DEMANDS FOR public hearings were denied though Area A director Joe Harrison and 15 other Sunshine Coast delegates demonstrated on the steps of the Legislative Assembly last Thursday in Victoria. Delegates from Vancouver Island joined the organized protest.

Protesters told

500 kv Hydro line goes ahead

"The justification for the line has been determined," Energy minister James Hewitt said.

"It's a government policy decision. I'm sorry, the decision has been made."

That was the only answer Hewitt offered to protesters of the proposed B.C. Hydro Cheekye-Dunsmuir 500 kilovolt transmission line in environment minister Rafe Mair's office last Thursday.

During the 75-minute meeting, Sunshine Coast and Vancouver Island delegates' attemps to elicit commitments from Mair and Hewitt to hold public hearings in the communities through which the proposed line will pass and to have the controversial Schaffer Memorandum on the economic impact of the line released were unsuccessful.

The Times followed the 16 Sunshine Coast delegates to Victoria and attended the meeting in Mair's office where, in answer to rumors the Schaffer Memorandum concludes the transmission line would be an economic blunder Mair said there was "no such evidence."

President of the Pender Harbour Ratepayers Howie White told Mair and Hewitt "the concern over this goes further than the specific routing of the line over Sakinaw Lake," as Vancouver Island communities were also represented at the meeting.

"I find Mr. Hewitt's statement that the public never had any right to input apalling."

White was referring to an earlier statement by Hewitt that the public has never had any right to provide input on the justification for the line.

"Because there is no legislation (allowing public input) is beside the point," White said. "I don't think you should hide behind the letter of the law."

"There never has been a proper vehicle for public input," Mair said. "I say we are going to develop a policy on that."

However, he said, it will not "change the fact that justification of the project has been proved a year or two ago."

White said the provincial government was taking a "poor position" in stating the decision was irreversible on a project not yet begun.

Site determination is "where we've hung up," Hewitt said. The government's concern is placing the line where it will cause the least environmental impact, he said. But, he stressed again, the transmission line is definite. "It's a crunch situation," Hewitt said.

"As long as you cannot show us justification, we (Texada Island people) don't care whether it (the line) goes over or around Texada Island, we are going to fight that line," Carl Rising-Moore said.

Going ahead with the line could create a "police-state situation", Rising-Moore added referring to possibile vandalism to the line.

"That's a veiled threat, we don't care to hear," Mair answered.

He added if the subject of civil disobedience continued as part of the discussion, the discussion would end immediately.

Concern was expressed that the government and B.C. Hydro had given little thought to alternative sources of energy or energy-saving projects.

"Never have I seen any indication you are willing to put any teeth into those proposals," the Saltspring Island delegate said.

Also, the energy forecast for Vancouver Island "must be questioned," she said, since a report from the B.C. Energy Commission, who "are not a bunch of wild-eyed radicals," differs considerably.

NDP-MLA Don Lockstead demanded a commitment that the route of the transmission line will be re-examined. Hewitt said the route will be constructed where it will cause the least environmental impact, though "the cost (of constructing the line) may be more by taking this route."

"We never said we wished to deny the residents of Vancouver Island their power," Lockstead said.

But, he said, Hydro's attitude all along has been "damned arrogant."

Again requesting the release of the Schaffer Memorandum, White said, "We are all very suspicious at the government's attitude of sitting on that report."

The delegates consider the Schaffer report the "be-all and end-all," Mair said, but justification for the line was made on the basis of "many, many reports."

"Open your files--show us your justification," Rising-Moore said.

"If you are right, you have nothing to lose," added NDP environment critic Bob Skelly.

Asked who made the decision not to hold a public hearing requested by the Environment and Land-Use Committee, Mair said, "I thought there was no point in holding a public hearing when justification was already made."

"You are saying government decisions are irrevocable," Skelly said. "They are not."

Lockstead said later the existence of the Schaffer Memorandum was admitted only last week after his continuous questioning of Mair in the House.

Lockstead feels B.C. Hydro and the provincial government "verified in their own minds the justification of the line even before the report was commissioned."

He said the government may consider "some small change in the routing of the line."

However, Lockstead said he will continue to "question in the legislature." He has written to federal defence minister Allan MacKinnon requesting negotiations between B.C. Hydro, the provincial goverment and MacKinnon to consider allowing the route to pass through the military reserve in Nanoose Bay to eliminate the line crossing over Texada Island.

Though some residences would still be affected, an underwater line would reduce "environmental damage on the Sunshine Coast by half," Lockstead said.

THE JUSTIFICATION for the B.C. Hydro Cheekye-Dunsmuir 500 kv transmission line has been determined, energy mininster Jame Hewitt (front) told protestors. Environment Minister Rafe Mair concurred.

Gibsons council

Lifeguard course available

The best lifeguard course available in Canada will be held at the Gibsons pool July 27-29 and August 4-5. This course, sponsored by the Royal Life Saving Society, is eligible to anyone 17-or-over who has already received his or her Bronze Medallion. The Village of Gibsons has contributed $200 towards this course which will enable the pool staff to attend for free. Non-staff members will be charged a fee of $50 for 40 hours of intensive training directed by Ted Hopkins, qualified lifeguard instructor.

According to statistics there are over 4,800 swimmers using the Gibsons pool each month. There may soon be more need for professional lifeguards in the community due to the increasing number of people using the pool.

Bluff Area Sewer Project

The bluff is the only area left in Gibsons that has not yet had proper sewage installed. The work costs in this area are higher due to the unique topography.

The inspector of municipalities recently approved the Gibsons "Bluff area" sewer project and guaranteed the amount of $390,000.

Beer Garden

The Lions Club is sponsoring the annual Sea Cavalcade Beer Garden which will take place in the Gibsons curling arena August 3-5. As usual there will be a "policing" service as well as a "drive home" service.

The profits will go to the community to help support local projects.

Quiet week for RCMP

It was a quiet week for the RCMP in both villages and surrounding areas with only a few thefts and break-and-entries reported.

A Gibsons business was broken into July 19 and nothing was reported missing. A man's yellow Hiawatha five-speed bike was reported stolen July 16 and another five-speed bike was turned into the Gibsons detachment.

A boy's gold, three-speed CCM bike was stolen from the Port Mellon mill site. $500 was stolen from a purse on the kitchen counter in a residence on Hillcrest Aven. July 14.

Weight-lifting equipment valued at $140 was reported stolen from a residence on Porpoise Bay Rd. July 19. Arson is suspected in a fire at the community hall on the waterfront Reserve at 3:30 a.m., July 19. Approximately $300 damage was caused.

$400 was caused in a hit-and-run accident at the Sechelt Legion July 19. A crab trap set in Porpoise Bay was reported stolen July 16.

Approximately $500 worth of mechanics tools were stolen in a break-in to European Motors July 16. The same day, two mag wheels were stolen from outside a residence on the waterfront reserve.

An outboard motor was reported stolen from the northend of Ruby Lake July 15. The 1968 Johnson three horsepower motor, maroon with white trim, is valued at approximately $200.

Mill union, management meet with labor board

A meeting at the Labor Relations Board was set for Monday morning following a walkout at the Port Mellon mill last week.

Workers at Canfor's Port Mellon pulp mill walked off the job late July 17 after internal problems concerning manning and other grievances "snowballed", CPU spokesman Dave Gant said.

Employees are having difficulty getting their earned time off, Gant said, and the situation climaxed that night when toolworkers on the late shift ran into problems with manning.

The workers sat down, wrote their grievances and presented them to Industrial Relations head Don Macklam who said "he would not negotiate as long as the mill was shut down," Gant said.

With no results from management, the workers re-started mill operation then shut it down in a safe and orderly manner, he said.

The union local was then presented with a writ requiring their presence at the Labor Relations Board Thursday morning.

After the discussion Thursday, it was decided "if we get the mill started by midnight (Thursday) then we would meet Monday morning with an officer from the Labour Relations Board and management to discuss the grievances," Gant said.

Present at the meeting would be an LRB officer, Jake Holst of Canfor Industrial Relations, Art Gruntman, Region V CUP vice-president and both a management and union standing committee.

Gant said the walkout was not illegal "at the time". Though Local 1119 rejected the contract by 57 per cent July 13, the majority vote of the 18 locals was in favor of the two-year contract which included major gainst in pensions.

Gruntman signed the agreement memorandum accepting the contract Wednesday morning (July 18), Gant said.

Port Mellon general manager Bill Hughes said Friday afternoon the mill was in operation following an agreement reached in the presence of an LRB officer that menagement and union representatives would meet Monday morning to discuss a "list of grievances".

FOLLOWING THE Royal Parade of Fashion featuring the 1979 Sea Cavalcade Queen contestants, Miss Sunnycrest Centre Debbie McDonald and the rest of the candidates served refreshments for the audience. Outgoing Queen Melanie Mahlman crowns the winner July 28 at Elphinstone Gym. The big night starts at 8 p.m. with admission $2.50 for adults and $1 for children.

Arts Centre

The Sunshine Coast Arts Council will be making its presence felt again with the official opening of the Sunshine Coast Arts Centre on the corner of Trail and Medusa in Sechelt.

The evening of Friday, August 3 sees a gala party with Arts Council members, donors to the building and invited guests present. The doors swing open the next day for the public to experience the beginning of a new and vital energy to the Sunshine Coast.

The opening exhibition will feature paintings by David Bergraff and ceramics by Murial Parfitt. It is the purpose of the Arts Council to not only concentrate on work of the highest quality and professionalism, but also to present the exhibitions which include and interest as many in the community as possible.

Investigation started

Two persons from the ministry of municipal affairs were in Sechelt Friday to begin the preliminary investigation into allegations of irregularities in Sechelt council's handling of zoning, subdivision and development proposals.

Municipal Affairs Minister Bill Vander Zalm ordered the preliminary investigation July 12 following a meeting with NDP-MLA Don Lockstead regarding a 27-page letter from the Sechelt Ratepayers Association itemizing these irregularities.

Dave Conway and Mrs. Tabor, village clerk, met with Malcolm Shanks and Sechelt council Friday moring and with SRA chairman Chuck Dowman and treasurer Ron Slack late in the afternoon.

Consider student needs first at Bowen Island

School District No. 46 trustees want Bowen Island to remain within this district, they told the Boundary Review Commission in a committee meeting Thursday afternoon.

Dr. Ian Housego, appointed by the minister of education, research assistant Peter Grimmet and financial consultant Dr. Downey were in Gibsons to present their timeline for approval and clarify the school board's position concerning a possible change in boundaries to include Bowen Island within the West Vancouver School District.

The board had prepared a letter stating that they preferred to maintain the present arrangement where they provide elementary schooling on the island and secondary students go to West Vancouver but a more equitable financial arrangement would have to be made to recompense West Vancouver for the expenses of the students.

The board feels that the major priority in the decision should be the educational needs of the students, followed by the preference of the Bowen Island residents. The commttee will meet with the West Vancouver School Board this week and the first of perhaps several public meetings before the December 15 deadline will be held on Bowen on September 15.

At the evening meeting the board approved the recommendation of the Joint-Use Commttee that the $70,000 set aside for the Roberts Creek community hall-gymnasium be assigned to the Langdale gymnasium expansion. The Langdale project is able to proceed immediately while Roberts Creek has to wait for a referendum in the fall and would not be able to use the funds allocated to it this year.

Progress halted on most village bylaws

Progress on all zoning amendment bylaws dealt with recently at a public hearing, except on Bylaw 146.6, was delayed July 18 until Sechelt village council hires a planner.

Planning Committee chairman Morgan Thompson recommended the delay on all except the bylaw concerning the rezoning of the Rockwood Lodge property from Public Assembly to Residential IV, but it took a favorable vote cast by Mayor Harold Nelson to move the rezonings past second and third readings.

Alderman Larry McDonald voted against the rezoning saying he was not satisfied that RIV is the "best use for that property."

Alderman Joyce Kolibas also registered a negative vote because she said she could not see how the merging of traffic from the proposed apartment block on to Highway 101 will work.

Mayor Harold Nelson said he could see no objection to the rezoning. Complaints regarding parking on the property been resolved, he said.

As for the complaint from the school board about the increase in traffic at the already-congested corner at Shorncliffe and Highway 101, Nelson said:

"Some day the Dept. of Highways is going to do something about that."

Nelson said also he could see no problem with rear access to the property as it was recommended by Doug Roy.

Asked later how the property could be rezoned to RIV, when the bylaw creating an RIV zone had been delayed, Thompson said the ministry of municipal affairs would not approve the creation of an RIV zone unless "we had something to put in it."

Token audience allowed

The long trek over to Victoria by the 16 Sunshine Coast delegates to protest the proposed Cheekye-Dunsmuir 500 kilovolt transmission line only established more clearly in our minds that though a token audience was granted with Environment Minister Rafe Mair and Energy Minister Jim Hewitt, the provincial government will not give an inch.

"The justification for the line has been determined," was a sentence repeated too many times without the proof requested to back it up for us not to believe it was a sentence practiced a number of times before the meeting.

And refusals to release the Schaffer memorandum and unsuccessful attempts to lightly pass over its existence (the Schaffer-what?) only stoked the fires of the delegates' belief the memorandum is worth more than the paper it is written on.

Hewitt's remark the public never had any right to provide input is one he probably kicked himself for the next morning.

It seems to have been an unwritten rule all along in this fight against the transmission line that no matter how much or how well the public argues against it, no matter how justified these arguments may be, the public does not have any input at all.

As much as everybody is fighting against the realization of this, nobody likes to be told and Hewitt just wrote the rule — which only served to more incense the delegates to prove him wrong.

The ministers missed the point of the meeting entirely. That was evident when Mair said the coast delegates were against the line because it was passing by their front doors.

Those attending the meeting to register protest besides our MLA Don Lockstead and delegates were NDP environment critic Bob Skelly (Alberni), NDP-MLA Chris D'Arcy (Rossland-Trail) and delegates from Texada, Lasqueti, Nelson and Saltspring Islands, Cowichan Valley and Errington.

The hours on the ferries and buses to and from Victoria were not in vain. Each side knows where the other stands, even if it's still on opposite sides of the fence.

And the children who accompanied the delegates had a chance to see the buildings which house the legislative assembly where the opinions of the people are so justly upheld.

Area director Harrison is wrong—B.C. Hydro

Editor, The Times:

In your issue of Wednesday, 11 July, you carried a letter by Mr. Joe Harrison, Director, Sunshine Coast Regional District. You readers may have become confused with the many statements, many of them inaccurate, which have appeared during the past few months. Mr. Harrison's letter contains statements that are, to be blunt, not factual.

Mr. Harrison: "The facts are that Hydro owes just under 5 billion dollars on our behalf. To pay it back we have to export electricity to the United States and ignore the environmental and health costs here at home."

Fact: Hydro's debt is a mortgage secured by productive assets repaid out of revenue in the same manner as in other commercial corporations. The fact that the utility industry generally requires much capital reflects the very nature of the business.

Borrowing for productive plant which has characteristically long life also means that the current generation of users is not required to pay its total cost which is spread over the entire life of the asset. While revenue from the export sale of surplus energy is of direct benefit to Hydro's customers it is not essential for the repayment of debt.

Environmental and health costs are of serious concern and are considered in all Hydro's energy planning.

Mr. Harrison: "The export power will come from the High Revelstoke Dam, Peace River Site C, Hat Creek coal, and three nuclear reactors on Vancouver Island."

Fact: There has yet been no decision on Site C or Hat Creek coal and far from any plan on nuclear power. The reference to three nuclear reactors on Vancouver Island is unfounded.

Mr. Harrison: "Hydro's Vancouver Island Power Supply Study proposed six alternative timetables for nuclear reactors to 1996."

Fact: Mr. Harrison has either misread, misunderstood or mininterpreted the text of the study which sets out several alternatives with which to compare that of supplying Vancouver Island's electricity needs by transmission. Section 6.4 of the study says "This comparison shows that the proposed 500 kV Cheekye-Dunsmuir transmission project is definitely the most economic plan for future power supply to Vancouver Island at all discount rates below 16 pct., with the possible exception of Plan B". The plan B alternative is contingent upon nuclear reactors by 1996 and the report concludes that this is not favored.

Mr. Harrison: "The sites have been chosen (nuclear plants)."

Fact: No site has been chosen. There is no plan for nuclear generation.

Mr. Harrison: "The truth is that the Island's needs can be met from alternate sources at less cost."

Fact: The supply of Vancouver Island electricity needs by transmission from the mainland is the most economic means and is the least disruptive to the invironment. Mr. Harrison's statement is simply not true. Alternate sources are more expensive and have higher environmental costs. The use of wood waste is already being planned to its maximum economic limit by the forest industry. It can amount to only a fraction of future power needs.

Thank you

Editor, The Times:

The Canadian Red Cross Society would like to take this opportunity of extending to the citizens in the area of Gibsons, Roberts Creek and Sechelt, a sincere thank you for their contribution to our Society.

Under the leadership of Mrs. Lynne Brandys, Campaign Chairperson, and aided by her husband John and children Michael and Susan, plus all her other helpers, the campaign total to date reached $1,000.00. For a person putting on their first campaign, Mrs. Brandys deserves a "pat on the back" for ajob done exceptionally well! This contribution will go a long way in helping the Canadian Red Cross Society in alleviating suffering here and also throughout the world.

Our help is needed now more than ever and the Canadian Red Cross Society is appreciative to all residents in the aforementioned areas for helping us to 'help others' less fortunate.

Thank you again, Citizens!

B.C. Hydro answers editorial

Editor, The Times:

Your editorial of 11 July ended with a paragraph: "Now maybe Hydro in all honesty will tell us if Area A dir. Joe Harrison is right — that the long range plan is to sell VI-produced nuclear power to the Bonneville grid in Washington State via the C-D line in order to pay Hydro's debts."

The short answer to that is that Area A Director Joe Harrison is wrong.

The idea that the Cheekye-Dunsmuir line was planned to permit a nuclear plant on Vancouver Island was suggested many months ago by a well-known opponent to the plan of augmenting the energy supply to Vancouver Island by the 500 kv transmission line and I then commented upon it as follows:

"Someone has suggested that the purpose of the 500,000 volt transmission circuit from the mainland was to enable Hydro to build a nuclear plant on Vancouver Island and ship the power back to the mainland. Whatever may be the merits of a nuclear plan this suggestion is nonsense. If a nuclear plan had been acceptable it could have been built years ago with a capacity of 2 million kilowatts to assume the bulk of the Vancouver Island load and to use the existing submarine cables to transmit the balance of the capacity back to the mainland. There is no need for a new 500,000 volt circuit to justify a nuclear plant."

That comment applies as much today as it did then.

A 33 mm camera cannot bite

By HELEN PARKER

It was with nostalgia I read John Burnside's column Musings concerning his introduction to the camera. I also never learned until 1976 that a 35 mm camera does not bite and, managing to avoid even an Instamatic until then, the simple task of loading a cassette seemed insurmountable.

But it was a matter of learn or die when we were shoved into an inventilated, smelly darkroom the size of a closet and ordered to stay until that film was on the reel. It was that or risk the humility of an exposed three-foot length of film.

Those first few hours took us through everything we thought we needed to know about newspaper photography. Soon we were so blase about it all our conversations were taking a turn into such deep subjects as the ethics of taking accident pictures and "what would you do if you were first at the scene of an accident?" Take a picture or help?

We definitely were hard to live with. Our instruction was so intense, we lived and breathed newspapers for two years. For some reason, the instructors of our academic subjects expected more from us, but to help us they went out of their way to find even the vaguest essay topic that would relate to journalism.

After the first month, none of us could pick up a newspaper without analysing it from its half-tones, duo-tone down to its typefaces. As for its lay-out, well, it could have utilized its whitespace better.

At college pub nights, we danced and drank together. We lived together, hit the town together. We never did anything without each other — until the second year.

A few dropped out. We began as a group of 25, supposedly the cream of more than 125 applicants, and ended two years later as 18 individuals.

The tension started in the second year. Competition surfaced and, oddly enough, all the men in the class began to resemble our journalism coordinator. Occasional smokers became chain smokers and we nonsmokers who never really minded before demanded enforcement of the nonsmoking rule.

We were like the family who lived in a shoe, but the lace broke and we all came spilling out.

We all can spot a Langara J-student. In fact, I picked one out in Rafe Main's office the other day. It was the one oblivious to her surroundings as she scribbled that illegible half-writing, half-shorthand scrawl we all ended up with after skipping too many shorthand classes. I think we were almost insufferable.

"Right to light"

By ANTOINETTE HALBERSTADT

Preventing B.C. Hydro's proposed 500 KW transmission line from Cheekye to Dunsmuir, is still the objective of the B.C. Energy Coalition (BCEC) which met in Sooke recently. They propose a greater promotion of the "soft" energy technologies as the alternative.

The conference, comprising numerous citizen and environmental groups from around the province, including from Qualicum District and Lasqueti Island, called for a public hearing into the need for this line, noting that "it appeared likely that Hydro's projections of the future energy needs for Vancouver Island were neither accurate nor adequately justified.

Last year after a long campaign by Lasqueti Islanders when Hydro said that it was imperative that the high-voltage lines cross their island, Hydro announced that alternative routes were, after all, possible. The BCEC was born during the latter part of the Lasqueti Islanders' campaign, which spurred other energy-conscious groups to pool their resources and support one another.

The concept of a "right-to-light law" came out of one of the conference workshops, which urged the government to give tax-credit incentives for solar energy projects. They also discussed the advantages of other "soft" technologies, (small-scale projects using renewable resources).

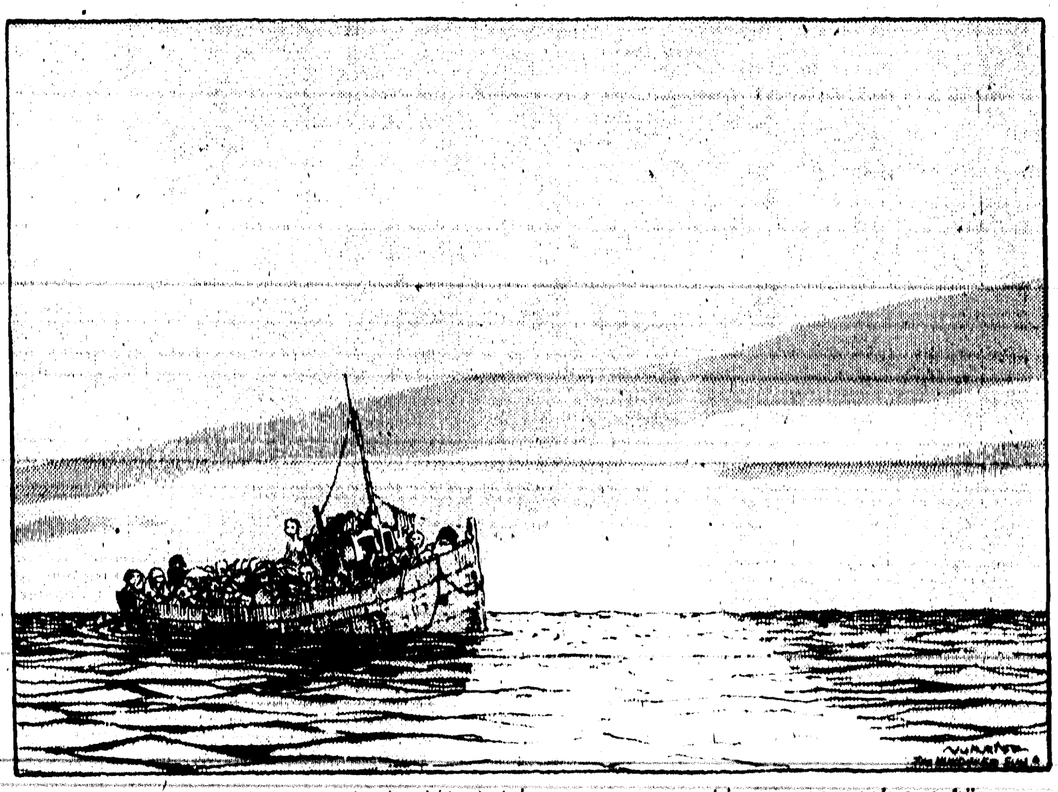
INDUSTRY

Applying these technologies to the industrial sector, the coalition is lobbying for changes in the pulp mills so that hog fuel, "which is recognized available energy source" be utilized to both heat the buildings and to generate extra electricity.

In a brief to the B.C. Energy Commission, they recommended that Swedish and U.S. forest conservation practises be studied and that B.C. "incorporate, wherever possible, the sound management policies developed by these countries", especially in the light of the "highly unstable and unpredictable" sources and price of traditional fuel.

They demanded that the B.C. Energy Commission "initiate some serious studies of conservation alternatives," including providing real incentives to the forest industry to become energy self-sufficient.

The coalition, whose local group was represented by Toni Bacon and Ian MacDonald, plans another conference in the fall at which a white paper series of recommendations for a provincial energy policy will be considered prior to submission to the B.C. government.



"Beset by this crisis . . . people should try to take no unnecessary trips, use car pools or public transportation whenever you can, park your car one extra day per week, obey the speed limit, and set your thermostats to save fuel . . . there is absolutely no way to avoid sacrifice."—President Carter

THE SALT MARSH BLUES

I remember seeing my first Great blue heron when I was a small girl staying at a cabin on Gabriola Island. My friend and I spotted its solid, unmoving form on the beach about 100 yards away from us. Silently we crept closer and closer, peering at this strange creature curiously. I was a little frightened of it by the time we were about 10 feet away; He was so still except for a few long feathers on its breast which were moving in the light wind.

And very alive were the jewel-like yellow eyes staring fixedly at the sea. All at once the heron seemed to give himself a slight push with his stilt-like legs and with agentle, slow flap of his enormous wings and dragging his gangly feet behind him, he flew off over the bay. My spine tingled at the sound of his call, which I imagined at the time to resemble the call of some prehistoric flying reptile.

Herons are not so bloodchilling to me now. As a birdwatcher I have discovered that they are very shy and that their motionless stance is usually a hunting position: Though the heron looks disinterested it takes only the rippling of a fish through the shallows to summon the lightning reflexes which have made the bird one of the most efficient killers of the marsh.

The herons' hunting technique is to stalk through the shallows, ready to strike with its pick-axe of a bill. So successful is this method that anglers used to rub fat from the bird on to their bait, in the belief that the herons' feet and legs put out a special oil which had the power of attracting a fish. In fact, the bird has no need of mysterious oils, for it has something just as effective . . . endless patience.

The other morning, at a low tide, there were no less than 20 Great blue herons hunting in the salt marshes at the head of the inlet. Though this is a rare occurence, from my observations, we are fortunate to have some of the best heron habitat on the coast.

I will be leading a bird watch at the Sechelt Marsh on Monday morning at 9:00 a.m.; perhaps we'll see some herons.

Don't forget our special events weekend at the Park on the 28th and 29th! The treasure hunt at 1:00 p.m. on Saturday is for 8, 9, and 10 year olds only.

Special Days at Porpoise Park

Provincial Parks announce this weekend will be Special Events Days in Porpoise Bay Park.

The events are to provide an opportunity for BC residents and visitors to participate and develop a better understanding and appreciation of the Parks system and its programs.

Saturday programs are at Porpoise Bay Park picnic area.

1 p.m. — Reading the Woods — A treasure hunt involving tree and cone identification, shell identification, and plant identification.

6 p.m. — Craft and Cultural display by Sechelt Indian Band (To be held inside Park Headquarters if weather is inclement).

8 p.m. — A talk by a Sechelt Indian Band member.

Sunday programs are at Park Headquarters, Porpoise Bay:

10 a.m., 1 p.m., 3 p.m.:

—Hour long conducted tour through the Headquarters,

—Demonstration of park furniture and sign design.

—A discussion on problem animals (such as bears and cougars — precaution should be taken with these animals).

—A display of tools and equipment in parks.

8 p.m. — Historical talk on human history of the Sunshine Coast.

Successful show

SUCCESSFUL SHOW

The Royal Parade of Fashion featuring the 1979 Sea Cavalcade Queen Candidates was a sell-out. The girls all looked smashing in the various outfits they modelled, everything from lingerie to sportswear and afternoon dresses and evening gowns. Fashions were provided from Helen's Fashions, Attic Boutique, Goddards Fashion Center, Richard's Mens Wear, Cactus Flower and Todd's Children's Wear.

The childrens' fashions were modelled by Niki Campbell, Athena Wallinder, Melanie Thompson, David Reeves and Julie Macedo. They were a delight to watch and ever-so-cute. I heard that the boys had to be bribed to do this little job, but they certainly came through beautifully. Julie Macedo says there's nothing to it, this is her second year in modelling for the Sea Cavalcade and she is getting to be a "pro".

The two young men, John McConnell and Rick Lawson were the perfect choice and their fashions most certainly complemented the girls with whom they modelled, we were told that John is very interested in a career in modelling and has already taken one course towards his goal. Mrs. Marguerite Campbell was at her best, Marguerite was one of our favorites last year, but was accompanied by a new male model, Russ Baker who did a great job. Maybe he should model instead of sell the materials.

Kathleen Atkinson, who modelled the maternity fashions, will be having her baby August 23 and we wish her all the best. Denise Lawson, "the bride" looked gorgeous in her finery and Rick, you were a handsome groom.

Jennifer Thompson, co-ordinator of the fashion show did a fantastic job of putting it all together again this year and we know what a lot of time and effort it takes to organize this event, many thanks Jenny. We feel that all the queen candidates did an excellent job of modelling and the panel of judges are going to have a hard time to decide who was the best!

Door prize winners were Ken McDonald, dinner for two at the Bonniebrook Lodge, Denise Kennett, a gift certificate from the Attic Boutique, Allison received a gift from Douglas Variety, Pam Suveges, a dinner for two at Mr. Mike's, Link Hardware's gift certificate went to Val Bailey, Jennifer Dixon won the gift certificate from Richard's Men's Wear, Rosemary Lawson's gift is from T.J. Sound, Lorraine Goddard won a dinner for two at the Omega donated by Gibsons Realty and Lori Thibault won a gift from Western Drugs.

BOWEN ISLAND

About 20 members from the Bowen Island Legion were visiting Branch 109 this Saturday, July 21 and they played some interclub games in Pool, Shuffleboard and Darts. Everyone had a fun time.

MISS VANCOUVER PAGEANT

Queen Melanie Mahlman and her chaperone attended the Miss Vancouver Pageant last weekend at the Bayshore Inn where they saw Darcee Feenie crowned. The runner-up was Marie Jeanne Le, Miss Congeniality was Linda Bristow. All the candidates performed individually in the talent category and we certainly did see and hear some excellent performances in the singing, dancing and acting catagories.

Melanie attended some events at English Bay unofficially and particularly enjoyed the exciting aerobatic show and the gorgeous fireworks display. These events are in connection with the Vancouver Sea Festival which is on from July 14-22.

HOLIDAY

Gladdy and Bill Davis and Agnes and Larry Labonte have just returned from a one-week holiday in the Okanagan area. They motored to Kamloops where they visited with friends then went on to Vernon, Salmon Arm and Penticton. They said the weather was great, not too hot and they enjoyed the beaches and got in on some good fresh fruit and vegetables.

NURSE VISITS MUM

Barbara Roberts has her L.P.N. and is employed at the Lions Gate Hospital in North Vancouver. Barb studied at V.V.I. and after a year of apprenticing she will return to studies and get her R.N. Barbara is a graduate of Elphinstone Secondary school. She is spending a couple of days visiting her mother, Jean Roberts.

IN HOSPITAL

Sorry to hear that John Topham and Des Plourde are laid up, hope they are feeling much better and will be out of hospital soon.

SECOND BEACH

For those who haven't been to Stanley Park lately, we were told that Second Beach has a fabulous playground for big kids and little ones, table tennis, swings, fire-engine and board hockey, a super place for family picnicing.

LOCAL PAGEANT

Don't forget the Sea Cavalcade Queen Pageant which will be taking place on Saturday, July 28 at 8 p.m. in the Elphinstone Gym. There will be entertainment and Queen talent participation and the grande finale of seeing the 1979-80 Sea Cavalcade Queen crowned. Admission at the door, adults $2.50, children $1.

LOCALS RETURN

Don and Gladys Elson, Judy and Keith Frampton and Alex and Carol Skytte have just returned from a most enjoyable camping holiday at Osoyoos and Okanagan Lake. Gladys tells me that they also had the pleasure of seeing Bill and Bonnie Nimmo who were also camping there at the same time, the Nimmos live at Ft. Nelson. Len and Joey Reitlo were there too, they now reside in Prince George.

Halfmoon Bay happenings

Access hazard

By Mary Tinkley, 885-9479

REDROOFFS BOAT RAMP

At a meeting of the directors of Area B Ratepayers' Association held on July 16, grave concern was expressed about the safety hazard of the access road to the boat-launching ramp at Coopers' Green. The directors felt that with the type of two-way traffic at present using the road and considering the steepness of the approach to Redrooffs Road, it was just a matter of time before a serious accident occurred. It was agreed to press the Regional Board for the opening of the right-of-way across Coopers' Green so that a one-way road could be established for access to and from the ramp.

HALFMOON BAY BEACHES

The Association had received a number of complaints about the state of the beaches at Halfmoon Bay where bark from the booming grounds is eight to 12 inches deep, creating an unpleasant smell in hot weather and creating hazards for boating. The Association had written a number of letters to Victoria on the matter, but so far had not found any department prepared to accept responsibility for getting the problem cleaned up. It seems that booming grounds are nobody's baby. The complaint would now be referred to Ray Skelly in Ottawa.

There was discussion about the Regional Board's plan to hold a referendum on whether Areas B and C would be prepared to share financial responsibility for the Sechelt Arena. In discussing this matter with residents of Area B, the directors could find no support for the proposal and therefore considered a referendum unnecessary and a waste of the public's money.

TRAPPING

A communication from the Conservation Officer, Jamie Stephen, advised the association that in consideration of its expressed objections to trapping in residential areas within Area B, such trapping would be eliminated in future. The policy, he said, would not extend to trapping necessitated for the removal of "nuisance wildlife" in which cases, traps would be set by the Fish and Wildlife Branch personnel at their discretion.

The annual general meeting of the Association is set for Monday, September 24 at the Welcome Beach Hall at 7.30 p.m. Appointed to the Nominations Committee are Alex Ellis and Vince Shannon, who will nominate three directors to fill the vacancies caused by the expiry of the terms of Percy Partriquin, Gretle Gair and Al Lawson.

FIREMEN'S CONVENTION

Gerry Berthelet and Jim Nygard, two members of the Halfmoon Bay Volunteer Fire Department, accompanied by their wives Hazel and Marj, were in Surrey for the weekend of July 13-15 to attend the Firemen's Convention held at the Sullivan number 9 Firehall near Cloverdale. Attending the convention were 86 volunteer firemen from 27 stations all over B.C. Friday night was a "get acquainted" social gathering, but Saturday and Sunday were packed with speeches and demonstrations to bring the firemen up-to-date with all that was new in fire-fighting.

Among the speakers were the new Commissioner for Fire for B.C. and a doctor who spoke on the latest in emergency procedures. The firemen were deeply impressed with a speaker sponsored by an underwriters' association who told them that one out of every four fires is started by arson. There were demonstrations of safety equipment, of an up-to date mobile unit and apparatus for getting people out of wrecked cars. They were able to examine the perfectly equipped ambulance and saw an interesting demonstration of the 100-foot ladder truck which operates hydraulically. There was a forum which gave the firemen the opportunity of asking questions and discussing problems.

For the Saturday evening program, a bus tour had been arranged, mainly for the benefit of the firemen from other parts of B.C., but for Gerrie and Jim it proved to be something of a busman's holiday, for they found themselves at Horseshoe Bay! However, they enjoyed crossing Burrard Inlet in the Sea Bus and touring the North Shore as far a Deep Cove.

It was, says Gerry, a most interesting convention and he and Jim have returned home filled with enthusiasm and with many new wonders to relate to their fellow firemen.

PETER BORGARDUS WINS

On the morning of July 15, the sea around Bertha Rock and Merry Island was dotted with small boats. It was not only the perfect summer morning which had brought so many fishermen out to try their luck, but this day was the one when Redrooffs fishermen were competing in the fishing derby of the Redrooffs Beach and Country Club. Each one hoped to catch the fish that would win for him the covetted Stoker Cup. Quite a number of salmon were weighed in at the Wendy MacDonald beach but it was Peter Bogardus who won the Stoker Cup with his 6½ pound salmon. Pam McAllister won a handsome fish steamer for the largest salmon caught by a lady and John Dalton Jr. won a fish box for his entry. In the 12 years-and-under class, Chrissy McPherson entered the largest salmon and Robbie McPherson the largest fish. In the six-and-under class, Sarah MacRae landed a cod almost as big as herself.

Convening the contest and presenting the prizes was Robbie McPherson, grandson of the late H.B. Stoker who presented the trophy to the Redrooffs Beach and Country Club in 1935.

HERE AND THERE

Pat Ness has been enjoying a visit with her three grandchildren, Pam, Shelley and Debbie from Powell River, who visited the bay with their mother, Beverley Silvey.

On the sick list is Janet Allen, who is undergoing tests in St. Mary's Hospital.

A child's jacket, red with blue stripes was left behind at the Country Fair at Halfmoon Bay on July 14. The owner can claim the jacket by phoning Donna Perry at 885-3742.

Gallery for all

by Peggy Connor 885-9347

That is exactly what the new Sunshine Coast Art Centre was built for — for everyone to take part one way or another, even if it is just as a viewer.

If you paint, draw, sculpt, etc., do ceramics, pottery or any art form at all, mail your name and address to Mr. Burrill Schwartz, RR 1, Halfmoon Bay, B.C.

This is simply so that the Arts Council will have a good idea of how many artists of one kind or another are in this area. As the council is planning a very diversified program this will allow it to be done with greater effectiveness. The fact you perhaps feel your work is not good enough is no reason to hold back, let others be the judge. It is surprising how different one's work looks when seen in comparison with others.

The gallery is to be representative of people with a series of one-man shows, group showings and bringing in the work of well-known artists.

Those who have discovered the joy of painting have also learned what to look for when viewing artworks with greater appreciation and with their enthusiasm, have encouraged their friends to experience a like joy.

This is not just for visual arts, performing artists are to be included. As in the past when the Arts Council has sponsored artists at the larter auditoriums in the schools, there is room for smaller concerts in the new building.

Watch for the opening plans August 4 and from then on once again there will be a place to take your visitors.

Having your name on file will let it be known how many of each kind of artists there are in each field and where the greatest interest lies and what areas need to be encouraged.

VISITORS

The late Maxine McNeil's daughter Sandy and her husband Reg Rust, along with their family of Laurie, Tammy, Joan and Terry, have been visiting the Selma Park area. They are renewing old friendships with Dorothy Goeson while they are here to work on their house. They are here from Calgary, Alberta.

SECHELT MAY QUEEN

Invitation for the Sechelt May Queen to participate in the Vancouver Sea Festival posed a bit of a problem with the May Queen Lisa Blackwell and first princess Eileen McKibbin, both away on Saturday, July 21. Second Princess Lavonne Innes thus had the honor of representing Sechelt. Attending the parade with the princess was Dorothy Goeson.

ERROR IN NYGREN-McKAY WEDDING

The error was not in the wedding but in the write-up. While everyone is wondering who actually did make those beautiful bridal bouquets, the correct name is Jean Kuerpeg of Ann Lynn's Flowers and Gifts.

While on the wedding, Sylvia Blackwell was the artistic decorator with the glass swans set in with her first try at this dusky-rose color which so beautifully blended with the dresses of the bridal party.

DOUG AND DEBBIE Fielding.

First vows exchanged in St. Andrew's Church

The first wedding in the new St. Andrew's Church, Madeira Park, officiated by Rev. John Paetkau, took place June 30 when Debbie Hanna and Doug Fielding, Jr., both of Garden Bay, exchanged wedding vows.

The bride, wearing a white flowing gown and long veil, was attended by Terry Barsaloux as maid-of-horor, Sherry Duncan and Elaine Antilla as bridesmaids and Charity Hallberg of Ucluelet as flowergirl.

The girls wore pastel green off-the-shoulder gowns and carried bouquets of pink roses and pink-and-white carnations.

The mother-of-the-bride Mrs. Bernice Hanna of Williams Lake wore a beige gown with matching accessories. Father Peter Hanna gave the bride away. The mother-of-the-groom Mrs. Doug Fielding, Sr. wore a long green gown with matching accessories.

The groom wore a brown tuxedo and had John Nelson as best man, brother Bob Fielding and Mike Clark as ushers and Aaron Hallberg as ringbearer, all in matching tuxedos of beige and brown.

The reception was held in Madeira Park Community Hall with buffet supper and dancing to a five-piece band. Brian Flumerfelt of Williams Lake was master of ceremonies. Toast to the bride was made by Monte Hallberg of Ucluelet and toast to the bridesmaids was by John Nelson. The wedding cakes were made by the bride's great-aunt Louella Duncan.

Debbie, formerly of Williams Lake, presented her bouquet to her grandmother Cledia Duncan before the couple left on their honeymoon to Niagara Falls. On returning home the happy couple will reside in Garden Bay.

Farmers Market

By JEANIE NORTON, 886-9609

FARMERS MARKET

Got enough potatoes to feed all of Ireland? Or your chickens laying like crazy and all your regular customers on holiday in Greece? Have we got a deal for you! The Roberts Creek Community Association is sponsoring a Farmers Market this Sunday from 12 to 3 p.m. in the park behind the post office.

Anything goes — produce, crafts, white elephants — whatever you want to sell. There's a charge of 10 per cent to show your wares and you have to bring your own table, blanket, or whatever for display purposes. It's to be at least a fortnightly event through the summer and could become a weekly affair if demand (and supply) proves sufficient.

For more information, phone Judy Fitzgerald at 885-3231 days and 885-5059 evenings, or Mary Puchalski at 885-9208.

NO LEMONADE

Two enterprising young souls set up business on Lower Road last Friday. They were Indra and Veronica Erwin of Joe Road and they had an attractive display of clothing, jewellery, posters, and other odds-and-ends to entice the passerby. But no lemonade, a surefire drawing card for the hot and weary cyclist coming back from Gibsons.

HOT FLASH

Good news for Branch 219 regulars — the little Legion has some new records on the jukebox! Maybe they'll make up for the loss of "Spiders and Snakes."

FLEET'S IN

Traffic among the cabin cruisers was unusually heavy off Roberts Creek last week, apparently in response to a radio report the salmon were running. But the siren call of the coho must have lured them elsewhere as the congestion was considerably alleviated by the weekend.

A REPRIEVE

Much to the relief of most of the community, George and Marlene have not succeeded in selling the store. Panic set in last week when they thought they had a buyer. What would we do without George and his "specials" and Marlene at the hub of activity organizing everything? Someone suggested that it should be a community decision — perhaps we should have a referendum.

DAZE THANKYOU

Well, it's all over but the bills and thank-yous. The financial tally is not yet finalized, but spiritually the Daze were a great success. Everybody who came commented on what a good time they had. Formal recognition of contributions is made elsewhere, but everybody who worked on the Daze deserves a pat on the back for a job well done. Pat, pat.

We have a few seagulls without the shells for those of you who wish to make your own decorative arrangements. Just ask for them. — Miss Bee's, Sechelt.

Report from Ottawa

Consider model

by Ray Skelly
MP Comox-PR riding

Events of the past few months have drawn wide-spread attention to the poor state of medical services in remote coastal communities. The people who live in these ports have known the problems all along. Now that the public outside is aware of some of them, perhaps solutions will be found.

One of the problems is that it is difficult to get doctors to set up practices in such communities. Perhaps then we should be looking to the model set by the people of Queen Charlotte Islands, who have an effective health and human resources board that actually hires doctors to provide on-call regular service. A similar board hires doctors on staff in the James Bay district of Victoria.

These organizations are, incidentally, two of the three remaining resource boards left over from the days of the former NDP government, most of the others having been done away with in 1977.

I was pleased by the positive response of Defence Minister Allan McKinnon to my suggestion that the two new helicopters being purchased for coastal air-sea rescue work be stationed at Port Hardy, rather than Victoria. As I pointed out to the minister in a letter I made public, there is a serious gap in rescue facilities between Comox and Ketchikan, Alaska, while the south coast has adequate resources to draw on.

We are still waiting for the minister to definitely decide to go ahead with a mid-coast location for the new helicopters.

One of my first chores as a Member of Parliament has been to set up constituency service offices. Our temporary location in Powell River is at 4760D Joyce Avenue, where the telephone number is 485-6997. In the fall, MLA Don Lockstead and I will set up a joint office in another location.

In Campbell River our office and that of MLA Colin Gabelmann will be at 166A Beach Avenue. The telephone number will be announced soon.

At Courtenay I am sharing facilities with MLA Karen Sanford at 491A Fourth Street, where the telephone number is 334,3434.

Comox-Powell River residents can contact me through the staff at these offices, or by mail at the House of Commons, Ottawa, Ontario, K1A 0I6. Remember, you don't need postage when writing to your MP.

Milford honored

In recognition of a long and successful association with the Central Hockey League, the governors of the CHL announced at their summer meetings in Las Vegas, Nevada, that a new and prestigious award has been introduced called the Jack Milford Trophy.

Beginning with the 1979-80 season, the Jack Milford Trophy will be emblematic of the CHL's coach-of-the-year. Up until now, a plaque accompanied this honor, one which Dallas Black Hawks' coach John Muckler shared this past season with Jack Evans of the Salt Lake team.

Milford's 16-year association with the CHL has been legend. He played four seasons right after World War II with the old Dallas team in the United States Hockey League, forerunner of today's Central League. He coached and managed New York Ranger farm teams for two years in St. Paul, Minnesota and for six seasons in Omaha, Nebraska. In his eight seasons as coach or manager in the CHL, Milford's teams rewarded him with four league championships.

During the four years he spent as general manager of the Los Angeles Kings, the last two were spent as vice-president of their CHL farm club in Fort Worth, Texas. And since joining the Canucks in June, 1977, he has been heavily involved with Vancouver's CHL farm teams in Tulsa (1977-78) and last year, of course, with the CHL champion Dallas club.

"I feel highly honored that my fellow Central League governors and managers saw fit to attach my name to a trophy for the CHL coach-of-the-year. It is indeed one of my proudest moments," said Milford.

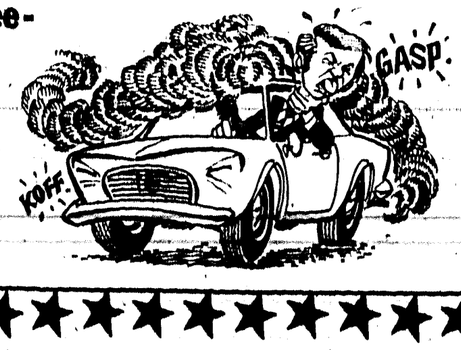
HIWAY 101, GIBSONS



That pain in the back...
maybe it's trying to tell you something.
Maybe it's saying you should be more careful when you're lifting—that you should make sure the load isn't too heavy, and that you lift with your legs instead of your back.
Maybe it's complaining about the way you twist when you turn instead of shifting your feet and turning with your whole body.
It might even be saying that you should take a little time now and then to do some simple exercises to strengthen your back.
Think about it. And do something about it. For a start, how about getting a copy of the free booklet "BACK TALK" Available at your local Workers' Compensation Board office or mail this coupon.

Volunteer Bureau relocated within the Dock

The summer months continue to be busy ones for the Sunshine Coast Community Services. The offices of the Minibus and the Volunteer Bureau now are located across the hall, number 205 in the Dock. The major change to be noted is our new phone number 885-5881. By calling this number you can reach the Community Services, Minibus and Volunteer Bureau.

Two projects under the Community services' supervision are functioning smoothly and both will ultimately benefit the community in a very positive way — but your co-operation may be needed to help make these a success.

Patricia Lee is up-dating the Directory of Services. She has contacted many organizations and agencies for information. You could help by notifying her about any groups which began functioning on the coast after 1976 — please call 885-5881.

Karl Johnston, Brian Wall and Steve Ripper have been actively interviewing and photographing volunteers in action throughout the coast. The slide-tape presentation promoting volunteerism will be ready in August and will be available for use in the community.

Hopefully, if you are approached, you will offer your co-operation and ideas to these teenagers.

Volunteer help is still needed during the summer. Please consider the following:

Outside Work

Volunteers are needed to assist some elderly people by cutting lawns, washing outside windows and doing odd chores which they find they now are unable to do for themselves. There is a need for help in Sechelt, but especially in the Gibsons area. Have you a lawn mower and a couple of hours in which you could help someone else? Perhaps your hammer or shovel needs to be put to use!

Special Friends

Patients who are confined to the hospital cannot enjoy the summer as most of us can. However, as volunteers we can take some of those experiences into the hospital to share with a special friend. Spending an hour a week with someone who shares your interests can be so rewarding for you both.

Sea Cavalcade

Volunteers are still needed to help with various functions which are a part of the festivities. Be an active part of your community and help for a couple of hours on Saturday or Sunday.

English as a Second Language

In the fall many volunteers will be needed to work on a one to one basis with adults who are trying to master English. A training program will be provided. If you are interested in being involved in this rewarding field, please call the Volunteer Bureau. It will be important that volunteers reside throughout the Coast.

Italian Speaking Volunteer

An elderly couple who speak only Italian are spending the summer in Gibsons. They would so enjoy talking with you in their native language. Even a single visit would be important.

Volunteer opportunities exist in other areas. If you want more information about these or any other challenges, please call the Community Services Volunteer Bureau at 885-5881. We are most anxious to hear about other needs which exist in the community. You could help!

NO MATTER what you thought last week, it wasn't so hot you could fry an egg on the sidewalk. Virginia Hatfield, front, and Sue Hatchard tried twice. The egg would neither fry nor stay in one place. Not enough oil, we guess.

Christian Science

"A man's pride shall bring him low: but honour shall uphold the humble in spirit," (Prov 30 23).

Does a feeling of futility prevent us from asking God's help? Nothing and no one is nearer to us than God.

"No wisdom is wise but His wisdom; no truth is true, no love is lovely, no life is Life but the divine no good is, but the good God bestows." (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy.)

Introducing...

MISS GIBSONS Chamber of Commerce Karin Achterberg.

Miss Gibsons Chamber of Commerce Karin Achterberg, 17, loves cooking and plans to become a cruise director on a ship. Presently Karin works at both Bonniebrook Lodge and the Kids for Kids Daycare Centre at Gibsons Elementary.

Karin said she will learn more about the Sunshine Coast and her sponsors from the competition and that the competition is "a new experience".

"It will be a lot of fun," she said.

MISS KIWANIS Gail Head.

Miss Kiwanis Gail Head, 18, says the Miss Sea Cavalcade competition "keeps me busy."

She entered the competition because it was someting she wanted to do, so "why not?" Gail plans a career in commercial art and advertising.

"I hope I will learn how to talk in front of people," Gail said. The activities so far have helped her to be "not as shy as I used to be." Born in Pender Harbour, Gail lives at Williamson's Landing and presently works at SuperValu.

MISS SUNNYCREST Centre Debbie McDonald.

Miss Sunnycrest Centre Debbie McDonald, 16, enjoys the sporting life. Five years playing on the Beachcomber volleyball team, as well as playing tennis and entering track and field events proves it.

Debbie has worked the last three summers as a secretary for Rivtow Straits and plans a career as a legal secretary.

She entered the Miss Sea Cavalcade competition, "for the experience of doing something for the community, to meet more people." She hopes the experience will help her gain confidence.

$8,225 pledged for Vietnamese refugees

It has been four weeks since plans were first started to bring a group of Vietnamese refugees to the Sunshine Coast. Community response to this idea has been very positive, and the Sunshine Coast Society for Vietnamese Refugees is pleased to announce that members of the community have donated and pledged a total $8,225 toward the project. Many offers of clothing, furniture, and help in orientation have been received. Several individuals have agreed to provide accommodation for the refugees. Medical and dental services have been assured. It has become very obvious that the people of the Sunshine Coast want to do what they can to help the boat people.

The Department of Immigration has approved the society's application to become a sponsoring organization and in return the society has indicated to the Canadian government that enough resources have been accumulated to resettle and support two families of Vietnamese refugees. The federal government has telexed this information to Canadian officials in Singapore who are presently screening the thousands of refugees staying in temporary camps in the area. When two families are chosen, the society will be notified by the Department of Immigration and a final binding agreement will be signed.

The agreement will simply indicate that the society will sponsor these families for up to one year. The government has stated that it may be anywhere from one-and-a-half to two months before the families arrive. The problem is one of transportation. Although the federal government has recently booked a large number of seats on flights from that area, there has been no indication that the families will arrive earlier than anticipated.

The society hopes that the people of the Sunshine Coast will look upon this sponsorship program as a community project. Anyone who makes a donation — be it financial, material, or by way of an offer of help and friendship to the refugees — automatically becomes a member of the society. The directors are very willing to do as much as they can to resettle as many refugees as possible. It is up to the community to set the limit.

As long as donations keep coming and response is positive, efforts to sponsor refugees will continue. Last week the federal government announced that for every refugee brought into Canada through private sponsorship groups (such as the Sunshine Coast Society for Vietnames Refugees), it will match that support one for one. It is estimated that if public response is good, this plan will result in 50,000 refugees being brought to Canada by the end of 1980. Thus the response of this community will directly influence the government's quota of refugees.

Last week it was reported that it could take up to six months before the society would be given a taxation number for the purpose of issuing tax receipts. It has now been learned that although Revenue Canada does have a large backlog of work, groups formed to help the Vietnamese refugees are being given top priority. It should only be a matter of weeks before the society can issue tax receipts.

At the moment the society is trying to find low-cost (or free) rental accommodation for the refugees. If anyone knows of a house or cabin that will be available near the end of August, please phone 885-9798. As well, several single beds or a bunk bed with mattresses are needed.

For more information please phone Susan Nichols, 885-9798 or Elaine Futterman, 885-2395.

Do you really know your province

1. British Columbia accounts for 9.5 per cent of the total area of Canada.

2. B.C. shares a 45-mile boundary with the state of Idaho, and a 960-mile border with Alberta. (72 km and 1545 km).

3. Both Edmonton and Prince George receive the same number of telephone calls from Dawson Creek.

4. There are as many people living in Vancouver west of Granville Street as in the entire Kootenay-Boundary area.

5. Only three per cent of B.C.'s land area is capable of growing crops.

6. The B.C. record for a steelhead trout is 17 kilograms (37.4 lbs.).

7. The largest lake in B.C. is man-made and three times larger than the greatest natural lake entirely within B.C. Williston Reservoir is 1750 sq. km (675 sq. mi.), while Babine Lake is 497 sq. km (192 sq. mi.) including islands.

8. Besides Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways, there are five others operating in the province — B.C. Railway, Northern Alberta Rly, Burlington Northern Rly, White Pass and Yukon Rly, and two others operated by B.C. Hydro and the B.C. Harbours Board.

9. Della Falls on Vancouver Island, classified as the highest waterfall in B.C. at 40 m (1443 ft.), is actually a cascade, or series of smaller falls.

10. The combined areas of provincial and national parks in B.C. provide for 2 hectares (nearly 5 acres) for every man, woman and child in the province.

11. Exports from B.C. account for 17 per cent of Canada's total.

12. Although Mount Waddington, at 4016 m (13,175 ft.) is the highest peak in B.C. it is not the highest elevation. That honour goes to Fairweather Mountain at 4663 m (15,298 ft.), whose peak is located outside B.C.

13. There are approximately 350 landing fields and 100 seaplane bases in B.C.

14. There are about 6500 coastal islands in B.C. waters, and that does NOT include "islets."

15. Kimberley enjoys the highest city elevation, at 1115 m (3,658 ft.).

16. In 1911 Strathcona Park was established as the first provincial park in B.C.

17. Dwedney began his famous trail from Hope to Similkameen in 1860.

18. B.C.'s mainland coast measures about 12,150 km (7551 miles), not counting the shores of islands.

19. The deepest sounding in coastal waters is in the Finlayson Channel, where a depth of 764 m (2508 ft.) has been recorded.

20. After Vancouver Island, of course the largest island in B.C. waters is Graham Island in the Queen Charlottes, at 6436 sq mi (2484 sq. miles).

21. B.C. longest river, the Fraser, at about 1370 km (851 miles), has a drainage area of approximately 230,000 sq. km.

22. B.C. provides 4.5 per cent of the world's supply of pulp.

23. The longest distance, north to south, in the province is about 1300 km (808 miles), and the longest from east to west is 1062 km (660 miles).

24. The shortest distance, north to south, is 24 km (14.9 miles), and the shortest east to west is about 625 km (388 miles).

25. The most southerly point in the province is Rosedale Rock off southern Vancouver Island, at latitude 48 degress 17 ft. 34 in. N.

Oxford English Dictionary Definition of a Map

"A representation of the earth's surface or a part of it, its physical features, etc., or of the heavens, delineated on a flat surface of paper or other material, each point in the drawing corresponding to a geographical or celestial position according to a definite scale or projection."

TOUGH LUCK! Owner needs funds and will sell his view lot overlooking Pender Harbour and Malaspina Strait for any reasonable offer. This could be the best investment you ever made. Call us now to view.

WATERFRONT: Pender Harbour area . . . 2 adjacent 4 acre parcels each with approx 150' of deep protected moorage. Fairly high bank but quite workable and well worth the asking price of $50,000 each.

WATERFRONT: A magnificent and unusual 15 acres with some 700' of waterfront in the lee of Harness Island. Haslam Creek runs through the middle of this fine property and there's a driveway in from Highway 101. A big plus on this one is a 4 acre oyster lease. Make an offer to the $165,000 asking price (29% down), it's a good buy at any price.

WATERFRONT: Almost 4 acres of prime, low bank waterfront offering deep moorage on a sunny south slope in Pender Harbour. Has cabin, water and hydro. Priced to sell quickly, $62,500.

PENDER LAKES PROPERTIES: A new and prestigious subdivision overlooking Pender Harbour. See with us and choose your ocean view now . . . it's a wise investment.

WE HAVE SOLID PROSPECTS DESPERATE FOR GOOD HOMES AND WATERFRONT. GIVE US A CALL . . . WE CAN SELL YOURS QUICKLY!!

New concept in home financiang

TORONTO — Builders, realtors and the public across Canada are giving an enthusiastic reception to FLIP (Flexible Loan Insurance Program), a new concept in home financing first introduced in the Toronto area this past March by the home building firm of Victoria Wood Development Corporation Inc. FLIP is the first national private sector conventional graduated payment mortgage (GPM) program in Canad.

The plan has received full approval by the Toronto Dominion Bank, following its initial experience in granting FLIP loans to buyers of Victoria Wood homes in the Toronto vicinity.

"We will be introducing FLIP on a national basis across Canada as a permanent part of our mortgage package," Bill Clarkson, Assistant General Manager of Mortgages, Toronto Dominion Bank, announced July 9.

"FLIP has broad appeal to professionals, 25 to 35 years of age," says Clarkson. "To date, the applications we have received for FLIP mortgages have been of excellent quality. We plan to make it a regular product available to licensed builders and real estate developers."

The pyramid franchising technique employed by Victoria Wood to make FLIP available across Canada is the first such technique used in Canadian home mortgage financing. Richard M. Griffith, Vice President of Marking and Sales of Victoria Wood Development Corporation Inc., describes the two types of licences being offered: a) a sub-franchise to use the licence to sell either new or used homes for a company's own accounts or b) a distributorship which permits the holder to either use FLIP or sell sub-franchises or both.

The FLIP plan is now available to buyers of new and resale homes in three Canadian provinces and 12 cities. FLIP makes use of the buyer's downpayment to reduce monthly payments during the first five years of home ownership. Franchises for the plan are being offered by Victoria Wood Development Corporation, the company that pioneered FLIP in Canada along with the Toronto Dominion Bank and the Mortgage Insurance Company of Canada (MICC).

Timber supply analysis report completed

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C. — The Prince George timber supply area yield analysis report has been completed by the ministry of forests.

Regional manager Don Grant said copies of the report will be released at a public information meeting Wednesday, July 18, 7:30 p.m. in the Inn of the North in Prince George.

The analysis, as required under the new forest act, contains short and long term projections of wood supply within the Prince George timber supply area. The report indicates that the present timber commitment (volume of timber permitted for harvesting each year) can be maintained for both the short term projection of 20 years and for the long term of up to 300 years.

Also indicated in the analysis is a surplus in wood supply for the next 20 years. Additional timber volume may be available beyond the 20-year short term projection and will be tested within five years when the next timber supply analysis has been completed.

The timber supply analysis will be used to determine the annual allowable cut and resource management plans for the Prince George area. Allocation of available wood will then be approved by the minister of forests.

This is the second timber supply area analysis to be completed in the province. The first analysis completed was for the Fort Nelson area. The total area of the Prince George timber supply area is 7.7 million hectares of which 5.9 million hectares are classified as productive forest land.

MEMBER OF "RELOCATION SERVICES CANADA" REFERRAL SYSTEM

Announcement of senior management positions

VICTORIA, B.C. — Appointments to seven senior management positions in the ministry of forests were announced today by Deputy Forests Minister Mike Apsey.

All the positions are located in Victoria headquarters of the ministry and are in keeping with the province's new forest act and the ministry's current reorganization program.

The new appointments are:

John Johnston, assistant deputy minister (finance and administration). He comes to the ministry from the provincial treasury board where he served as senior analyst. He succeeds Peter J.J. Hemphill who retired last months, and his appointment is effective July 25.

John Sheppard, director of the ministry's newly created legal and administrative services branch, effective July 18. He has served with the ministry's personnel branch since August of last year, and before that was with the ministry of the environment. He has had extensive experience in administrative management with the Canadian armed forces both as senior staff office and as a line manager.

Howard Taylor, director of technical services branch, effective last June 1. Taylor has been with the ministry since 1946 and formerly held the position of manager, building and marine services, engineering branch.

Frank Hegyi, director of the ministry's inventory branch, effective July 1. He joined the inventory branch in May, 1977, following 11 years with the Canadian forestry service. He has served as acting director of the inventory branch since the summer of last year following the retirement of Dennis Glew.

Harry Marshall, director of the newly created recreation branch of the ministry. He has been with the forests ministry since May of 1958, and was formerly forester-in-charge of recreation with the planning branch. His new appointment was effective July 1.

Cym (pronounced Kim) Williams, director of engineering branch, effective July 1. His career with the ministry started in May of 1954 and since then he has served with the engineering branch.

William (Bill) Lehrle, director of timber management branch, effective July 1. He joined the ministry in May of 1950 and since October, 1973, has headed the engineering branch. The top post in the timber management branch was formerly held by A.B. (Tony) Robinson whose appointment as regional manager for the Kamloops forest region was announced late last month.

Trust is the issue

By W. ROGER WORTH

Canadians are having a difficult time trusting business people these days, and with good reason.

In the past, consumers were confident the local butcher wasn't about to tip the scales with his finger. The meat cutter, in many cases, was a personal friend, or at least an acquaintance.

Now, consumers have to contend with supermarket chains caught mixing low-priced pork with beef, cooly selling the concoction at higher-than-high beef prices.

Fertilizer companies think nothing of short-changing their customers by selling under-weight products, some as much as 10 pounds less than the amount indicated.

Many large companies have also taken advantage of the move to the metric system, hiking prices by inordinate amounts to increase profit margins.

Even the government operated post office joined the trend when it announced most mailing costs would not rise when it changed to metric, neatly evading the fact that a lot of customers are going to pay considerably more money for the service.

Then there's the quality issue.

The number of product recalls has increased so dramatically that the Canadian public now takes them for granted.

In fact, the automotive companies are now recalling more cars than they sell every year.

Canadians have come a long way from the good old days when a Model A ran for 10 years, developing few problems that couldn't be overcome with a little binder twine and a recycled wad of chewing gum.

The list goes on.

The aircraft industry and government authorities apparently feel it's not important to inform the flying public that 506 faulty engine mounts have been found on commercial jets during a six year period.

Soft drink manufacturers blanket the country with exploding pop bottles, then balk when Ottawa asks them nicely to stop using the containers. At least one manufacturer, it seems, wants a direct order from the government before he will act.

Yet it's beleaguered smaller retailers, car dealers, travel agents and other independent entrepreneurs on the firing line who bear the brunt of public complaints about these abuses. Further, these smaller businesses are forced to accept such criticism, particularly if they operate by the credo that "the customer is always right."

What's to be done?

It's time all business people — specifically, the executives of major companies — provide straightforward answers to the public on quality and pricing policies.

By evading or stonewalling contentious issues, Canada's corporate elite are slowly but surely eroding public confidence in the free-enterprise system.

New foreign exchange

Tourism B.C. has opened a complete foreign-exchange facility at its tourist information centre at the Canada-U.S. boarder, junction of Highway 99 and Interstate 5, Tourism and Small Business Development Minister Don Phillips announced today.

"The new service — the first of its kind in Canada — is being provided by Mercury International, the firm which originated and at present operates foreign exchange facilities at all major international airports in the country," the minister said.

Phillips noted that Mercury International was the first firm to respond to a challenge to the private sector by the former tourism and small business development minister, Elwood Veitch, to provide foreign-exchange services at the border crossing.

"Mercury International offered its services and after negotiations it was agreed to lease space at the Douglas Information centre to the firm to provide a convenient, fast and time-saving service for visitors and Canadians," the minister said.

Mercury International at present handles the largest volume of foreign banknotes in Canada and is the broker for all Canadian banks.

"The firm maintains computer contact with the most-respected banking institutions all over the world, assuring knowledge of up-to-the-minute rates of exchange," he said.

Phillips said some 70,000 to 90,000 visitors and Canadians are serviced by the year-round information centre annually.

An advance highway sign indicating the new foreign-exhange service will be posted and this should encourage more visitors to stop at the information centre, he said.

Tourism B.C.'s offices in Seattle, Los Angeles and San Francisco will also advise prospective travellers to B.C. of the new facility.

CATTLE EGRET (Bubulcus ibis) — The cattle egret is a small white heron with a short neck and a yellow bill. As its name implies, the egret is often associated with grazing cattle. It follows and picks up insects disturbed by the cattles' movements, and frequently may be seen standing on the animals' backs. This Old World heron has only recently become established in North America (1940's). It spread dramatically and reached Canada in 1952.

Everywhere knife-painter turns, there's another scene to paint

By EVI BLUETH

"The scenery is really magnificent out here. Everywhere I turn I see another picture I want to paint," Gibsons' palette knife-painter Hazel Coxall, said.

Hazel moved to Gibsons recently and says it is more like her hometown in England than anywhere else she has lived in Canada. She is glad to again be living by the sea and says it is most inspirational to her landscape paintings.

"My greatest joy is to pack myself a lunch and a cold drink and go down to the beach for the afternoon with my easel and my oil paints," Hazel said.

"I don't like to pressure myself," she added. "I've got to be in the right mood. I paint when I feel like it and then it's much faster and much better."

Gospel rock and Granthams Harbour are depicted in two of Hazel's recent works. She likes to paint things as they are and enjoys the challenge of turning the most ordinary piece of scenery into a fascinating creation. Even a few rocks and a nearby fishboat offer possibilities. The Selma Park area intrigues Hazel and she is planning to set up her easel there soon, but right now there are still too many scenes nearby to capture.

"I found palette knifework difficult when I first started, but after watching a girl in Cape Cod doing boats with a palette knife, I gradually learned the knack and began using the knife with ease so that I could create the effects I wanted," said Hazel.

At 17 Hazel went to art school in London for four years, but following her education she had to go to work and did not have the chance to pursue her talents. Although she is not fanatical about housekeeping, her duties as wife and mother have kept her away from her painting. During a time of illness, someone encouraged her to begin painting again.

Since that time she has become quite ambitious and feels great commitment to her work. Now that her children are grown up and she is not working full-time, she has the energy and motivation to create beautiful local scenes.

Hazel finds it encouraging to sell her paintings, but says she isn't disappointed any more if they don't sell. She does the work for her own enjoyment and just hopes to sell enough to cover the cost of expensive art supplies. She is planning to set up a studio and gallery in the basement of her home on South Fletcher. She will only stay open while she is working and hopes that during this time she will have the opportunity to get some feedback from the community. Presently she has her work displayed at the Gallery Shop where she works a few afternoons a week.

HAZEL IS beginning to feel a greater commitment to her work now her children are grown.

IN A PROPOSED gallery in the basement of her home, Hazel hopes to display her artwork and receive some feedback from the community.

C licence moratorium announced today

A moratorium on "C" licences for the west coast fishing fleet was announced today by James McGrath, Minister of Fisheries & Oceans, who said the moratorium would be in effect from today until a comprehensive licencing policy for the west coast has been developed.

Under the moratorium:

The owner of a vessel currently licenced into a restricted entry fishery, who receives permission to transfer the restricted licence to a replacement vessel, will not be eligible for a new "C" licence for the replaced vessel. The one exception to this change is that category "B" licenced vessels will continue to qualify for "C" licences when retired from the salmon fishery.

A vessel with only a "C" licence may transfer that licence only to a replacement vessel that does not exceed the overall length of the existing vessel;

All west coast commercial fishing vessels carry a basic "C" licence. However, most of the fisheries on the west coast are subject to limited entry and require additional special licences.

Vessels with only a "C" licence are eligible only to fish in a limited number of fisheries still not subject to controlled entry. These are : food and bait herring; black cod; longline cod and rockfish; crab, prawn and shrimp trap fishing as well as clams and dogfish.

Mr. McGrath said that the "moratorium is being declared because the previous policy automatically granted new "C" licences to any vessels being replaced regardless of size. This not only allowed the "C" fleet to row in the number of boats but also in the sizes of the individual boats".

With the limited number of fisheries in which "C" licenced vessels can fish there is a real concern that the extent of these resources might not be adequate for the number of "C" vessels already in the fleet, the Minister said.

Court

It was a short day for Sechelt Provincial Court last week. Richard Ross Lovell, 17, was fined $100 for being a minor in possession of liquor and Robert Anthony Brown was fined $35 for speeding against highway signs.

HONEST CO-OP VALUE

ANOTHER REASON TO SHOP CO-OP
Elphinstone Co-Op is pleased to introduce to the Sunshine Coast a new concept in meat sales. Instead of, as is common practice in the retail food business, offering you only a few "lost leader" specials each week, we are going out on a limb and for a period of 3 months
ALL MEAT ITEMS WILL BE REDUCED BY 15%
And when we say all meat items we mean every meat item in our meat department including cold cuts etc. Further, we will not be inflating the price of meat to do this but will be offering a straight 15% off our everyday retail competitive prices. If this experiment works it will continue into other departments.
WE'RE NOT KIDDING WHEN WE SAY "DON'T JUST SHOP — SHOP CO-OP" THERE IS A DIFFERENCE
Please note that due to the small mark up this discount will not apply on sides or hinds of beef or pork.

Chilliwack wedding for Gibsons woman

A lovely double ring marriage ceremony was solemnized in St. Mary's Mava Schneider, daughter of Gus and Verda Schneider and Harold Stromquist, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Stromquist of Chilliwack.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride looked radiant in a gown of white nylon sheer over net and satin, featuring appliqued roses complementing self pleats down the front of the skirt and continuing around the full length train. Before giving his daughter to the goom, Gus kissed his daughter and then placed her hand in Harold's.

Her bouquet was of white roses and peach-tinted carnations and her only jewellery was a diamond necklace, a gift from the groom. A finger-tip double veil completed the ensemble. Mava's sister Marla was Maid of Honor, bridesmaids were Debbie Stromquist, Heather Wright, Cheryl Bone and Mona Anderson. Bridal attendants were gowned in peach colored dresses with matching boleros and they carried yellow gladiolas.

The groom and best man and the ushers wore light beige suits. Best man was Ian Karcioglow and the ushers were Allen Stromquist, Calvin Voth, Greg Schneider and Gordon Nelms.

Shawn Mussel was the flower girl and her brother Helmer was the ring bearer, they are niece and nephew of the groom.

The bride's mother chose a lime green gown with sheer overlay and her corsage of white carnations and rusty-colored roses complemented her ensemble. The groom's mother wore a gown of soft green and her corsage was white roses and green carnations.

Judy Novlan, from Saskatoon was the organist for her cousin Mava. Joe Schneider, uncle of the bride, also from Saskatoon, proposed the toast to the bride to which Harold responded. Bob Jones Parry was the Master of Ceremonies. The reception was held in the church hall with friends and relatives totalling nearly 300 and coming from Ontario, Saskatchewan, Alberta and B.C. Among the guests were Mava's grandmother Schneider from Sask. and her Grandfather Atkinson from Roberts Creek.

The happy couple left for a honeymoon to Harrison Hot Springs and upon their return, plan to reside in Zeballos.

The Garden Corner

Carpet the garden

By Guy Symonds

A couple of weeks ago we wound up this Corner with the statement that the next effort would explain a novel idea about the possibilities and value in laying a carpet in the garden. Then we got a bit sidetracked, and although the talk was on a similar idea, namely the value of mulching, it must be admitted that it was not what had been intended.

So now we can talk about carpeting the garden. First it must be said that the procedure calls for a bit more elbow room than lots of us have in our vegetable gardens, but if the room is there then this is the plan as explained in an article read recently.

It advises that the rows of growing things should be about the same distance apart so that strips of carpet can be cut to the same size. Any old carpet will serve so long as there are no actual holes in it. You can watch out for any discarded pieces you can lay your hands on or talk your friends out of.

Repeat — examine for holes and don't lay any thus marred, the reason being of course that weeds will find those holes and take advantage of them.

After your vegetables have sprouted, measure the distance from the middle of one row to the middle of the next. Subtract three inches. This will allow the carpeting to stretch to the stems of the plants without touching them. Of course if the ground is clean and all the demands for cultivation have been faithfully met the carpet could be laid at the time of sowing the seed.

Apply the carpeting in the made-to-measure strips in rolls, starting from each end of the row and meeting in the middle. Overlap about six inches, that way there will be no weeds.

Now as to the benefits. As has been pointed out the weed problem is practically eliminated — at least so it is claimed. The garden can be walked on soon after the rain without damaging the surface or incidentally getting your feet wet and muddy. To someone used to farming that is not a particularly powerful argument. It makes the inevitable kneeling to work much more comfortable. Possibly the best and most valuable of the results is the encouragement of fine crops of earthworms. And these humble little workers are at last getting some recognition of their value to humanity. Their proliferation is encouraged by providing the overlap and it will be seen that in very wet weather they will congregate there to avoid being drowned. Besides, says the article, "picking worms from a carpet is gentle on the worms as well as on the fingers!"

It is easier to use than compost (that also in this gardener's opinion is not a valid argument), more durable than newspapers, free for the scrounging (generally and in all respects great mulch material. Once down, you have said goodbye to hoeing for the rest of the summer, is how the writer clinches his argument.

One relates these items because someone has taken the trouble to find out that they are worth talking about and so it seems that the information should be passed along. But one does not necessarily agree with everything one reads. Old fashioned, and old gardeners like this one, while very willing to listen to mulching arguments, find cause for concern in the lack of cultivation that must accompany the practice. For years one was taught that cultivation of the soil is indispensible to healthy growing conditions and to the well being of the land itself. The preservation of subsurface moisture, aeration of the soil, and the encouragement of bacterial action depend on it. Hoeing of course is mulching so long as it is done in dry weather.

Weed prevention? Certainly the mulch has to be an effective control.

Increase in the worm population? Very much to be desired.

For the rest — such as side dressing with fertilizer for instance — not so good.

But knowledge is power and must be passed along to be used or not used as the learner sees fit.

IT WAS A touchy decision Tuesday night in the semi-final Ken Mac versus Weldwood. Despite the play here, Weldwood came out on top 3-0 with runs by Sam Casey, Dave Lamb and Kelly Bodnarek. Weldwood goes on to the final series against Cedars Inn.

Ladies Golf

Seventeen ladies played for the Senior Ladies Trophy in the tournament July 17-18 and fine scores were registered the first day by Leila Comrie with a net 68, Helen Milburn with net 69 and Hazel Wright and Jay Townsend with net 70.

Wilma Sim came in Wednesday with a super low net of 61. Her 77 on Tuesday gave her a 138 to win the cup, one stroke over Milburn's 69 and 70.

Comrie was first in the CLGA Pin Round July 12 with low net 68. Milburn was second with 69. For the nine holes only, Judy Forman won with net 29.

In Third Team play, Langara ladies defeated Sunshine Coast ladies 38½ to 33½ at Langara Golf Course.

We are pleased to announce that you may now get your Provincial and Winsday lottery tickets here. We wish you all good luck. — Miss Bee's, Sechelt.

Senior men's fastball finals set this week

The final series of Cedars Inn vs Weldwood in the Sunshine Coast senior men's league promises to be a great series with both clubs having solid pitching and good defences as well as strong bats in their lineups.

If the previous five meetings of the two teams are any indication of the ball to come, it should be a fine series, as nearly all of the games were of the one or two run variety. The schedule for this best of five series is:

Tonight at Hackett Park, Sechelt
Thursday at Brothers Park, Gibsons

FINAL LEAGUE STANDINGS:

	GP	W	L	Pct.	Gbl
Cedars Inn	15	11	4	.733	-
Weldwood	14	10	4	.713	½
Ken-Mac	14	7	7	.500	3
Wanderers	15	1	14	.066	6½

Weldwood and Ken Mac left their final rained out game unplayed as it would not affect final standings.

Cedars Inn continued to have little trouble with the young Wanderers team, defeating them 19-7 in the opening game of the semi-finals last week. It was newcomer Doug Elson returning to the lineup for the Cedars squad getting the win over brother Don Elson who had beat the Cedars once earlier in the season. Kerry Eldred hit one homerun for the winners.

Cedars wrapped up their series in convincing fashion with a three-run first inning behind the pitching of Brent Lineker. Robbie Williams took the loss for the Wanderers with Don Elson in relief. Eldred and Dick Gaines led the way to a 17-9 win with a homerun each.

In what turned out to be an excellent and exciting series, it was all Carl Kohuch in game one as he recorded a one-hit shut-out, putting six strikeouts on the board for winners Weldwood. With Weldwood showing a strong defensive performance, all they needed were the two hits they got off Ken Mac's Dan Reitlo to put the game away.

While scoring just one earned run, Weldwood carried the game following Ken Mac's two-run throwing error.

In another tense game with good fielding plays and superb pitching by both Reitlo and Kohuch, it appeared Weldwood was on its way to a sweep of the series in the first inning when Weldwood's Sean VanStreppin hit one out of the park in his first time at bat.

But after that initial hit, Reitlo settled down and threw an excellent two-hitter, while getting some fine plays behind him. On the other side, Kohuch pitched well again, giving up just five hits scattered throughout the game. But it was three costly throwing errors in succession by the Weldwood team that proved their undoing and gave Reitlo his first win (3-1) in the playoffs.

In the deciding game, Reitlo's pitching heroics just weren't enough as the Weldwood club jumped out to a 6-0 first-inning lead to win the game 11-0.

Tom Hansen came in as relief and gave up the final four runs in a good effort. It was Rick Waugh who picked up the win in this game, throwing an impressive three-hitter strike out five in the process.

Golf championship finalized

By ERNIE HUME

The Sunshine Coast Golf and Country Club men's championship was finalized last Sunday. Young Kenny Hincks shot a fine 223 for 54 holes to win the championship for 1979. Paul Smith claimed the runner-up spot with a fine 232. The best net score for the tournament went to Graham Chapman with 203, followed by Dean Warnes and Don Douglas with 204 and Roy Taylor with 206 who also were winners of the 0 to 17 handicap flight.

The 17-and-over handicap flight was won by Bill Peterson, Vic Marteddu and Art Kiloh, all with nice scores of 204. The golfers who played their way into the Sea Cavalcade Golf Tournament will have their names posted on the notice board at the Clubhouse. Good luck to all of you.

The golf tournament held under the auspices of the Roberts Creek Daze Celebration proved quite successful. It is hoped that it may be played every year in conjunction with Robert's Creek's annual celebration. It was the same type of golf tournament that started the Sea Cavalcade Golf Tournament going and has proved so successful over the years.

The Seymour Golf Club will be returning our visit on Thursday, July 26. Let's hope we continue to enjoy the beautiful Sunshine Coast weather for the return match.

Our congenial Jack Redman is still providing our out-of-town and local Green Fee Players a pleasant day on an excellent golf course. Take advantage of a sandwich and liquid refreshment on the sundeck overlooking the course and the Georgia Straits.

WINNER OF the Men's Golf Championship July 25 Ken Hincks relaxes after the game.

Horse show

Tiddley Creek up Lockyer Rd. is the scene Sunday for the Timber Trail Riding Club's Summer Horse Show. Action starts at 9 a.m. with Jeff Parrish of Langley in the judge's seat.

There will be halter, performance and games for 11-years-and-under classes and high-point. Ribbons issued to fifth place and rosettes issued to high point.

Trophies are donated by Bobbie Cramer (jumping trophy); the Miles (trail horse and barrel trophy); the Newshams (high point English and Western trophy). Phone entries in at 885-9295.

Proceeds from the concession stand go to the riding club.

Ask about the forest

Mr. & Mrs. K. Griffith of Sechelt, B.C. have asked the following question

ARE THE GIANT REDWOODS OF CALIFORNIA RELATED TO OUR WESTERN RED CEDAR?

No. Our Western red cedar belongs to the family Cupressaceae; the redwood to the family Taxodiaceae which is quite a separate family and younger interms of tree evolution. While the two species have similarities in bark and other properties that might suggest some common background, this cannot be verified one way or another.

There are only two species of redwood now in existence — the tree known commonly as the California redwood or coast redwood (sequoia sempervirens (D.Don) (Lindl.)and the giant sequoir, also known as the big tree or Sierra redwood (Sequoir gigantea (Lindl.) Decne.).

Along with eucalyptus, redwoods are considered to be the world's tallest trees and the most massive in bulk. They are highly resistant to insects and disease and, possibly for this reason, live to an extremely old age. Giant sequoias in some groves are from 2,000 to 3,000 years old. A few are over 3,000.

Because of its disease resistance, the wood finds extensive use in the building of patios, planters, fences, etc. Easily worked, it is also the building of patios, planters, fences, etc. Easily worked, it is also favoured for turnery or general woodworking and its burls are famous. For reasons unknown, these growths will often develop on a redwood in sizes varying from one inch to many feet in diameter. Cut through, they reveal interesting designs and make beautiful tabletops, bowls and other art objects.

Send your questions about the forest and forestry to "Ask about the Forest," c-o Canadian Forestry Association of B.C., 410-1200 W. Pender Street, Vancouver, B.C., V6E 2S9. A professional forester will reply and a book prize will be sent to each person submitting a question that is published. This column is a joint project of the Canadian Forestry Association of B.C. and the Association of B.C. Professional Foresters.

DARREN KOHUCH, 10, of the Legion 109 peewee hockey team, won the Athletic Award in his age division at the Okanagan Hockey School where he attended July 8-15. Last year, Darren claimed the Most Sportsmanlike Player Award. Attending the school at the same time were Jamie Brown, Donald Maedel and Brent McCuig all of Sechelt.

Book Look

By MURRIE REDMAN

BOOK LOOK by Murrie Redman
MAGOOK, CANADA'S MAGAZINE-BOOK FOR CHILDREN, Monthly issue, 60 plus pages, $1.95 each
RAINCOAST CHRONICLES, Issue 8, 56 pages, $8.00
CANADIAN NATURE NOTEBOOK, by Aleta Karestad, McGraw-Hill Ryerson, 1979, 144 pages, index, $12.95

It is periodical time again with the latest RAINCOAST CHRONICLES and the new MAGOOK.

MAGOOK is the delightful children's magazine with no advertising, plenty of real information and lots of fun. The bonus is always something to look forward to — a book as MAGOOK'S centrefold. The magazine might move over for the latest edition, but the book stays on the shelf.

The first MAGOOK book is about a boy who is reluctant to go to the hockey school that his father wants him to attend. Ryan, the boy, worries about it until he falls asleep while watching a hockey game. He dreams that he is the hero. Of course, he changes his mind about the school!

The second issue of the magazine, now a monthly, has a book about Newton McTootin who was sent a bang-bang tree. In Saskatchewan where it grew originally, the tree's noisy habits were not a problem, but in the city . . . How Newton solves his problem and wins a clap-clap tree from his neighbours makes for a zany tale.

Both MAGOOKS are beautifully illustrated in full colour. There are photographs, puzzles and games. Dogg Dogg Smith and his cartoon adventures in bilingual language are here again. Interviews with sports figures, entertainers and authors make MAGOOK a special gift. How its publishers can put out such a fine children's magazine which has no ads and such a low price is something of a miracle.

RAINCOAST CHRONICLES is alive and welcome and out again. I especially enjoyed the article about Capi Blanchet who was a marvellous person. She took widowhood, the rearing of five children and writing all in her stride. Edith Iglauer Daly describes how Mrs. Blanchet spent summers with the family aboard "Caprice", a 25 foot cedar boat. She wrote a book about her travels and titled it CURVE OF TIME. It has gone to reprint having caught the imagination of boaters everywhere.

Capi Blanchet's children's story about Henry, the whale who became trapped in Sechelt Inlet is also in RAINCOAST CHRONICLES.

The tale about Gun-an-noot is another favorite in this issue. It is the story, now legend, of a Gitksan Indian trapper who was charged with the murder of two people. Gun-an-noot fled from the law into the bush where he hid out for many years. When at last, tired of being a fugitive, Gun-an-noot gave himself up, he was found not guilty for reason of too few witnesses and proof.

RAINCOAST CHRONICLES is a fine publication but one which is not above criticism. Some of the authors of articles did not acknowledge their sources of information. The inclusion of a bibliography can only enhance their material.

The articles about things other than logging and fishing are respite from the industry's cussin' and sweatin'. Just like everything else that is overdone the folk hero of the hillside gets a little stale, too.

If the family is heading East across the country, a good book to take along is Aleta Karstad's CANADIAN NATURE NOTEBOOK. Karestad is both naturalist and artist. As she travels across Canada from the East to the West Coast, she records what she sees — and what you and I might see on such a journey. Her chatty style is flowing and quite charming. The finely done drawings, some in colour, are as informative as photographs. All nature lovers will enjoy Karestad's sensitive ramblings whether they are travelling cross-country or not.

Welfare rights

An updated booklet describing rights and benefits available under British Columbia's welfare legislation has just been issued by Monday Publications, of Victoria, with assistance from the University of Victoria's School of Social Work.

Entitled "Welfare Rights and Gain", the booklet was written by the School's Marjorie Martin and Marilyn Callahan. It is the third edition of the booklet, first published in 1977, and is available at 50 cents per copy from Community Law Offices throughout the Province, or from the University's School of Social Work.

The booklet interprets in simple language BC's welfare laws and, in particular, the Guaranteed Available Income for Need (GAIN) Act.

It deals with laws applying to welfare, seniors, handicapped, day care and homemakers, and covers changes in rates and regulations up to April 1st, 1979.

"Many myths circulate about welfare recipients and welfare money," the authors say. "The booklet is written for the general public and is intended to help clear up some of the misunderstandings."

POISED for flight — As night closes in on New York City, a very debonair Count Dracula, played by George Hamilton, prepares for a night on the town with the assistance of his faithful manservant Renfield, played by Arte Johnson, in Love At First Bite, playing at the Twilight Theatre tonight, Thursday and Friday.

Company receives $1000 pollution fine

Construction Aggregates' contravention of the Fisheries Act in permitting the deposit of silt, a deleterious substance, in waters frequented by fish was neither reckless nor intentional, Judge J.S.P. Johnson ruled last week in Sechelt Provincial Court.

Judge Johnson said the offence, which the company admitted, of depositing silt in McNair Creek was due to "unusual circumstances" and fined the company $1,000 to cover the costs of the Crown's prosecution of the case.

A heavy rainfall in late February caused a slide at the company's gravel quarry near Port Mellon. Conservation officer Jamie Stephen noticed a pump was in operation attempting to flush, with water, the tunnel through which the aggregates are moved.

Mud and gravel from the tunnel was deposited in the sump and from there muddy water flowed through a culvert into McNair Creek.

Employees flushing the tunnel with water felt the deposit would settle in the sump and not continue into the creek, Crown prosecutor Eric Chesterley said.

However, the rivulets were picking up non-filterable residue, not depositing it.

Defence lawyer Doug Harrison said previous attempts to clear the tunnel using shovels were unsuccessful. The slide had caused a "beaverdam" effect in the tunnel that was impossible to dislodge, he said.

Harrison said an "error in judgement" was made, but it was "not a long-lasting situation." The muddy water was allowed to run into the creek only 30 to 45 minutes, before the situation was corrected by digging a U-turn ditch which Harrison said was a decision made by both the foreman and Stephen.

Since then, the company has blocked the culvert to prevent a similar occurrence, he said.

Chesterly said no steps had been taken to ensure another slide will not occur because of the instability of the hillside.

Judge Johnson agreed the company fulfilled the Environment Canada requirements at the "1974 level" when the operation started, and the heavy rainfall was unusual. The company does not deposit deleterious matter in regular operation, he said.

Top comics pace action in "Love at First Bite"

Sharing acting honors with stars George Hamilton and Susan Saint James in American International's contemporary Dracula spoof, "Love At First Bite," opening tonight at the Twilight Theatre, are three of the screen's top Richard Benjamin and Dick Shawn.

Long a favorite on the comedy scene, Arte Johnson is probably best known for his portrayals of zany characters in the long-running "Laugh-In" series, for which he won an Emmy Award.

Richard Benjamin's impressive list of screen credits includes starring roles in "Goodbye Columbus," "Diary Of A Mad Housewife," "Portnoy's Complaint" and more recently "House Calls."

Famous for his stand-up comedy routines and recipient of rave notices nation-wide in his one-man show, "The Second Greatest Entertainer In The World," Dick Shawn has been featured in hit comedy films such as "What Did You Do In The War Daddy?," Mel Brook's Academy Award winner "The Producers" and "It's a Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World."

In "Love At First Bite," Johnson plays Renfield, Dracula's psychotic manservant, Benjamin is the psychiatrist and part-time lover of Susan St. James and Shawn is a blase New York detective, bewildered by the thought of a vampire on the loose in the Big Apple.

"Love At First Bite," was produced by Joel Freeman, and Stan Dragoti directed the Robert Kaufman screenplay from a story by Kaufman and Mark Gindes. The film is a Melvin Simon presentation of a George Hamilton-Robert Kaufman Production with music by Charles Bernstein.
