A Youthful Editor's Views.

Master Robert Keffer, son of Frederick Keffer, manager of the Mother Lode mine, is the editor and proprietor of the Anaconda News, the smallest newspaper published in the province. Here is what he says in this week's issue regarding some Phoenix mines recently visited:

"Recently the editor of the News took a trip to Phoenix, to visit the big Knob Hill and Old Ironsides properties.

"The first visit was to the glory holes on top of the hill. These are large quarries, in each of which a number of men are busy shoveling ore into mill-holes that lead to the large tunnel below.

"After this we lost ourselves in the numerous passages and stopes of the Knob Hill tunnel.

"The editor was now too tired to continue explorations into Old Ironsides, and just took their word for it, that it was equally big, and equally rich."

Making His Annual Trip.

S. H. C. Miner, of Granby, Quebec, president of the Granby Consolidated Mining, Smelting and Power Co., Ltd., arrived in Grand Forks this week on his annual trip of inspection to the corporation's mines and smelter. He will probably visit the mines in Phoenix some time next week, spending probably a couple of weeks in the Boundary. Mr. Miner is accompanied by Mrs. Miner and Miss Miner. Jay P. Graves, general manager of the company, is also at Grand Forks.

Net Returns From Winnipeg Ore.

MINE LOOKING BETTER THAN EVER

Recent Work Has Shown Up Excellent Body of Chalcopyrite—Manager Plewman is Doing Good Work.

Possibly no mine in the Boundary has had a greater variety of ups and downs than the Winnipeg, located in Wellington camp, a little over two miles from Phoenix. It is a pleasure to state that at present the prospects of this property becoming one of the large mines of the Boundary are decidedly bright.

The Winnipeg was located in June, 1895, by Duncan McIntosh, who in July, 1897, with the assistance of North Dakota capitalists, organized the Winnipeg Mining and Smelting Co. This company sank to the 300-foot level, and did a large amount of drifting and crosscutting, and considerable ore was encountered. During the year 1900 over a thousand tons of ore was shipped, largely to the Trail smelter.

But the freight and treatment rate was high, the Boundary smelters not yet having begun the treatment of ore. Added to this, it was found that ore had not been found of a quality that it would pay to extract and ship for any length of time. Funds ran out, and the mine drifted into difficulties, as all the treasury stock had been sold. Accordingly the property was closed.

Richard Plewman Steps In.

About this time Duncan McIntosh sold out his interests, and Richard Plewman, of Rossland, obtained control. The company was reorganized on an assessable basis as the Winnipeg Mines, Ltd., and Nick Tregear, whose fame rested in the fact of his having been employed in the Le Roi mine, was secured as superintendent. Mr. Plewman was undertaking the large task of rescuing a property that had been mismanaged, and which many thought of little value. It was a big undertaking, but he proposed to find out if the Winnipeg really had any marketable ore.

Mr. Tregear started a winze at the 300-foot level, and had a theory that he could find the ore body. He was allowed to use his judgment for several months, but a few months ago he resigned and left the country. The expensive work which he was doing was then abandoned, it having been found to be practically a failure.

At this point Mr. Plewman decided to not only be the manager, but to give the working of the Winnipeg a more close personal supervision. To this end he now makes a trip to the property from Rossland nearly every week and looks after all the details as far as possible.

Finding More Ore.

The results of the work since Mr. Plewman began looking after the work, with Simon Jacobs as foreman, have been much more encouraging, and as a consequence the mine is already assuming a better aspect in the eyes of the investing public, and an increase in the market price of the stock is noted.

Work that has been done at the 300-foot level of late has been more than encouraging. Several important veins of have been exploited by drifting, crosscutting and sinking, and at least one of these has been proven to be from 50 to 60 feet in width, with good gold values. Shipments from the new ore bodies were resumed about a month ago, and several cars of ore have been sent out each week to the Granby smelter. This ore varies considerably in value, but it is reported that one car gave net returns of $34 per ton. Others probably did not run as high, but still were encouraging to the directors.

While it has not yet been determined that the mine is on a paying basis, the outlook, in view of the recent results, is much brighter than it has been for many months. Mr. Plewman certainly deserves credit for the tenacity with which he has continued development, and no one will begrudge him the success which he is now nearer attaining than ever before. In a short time the stock has gone up from 4 cents to 8 or 9 cents per share—an indication of itself of what buyers think of the prospects of the mine.

Working on Railway Ledge.

Several cars of ore from the railway ledge were sent out several months ago, and lately the work of exploiting this vein has been resumed. A pipe line was laid from the compressor and a small hoist installed where a shaft is being sunk. The ore body is widening, and appearances indicate that this will make a big addition to the ore reserves of the property. It was from this ledge, opened up by the railway graders two years ago, in building the Winnipeg spur, that the best ore yet found in this mine was shipped.

BRIEF BUT IMPORTANT.

Over 100 miners were killed in a coal mine accident last Sunday at Spring Gulch, Colo.

A trainload of men from Joplin, Mo., were landed last Sunday at the Northport smelter.

It is said that J. J. Hill is planning to buy up a control of the lumber of interests of British Columbia.

Robert H. Hamilton, foreman of the Arlington mine, near Erie, B. C., was killed last Monday by a rock falling on him.

The Duke and Duchess of York and Cornwall were royally welcomed on their arrival at Quebec last Monday. Their itinerary includes a trip across the continent and return, with several stops.

J. H. Magnier, arrested at Vancouver, charged with absconding from Waneta with funds belonging to the Second Relief mine at Erie, was committed for trial at Nelson Wednesday, and will come before Judge Forin on Monday next to elect as to how he will be tried.

The North Star Mining Co., Ltd., operating the North Star mine in East Kootenay, has declared another dividend of three cents per share, which was payable on Monday last, on its issued shares, numbering 1,300,000. The dividend is equal to $39,000 and makes a total of $117,000 paid this year by the company, and makes the total dividends aggregate $237,000.

This Geiser Was Fined $550.

Last Tuesday at Rossland judgment was given in the action against Albert Geiser, of Baker City, Oregon, for an infringment of the alien labor act, in bringing several men into Rossland from Oregon under contract to work in the mines. Defendant was convicted on two charges and fined $500 $50 respectively. An appeal to the supreme court was immediately taken. The decision in the cases does not affect the Le Roi Mining Co. nor does it interfere with men applying for work on the company's grounds.

Offering Reward of $250.

Government Agent McMynn, of Greenwood, is offering a reward of $250 for evidence that will convict the robbers, or any of them, who on the night of the 3rd instant robbed Fred Kaiser and other persons in the Commercial hotel, Eholt, of money and jewelry valued at about $2000. So far as is known, the police have not succeeded in finding any clue to the robbers.

Brought Back a Bride.

W. B. Cochrane surprised his Phoenix friends Monday by coming in from Rossland with Mrs. Cochrane, formerly Miss Leona Buchholz. The couple were married last spring in Spokane, but nothing was known of it here. Mrs. Cochrane has in the meantime been visiting in the east, being met at Spokane on her return by Mr. Cochrane. The couple have gone to housekeeping on Brooklyn avenue.

Several preliminary ties in the Phoenix Lawn Tennis club tournament for the Henderson trophy were played this week.

AT THE MINES

What is Going on in the Boundary.

NO DIMINUTION IN THE SHIPMENTS

New Buildings Going Up, Development Steadily Being Prosecuted, and Real Progress is Generally Evident.

The new Brooklyn shaft house is about completed.

Ore is being received at the Greenwood smelter from the Carmi, up the West Fork of Kettle river.

During the last week the Granby smelter has treated 4,785 tons of ore, making a total of 220,405 tons to date.

An option for $20,000 has been given to eastern parties on the Blue Jay, Clipper and Granite claims in Skylark camp.

Two small lots of gold, the result of a five-days' run, were recently recovered from the Rock Creek Placer Co.'s workings.

The King Solomon, Copper camp, is shipping regularly to the Greenwood smelter, and not to to the Granby as previously stated.

It is reported that the London and B. C. Goldfields, Ltd., have decided to do some more development work on their Norfolk claim, Central camp.

When the V., V. and E. reaches Phoenix one of the first things done will be to ship several thousand tons of ore from the Brooklyn and Stemwinder dumps.

Owing to the delay in receiving the two new furnaces at the Granby smelter, it is now not probable that the capacity will be doubled for at least two or three months.

The Montreal and Boston Copper company has ordered from Cunningham & Andersen, of Greenwood, an electric light plant of 150-light capacity for the Summit mine.

The new shaft for the Granby mines, which is eventually to be made the main working shaft, and to be five compartments in width, is now down 65 or 70 feet.

Messrs. Price & Co., of Quebec, have foreclosed on the property of the Standard smelter, at Boundary Falls, and also several associated mining companies, for monies advanced.

It is reported that Colonel N. E. Linsley, of Spokane, has been engaged by the Granby smelter to report on the north fork coal fields, recently bonded by the smelter company, and has left for the coal fields.

W. J. Porter and wife left for an eastern trip on Monday's train. They will visit Brandon, Man., where a meeting of the Golden Crown Mines, Ltd., was to be held yesterday. They will also stop briefly at points in North Dakota before returning.

Plans are now out for the new buildings for the Snowshoe mine, including residence, office, boarding house and bunk house. The contract for the foreman's residence and office building was awarded yesterday to Thomas Corner. The others will be awarded next Tuesday.

Meeting of the Press Men.

Thos. McNaught, manager of Halcyon Hot Springs, who is arranging for the meeting of the newspaper men of Eastern British Columbia at that place next Monday week, has sent out a circular letter in regard to the proposed objects of the meeting. After organization, election of officers, etc., the following subjects are proposed for discussion:

1. The importance of the local columns in a country newspaper.

2. How much editorial is needed in a country weekly?

3. Can country weeklies put their subscription lists on a cash-in-advance basis?

4. Job work. How to figure. The necessity for a uniform job printers' price list.

5. What is the cheapest and best power for the country office?

Will Open Dancing School.

H. Aronson, of Vancouver, has made arrangements to start a dancing school in Phoenix, in connection with which regular socials will be held. The hall will be specially arranged, and Prof. Kauffmann will furnish the music in Phoenix, Grand Forks and Greenwood, in all of which regular lessons will be given in dancing once a week. Further particulars will be given later, the classes to open in October.

Next week McRae Bros. & Smith will move into the new building which they have just completed on Knob Hill avenue. They will carry a larger stock than ever, having an order placed for an unusually fine assortment of holiday goods.

Memorial services for the late President McKinley were held at Greenwood Thursday evening, the Auditorium being packed.

FIRST VACATION IN FOUR YEARS.

J. F. Hemenway, Agent of the Granby Co., Returned Thursday.

One vacation in four years is little enough for any man, but that is substantially all that J. F. Hemenway, agent in Phoenix for the Granby Co., has had. Mr. Hemenway returned Thursday night after being absent exactly a month, and reports having had an enjoyable time. He went first to Chicago direct, where his mother lives, and after spending several days there and attending to some personal business, he made a trip to Portland, Oregon, and also visited the oil fields at or near Eugene in that web-foot state. In all his wanderings he asserts that the city of Portland looked the best of any to him, and in any event he would not care to live in the east, after his long residence in the west.

Mr. Hemenway visited the Inter-State fair, in Spokane, which was in full swing during his short stop in the inland metropolis, but although the city was crowded with visitors from all over this section, it was thought that the fair would hardly be a financial success. It is, however, bigger and better than ever, and is attracting a great deal of favorable attention. Wherever he went he heard many inquiries in regard to British Columbia. He expected to meet Wm. Volen Williams in Chicago, but they failed to connect. Mr. Hemenway says he was glad to get back to Phoenix.

THROUGH THE WEEK

Happenings and Events That Interest Phoenicians.

Last Thursday James H. Kennedy, chief engineer of the V., V. & E. railway, which is building from Cascade to Grand Forks, and has the Phoenix branch surveyed and permanently located, drove up to Phoenix from Grand Forks to consult with Mr. McCarty, in charge of the local force of engineers. When asked by a Pioneer man yesterday, if there was any truth in the reports that the work on the Phoenix branch would commence soon, Mr. Kennedy stated that he was expecting to go ahead shortly, and get the sub-contracts let, but as yet there was nothing definite about it, although he was confident that something would be done soon. He said the newspaper correspondents seemed to know more about the matter than he did.

***

There seems to be no doubt that the company does expect to begin the Phoenix branch this fall, though it is generally conceded that they will have to commence soon if anything is to be accomplished this season. The permission from the government to cross crown lands, is, it is understood, not yet granted, owing to the obstructive tactics of Joseph Martin and the Dunsmuir government. Nevertheless, the railway people are keeping a force of 14 men here in the engineers' camp in Phoenix, with the evident expectation of being ordered to cross section at almost any time. In the meantime field notes are being checked up and finished and such office work done as is needed. The location lines are complete, and Mr. Kennedy says that a good deal of the work hereabouts being heavy rock work, it can be done in the winter time.

***

Mr. Kennedy also states that the work near Grand Forks is proceeding slowly on account of the scarcity of labor, but now that the harvest in the Palouse wheat fields is nearly over, it is anticipated that the men will be coming in more freely from this time on.

***

For the purpose of operating the water and light systems of Phoenix, Messrs. Graves, Flumerfelt and Williams, through their solicitors, are now forming two companies, each with a capital of $35,000, which will soon be incorporated under the Companies' Act. The water system is now being installed, but it is understood that the new owners will not assume active control of the electric light system till they can secure power from Cascade. Work on this is now in active progress, and Wm. Anderson, the supervising engineer, was quoted this week as saying that the company would be ready to deliver power in the Boundary by the 1st of January. The poles along the line of the right of way are now being set, and it really appears as though this Cascade concern actually meant business at last.

Winchester Brown Beaten.

At New Westminister Thursday J. C. Brown, the recently appointed provincial secretary, was beaten at the polls by Gifford, who opposed him. The total vote was 1,109, of which Gifford secured 563, Brown 511, and spoiled 35. This gives Mr. Gifford a majority of 52. The election is reported to have been a warm one, Brown being supported by the leading Liberals and Aulay Morrison, M. P. It was believed that this was the strongest seat that the government had in the province, and the result is a surprise to the government supporters.

THIRD MARTYRED PRESIDENT.

For the third time a president of the United States has been shot down in cold blood, William McKinley, 24th chief ruler of the American republic, having succumbed to the assassin's blow last Saturday morning after a week of pain. Abraham Lincoln was the first of the American rulers to be taken off in this way, at the close of the civil war, in 1865, and James A. Garfield was also shot and killed in the year 1880.

When Mr. McKinley was shot down by a man with whom he was about to shake hands, a week before he passed over the great divide, the heart of almost the entire world was deeply touched, showing the wide respect and popularity of the man, apart from his being the president. The assassin, Leon Czolgosz, gave no reason for the dastardly deed, except that he was an anarchist. He took off one of the best citizens the United States ever had. Little wonder is it that when the news of the president's death was made known in the city of Buffalo, where the crime was committed, thousands and thousands assembled in front of the jail where Czolgosz was confined, intent only on getting at a man who would make away with such a ruler. The law should be upheld, yet many there are who believe that the electric chair or the hangman's noose is too humane treatment for such a monster in human disguise.

Mr. McKinley was indeed a man among men, and for twenty years before he was elevated to the highest office in the gift of the American people, those who knew him best predicted the greatest honors for him that his nation could bestow. Even his political enemies allow that he conducted himself for the greatest good to the greatest number in his public life.

The death of good Queen Victoria touched every nation on the globe. Her passing away was not unexpected, she having lived the allotted number of years. But the sudden and violent death of a man who was the idol of a majority of the American people makes one wonder whether it is safe for a man to hold any office so high. Mr. McKinley, in his wish to get close to the people, rather deprecated the precautions for his personal safety, but the sequel shows that the efforts after all did not go far enough.

A world is in mourning today for the martyred president of the greatest of republics, but there is reason to believe that his death will not have been in vain. If the anarchists are not hunted down and out of every civilized country on this footstool, the temper of nations and peoples generally is much misunderstood.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

With the far reaching steel strike at an end, it is to be hoped that strikes in the far west will also be settled at an early date.

Ex-President Steyn barely escaped capture recently by British soldiers, and got away only by riding in his night shirt. It was almost an escape by the skin of his teeth.

Last week's issue of the Greenwood Times was unique in being the only paper in the province that did not have some reference to the late President McKinley. Possibly the assistant editor was too busy in carrying out his ideas of finical criticalness to refer to the great American calamity.

W. J. Bryan, twice defeated in the race for presidency of the United States, wisely considers his case hopeless, and will not make another attempt. Some people know when they have enough.

Once upon a time the Vancouver Province worshipped Joe Martin, but for a year two it has bitterly opposed him. That paper now predicts the early fall of the so-called Dunsmuir-Martin government.

Within the last two weeks tons of catalogues of eastern department stores have been dumped into the cities and towns of British Columbia. Patronizing institutions of the Timothy Eaton stamp does not assist in building up the industries of this province.

When the Pioneer tells the truth about the mines tributary to Phoenix, it is accused of "boosting" by the Greenwood Times. Well, it's all a matter of taste. The Pioneer realizes that the facts about our ore bodies are sometimes difficult to take in, but they are facts, as presented in these columns, just the same.

When the Republic and Grand Forks railway was undertaken it was dubbed the "hot air" line, because its local promoters had so much trouble in getting at actual construction. The people of both places are now jubilant because the hot air line has more men at work than the Jim Hill line, is paying better wages, and promises to be completed this coming winter.

Silverton, on Slocan lake, has had a weekly, the Silvertonian, for over four years. Last Saurday's issue, Matheson Bros., the proprietors, announce as the last, and in their valedictory give lack of patronage as the cause of suspension. And yet there are persons who labor under the delusion that a publisher's lot is one of continual sunshine and roses.

All through the Boundary mining interests are looking up to no small degree. We have passed the so called boom period and the experimental stage, and are now on a solid footing, with a number of properties steadly producing ore of a marketable value. The man whose chief ambition was to mine the public has had his day also. To put it briefly, brighter times are ahead—and not so far ahead, either.

Vice-President Roosevelt, now elevated to the presidential chair by the untimely death of William McKinley, got his widest fame perhaps as the leader of the Rough Riders during the Spanish-American war. If he will use the same tactics in riding rough shod over the rank and file of the anarchists who make their homes in the United States, he will have once more earned the hearty thanks of the American people.

T. G. Holt, of Vancouver, a shareholder in the Winnipeg mine, was a visitor to that property last week, and was pleased with the present outlook of the company.

Carrie Nation is again on deck and remarks with a grand flourish of her little hatchet that she is going to Ottawa and will fight the devil there until there is not a drop of the cursed stuff left in Canada.

F. G. Fauquier, government agent at Revelstoke, has been committed for trial on the charge of embezzlement. A requisition is being largely signed in that city requesting the government to extend leniency to Mr. Fauquier on the ground that restitution will be made of all misappropriated funds, and also for domestic reasons.

That the tendency to amalgamation now-adays has been extended to journalistic circles as well as commercial, is shown by the recent purchase of the Canadian Home Journal by Mr. Hugh C. MacLean, publisher of the Ladies' Magazine, Toronto. The Journal, which was established many years ago, will be discontinued as a distinct publication, and will be merged into the Ladies' Magazine, which has already won a place for itself as the popular home paper for Canadian women.

STRICTLY BUSINESS.

Ads that cost nothing are worth it.

Even a good impression won't last forever. The advertiser must keep on making good impressions.

Try your advertisement on yourself. Consider whether or not it would appeal to you, were you a buyer.

Some advertising is not so bad as it seems to be. Sometimes the worst appearing ad will bring good business.

It is never possible to read a good advertisement in any other way than the one in which the writer intended it to be read.

Truthful announcements and exact fulfilment of printed promises are principals that cannot be left out of successful advertising.

If you have anything to say, say it. Don't try to lead up to what you wish to say in your advertisement. This is not the place for beating about the bush. Speak your little piece and then sit down.

There must be some reasons why some people should trade with you in preference to other concerns in your line. Dig up these reasons. Put them in print. Place them before the customers you ought to have. Do it right and you're going to get the trade.

Newspaper Men to Meet.

Monday, September 30th, has been selected as the date of meeting of the newspaper men of the interior, for the purpose of forming an association. The meeting will take place at Halcyon Hot Springs, and the representatives who attend are expected to arrive at the Springs the Saturday preceding, leaving there on the following Tuesday.

A Smart Manager.

By inserting catchy advertisements in the newspapers a manager of the Standard Oil Co. in Minnesota has induced thousands of people to buy oil stoves for summer cooking and become regular customers of the oil company. The profits on the increased sales of kerosene in the state the first year were many times cost of the advertisements. There is no business (except burglary) which cannot be increased by newspaper advertising.

TRACKMEN'S AGREEMENT.

Provisions of Recent Arrangement Made With the Canadian Pacific Railway.

The terms of settlement between the Canadian Pacific Railway Co. and the trackmen are given out as follows.

All hands to be reinstated in former positions and dwellings within two weeks, without prejudice, with a proviso that any employees guilty of acts of violence or actions against the interests of the company are to be considered discharged.

In case of alleged injustice to any member of the trackmen's organization the right to demand investigation is acceded, and should it be proven that a member has been unjustly treated and time has been lost to him thereby, recovery of pay for lost time is open to him.

Promotion is provided for according to seniority and merit.

Conditions are also made that men shall have:

Transportation, twice a month, to foremen and subordinates to visit market. Half freight rate for supplies at all seasons of the year.

Transportation to any part of the line granted to foremen, once a year, and to subordinate trackmen, like privileges over the respective divisions on which they are employed.

Increase of pay is provided for, amounting to $125,000, over the entire system. On the mountain sections this increase means an advance from $1.25 to $1.35 per day for subordinate trackmen, and $1.40 for first and second hands.

The company agrees to recognize the union, which is authorized to present a schedule of wages, as is done by other unions, for the consideration of the company, the schedule to be submitted direct to the general manager at Montreal.

Under this arrangement, the first schedule will be submitted in March next.

Cannot Agree With It.

Referring to the Mine Managers' memorial, the British Columbia Mining record says:

"We are not by any means in agreement with the conclusions of the memorial, and still less so with the policy of distributing such a document broadcast. It is much easier to give a dog a bad name than to prove that the animal does not deserve it. We regret exceedingly that a representative body like the Mine Owners Association should have weakened its case in reference to questions where criticisms was just, by such extravagance of statement and method of publication as have characterized the memorial."

STORY OF LIFE

Of Late Martyred President McKinley.

FROM THE RANKS TO PRESIDENT

With Indomitable Energy and Perseverance He Hewed His Way to the Highest Gift of the American People.

William McKinley, 24th president of the United States, was born in Niles, Trumbull county, Ohio, January 29, 1843. On his father's side his ancestry was Scotch-Irish. His mother's family was Puritan.

William received his first education in the public schools at Niles. When he was nine years old his family removed to Poland, Ohio, where he was admitted into the Union seminary and pursued his studies until he was 17. In 1860 he entered the junior class of Allegheny college, Meadville, Pa., here he would have been graduated in the following year but for the failure of his health, owing to which, as soon as he was able, he sought a change by engaging as a teacher in the public school. He was fond of athletic sports and was a good sportsman.

At the age of 16 he became a member of the Methodist Episcopal church. When the war broke out in the spring of 1861 McKinley volunteered and going with the recruits to Columbus, was there enlisted as a private in the 23rd Ohio volunteer infantry. This regiment was one of the most famous of Ohio organizations, including an unusually large number of noted men, among them General Rosecrans and President Hayes.

In 1863 he was promoted to first lieutenant, and conducted himself with gallantry in every emergency, winning honors especially at Winchester.

In 1864, at the age of 21, McKinley was promoted to the rank of captain. He was assigned as acting assistant adjutant general on the staff of General Carroll, commanding the veteran reserve corps at Washington, where he remained through that exciting period which included the surrender of Lee to Grant and the assassination of President Lincoln. Just a month before this tragedy he had received from the president a commission as major by brevet in the volunteer United States army.

After the war he began the study of law at Youngstown, Ohio, and completed his course at the law school in Albany, N. Y. In 1867 he was admitted to the bar at Warren, Ohio. He settled in Canton, Ohio, where his sister was a teacher in a public school. In 1869 he was nominated by the republicans for prosecuting attorney for the county, and was elected, although the county had been democratic. In 1871 he failed of re-election by 45 votes. He resumed his private practice, but continued his interest in politics, and his services as a speaker were eagerly sought by the republicans. In 1876 he was nominated for congress and was elected by 3,300 majority.

In the 47th congress McKinley made himself famous by the advocacy of a high protective tariff. In 1882 Ohio went strongly democratic, and McKinley was re-elected to congress by the narrow margin of eight votes. McKinley continued his support of the policy of protection, opposing with great vigor what was known as the Morrison tariff bill. On April 16, 1890, he introduced the general tariff measure which has since borne his name. His speech in support of this bill fully sustained his reputation as an orator.

At the Republican national convention in 1884 McKinley was an avowed supporter of Mr. Blaine. He took an active interest in the presidential campaign of that year, accompanying Mr. Blaine on his tour through the middle west. McKinley was re-elected to congress in 1884 by 2,000 majority, and in 1886 by a majority of 2,550. He strongly opposed the tariff bill introduced by Mr. Mills, and was the chief figure on the republican side, in a series of remarkable debates. It may be classed as the opportunity of Mr. McKinley's life, and was splendidly improved. On April 2, 1888, he presented to the house the views of the minority of the ways and means committee on the Mills bill. On May 18, the day the general debate was to close, he delivered what was described at the time as "the most effective and eloquent tariff speech ever heard in congress." The scenes attending its delivery were full of dramatic interest. The press of the country gave the speech extraordinary attention. Republican committees scattered millions of copies of it, and every where became a text book of the campaign.

In the Ohio Republican state convention of 1891 he was nominated for governor by acclamation. He conducted a wonderful canvas, and was elected governor by a majority of 21,500. In 1893, at the Republican convention at Ohio, he was unanimously renominated for governor, and was re-elected by an overwhelming plurality.

On the expiration of his term as governor, McKinley returned to his old home at Canton. Already throughout the country had begun a movement in his favor that proved almost irresistible in every Republican state convention, State after state, and district after district, declared for him until, when the national convention assembled, he was the choice of more than two-thirds of the delegates. In the Republican national convention held in St. Louis in June, 1896, he was nominated on the first ballot, receiving 666½ out of 922 votes, and in the ensuing election he received a popular vote of 7,104,799, a plurality of 601,854 over William J. Bryan. In the electoral college McKinley received 271 votes, against 176 for Bryan. The prominent issues in the canvass were the free coinage of silver and the restoration of the protective tariff system.

On March 4, 1897, McKinley took the oath of office at Washington. For members of his cabinet he named the following: Secretary of state, John Sherman, of Ohio; secretary of the treasury, Lyman J. Gage, of Illinois; secretary of war, Russell A. Alger, of Michigan; secretary of the navy, John D. Long, of Massachusetts; secretary of the interior, Cornelius N. Bliss, of New York; attorney general, Joseph McKenna, of California; postmaster general, James A. Gary, of New Jersey; secretary of agriculture, James Wilson, of Iowa.

In 1900 McKinley was unanimously renominated by the Republicans, and was re-elected over William J. Bryan by a vote of 7,208,924 to 6,358,789. The electoral college stood 292 for McKinley and 155 for Bryan.

Mr. McKinley married on January 25, 1871, Miss Ida Saxton, of Canton. Two daughters were born to them, but both were lost in early childhood. Mrs. McKinley's health, not robust at any time, never has rallied from these two deaths in quick succession.

PREPARING FOR MORE DEVELOPMENT.

Resume of Recent Mining Deals in British Columbia.

H. Mortimer Lamb, editor of the British Columbia Mining Record, has the following in a recent issue of the Colonist:

As I remarked last week, conditions in British Columbia are not nearly so bad as some people would make out. During the past week three more important deals were recorded, and what is significant, is that these and all recent investments have been made in districts outside what may for the sake of convenience be described as the "boom" area, in which I include Trail creek, Toad mountain and the Slocan proper. New localities are to be given a chance, and as the new localities are at any rate as rich in promise as were the old, developments in the course of the next year or so will be well worth watching. The favorite fields for investment at present appear to be certain localities in the Tulameen, of which Fish creek camp is attracting the most attention; sections of East Kootenay; the dry-ore belt in the vicinity of Slocan lake; the Similkameen and the copper mining districts of the coast.

There is intelligence of a cheering nature from each of these centers this week. At Fish creek, another property, the Beatrice, was bonded for $50,000, but this was eclipsed by a transaction in East Kootenay in which $120,000 was involved, and another in the Similkameen when the consideration was $100,000, while Mr. J. M. Kendall has just completed an examination of the Goldsmith group at Howe sound, for which negotiations are now in progress, the valuation of the property being placed by the vendors at no less than $350,000. Without considering the last mentioned deal, which, of course, is only "in the air" at present, the transactions in mining property of late clearly indicate that (1st) capital has not ceased to flow into the country, and (2nd) that a class of property which a few years ago capital would not have considered at all is becoming marketable. I refer to low-grade copper prospects, and iron occurrences.

It is certainly a sign of the times that only a week after a Montreal syndicate had completed the purchase of the iron areas near Kitchner, similar occurrences at Bull river, the existence of which had long been known and allowed to remain undeveloped, should have been also acquired by capital. With the development of coal and iron resources in East Kootenay, of immense copper deposits in Boundary creek, the Similkameen and coast, the foundation is being laid for a mining boom and an industrial progress in British Columbia heretofore unprecedented in Western America, the pessimists, which is another name for disappointed "grabbers" to the contrary, notwithstanding.

Granby Co. Bond Coal Claims.

The Granby smelter has taken a working bond on the recently discovered bituminous coal fields on the west fork of the North Fork of the Kettle river, 65 miles north of Grand Forks. The operation includes fifteen locations comprising 10,600 acres. A party of men were dispatched from Grand Forks last week for the purpose of beginning development work. A trail will also be extended to the coal fields from a point where the wagon road ends. The bond covers a period of 12 months. Analysis of the coal shows it to contain over 70 per cent fixed carbon, and equally as good as the Crow's Nest coal for coking and domestic purposes. In the recent negotiations G. A. Fraser of Grand Forks, represented the various locators and H. N. Galer, the smelter company.

Robinson Pearson, Fernie, B. C.
