Sunshine Coast becomes home to Viet refugees

Finally! They have a place they can call home — the Sunshine Coast. Their beaming faces marked by relief and gratitude masked the signs of a long ordeal of prison, death, hunger and a filthy Malaysian refugee camp.

Six young Vietnamese refugees of ethnic Chinese descent started a new life last Thursday when they arrived on the Coast via Edmonton and Vancouver.

For 20-year-old Thi Tiue and his wife Ngan Duong, brother Quoc Phat Duong along with Muoi Ha, Hoa-Vinh Ha and Vi Cuong Ha (all under 23-years-old) it was the end of over four fear-filled years of threatened military service, threatened forced labor camps, discrimination, hunger and legal government pillage in Vietnam.

But for their freedom, they also had to pay a price, leaving their parents, a brother and sister in Saigon. They risked their life on an overcrowded fish boat and their health in a crowded and dirty refugee camp.

Why did they take the chance when they knew only 50 per cent of the boat people survived the journey?

"Freedom mostly," translator Joe Chung answered. "In Vietnam it was hard to get food, men 18 to 25 are forced into military service (where the ethnic Chinese would have to fight against the Republic of China). If they refuse service, they are forced to go to economic zones where it is even worse.

"The government tries to take everything away. They stripped everything we had and in the end we had to hide from them," Chung translated.

They spent three days and four nights on a small boat carrying 500 refugees. Chased by the Vietnamese Navy, their boat began to sink, refused help by Taiwanese fishing boats, it was an American ocean liner which finally picked them up.

But only after one refugee tried to force his way on the boat and in the scuffle up the side of the ocean liner lost both his arms did the captain allow the refugees on.

From there they were put in a Malaysian refugee camp where they stayed for four months with limited food and water.

Now they are in Canada they hope their parents and brothers and sister will one day be able to join them.

They also hope one day they will be able to return the help given to them by the people of the Sunshine Coast.

WELCOME TO Canada. Two families of Vietnamese refugees arrived on the coast last week. Left to right are? Thi Tiue, Ngan Duong, Muoi Ha Ying), Vi Cuong Ha, Hoa-Vinh Ha and Quoi Phat Duong.

WAITING FOR THE MONEY

Cap College to offer 1st year

The results of the Sechelt educational needs survey by Capilano College has been tabulated and if all goes well, Sunshine Coast residents can expect a full first year of academic courses to be offered in the fall of 1980.

They can also expect business managment courses as well as an expanded office training program and basic training and skills development program.

Capilano College principal Paul Gallagher told the Times they will be following the recommendations made by Gordon Wilson who was hired by the college to do the survey.

However, one obstacle stands in the way — funding by the provincial government, but Gallagher didn't see much of a problem there.

"It depends on our budget submission being accepted by the ministry. The ministry have been very positive about the proposal, very much so" Gallagher said.

"But our target is to follow those recommendations put forward by Gord Wilson."

Wilson's recommendations will be released along with the results of the survey some time this week, however he gave the Times some of the highlights:

—Offer three academic courses, psychology, a second language and English starting this fall (implementation postponed till January, 1980).

—Offer two vocational and technical courses in business managment (postponed until January, 1980).

—Offer a full first-year academic program for September 1980. Course would be in natural sciences, humanities and social sciences.

—expand the basic office training and basic skills and development program.

—Hire a full-time co-ordinator and program developer.

—Classes should be held in Sechelt.

—Integration of Sechelt Libraries with Capilano College, which will open up UBC, SFU and Vancouver Public Library to residents on the Sunshine Coast.

Wilson said the response to the questionnaire both by the community and business was "overwhelming."

The educational needs survey was answered by more than 500 residents and 65 businesses. Wilson estimated the Sunshine Coast could provide up to 16 per cent of the total enrolment at Capilano College.

He defended his choice of Sechelt as the site saying although it was not demographically the centre of the Sunshine Coast, it was geographically.

Gallagher said the recommendations by Wilson would be the guidelines which the college would follow.

"We not only hope to offer courses on the Coast, but we hope to establish a presence there," Gallagher said.

Referendum proponents receive an extra boost

Plans for the new Roberts Creek Community Centre received a boost this week with the news that architect John L. Davies will donate his services to prepare the preliminary plan for government approval.

A resident of Roberts Creek, Mr. Davies has been designing schools and community buildings for thirty years. The joint-use project in Roberts Creek will be very similar to the combination school gynasium and community centre he did in Whistler a few years ago.

The Roberts Creek facility will be a joint-use project with the Regional Board and the School Board. It will be located behind Roberts Creek Elementary School and will combine the functions of community hall, school gymnasium, and auditorium. The cost is estimated at between $3000,000 and $450,000.

Electoral approval for financing is required and a Specified Area Tax Referendum will be held in Electoral Area D of the Regional District this Saturday, September 22.

Area D is the area between Browning Road and Seaview Cemetery. Anybody who owns property in the Area or has resided there three months or more, is 19 years or older, and is a Canadian citizen or British subject, is eligible to vote.

Anybody who qualifies but is not on the October, 1978 List of Electors for Area D may vote if they fill out a registration card at the poll.

The poll will be held at Roberts Creek Elementary from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. An advance poll will be held Thursday, September 20, at the Regional Board Offices in Sechelt between 11 a.m. and 6 p.m. (For more info see The Creek Runoff.)

Zoning issue still contentious

By HELEN PARKER

Allowance for a light industrial area in Sechelt is still a contentious issue for the majority of the persons who attended the public hearing on the final draft of the Sechelt Village Community Plan September 12.

About 30 of the approximately 55 persons attending the hearing at the Senior Citizens' Hall stood to say they had signed a petition opposing heavy density zoning proposed along the Porpoise Bay Road extension between Wharf and Trail Avenue, adjoining the Sechelt Duck Marsh."

The petition was circulated by developer Hank Hall who said 239 persons had signed, although a later count by village clerk Malcolm Shanks totalled 203.

"To change this small congested area (approx. seven acres) from its present residential state to Industrial, Public Assembly and high density apartments will serve only to increase the land value for the two owner developers of the land at the direct expense of the adjoining and surrounding residential property owners," the petition said.

"The majority of the property owners neighbouring the area proposed for high density are senior citizens who have retired to small residences near shopping and hospital facilities.

"To now build a joint facility government office that will house 50 employees and approve a bordering industrial park within 20 feet of these residences is both shocking and disgraceful."

Increased traffic in the area because of the joint-use facility will create "disturbance and unnecessary danger," the petition said, and those buildings associated with light industry will "require heavy trucking north of the proposed Sechelt Bypass in complete contravention of the long-range regional plan for the area."

Vice-chairman of the Sechelt Ratepayers' Association Ian Hunter said the association met September 10 and voted to oppose anything other than subdivision and residential use of the land north of the power line right-of-way.

Any other zoning would be "detrimental" and "incongruous" to the area, Hunter said.

Cliff Lindsay said he wanted it "on the record" he was the only person at the ratepayers' meeting who voted against that motion. His later remarks about Hall's presentations led a number of people sitting in the back of the hall to tell him to "shut up."

Len Van Egmond said the site of the proposed bypass was laid out, "so people would know not to build alongside it."

"When you have a limited access highway, you don't ever plan residential along it," Van Egmond said.

"Roads are not enough," Don Sadler of Sechelt said. "You want to throw in industrial, too."

"I am saying this location is not suitable for residential," Van Egmond said.

"Are you suggesting Mr. Hall bamboozled 249 people into signing that petition?" Mike Evans asked.

"If the shoe fits..." Van Egmond said.

Rod Pierce of Sechelt said the proposed light industrial area is a "blob of obscenity dropped from the sky into the middle of a quiet residential area."

"Your village is only four blocks wide," Hall said. "What the hell do you need an industrial park for?"

"I think the plan is a tug-of-war between the developers and right in the middle are the residents of Sechelt," Christine Hunter said.

Though discussion around the proposed light industrial zoning dominated the two hour meeting, comments were heard on encouraging a more frequent bus service on the Sunshine Coast.

"In recent years, the bus service has diminished," Miss Helen Dawe said.

She suggested opening the lines of communication with the bus service owners and presenting a brief to the motor carriers commission on the importance of the bus service to the Sunshine Coast.

Chairman of the Sechelt Ratepayers Association Chuck Dowman wondered why, with the number of senior citizens in Sechelt, no allowance was made in the community plan for a "senior citizens' high density situation."

Mrs. Ada Dawe answered the Senior Citizens' Housing Society was already having difficulty filling the new wing of Greene Court.

Sechelt council now must consider the comments made at the meeting and give the community plan third reading and final adoption before sending it to Victoria for approval.

Shanks said later "the word industrial immediately gets people's backs up" and creates visions of "smoking factories" which are not council's intentions for the zone.

"This is just a community plan for the future and zonings are not in effect now or even later unless applications are made to change it," Shanks said.

"The area designated on the plan for service industrial does not mean it will be rezoned as that," Ald. Joyce Kolibas told The Times.

"It simply indicates what the majority of committee members felt was a good spot for light industry close to the highway and other industry.

"The highway itself would, I imagine, cause more distress than any industry which is closed at night.

"I feel the petition sent around was somewhat of a scare tactic and certainly should not have brought in the Public Assembly zoning. The plan is a guide only."

Possible candidates eyed

The Sechelt Ratepayers Association has come up with three possible candidates for the municipal election in November.

Ben Lang, who was asked to form a small candidate-search committee in June, submitted the three names for the association's approval at its meeting September 10.

After talking to "many people" who were qualified, but did not feel they could find the time for the job, Lang and P.B. (Tic) Payne submitted these names: Herbert (Bud) Koch for mayor, Brian Stelck and Mike Evans for aldermen.

"It appears to us that the people we propose need not be concerned about a conflict of interest as their main objective is the welfare and orderly operation of the affairs of the Village of Sechelt" Lang said in a letter to the ratepayers.

"The three people we propose might not wish to be backed nor endorsed by the Ratepayers Association, per se, nor for that matter any other organization.

"In this case we feel the candidate's wishes should be respected."

Stelck said he was "seriously considering" running for alderman, however certain business decisions within the next 10 days will determine whether he files his nomination papers.

"But I certainly am considering it and that's why I allowed them (the ratepayers) to mention my name," Stelck said.

At the Times deadline, Koch was on holiday and Evans could not be reached for comment.

So far, only Mayor Nelson has declared his intention to run for re-election. Ald. Morgan Thompson decided in July not to run and Ald. Frode Jorgensen is undecided.

It's about time

The Sunshine Coast will finally get a decent post secondary educational program ? its about time.

Almost every geographical location in the province of B.C. with the same population of the Sunshine Coast has some sort of post-secondary educational offerings.

And believe it or not we have Dr. Pat McGeer to thank for Capilano College finally being able to offer academic courses here.

For without his 100 per cent provincial financing of colleges, Capilano could not move up here.

We can also thank local Capilano College geography teacher Gord Wilson, who put forward the recommendations which should be acceptable to the people in Victoria.

Accessible higher education can do nothing but add a new dimension to Coast life. The need has been expressed through the questionnaire distributed last spring.

The courses and programs offered will hopefully be of high enough quality to attract even further interest. If it is to work, the program must be a viable alternative to the first year programs offered on the Lower Mainland. Of course it will be limited, but the highschool graduates deserve an alternative to travelling to Vancouver.

Secondly— We applaud the recommendation the Coast Libraries should integrate with the Capilano College Library. Not only will this make the libraries at Capilano available to Coast residents, but also the SFU, UBC and Vancouver Public available.

As much as we appreciate the job done by our local volunteer librarians, the number of books available are sorely lacking.

The Sunshine Coast is growing and so must our educational opportunities.

Remember to vote

Roberts Creeks are facing a very important proposition this Saturday as they will be asked to support the financing of a new community centre.

Although this paper thinks the community centre concept is a good one, we believe it more important for everyone to exercise their right to express their opinion.

Remember to vote.

Reflections

By Vern Giesbrecht

Well over a year ago, I wrote a column about some of the beautiful sights and experiences a person could enjoy on a sunny winter day. Lest you get the idea that I'm usually to be found oohing and aahing over beauty, let me list a few of the things that irritate me. As you might expect, people are the culprits in every case.

There may be reasonable explanations for the behavior I'm going to mention, but I'm at a loss to understand people who:

—start their cars five minutes before the ferry docks and gun their engines as if revving up for the Indy "500";

—lean on their horns to harass an already frazzled motorist who's striving mightily to get his stalled clunker off the highway;

—smash bottles and spread soft drink cans and other garbage on our beaches and roadsides (at least cats bury their mess);

—sit directly beneath no-smoking signs in restaurants and puff defiantly;

—try to monopolize every conversation as if the sound of their voice is the only music fit for their listeners' ears;

—desparage their spouses, children or parents in public ("It's over there, you dummy," a man chided his wife the other day when she couldn't locate an item. I wonder what he calls her in private?);

—can't find a good word to say about anybody but are quick to dig up a bushel of bad ones;

—attempt a task half-heartedly, then give up, complaining that it was too hard;

—bypass a motorist who's in trouble, blocking the highway, endangering himself and others, perhaps (I've had 40 cars swing around me at a dangerous corner on a stormy night, instead of helping me get the car off the road);

—can't spell my name right. It's not the simplest handle in the world, true, but if I can spell Grisenthwaite and Giannakos, why can't anyone spell Giesbrecht? People seem to have no trouble spelling it Geysbrecht, Gisbricht, Goosebrecht, Guisebrecht, Geisbracht (as on my timetable form at Elphinstone), Geisbrick, Gesbrigt and other variations too strange to mention.

Now that I've vented some spleen, as the saying goes, I feel much better, and I can go on looking for beauty.

Letters to the Editor

Mrs. Carson "a fine citizen"

We would like the opportunity through your newspaper, to thank publicly one of Sechelts' senior citizens for helping to save our boat last week.

Mrs. Carson of West Sechelt, who gets up very early every morning to feed her beloved birds saw our boat crashing on the rocks in the pounding surf, early on August 30.

She checked with each house on the street until she found us, the owners, and alerted us. She came down to the beach with us, provided us with buckets for bailing, wading waist deep to help bail When that failed, she went up and phoned Air-Sea rescue, and waited by the road for them, although they did not come.

Hours later, when we finally manoeuvered the boat up on to a cleared space of the beach, Mrs. Carson was there, holding ropes, pulling, and helping us bail. Others on the beach by then also came to our aid, and we are grateful to all those who helped us; but we were overwhelmed by the concern and untiring assistance of Mrs. Carson.

We understand we are not the first to benefit from her watchful eye and willing hands, as she scans the sea morning and night to see if all is well, or if anyone is in trouble.

I don't know if this gracious lady has received any public acknowledgement, but we would like to add our praise to a very fine citizen.

If there are awards for good citizen being contemplated, our vote would certainly go for Mrs. Carson.

"Getting close to election time"

Editor, The Times:

It appears to me your paper has a new columnist. Every week Charles Lee has a letter in. Of course it is getting close to election time.

I see in last week's paper Lee is suggesting to Hayden Killam to sue the Regional Board. It seems to me everytime Lee doesn't get his own way he challenges the board with a law suit.

Lee is trying to make it look okay that Killam didn't file his disclosure papers.

It is interesting to note Lee is using your media to promote his re-election, whereas he proposed to ban all press at the board meetings, when Proctor reported the board was eating from the public trough.

When Lee claimed conflict of interest against chairman Ed, when the smoke had cleared I noted he didn't get the chairmanship of the finance committee back.

From the criticism in his recent letters of Chairman Ed I would guess he is vieing for the Chairmanship himself, if indeed he is re-elected.

Developers bothered

by Helen Parker

The Sechelt Community Plan was everything I thought it would be, at least until shouts aroused me from my sun-basked dreams of a winter holiday.

Shouting in public is fine if it is constructive (and I can wring a few inches of news copy out of it). But when people start calling others down, whether it's warranted or not, I feel a little uncomfortable.

So Cliff Lindsay probably earned himself a reputation for bad manners the other night, which will only stick with him because he clearly showed he was at odds with about 95 per cent of those attending the meeting.

And one of the statements which earned him the reputation was "I've been listening to Hank Hall for seven months now and he hasn't made any sense yet."

What seems to be irritating several developers is Hall's ability to get the residents of Sechelt behind him all the way, though Hall himself is a developer.

Every time a developer opens his mouth around here, some tacky remark is issued and Hall steps in to take advantage of it. It could be Hall has been around a few years longer than the others and has learned some of the ropes, so to speak, — the same ropes that are stringing the others up every time they turn around.

Everyone knows a light industrial area in Sechelt would conflict with Hall's industrial park on Field Road in Wilson Creek and he's never made any secret of it.

And sure, he has a berrible habit of using five to 10 words when he could use one. But take a lesson, you guys, he's saying something the people want to hear. They love it and they applaud it. You've heard them.

And if you say anything against him, he ignores you and the people turn on you and tell you to shut up, bluntly — no obfuscation there — as they told Lindsay.

One of the problems I'm always running into is hassle from a certain number of mini-minds who appear in court each week. People who are first-and only-time offenders, who maybe had a little too much to drink one night and were caught and who are truly embarrassed about appearing in court never say a word to me about getting their names in the paper.

Most of the hassle is from young guys who probably deserve more than the usual "so-and-so pleaded guilty to such-and-such and was fined so many dollars," except it's difficult to extract anything more than an "I dunno," "nope," or "Yeah" from all the "ums."

Months ago, a young man who was convicted of a fairly violent crime told me his name in the paper would send his dying grandfather over the edge.

Unfortunately, he was talking to a hardened reporter who has heard threats of suicide (theirs) and mashed faces (mine).

And I would never go so far as to brag people read the Peninsula Times even on their deathbeds.

If I had my way, I wouldn't be spending a day in court each week. As it is, I only write the convictions and not the charges because it saves me from writing, out of fairness, who was found guilty a few weeks later.

So now I'm wondering why I'm being hassled by a few who I have yet to write about, but which leads me to believe not only can they not express themselves they can't read, either.

A fine line

Hockey's different

—by Bruce Robinson

Many of you are undoubtedly aware of the recent trial involving several of coach Ernie McLean's Rhode Scholars, who were found guilty of assault as a result of their antics during a hockey game in which they, the New Westminster Bruins, were playing the Portland Winterhawks. However, you may not have heard of another trial, poorly publicized, which addressed a similar situation. The latter trial resulted from a brawl during and after a senior B men's hockey game, which was held in Scoot Falls, Alberta. The combatants in the game were the Alder City Woodheads and the Heavenly Helpers, the Helpers a barn-storming group of "Born-again Christians.

Adhering to the golden rule, "Do unto others. . ." the Heavenly Helpers followed the Alder City Woodheads into the areas parking lot after the game, and a second brawl occurred. Being the clean-living fellows they were, the Heavenly Helpers paused during the second brawl to shower up and then proceeded to "Denny's," where the remainder of the two teams — that is, all those who were not prostrate in the parking lot — continued to impress their philosophical leanings upon one another.

In the ensuing legal proceedings, the Heavenly Helpers were not prosecuted. In fact, the christian element residing in Scoot Falls, demanded that "swift and appropriate action" be taken against the Alder City Woodheads, "because they were guilty of both antagonizing good kids and taking a name or two in vain." In making these accusations, the Christians did not pay much attention to the hospital boxscore which showed the Woodheads leading Heavenly Helpers two to one in emergency admissions, X-rays, and broken bones. Clearly, the Helpers were divinely inspired.

Only four Woodheads were finally indicted, including the trainer and a forty-six year old defenceman who, the prosecution claimed, hadn't played in eleven years, but was employed by the coach to beat up anybody who scored more than one goal against their team.

None of the stars on the team were indicted, their lawyers having successfully completed plea bargaining with the prosecutor, who also doubled as Scoot Fall's dentist. Rumour had it that the Woodhead stars promised to bring in their teeth for any future repairwork required, in exchange for clemency.

Following are exerpts of the transcript, taken from the trial of the four Woodheads, the honorable Huey Corkblood, presiding. After the four accused had approached the bench along with cousel and pleaded not guilty to charges of assault with a variety of deadly weapons, the trial officially began.

First on the stand was the forty-six year old defenceman, Bruno Nightwerk, an antique dealer when he wasn't playing hockey. For Bruno, the glory the trial brought him was insatiable. With his menacing picture appearing in the local rag, he was recognized by many townspeople. Old ladies crossed the street to avoid him, children pointed him out in awe, and the girls at the local disco flocked to dance with him. Bruno loved it.

Prosecution: Mr. Nightwerk, the Scoot Falls Sun Times claims you told them that, "violence is my life." Am I wrong in attributing that quote to you? Bruno: Nah, yuse is right in sayin' dat. Violence is where it's at. I love hearin' people's bones crack. Prosecution: Is it also true that you hit four Heavenly Helpers with a nine iron?

Bruno: Nah, only three. (Bruno seems visibly upset with his low gross). Prosecution: You may step down.

Next on the stand was Mealey Nomad, who had played for thirty-seven senior men's teams, moving on to a new team whenever the family of the last player he had beaten up, began following him around town.

Prosecution: Mr. Nomad, did you hit Lester Goodwill of the Heavenly Helpers with the fender of a nineteen fifty-eight Pontiac? Mealey: (Responding with a strange, raspy lisp, the words tumbling out on his tongue as it snaked out between the two remaining teeth in his bland head). Yeth, thath's twue. Except it wath a fifty-five Pontiac. I've found them much more reliable. Prosecution: That's all, Mr. Nomad.

Third man up was Severyor Cranium, an ex-Czech National and recent bouncer at the same disco where Bruno was being re-born. Prosecution: Mr. Cranium, did you or did you not eat Ronald Purebred's ear? Severyor: Vell, I only eat hiss ear becauss he vas chewing my arm. I might haff been a bit hungry, too. I don't remember. Prosecution: Step down, Mr. Cranium.

Harry Bedrock, the trainer, was the last to take the stand. His role in the fiasco turned out to be somewhat different than that of his comrades in arms.

Prosecution: Mr. Bedrock, it has been reported that you ran over Virgil Temperance's foot with what remained of a nineteen fifty-five Pontiac, and then kidnapped his wife, Prudence. How do you respond to that charge? Harry: The way it happened, see, I asked Virgil if I could take his wife to the drive-in since he was fightin' and probably wouldn't have much free time that evenin'. He said no, so I ran over his foot. A Weary Prosecution: Sit down, Mr. Bedrock.

And so the trial ended. No Heavenly Helpers were in attendance. They were apparently off on their next crusade to Spokane, Washington. The Alder City Woodheads were given suspended sentences and a severe reprimand. As they filed out of courtroom, the Woodheads four were cheery and communicative, especially Bruno Nightwerk, who spoke openly to reporters about the virtual acquittal. "It worked out da way it shoulda. I mean, it weren't like we wuz beatin' up guys for da fun of it or to get their money or nuthin. Hockey's different."

My father he was orange and my mother was green

Carillon

With Bill Bell

My father he was "orange" and me mother she was "green," and God help my dear old dad if he ever said, "The English had a right to be in Northern Ireland."

I was brought up on the Clancy Brothers and a large dose of IRA propaganda aimed at children of my age. "Up the long ladder and down the short rope, to hell with King Billy and God bless the Pope."

By the time I was 12-years-old the British Empire might have been dead, but the words were still synonymous with imperialism and racism.

Down the road from where I lived in North Vancouver was a short fellow with a strong English accent which stood for everything my young brain had been programmed to despise.

His voice had the sound of the "Black and Tan," and it had the ring of 600 years of English colonialism over the peoples of Ireland.

And when the little "limey" called me an "Irish papist pig" it was war.

Maybe it wasn't the Easter Rebellion, but it was to be my own little war of retribution.

After all, I had the Battle of the Boyne and all those years of absentee landlordism which my ancestors had suffered to get even for.

Besides, this guy was a good three inches shorter than me. It would be easy for me to finish him off with a few rights and once he was done the Queen's name would be mud. For good measure I had planned to sing a few rounds of the Wild Colonial Boy just to rub it in.

Well, it was down to the bush we went on that fine September afternoon, followed by a highly-partisan crown filled with "good Englishmen's sons and daughters."

"All the better," I said to myself. "There will be witnesses to this clobbering of a son of Preston."

It being "a war for Ireland's and England's honor," we would not stoop to the usual street fighting. Rules were drawn up, a neutral referee chosen. It was to be bare fists, no kicking, scratching or gouging or using the top of ones head as a butt, and finally there was not to be any wrestling because that's where my extra weight would be a large factor.

Since we had a large crowd, many of whom didn't have the foggiest idea why we were fighting, a speech was made.

He spoke of the Irish as being barbarians and had the English not civilized Eire, it would still be fuedal state.

You, he said are a classic example of an "ungrateful dogan," He ended his speech with a rousing "Long live the Queen," much to the pleasure of the growing crowd.

I responded with my own short history of Ireland, telling the booing audience how the English had tried to destroy the Gaelic culture and robbed Ireland blind.

I finished with a "there will always be an England because they are a bunch of parasites."

Then the fight began — it finished about an hour later, but it seemed like it must have lasted an eternity.

My nose started bleeding on the first punch and another blow put my tooth through my lower lip.

My "limey" opponent suffered just as much, ending up with a face as badly-beaten as a squashed melon. The blood which covered him from head to foot, however, was mine.

Neither one of us showed up at school for over a week. Both of us were suffering from physical pain as well as mental hurt, as the fight was judged to have ended in a draw. Nothing was won except quite a few bruises and scars.

The fight took place in 1967, just before the renewed IRA acts of terrorism in Northern Ireland.

Today the fighting continues with the recent senseless murder of Lord Mountbatten.

To compare such horrendous atrocity as the killing of Lord Mountbatten to a silly fight between two adolescent teenagers might sound a little absurd.

But there it was, two boys fighting, one for the Irish cause, one defending the right of England to be in Northern Ireland.

They were willing to go to a certain length to obtain in a limited and isolated fashion what they believed in. The two boys spouted the historical rhetoric learned in two different home environments and both believed they were right, as well as having God on their side. The similiarities break down because even at a very young age, fighting over a very emotional subject, these two boys were able to maintain a certain amount of honor. . .

They fought with words and yes, there was violence. Some would call it senseless, but to those two boys it was still a fight with honor.

To this day I would still defend the right of the IRA to fight for what it believes to be the freedom of Ireland.

But in my books to fight for freedom by murdering innocent people is to defeat what they are supposedly fighting for — justice. In this case the end does not justify the means.

If you're wondering what ever hapened to the "little limey" who lived down the street — he became my closest friend.

Times COMMUNITY REPORT

Halfmoon Bay Happenings

By Ruth Forrester 885-2418

What a nerve I have to try to fill Mary Tinkley Shannon's shoes! She has done such a marvellous job of keeping the community informed for all these years, and here am I — only in the area for about five minutes — attempting to carry on where she left off.

All I can say is that I will do my very best to maybe one day be as good as Mary! It will probably take quite a while as this is a whole new scene for me — but I always figure that you are never too old to try something new.

After all, my fellow Glaswegian Jack Webster started off several years ago as "Your Roving Reporter" — and look where it has got him! So I shall try to become your Halfmoon Bay Roving Reporter.

When I say that I have only been in the area for five minutes I mean it just feels like that. It is in fact seven years since my husband Bob and I came to the area, having spent our previous sixteen years managing ski resorts in the Interior, and climbing mountains.

Suddenly get tired of shovelling snow for six months of the year and migrated to this lovely wee corner of the world. Still don't know too many people in the area — therefore I am hoping that anyone who has got some little snippet of news will help me out by giving me a phone call at any time. I shall try to get around and find things out for myself as much as possible, but on the other hand, I have no desire to become your local "Busy Body".

So, rest assured that I will try not to displease by publishing anything without first obtaining your permission to do so.

This is the time of year when many of us have just returned from holidays — yours truly having just completed a fabulous three week trip to London and Scotland — but I will fill you in on this at a later date. Was on the same flight to London as Dave and Fran Reid who also returned home a few days ago — tired but happy — and happy to be home again.

They spent their first few days in London and then drove to Denny in Stirlingshire Scotland where they visited with Dave's Aunt and Uncle, Mr. & Mrs. Beattie and their son Bruce. Bruce happened to be on holiday at the same time and was able to really show the Reids all the local area and to take them touring north to Fort William, Malaig, Inverness and all the beauty spots along the way. This is what makes a Scottish holiday, to have someone local to take you to the "Off the beaten track" spots.

On their return to London they met up with Al and Eunice Keeler — Eunice is the daughter of Alice Burdett of Redrooffs — and the four of them then took off for an eight day tour of Ireland. They spent some time at Tramer which is a typical holiday resort with beautiful beaches and lots of entertainment spots. They stayed at Tralee and Limerick, attended a crazy medieval banquet, kissed the Blarney Stone, stayed at Dunlearie and explored that beautiful part of the country. The Reids must have really made the most of their trip, because they then returned to London and took a trip by hovercraft over to France.

They were back in London for the funeral of Lord Mountbatten and were most impressed by the efficiency and pomp of this event which had saddened and shocked the country. I agree with Fran and Dave that it is great to have a trip like that, but it is also a great joy to get back home to Halfmoon Bay again.

VACATION IN THE INTERIOR

Geoff and Geri Smith also just returned from a weeks' vacation in the interior where they visited with their two sons, one in Castlegar and one in Fruitvale. One of the boys has had a new swimming pool installed at his home, and I think that Geri now has designs on a backyard pool. Haven't we all! Geri, who is of course our Halfmoon Bay Hospital Auxiliary President asked me to inform you via this column that an invitation has been received from Mr. Warren McKibbin inviting our members to attend the opening ceremonies of the new hospital addition. This will be on Saturday, September 22 at 2 p.m. Hope to see you all there.

BIRTHDAY

Two of our well known residents celebrated their 82nd birthdays on September 5. They are Janet Allen, who spent her birthday with the family of her daughter Mary Fairfield in Penticton, and Hugh McPhalen who was with the family of his daughter Doreen Urquhart in Powell River. Hugh and his wife Agnes also celebrated their 59th wedding anniversary in September. Their next one ought to be a really big celebration.

Mrs. Pat Ness of Halfmoon Bay had a most welcome and unexpected stranger call at her door the other day. This was a young man on whom she had never set eyes before, but he introduced himself as a friend of Pat's cousin's from Nottingham in England. He even brought a letter from her cousin's wife to prove that he was indeed a friend of the family. Apparently he was a chum of their son and was on a tour of Canada.

UPCOMING EVENTS

A reminder of some upcoming events: September 17 is the date for the start of the Carpet Bowling at Welcome Beach Hall at 1.30. You will be made most welcome if you care to join with some of your neighbours in this activity. On September 18 the Shuffleboard season will start off with a "Get Acquainted" evening in the hall at 7:30 p.m. This will be an opportunity for new members to try their hand at "shuffling". The first official games of the schedule will start the following night. Eighteen teams are made up but there is still room on the spare board for those who would like to spare.

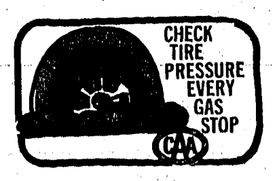
Till next week — cheers — and I would be happy to hear from you at 885-2418.



The Creek runoff

The possible dream

By Jeanie Norton, 886-9609

A chance for one more pep talk before the Referendum on Saturday! It's been in this column the past month, we've had press releases in ALL the local newspapers the last two weeks, we've sent pamphlets out in the mail, we've put a notice on Channel 10, we held a public forum on Monday, and we're sending notices home in your kids' lunch buckets this week. You're probably feeling overwhelmed, confused, or just irritated by this barrage of information. But bear with us as we go over a few of the more salient points of the issue.

1. We're asking for approval for a tax levy to finance a community centre at between $300,000 and $450,000. But the actual increase is expected to be about 2 mills, or $15 per year for the average homeowner. That's not much for a multi-purpose facility that will hopefully accommodate and attract concerts, theatre productions, and other cultural and entertainment activities not presently possible on the Coast. It's the cost of a pretty cheap evening out.

2. It's a viable operation. We won't go ahead with the project unless we're sure we have the necessary funding and once it's built it will support itself through hall rentals. It won't be a case of deficit funding like the Gibsons pool and the ice arenas.

3. We have rather an impressive array of supporters backing us — the Community Association, the Elphinstone Recreation Group, the Parents-Auxiliary, the Joint Use Committee, the Regional Board, the School Board, and John Davies, an architect right in the community with invaluable knowledge and experience in this area. They're all convinced of the merit of the proposal and are prepared to cooperate on it.

4. Past proposals to establish a central recreation centre in Roberts Creek failed through lack of foresight, apparently a perennial problem on the Peninsula. Consequently we have an ice arena stuck up in the middle of nowhere, inaccessible and in financial trouble; a curling rink in another town; and a swimming pool that's too small.

The present proposal for a community centre has foresight. It will meet the needs not only of the present but the future. It's not just a dream, it's a vision. And it's possible.

It's possible with your vote. Don't think that it will go through if you stay home. Come show you're with us. Come vote. . .and vote YES.

LADIES SOCCER

If you missed last week's practice, come to the next one on Sunday at the School at 11.

MEETING TONIGHT

Don't forget the Community Association meeting at the Hall tonight at 8.

Christian Science

". . .who is God, save the Lord? and who is a rock, save our God? God is my strength and power: and he maketh my way perfect." (11 Sam 22: 32, 33)

Is more assurance than this needed for our safety, strength and security?

Mary Baker Eddy writes, "Rise in the strength of Spirit to resist all that is unlike good. God has made man capable of this, and nothing can vitiate the ability and power divinely bestowed on man." (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures.)

Actons move

by Peggy Connor 885-9347

ACTONS MOVE TO MADEIRA

Cliff Acton, assistant manager of the Bank of Montreal in Sechelt has been promoted to Bank Manager at Madeira Park. The family will move to the Pender area from West Sechelt.

Kathy, and Cliff were very active in Sechelt, strong supporters of community events. Kathy chaired the Special Events for Timber Days, did an excellent job of getting everyone in the spirit of the efficiently run games.

Nicki, six, and in grade one hates to leave her young friends but both she and Erica, two, will make many new friends at their new home. The great community enthusiasm at Madeira will appreciate the addition of two active workers to their area. Sechelt will find it hard to replace them, however they always worked with people, this way they have fired up others who may step forward and carry on.

Best of luck, you both will do fine wherever you go.

WHEELS IN THE ATLANTIC

Dennis Hansen pedalled into Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island on Thursday, September 13 to dip the wheels of his bike in the Atlantic Ocean, thus culminating a cross Canada trip via bicycle. He leaves there to travel up to Newfoundland before he returns home by a faster route than he took-going.

His parents, Niels and Faye Hansen of Manson road were happy to hear he was visiting inside in front of a cosy fire when the tail end of Tropical storm David hit the eastern provinces. The weather on the whole was reasonable, he had twenty flat tires but a grand time.

SHOWER FOR RHYL WOOD

Andrea Bobardt and Denise Lawson cohosted a surprise shower for Rhyl Wood, September 8 at the home of Mrs. Beulah Lawson of West Sechelt.

Rhyl is the daughter of Allan and Jean Wood longtime residents of this area. Rhyl born and raised here will wed Danny Singh of Vancouver on Saturday, September 22 at the Bethel Baptist Church.

Thinking she was attending a wicker basket party the bride-to-be was really surprised to find everyone was there to shower her with gifts and good wishes. Present were, her Mother Jean Wood, Aunt Beulah Lawson, Shirley Fearnley, Jackie Higginson, Judy Sim, Jenny McCourt, Helen Weinhandle, Lenore Caldwell, Mildred Chambers, Ina Grafe, Judy Caldwell, Jean Chambers. Not able to attend but taking part were Dawn Terhune, Lianne Lawson, Angi Waters, Marie Montgomery, Lil McCourt, Sherry Spence, Joan Stevens, Sharon Ellis, Mae Yarrow.

Wine, tea and coffee were served with fancy sandwiches etc. a butterfly cake with best wishes Rhyl and Danny done in pink and white.

AREA "B" RATEPAYERS ANNUAL MEETING

The annual general meeting of the Area "B" Ratepayers will be held at the Welcome Beach Hall on the Redrooffs Road Monday, September 24, 7:30 p.m. This includes the West Sechelt and Halfmoon Bay areas and all persons living in either districts are invited to come and join. President is Ralph Mahar at 885-9435.

CANADIAN POWER SQUADRONS' BOATING

The Sunshine Coast Power Squadrons' Boating course will start on Wednesday, September 19 at the Chatelech Junior high school in Sechelt, room 111. Instructor this year will be Roland Hawes who is well qualified in boating. This course provides a general instruction to safe boating for either sail or power boats.

SECHELT INTERMEDIATE CARE SOCIETY

The first annual meeting of the Sechelt Intermediate Care Society will be held on October 4, Thursday 7:30 p.m. at Sechelt Elementary School. All interested in such a facility for this area please keep this date open.

GRADE SEVENS INTRODUCED TO LOGGING

A very interesting day for Sechelt Elementary School grade sevens was spent at Jackson Bros. Logging. Pete Jackson took the time out of his busy schedule and showed the students the process of logging from the falling, bucking, loading — down to the log sorting, bundling and into the water.

The sixty students that took part on the field trip September 12 were most fortunate in the weather, a warm clear fall day.

Then on the Thursday Mr. Jackson came to the school and gave more background information covering regulations, cost, the ecological aspect etc.

What an excellent learning experience for the students and teachers.

ST. MARY'S AUXILIARY VOLUNTEERS

The inservice volunteers at St. Mary's Hospital held a no host luncheon meeting at the Parthenon on Monday, September 10.

Guests were Director of Nursing Dana Kearney, Head Nurse second floor Val Morrison and Jo-Anne Bushnell Volunteer Co-ordinator of the Volunteer Bureau, Billie Steele, President of the Co-ordinating Council of the Six Auxiliaries.

There were twenty-three volunteers of the various services present. In the absence of Volunteer Director Eileen Smith due to ill health, Mary Macdonald chairman for the extended care service chaired the meeting.

Dana Kearney thanked the volunteers for their time spent with the patients and extended her personal invitation to those present to attend the opening of the new wing of the hospital to be on Saturday September 22.

There is going to be staff and prodedural changes for the patients as yet it is seven or eight years down the road before an extended care building will be in the picture.

She asked the volunteers to discuss their needs as a volunteer and share ideas that they have at the hospital.

The finishing of the present building will necessitate closing down one to two days. The temporary operating room is the new emergency and will function throughout changeover. Then everything will — move back to where it was.

One big change is the resignation of activity aide Lillian Peters who will be going into business for herself.

Jo-Anne Bushnell who is used to volunteers found the meeting very exciting with the exchange of ideas flashing back and forth. The Volunteer Bureau of the Community Services Society would be happy to put on a workshop for the Auxiliaries if and when they desire one.

The Volunteer Bureau performs a helpful service directing those volunteers wishing to work in the hospital to the Auxiliaries.

Val Morrison spoke on the possibility of changing hours volunteers work, the volunteers asked for more direction in their time spent at the hospital and guidelines will be forthcoming.

Mary Macdonald stated it was part of the Auxiliary work that those who work with patients take it seriously and feel it is important to be there when promised.

ORV MOSCRIP

Orv Moscrip formerly of Standard Motors in Sechelt died Friday, September 14 in Vancouvers St. Paul's Hospital.

Enjoying for a short time his retirement from business by playing golf and other activities one does on release from day to day pressures of work.

Orv was one time president of the Chamber of Commerce when it was the Sechelt Board of Trade. A very active coach of rugby and other sports for the young people. He very cheerfully supported the Sechelt Auxiliary to St. Mary's Hospital serving often as barman for their luncheons.

A memorial service is being held in Vancouver this week. Orv leaves his wife Eve, daughter Liana Whittaker in Richmond, son Ray in Pender Harbour.

Gibsons glimpses

Back to reality

by Marion Alsager, 886-2458

Back! back to reality after an exciting holiday in Toronto and visiting with daughter Ginny. An itinerary mapped out by Ginny for sightseeing some highlights of this city included the CN Tower, 1,815 feet 5 inches high with its revolving restaurant at 1150 feet with a capacity to hold 420 people.

This is the highest and largest revolving restaurant in the world. The view from it was breathtaking. The Ontario Science Centre was fascinating and very educational. On the way to the tower, what a surprise to meet up with Lawrence Jones, son of Margaret and Ralph Jones of Gibsons. Margaret had hoped I would see him and extend their regards so I was happy to do so.

The following day I took a sightseeing bus tour of the City of Toronto which included a visit to the Casa Loma "House on the Hill". A magnificent 98 room castle, though during our tour we only had time to see 16 of the rooms as one would need a day to two to see it all.

The Ontario Art Gallery has an outstanding display of paintings by Old Masters, over half of the Gallery's permanent collection is the work of Canadian artists, saw many by the "Group of 7", there were paintings by American and European artists plus prints and drawings. The Henry Moore Sculpture collection was great. Visited "The Grange", the Gallery's first home built in 1817 and is restored giving a flavour of domestic Toronto around 1835. The costumed staff carry out household activities as their nineteenth century forerunners might have done.

In the evening we saw a most entertaining comedy show at "The Old Firehall" dinner theatre featuring North Americas famous Second City Comedy Revue, starring Catherine O'Hara and Andrea Martin and an "all girl" cast, it was hilarious!

The CNE was on, with it's theme "Year of the Child", heard it was top notch but unfortunately time and energy did not allow a visit to it. But did have a good visit with Shirley Hoehne, daughter of Kurt and Crystal Hoehne of Gibsons, she moved to Toronto in May and I brought news and greetings from home. The week flew by and then it was time to board a Rapido train to Montreal, Ginny had five days holiday and arranged travel and accommodations in Montreal and Quebec City.

In Montreal we took a city tour which took us to the Expo grounds where we saw the Olympic Stadium, a most daring engineering accomplishment and ever so costly. Also various other buildings which are still at the Expo grounds.

Entered the beautiful Notre Dame Church and were given the history of it and a tour, the stained glass windows were gorgeous. On to Mont Royal Park where we got a fantastic view of the City then to Old Montreal with its quaint shops and history.

A good three hour tour which gave us a "bird's eye view" of this city. In the evening we saw a super "Las Vegas type" show at the Cahteau Champlain featuring the "Can Can" with the entire company. Some nostalgie with a tribute to Jean Harlow, Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers and also Carmen Miranda, SUPER! and a very popular show as we were told that it has played to a packed house every night.

The restaurants in Montreal were a gourmet's delight. The Les Halles on Crescent street was recommended to us and the food was superb. In old Montreal the Les Filles De Roy had excellent French Canadian Cuisine which we enjoyed. The shops had fabulous choices of very up-to-date stylish clothing and we certainly saw some very fashionably dressed ladies and gentlemen. And we did not have any language speaking problems during our visit in this great metropolis.

Took the Express bus to Quebec City, a 2½ hour ride, enjoyed the scenery enroute and upon arrival still had several daylight hours to go sightseeing. We headed for Old Quebec with it's dozens of shops that sell everything from Maple Syrup to tapistries, the artists' street was simply great. Dined at the L'Ancentre, outstanding service and French Canadian Food.

The next day we took a tour of Historic and Modern Quebec which included upper and lower town, Old Quebec, the French and Latin Quarters, The Plains of Abraham, the Citadelle, Place Royale and the Laval University. Saw many historical statues, the boardwalk (Promenade of Governors), the imposing Chateau Frontenac a grand and beautiful old hotel. The Court house was in the French renaissance style of architecture and all the buildings had very interesting architecture including The Kent House built in 1648 and restored in the 19th century classical French architecture, the Duke of Kent lived here from 1791-94.

The Ursuline Convent and grounds cover an area of seven acres and is the oldest educational institution for young women on this continent. General Montcalm is buried in the Chapel here.

The Citadel is 360 feet above the level of the Saint-Larent river and comprises some 25 buildings, the most notable are the vice-regal residence. the King's Bastion, the Prince of Wales Bastion and the officer's quarters. The Citadel is still occupied by the Canadian Forces, headquarters of the Royal 22nd Regiment.

The Laval University is the oldest French-Language university in North America and has a total population of 30,000 persons yearly.

Jai bien aime mon voyage!

ARTS COUNCIL HAPPENING

Arts Council fund-raising activity will take place on October 5 — it's a Bake Sale in the Sunnycrest Mall at 10:00 a.m. Donations of baking may be left at the home of Joy Graham or phone 886-9260.

LIONS

Ray Holbrook tells us that when he was selling Lucky Leo tickets in the Mall, a young boy came up to him and said, "you know, I like the Lions they bought me a leg." He then told Ray that he would like to buy a Lucky Leo ticket, and said he'd be back as soon as he collected enough bottles to pay for it. He did return and purchased his ticket and told Ray that now he felt that he has helped some other crippled child. We hope he wins!

WINTER CLUB

A skating dance is planned for Sept. 15 tickets are available at the Concession stand. There will be curling instructions for new comers during the month of October, dates are not yet finalized. League curling will begin October 22. The annual Green Bonspeil will be held Oct. 13, for details call Howie Larsen at 886-2124. Don't forget the "skips" meeting Oct. 16 at 7:30 p.m. in the lounge.

YACHT CLUB

Plans for the Marina are still progressing, awaiting a committment from the Federal government and then the Provincial government will be approached for funds; Lorraine Goddard told us that the Provincial funding would come from the recreation facilities fund and the lottery fund. The Village Council is then committed to "go to the people."

Congratulations to Dave Smethurst and his crew for winning two Seconds and one First prize in the Cataline 27 National Regatta in Victoria. He told us that there is guest moorage at the Royal Victoria Yacht Club for members of the Arbutus Yacht Club. Yacht Club members, your Fees are overdue, cut-off date is Sept. 30.

KIWANIS

Approximately 65 people attended the Kiwanis 25th Anniversary Barbecue party last Saturday, unfortunately the weather was un-cooperative and so the party had to move indoors to the Harmony Hall. Distinguished guests were Lt. Governor Doug Shields, past President of the North Vancouver Club and Incoming President, Gordon Cameron of the Vancouver Kiwanis Club. Ozzie Hincks tells us that 25 years ago the North and West Vancouver Kiwanis Clubs sponsored the Gibsons Kiwanis Club. Charlie Shearer, President of the West Vancouver Club 25 years ago was present and President of the North Vancouver Club, Thomas Donley and several guests from the West Vancouver Club.

Attending were several former local Kiwanis members among whom were Dr. Hugh Inglis, Junes Manil, Ed Johnson, Don Haúka. Dan Wheeler is the outgoing Pres. and Mo Girard is the incoming President of the Gibsons Kiwanis Club. Everyone enjoyed the evening and we heard that close to 100 pounds of salmon was consumed.

BINGO

Is everyone aware that the Gibsons Legion Bingo has started up, we were told that the prizes are bigger and better this year, so come join the fun.

Congratulations to Juliette (Labonte) and Terry Gritt on their recent marriage.

An alternative for women

By HELEN PARKER

It's hard to believe someone with a career and education background like Verity Purdy's would feel any discontent with herself.

But, she says, it took a Career Alternatives for Women course at Capilano College in North Vancouver some years ago to help her find a direction in which to channel her talents.

"I didn't think it was of any value," Mrs. Purdy said.

By the end of the course she wanted to be up front where the instructor was — " I thought "This is my kind of career alternative", she said.

This course eventually led her into co-ordinating a similar course for Continuing Education on the Sunshine Coast. New options for Women, which starts September 25 (9 a.m. to noon) at Chatelech, is designed to help women who feel they may be in a rut to develop a more positive attitude about themselves.

"It's never too soon to start if you have rumblings of discontent," Mrs. Purdy said. "It could have come 20 years earlier for me."

Mrs. Purdy stressed the course is more of an introduction to Career Alternatives for Women.

"Career Alternatives focussed on the work field and not too many women want to get a job or change their job," she said.

"As much as I'd like to say, "Hey, it can be done," it has to be gently so we don't have a lot of irate husbands."

Mrs. Purdy has an extensive background in dance, which includes helping to found the Canadian Dance Teachers' Association in Toronto and choreographing for the overseas unit of the Canadian Army show during the war.

She was also accepted by the American Ballet Theatre, but chose to go with the army show.

Numerous cities and jobs later, Mrs. Purdy, her husband, a televison producer and their two children, now 24 and 29, came out to the West.

From there, they started the Langley branch of the Canadian Pony club. Leaving the farm after a few years, and moving from apartment to house she developed an interest in interior decorating.

Mrs. Purdy will also be teaching an interior decorating course, which will end with a tour of their new home in Halfmoon Bay where she hopes the students will be able to "pick out the mistakes."

Mrs. Purdy completed a number of courses in Theatre Arts and Recreation and first-year university in an attempt to find what she wanted to do and trying to utilize her own skills.

For the past 14 years, she has co-ordinated and choreographed the Miss PNE pageant and has helped her husband on a number of his own projects.

After her husband retired to Halfmoon Bay three months ago, Mrs. Purdy felt this was her chance to start afresh.

"My husband was ready to get away from the masses of people," she said. "At first, I thought it was to be retirement, but the word frightened me."

"I thought I mustn't cut myself off and sit on a rock, I must, in fact, be busier than I've ever been."

The chance to develop a similar course, to the one she found so successful was very timely.

The course will be conducted as discussion seminars exploring areas such as women's roles and how women handle money.

"We will question the roles we play and then we can see where we have put ourselves into boxes," she said.

"Centering and focussing — directing yourself inwards to find your own centre, then directing outwards to focus on specific things," will also be explored.

"Before you go out, you have to go in," Mrs. Purdy said.

Sensitivity — and how it differs from "poor me" — how to direct anger at a situation rather than a person, all will be included in discussions.

To make a mustake and feel guiltless, the freedom to fail, is something many women cannot do comfortably and which the course will attempt to deal with.

"If this course becomes viable," Mrs. Purdy said, "I want to get into others. We might eventually include men."

The fee for the course is $12 for 30 hours. Please register with 885-3512 if you need babysitting at St. Hilda's Hall.

Under the Soil Conservation Act, removal of soil from or placement of fill on land in an Agricultural Land Reserve is severely restricted. These activities are allowed in a few, specific situations after obtaining a permit.

Without a Valid Permit, persons are libel for prosecution and penalties as indicated under the Soil Conservation Act. In addition to an initial maximum fine of $2,000 under the Summary Convictions Act, fines up to $500 per day can be assessed for each day that the offence continues.

Procedure to Obtain a Permit
Obtain an application form from the local authority (Regional District or Municipality). Completed application forms should be forwarded by the local authority to the Provincial Agricultural Land Commission, 4333 Ledger Avenue, Burnaby, B.C. V5G 3T3, for approval. Permits are only issued by the local authority after approval has been obtained from the Provincial Agricultural Land Commission.

Monitoring of Permit
The Soil Branch of the B.C. Ministry of Agriculture monitors all permits to ensure compliance with all permit restrictions.

Permits are not necessary for soil removal or placement of fill on the right-of-way of a highway or for agricultural or horticultural operations.

For more information, contact the Soils Branch, B.C. Ministry of Agriculture at 1873 Spall Road, Kelowna, B.C. V1Y 4R2 (telephone) 860-3588) or at 17720 - 57th Avenue, Surrey, B.C. V3S 4P9 (telephone:576-2911).

The Grub Bag

Cinnamon yeast bread

(unknown)

House seem too quiet with the children back in school? Then this is the ideal time to saunter into the kitchen and bake some cinnamon yeast bread. It's rich, fresh bread smell and taste makes a perfect treat when the children return from school. When sliced, a lacy pattern of cinnamon sugar is revealed and you know how children love cinnamon. Serve it lightly buttered with some of that new jelly you just made and watch them make a beeline for the kitchen.

Cinnamon Braid Bread

Two packages yeast, compressed or dry
¼ cup water (lukewarm for compressed, barely warm for dry)
one cup milk
½ cup sugar
¼ cup shortening or oil
two tsp. salt.
five cups sifted enriched flour (about)
two eggs
¼cup melted butter or margarine
Two tablespoons sugar
two tsp. water
milk

Soften yeast in warm water. Scald milk (do not let it boil). Measure sugar, shortening or oil and salt into a large bowl. Add warm milk, stirring until sugar dissolves and shortening is melted. Cool to lukewarm. Stir in about 1½ cups flour and beat well. Beat in softened yeast and eggs. Stir in enough flour to make a soft dough. Turn out onto a lightly floured board and knead until smooth and satiny, about five to eight minutes. Shape into a ball and place in a lightly greased bowl, turning to grease the surface of the ball.

Cover and let rise in a warm place (80 to 85 degrees) until doubled, about 1½ hours. Punch down, divide dough in half and shape into balls. Cover and let rest 10 minutes. Meanwhile, prepare two 4 x 8 inch loaf pans by placing two tablespoons butter or margarine, one tablespoon sugar and one tablespoon water in bottom of each pan.

For braid, divide each ball into three parts. Roll each part into strips about 18 inches long. Roll strips in cinnamon sugar, Braid three strips together, tuck under ends and fit into pans. Brush tops lightly with milk and sprinkle with a little cinnamon sugar. Let rise in a warm place until doubled, about 45 minutes. Bake in a pre-heated oven, 375 degrees F, 35 to 40 minutes, until golden brown. Makes two loaves.

If self-rising flour is used, omit salt. (To prevent burning — be sure the bread pans are well-oiled and don't bake on the bottom oven rack.

Dance teachers

The Canadian Dance Teachers Association held examinations for students of tap and acrobatic dance on June 26 at the Twilight Theatre. Reports and certificates now are available.

Eighteen students took a total of 24 examinations and all were successful. Results are as follows:

Highly commended in Grade one acrobatic dance: Sheila Reynolds, Sheri Riches, Jasmine Poirier, Rachel Poirier, Claire Bujan, Loretta Harrison; Kelly Henry; Horours: Karen Boothroyd, Colleen Partridge, Pamela O'Donaghey, Annabel Webb, Scilla Webb and Arlene Mulcaster; Commended: Bobbi Greggain.

Highly commended in Grade two acrobatic dance: Annabel Webb, Scilla Webb, and Arlene Mulcaster; Honours: Kelly Henry and Karen Boothroyd.

Highly commended in Grade one tap: Laura Lansdell; Pass: Jasmine Poirier and Pushpa Pillar. Highly commended in Grade two tap: Sonya Valancius. Highly commended in Bronze medal tap: Brigitte Marteddu.

All examinees are students of the Gibsons School of Theatre Dance. Congratulations to all of them and special thanks to Mrs. Tina-Marie Gracie (nee Wilson who trained the acrobatic students.

Guides are prepared for new season

Once more the season has rolled around and we in Guiding are Prepared! The registration for Sechelt Guides and Brownies and Wilson Creek Brownies will take place September 18 at 7:30 p.m. in St. Hilda's Hall — parents only.

Regular meetings start September 25 and 26 respectively. We are looking for help as usual and if you would like to get involved in a worthwhile community activity, please turn out September 18 whether or not you have a daughter in the movement.

It need not be on a weekly basis, but as a secretary, treasurer, helper, cookie chairman, etc. Please don't use the excuse, "I work," as we all work in our different ways and many times the people who do volunteer work put in more hours than those who work for a salary.

Even if you do work, you need a change of pace and some relaxation — so give it a whirl — you may be pleasantly surprised.

As you know, we have different age groups to choose from so you can take your pick, Brownies: six to nine; Guides: nine to 12; Pathfinders: 12 to 15.

Any girls who are interested in getting into activities or developing skills which will serve you all through life can take part in Guides, Pathfinders, Rangers or Cadets.

Remember, in giving service to others, you serve yourself.

VOLUNTEER HELPLINE

Help for those who can't read

By SHEILA PAGE

Last week I talked to some adults who can't read. Bright, hardworking, friendly people who somehow never learned a skill many take for granted.

They came back to school for a number of reasons: "Tired of trying to hide it from my wife" "I'd like to be able to read a story to my kids". "I'm in line for a promotion but the boss doesn't know about my reading". "I want to get into VVI."

They are shy but determined. "It was the hardest thing I ever did walking in here the first night."

Can you imagine not being able to read labels when you are shopping, use a phone book, choose from a menu or even understand your own birthday cards?

Other adults have some skills to build on but need to improve their reading and writing to deal with job requirements.

Continuing Education is now offering a free course for these adults called Adult Basic Education. If you are reading this you don't need the course, but we need you. The only way people will find out about this course is by hearing about it from friends or relatives. Reassure them, they are not the only ones. One quarter of the population of the Sunshine Coast has had fewer than nine years in school.

Group instruction and individual tutoring is available. To register for Adult Basic Education call the Continuing Education office 885-3512.

The course coordinator, Sheila Page, is organizing tutor training sessions now. Adult instructors say nothing is more rewarding than teaching adults who really want to learn. To register as a tutor for this program call the Volunteer Bureau.

FRIENDSHIP

An elderly widower would enjoy sharing conversation about gardens and other topics. Someone who likes to listen and share ideas could enrich their own life as well as his.

BINGO

Are you a fan? Callers and players are needed. Adult Day Care is also looking for those who would like to entertain by showing the slides or movies taken on their vacations.

LIKE TO BAKE?

Pies and teabreads are needed by the Adult Day Care especially for October 11. On that date come out and enjoy visitors from Vancouver and give a hand with setting tables, serving the meal or cleaning up.

GIBSONS RESIDENTS

Adult Day Care needs someone from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Wednesdays and Fridays to check out taped books.

Free on Tuesdays and Thursdays in the early afternoon? Enjoy a walk with an adult from the program.

TWO SITTERS NEEDED

Get together with a friend Tuesday and Thursday mornings and enjoy the company of some toddlers. Space will be provided for minding the children while their mothers attend classes.

DAVIS BAY CHILDREN

Diane Earle needs some volunteers for the Davis Bay School Learning Assistance Center. If you are patient and enjoy children why not go to school two hours a week. Aides can also be used in the classrooms.

PATHFINDERS

Girls 12 to 15 years, if you've missed Brownies and Guides you can go to Pathfinders this fall. Parents, if you find a weekly commitment too much for your schedule why not consider giving the guiding movement a hand once a month. A Treasurer and a Secretary are needed to handle district administrative tasks.

BOYS NEEDED

Three Big Brothers are willing to share their time with boys. They offer their time to accompany the kids on outings, help with practices and generally show them that they care. Do you know any youngster who would benefit from a Big Brother?

ELPHINSTONE

Enjoy both mathematics and teenagers? Tutors are needed to assist students on a one to one basis.

Are you comfortable around machinery? You could set your hours to give a hand with the high school shops.

BILLET AN ENTERTAINER

September 25 and 26 the young student cast of the non-profit production UP WITH PEOPLE needs billets. You provide a bed, a breakfast, a supper and transportation to Elphinstone one night. In exchange you will receive a free ticket to the fabulous two hour evening performance. Call Eva Thimstrand 886-2225 if you can billet.

VOLUNTEERS

Get involved with one of the activities listed above. Call the Volunteer Bureau 885-5881.

Halfmoon Bay Rec. commission meeting

The first meeting of the season of the Halfmoon Bay Recreation Commission was held on Monday, September 10 at the Welcome Beach Hall.

Chairman Steve Doughty said he regretted having to resign from the group but they have sold their house and will move to Gibsons. It was moved and seconded that Peggy Connor, past chairman hold the office of chairman for the remaining term.

The results of the Country Fair were read by the Recreations representative Donna Perry. The move to the Halfmoon Bay School from Cooper's Green may have lost some customers but on the whole it was felt this was an excellent place to hold such a do.

The group objected to Ministry of Highways Alex Fraser's idea that the road allowance at Coopers Green was redundant, it is needed more than ever especially as a safety factor and to lessen the burden the one entrance places on surrounding neighbors.

Cliff Connor in charge of the Park for playing fields suggested the group write in support of acquiring a Public Works Grant to help clear the property, this grant is for just this sort of work and would be of great help to the area.

At present the perimeter of the park is cleared and anyone looking for a good walk would help keep the outside area cleared by walking around it.

The attendance at the meeting was poor but an indication from those who could not attend shows the interest in the Recreation group is strong and they look forward to an exciting season.

The Halfmoon Bay Volunteer Firemen will be taking over the Hallowe'en celebrations so watch for news of time.

A bowling party to be arranged. Any children interested could let the Commission know.

The next meeting of the Recreation Commission will be held on the third Monday, which is October 15, as the second Monday is a holiday. Time is 7:30 p.m. at Welcome Beach Hall.

Anyone interested in Recreation for themselves or their children are invited to come, it is not necessary to be a member.

The dry summer slowed down the actual work on the park which is part of 1623 from the road that goes up from Frances Avenue to Westwood and Northwood Road, but lots of behind scenes planning is underway. With forty-five acres we should be able to supply playing fields for many sports in years to come.

DAN WILEY, Res. 883-9149 OLLI or JEAN SLADEY, 883-2233

Gibsons Hospital Auxiliary

By MARIE TRAINOR

Twenty-seven members of the Gibsons Hospital Auxiliary resumed their regular monthly meeting on Wednesday, September 12th 1979, in the Calvary Baptist Church Hall.

The President, Joan Rigby, opened the meeting and welcomed all members present after the summer break and looked forward to a busy fall and winter programme. She also welcomed two new members to the Auxiliary — Eileen Cavalier and Nancy Strandt.

In the reports read by the various committee chairmen for the months of June, July and August, 53 volunteers worked a total of 102 and three quarter hours. Numerus knitted articles were on display, which were sent in by the chairmen of the knitting committee, Rene Jardine, who was unable to attend, and will be forwarded to the Gift Shop. Requests have been received from the Gift Shop for matching bonnets to the baby sets, baby mitts, knitted stuffed toys, and they would also appreciate it if our knitters used new patterns, in order to have more variety in their shop. Verla Hobson, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, reported that Phoebe Blomberg has completed all the Xmas decorations during the summer months with the help of some of our members. These articles will go on sale to the public during the Aloha Luncheon in November.

The Lions Club have again requested that members of the Gibsons Auxiliary cater for their dinner meetings during the coming 1979-80 season. Needless to say this was given unanimous approval and catering for the first of these dinner meetings will commence on September 25th.

The President also announced, to the delight of all our members, that Stella Morrow has been appointed as a Board Member for Co-ordinating Council on the Hospital Board to represent the six auxiliaries on the Sunshine Coast to St. Mary's Hospital. Her appointment takes place on September 26. Congratulations Stella!

The Lower Mainland Conference will be held this year on October 10th at the Villa Motor Inn in Burnaby, B.C. Representatives attending from Gibsons will be chosen at a later date.

Thought you might like to know that 148 volunteers gave blood during the Blood Donor Clinic held at St. Mary's Hospital on June 25th. Let's hope we can keep increasing this number in future Clinics.

Plans are now in full swing for the annual Aloha Luncheon, which will be held on November 16 in the United Church Hall, Gibsons. The convenors for the luncheon, Marjorie Leslie and Lenora Inglis have spent most of the summer planning for this event. Marjorie Leslie reports that the Menu has now been confirmed which includes — Sweet and Sour Meat Balls over Rice, Baked Salmon, Potato Salad, Carrot Salad, pickled beets, etc, plus Cherry Delight for dessert, tea and coffee — sounds scrumptious.

Tickets have been procured and are being distributed to the members and local businesses for sale to the public at $3.75 per person. Salmon being used for the luncheon has been kindly donated by Dorothy and Herb Steinbrunner as well as 4 bottles of pickled beets. Many thanks "Steinbrunners" for being so thoughtful.

Anne Fitchett of Gibsons, a Trustee on the Hospital Board, as well as being a sister to one of our members, has kindly donated to our auxiliary a beautiful crocheted centre piece and a completed top cover for a quilt, together with batt and backing. Plans are now in the throes to organize a quilting bee and, when completed, tickets will be sold for another raffle in the spring, in lieu of our annual spring luncheon.

Gibsons Auxiliary has been approached to take on the project of canvassing for this year's Canadian National Institute for the Blind Campaign, to be held from October 14 to the 21st inclusive. Door to door canvassers will be out during the above period seeking your support and we look forward to a good response from you the public to aid in this worthy cause.

Our President informed us that she had received a telephone call from the hospital, prior to the meeting, from one of our very dear members, Marj Langdale, who is on the sick list. We were all delighted to hear she sounded so chipper and our thoughts are with you Marj, and we look forward to seeing you back with our group in the not too distant future.

The next meeting will be held on Wednesday, October 3rd. Looking forward to a good turn-out.

Pre-retirement course

Continuing Education Fall Program offers a course on Pre-retirement Planning for those whoarewithin five years of retirement. It will be of interest to all those who are aware of the need for planning now.

This 12 hour course is scheduled to start September 25, Tuesday, 7:30 - 9:30 p.m. in Sechelt Elementary School, Mr. Grey's room. The fee is $20 per couple and $12 for singles.

The sessions will be based on discussion with the group leader, Mrs. Nancy Stewart, and different experts. The group will examine ideas about retirement concerns, retirement aspirations, and a range of possible courses of action for the future. The participants will explore the pre-retirement strategies available to manage the transition from the world of work to the world of retirement.

It is indeed a fact that, in Canada, retirement from full-time employment occurs between the ages of 55 and 65. It is predicted that those of age 50 have a life expectancy of 80 years. This means that an increasing number of Canadians may enjoy the retirement role for approximately 25 years of their lives. The possibility of 25 years in retirement is adequate justification for participation in pre-retirement planning activities.

Realistic Pre-retirement Planning will examine and consider sound financial planning; housing options; the need for health care; relationships with family and friends, and life style patterns affecting the married couple or the single person.

James Lynch and Gail Riddell (experts on pre-retirement planning) suggest that "the most important consideration for those thinking ahead to retirement is setting clear goals for the future. Many couples spend long periods planning a 'dream vacation' which will last for approximately six months. Since retirement life can last as long as thirty years, the vacation is a short sighted measure".

That is worthwhile thinking about!

Homecoming from Israel

Currently on the Sunshine Coast visiting family and friends is Barbara Livingstone just arrived from Israel where she and her husband Grant have been making their home the last three years. Grant will best be remembered by Peninsula residents in his capacity as construction crew foreman for Glad Tidings Camp in Salmon Arm Inlet.

As former residents, the Livingstones have many friends in the area, and, as Barbara says: "I'm looking forward to seeing as many of them as I can in the short time I'm here! I'm just sorry Grant's not here with me. He loves the Coast so — and looks back on those years with fond memories of the work and relationships he so enjoyed here."

Barbara isn't only busy these days renewing old friendships and visiting her parents Ed and Olive Thomson in Gibsons. She's busy communicating with both local and out of town churches which have been interested and involved in their work from the time they first started out in full-time evangelistic ministry in Sechelt.

Since that first year showing their slide travelogue "Shalom Israel" to church congregations, schools and summer camps up and down the Coast, the Livingstones have travelled extensively throughout Canada and the U.S. speaking on Isreal in the Bible and the Church in Revival.

Moving into an international ministry meant establishing their home base in Jerusalem, Israel. (Barbara is surprised and disappointed over Canada's present vacillation over the proposed embassy move to this special city on two counts: "The Prime Minister's campaign promise should be kept if for nothing else but keeping his word and Canada's honour. 'Righteousness exalts a nation', says the Good Book. Besides, I believe in God's Word which says that all nations will one day be respecting Jerusalem as the world capital. So Canada may just as well make the move now and get herself a good start early!"

Barbara, in meetings and media interviews in and around Vancouver, is speaking on the special relationship between South Lebanon and Israel in the critical current events which have aligned Christians, Jews and Moslems together in mutual protection and provision against a PLO push along their common border. (On their 50,000 mile North American tour last summer, the Livingstones spoke out for one of the oldest Christian communities in the Middle East — the South Lebanese villagers attached to Israel's north border in the wake of a four year Syrian-PLO takeover of Lebanon as a terrorist base against Israel.)

Continuing soon her speaking engagements across Canada and the U.S. for the next month and a half, before returning to Israel and her husband, Barbara will be speaking here on this and other situations in the Middle East political scene "all pointing" as she says, "to rapid fulfilment of God's prophetic plan and purpose for real peace — not only in the Middle East, but all over the earth."

Special Sunday services (11 a.m. and 7 p.m.) next weekend (Sept. 23) will be held at Glad Tidings Tabernacle, Gower Pt. Road, Gibsons. A warm welcome is extended to all — especially to those of the Livingstones' many friends who would like to see Barbara again before she leaves the area.

Creek Auxiliary

The Roberts Creek Hospital Auxiliary held its first fall meeting in St. Aidan's Hall, September 10 with Pauline Lamb in the chair.

Convenor's reports showed auxiliaries had kept up their volunteer work during summer recess in both the thrift shop and the hospital areas. The auxiliary will host the extended care festivities on September 28.

All members are busy preparing for the Early Bird Christmas Boutique to be held November 10 in the Roberts Creek Community Hall 2-4 p.m. This will be an excellent opportunity to prepare early for Christmas.

Inquiries regarding catering by the Roberts Creek Hospital Auxiliary should be directed to Charlotte Raines by phoning 885-3457.

The next meeting date is changed because of the Thanksgiving Holiday. It will be held October 1 at 11 a.m. in St. Aidan's Hall. Do keep this date in mind.

we have a SPECIAL SMILE for you

Ozzie Hinks, the Directors choice

The annual low net Directors Tournament was played on Sunday, September 9. This tournament is open to Directors only. Ozzie Hinks has finally got his name on a trophy, after many years in many tournaments. His fine low net 64 took top honours. Ken Gallier managed a low net of 67 for second plane.

Laurie Todd shot 68 to take third place. Ed MacIlwaine shot a low gross of 81.

Wilma Sim took ladies low net with a score of 82. Helen Milburn was second and Peggy Connors third.

Dick Gaines took the honours for bravery, under fire!!! He managed to put five balls into the rough on the first hole, before leaving the tee. However, he found the second ball, which managed to cut his score down from 10 off the tee, to three.

The back to school ladies Tournament was won by Norma Gaines with a score of 70. Lil Fraser took second place with a good score of 72. The 9 blind hole game was won by partners Margot Matthews and Lenore Inglis.

Monday night's mixed Twilite ended its season last Monday with a wind-up dinner. 51 players attended with everyone a winner, receiving prizes of golf balls, crying towels, etc. A special mention must be given to Ann Kurluk and her committee of Aundre Sangster (Food), Dorothy Morrow, Doris Pringle with the able assistance of match committee Roy Taylor, for the successful year they produced, with the earnings providing much needed furnishing for the clubhouse. Congratulations to you all.

The fall and wintr "Rubber" Bridge season is about to get started, playing twice monthly on Friday at the golf club. Would all interested players get in touch with Laurie Todd at 885-3949.

This entertaining evening is open to all bridge players. The golf club extends an invitation to everyone. They hope to get started Sept., 22.

Men's Wednesday Twilite winds up next Wednesday. A 4:30 starts is being arranged. The popular scramble will be played, with a Prime Rib Dinner, to end a good season.

The new membership drive is going strong with rain pants, coat, golf shoes and umbrella being offered to some lucky sponsor of a new member.

There are still some large ball marks being left unattended on the greens, so come on, members and guests, fix them whether they were caused by you or not.

All right sports folks, I know you're out there. How about contacting us at the Peninsula Times so that we can work out getting some coverage for your sport.

What we need is a contact person and your schedule so we can assign a photographer.

Bike touring on the Coast

More than eighty million young, old and middle-aged North Americans ride bicycles today. Their reasons for cycling are varied. At first many ride simply for the fun of it, and continue riding because of the many bonuses, both mental and physical, that they discover.

Improved health is one of the more obvious benefits. Cycling, unlike most other methods of exercise is not at all boring. It's much easier and more enjoyable to regularly cycle a mile than to do numerous push-ups, sit-ups or what have you. The ideal compromise between walking and driving, it's three times as fast as walking, yet you have time to enjoy the scenery and the fresh air. Why not slow down your pace a little in this harried world?

The coast can offer a good challenge to the cyclist beccause of the many hills. A scenic ride is from Gibsons or Sechelt to Ruby lake, good for a weekend trip. For the more experienced cyclist there's a round-trip that takes you up to Powell River, over strait of Georgia and then down to Nanaimo. Finally catch the boats back to the coast. This route saves the repetition of most rides and the scenery is unbelievable. It takes about a week of easy cycling. Make use of this beautiful weather and go for a bike-hike.

Wanderers drop first game of the season

The Elphinstone Wanderers soccer club played their first game of the season in North Vancouver Sunday Sept. 9. In this exhibition game against North Shore Royals the Wanderers were slaughtered with a final score of 6-0.

Some consolation can be taken in the fact that the North Shore Royals are a division up from the Wanderers. In the second game of the day the Wanderers were defeated with a score of 2-1, in favour of the Western Underwriters.

Thursday night the Wanderers played an exhibition game against the "Over-the-Hill-Wanderers", with an outcome of 2-1 for the Elphinstone Wanderers. Victory at last.

Biker makes trip

After about 20 flat tires, Dennis Hansen, 25, of Sechelt pedalled into Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island last Thursday after leaving Vancouver three months ago on a cross-Canada bicycling trip.

From Charlottetown, Hansen plans to bicycle to Nova Scotia and Newfoundland, then rest his legs on a plane trip home.

Ratepayers sat on investigation report

The Sechelt Ratepayers' Association has been sitting for six weeks on a letter from municipal affairs deputy minister Bill Long which contains the conclusions of a preliminary investigation two ministry officials conducted into Sechelt Village council recently.

Council received from Victoria a copy of the letter to chairman of the ratepayers Chuck Dowman dated July 26 and dealt with it at the planning meeting September 11.

"After viewing a report taken from this preliminary inquiry," Long said "It would appear that the village council is not contravening the municipal act in regard to zonings, rezoning or amendments."

"Most of the concerns you have mentioned involve planning matters and the council admitted that it is felt good planning advice has not been given in the past. . .

"Apparently most of the problems arise from natural growth in the area as local developers press to open up land for development."

Long also said since the village community plan is not yet in place, "the zoning and planning matters to which you refer do not at present contravene the plan."

"I am disappointed in the ratepayers that something was not said," Ald. Morgan Thompson said.

"Normally if you are accused of something," Ald. Frode Jorgensen said, "we should be made aware of what becomes of it."

"We certainly have been waiting for this letter for a long time."

Dowman said the letter was addressed to the ratepayers association and did not think it was necessary to send a copy to council.

He said the ratepayers association will be changing its attitude. The association was not organized to only criticize, Dowman said.

"Instead of saying we don't want that all," Dowman said, We'll suggest alternatives. Maybe it could be put there or there instead."

The investigation into Sechelt council's actions was called July 11 by municipal affairs minister Bill Vander Zalm following a meeting with local MLA Don Lockstead and receipt of a 27-page letter from the Sechelt Ratepayers' Association alleging irregularities in council's handling of zoning, subdivision and development proposals.

Regional board sidesteps

The Sunshine Coast Regional District Board decided to sidestep the issue of giving 45 acres of Cliff Gilker park to the Sunshine Golf and Country Club.

SCRD decided to refer two petitions, one favoring expansion of the club and one opposing expansion into Cliff Gilker Park, to its planner.

Golf and Country Club petition was signed by 114 residents, while the opposing petition was signed by twenty-two.

However, the petition with 114 names on it only specified that the people were in favor of expansion with no mention of Cliff Gilker Park.

The anti-expansion petition said "We are astounded and shocked at the fact that the Sunshine Golf and Coutry club would think of asking for 45 acres of Cliff Gilker Park.

"The park is designated wilderness park and has been set up in a beautiful way that it can be enjoyed by humans and the wildlife together."

A final decision on the proposal is not expected to be made until a regional parks plan is drawn up and goes before the public for their reaction.

Police news roundup

Gibsons RCMP report bear trouble in the area. Two bears were "disposed of" in two days last week. A window of a sliding glass door was shattered at the Executive Apartments last September 14 when someone threw a beer bottle at it.

Three juveniles responsible for a number of break and entries and a lot of vandalism in the Gibsons area were apprehended last week following a break-in at a home on Sargants' Rd.

A television set and a ring valued at approximately $1,300 was stolen in a break-in September 13 to a home on Lockyer Road.

A 12-foot fibreglass cartop boat and motor valued at approximately $2,000 was reported stolen from Twin Island near Gambier Island September 13.

A leather rifle case, found on Doyle's Logging Road, was turned into Sechelt RCMP September 10. Also turned in was an eight-pound sledgehammer with a blue head and a split in the wooden handle found in Porpoise Bay. A gold necklace was found in front of the Sechelt Post Office and turned into the RCMP September 8.

Travis James Pohlman was charged last week following a routine check of a car in which $1,000 worth of property stolen in a break-in to Kern Electronics September 9 was found. Pohlman appeared in court September 12 on charges of breaking and entering and possession of stolen property and was remanded to September 26 to get legal advice.

Court news

Failing to appear in court on July 18 meant an increase of the usual $35 fine on each charge for Calvin E. McKenzie in Sechelt Provincial Court last week.

McKenzie was fined $50 on each count of misuse of licence plates, failing to stop at a stop sign and failing to produce a driver's licence.

Warren Jones pleaded guilty to impaired driving and was fined $500 and given six month probation to attend an impaired drivers' course.

Jones was charged in May following a single vehicle accident in which he "smashed down' a wrought iron fence near Winn and Gower Point Roads in Gibsons. Approximately $1,000 damage was caused to the fence and $150 to Jones' Mercury car.

Timothy Lawrence Kennedy, 20, of Rossland, was fined $700 after he pleaded guilty to impaired driving. This was Kennedy's second alcohol-related conviction.

Stuart Kristinn Josephson, 19, of Terrace pleaded guilty to taking a motor vessel from Smitty's Marina August 15 without the owner's consent and was fined $250.

Countryside concerts looking good

By SUSAN ELCK

Countryside Concerts has burst forth with the promise of ten delectable concerts this coming year. The first of these concerts will be held at the new Arts Centre in Sechelt on Sunday, Sept. 23 at 7:30 p.m.

We are very fortunate to have with us three of the finest musicians Vancouver has to offer: Joseph Peleg, violin; Stephen Wilkes, viola and Kazuo Tokito, flute.

Joseph Peleg, a former member of the Purcell String Quartet, earned his Master's degree in performance at the Indiana University as a pupil of the distinguished Joseph Gingold. Peleg won scholarships for 11 consecutive years from the America-Israel foundation and Universities.

Stephen Wilkes, violist, received his formal training at the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston and at Tanglewood, where he was a Leonard Bernstein Fellowship recipient. He has had additional studies at the Banff School of Fine Arts with the Hungarian String Quartet and William Primrose. Since joining the Vancouver Symphony Orchestra in 1969, Mr. Wilkes has also participated with such ensembles as the Baroque Strings of Vancouver, the Vancouver New Music Society Ensemble and the CBC Vancouver Chamber Orchestra.

Kazuo Tokito graduated from the Oberlin College Conservatory of music in 1972 with a B.A. in flute. Tokito has participated in the Tanglewood Music Festival and concertized in Japan and England. He studied at Indiana University where he was appointed an associate instructor of flute. Since receiving his Master of Music, Tokito has been with the Vancouver Symphony as piccolo third flute and assistant first flute.

Serenata, comprised of a somewhat unusual combination of instruments, will be heard in a delightful program of Beethoven, Handel-Halvorsen and Szervanszky in the new arts Centre's first gala concert.

What could be a more fitting place for music than a structure made almost entirely of wood.

New Dracula impressive

Just as the lovely female victims are drawn to Dracula's will, any moviegoer who has had even the slightest interest in the adventures of the Transylvanian count will be attracted to this impressive new version produced by veteran Walter Mirisch. The biggest asset is Frank Langella, who brings to the screen a good dose of the dignified eroticism that marked his acclaimed Broadway performance. And from now on, this classically trained, expert actor will give any decent film a big boost.

Working hand in hand with the script by W.D. Richter (who penned "Invasion of the Body Snatchers"), Langella strides a gripping balance between a witty, charismatic nobleman who says he "never" drinks. .blood" and a scary, undead vampire prone to acts of wild-eyed violence.

Costuming and set decoration spare nothing in the way of Victorian detail. Dracula's crumbling Carfax Abbey (actually a castle in Cornwall, England) is a splendid hangout for the count with its rats, spider webs and ominous looking stonework. Composer John Williams ("Jaws" and "Star Wars") gives the eerie goings-on a lavish symphonic score. Gilbert Taylor's photography is stunning.

Director John Badham ("Saturday Night Fever") adds a blood-red, other worldy laser effect to the Nelligan-Langella love scene. (Other special effects, which are credible, include Langella's transformation into a bat and a wolf.)

A LITTLE ROMANCE

First of the Orion Pictures releases through Warner Bros. is an extremely charming little picture about two youngsters, about 13, who fall in love and go to great lengths to express it. Everything is kept within mature bounds, so the whole family can enjoy the film, although parents may have to explain a few things to impressionable children about life and love. Laurence Olivier, continuing his recent dialect parts, is a French pickpocket who befriends the children in the French and Italian settings.

The young leads are Diane Lane and Thelonious Bernard, both bright and resourceful. Although they appear at first to be overly intellectual, they prove to be very winning in their mutual affection. Sally Kellerman and Arthur Hill are good as the girl's parents and Ashby Semple is fine as Diane's enthusiastic friend. Broderick Crawford portrays himself in what may be the funniest and most revealing manner that any actor has ever allowed himself to be used. George Roy Hill directed the Pan Arts production on location. Allan Burns adapted the script from Patrick Cauvin's novel, "E equals MC squared, Mon Amour," and Yves Roussett-Rouard and Robert L. Crawford produced, Georges Delerue's score is just right. Panaflex lenses and Technicolor printing were used. — John Cocchi.

Hello out there!

Here we are communicating once more through the media of the times. I am sitting here in our tree house listening to the wind in the leaves accompanying the bamboo flute music of Sachdev, . . very soothing. I am informed on the tape cover that Sachdev, master of the bamboo flute, is playing Raga Bhupali, for my enjoyment. I can't pronounce it, but I believe it.

The weather this week contributed greatly to my entertainment, luring me out into the open road on Tuesday. Actually the weather, strongly combined with my friend Sue, who had to go to Egmont to pick up a honey pot from the pottery there.

So along went I. . . to spend a warm afternoon in the peacefull fishing village of Egmont. We found the pottery on the right side of the hill going down toward the wharf.

Greg and Jackie, the owner operators, were recovering from a busy summer and we discussed the various hazards of becoming too immersed in the commercial aspect of a cottage industry, such as theirs, to the point of getting no work done. They weren't complaining, merely commenting on the fact. After we left there, we puttered about the dock and store in the afternoon sunshine, then went on home, with the good feeling of having been thoroughly entertained.

People had been dropping by to tell me what a dynamite night they had at the Pen, with Bob Carpenter and Group, so I decided to find out for myself. Everyone at the Peninsula Hotel had a fine time, with smiles the predominant feature. Bob Carpenter and his group displayed versatility in their performance. I especially enjoyed the Reggae. The strong lead guitar from Budge Schachte and fine drumming from Phil Knipe, combined with a steady piano back up from Ken Dalgliesh provided firm support for Bob. The magnificent display of energy, flashes of comedy and light relief displayed by, surprise and welcome guest performer Brent Titcombe, had all of us dancing on the spot.

Mr. Titcombe, an experienced and valuable contributor to Canadian music, is a local West Vancouver man. His joy of performance reached out and touched us all. It was refreshing to hear such professional Canadian performers strut their stuff at a local dance. Many of the songs Bob and Brent sang were their own material, some of which have been sung and popularized by other Canadian performers. I had a grand evening — Thanks a lot.

An un-entertaining piece of information was passed on to me, just to prove that life is not all beer and skittles . . . . I happened to be in conversation with one of the folks involved in the attempt to provide us with an alternate fine dining place, to be situated at the base of Hall Road in Roberts Creek. He informed me that the generally un-cooperative attitude of our local officialdom had slowed down the beginnings of the venture, by three months at least. To add insult to injury, they discovered that their storage space on the property had been broken into and several fine old windows pilfered. No wonder they are depressed.

I am impressed with the sincerity of these people, who plan to provide us with a cosy restaurant, serving excellent food, in a building that would compliment the area in which it's built. This positive endeavour should be given more local support. Instead it is being strangled by red tape and ripped off. That's not entertaining at all.

On a lighter note, last week I asked for feedback and by golly, I got some. Thank you all those kind folk for the encouragaing comments. One lady, who is interested in amateur theatre and seemed to be bubbling with enthusiasm, called me on the telephone, we are to meet on Monday.

Family history

Learn to trace your family tree. A one day seminar is being offered. This five-hour seminar of personalized instruction will cover essential research techniques and sources necessary for the beginner and intermediate student. Each participant will receive a kit including the basic forms necessary for beginning their research. The seminar is team-taught by specialists from the family history association of Canada, Gretha Warren, Principal instructor.

This all day seminar will take place at CHATELECH JUNIOR SECONDARY SCHOOL, Saturday, September 29th from 9:30 a.m. to 12:00 and 1:00 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. Seminar Fee $7.00.

For information and registration contact: Centre for Continuing Education School District No. 46 (Sechelt), Box 6, Sechelt, B.C. V0N 3A0 or Telephone 885-3512 between 9 and 4 p.m.

Craftspeople

Attention Craftspeople — On December 1 and 2, the Sunshine Coast Arts Council will be sponsoring a craft sale in the Art Gallery Building located in Sechelt. This two day event will feature local artisans who create traditional crafts, as well as hot refreshments and seasonal goodies. The cost of booth space in the building will be 10 per cent of your sales, up to a maximum of $50 for the two days. For more information, contact Elaine Futterman at 885-2395 — and get busy at your craft!!!!

ARTIFACTS

Craft exhibit

Sunshine Coast Arts Centre and Arts Council

Firstly we must make mention of the printing error in last week's column concerning the hand-tinting workshop for black-and-white photographs. Fees are not $15 per session as written, but $5 per session.

This workshop is a rare opportunity for photography enthusiasts as this technique, though effective and fun, is not commonly available.

Phone 885-5412 for more information.

The second error says the Arts Council chose a juror from the Sunshine Coast. This should read the council chose a juror from off the coast and this is to ensure an objective point of view.

CRAFT EXHIBIT

Elaine Futterman and her crafts committee have been readying themselves for the October 12 opening of a craft display with items created by many of the Sunshine Coast's more talented crafts people. Included in the show will be stained glass, pottery, weaving, apple dolls, jewellery carvings and batiks.

Some will be for sale but many pieces are considered "favorites" by their owners, so we will be seeing some prime work. Viewers will have two weeks to delight in these works of art.

THEN

A show which is full of imagination, fantasy and fun will be the mask exhibit orgaized by Gerardo Avila and Clarke Steabner. This show is short, October 27 to November 4, but very sweet and undoubtedly all will be delighted by the diversity of these objects, many of which are frequently used in theatrical productions. Halloween falls in around this time, so it is all very fitting.

In conjunction with the exhibit, Gerardo will be conducting mask-making workshops with paper mache.

MUSIC

Welcome back to Susan Elek from a summer's absence. Accompanying Susan are the Countryside Concerts which proved to be a big success last spring and essentially marked the "new era" in the Arts Council's arts program.

Four concerts are planned up until the New Year. September 23 at 7:30 p.m. at the Arts Centre will be the trio of Joseph Peleg (violin), Stephen Wilkes (viola) and Kazuo Tokito (flute).

Book Look

By MURRIE REDMAN

MESSY by Barbara Bottner, Delacorte (Doubleday) 1979, $8.75.

THE MAGIC MEATBALLS by Alan Yaffe, illus. Karen B. Anderson, Dial (Doubleday) 1979 $8.75

THE KIDNAPPING OF THE COFFEE POT by Kaye Saari and illus. by H. Galeron' Harlin Quist (Doubleday) 1979 $4.95

MESSY is the story of a little girl who is, of course, messy. As her mother says, "she must be friends with a cyclone". Even Messy's neat friends like to come and play under her bed and be messy, too. When Messy has a chance to become the princess in her ballet recital, she changes to neat. Her debut is a great success, but later when her parents take her to a restaurant, she shows that she is still messy, her old self. And everyone likes it that way.

Author and illustrator Barbara Bottner's talent as a children's writer comes in part from her experience as a teacher and book reviewer. She, obviously, has a professional knowledge of children's reading vocabulary and the kinds of topics they enjoy. This is one of many books she has done.

In MESSY, Bottner has chosen a situation that most children can identify with. Her illustrations, in soft pencil and shades of red are lively, unconfused and show Messy peering out at the reader with a secret-sharing twinkle in her eye.

Marvin, the character in THE MAGIC MEATBALLS, also has a secret. Alan Yaffe, the author, has depicted a common enough situation: a youngest sibling feeling that the whole world is bigger and better than him. But this time, the youngest gets even.

Marvin who is a go-for for the whole family, is sent to the store for groceries. One of the items is hamburger for meatballs. When he is forced to go to another shop, he meets a stranger who gives him a package of meat. The stranger tells Marvin "one bite and your biggest problem is gone".

Sure enough, even after one lick of a finger, Marvin feels that he is taller and more handsome. He is elated! But when he finds that mother has cooked up the whole lot of meat for the family dinner, he is defeated. Quickly he remembers the magical qualities in the meatballs and soon the whole family is changed into cuts of meat. Naturally, they are most distressed and Marvin promises to return them to normal if they treat him better. They promise and the ending is a happy one.

The soft pen and ink illustrations are graphic and go well with a story which may make older siblings more sensitive to the feelings of younger brothers and sisters.

I find books like THE KIDNAPPING OF THE COFFEE POT rather disturbing. This genre of children's book carries violence, obvious drug related psychedelic visions and sexual connotations into pages that must leave children mystified. The New York Times lauds it as "distinctive" — that it is.

Basically the story is about a coffee pot, a lawn mower and an old pair of shoes who party together at the shack of a kerosene lamp. A creepy man kidnaps them all and hies them off in an old black baby buggy to the garbage dump.

Phrases, "pound her to a dent", "graveyard of forgotten cars", "kicking it and cursing it" are but a few examples of images that I feel are not only unsuitable, but also unnecessary in a children's book.

Kaye Saari, the author and Henri Galeron, illustrator, would do better writing adult underground poetry and painting the walls of some funky disco. I cannot see the point in designing this in large print and children's book format when neither the subject, the vocabulary, nor the pictures are in any way related to youngsters.

Criminal caught

A routine check of a vehicle on the Port Mellon Highway netted two Gibsons RCMP constables a man who escaped from lawful custody July 1.

Bryan Ross Harrison, 31, who walked away from Snowden Forest Camp near Campbell River, was apprehended September 8.
