SIXTEENTH YEAR

PHOENIX, B. C., SATURDAY, JULY 10, 1915

NUMBER 52

K. P. Joint Installation

The time-honored close social relationship existing between the Phoenix and Greenwood lodges of Knights of Pythias, was again illustrated on Tuesday, when another of their joint installations of officers was held in the local rooms of the order. The visitors to the number of about twenty, were headed by S. Storer, the Greenwood district deputy, who was the installing officer, and the occasion was made doubly interesting by the presence of R. J. Steele, Grand Chancellor of British Columbia, who addressed the gathering in a kindly speech of encouragement and gave a resume of the progress of the order universal for the past year. The serious work of the evening having been concluded, the remainder of the hours were occupied with other speeches, interspersed with the items of an excellent and specially prepared musical program. The banquet, served in the hall and catered for under the experienced management of Brother Deane, of the Deane hotel, deserves more than ordinary praise, and far surpassed in excellence anything of the kind ever attempted in the history of the city. It was the crowning triumph of an eventful and memorable evening. The following are the names of the new officers of Phoenix Lodge:

C. C., Chas. Davidson; Vice C., Leonard Adams; Prelate, Thos. Underwood; M. of W., Jos. Butcher; K. of R. and S., Chas. Knight; M. of F., E. E. Barnes; M. of E., A. F. Geddes; M. at A., W. Campbell; I. G., Adolph Jacobson; O. G., J. E. Carter.

To Raffle Ford Auto.

A. D. McKenzie has made arrangements to raffle his five-seater Ford motor car. The tickets, which are to be sold at a dollar apiece, will be on sale from today, Saturday.

Since the inception of the parole system in Canada, 16,000 prisoners have been released.

Money Well Expended

The contribution for patriotic purposes, donated by the employees of the local Granby mine, was inadvertently forwarded to G. C. Cassels, hon. treasurer of the Canadian War Contingent Association, who complied with the request of P. B. Free-land that the money be placed in circulation immediately. It was intended, of course, that the money should go to the funds of the Canadian Red Cross, but as both societies are equally reputable and cover practically the same ground, the matter was allowed to stand. The same disposition will also be made with the June donation of seven hundred dollars, which was forwarded before the above facts became known. We should also add that $98.00 was sent to the Toronto headquarters of the Overseas clubs for the purchase of aeroplanes for the Canadian contingents.

The Canadian War Contingent Association is accomplishing splendid work among the Canadian troops, and includes in its administration the Queen's Canadian Military hospital at Shorncliffe. This hospital is being enlarged to twice its original size, in order to cope with the great amount of work, and Mr. Cassels, of the London branch of the Bank of Montreal, bespeaks for it the consideration of the Canadian people.

Lecture on Korea

Tomorrow, Sunday, a lecture on Korea will be delivered in the Presbyterian church, by Miss McCully, a worker in the Canadian Missionary Society. The discourse, which of course is based on an actual residence in the "hermit kingdom" and a close association with its people, will be something in the nature of an educative treat and a large audience will no doubt make a point of being present to hear the speaker. Miss McCully speaks at the morning service at eleven o'clock.

Truth will out when drink holds sway.

B. C. Mining

Two pack trains are now on the road from the Nine Mile mountain to New Hazelton for shipment to Trail smelter. One train comes from the Silver Cup and the other from the American Boy.—Omineca Herald.

The Tacoma smelter is buying everything with copper in it. People have been bringing in every old article they could lay their hands on that had copper in it—brass chandeliers, copper saucepans, coils of wiring, knobs of bedposts, and miscellaneous junk.

Ner Smith brought in some fine ore samples from the Smith City claims last night. The samples contain galena and quartz, and Alex. Smith, part proprietor of the Allan, who is the father of the group, has great hopes for their future. The claims are particularly promising from surface indications.—Miner.

E. P. Gaillac is in Princeton, having completed his assessment work on his gypsum claims on Granite Creek. He is expecting some parties here shortly to examine them. Mr. Gaillac is an old timer in Princeton, and had charge of the development of the United Empire coal mine on Onemile. His home is in Spokane, where he is engaged in the real estate business.

A drilling outfit for the Queen Charlotte Petroleum company was taken north on Saturday last. It will be set up on the company's property at Drury inlet, where there are excellent oil indications. Edward Brown, managing director of the company, and a crew of five men went along. Dave Gibson will superintend the operations. The company's gasoline launch towed the outfit, which was loaded on a scow. Before leaving, Mr. Brown said he expected they would be working in two weeks.—Province.

The deposits at the Dominion Assay Office, Vancouver, during June totalled about 165, which is in excess of the number recorded for the corresponding month last year. The total value can not yet be given accurately, because of the heavy rush of the last few days of the month. The Yukon gold started later this year than last, but it is now coming with a rush, and it is roughly estimated that $125,000 worth has been received this week. The fiscal year of this institution closed with March. For April, May and June, the first quarter of the new fiscal year, 387 deposits have been received, as against 271 for the previous corresponding period. This indicates that the concessions made by the Dominion Government regarding this assay office are bringing about steadily increasing patronage.

Egg-Laying Contest

The fourth international egg-laying contest is still going on at Victoria under the auspices of the provincial department of agriculture. The affair has now reached the eighth month on June 9th last. Each pen consists of six hens, and all the well-known varieties are well represented. In the non-weight class the White Wyandottes are well in the lead, six of them accounting for 861 eggs. The lowest yield in the same class was from a pen of Silver Campines which laid 41.

In the weight class, the leading pen are the Barred Rocks, with 893 eggs, while the second favorites are six White Wyandottes with 840 to their credit. A pen of Rhode Island Whites belonging to Fred W. Frederick, of Phoenix, have accounted so far for 665 eggs, while the lowest yield to date is that of 502 from six White Orpingtons. The contest commenced on October 10th, 1914, and closes on Oct 9th, 1915.

Jealousy oft turns to hate.

Wounded and Prisoner

The first letter from a Canadian prisoner of war to reach Phoenix was handed to Wm. Delahay on Wednesday. The missive was dated June 21st, and came from Teddy Hurrell, who was wounded in the thigh and taken prisoner at Ypres. Teddy says he is in a German hospital and has been well looked after by the enemy, and he expected to be able to leave his bed very shortly. Mrs. Delahay is preparing a parcel for him this week. His address reads:

Private Ed. Hurrell, (23,395), 1st B.C. Regt., 7th Battalion, Canadian Field Force, Paderborn, Westphalia, Germany.

In a letter to Adam Broomfield, dated at Shorncliffe, June 21st, Jas. Porter reports that he is back with the depot, having been discharged from the hospital. He expects very shortly to be sent to the front again, although he says his leg still troubles him if he walks far. He thinks that if Jim Martindale had taken his advice and retired with him he would not have been taken prisoner. Porter says he was crawling across a field when he called to the Phoenix boys to come along, but as the field was being covered with a hail of shrapnel they evidently thought the chance was not worth the risk. Porter says he saw them taking Jim Martindale a prisoner. He learned from other wounded arrivals in England of the deaths of Sid Jennings and J. Pitpladdy. His regiment is now the 15th, but he is temporarily attached to the 30th, which is the reserve battalion of the former.

The Pioneer is able to give an unqualified denial to the report contained in a recent letter announcing the death of Dan Paterson. A letter was received only yesterday, dated in France the same day as the one from England reporting his death, which says that Paterson was quite well.

From Frisco to Phoenix

Our cousins to the south of us are quick to recognize a good thing, and the fame of our roads is one of them. The other day a family party of American motorists passed through Phoenix en route for the Okanagan. They had motored all the way from San Francisco, the journey to Phoenix only consuming about fourteen days. Two days were lost on the trip. Their car was specially equipped for the trip and the sleeping and dining accommodation made the party practically independent of hotels. This is the first car to reach Phoenix with a license issued in San Francisco.

Good Fishing Season

The oldest inhabitants of this district, quite fail to recall a time when the trout in Boundary creek have been so delightfully accommodating as during the past two or three weeks. Pools both below and above the falls seem to find equal favor, and some fine catches have been brought into town. But perhaps the biggest mess of trout landed in one day was that of Ralph Coutts, who came up the hill with fifty. On Sunday last the creek was lined with anglers and the fish appeared to be getting the worst of it.

Granby Shipments

The following are the monthly shipping figures from the local Granby mine to the Grand Forks smelter:

Month	Tons
January	42,211
February	63,091
March	69,948
April	85,382
May	100,693
June	103,004
Total	464,329

Few Grouse Seen

Recent inquiries made among prospectors and others whose work calls them off the beaten track, give little promise for anything like a successful grouse hunting season. Scarcely any young birds have been seen of late, and even the old birds seem to be more than usually scarce. Opinions are varied as to the cause, some blaming the phenomenally wet weather, which has either spoiled the hatching or else chilled and killed the young chicks, while others attribute the scarcity to the rather favorable opportunities afforded for hunting last year, when everyone who could beg or borrow a gun spent day after day in the woods. One or two stated that though they had noticed the fewness of the birds, they thought that they had been frightened back from the roads by the increasing automobile traffic.

Treasure From The Deep

The gold which constituted part of the freight of the C.P.R. steamship Islander has been recently recovered. The vessel collided with a submerged berg, while off Juneau and sank in about 300 feet of water. The wreck occurred about fourteen years ago, and although several attempts were made to recover the treasure, it was not until last month that any success attended the operation. It is said that the loss of the ship was due to the action of a sailor who, hearing a stowaway tapping from the inside of a watertight bulkhead, opened the door and flooded the engine room with water. Most of the gold was the product of the Klondyke mines.

What nation's officers, in the opinion of German officials, are more approachable when it comes to betraying the naval and military secrets of their country? The foregoing query was recently put to a German officer, now a prisoner at Vernon. The reply, given without the slightest hesitation, was "Russia."

New Phone Regulations

A new arrangement has been put into force by the B.C. Telephone company, whereby long distance telephone rates between the hours of seven in the evening and eight in the morning are considerably reduced. It costs ten cents per minute to carry on a conversation with Greenwood, but under the new regulations between the hours above-mentioned, the time is extended to three minutes for the same price.

Another new convenience sure to be appreciated, is a plan that provides for the making of appointments for a night conversation. Mr. A, who lives in Phoenix wishes to talk with Mr. B. in Greenwood, calls up central and fixes the time for ten o'clock. Both of them then make a point of being near their respective phones at the hour mentioned and the conversation is carried on as per schedule; and at one-third the cost of a day call. The new rules are principally confined to B.C. Boundary points.

May Be Used Yet

Turpinité, the new French explosive, was invented in 1913. M. Turpin, the inventor, first offered it to France and then to the English government, but probably on account of its fearful character, both countries turned the offer down. It is a brownish liquid, readily absorbed in cotton, and may be used for charging shells or land mines. Its explosion kills anything within a radius of a kilometer (five-eighths of a mile). Experiments conducted in France have proved beyond a doubt that it possesses all the qualities claimed for it. During one of the experiments, the explosion of a small bomb snuffed out the lives of a herd of cattle.

All the bars throughout the province of Saskatchewan closed their doors for "ever" at midnight on June 30th. At the same hour all out the slightest hesitation, was "Russia."

SATURDAY, JULY 10, 1915.

A British supply ship, bound for Archangel with munitions of war, whether sunk by mine or torpedo, must suggest the same thought. It is that here is a full opportunity for a supreme test of the Von Tirpitz submarine as a weapon of real warfare.

The English are delivering arms and ammunition at Archangel in the hour of the imperative need of the czar's army. Under the waters that course to Archangel is as free to the German submarines as over the waves is to the British merchantmen. If the submarines are really for war, and not merely for murdering defenceless women and children, Von Tirpitz can prove it by cutting off Russia's supplies of war material now sailing into Archangel. That would be men's business at war, and if it succeeded it would come near to putting the czar's hosts out of the battlefield.

So let the submarine give over fighting the transatlantic liners, the ferryboats and the fishing smacks, and go to the test of shutting Archangel off from the supplies of munitions for the Russian armies. Nothing that the submarine has yet done has been of the slightest value to the German cause. But if all arms and ammunition could be shut out of Archangel by the submarines they would have vindicated themselves to a degree as weapons of war, and they would have delivered at Russia a more terrific blow than the armies of the kaiser have dealt them in Galicia.—Washington (D. C.) Times.

Mr. Bryan is evidently in favor of the American authorities forbidding the manufacture and export of ammunition and other war material for the use of the Allies. But what would the States have thought if the British, and German governments had even considered such a thing during the Spanish-American war. The incident of Captain Van Duysen's visit to the British mountain artillery headquarters in 1898 has not quite been forgotten either in England or Canada, and the only battery of such artillery possessed by Uncle Sam in his Cuba operations, proved very useful. This, of course, was only one out of many accommodations, and if the true history of them were more widely known, the thinking people of the republic would give Bryan and his friends a very short shift indeed.

The exploits of the British submarines, E.I., in the Dardanelles and the Sea of Marjora, should do something towards stopping the croaking of German sympathizers as to the superlative merits of the Kaiser's underwater craft. Hitherto our submarines have had to lie idle for want of something to shoot at, but a short time ago, one of them in command of Lieutenant Nasmyth, threaded its way through the mine-strewn waters of the Dardanelles, and accounted for eleven transports in less than half that number of days.

While the eyes of most persons are directed to the operations of the Allies' land forces, the throttling power of the navy is making itself felt. This is to be seen in the recent German order which forbids the further manufacture of fabrics made wholly or in part of cotton.

What! British recruiting offices in the United States! How shocking! But what soldier of the British garrison artillery doesn't know that the American "secret" recruiting office in England used to be, and probably is at present, No. 5, Northumberland terrace, London.

Did you notice the smile that covers the face of everyone when you mention the subject of "Internment of Alien Enemies!"

A Traitor Ex-M.P.

Ignatius Lincoln, ex-member of the English parliament, has confessed that he is a German spy. He is a Hungarian by birth, and adopted the name of Lincoln. Inquiries instituted since his flight to the United States have proved him to be an unscrupulous adventurer. After a theft committed in his native land, he fled to England and applied to a Christian missionary to the Jews to be baptized. In 1900 he visited Canada, and on his return to England in 1903 he was ordained curate of a Kentish village church. The church evidently didn't suit him, so he resigned the curacy and took up the study of political science. In 1909 he became a British subject and was secretary to Mr. Rowtree, M.P. The following year he contested the Darlington constituency in the Liberal interests and defeated the Conservative candidate by 29 votes. At the next election the same year he did not seek a seat.

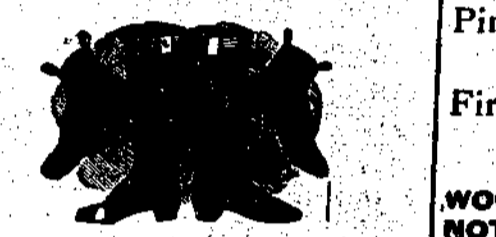

During his first year in London he was given six months' instruction in the Christian religion, but the parson refused to baptize him, so he reciprocated by stealing the minister's wife's jewelry. He bolted for Germany and after a residence in Holstein returned to England and wrote his aggrieved instructor a letter beginning: "Dear brother in Christ." The reply was a note informing him that if he didn't clear out of England in 24 hours he would have to reckon with the police. He disappeared again for a season. Being proficient in many languages he was given a job in the censor's office, his specialty there being the Magyar language, but he was soon discharged when it was found that he had been guilty of writing indecent marginal notes on letters addressed to females. He was frequently short of money, and tapped freely every district he lived in.

According to his own confession he was an agent of the German government, but he admitted that the British secret service officials were suspicious of him and refused point blank to have anything whatever to do with him. They in turn emphatically state that he had been under suspicion from the first. On January 27th he says he got a telegram from the British director of naval intelligence, "Please call and bring your passport." Describing that visit, he said "the director put an innocent question to me. This showed me that the game was up. I expected to be arrested at once. However, I kept up the play, and after a clever tactical conversation I left the room unmolested. Next morning I left London and sailed on the steamer Philadelphia for New York."

The Germans' determination to forcibly secure "a place in the sun," has at last resulted in getting the fatherland into the limelight. However, none of the spectators seem to be enraptured by their performance, unless we except such French and Belgian nuns as were unfortunate enough to fall into their clutches. Even Japan and Hungary are hissing these "bad actors."

Coal mining rights of the Dominion, in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the Yukon Territory, the Northwest Territories and in a portion of the Province of British Columbia, may be leased for a term of twenty-one years at an annual rental of $1 an acre. Not more than 2,500 acres will be leased to one applicant.

Application for a lease must be made by the applicant in person to the Agent or Sub-Agent of the district in which the rights applied for are situated.

In surveyed territory the land must be described by sections, or legal subdivisions of sections, and in unsurveyed territory the tract applied for shall be staked out by the applicant himself.

Each application must be accompanied by a fee of $5 which will be refunded if the rights applied for are not available, but not otherwise. A royalty shall be paid on the merchantable output of the mine at the rate of five cents per ton.

Long to Rain Over Us

"Cincinnati," says the Daily Province of July 2nd, "claims to have the best water supply on the Ohio river.

"That is nothing to boast of," continues our indiscreet booster. "Vancouver has the best water supply in the world."

That's what we suspected brother Province, when we waited in your city during three long weeks, hoping for just one fine day, and then had to leave in our raincoat with the modest desire ungratified.

We know now that our preference for the Great Dry Belt is not mere prejudice, even though it lacks the proud distinction so complacently megaphoned by our contemporary, who reminds us of the small boy who boasted that his grandma had the dropsy.

Ah, yes, Victoria, as you Vancouver people say, is not really quite so swift, neither is it, let us add, in a climatic sense, quite so downright and headlong.

Big orders are expected in B.C. for Douglas pine ties for use on the Indian government railroads.

The Canadian Car and Foundry company have secured an order for 5,000,000 shells for the Russian government.

Births in London are now averaging nearly five hundred a week below the figures for the corresponding weeks of previous years.

A despatch from West Virginia credits the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad company with shipping recently 300,000 pounds of brass to the German government.

Agents of the British government have offered a number of Dunkirk, New York firms, a $35,000,000 contract for a billion rifle cartridges to be delivered in a year.

According to a Finnish scientist, the air around pine trees is purer than around others because their needles disseminate electricity into the atmosphere and ozone it.

The Canadian shell committee has sent out orders to the manufacturers to work their staffs night and day. It does not matter if they exceed the number; all will be purchased.

Seaman Charles Gunn, who recounted his experiences at the Lusitania inquiry, has been in three of the biggest shipwrecks known to history. He was on board of the Titanic, Empress of Ireland and the Lusitania.

Immense herds of fur-bearing seals have been sighted off the west coast of Vancouver Island recently. Captain Baker of the Vancouver halibut schooner, Jessie, reports having sailed through thousands of them. The mammals were quite tame and came nosing around the ship.

Previous to her destruction by a mine, the deck of the battleship Triumph was pierced by a Turkish shell which set fire to the captain's cabin. However, the shell burst all the pipes in an adjoining bathroom and the fire was automatically flooded out.

The suffragettes are doing great work in the recruiting line. One of them recently stopped a young fellow in London and inquired why he was not wearing the khaki uniform. "Have you no pride in your country?" she asked. "Gee! Yes, madam," replied the boy. "I'm leaving for New York next week. I'm an American."

Sir Nathaniel Barnaby, formerly director of naval construction, died this week in London. He was regarded as the father of the modern battleship and when only 26 years of age was overseer of the great Chatham yards. He was also the author of the national hymn, "God Bless Our Motherland," and a Sunday school superintendent for nearly half a century.

According to W. Stewart, of Vancouver, he has seen a number of passenger pigeons at a point two miles from Ladysmith, on Vancouver Island. Mr. Stewart is positive about the matter as he has seen them in thousands when he was a boy living in Ontario. Out of the millions that used to be seen about forty years ago, there is only one known specimen living. The birds mentioned by Mr. Stewart have dark slate-colored backs and the gleaming parti-colored necks is plainly discernable.

By using a biblical reference from the parable of the Prodigal Son, a soldier in a Lancashire regiment, a prisoner in Germany, has let his wife know of the poor food supplied to the prisoners. In the course of an apparently cheerful letter he wrote: "I hope that at Easter you will read my favorite verse, Luke 15, verse 17." Somewhat puzzled, his wife turned up the passage and read: "And when he came to himself he said: How many hired servants of my father have bread enough and to spare, and I perish with hunger?"

Boundary District of British Columbia

RICH IN MINERAL, AGRICULTURAL AND LUMBERING POSSIBILITIES-- A MOST PROMISING FIELD FOR THE INVESTOR.

Probably no district in the Dominion of Canada possesses so great an array of potentialities as the above. The mountains throughout its entire length and breadth, are almost without exception mineraliferous, containing gold, silver, copper, iron and other valuable ores, while in a few localities there are more than surface indications of the presence of coal.

FOREST AND MINERAL WEALTH

Its forest stretches are among the richest in the province, and what is of great importance, easily accessible to river and railway. There is scarcely a square mile of it that is not either equipped with high tension wires, or which could not be reached by the expenditure of the smallest outlay. Not the least attraction from the point of view of the investor, is the sites for water power, which abound in this district.

Just at present an immense amount of interest is being directed to the recent free gold discovery in Greenwood, while in the same district is to be seen one of the best equipped free gold properties in the west, a not inconsiderable asset in these days of industrial depression and shrinkage of gold reserves. It is in this district where is situated the Phoenix and Grand Forks properties of the Granby Consolidated, together with those of the British Columbia Copper company. In the former camp, and surrounding it for miles on all sides, are acres of crown-granted mineral claims, all awaiting the advent of the investor. The title deeds to these properties, thanks to a beneficent series of mining laws, are unimpeachable, and if proof is wanted of the statement, let us point to the almost entire absence of mining litigation in the courts of the province.

AGRICULTURE AND FRUIT-GROWING CENTRE

The possibilities of the Boundary as an agricultural and fruit-growing centre are also worthy of investigation, and a visit to some of its splendidly equipped orchards will prove a revelation to the stranger. The highways throughout the Boundary makes this section of the province the motorists' paradise, millions having been spent on the construction of government roads.

No locality is better served with railroads than the Boundary district. At present this section is served by two of the greatest systems on the continent, the C. P. R. and Great Northern companies, while within a few months the route to the Pacific coast will be commercially curtailed by the opening of the new K. V. V. branch of the former.
