THEY ATTACKED THE SHERIFF.

They drew up in line at the edge of the village, with a fence as a line of houses in their rear. Sheriff Martin was in command, and he walked up and down in the front of the line until the strikers appeared. They were seen coming across the ridge and Sheriff Martin went out to meet them. The men drew up sullenly and listened in silence until he had once more read the riot act. This finished a low muttering arose among the foreigners, and there was a slight movement forward, and in a determined tone forl ade them to advance. Someone struck the Sheriff, and the next moment there was a command issued to the deputies to fire. The guns of the deputies instantly belched forth a terrible volley, and the report seemed to shake the very mountain and a cry of dismay went up from the people. The strikers were entirely taken by surprise, and as the men toppled and fell over each other those who remained unhurt stampeded. The men went down before the storm of bullets like tenpins, and the groans of the dying and of the wounded filled the air.

THE EXCITEMENT INDESCRIBABLE.

The excitement that followed was simply indescribable, the deputies seemed to be terror stricken at the deadly execution af their guns and seeing the living strikers fleeing like wild men and others dropping to the earth, they went to the aid of the unfortunates whom they had brought down. The people of Latimer rushed pell mell to the scene, but the screams of the wounded drowned the cries of the sympathizing and half crazed inhabitants.

SHERIFF MARTIN TELLS HIS STORY.

Wilkesbarry, Pa. Sept. 10—Sheriff Martin, who ordered the deputies to fire on the mob at Hazelton, arrived here on the 7 o'clock train this evening. He was cool and collected. The sheriff was at first reluctant to say whether he had given the command to fire, but afterwards admitted that he had. He said: "The trouble began at 4 p. m. I met the marching column, halted it and read the proclamation, The miners refused to pay any attention and started to resume their march when I called on the leader to stop. He ignored my order. I thenattempted to arrest him. The strikers closed in on me, knocking me down and trampling on me. I called on my deputies to aid me and they did so, but they were unable to accomplish much. I realized that something should be done at once or I would be killed.

"I called to the deputies to discharge their firearms into the air over the heads of the strikers, as it might probably frighten them. It was done at once, but it had no effect whatever on the infuriated foreigners, who used me so much the rougher and became fiercer and fiercer, and more like wild beasts than human beings.

THE FATAL ORDER.

"The strikers than made a still bolder move and endeavored to surround my entire force of deputies. I fully realized that the foreigners were a desperate lot and valued my life at a very little figure. I also saw that parleying with such a gang of infuriated men was entirely out of the question, as they were too excited to listen to reason and that myself and deputies would be killed if we were not rescued, or if we did not defend ourselves. I then called upon the deputies to fire if they must protect their lives or property that they had been sent to guard from being demoralized. I hated to give the command to shoot and am awful sorry that I was compelled to do so, but I was there to do my duty and I did it as best I knew how and as my conscience dictated."

The Press.

The press is the mirror and monitor of the world, says an authority. It reflects and corrects both private public evils. It refutes the vagaries of fanatics, explodes the delusions of fools, and exposes the traps and tricks of knaves. While it produces an absolutely accurate likeness of both truth and error, it does not, with but rare exceptions, "make the worse appear the better reason." It throws vice on the glass till the world learns to loathe it, and paints virtue till its beauty shines forth and men learn to love it. It does not sneer at purity and honor, but gives the lie to those who see the world through passion's eyes, bloodshot and brutal, or behold it in sickly yellow light through the jaundiced orbs of prejudice. In the fierce grapple between might and right, it takes its stand for truth and justice. The proportion of false sheets and soulless columns is daily growing less. The power of the press as an exponent of public opinion is seen in the fact that even the fiercest despots are obliged to turn to it for support. The most powerful social compounds and political combinations stand in awe of it. No one is so high as not to be sensible of even its feeblest pulsations, and only those who are mentally and morally insignificant even affect an indifference for its opinions and judgements.

The Stone Age in British Columbia.

When I arrived on this coast, in 1854, the Indians generally made and used implements of stone such as arrow and spear points, knives, adzes, axes, and continued to make and use them for years after that. The material they used was chert, jade, a black and gray slate, and a dark and gray basalt. I think I may have seen the process of making these articles when I first came here, but am not certain. However, I know pretty well how they were made, at least by the Indians inhabiting this island. A black bear skin was spread on the ground with the hair side down; then a flake of chert, or jade, or of basalt, first roughed out by striking two pieces together, was held on the bear's skin between the fingers and chipped into shape with another stone, or a bone, by gradual pressure. In this way they soon formed very perfect arrowheads, some having points as sharp as a needle.

The base of the weapon was worked out by simple pressure, then inserted in the cleft shaft, and securely held in its place with pitch, asphaltum, or a glue made of fins of the halibut. The larger spearheads were usually made of slate, split into flakes, worked out, and then rubbed until polished. Their adzes and axes were made of chert, jade, or basalt, and were of various shapes and sizes. Some of them were finely finished and polished, while others were rough and ill-formed. One class of them were evidently made to be used by holding in the hand, but the great m jority of them had handles of some description.—The Antiquarian."

Skagway Pass Impossible.

The Alaska Miner, of Juneau, says: the impossibility of crossing the range of way of the Skagway pass is made more evident every day. With horses by the hundred and every facility which ample means can furnish, a blockade of the worst kind exists here. At a conservative estimate there are 5,000 to 6,000 men crowding each other over the trail, until a point is reached beyond which they cannot go. Last week a miners' meeting decided to stop all travel over this pass, by force if necessary, until a road was made through it. From all we can learn, not more than a dozen with their outfits have yet succeded in getting through. That there will be a great deal of suffering there can be no doubt. Many men have already abandoned their original intention of taking in a large outfit, such is their anxiety to to reach the El Dorado. These men will regret when it is too late. We noticed very few on the trail who were prepared to make a winter journey. There is a vast difference between a winter outfit and one adapted to summer travel, and there will be a rude awakening, we fear, to many who will not be advised.

The Ruling Spirit.

The story is told of a housewife who was so extremely neat that she woke one night at the sound of her husband creeping softly out of bed and toward the light-stand.

"What's the matter, William?" she whispered.

"Sh!" he whispered, "there's a burglar coming up the front stairs, and I'm getting my revolver."

All was silence again, in the midst of which William crept noiselessly to the head of the stairs. Presently there was a loud report followed by a mad scurrying of feet; then the husband came back, lighted a lamp, and had returned to the stairway.

"O William, William, did he—

"Yes, he got away," said the husband.

"Oh, I don't care so much about that," the woman said, "but William did he—

"Did he what?"

"Did he wipe his feet before he started up the stairs?"

DAWSON IN DISTRESS.

Gold Everywhere But Food is Scarce.

The Stores Are Closed—A Number of Goldseekers Stranded at St. Michaels.

San Francisco, Sept.—The Examiner prints an extra edition containing the following news from Dawson City:

Otter Point, B. C., Sept. 10.—The steamer Cleveland has arrived from St. Michaels, bringing with her from the Yukon gold fields a story of distress and disaster. The winter has set in at Dawson City and the two great stores of the place have closed their doors, for they have nothing to sell. Those who have been seeking gold now must seek for food or starve. There can be no question but that famine threatens.

The first signs of winter are apparent on the Yukon river, which is beginning to freeze and in a few weeks will be closed. Enormous prices are now being paid for food at Dawson, and it is impossible that more than four vessels with provisions can reach Dawson before the river is a mass of ice. On the Cleveland are 38 passengers, who have come from Dawson. If one were to believe the miners' stories, he would say the treasure-ship in which they come carries $5,000,000. Captain Hall, master of the Cleveland, says that he has $100,000 in his safe. The purser believes that he can account for $150,000 on board.

Pain in the Back.

Mr. M. P. Halpin, Brockville, Ont., makes a statement as follows: "For two years I suffered from kidney trouble, causing severe pain across my back, dizziness, headache, sleeplessness, etc. I had often to lean on the counter when serving a customer, so intense was the pain in my back. On taking Doan's Kidney Pills I improved from the very first, and now after using three boxes am all right; all my pains, aches and dizziness having disappeared, thanks to Doan's Pills."

Issued Worthless Checks.

W. P. Herbert, until recently in the employ of a Trail merchant, was arrested in this city on Sunday last, on information received from Officer Devill, on the charge of having entered checks on the Bank of British North America while having no funds on deposit. It is alleged that Herbert presented a number of checks to different persons in Trail, always after banking hours, asking the accommodation on the fact that the bank was closed and he could not get the money that day. When the checks were presented for payment there were no funds with which to pay them. After issuing the checks Herbert left Trail for Nelson, where he was traced by the police. He was taken back to Trail for a hearing, by Officer W. J. Devitt. The penalty for the crime, if proved against the accused, is not less than three years imprisonment. Herbert was formerly an employee of a Nelson business man.

Trade With France.

It is even not beyond the limits of possibility that France, the most protectionist of European countries, should enter into improved trade relations with Canada, says an American Exchange. Sir Wilfrid Laurier's visit to France aroused much interest, and he was extremely well received by all parties. The imagination of the French was touches, as well as their pride, by the fact that a few thousand colonists were handed over to England as subjects, they had maintained their religion and their language, and one of them now visited France as the Prime Minister of the Dominion which she had originally created. The situation was certainly striking; and Sir Wilfrid Laurier did not hesitate to suggest to the French Minister of Finance at a public banquet the possibility of establishing better trade relations with the Canadian Government. According to the Paris Temps, this suggestion ought to be heartily accepted. We cannot expect much from the French in the way of tariff reductions but Sir Wilfrid Laurier's visit has unquestionably had a good deal of effect, which will be increased should other countries respond to the liberal policy of Canada.

MOUNTAIN ECHOES.

All the latest novels at Cliffe's book store.

Wall paper at Cliffe's book store cheap.

A sidewalk is laid down at the rear of the Virginia block half way to the K. and S. track.

The Star has shipped 160,000 pounds of ore over the C. P. R. the past week, and the Reco 40,000 lbs.

The Presbyterians from now on will hold their services in Spencer's hall at the hours of 11 a.m. and 7.30 p.m.

At one bound silver went up to 56¾ with lead stationary. The chances are the advance will now be permanent.

The Rev. Mr. Menzies returned Monday from his attendance at the Presbytery and left next day for Rossland.

Mr. Portman is greatly enlarging his beer bottling works on Slocan Star street and building a second story for a residence.

Splendid views of Sandon, Cody, Three Forks, New Denver, Slocan City and Kaslo for sale at Cliffe's book store. Price 75 cts.

The Seattle chamber of commerce has already applied to the federal government for aid for the Klondykers during the coming winter.

Mr. Harris is adding much to the convenience of the place in the street crossings he is laying down from the Virginia block and elsewhere.

A dance was given in the Virginia Block last night, but as The REVIEW went to press before it began we think it better to leave further particulars till next week.

Commencing to-morrow (Sunday) the evening service at the Methodist church will open at 7.15 instead of 7.45. Morning service as usual at 11. There will be special singing at the evening service.

Slocan Star street is being thoroughly cleaned up and graded. When all these changes are made it will afford room for very extensive stores and business places. They can be built any length the owners may desire without hindrance from the river.

The concert stars Misses Marietta la Dell and Frances World, of Detroit, Mich., have closed an engagement for October 30th and November 1st in Sandon. They are stars in reality in their parts and those who have the good fortune to hear them will be amply satisfied for their outlay.

The whistle of the new steam laundry is now heard abroad in the land announcing that the institution is ready to wrestle with dirty clothes. It is one of the most complete and best fitted up premises of the kind in the country and will doubtless revolutionize the business in Sandon. They open on Monday.

"Cast Thy Bread Upon the Water and it shall return to you after many days," was in a sense verified when the plate glass for the Virginia Block came to Sandon from Vancouver bearing posters with the Mail imprint. The work was done by us over five years ago in Brandon while proprietors of the Mail newspaper.

The Rev. Mr. Sanford is going to Revelstoke to-day or to-morrow to meet his intended bride, from the east at that point. On Tuesday they are to be married in the Methodist church here and the ladies intend to tender them a reception. The building will be nicely decorated for the occasion. The ladies are always good to the clergymen.

The price of silver appears to be on the mend though still fluctuating. One day the past week it went 54¼ cents. It is announced by some of the dailies the Bank of England has decided to keep one-fifth of its reserve in white metal, which will go a long distance towards establishing a solid value for silver. Other circumstances too are tending to give it a solidity in the market.

Squire Lovatt captained a party up to the top of one of the highest hills to the south the other day, where they had a fine view of Slocan lake and the surrounding country. To use the Squire's words, and they are not original to him either, they saw "all the kingdoms of the earth." It is not said that he offered any of them to his followers, or that any of the latter fell down and worshipped him.

Mr. Carter professes to own some slabs in the east end of the town, and a dozen of people contened ignorance of ownership, and used some of them. This brought on a case in the police court last evening that took the attention of Justices Lilly and McArthur, Attorney Grimmett and a dozen others for some hours. The case was dismissed with a nod indicating "Not guilty, but don't do it again."

Some of the passengers on the K. & S. last Sunday had a rather exciting experience, when the rear coach left the track and rolled on to its side. Fortunately no one was injured nor serious damage done, but Mr. Rand for a time thought a ton of dynamite had exploded when a valise from a bracket lit on his head; and strange irony of fate Mr. F. Golden was at the time reading an article on "How to Prolong Life."

A pro re nata meeting of the Presbytery of Kamloops was held in Rossland on Tuesday, 14th inst., for the purpose of ordaining and inducting D. McG. Gandier, B.A., Rev. T. Paton, of Grand Forks, acting as moderator. During the service Rev. Jas. Naien preached a sermon, Revs. Glassford and Warden addressed the newly inducted minister and Rev. T. Menzies addressed the congregation. After the services the choir treated the members of the Presbytery to light refreshments.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Byron White, of Spokane, who is a large owner in the Slocan Star mine, is here on a business trip for some days.

Mr. McDonald, a brother of Mr. D. C. McDonald, is here on a visit from Denver, where he is engaged on one of the daily papers of that place.

TWO MEN FROM BURLINGTON.

They Were Both Charles C. Clark, and Various Complications Resulted.

"Got any mail for Charles C. Clark?" asked one of the guests at the Lindell Hotel of Clerk Lewis last night.

"Well, I did have, but gave it to you an hour ago," was the reply.

"Gave it to me? Why, how's that?" asked the astonished man. "I haven't received any mail at all to-day."

"Isn't your name Charles C. Clark?"

"Yes, sir."

"From Burlington?"

"Yes, sir."

"Well, I'm sorry Mr. Clark, but I was under the impression I had several letters for you and delivered them. But I guess I was mistaken."

Mr. Clark went away, half grumbling, half satisfied, and Clerk Lewis turned to The Republican, and said: "I'm in a devil of a fix; I'm sure I gave that man's mail away, and——"

Just then another guest came up and threw down half a dozen letters on the counter. "I'm Charles C. Clark of Burlington," he said, "but these letters are not for me. Guess there is some mistake about the address."

He turned away before Mr. Lewis had time to question him, so the missives were put away for the other guest.

Then the first man returned and wanted to know where his laundry was. He had been promised faithfully, he said, to have it in his room in the morning. It wasn't there and he didn't have a clean piece of linen to his name. The clerk investigated, and was told by the laundress and messenger of the hotel that "Mr. Clark's laundry was sent up to his room and must be there yet, and please tell Mr. Clark to look again."

"Hang them," exclaimed Clark, "don't they think I can see. I searched all over the room, and it's not there."

"Oh, by the way," said Clerk Lewis, "here are your letters, Mr. Clark," and he handed over the opened epistles. "Now, maybe I can explain about your laundry," he continued, after the man had finished swearing about his correspondence being opened. "There's another Charles C. Clark here from Burlington."

"Yes, here he is," interrupted the other Clark, coming up to the desk, "and here's a bill for laundry that I don't owe," and he threw down a yellow slip before Clark No. 1 and the puzzled clerk.

Explanations followed. One man was Charles C. Clark of Burlington, Ia., who had been stopping at the hotel for the last week, and the other was Charles C. Clark of Burlington, Kan., who arrived only yesterday. They exchanged pleasantries over the matter and adjourned to the bar. Mr. Lewis followed them and insisted on paying for the drinks."—St. Louis Republic.

Trapped the Officer.

A little time ago a tradesman who carried on business in a large provincial town happened to see a man whom he knew to be an Inland Revenue officer prying into his shop window. After satisfying his curiosity, the officer entered the shop, notebook and pencil in hand, and thus addressed the proprietor:

"Mr. Robins, I understand?"

"Yes, I am Mr. Robins."

"You keep a trap, I believe?"

"That is so."

"Have you a license for it?"

"I have not."

"Had you a license last year?"

"No."

"Then why didn't you take out a license?"

"Well, I didn't think it was needed."

"Oh, indeed! How many does your trap hold?"

"When it's full, five."

"And how many wheels has it?"

"None."

"None! Why, what sort of a trap is it?"

"Oh, it's a mouse trap!"

The officer beat a hasty retreat, followed by the loud laughter of the mischief-loving Mr. Robins.—Tid-Bits.

He Got Better.

It was a sad scene. The old man lay on the bed, and by him sat the faithful wife, holding his worn hand in hers and forcing back the tears to greet his wondering look with a smile. She spoke words of comfort and of hope, but he felt the cold hand falling on him, and he turned his weary eyes up to her pale, worn face.

"Jeannie, dear wife, I am going."

"Oh, no, John, not yet, not yet."

"Yes, dear wife," and he closed his eyes, "the end is near. The world—the world grows dark around me, gathering thicker and thicker, and I seem to hear sweet music."

"No, no, dear John; that's the brass band in the street."

"What?" said the dying man. "Have those scoundrels dared to come round here when they know I am dying? Give me my bootjack; I'll soon let 'em see!" and in a towering rage the old man jumped from his bed, and before his wife could think he had opened the window and had shied the bootjack at the band. "I've hit that Dutch leader, anyway," said he, and went back to bed and got better.

A Drawback.

Aunt—Well, Ethel, how do you like our new little brother?

Ethel (aged 4)—I don't like him at all. He can't even speak English.—Judge.

The Value of Salt.

Common salt ground to a fine powder will remove the stain of hard-boiled eggs from silver spoons quicker than anything else. Coarse salt, however, will scratch them. A little salt will remove the stain of tea from cups or of vinegar from table linen.

Salt and water will clean willow or rattan furniture and will keep matting from turning yellow, as it will if wiped off with clear water. After sweeping a carpet which is somewhat faded, scatter coarse, damp table salt over it, and brush it vigorously. A fresh supply of dust may be extracted from the carpet in this way and the faded colors will be perceptibly brightened. A handful of salt added to a tubful of water, in which colored cambric and other cottons are soaked before they are washed, will prevent the colors running. Rinse the goods in salted water and dry them as rapidly as possible. Do not use too much salt, however, as it hardens the water and prevents the dirt coming out as well as the color.—New York Tribune.

Frocks for Small Girls.

"It is no longer considered necessary," writes Emma M. Hooper, in The Ladies' Home Journal, "to set aside certain fabrics for little girls' wear, as nowadays they wear everything that their mothers do, except real lace and jewels. Care is taken, however, to use only small patterned materials for their frocks. In colors, white is always in good taste, also baby blue and pink, and this spring green is very much in vogue, as well as golden brown, red, French and navy blue, pearl gray and pale yellow. Black is used only as a trimming in velvet ribbon or mohair braid. Satin and taffeta ribbons are used as trimmings, also white, yellowish and linen colored embroideries. Valenciennes and net top laces are used in white and butter shades with to match."

The Huns.

The first mention of the Huns in history is in China, B.C. 210. They conquered that country and were afterward driven out by the Celestials and marched clear across Asia, penetrating the country now known as Hungary, in 376 A.D. For a time they threatened to overrun the whole of the continent, but were defeated in the heart of France and driven back to the banks of the Danube.

A city business man, who gets to work at nine in the morning, takes an hour for lunch and leaves for home at four or five in the afternoon, little understands the hardships of the life of the farmer, who starts to work at break of day and frequently works on into the night by lantern-light.

A man to endure the hardships of a farmer's life, must be robust physically at the outset, and if he would live a long life, always keep a watchful eye upon his health. He should remember that it is the apparently trifling disorders that eventually make the big diseases. It does not do for a hard working man to neglect bilious attacks or spells of indigestion. If he does, he will soon find himself flat on his back with malaria or crippled with rheumatism. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the best of all medicines for hard working men and women. It makes the appetite keen and hearty, the digestion perfect, the liver active, the blood pure and rich with the life-giving elements of the food, and the nerves strong and steady. It builds firm muscles and solid flesh. It is the greatest of all blood-makers and purifiers. It cures malarial troubles and rheumatism. It is an unfailing cure for biliousness and indigestion. An honest dealer will not try to substitute some inferior preparation for the sake of a little additional profit.

"I was a sufferer for four years with malarial fever and chills," writes Robert Williams, of Kiowa, Barber Co., Kan. "Four bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cured me and I now weigh 160 pounds instead of 130, my old weight."

Costiveness, constipation and torpidity of the liver are surely, speedily and permanently cured by Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They are tiny, sugar-coated granules. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. They never gripe. They stimulate and strengthen the jaded organs until a regular habit is formed and may then be discontinued without a return of the trouble. They stimulate, invigorate and regulate the stomach, liver and bowels. Medicine stores sell them, and have no other pills that are "just as good."
