BOON TO LEAD INDUSTRY

Price Is Sufficiently High to Justify Every Mine in the Kootenays Operating.

Lead, £13, 15s.

After patiently waiting for two long years for the price of lead to recover its normal condition, the people living in the silver-lead districts of the Kootenays have realized their fondest expectations. For the past week the price of lead in London has remained over £13, and all indications point to a continued advance for some time to come. But even at £13 the St. Eugene, Aurora, Society Girl, Sullivan, North Star and all of the other silver-lead mines in the district can be worked at a profit, and the coming season promises to see all of them in operation.

It is impossible to get definite information regarding the proposed action of the St. Eugene company, but Mr. Cronin has stated on various occasions that when lead reached 213 the mine would again start up. Mr. Cronin will be home from California about April 1st, by which time a contractor or ore will likely be made and the resumption of operations immediately begun.

Mr. O'Brien of Fernie, organizer for the American Labor Union, will be in Moyie on Sunday, March 15th, to organize the lumbermen of this portion of the district. There will be a meeting held in the dining room of the Moyie hotel for this purpose, and all interested should be present.

Mr. O'Brien is organizing all of the camps on the Crow's Nest line, and will continue his work through to Kootenay Landing.

Will Help Fort Steele.
Persons down from Fort Steele say that town is jubilant over some information from Victoria that insures the early construction of the Kootenay Central Railroad. It is not stated just what the information consists of, but it is the general belief that Mr. Pollen, who is promoting the Estella mine and also the Kootenay Central, and is at Victoria, has received full assurance from certain politicians that the subsidy asked for will be granted.

It is generally understood that Mr. Pollen's scheme includes the purchase of the Estella mines, smelter and refinery.

It is said by those who are in position to know that Mr. Pollen has given instructions to commence surveying as soon as the weather and men will permit.

There is also another story to the effect that a couple of gentlemen investigated the waterpower of Bull River falls with a view of developing it to be used to generate electricity to be used for motive power and light for the mines and towns of South East Kootenay. They are so well pleased with them that they purchased the land surrounding the falls and made arrangements for the preliminary work. It is said that they are after waterpower men, electricians, and mean business.

A Prosperous Bank.

It is astonishing the rapid strides which is being made by the Canadian Bank of Commerce. While in Cranbrook this week the editor of the Leader had a conversation with Mr. F. C. Malpas, manager of the local branch, on the subject. Mr. Malpas, among other things, said:

"Add now an announcement comes from Halifax that an agreement has been made under which the Halifax Banking Company becomes merged in The Canadian Bank of Commerce. When this deal is completed the Canadian Bank of Commerce, whose head office is in Toronto, will have 101 branches distributed throughout the length and breadth of Canada, stretching from Sydney, Cape Breton, in the extreme east to Victoria, British Columbia, in the west; and from Dawson in the north to San Francisco in the south. It has its own offices also in New York, Portland (Oregon), Seattle and London, England. The Canadian Bank of Commerce will have its facilities for conducting a successful banking business materially strengthened by the addition of these new branches. The paid up Capital and Reserve combined of the Canadian Bank of Commerce will amount to nearly $12,000,000 with total assets of some $80,000,000."

THE HONOR of the TENTH

By Eileen

The honor of the Tenth had been smirched. The rank and file growled it out in barracks, the officers whistled it to each other, and as the colonel sat on the veranda of his bungalow and admitted it to himself he laid much of the blame on his own shoulders.

The robber bands of India, known as dacoits, had been busy around Alivai, and squads of British cavalry were being sent out every few days to destroy them. Your true dacoit is not only a robber, but a fighter as well. He robs his own race whenever opportunity offers, and fights the British whenever and wherever he meets them. He is a good shot, a brave foe, and there are honor and promotion to be had in wiping him off the face of the earth. Young Danforth had lately joined the Tenth. He had family and political influence and a fortune behind him, and he had a personality which made friends. There could be no greater privilege than to be sent out at the head of a detachment to give the dacoits a whirl. When the time came that the colonel could do young Danforth this favor, he had a long and quiet talk with him. He posted him as to the characteristics and tactics of the foe and warned him of the pitfalls that even veteran officers might fall into. He was to find the enemy and destroy him, but he was cautioned against impetuosity and useless sacrifice of men. This expedition was to be the young officer's "try out." He had never been under fire, and he could not claim full kinship with the regiment until he had.

They gave young Danforth a British sergeant and corporal and thirty-eight Sikh troopers. Under an officer in whom he has confidence there is no better soldier than the Sikhs. His only weak point is that he must have his foe in front of him. Danforth had the luck to strike a band of robbers within twenty miles of the post. They had captured a village and were pillaging. It was testified to by a dozen Sikhs that he was as cool as an old veteran. He sent scouts forward to ascertain the strength of the enemy and the lay of the land, and at the head of his forty men he charged into the village and routed out the band of 150. He lost two men and killed a dozen, and it was a little affair to be proud of. He held his men well in hand and was on the watch for trickery, and had all the troopers been Europeans all would have gone well. As the robbers retreated over broken ground men were flying off from either flank to create an ambush. They were few in number and only half hearted, but as they opened fire the Sikhs bolted. There were confusion and a rout and the pursuers became in turn the pursued. When the fight ended, the sergeant and corporal were missing.

A court martial was demanded by young Danforth. No sooner had the detachment returned than the remnant of the Sikhs began to whisper about incompetency and cowardice. They praised the officer for his fight at the village, but they declared that his cowardice when he found himself in a tight place had brought about disaster. His defense was straightforward and clear. There was not an officer who doubted one of his statements, and he was honorably acquitted of the charge; but a stain had been left behind. It was felt by men and officers that to be even suspected of cowardice was a smirch on the name of the regiment. It was agreed that the Sikhs had lied to excuse their own cowardice, and there was the verdict of the court martial, yet the cloud was not dissipated.

Young Danforth could not fail to notice the change in the attitude of his brother officers. They did not cut him, but they had to make an effort to be friendly. Pretty soon hints were thrown out that it would be well for him to transfer or leave the service. Then he went to the colonel and said:

"I was charged with cowardice by the Sikhs. Had my sergeant and corporal lived to come back with me I could have had witnesses to prove to the contrary. The court martial took my word, however, and I was honorably acquitted. I realize that I am tainted. There are hints that I ought to transfer or resign. With your permission I shall remain right here and hope for something to happen."

"I believe that the Sikhs perjured themselves," quietly replied the colonel, "and perhaps it will be the wisest thing you can do to stay on."

The words were kind and fair, but no grip of the hand accompanied them. In his heart of hearts the colonel had hoped the subaltern would go away, though at the same time he realized that only an innocent man would have cared to remain. Young Danforth led no more expeditions, and months rolled away before anything happened to put his case in a more favorable light. Then a number of dacoits were captured. Among them were two or three who had fought him that day. They boasted of how they had driven his Sikhs; they praised the courage he had exhibited in seeking to rally them. There was an increase of cordiality after that, but the subaltern gave no sign that he noticed it or was pleased over it.

A few months later there arrived a party of civil officials and their wives who were on a junket. They had several elephants with them for tiger hunting, and within twenty miles of the post was the game they were after. Young Danforth was one of the three officers detailed to arrange and manage the hunt. With the civil commissioner of Nepal and his wife was Lady Clifton, and the two ladies were by no means novices in the sport of tiger hunting. When the hunt had been fairly entered upon, they occupied a howdah on the back of a big elephant together and would not admit any one else. A tiger had been driven by the beaters into a swamp a mile long by half a mile broad, and into this spot grown up to reeds and bushes until the eyes could scarcely penetrate, crashed the elephant and horses. The idea was to drive the tiger out upon clearer ground to the west, where he could be reached, and everybody made as much noise as possible. He was a crafty beast, and for two hours he refused to break cover.

The elephant on which the two ladies were mounted had taken the lead and been steady enough, but after awhile something rattled him, and he bolted across the swamp toward the trees. His mahout used every exertion to stop or turn him, but the old fellow was in a panic. To the surprise of everybody, the tiger followed at his heels, though in a fury way, as if bent only on escape. With the elephant making a mad rush for a low branch tree that he might get rid of the burden on his back Lady Clifton took swift aim at the tiger and wounded him. The wound provoked his anger, and he sprang forward on the elephant's rear just as the tree was reached and the branches swept the howdah to the ground. A second later, and the two ladies lay on the earth among the fragments, both stunned by the fall, and the tiger stood with his paws upon the body of Lady Clifton and growled and snarled at the dozen spectators.

Fortune had given young Danforth his opportunity. As a sort of terror held everybody else helpless, he flung himself from his horse, grabbed a long spear from the hand of a chattering native and advanced upon the beast. He had to cover sixty feet of clear ground, and those who looked on said that the colonel could do young Danforth this favor, he had a long and quiet talk with him. He posted him as to the characteristics and tactics of the foe and warned him of the pitfalls that even veteran officers might fall into. He was to find the enemy and destroy him, but he was cautioned against impetuosity and useless sacrifice of men. This expedition was to be the young officer's "try out." MIXED THE LETTERS.

Sections Result of a Fool Man Trying to Be Precious.

A well known citizen of Clay Center had been invited to an evening party. He wanted to go, but his wife declared that she had no gown suitable for the occasion and asked him to send "regrets" to their hostess. The man went down to his office and penned this facsimile note of declination:

"We regret that your kind invitation must be declined for all the conventional reasons, but the real reason is that half the family has nothing to wear.

My wife's latest dress is over three weeks old, and her hat is twelve hours out of date. You will appreciate the hopelessness of the occasion and excuse us."

"What good will that do?"

"He'll spend the whole evening arguing to prove that Darwinism isn't dying."

The Trick in Omelet Making.

The omelet is the supposed "impossible" in the average kitchen; when in reality it is but a moments work which any ordinary cook can accomplish. And once a simple omelet is achieved there is no end to the pretty and toothsome variations easily within one's skill.

In the first place, omelets need not be "tossed," but just handled calmly and practically, and, in the second place, the puffy omelet is the "souffle," by far inferior to what might be called the "true omelet," which is not puffy at all nor subject to falling.

The one point in omelet making which must be imperatively observed regards the pan. It is not at all necessary to buy a regular omelet pan, as a smooth, rather heavy, medium-sized spider answers the purpose equally well. But it must be kept sacred to omelets—absolutely never appropriated to other uses. It must never be washed, but cleaned by salt and brisk rubbing. Before using melt a little lard in it, drain it off and rub out with a dry cloth until thoroughly clean and shining smooth. It is not too much to say that a proper pan is two-thirds of the battle in successful omelet making.

Never make an omelet for several persons at once, individual ones being both more satisfactory and more easily managed.—Bill Morris Kretschmar in Woman's Home Companion.

CONVULSIONS AND ST. VITAS' DANCE

Strikes Terror to Every Mother's Heart—Prevention and Cure is Found in

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

The most pitiful condition into which any child can come is that of nervous and physical exhaustion, which often leads to convulsions, St. Vitas' Dance, rickets or epilepsy.

Because of its gentle action and marvellous upbuilding influence on the blood, nerves and system generally, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is especially effective in restoring pale, weak and puny children to robust health.

CONVULSIONS.

Convulsions are sometimes preceded by irritability, fretfulness, restlessness, grinding of the teeth during sleep, and twitching of the muscles of the face, which soon extends through the body. The arms and legs are violently bent and straightened, the head thrown back, the eyes opened widely, and breathing is temporarily arrested. As the spasm passes off the child falls into a deep sleep, and may be days or even weeks in regaining strength. To prevent a repetition of convulsions Dr.

Chase's Nerve Food should be used regularly after each meal.

ST. VITAS' DANCE.

St. Vitas' dance is usually preceded by decided pallor, emaciation and a low state of health. It is first made manifest in a lameness or dragging of the feet. The trouble then goes to the arm and hand on the same side, and the more the patient tries to control his movements the more ridiculous he seems. As this trouble is likely to become chronic, and last through life, no time should be lost in treating it.

These dreaded diseases, as well as many other ailments of childhood, are directly due to low vitality, and can be thoroughly driven from the system by the persistent use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. For a young child you can divide the pill in two. This food cure forms new, rich blood, creates new nerve cells, and builds up the system, as no preparation was ever known to do. Fifty cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50. At all dealers, or Edmans, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Scared the Papans.

There is no opening for a dentist in New Guinea. The Papans can sever the wirelike ratan creepers which entangle him. In the forest at one bite and sharpen his teeth on the glutinous sugar cane sticks which he is constantly chewing. In "A Collector's Rambles" Mr. Sherman F. Denton relates an amusing incident which attended a display of Yankee dental achievement.

The natives had been going through some very clever tricks for our amusement, but we in turn were unable to astonish them by anything we could do until my companion Shelley told them he could take his teeth out and put them back again. "No," they said, "you cannot do that, for that is impossible." In reply Shelley tapped his teeth with his nail to show his audience that they were teeth, and then extracting the plate on which he had two or three artificial ones, he opened his mouth, showing the gap where they had been.

The Papans waited to see no more, but all started for the small door at once. In their haste to get out they stuck, and I feared for few moments they would tear the house down. Those who were unable to get out at once howled in their fright and created a great uproar, and, in spite of our telling them that we were only in fun, they could not be persuaded to come back again for a long time, and then they came only under the promise that we would never do that again.

Conspiracy.

"Squibob, you are still reporting for the Daily Bread, aren't you?"

"Yes."

"Say, I am going to spend the evening with the daughter of old Professor Nixie, and he doesn't like me a bit. I want you to help me through."

"Me? What can I do to help you?"

"Call on him in his study about 8 o'clock and ask him this question: Professor, to what do you attribute the decay of Darwinism?"

"What good will that do?"

"He'll spend the whole evening arguing to prove that Darwinism isn't dying."

Character in the Hat.

"Does the hat-period character?" said an execrable person whose specialty is character reading. "Of course it does."

"The man whose hat fits him exactly and is set square and straight on his head is nearly always an orderly, deliberate man, regular in his habits, but very often commonplace as regards mental attainments."

"Men of large mental powers, thinkers and philosophers, affect hats a trifle too large for them. They are men of large ideas and their big hats are men bound in conjunction with those easy fitting clothes, for in this as in other matters, the body reflects the mind."

"You need not tell the story," said the youth. "I see."

Franklin's Froggery.

Mr. Fisher, in his biographical sketch "The True Benjamin Franklin," tells a story to illustrate Franklin's frugality and method of acquiring property.

"The man whose hat fits him exactly and is set square and straight on his head is nearly always an orderly, deliberate man, regular in his habits, but very often commonplace as regards mental attainments."

"Men of large mental powers, thinkers and philosophers, affect hats a trifle too large for them. They are men of large ideas and their big hats are men bound in conjunction with those easy fitting clothes, for in this as in other matters, the body reflects the mind."

To give some idea of the increase of electric transportation in cities it may be mentioned that New York has 1,328 fewer stables, and 8,660 fewer horses than in 1896; and that the Paris omnibus companies got rid of 2,000 horses last year.

I would heartily recommend it to anyone suffering from bronchial lung trouble.

There are now 2,900 miles of the Suez to Cairo railway, finished leaving 2,800 miles to connect the terminal systems. At Bulawayo the line is 4,460 feet above sea-level.

HOW'S THIS?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Diphtheria, or any cure of Dr. Kellor's Cough Cure, or Dr. Kellor's Honey & Co., Provo, Toledo, O. The undersigned, have known Dr. Kellor for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honest, and are financially able to meet all obligations made by their names. These Tablets cure, cure, cure, constipation, sour stomach, diarrhea, and simple fevers; they break up, prevent croup, and all the irritation accompanying the cutting of teeth, and are positively guaranteed to contain no opiate. All children take them readily, and for very young infants they can be crushed to a powder. You can get Baby's Own Tablets from any druggist at 25c a box, or they will be mailed, postage paid, by writing direct to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., or Schenectady, N.Y. Send for our book on the care of infants and young children. Every mother should have it.

British coal mines possess only 320 coal-cutting machines. Those of the United States have already 3,500, and the number is increasing at the rate of 300 a year.

IT IS A GREAT PUBLIC BENEFIT. These significant words were used in relation to Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, by a gentleman who had thoroughly tested its merits in his own case—having suffered from it, of course, for three or four years standing. He never fails to remove soreness, as well as lameness, and is an incomparable tonic and corrective.

The motor is driving out the horse, but not the cycle. In France there are now 1,100,768 bicycles, as compared with only 483,114 five years ago.

The stick-insect of Borneo is the largest insect known. Specimens 13 inches in length have been captured. The stick-insect exactly resembles a piece of rough stick.

Mr. Balfour possesses our parliamentary record. He has led the House of Commons for a longer continuous period than any other leader since the Reform Bill of 1832.

Cure
Your Cold

GOOD BLOOD.

In the Secret of Health, Vigor and Happiness.

Good blood-rich, red blood—is the greatest enemy that disease can have. It stimulates every organ to throw off any ailment that may attack it. Good blood is the only positive cure for such complaints as anæmia, nervousness, neuralgia, skin eruptions, indigestion, rheumatism, etc., because these diseases cannot exist where the blood is good. The secret of good blood-rich, red life-giving blood—is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Where these pills are used it means life, health and vigor. Mr. Robert Lee, a well known resident of New Westminster, B. C., says:—"Before I began using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills my blood was in a very impure condition, and as a result, my complexion was smooth and clear. The pills are appetite-wise, the taste was sickly and six bottles made a complete cure. I would heartily recommend it to anyone suffering from bronchial lung trouble."

A young man may be a trifling sadder, but he certainly isn't any wiser when he calls to see his best girl and finds her out.

If BABY COULD TALK.

"I am sure if baby could only talk," says Mrs. B. Gaffney, L'Ainée, Ont., "she would praise Baby's Own Tablets too. They have given better results than any other medicine I have ever used for my little one." This is the verdict of all mothers who have used Baby's Own Tablets, and it is the very best proof that no other medicine can equal them for the speedy relief and cure of the common ailments of little ones. These Tablets cure, cure, cure, constipation, sour stomach, diarrhea, and simple fevers; they break up, prevent croup, and all the irritation accompanying the cutting of teeth, and are positively guaranteed to contain no opiate. All children take them readily, and for very young infants they can be crushed to a powder. You can get Baby's Own Tablets from any druggist at 25c a box, or they will be mailed, postage paid, by writing direct to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., or Schenectady, N.Y. Send for our book on the care of infants and young children. Every mother should have it.

EVERYTHING comes to the man waits, but not while he waits.

THEY NEVER FAIL.—Mrs. S. M. Boucher, Langton, writes: "For about two years I was troubled with heartburn, but by using Parnelee's Pills, was completely cured, and although four years have passed since then, Parnelee's Pills are an absolute cure for the cure of Liver and Kidney Complaints, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Headache, Piles, etc., and will eradicate the secretions and remove all bilious matter."

He who plans trouble for others is the architect of his own misfortune.

SATURDAY MARCH 14, 1903.

Where is the pessimist who said that the price of lead would never again reach £13?

A physician says the fewer garments people wear the longer they will live. Note the ripeness of the ballet girls.

Honesty is the best policy for a man during life, but a good insurance policy is the best thing for a widow afterwards.

The fact that lead has reached a price sufficiently high to justify the silver-lead mines in the Kootenays operating is no reason why the movement to have a higher protective tariff placed on this commodity should be dropped.

A Swiss mechanic claims to have invented an automatic baby's nurse. The apparatus is attached to a cradle. If the baby cries air waves cause specially arranged wires to operate a phonograph, which sings a lullaby, while simultaneously a clockwork is released and rocks the cradle. When the crying stops the wires cease to vibrate and the cradle stops rocking.

Just from the Island. A native of Prince Edward Island had gone forth to see the world. Hearing about East Kootenay, he set out for British Columbia and in due time arrived in Moyie. When he reached this place he engaged a room at a hotel, intending to remain there while he looked around for work.

"Will you register?" asked the clerk handing him a pen.

"Register!" said the new comer. "What's that?"

"Write your name."

"What for?"

"We are required to keep a record of all our guests."

The man wrote his name and was about to lay down the pen when the clerk added:

"Now, this place, if you please."

"What place?"

"The place you come from. Where do you live?"

"I live on the island."

"Well, but what island?"

The other man looked at him in amazement. Then he said, with emphasis that left no doubt of his feelings:

"Prince Edward Island, man! What other island is there?"
