Celia Fisher elected school board chairman

Celia Fisher, who topped the polls for school trustee in the Nov. 15 elections, was elected chairman of the Sechelt School Board by the other trustees at Thursday's school board meeting. Her term as chairman will last until next January and she is replacing Peter Prescesky in the position.

Trustee Maureen Clayton from Sechelt was declared board vice-chairman.

Also at the meeting JoAnn Rottluff, Claus Spiekermann and Don Douglas were sworn into their positions as school trustees for the next two years.

Because she lives in the vicinity of the school board offices, Rottluff was made the board's third signing officer along with the chairman and vice-chairman.

During the meeting Fisher expressed a desire for the board to put more emphasis on offering the public an interesting meeting on the occasions the school board holds its regular meetings at one of the schools in the district. Usually the first meeting of each month is held outside the school board offices in Gibsons.

Fisher said she would like to see the community more involved in discussions during those meetings and would like to see more time go into the plans of them.

Her comments on this topic followed a suggestion by board secretary-treasurer Roy Mills that instead of scheduling meetings that start at the north end of the Peninsula and working down over the year, the board should hold the meetings at the schools where several items of local significance will be coming up on the meeting's agenda.

He used the example of concerns about Elphinstone High School which will be coming up early in February. He suggested the February 'out of office' meeting should be held at Elphinstone.

Mills thought the board could likely plan the meetings three months in advance.

Trustee Pat Murphy expressed the concern that some schools never seem to come up on the agenda and consequently the parents in those school areas would rarely have an opportunity to enter into discussions with the board.

The board decided that at the next meeting in January the location for 'out of office' meetings for the next three months will be determined.

It is expected that the first meeting in February will be held at Elphinstone.

Here Judy Frampton also managed to stretch some leg muscles as she learns rock delivery under the watchful eye of Harry Turner, holding broom. The free curling allowed beginners to try out the game and club officials report they had an encouraging turnout of new curlers. League play at the winter club begins this week. About 200 curlers have signed up for league curling.

McNevin named board chairman

John McNevin is the new Sunshine Coast Regional Board Chairman.

The director for Area F was elected to the seat at the board's statutory meeting January 8 on the second ballot.

The first voting in the secret balloting had McNevin tied with Area B director Peter Hoemberg. The second ballot among the eight directors of the regional board named McNevin.

In an impromptu acceptance speech, McNevin noted, "there is actually very little difference between Peter (Hoemberg) and myself on the direction of the board. It will be very difficult to follow Chairman West with his special abilities and talents. I hope the board will carry on in the same direction it had under his guidance."

McNevin thanked the board directors for their confidence in him.

"I want to keep the meetings open to the public and with as much public input as possible," he said.

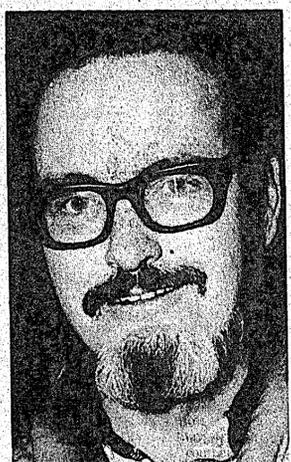

Chairman McNevin also suggested all the board members gather for a one-day session to go over all the board's bylaws and study their direction.

"This was done last year," he said, "and it was excellent. It gave us a good idea of the problems facing the regional district."

Chairman McNevin's first duty as the new chairman will be to bring forward a list of regional committee chairmen and members. That was put in the form of a motion to be carried out for the next regional meeting.

The regional board has a planning policy meeting scheduled for January 15 and a regular monthly meeting scheduled for January 29.

Before the voting for chairman took place, there was some discussion by the board about whether the new Sechelt alderman-director should be sworn in before or after the voting for the chairman. Board secretary-treasurer Ann Pressley said she had contacted the Department of Municipal Affairs and was told there that it could be done either way under the wording of the municipal act. The

Labonte names '76 committees

Gibsons Mayor Larry Labonte has selected his committee heads for 1976.

Mayor Labonte, who is starting his second term as head of the village council, made the announcement of the committee heads soon after he was sworn in at the council's statutory meeting January 6.

Aldermen Jim Metzler and Stuart Metcalfe were also sworn in at the same meeting.

Alderman Kurt Hoehne was appointed deputy mayor for the village. He will also head the finance committee, the policy and wages committee and will look after water for the village.

Alderman Bill Laing was given the public works and sewers committee.

Alderman Stu Metcalfe will head the planning, rezoning and building committee and will be the board's representative on the Committee on Government.

Alderman Jim Metzler will look after the harbor and airport committee and is also the council's representative on the regional board. Alderman Hoehne is his alternate.

Mayor Labonte will be the council's representative on the Provincial Energy Program and the health, library and museum committee.

After he was sworn in, Mayor Labonte told the council, "Many things have happened in the past year. Some we can see and some we can't. Some are underground. I hope our relationship with the village of Sechelt and with the regional board will be good in the coming year. I have asked the council to get some priorities this year. They include Pioneer Park, water and the streets in the village.

Mayor Labonte congratulated the people

GIBSONS MAYOR Larry Labonte, right, was sworn into office for his second term as mayor of the village. Swearing-in was conducted by village clerk Jack Copland at the council's statutory meeting last week. Re-elected Aldermen James Metzler and Stuart Metcalfe were also sworn in at the meeting. At the same meeting, the mayor named the committee chairman for the coming year.

Are sewers desirable?

Can the desirability of sewers in Sechelt be disputed?

What dissent there is toward sewers from village residents should be heard January 18.

On that date at 2 p.m. in the Senior Citizen's Hall, all village residents have been invited by Sechelt Council and Sunshine Coast Regional District to an information meeting on the proposed sewer system.

Sewer co-ordinator for the village Norm Watson said Thursday the purpose of the meeting includes explaining any questions on the proposed rate structure and to establish in the minds of the area politicians what the reactions of the general public are to the sewers.

Watson said that the representatives of Canada Environment and Pollution Control have been invited to the meeting to explain or answer questions on some of the environmental considerations of sewers.

The provincial municipal act allows a municipality to start a sewer utility by three methods. They are petition, referendum or proclamation.

Watson believes Sechelt will enter into the sewer utility via proclamation which means there is a 30 day period in which petitions and arguments against the sewers can be heard after the proclamation. He expects the proclamation to be made soon after the information meeting on Jan. 18. At the end of the 30 day quashing period village council will decide whether to carry on with the sewers immediately or send the decision to public referendum.

The area initially slated to have sewers installed is between the Sechelt Indian Reserve Boundary and the Sechelt Elementary School, and the Strait of Georgia and Sechelt Inlet. (District lots 303 and 304).

Watson, whose term on council expired Jan. 1, has been working on a sewer system for Sechelt for six years. He has recently completed a rate structure. All the regional board and village need now is the green light from the public, if Victoria approves the rate structure.

How much an individual homeowner will have to pay to be hooked into sewers is determined along the following lines. There will be a $45 users fee for each house. A 60 cents per foot charge for taxable frontage on each property will also be applied. All village residents' property taxes will go up two mills on top of that. Therefore a homeowner with a house on a property with 60 feet of taxable frontage and an assessment value of $7,500 (average for Sechelt in 1975) will pay $96 a year for sewers.

If a resident decides to hook up to the sewers while construction on his street is carried out, Watson says, he will only be charged the bare cost of $150. However, if the resident waits until the whole village system has been installed and then decides to hook up he will be charged $250.

Apartments that are situated above stores will be charged $40 per year for sewers. Watson says this price should not reflect excessive high rents.

Homeowners will also have to pay for installation of sewage lines across their property to their property line. But the village will be helping out to try and keep costs down.

These costs would vary according to the length of pipe required to stretch from the sewer hookup to the house on the property.

Village clerk Tom Wood will approach homeowners before the main sewerline goes down their street to see if they will participate in a joint venture with other residents on their block to have one contracting company install all the property sewer lines, this would keep the costs below the price to have one property line installed.

The costs to businesses for sewers, depending on their size, are significantly higher than the average householder's fee.

'End sex discrimination'

If the school board opposed the establishment of policy that would ensure all school activities are open to all students regardless of sex, then the board is being discriminatory, according to trustee Claus Spiekermann.

Spiekermann's comments followed the presentation of notes taken at a Dec. 4, 1975 Liaison Committee meeting at Thursday's regular school board meeting. School board officials, Sechelt Teachers' Association members and the local Status of Women Committee had participated in the Liaison Committee meeting.

The Status of Women Committee made seven recommendations to the school board. The first is "that this district board establish specific policy to ensure that all courses, programs, activities and clubs sponsored by them shall be open to all students regardless of sex."

School board requested the board secretary-treasurer to secure as much research as is possible that has been conducted on male and female stereotyping in schools before further discussion on the recommendations. The material is to be distributed to trustees before the next meeting.

Trustee Spiekermann gave the board notice that he plans to make motions concerning the recommendations of the Liaison Committee at the next board meeting.

Spiekermann said that "we as a board are obliged to endorse the first recommendation. There must be total integration of males and

Bright future

Gibsons harbor will be soon be a brighter place.

The village council was informed at their last meeting that a tender for $24,000 of lighting and electrical work for the harbor floats had been let to a Vancouver Island firm.

Harbors chairman Jim Metzler told the council the federal department of public works that work on the 250 watt lighting for the floats and the installation of electrical outlets on the floats would commence within three months.

"I'm concerned the work had to go out of town," the alderman said, "but as this was a federal government tender, the village had nothing to say in the matter."

Dental hygiene plan to start

An upgraded dental hygiene program is expected to commence at the grade schools on the Peninsula this week.

In his report to school board Thursday, Roy Mills, board secretary-treasurer, said the dental hygiene program will provide two inspections per year and also provides, with parental consent, for a fluoride brushing and fluoride rinse to students in kindergarten, and grades one, three and five. The fluoride treatments will be provided on the same schedule as the inspections, he said.

Expect a shakeup

Statistically speaking, Sechelt and area can expect an earthquake shaking of damaging proportions to occur about once in a hundred years.

At least so says C.G. Rogers of the Division of Seismology and Geothermal Studies of the Federal Department of Energy, Mines and Resources.

In response to a letter from Sechelt Council querying the possibility of more earthquakes on the Peninsula after the earthquake which rattled the area last fall, Rogers says the Nov. 30 earthquake, which registered 4.5 on the Richter scale, was one of many small earthquakes which occur regularly in south-west B.C.

He said most of these earthquakes are too small to be felt but several times a year earthquakes are large and close enough to population centres to be felt.

"Thus far, our studies of these small events have not led to the identification of any potentially dangerous faults in south-western B.C."

"However, large and damaging ear-quakes have occurred in historical times and we can expect them to occur again," he says.

Rogers says Sechelt and area can expect an earthquake of damaging proportions about once every 100 years.

The last major earthquake near the Peninsula occurred in 1946 in the Powell River area. That quake registered 7.3 on the Richter scale.

Rogers added that his department could run a computer program on the Sechelt area which would list all known earthquakes felt in the Sechelt area and predict the recurrence rate of damaging accelerations at several probability levels.

Sechelt Council decided Wednesday to spend the $10 on this computer program.

Alderman Dennis Shuttleworth said the computer program might be useful to the Emergency Measures program in the area.

He also said the Seismology and Geothermal Department would be asked if there is geothermal potential below Mount Elphinstone near Gibsons.

TM study

One simple, natural, effortless technique brings improvements to all aspects of life, whether it be individual, sociological or environmental the changes are inevitable when practising TM.

The regular practise of TM taps a field of energy within ourselves, bringing it out fully to enhance our lives. We tap the source of intelligence, and daily we are more intelligent. We tap the source of energy, and daily we are more energetic. We tap the source of creativity, and daily we are more creative.

TM is a process by which one contacts a source of pure creativity and intelligence at the basis of the thinking process, allowing this creative intelligence to be expressed in greater efficiency of action, greater clarity of mind.

This is the reason why professional people in all walks of life all over the world have turned towards TM for 15-20 minutes twice a day. Hockey teams, football teams, baseball teams, athletes are practising TM for maximum mind-body co-ordination, maximum stamina and staying power, and are finding that TM creates excellence of action in sports.

Businessman can not afford to make wrong decisions, they too have turned towards TM for that necessary experience twice a day, which brings about increasing efficiency, intelligence, and creativity to perform in our ever increasing complex world. To achieve excellence of action all that's required is TM twice a day and ones normal activity. Introductory lectures are held Tuesdays 2 p.m. and Thursdays 7:30 p.m. in Sechelt at the Whitaker House.

Halfmoon Bay Happenings

First meeting of the year of the Halfmoon Bay Hospital Auxiliary was held at the Welcome Beach Hall on January 5 with 19 members present. Two new members welcomed were Helen Hine and Alma Boss, bringing the Auxiliary's membership to 32.

Chief business before the meeting was the election of officers for 1976. Elected by acclamation were Olive Comyn, president, Nora MacDonald vice-president, Ruth Forrester, secretary, Helen Hine, Treasurer and Peggy North, publicity. Convenors appointed were Alice Young and Gretel Gair, thrift shop; Glenys Radcliffe, gift shop; and Jean Mercer social convenor.

Members were advised that a bird bath had been installed in the Extended Care Garden in memory of the late Roy Marshall.

son of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Comyn. A donation had recently been received in memory of the late Archie Rutherford and the members agreed to establish a fund in his memory. Next meeting of the Auxiliary will be on February 2 at 8 p.m. at the Welcome Beach Hall.

Vince Shannon underwent surgery in St. Paul's Hospital last week and he and his wife Ev. want to acknowledge with deep gratitude all the kind enquiries and offers of help they have received. Vince hopes to be back with the gang at Welcome Beach Hall soon.

The men were victors at the last session of carpet bowling at the hall, beating the ladies by two games to one. All carpet bowlers are asked to turn out next week for a deciding match.

More visits for physios

The Sunshine Coast's home visiting physiotherapists showed an increase in the number of visits made in their second month of operation.

Roberta Fosbery and Mary Walton made 31 home visits during December. Of these 12 were to the Pender Harbour area and 19 to the Gibsons area. They travelled a total of 534.6 miles.

The two handled five new referrals last month. The number of visits was a slight increase over the number of visits made in November, the first month of operation of Domiciliary Physiotherapy.

Mrs. Fosbery was actively involved with the Homemakers Association instructing the new homemakers in Body Mechanics. The course was considered very beneficial and will be repeated in the new year.

"We would like to thank the Ladies' Auxiliary Branch No. 109 of the Gibsons Legion for their donation. The money is being put towards the purchase of some much needed physiotherapy equipment. Thank you, ladies," they said.

Operation Doorstep, the mobile x-ray unit operated by the Division of Tuberculosis Control of the Department of Health, and the B.C. Tuberculosis Christmas Seal Society, provided free chest x-rays to 28,946 British Columbians in 1974.

Help is on the way

Help is on the way, at least for Jack Copland, Gibsons village clerk.

At last week's council meeting, the board voted to advertise for someone to fill the position of assistant clerk for the village.

The village will be losing one of its long-time employees.

Office worker Irene Rotluff will be leaving the village to go homesteading in Alberta. She has worked with the village since September 1969.

"We're sorry to see her go," the village clerk said.

females to avoid stereotyping.

Referring to the state of the world, he said "unless we learn skills together we will be in more trouble than we are already in. Many present day problems have come about because of segregated, primitive development."

He agreed with trustee Maureen Clayton and board chairman Celia Fisher that students, parents and teachers may be involved in any policy the board makes concerning changes in school curriculum and activities to alleviate sex discriminatory practices.

Trustee Pat Murphy wondered how competitive sports could be integrated — especially contact sports?

Spiekerman answered him with another question. "Should schools be considered the training ground for professional sports careers?"

One concern of the Status of Women Committee as expressed in the notes presented to school board was that in many of the text books used in schools there is subconscious stereotyping which could have a negative effect upon the views of girls as to their own potential.

The notes said the committee wished to give all children the maximum freedom to develop their fullest potential.

As a result of questionnaires given to elementary students, it was the committee's opinion that girls have a more limited view of the general employment potentials for their sex and their own possible future employment.

Referring to physical education programs in schools, the notes said that in large schools where teams tend to be segregated by sex, there should in fact be mixed teams as a preferred approach.

They said that in Peninsula schools Industrial Education programs were nominally open to students of either sex but the boys tended to get an inclination towards this subject field by being programmed into them at the grade eight level whereas it did not become available to the girls, and then on an optional basis, until grade nine.

The following are the other six recommendations of the Status of Women Committee to the school board.

2) That this district board endorse the petition for a Women's Studies' course in the secondary schools of this district.

3) That this district board will establish specific policy to endorse the Human Rights Code legislation in this province regarding non-segregatory hiring policy.

4) That this district board take an active role in supporting and implementing through its administration, the Department of Education memorandum dated March 17, 1975 pertaining to equality of opportunity to students in Home Economics and Industrial Education courses.

5) That the district board will make available the funds necessary to compile and distribute lesson aids prepared by this Status of Women Committee and other sources; and that the board will accept the responsibility of distributing these aids through its administration to all pertinent teaching staff.

6) That this district board will endorse and support the purchase by the school district of the "Women at Work" series so that each elementary school has one class set of each of the four books; and that the cost of lesson aids to be prepared by the Status of Women Committee to accompany these books be borne by the board.

7) That this district board endorse and support the writing of at least one book about a local worker for use at the grade 3-4 level, and, subject to approval of the board upon completion, will bear the cost of publication and distribution of this alternative text to all elementary schools in the numbers necessary for each school to have one class set.

The mayor congratulated the Gibsons Old Age Pensioners for starting construction of their hall and wished them the best of luck. He also asked the people of the village to support the Gibsons Athletic Association.

The volunteer firemen were noted for their dedication to duty and hours spent. The mayor gave them "not many fires" as a New Years wish. The Legion and the other service clubs of the area were also mentioned for their work.

Regarding the proposed boundary extension, Mayor Labonte said, "I hope 1976 will see some of the problems solved. I believe in the unity of towns. The benefits are greater and there is more strength. I hope we can achieve our goals."

On a personal note, the mayor thanked all the people who visited him or sent him cards during his stay in hospital. He also thanked the hospital staff, calling the hospital, "one of the best in B.C."

Talking about the village's finances, the mayor said, "The village finished in the black last year." Noting that the mill rate is at its limit, he said, "There will have to be a lot of cutting done."

Like it or not not

Like it or not we are growing. And like it or not that growth is putting on pressure in many areas. One area where it is very noticeable is in Sechelt village. One of the pressures that is being put on the village by this growth is its own sewage. Septic tanks and drainfields do a good job where there is room for them; but we're afraid the downtown area of Sechelt is now past that stage and the time has come for some adequate sewage handling and treatment.

The important facts, as we see them are that the sewer system would be beneficial to the village in two ways. The fact that the lack of a sewer system is restricting growth is now one of them.

The problem is that the growth is going on anyway and the private sewage systems in use are putting more pressure on the ability of the soil to absorb than it can take. One doesn't need to be a sewage engineer to discover this. Walk through the village when the tide is high; you will find out for yourself.

Secondly, the lack of adequate sewage facilities is causing the commercial core to spread out. We do not believe this spreading out is a good idea and would prefer a concentrated, central core. The lack of a sewer is hindering this concept because of the land needed for septic tank drain fields. One need only look at the rock covered area in front of the Bank of Montreal in Wharf Street. This area is a drainfield and could be put to much better use. There are many such examples in the village. Land is getting much too precious to be allowed to sit idle for want of proper servicing.

We are, however, concerned that the coming of the sewers would mean irrational growth for the village.

There is talk of a 250 unit condominium awaiting the arrival of the sewers. At even two persons per unit, this would add 500 people to the village population, practically doubling the present population and doubling the demand on the village's facilities. Consider the impact of the population doubling over a short period of time on what is presently a very desirable lifestyle which has developed around the village.

People, we contend, live here because it is a desirable place to live, a relatively rural atmosphere away from the pressures of urban living. We do not want the sewer project to be the first step toward the end of that concept.

Much of the responsibility will fall on the present village council. They will make the initial moves, guided we hope by public opinion; the opinion of the residents, not just the few.

We feel the majority of the residents feel the sewers would be a value to the community; but feel as we do that it could be the beginning of the end of what a great number of people have worked for and tried to maintain.

We hope people will take full opportunity of the planned meetings starting with the one on January 18 at 2 p.m. in the Senior Citizens Hall. We also hope they will use our news columns, our letters to the editor column and other media to express their views as well as expressing them to the mayor and aldermen.

Much will ride on the attitude of the Sechelt council toward the future of the village.

by Don Morberg

IT SEEMED a little ironic. About ten years ago, Gary Hewitt and I stood in his living room and looked out across a grass field to see cows grazing. Cows grazing are not an odd sight in the Fraser Valley. I could look out my home front window and see cows grazing. I could look out the window of Fort Langley Elementary and see cows grazing. I could see cows grazing from some of the windows of Langley Secondary. Anyone could see cows grazing all along practically any road in Langley municipality.

Over Christmas, I dropped in to visit Gary and his wife Louise and it was nice to look out the window of their comfortable little house and see cows grazing. It was rather reassuring, one might say, to see that there were still a few cows left to graze in the Fraser Valley. Or still a bit of the Fraser Valley left for cows to graze in.

Their house is at the end of a flush-coated road, numbered, not named, off the highway which connects Cloverdale with Whalley. There are still a few cows in that neck of the woods.

While I watched the cows, Gary and Louise talked about moving. They are sick and tired of what the past ten years have done to the Fraser Valley. When Gary and I were growing up there, it was your typical backwoods community, some farming, a little service industry, a lot of kids. There was duck hunting on the flats, beaver-trapping on the streams, rabbit and pheasant hunting in our back yards. He and I used to hunt squirrels across the road from where I lived.

BUT THAT was ten or fifteen years ago. Ten or fifteen years have done to our part of the Fraser Valley what the late 50's and early 60's did to Burnaby and Richmond. It's quite depressing.

So Gary and Louise talked about moving to the Interior. How far up? 100 Mile House isn't far enough. Lac La Hache or Williams Lake are still too close.

Gary did some hunting in Chetwynd last year and was interested in the country. They toss around names like Fort Nelson, Hudson Hope, Endako and places far away from the influence of the Brothers Block and the other companies which he considers directly responsible for the destruction of the Fraser Valley as a nice place to live.

Gary lays the blame clearly at the feet of the real estate developers; but I think that is like blaming the gun when someone is shot. There were certain conditions which created the slaughter of the Fraser Valley including the attitude of the people who live there toward their land. The conditions were right for development even if that development was stupidity.

I'M GETTING a little tired of that 'people gotta live somewhere' mentality which allows precious farmland to be destroyed. There is vast tracts of land on the north side of the Fraser which are just as accessible to Vancouver and which go relatively untouched.

It seems that the people got into this insane 'see what a rich country we are — we can afford to build houses on good farm land' mentality. You hear a little about urban redevelopment; it's too bad there wasn't some kind of rural development where the land could be reclaimed for the purpose to which it is best suited.

IT OCCURRED to me the other day that all this nonsense about the landlord-tenant act and the rentalsman and all that junk would be so unnecessary if there was enough rental housing units. If there was a surplus of rental units there would be landlords begging to have their homes moved into. Rents would go down and tenant service would go up.

That might seem paradoxical, talking one minute about rural development and increasing the number of rental units at the same time; but I don't think it is. There is enough room in B.C. in non-food producing land to house everyone.

Housing is only one necessity; food is definitely another.

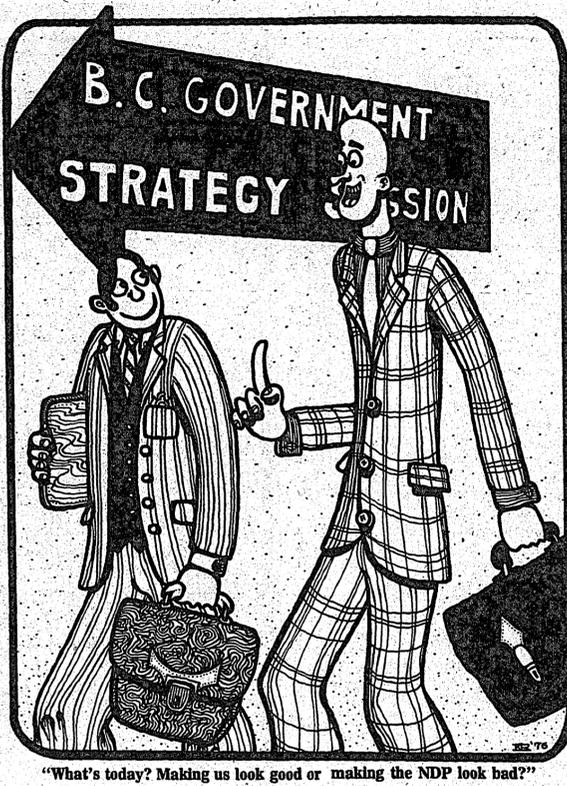

FROM GARY'S house, I drove along the King George Highway into Whalley; first time I'd been in Whalley for five years. It was wall to wall shopping centres. I was just amazed.

After battling only three blocks of the snout-to-butt traffic; I copped a left onto a side road, skulked through some back roads and emerged on Hjorth Road. I went from there to Highway One and continued on to Horseshoe Bay.

I remember when the freeway first came to the Fraser Valley. It was some kind of monster dividing the countryside in half just as it had divided Strawberry Crescent and forced me to go three miles out of my way to get to a friend's place. Now here I was, on the freeway to get away from the Fraser Valley traffic.

DRIVING along the freeway, I passed a residential development of angular, natural wood houses. Not pretty; but typical of the type of stuff being constructed in the name of West Coast lifestyle. Ugly as a matter of fact; but built in an area that was no good for anything. That's where people should be living.

AND THEN I got back to the Sunshine Coast.

"What's today? Making us look good or making the NDP look bad?"

Sechelt council's decision to retain the former alderman as the sewer consultant, the Committee on Government representative, the recreation representative and who knows what else is a bad mistake.

One must assume that if the people of the Sechelt area wanted Norm Watson as their representative, they would have re-elected him. They didn't as he may have forgotten, and should bow out graciously. We can assume that he is not leaving the country and would be available if consulted.

The Sechelt council has given the vote a slap in the face.

I was under the impression, apparently a mistaken one as far as Sechelt is concerned, that the point of a democracy was to choose your leaders and get rid of the unwanted ones.

PENINSULA DATELINE:
by Leslie Yates

Before departing for fairer climates in the south, my partner on this expedition wrote a bit in his 'Boots, barges and floor polish' (a column of similar title) proclaiming that we were going to Mexico on a 'shoe string'. (He is the purveyor of weekly happenings for our earnest competition in Gibsons.)

I was horrified that our poverty was not going to allow us to travel in style. I mean the fact we were taking my well over 100,000 mile derelict van to sleep in and save money had nothing to do with it. His attitude just seemed a little low key.

As it turned out, the news pusher from Gibsons is nothing less than a guru. We did travel part of the way to Mexico on a shoe string — literally.

After taking turns driving for nearly 20 hours we found ourselves in rather steep hills near Red Bluff, California. Chugging up what turned out to be the last major grade before the prairie like landscape north of Sacramento, my accelerator foot slammed to the floor and the engine died.

Thoughts of unprecedented and expensive peril shot through our sleep heads.

The accelerator cable had broken and no amount of talking to the van would get it to budge. Even if we could move, there would be no parts houses open at 8 p.m. on a Monday night.

Sitting there on the highway shoulder we considered our alternatives as the trucks creeped by, engines screaming.

"Since the engine is between our seats, we must be able to take advantage of this quirk in the imagination and ingenuity of Ford's vehicle designers," I said to partner.

He looked through glazed eyes at me, then at the engine, then at his construction boots.

"I've got it," he announced and proceeded to remove a shoe lace from one of his boots.

We hooked one end of the shoe string to the carburetor (a funny thing which does oil gas and air to the motor to make one go fast or slow) and threaded the other end through a hole in the engine cover.

For the next 300 miles to Modesto, our place of friends and recuperation, partner pulled on the string and I steered. At first our gear changes were as jerky as Pat McGeer's statements on ICBC increases but as with Pat, practice makes, and did make the shifts bearable.

All was going well until we were about 75 miles out of Modesto. Partner couldn't keep a steady hold on the string. He kept dozing off. The van would slow down, the trucks behind would honk, I'd tap him on the shoulder, he'd yank the string and we'd be flying along at 70 mph, passing everything in sight. The speed limit is 55 mph down there.

This speed up and slow down routine carried on for a while. Eventually California's finest pulled us over. He wanted to know why I couldn't drive at a constant speed.

As he stood peering in the window with his flashlight, odd movements by partner caught his eye. You see my doesn't idle well, and periodically the engine needed a tug on the string.

"What are you doing there son?" the trooper asked.

"What does it look like, son," my partner answered, giving a tug on the engine to emphasize 'son'.

After being up for 36 hours my partner got into a playful mood. I figured he was stringing us right into the local courthouse.

"Don't get smart, smart ass." (Cops are so witty.)

"I'm pulling on this here shoe string," he explained.

"Why?"

"To keep the engine running."

The trooper got pensive now. He scratched his head and said, "You mean you look after the gas and he (shining the light in my face) is doing the steering and braking?"

"That's right," partner said, "it's the way we do it up in Canada. Why? How do you guys do it down here?"

"Off to the clink, I thought."

"Where you two smart asses going?"

"Mexico"

"Good place for you, now get out of here and don't let me catch you goin' slower than 45."

"Thanks," I said, "pull on it partner." We lumbered off.

After the laughter died down we wondered if he let us go because he didn't know whose drivers licence to ask for.

The shoe string affair ended the next day with the $10 purchase of a new accelerator cable.

But boy, I am telling you, you gotta watch it when you're travelling with a guru.

Partner shows his shoe string pullin' form.

To memory of Lena Joe

By LES PETERSON

Once upon a time, so the Sechelts say, a young princess named Klaya-Klaya-Klye lived at the village of Hunachin, at the head of what is now called Jervis Inlet.

Late in the year, according to this story, the husband of this young princess was hunting Swayt-Lye, the mountain goat, high up the slopes of Min-Ateh, the mountain behind Kulse, Mt. Victoria, which stood behind their village.

A herd of goats the three brothers were following suddenly disappeared. Upon searching, the hunters discovered the entrance to a cave, partially concealed by some bushes. Inside the cave were the goats. The brothers recognized the cave as the one in which their ancestors, ages before, had sought refuge from Pah-Ah-Mohs, the Great Flood.

A sudden snowstorm forced the men to remain through the severest weeks of winter in this cave. When the first signs of spring appeared, they made their way down the mountainside toward their village, where they could see, from high up, that their people were fishing for the first run of herring.

As they neared home, they met a young boy, practising with his bow and arrow.

"Is my wife at home?" the eldest brother asked the young boy.

"No," he replied. "She thought you were dead, and has left the village. The second brother received the same reply.

"And what of my wife, Klaya-Klaya-Klye?" the youngest brother asked.

"She is at home, waiting for you," said the boy.

Because the young princess had remained faithful to her husband, through the long winter when all hope for his survival seemed lost, the aristocrats of Hunachin held a great Klubb-Uh-Ahk, a celebration that later came to be known throughout this coast by its Chinook name, the Potlatch. At this occasion, to which many important guests were invited, the young woman was set on a great swing, a Kay-Kah-Toh, made from the hair of the Swayt-Lye, symbol of wealth — but only great chiefs were allowed to push her.

The late Lena Joe, nee Jeffries, could trace her heritage directly back to Klaya-Klaya-Klye.

When, in the last year of her life, her husband, Clarence, Sechelt Band Manager, commissioned the building of a modern fishboat for the family, Lena insisted that the vessel be named the Hunachin Princess, in commemoration of her illustrious ancestor.

Such insistence typified the calm but firm resolution that sustained the life of this woman, whose passing removes from her people another of their very few links with a tradition that reaches back into times immemorial.

Lena Joe came from a long line of women who, generation after generation, unflinchingly faced ceaseless toil to nurture their people and to perpetuate their culture.

Seeing six homes burn, with all worldly goods — most during times of little help from beyond her people — she managed to raise her family strong.

Never obviously guiding, she led her children, her grandchildren, and even great-grandchildren along a difficult path, out of an older, into a newer kind of world.

Even during her years of suffering, her home never failed to feel and to reflect her presence. Only a short time before she died, she spent her day — as she had spent many years of days — knitting for her family.

Beyond even the clan over whom she presided as matriarch we who know her will sorely miss Lena Joe.

Board changes hiring policies

A change in hiring policy of administrators by the school board which will involve both parents and teachers in the selection process, has been instigated by a new school trustee.

Trustee Claus Spiekermann asked school board Thursday to start proceedings on a new hiring policy which would see a screening committee which would include one parent and one member of the Sechelt Teachers' Association on a screening committee.

According to Spiekermann's proposal this screening committee would do the final interviews of candidates for principal positions and make recommendations to the school board on which candidates should be selected for final interviews.

The school board would then do the final interviewing.

Spiekermann said the school superintendent board, secretary-treasurer and trustees would also be included on the screening committee.

He said that the recent resignation of Allan Thompson, principal of Pender Harbour Secondary, had prompted him to request a change in hiring policy. Thompson's resignation is not effective until the end of the school year.

Parents and teachers should be involved in the hiring process because they would be dealing with the person in the future, Spiekermann said.

John Denley, school superintendent, expressed concern that involving teachers in the hiring of principals could violate the teachers' code of ethics.

Spiekermann said there is no problem with the code of ethics. "In Vancouver, three principals have been found by this process."

Trustee Peter Prescesky suggested that the parent involved should be elected by interested parents in the area which the new administrator would be working.

School board instructed the board secretary-treasurer and school superintendent to draw up a draft of this new policy to be presented for discussion at the next school board meeting.

Once the school board has agreed on a draft policy, the suggested policy will be made public for public discussion and possible changes before it becomes adopted policy of the school district.

Fund drive commendable

The CARS campaign for funds, completed just before the year end, brought in a total of $728 from the Sechelt area, to continue the fight against arthritis.

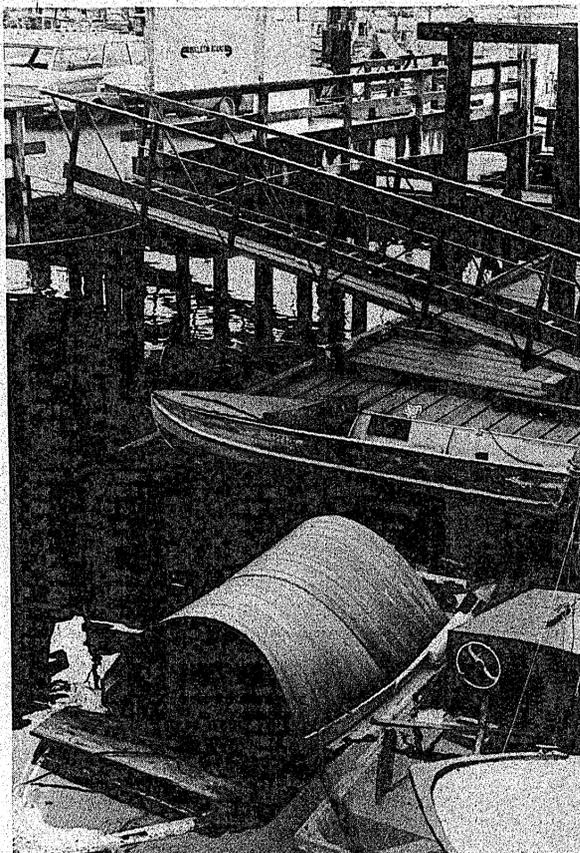

Paul Grocott, provincial co-ordinator at The Arthritis Centre, B.C. headquarters for CARS, is high in his praise for the work of volunteer co-ordinator, Vic Edmonds, and members of the Sunshine Coast Lions Club, who handled the organizing and canvassing.

The total for this mail campaign was below last year's by just over $30. Mr. Grocott reported and "in view of the economic conditions in B.C., the total achieved was a very commendable amount."

GIBSONS COUNCIL has ordered the removal of derelict boats from the wharf. Two boats shown here are partly submerged.

Houseboats aggravate wharf space and sewage problems

Space and sewage are two major problems Gibson's council is having with the wharf it leases from the federal government.

With the first, council has instigated action that might cope with some of moorage problems. With the second, its hands are tied. There simply doesn't seem to be legislation at any level of government fit to do battle with those who dump raw effluent into harbour waters.

Both these problems are aggravated by houseboats, according to Gibson's Alderman Jim Metzler. The vessels in question provide year round accommodation but are not used for business or pleasure purposes. There are approximately ten of them.

Moorage space has long been a problem in Gibson's harbour, especially for the overnight, pleasure boater. At a meeting with this reporter in December Metzler said there is a standing notice in the West Vancouver Yacht Club that tells boaters to "stay out of Gibson's, it's full."

Gibson's, although it leases the wharf, must abide by the federal regulations for wharf uses. These regulations dictate berthage fees and spells out the priority for wharf use. Fishing boats have priority, but the rule is, as long as a boat has a licence from the federal Department of Transport, it can be tied up to a government wharf indefinitely.

At last week's meeting, Gibson's council accepted three recommendations by Metzler to try and free-up some berthage space.

As soon as the federal float closest to Smitty's Marina has been repaired, all houseboats will be moved to the wharf attached to this float. The float is the least accessible and council hopes this will leave the more congested areas of the dock clear for moving vessels.

Second, the wharfing was instructed to request owners of all derelict boats that are tied to the wharf to have them removed. If no action is taken by the owners, council has instructed the wharfing to have the derelict boats beached.

And third, the council approved the village clerk's action of sending double registered letters to all those persons in arrears for berthage fees and that should no monies be submitted by those persons, the clerk follow through the small debt court charges against them.

At the December meeting Metzler said the problem with berthage fees is that a boat owner pays on the basis of the length of his boat. "However a houseboat can be 20 feet square and owner still pays on a lateral basis. We have tried to have this changed but we have had no luck."

He said council has few complaints about sailboat liveaboards. "At least they also use their boats for recreational purposes. The problem down there (harbour) is with houseboats."

And not only with space, according to Metzler, but also with the dumping of raw sewage straight into the harbour.

He said that in the summer especially, he received complaints from harbour edge residents over the sewage deposited by the tides on the waterfront, and of course, over the smell of it.

Trying to cope with the sewage problem isn't easy. Jack Copeland, Gibson's village clerk, said it is impossible for the local health authorities to enforce health by-laws because they simply don't have the manpower to cope with it.

He said that when boat owners are asked not to dump sewage overboard, the usual retort is that B.C. Ferries and other ships are dumping sewage in Howe Sound and the Strait of Georgia.

Dr. Bruce Laing, director of the Coast Garibaldi Health Unit, said Friday there doesn't seem to be any clear regulation against the dumping of sewage from boats in harbours. And he said, even if there was, he doubted the local health authorities would have the time to enforce them.

Charles Brooks, Regional administrator for Harbours and Wharfs in the Department of Transport said the sewage dumping problem in harbours is a complex matter.

"There are a number of houseboats at government wharfs but the Government Wharfs Regulations were silent on the topic."

He said that sewage problems and the jurisdiction of them had been investigated by his department on request by National Health and Welfare and that as a result, he was not aware of any federal legislation on the topic.

"It is my understanding that the provincial health act could be used to alleviate the problem," he said.

Dr. Laing concurred with Brooks only as far as investigations having been made but he said the jurisdiction over harbour sewage dumping matters was by no means clear.

What is clear in this matter is that if no suitable agency is directed to make or enforce policy on sewage dumping in harbours, Gibson's harbour is in for another smelly summer.

Chamber dinner planned

Sechelt and District Chamber of Commerce are planning their annual installation dinner January 28.

Special guest speaker for the dinner will be Ron Gadsby of B.C.'s Mainland Southwest Tourist Group who will present a film and speak on the importance of tourism to the Sunshine Coast and the rest of B.C.'s lower coastal region.

The dinner will be held at the Parthenon in Sechelt and tickets at $6 each are available from Neil Campbell of Campbell's Variety, Morgan Thompson of Morgan's Mens Wear and Frode Jorgensen of Frode's Barber Shop. The dinner is open to the general public, not just chamber members.

The 1976 executive of the chamber will be installed at the meeting and the 1975 Christmas storefront decorating winner will be announced.

Incoming executive include Richard Proctor president, Ed Nicholson vice president, Les English treasurer and directors Dave Fisk, Stan Anderson, Don Morberg, Jean Ferrie, Louise Bisailon, Barry Innes, Hayden Killam, Chuck Stevens, Al Campbell and Bill Grisenthwaite.

A secretary is to be appointed from the membership by the new executive.

Sechelt Notes

A good service is being extended to newcomers on the Sunshine Coast by the Welcome Wagon lady, Mrs. Lee Stenson. It is dependent on information received as to the arrival of new people. If you know, or are aware, of anyone recently moved to the area, please phone Mrs. Stenson at 885-2908. Another way to help is inform her of your organization meeting times and places. Who knows, a new leader for a Girl Guide or Scouts group may turn up by passing this information along.

Conservation Officer Pat Mulligan and wife Merle have returned from a glorious holiday in Desert Hot Springs. Among their happy pastime pleasures this time included picking dates, (the kind that grow on trees), as well as other fruit, and pieces of choya tree well cured.

There will be a smorgasbord dinner and dance with door prizes to be held at the Lord Jim's Lodge, Saturday, Jan 17. There is a limited number of tickets (with Thursday the deadline) at $10 per person.

Everyone is welcome, special guest will be Pat Graham, President of the B.C. Liberal party as this is fund-raising party for the Liberals of B.C. If that is not your politics, but you can enjoy a good time come along.

The annual meeting for volunteers to St. Mary's Hospital will be held Jan. 21 at St. Hilda's Church 11 a.m. bring a lunch, tea and coffee supplied. Volunteer Director Eve Moscrip will chair the meeting. If you are not a volunteer yet but interested come along; you will be most welcome.

Sechelt Auxillary to St. Mary's Hospital will hold a mixed bridge party (sweet and nutty) at St. Hilda's Church Hall Jan. 23rd 7:30 p.m. $1.00 per person. Men and women bridge players take heed.

Student comfort added at Elphie

By LAURIE BEEMAN
Elphinstone has had many additions for the comfort of the students.
A brand new pay telephone was placed in the foyer hallway across from the counsellor's office.
A new portable behind the science wing is very much in use, leaving the lunchroom free for students.
Already in the lunchroom, kitchen facilities such as stove and fridge are being added. A railing has been put in front of the kitchen so students can line up to get lunches in the future, after cooking classes are organized and cafeteria tables are installed to accommodate the students.
The student council is still working on getting furniture to make the lunchroom more comfortable. Right now it just has two ping pong tables and some scattered chairs.
Cheerleaders are now selling chocolate milk, yogurt, and pudding at lunchhour.
The coat of arms, according to Mr. Montgomery, will be displayed in the foyer. Before that happens, a glass case with three partitions will be constructed.
The middle partition will contain the coat of arms, and the other two partitions will contain trophies and school awards. It will hopefully be ready by June.

by MARY TINKLEY
Annie Louisa Winn, who died on December 23rd in St. Mary's Hospital had been a resident of the Sunshine Coast for more than 63 years, and one of its most interesting pioneers. She was born in London, England in 1894 and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Solley brought her to Canada at the age of 6 and settled in Vancouver.
In 1912, William Whitehead Winn of Vancouver bought the Howe Sound Store and when he moved his family to Gibsons, Lou Solley accompanied them to work in the store. In 1916, when she married Harry B. Winn, their marriage was the first to take place in the old Gibsons United Church.
A real pioneering family, the Winns imported the first car into the district, started the first taxi service and the first motorized trucking service in Gibsons. In 1924 three technicians arrived from Vancouver and connected up a long distance telephone service, with the first exchange in the dining room of the Harry Winn home, and Lou Winn took over its operation, a job which she was to hold for 31 years. To start with there were only 15 telephones between Seaside Park and Fender Harbour and telephone calls were limited to early morning and evenings to leave the single cable free for telegraph work during the day.
Telephones were scarce in the early days of the service and there would often be people sitting around in the Winns' dining room waiting for calls. Mrs. Winn would summon neighbours with a megaphone or whistle for which she worked out a system of codes. She used to tell a story of a subscriber for whom she blew the whistle a number of times without results. Eventually he turned up puffing and blowing, asking if there was a call for him. He had been over on Keats Island and thought he heard his call on the whistle.
Sometimes she would deliver messages personally, striding along the roads and trails carrying her baby. A kind and friendly person, she would take endless trouble in trying to track down a subscriber for whom there was an urgent message. Line trouble was frequent, for the lines were strung on trees which were sometimes blown down and sometimes felled by men who did not realize they were serving as telephone poles. At such times she would stand beside the road waiting for the infrequent car so that she could send a message to the linesmen.
With the expansion of the system, a small office was built on to the Winn home in 1944 and four years later a telephone exchange was built.
By 1955 when the Winns retired, they were operating two switchboards and giving 24-hour service to 165 telephones and the system had been taken over by B.C. Telephone Company.
Mrs. Winn was a member of Gibsons Womens Institute for 41 years and a member of Gibsons United Church. She was an active worker in the church women's auxiliary.
For the past three years she had been a patient in the Extended Care Unit at St. Mary's Hospital, Sechelt.

SECHELT ALDERMAN Morgan Thompson was sworn in as the village's representative on the regional board at the board's statutory meeting last week. Regional secretary Ann Pressley conducted the ceremony.

GIS forms in the mail

VICTORIA — Application forms for the federal guaranteed income supplement to the old age pension will be in the mail to all senior citizens by January 15.

This undertaking was given today by Harry Kenmare, regional director of the federal old age security program.

"The forms usually are in the mail by the end of the old year," Kenmare said, "but this year there has been a delay in printing and delivery."

The federal guaranteed income supplement to the old age pension is for one year at a time, beginning each April 1. A new application is required each year because entitlement depends on income, and marital status, in the preceding year.

Council to meet officials

Gibsons village is arranging two meetings with government officials.

The first is an information meeting with MLA Don Lockstead to discuss any government policy changes which might affect the village.

The other meeting which the village is attempting to arrange is with the new minister of highways to discuss flooding problems along Highway 101.

This problem was brought to a head at the village meeting last week when a letter from Lucille Muller of South Fletcher Road in Gibsons arrived.

In her letter, Muller said her house had been flooded December 28 by what she considered neglect of the highway and ditch conditions. She said it was the third flood in her basement in eight years caused by a blocked ditch. She asked for larger culverts to take care of the runoff.

Mayor Labonte said it was the law that each person was responsible for keeping their own culvert clean. "It appears highways just boo-boo-ed again," Alderman Bill Laing said, "And left a condition which made the highways a hazard."

He suggested, "We should send a strong response and tell highways to get off their butts and look after this highway in the way it should be looked after."

Alderman Kurt Hoehne said he had photographed the flood scene.

It was decided that a meeting with the Minister of highways should be set up and the village clerk was to make arrangements.

Bond posting concept backfires on council

Sechelt Council could have itself in a legal bind for allowing a Sechelt lot owner to break the village zoning by-law.

Last August, Sybil MacFarlane applied for a building permit to construct a garage on her property on Anchor Road near 'Poodle Corner.'

Council advised MacFarlane that Sechelt's zoning by-law does not permit the construction of an accessory building on a lot unless the principal building has been built or will be built simultaneously.

Council decided it would allow the issuance of a building permit for the garage if MacFarlane would post a bond for $500 to the village. The bond would be returned if construction of a principal building was started on the property within one year. The bond was posted.

Council received a letter last week from Robert MacFarlane, Sybil MacFarlane's lawyer, which said council had 10 days to explain the legality of the bond or return the $500 bond, or legal proceedings against the village to recover the bond would be instituted.

Council itself seemed unsure at Wednesday's meeting of the legality of the bond. And to further complicate matters the building permit issued for the garage stated the bond would be returned if the principal building was started within one year — the problem is that no dates were mentioned on the permit.

Alderman Dennis Shuttleworth said "it appeared council had been smeared with egg" and he wondered if council should not bow out of the situation gracefully.

Village clerk Tom Wood said the mistake was to allow MacFarlane to contravene the zoning by-law in the first place. He added that the bond had been requested in good faith and that he thought it should be returned only upon performance.

After a round the table discussion on the matter council decided to write a letter to the lawyer and explain its position in full.

The letter to lawyer MacFarlane in part says: "Now it may be argued that the bond is not strictly legal, but there is no argument whatever, that the construction of the garage without the principal building is strictly illegal."

If Mrs. MacFarlane requires the Village to be strictly legal and return the bond prior to performance, then the village must require that she likewise be strictly legal and either commence house construction, or dismantle the garage until the house is built.

Council outlines spending

Gibsons council has outlined its spending priorities for the first part of the year. At a committee of the whole meeting last week, the council decided to put the spending emphasis on manpower utilization projects rather than capital expenditures until tax revenues start to come in.

In this same vein, the council is sending a letter to Fire Chief Dick Ranniger asking that the fire department exercise restraint in its capital expenditures until tax money starts to come into the village.

A spokesman for council said the council does have certain financial commitments to meet, particularly concerning the school district, until taxation revenue comes in.

To hasten the arrival of tax revenue, the village is offering an eight per cent credit on any 1976 tax payments made between now and May 15. This applies to any pre-payment deposit and interest will be calculated on the deposit from the date of prepayment to June 30, 1976.

Elphinstone boys win two New Years openers

By LAURIE BEEMAN

The first game against Cariboo Hill after the Christmas Holidays went well for Elphinstone senior boys.

Elphie jopped Cariboo Hill 87-49 last Tuesday in Burnaby. High scorers were Dave Lamb and Pat Gaines with 14 points.

Coach Gary Gray was pleased with his team considering that they did not practise over the holidays.

"Everyone but one person scored, which made it an exciting game on top of Elphinstone's 25-8 lead in the first quarter," he said.

Gray played some of his team who do not play often, and was happy with their effort. Ryan Mathews and Ray Boser played a good game, along with Brent Linicker, Bruce Goddard and Bruce Brannon.

Last Friday, Senior boys scored another victory, winning against Carson Graham 65-44 at Elphinstone.

Senior Girls were defeated by Cariboo Hill 38-34. High scorers were Barb Old-12, Cindy Graf-six and Elaine Gant-six. Barb Sutherland and Cathy Gibb also played a very good game.

Coach Wilson was pleased with the results of senior girls.

"This was the best game that the girls have played since the beginning of the season. Although three of our goals were disallowed, it was a fair game," she said.

Last Friday senior girls lost to Carson Graham 51-22. High scorers were Colleen Kurucz-eight, Cathy Gibb-six and Cindy Graf-four.

Elphie girls took a 4-0 lead first quarter, but Carson Graham's determination brought them ahead with a four point lead throughout most of the game.

In the third quarter, Carson Graham pushed harder, taking a 19 point lead until the end of the game.

Elphinstone senior cheerleaders were present for all of the games and were greatly appreciated for their support.

A SLIDING POKE CHECK is attempted by one member of the No. 1 team from the Over The Hill League. Team No. 1 played team No. 2 Thursday in Sechelt's Arena.

Curling start scheduled at Gibsons Winter Club

Curling is scheduled to start this week at Gibsons Winter Club.

Curlers are asked to contact Art Craze (886-9882), Marlene Bjornson (886-7037) or Haig Maxwell (886-2045) for drawings, whether or not they are debenture holders.

The equipment needed for curling will be: rubbers or curling shoes, a warm jacket or sweater and a pair of gloves. Brooms can be rented for a small charge or purchased through the club.

A general meeting will be held on January 26 and all members are asked to please attend.

"Many thanks to volunteers for time given to supervise skaters. Without their help, skating would not have been possible," a club spokesman said.

Since many will be going out and buying equipment for curling in the next few weeks, here's a tip about picking a curling broom. There are many types of broom and depending on the way you sweep, there is a broom to match your style.

If you sweep rather straight up, then you will want a broom with a side bristle because you will be sweeping with the end of the broom and you want to make the widest possible contact with the ice. If you sweep steeply over then you will be sweeping mainly with the side of the broom so a narrow broom is appropriate. The more skilled you are, the more you will bend and the more effectively a narrower broom can be used.

Brooms are different in another way which is not so important to helping the rock down the ice. Some brooms are made to make a loud noise which is supposed to impress everyone on the ice with how hard you sweep. One of the ways the broommakers make brooms to create noise is to turn the center bristles so the thick side is down. This stiffens the broom and gives it a loud crackling sound when swept. It is a hindrance to the beginning sweeper though because he cannot apply sufficient pressure to make it work. A hard core broom also wears out faster and loses more bristles on the ice surface. Another gimmick to make the broom crack is to put a piece of plastic down the centre. Again question if it has any effect in getting the rock further down the ice, which after all is the object of sweeping.

Beside picking a soft broom, if you can find one these days, the beginner should also look for a broom that is a suitable length. If necessary you should cut off the handle. After you have established what is a comfortable sweeping stance for you, mark the handle at the top your upper hand and saw the end of the handle off. File the end round and you are ready when the skip hollers, "Sweep, Sweep."

Arena News

—by Helen Phillips

A SUCCESS

The arena was thrilled with the response to all their festivities over the holidays. To start with, the Christmas dinner on December 21 was lovely, and the six - 21lb turkeys that were cooked were gone and they even had to send out for more. The response was terrific and so was the dinner.

It is nice to be able to offer those in the community something like that around Christmas time as other eating facilities are few and far between.

There were many winners of the grand draw from all the names pulled during public skating nights in December. Congratulations.

Can you imagine 200 trees being cut, put on stands, and then having to be removed, all for the pleasure of three days? It was a lot of work for volunteers, and a great thank you goes out to them for all their effort.

The pleasure of skating through trees, park benches to sit on, snow men watching you skate by, spotlights on a Christmas scene, beautiful Christmas music to skate and listen to, these are memories that will be treasured for a long time. This helped make a nicer Christmas than ever, and this fulfilled event was given to everyone by the compliments of the arena. Santa was also a popular event and upstairs was packed with families as the children had their pictures taken with Santa and received a gift.

The only disappointing thing about it all was that after Christmas when the paper came out. I was hoping to see a letter to the editor, using this medium to thank the arena for the free skating given to the public in this lovely winter scene. Well, since no one else seems inclined, my family was out there, and I would like to thank the arena on behalf of the Peninsula for giving everyone a chance to skate and enjoy this lovely display. We enjoyed it ourselves, and from the many compliments I heard I know it was enjoyed by everyone who came. Thank you, and a special thanks to all those who worked so hard to make it so beautiful.

BONSPIEL SUCCESS

Although in the middle of the week when everyone was tired from work, the mini bonspiel was a lot of fun. A great way to mix and socialize.

I hope the curling club will try it again in the future.

GOOD LUCK

Knowing the struggles we went through, I am pleased to see Gibsons is now on its way to curling. They still have a way to go to finish the bar and other facilities, but the ice is in, which is the most important thing, and the building looks really nice. Lovely wooden beams support the structure and it really looks good.

7th BONSPIEL

Gibsons is having their opening bonspiel Feb. 7 so Sechelt curling club, be sure to enter. Contact Art Craze to enter your rink.

FRIDAY ENTERTAINMENT

Don't forget Over The Hill Hockey Friday nights for good entertainment. I don't have any scores for last week but will have stars and scores in for next week.

PAINTING DONATED

Granville, the English artist, who had a showing in the mall in Nov, has donated a painting to the arena for a raffle. The winner will have his choice of one of three paintings and the other two will hang in the arena 'till they sell.

This raffle will be held March 27. Second prize is a ten speed bicycle. The proceeds of this raffle will go toward a time clock which is really needed for the arena. So let's get busy and start selling tickets. To obtain your tickets ask Doreen in the office for them.

WARREN BEATTY and Jack Nicholson stage a rip-roaring fight over the affections, and the wealth, of heiress Stockard Channing in this scene from 'The Fortune'. Set in the late twenties, the Mike Nichols comedy opens Sunday at the Twilight Theatre.

From matrimony to murder in pursuit of 'The Fortune'

'The Fortune', a Mike Nichols comedy film starring Warren Beatty, Jack Nicholson and actress Stockard Channing, Nichols' newest discovery, opens Sunday at the Twilight Theatre.

In the new motion picture, Nichols' first all-out comedy since 'The Graduate', Beatty and Nicholson play a pair of unprincipled scoundrels in the late 1920's who try to separate a dizzy heiress (Ms. Channing) from her wealth. Their bungling attempts, ranging from fair play to foul and from matrimony to murder, lead to a series of unpredictable misadventures.

Beatty's performance as fortune-hunting, light-hearted homicidal Nicky Stumpo — sporting slicked-down hair and a pencil-line moustache — is a far cry from the amorous social climber he plays in 'Shampoo'.

'The Fortune' also marks a merry change of pace for Jack Nicholson.

As Oscar Sullivan, Beatty's partner-in-crime, he's a slovenly, embezzling ex-bank teller, whose wardrobe and morals are equally unkempt.

Of newcomer Stockard Channing, in her major screen debut as heiress Fredricka Quintessa ("Freddie") Bigard, New York Times film critic Vincent Canby reported: "... a Nichols discovery of major importance... a fine-grained robust comic talent who keeps the film in proper balance by being just as intently lunatic as her two stars."

Vice president resigns from seniors executive

The executive of Branch 69 Senior Citizens met Jan. 6th to lay plans for the new year and particularly for the monthly meeting to be held on Jan. 15th in our Hall. First item of business was the announcement that Bob Foxall, for personal reasons, had resigned from the office of First Vice-President.

Madge Hansen had moved up to be first vice-president and exercising their prerogative the executive had appointed Jack Elder as Second Vice-President. Bob will continue as publicity representative.

The executive will recommend to the membership the passage of the motion of which notice was given at the previous regular meeting to amend the By-laws to authorize payment by the executive of accounts of up to $100.

It was announced that the provincial convention will be held at Prince George May 17 to 19. Resolutions for the convention must be submitted immediately so the executive approved the sending of several regarding increases in pensions and also provincially in regard to car insurance.

The treasurer was authorized to secure a safety-deposit box for the protection of the Branches documents such as title-deeds and insurance policies.

With the sanction of the New Horizons Committee it was decided to proceed to the renewal of the floors in the entrance hall, the washrooms, the kitchen and the refreshment room. Building Committee was so quickly on the job that the sub-floor was laid by last night and it is hoped that the supplier will have the covering here and down by the monthly meeting of the 15th. Part of the entertainment at the social hour to be held on Jan. 22 will be another slide showing with Jim Derby being the operator.

It will be announced that Bill Wilson will be No. 69's representative on the recreation committee.

Dave Hayward announced that the bus for the Ice Capades on Feb. 5 was already sold out, and that he was formulating a Reno Trip in the spring and a visit to the Portland Rose Festival in due course. More details on these at a later date.

Do you remember that during our drive for funds last year a large colored TV was donated by the late Mrs. Jones. After a lot of deliberation the best thing to do will be to dispose of this fine instrument. It will be on display at the monthly meeting and the first member making a reasonable offer takes it home. We really don't think we want to run any raffles for a while yet so somebody grab this very fine opportunity.

We were pleased to have a number of visitors from Powell River at our dancing on Monday. They had a good time.

CBC changes to be discussed

Proposed changes in CBC radio programming will be discussed when CBC radio manager Bill Armstrong visits the Sunshine Coast January 25.

Some of the changes planned for CBC radio next fall include replacing Bob Kerr's 'Off the Record' (2:30 p.m. - 3:30 p.m. weekdays) with a classical request program; to move the present late evening music, Gold Rush, Touch the Earth, Country Road, Jazz-Radio-Canada, to the 8 to 10 p.m. time slot; to combine Sunday Magazine, Capital Report and Sunday Supplement into a three hour magazine package.

One day workshops set on interesting subjects

One-day workshops are becoming increasingly popular. It seems to be one of the more efficient ways to learn if you gear your mind to a particular subject for a whole day and by the end of the day it is a very satisfying feeling to have acquired new knowledge within a field of interest.

It often feels like a mini-holiday to take a whole day off and to submerge oneself in a subject of interest, and the exchange of experience with other participants is often an important part of the pleasure.

Four one-day workshops are planned for January and February by the Centre for Continuing Education.

WEAVING WORKSHOP
The weaving workshop takes place in Roberts Creek School on January 31 from 9:15 a.m. to 4:15 p.m.

The instructor Minica Mees is a well known teacher at the Handcraft House in North Vancouver. She will demonstrate different off-loom weaving techniques and the students will be given an opportunity to choose between four different techniques to make a project of their own to take home. The idea is to expose the participants to as wide a variety of off-loom weavings as possible and the instructor will demonstrate the use of different fibres and discuss their qualities. Slides will be used to show different examples and reference books will be available to help students get as wide an exposure to the subject as possible. The class is limited to 10 participants and pre-registration is therefore necessary. The fee for the workshop is $8 and $5 for materials.

SELLING FOR RESULTS
When the business-people on the Peninsula wanted more knowledge about efficient selling the only way to go was to Vancouver. This is not longer so. Derek Everard who used to spend his time giving workshops for the Department of Education in Alberta and for different companies across the country now lives on the Sunshine Coast. I am very pleased to announce that the first workshop Derek Everard has promised to give is on Selling for Results. The business-people who are interested in increasing their efficiency will not only attend themselves, but invite their staff along for this workshop.

'Selling for Results' deals with subjects like developing and improving a sales personality, goal setting and mind programming, mental attitude, approach, getting attention through arousing interest, understanding motivation, creating desire, handling fear, overcoming resistance, handling competition, and many more aspects of the subject.

The workshop on Selling will be held at Sechelt Elementary School on Sunday, February 1 at 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. The fee is $15 and participants are asked to bring their own box-lunch. Fees exceeding $25 are tax deductible. Pre-registration is necessary as the class is limited to 20 participants.

TRANSACTIONAL ANALYSIS
Derek Everard will be the first person to introduce Transactional Analysis on the Peninsula. He explains the TA offers ordinary people a way to answer critical questions about themselves and their lives: What is going on? Why is it going on? How do I change if I don't like what is going on?

Would you want your daughter to marry these men?

Happenings around the Harbour

SEA SCOUTS BENEFIT

The scouts of Pender Harbour received $150 from local hamburger baron Kelly's annual mooseburger feed. Kelly was skunked when he went on his moose hunt but local man Ron Small came to the rescue with a large amount of meat and the show went on.

The burgers were free and diners were asked to donate to the Sea Scouts. As shown above they did so handsomely. The Scouts also helped in their own cause as Kelly kept them busy serving customers. Earlier in December the Scouts had a Christmas party in the community hall where Kelly served them free hamburgers and orange juice.

NO REST

Pender Harbour firemen were called out at 2:30 a.m. on January 6 to put out a brush fire on Frances Peninsula. There have been a significant number of brush fires in that part of the harbour over the past twelve months.

MEETING

The Pender Harbour Community Club will hold a general meeting in the hall in Madeira Park on Monday, January 19 at 8 p.m. Main item of business is the Election of Officers. Please attend.

SYMPATHY SHOWN

The people of Pender Harbour came out in force recently to attend the funeral service held for Gordon Edwardson who passed away while being treated in St. Marys Hospital for a heart ailment.

Born in the Pender Harbour area, Mr. Edwardson was a well known and liked resident. The Sympathy of the community goes out to his wife Doris, a tireless community worker and the others of the family.

VARIETY

At the end of this month Kelly of Madeira Park hopes to add fish and chips and chili con carne to his menu.

DONATIONS

The following is a list of organizations and the amounts given them by the Royal Canadian Legion Branch 112 in Madeira Park in 1975. Minor Hockey League, $500; Minor hockey club, $25; Student's bursaries, $225; Pacific command bursary fund, $50; Variety club, $41; (Matched by W. J. Hamilton) $82;

Jack Bachop 883-9056

Cancer Society, $25; Lion's Crippled Childrens Camp, $25; Pender Harbour and District Health Centre Society, $25; Firefighters Halloween party, $25. Two children sponsored through Christian Children's Fund, one in India and one in Korea $175 each, $350; Harbour Lights Corp, Salvation Army, $198; making a total of $1,530.

TREAT IN STORE

A 10 piece band called 'Perdido' sponsored by the local group Harbour Lites will perform at the Legion in Madeira Park on Saturday, January 17. This is a professional group which has played in various night clubs. Admission is free and the fun starts at 9 p.m.

FUTURE FIREMAN?

Linda Curtiss and new son Andy are back home in Madeira Park. Andy was a premature baby but both mother and son are now in the pink.

SENIOR CITIZENS

The Senior Citizens will hold their next meeting in the Legion Hall in Madeira Park at the usual time on January 19. Entertainment will consist of whist and other games. Refreshments will be served. The information was disclosed by Ruth Saunders who has succeeded George Anderson as Entertainment Chairman of the senior citizens.

MEETING

Lions District Governor John C. (Jack) Ellis, Lions international 19A accompanied by his Zone Chairman for District A6 Larry Boyd of Gibsons Lions Club was welcomed by the Pender Harbour Lions Club President Joe McCann when he arrived for a dinner meeting of the local Lions held in the Legion Hall in Madeira Park January 7.

Local Lions were out in force for the occasion. In a speech Governor Ellis stressed the importance of all Lions Clubs supporting the International Youth Exchange Program.

The B.C. Lions Crippled Childrens Association was also worthy of support he said and he hoped the Pender Harbour Lions would get involved in this cause.

After the very successful meeting the local Lions held their usual executive meeting.

THE HOME FOR Sechelt's new fire engine nears completion. 101 Contracting are putting the final touches on the pre-fab garage attached to the firehall. The new fire engine should be in town by the end of the month, according to Sechelt alderman Ernie Booth.

BUSINESSMEN

Wharf use applied for

A company has applied for use of part of the Gibsons wharf for storage of oxygen, acetylene and other compressed gases. In a letter to council, Gerald Johnson of Gibsons said he intended to form a company to operate a barge transporting service between Horseshoe Bay and Gibsons wharf for the compressed gases.

"We would like to make use of the present enclosures to secure control of losses and minimize clutter on the wharf. We propose to keep these enclosures locked with keys," the letter said.

The letter also asked permission to locate a small, mobile power crane to be located on the edge of the wharf in front of the enclosures, "where it could not create any congestion or inconvenience to other users of the wharf."

The alderman moved that the council give approval to the idea pending approval from the federal department of public works and subject to the berthage and wharfage fees and regulations. The motion passed.

School board assumes education of retarded

The Sechelt School Board will assume responsibility for the education of retarded children as of September 1976.

The motion passed Thursday by school board to bring education of the retarded under its wing followed a Nov. 19, 1975 resolution by the Sunshine Coast Society of Retarded Children to have the school board assume this responsibility.

Board secretary-treasurer, Roy Mills recommended to the board the Department of Education funds will be sought to purchase a classroom and other educational aids from the Society which had previously been used by the school for retarded children.

The board resolved to enter into further discussions with the society before it agrees to purchase the class and equipment from it.

John Denley, school superintendent, said the society would carry on in the future dealing with the pre- and post school needs of the retarded children. He said he thought the Society could use financial assistance through the purchase of the equipment by the board.

The school for the retarded presently exists on donations from the public and has found it increasingly difficult to secure necessary funds for its operation.

Pair of new members for Sechelt auxiliary

First meeting of the Sechelt Auxiliary to St. Mary's Hospital for 1976 was held Jan. 8 at St. Hilda's Church Hall. President Mrs. Betty Monk was in the chair for the beginning of her second term in that office.

New member Mrs. Lynn Wilson was introduced and Mrs. Kay Bennett who came as a guest but by the end of the meeting had decided this was for her and joined the group.

Volunteer Chairman Mrs. Dorothy Carter gave the volunteer hours for December: Hairdressing 73 hours, gift shop 12, library 3, flowers 6, extended care 50 and miscellaneous 12 hours. The latter included the decorating for Christmas.

Volunteer Director Eve Moscrip told of the annual volunteers meeting, which all volunteers are urged to attend, this will be held Jan. 21, 11 a.m. at St. Hilda's Church Hall. Volunteers are asked to bring a lunch, tea and coffee will be provided.

Mrs. Eve Moscrip will conclude her job as volunteer director at the end of this month necessitating a replacement. The search is on for this important job, a resume of her duties, train new volunteers, arrange for parties and outings of extended care patients, favors for trays on special days, orient new personnel, setting up of new volunteer services, attending meetings, purchase and distribute Christmas presents for all patients, provide for extra duties. Liaison officer between hospital staff and public and volunteers. Despite the many niggly jobs it falls to her to do, this is a most interesting position, think on it and then offer your services, call Eve Moscrip at 885-9322 and she will direct you to the proper place.

A new program is being started assisting the Physiotherapist Dr. Ian Hunter, not with the therapy but meeting patients, sort of like an airline hostess. The hours are 10-12 then 1-3. Apply to Mrs. Eve Moscrip as soon as possible as a training session will be set up for those interested.

Bridge convener Mrs. Margaret Hamm announced the games were going well and the Bridge party planned for Jan. 23 was going ahead as planned at St. Hilda's Hall 7:30 p.m. This is a mixed party men and women; $1 per person. If you are a bridge player please join the group for the evening.

The new Sunshine Convener is Mrs. Lee Redman; membership Mrs. Ermin Robinson. The memorial fund formerly the job of past president is now in the hands of the second Vice President Miss Chris Ward.

The date of the Lower Mainland Regional meeting to be held in our area this time is still up in the air due to the B.C. Annual Convention being moved from October to May. Mrs. Margaret Hastings, area representative for the Lower Mainland reported in a letter that the date will be arranged as soon as possible.

A lovely letter received from Hospital Administrator Mrs. Ellen Bragg thanking the ladies for decorating the hospital bringing warmth of the season to patients and staff.

Mrs. Bille Steele, with the help of Mrs. Eleanor Bernacki, will be in charge of the beautiful crocheted bedspread to be raffled. Mrs. Maureen Hall in charge of tea thanked the following ladies for delicious sandwiches and cookies, Mrs. Eleanor Bernacki, Bobby Bodnarek, Alice Billingsley, Norma Branca. Next meeting the second Thursday in February.

Sechelt awards garbage contract

Sunshine Coast Garbage Disposals has been awarded the contract for garbage pick-ups in Sechelt for 1978.

The village will pay $525 per month to have the company make garbage pick-ups at Sechelt's 307 businesses and residences once a week.

Last year at this time there were 260 pick-up points and the cost to the village for garbage removal was $400 per month.

Re: Proposed Sewer System— VILLAGE OF SECHELT

As your residence is within the area for the proposed Sechelt sewer system, your attendance is earnestly requested at the public information meeting to be held on January 18th at 2:00 p.m. in the Old Age Pensioners' Hall on Mermaid Street.

This meeting is being held to answer any questions you may have regarding the proposed sewer system. As the elected persons will have to make the final decisions on how to proceed, it is of prime importance that both supporters and opposers of the proposal use this opportunity to voice concern for their village.

Representatives from various government agencies, as well as elected members of Sechelt Council and the Sunshine Coast Regional District will be in attendance to help answer questions concerning their related fields of endeavour.
