

The largest copper mines in the Dominion are situated at Phoenix. The Granby Co. employs 600 men, and has a monthly pay roll of over $50,000, while the Rawhide pay roll is $18,000.

FIFTEENTH YEAR

PHOENIX, B.C., SATURDAY, SEPT. 20, 1913

NUMBER 10

Copper Situation

Commenting on the copper situation in the recent issue of the Boston Commercial, G. W. Walker says that "after advancing to 16 1/2 cents for electrolytic and 17 cents for lake early this week, at which prices considerable sales were made, the copper market has become dull again and at the moment very little business is being done. Prices, however, have held the advance, except that there has been a slight decline in the speculative metal market in London. Consumers as a rule have covered their current requirements, but a few of them are still short. The producing interests are endeavoring to prevent a run-away market, fearing the possibility that it might be succeeded early next year by such a slowing up of business as would cause a sharp reaction if the price of the metal were too high at the time of its occurrence. Copper is high enough now to suit the most exacting producers, but unfortunately it will be impossible to turn out as much metal as the trade will require if consumption continues to increase during the coming year as rapidly as it has in the recent past.

The theory is entertained by some that after the Lake mines have resumed operations there will be a surplus of copper and that the price will immediately decline is very much in error, therefore. Insufficient copper is being produced to supply what the trade would consume on a 14 or 15 cent market, and this will continue to be the condition for many years to come, unless there should be a severe business reaction either in this country or in Europe.

The British government has recently purchased the new super-dreadnought that was being built in Great Britain to the order of the Chilean government. The price paid was $4,749,500. The ship is to be named the Triumph.

New Air Hose Coupling Device

Officials of the Great Northern Railway company, together with representatives of the American Railroad association and the Canadian Board of Railway commissioners, visited Phoenix on Friday of last week in the course of their investigation of a device for the automatic coupling of air and steam hose between the cars of both passenger and freight trains. The apparatus is the invention of J. V. Robinson, a mechanical engineer of Washington, D.C., and if adopted will eliminate the danger hitherto incident to the making up and uncoupling of the air and steam hose on trains. The Phoenix branch was especially chosen for the scene of the experiments, as affording the severest possible test of its efficiency, the curvature of the rails being unusually sharp while the grade is abnormally steep. A number of very severe tests have previously been carried out in the east, all of which were in the highest degree satisfactory, and it was at the suggestion of the Interstate Commerce commission that the conclusive tests were made on the Phoenix-Grand Forks branch.

While no official statement has up to the present been made by the official investigators, Mr. Robinson who is here in person, feels quite confident that his device has successfully emerged from all the tests it has been subjected to in the Boundary. Further experiments are to be conducted in Canada by the C.P.R. company at the request of the Railway Commission.

Arms and Ammunition

Speculation is rife in London as to the reason why the various South American republics are ordering for early delivery, from well-known English firms, enormous supplies of arms and ammunition. Within the last few weeks half a million rifles, together with five million rounds of cartridges have been ordered.

The Grand Forks Fair

It has become quite the habit for citizens and those interested in the future and present welfare of a municipality, to laud to the seventh heaven the many advantages their city or district has to offer to the investor and prospective settler, and while many of our budding centres of industry have generally some bona fide inducement to hold out, either as a home or as a place for profitable investment, it must be confessed that there are not a few, who, when their much-vaunted claims are placed in the balance, will be found to be very sadly wanting. Our neighboring sister city of Grand Forks, will most certainly not be found among the latter category, and as a tangible proof of her boast she is shortly to hold her annual Fall fair, where the prospective home-seeker and investor will be enabled to investigate at first-hand the nature and truth of the claims she has published broadcast throughout the province. The visitor from outside will find that our sister burg in the Kettle valley has something of infinitely more importance than her exquisite charms to offer. They are not for sale. Her scenery and splendid climate are the common property of all, be they rich or poor. But around her are to be found some of the finest fruit-growing locations in British Columbia. There are also her vast forests, and what perhaps will be more permanent still—her mineral wealth. True, the latter is at present in an embryo stage, but so were all great mining centres at one stage of their development. The entire valley is more or less mineralized. It has the timber. It has the water and electric power in abundance, and not the least important of all from a mining point of view, ample railroad transportation. We are pleased to learn that in addition to the agricultural and horticultural exhibits, the management of the fair have arranged for a comprehensive mineral exhibit, embracing specimens from all the principal prospects for miles around. The fair opens on Thursday, September 25th, and closes on the 26th.

Eagles To Give a Ball

The local lodge of the Fraternal Order of Eagles have decided to make of their annual ball, a general invitation night to the public of Phoenix, and it goes without saying that numerous acceptances of this invitation will be the result on Monday evening next, in the ballroom of the Miners' Union hall. No individual invitations will be sent out, but the members of the above lodge extend a very hearty invitation to all their Phoenix friends to be their guests on that evening. The music for the occasion will be furnished by the ever popular Ironsides orchestra.

Mr. Balfour has charged the government with a scheme to keep in power until the Home Rule bill becomes law, and then dissolve Parliament before the measure becomes operative.

McKay-Dawson

The nuptials of Harry McKay, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. McKay, and Miss Cora Dawson, daughter of Mrs. M. Dawson, were quietly solemnized on Tuesday, September 16th, at the residence of the bride's sister on Dominion avenue. The Rev. J. R. Munro tied the nuptial knot in the presence of the near relatives of the contracting parties. The bride, who was attended by her sister, Mrs. Wm. Hower, was given away by her brother-in-law, Wm. Hower, and after the wedding supper the newly-married couple left by auto for Greenwood, where they entrained this morning for a trip to Spokane and coast points.

Hunting Around Phoenix

Police Constable Stanfield has had a slight attack of writer's cramp, making out hunting licenses for local nimrods, who, last week invaded the woods in search of the toothsome grouse. But with the exception of the fine exercise it afforded them, the aggregate bag for Phoenix did not exceed fifty birds. Deer hunting has not as yet started in earnest, the knowing ones evidently waiting for the first flurry of snow, but for all that a couple of fine bucks were brought down by Tod Boyce and Percy Pierce, quite close to town. A few encounters with bears are also reported, but up to the time of going to press, the only one shot was on Monday evening, when Chas. Scholander came across a couple of them on a garbage heap on the Eholt road. Bears are reported very plentiful all over the Grand Forks district this year, and within the last ten days they have been sighted at the Lucky Shot mine, Marshall lake, both ends of the Eholt road and in the bush to the south-west of the town. The one seen at this latter locality was a fine, big black specimen. It was located under somewhat exciting circumstances by the employee of a local dairy ranch who was in the woods rounding up stray cattle. His attention was attracted to a sound in the thick bush, and thinking it was a young heifer strolling around without a bell, he quickly dismounted, tied his horse to a convenient tree and rushed into the bush after it. But, alas, instead of a sleek-eyed "bossie," he found himself within fifteen feet of 350 lbs. of live bear meat, reared up and waiting for him in the most approved boxing attitude. From all accounts the surprise was a very one-sided affair, so without waiting to discuss such details as the gate receipts or the choice of a referee, the disgusted ranch hand made tracks for his trusty steed and reached home in what is considered somewhat under the average time for mountain travel in these parts.

The sheriff has seized two of Jack Johnson's automobiles for a debt of $7500.

Overcome By Powder Gas

Geo. Polence, a chuteman, met with a bad accident in the Granby mine early on Tuesday morning, and is undergoing surgical treatment at the General hospital for the injuries he has sustained. The injured man, together with his partner, were overcome with powder fumes, and Polence, it is said, fell unconscious on the car track and was run into by the motor. P. W. Wilkins, in the absence of Dr. Ritchie, who was engaged on another case, was quickly on the spot, and rendered very efficient aid to the unconscious men. Polence's injuries are regarded as serious, consisting of scalp wounds and a fractured skull. An operation for the latter will probably take place today, Saturday. His companion was only detained in the institution for a couple of days.

Offer Made For Carney Copper

Word has reached town during the week to the effect that a syndicate of eastern capitalists have made an offer for the Carney Copper company's group of claims at Mullan, Idaho. Large blocks of the stock are held by local people, whose purchase prices range from 1 1/2 to as high as 15 cents, exclusive of assessments. The offer, which it is thought has some chance of being accepted, is at the rate of 3 1/2 cents per share. J. L. Martin, formerly secretary of the Phoenix Water and Light company, is the president of the company.

Diamonds are reported to be about to take a slump in price.

Laid to Rest

The interment of all that was mortal of little Gladys Wulfruna May Pope, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Pope, formerly of Phoenix, took place at Merritt, in the Nicola valley, on Thursday of last week. The committal ceremony was preceded by a funeral service in the Anglican church, the vicar, Rev. J. Thompson, officiating and preaching from a text in the 23rd chap. of St. Luke. The edifice was filled with a sorrowing gathering, including representatives of the local Masonic and Knights of Pythias fraternities, with a number of members of the Merritt Temple of Pythian Sisters. The white casket was almost hidden from view by a profusion of beautiful wreaths and other floral tributes sent by sympathetic friends and residents, among them being a handsome floral offering from the Pythian Sisters of Phoenix and a profusion of others from the Pythian Sisters and Masonic and Knights of Pythias lodges of Merritt. The following is culled from the report of the funeral by the Merritt Herald:

"The town's sympathies go out to the bereaved family in the awful loss that has befallen them in the death of their little daughter. Merritt can ill afford to lose such little maidens, who by their presence amongst us day by day do so much to brighten the lives of all. Little Gladys, who had only lived in Merritt some two months had won the love of all who knew her. No wonder at such a host of friends being present at the funeral."

Ore Tonnages

Following are the returns of the output of the Granby mines and smelter for week ending Sept. 14:

Granby	26,259	857,272
SMELTER TONNAGES
Granby	23,550	857,602

A fine of ten dollars was imposed at Grand Forks for selling the carcass of a deer without the head.

Visited From New Zealand

The Rev. Stewart C. Harbison, B.A., late assistant minister of the Knox Presbyterian church in New Zealand, arrived in town on Tuesday, on his way to his brother, F. Harbison, minister of the local establishment of P. Burns and Co. Mr. Harbison, who is on his way home to Belfast, Ireland, terminated his work in New Zealand some months ago, and in the course of his long journey here has spent some of the time visiting in Sydney, New South Wales, and other points on the Australian continent, including a stop at the Fiji islands. Mr. Harbison is by no means a stranger in Canada or the United States. Five years ago he was actively engaged in missionary work in Alberta, afterwards going to Princeton, from which place he was called to one of the principal Presbyterian churches at Washington, D.C. Two years later, while pursuing a course at the Edinburgh University, the opportunity for work in New Zealand presented itself and was accepted. Our visitor will occupy the pulpit at the morning and evening services of St. Andrew's church, to-morrow, Sunday.

Forshaw-Parks

Robt. Forshaw returned to Phoenix on Saturday last, accompanied by his bride, nee Miss Agnes Parks, of Pennybridge in the English Lakes district. The wedding took place very quietly on September 6th, at Christ church, Vancouver, the Rev. H. R. Trumpour officiating. Geo. Boxall, a personal friend of Phoenix, gave the bride away and signed the register. The happy couple spent a short honeymoon on the coast before leaving for Phoenix, and have taken up their residence at the ranch adjacent to town.

Three Fairbanks men, enroute to the Shushanna gold strike have lost their lives. Two were drowned and the third accidentally shot himself.

Concentrates

The government of New Zealand has decided that she will be represented at the forthcoming Panama-Pacific exposition.

October 6th is the last chance for those not already on the Provincial Voters' list to become registered. The court of revision sits on the third Monday in November.

The revival of grandma's crinoline is predicted this winter by the Parisian modistes. This will no doubt necessitate an increase in the size of the single-seater sleigh.

A compliment appreciated by the Canadian school teachers who were in London recently, was paid them by a child from the End end. "Gawd," said the boy with his inimitable accent. "I'd like to get to Canada, to be with teachers like you."

On Saturday of last week, an unknown man deliberately walked out to the brink of the Horseshoe falls, at Table rock, Niagara. The water is quite shallow where he was seen, but to the horror of two lady tourists who were watching him, he threw himself over the brink.

A report was current in the Crows' Nest pass, recently, that the contract for 36 miles of road from Hope to the Summit of Hope mountain had been awarded. The contract price is said to be $3,000,000, and calls for the work to be completed by the fall of 1913.

The Timothy Eaton company have offered to make a special sale of Okanagan peaches on a commission of fifteen cents per case, they themselves to bear the cost of advertising. This would seem to prove that the Okanagan peach growers are at their wits' end to find some scheme to profitably market their crop.

Unique Tunnel Scheme

In order to facilitate the driving of the 22x30ft. double track C.P.R. tunnel, over five miles long, through Rogers pass, at the summit of the Selkirk, the contractors have decided to adopt a new method which will be watched with great interest by the engineering world. The expedient consists of the boring of a parallel tunnel, 7x8 feet, for virtually the same length, and from this tunnel cross-cuts will be made at short intervals to the site of the proposed tunnel, and enable gangs of men with machine drills to attack the work simultaneously at scores of points; incidentally, the "pioneer" tunnel, as it is called, will also provide ventilation, and for a considerable time it will furnish an exit in removing the rock material. The tunnel, for the greater part of its length will be driven through with a bore, probably not much larger than the pioneer tunnel; later, in addition to the boring from either approach, machinery will be installed at various points and the workings enlarged to the size contracted for.

Barbaric Warfare

Miss Edith Durham, the talented war correspondent of the Daily Chronicle, whose pictures of the operations of the Montenegrin army were the first published, now accuses the Montenegrins of incredible atrocities. In a letter to the Times, she writes:

"It may or may not have been necessary to destroy great olive gardens. Their owners are in many cases reduced to starvation."

Referring to the burning of the bazaar at Scutari, she says that it spelled absolute ruin for numbers of honest merchants.

"As for the statement that the Montenegrins committed no depredations. I daily witnessed the arrival of women loaded down with loot. That I spoke with some and they boasted of it."

"As for burning villages, too, when I saw some flaming at the beginning of the war, the Montenegrins told me themselves that they had burnt them in vengeance. That the cutting off of noses and upper lips was done repeatedly I am certain, for I myself saw nine Turks so mutilated, and during the twelve weeks I worked in the Montenegrin hospitals, my patients related to me the details of their exploits in nose-cutting. I have not met any of them who denied the facts. Most of them justified it, many boasted about it, and told me things so horrible that I trust they were exaggerated."

While passing through the Simpson pass, one of the Alberta gateways of the Rockies, Jas. Brewster, came across a tree with the following inscription carved upon it: "G.S., I.R., 1481." Mr. Brewster and others pronounce the initials to be those of Sir George Simpson, governor of the Hudson Bay company, who, during that year was on his famous round-the-world trip via this country and Siberia. The initials, "J.R." or "J.R." are probably those of his guide, James Roland.

Births Among the Doukhobors

It's no secret after all. The truth is out. Births do actually take place in the Grand Forks Doukhobor colony. The children do not evolve from a dried-up pumpkin, neither are they despatched like day-old chicks, per parcels post, from Russia. They are the home-bred article, and their arrival in the Doukhobor settlement seems to be accompanied by the same inconvenience as that attending the coming of any other ordinary Canadian baby. Peter Verigin, the boss of the Douks has let the cat out of the bag, and has even rushed into print about it. In a letter to the Nelson Daily News he wants to be enlightened on a point of law, and asks "Is it English law for a strange man to knock at a door where a sick woman is lying after confinement?" We presume Pete is referring to the door of a residence, and by "strange man" he is alluding to an officer of the Provincial police, who, if armed with the necessary authority, was not only empowered to knock at the door, but also to burst it open and enter. Besides, in view of the fact that Peter's people have persistently denied that any births have taken place among them; how was the officer to know that one had actually occurred, when the event had not been reported to the registrar as required by law. The maxim, "An Englishman's house is his castle," only applies to the civil law, and not as in the case he refers to, which was distinctly a criminal matter.

Welsh Nationality

The current issue of "Wales" contains an interesting article on "Welsh Nationality," by Reginald McKenna, the British Home secretary, and in reading it one is almost forced to the conclusion that Mr. McKenna has been sitting at the feet of Lloyd-George.

'Every nation,' says the writer, 'depends for its individuality in the present, on its history in the past. Wales, by reason of the peculiar characteristics of her story, has acquired a title to a special identity beyond that which most nations could claim. We have seen the long incessant struggle for independence adorned by great and inspiring names from Boadicea to Owen Glendower. The struggle failed, and all hope of territorial independence vanished. Its place was taken by a more intense devotion to the spiritual side of national life and to the development of the natural artistic powers of the race.'

"Alone among the Celtic nationalities within the United Kingdom, Wales has retained her language as the common tongue of hillside and home; and more than this, there has never been a moment in the history of Wales when the springs of Welsh literature have run dry. In the Middle Ages, the Arthurian legends inspired the whole literature of cultured Europe. I am not now going to prefer a claim that Shakespeare was a Welshman, though there is authority for saying that his mother was descended from one of the princes of South Wales."

A Looking Glass

The Thaw episode was a good peep in the looking glass for Canadians, and proves beyond question that a great many of us are just as much infected with the craze for morbid sentimentalism as are our cousins on the other side of the 49th parallel. Further, it shows that, given an opportunity with the addition of a fine fat fee, there are lawyers in Canada who are not averse to a little technical hairsplitting that would disgrace the court of an Oriental caliph. Hon. C. J. Dougherty's action in bundling the degenerate reprobate breakfastless out of this country might not have been law, but it certainly savors of clean justice. It also saves us the degrading spectacle of watching a man who has framed a series of laws, demonstrate for the benefit of a wealthy wastrel, the best way to violate the spirit of the statute he was paid to create.

A Bad Imperial Investor

It now seems that the late Lord Salisbury was anything but the far-seeing statesman his friends have made him out to be. During his tenure of office as prime minister he was responsible for a couple of colossal blunders, which in years to come will call down upon his memory the bitter execrations of his countrymen. He swapped the Island of Heligoland, situate about 36 miles from the mouth of the Elbe and 100 miles from Hamburg, for the Island of Zanzibar in East Africa, and he also made the German Emperor a free gift of a large slice of South Africa. After this we will not be surprised to hear that Asquith, in order to accentuate the friendly relations with our American cousins, will make them a Xmas box of the Bermudas, or hand over the Channel islands to France on the anniversary of the battle of Waterloo.

Secretary Bryan's Tour

The German press is in a cynical mood over the lecturing tour of the American secretary of state, but after all Mr. Bryan's method of making an honest dollar, while not in keeping with his exalted position, is infinitely more honorable than that employed by the poverty-stricken and pauperized barons of the German fatherland who infest the fashionable centres of the United States, peddling their rotten crime-stained pedigrees in exchange for the money bags of Uncle Sam's fair daughters. Mr. Bryan will pay for his grape juice cordial from money honestly earned, which is more than can be said of the indigent Teuton barons, whose expenses for their wife-hunting trips are as a rule defrayed by "obliging" money-lending Berlin Jews.

The Dominion cabinet have not as yet discussed the matter of settling the date of Thanksgiving day, but it is certain that the practice of holding it on the last Monday in October will not be changed.

The gall of the British Columbia land shark has become proverbial. They are offering land for sale in the backwoods of the Arrow lake district for five hundred and a thousand dollars per acre.

Brazil sent a warship to the inauguration of the peace temple at the Hague.

ZAM-BUK

MRS. A. SAICH, of Cannington Manor, Sask., writes:—"My brother suffered severely from eczema. The sores were very extensive, and burned like coals into his flesh. Zam-Buk took out all the fire, and quickly gave him ease. Within three weeks of commencing with Zam-Buk treatment, every sore had been cured."

This is but one of the many letters we are constantly receiving from people who have proved the healing power of Zam-Buk. For eczema, piles, sores, burns, cuts and all skin troubles there is nothing like this wonderful balm. No skin disease should be considered incurable until Zam-Buk has been tried.

SYNOPSIS OF COAL MINING REGULATIONS

Coal mining rights of the Dominion, in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the Yukon Territory, the Northwest Territories and in a portion of the Province of British Columbia, may be leased for a term of twenty-one years at an annual rental of $1 an acre. Not more than 2,500 acres will be leased to one applicant.
Application for a lease must be made by the applicant in person to the Agent or Sub-Agent of the district in which the rights applied for are situated.

In surveyed territory the land must be described by sections, or legal subdivisions of sections, and in unsurveyed territory the tract applied for shall be staked out by the applicant himself.

Each application must be accompanied by a fee of $5 which will be refunded if the rights applied for are not available, but not otherwise. A royalty shall be paid on the merchantable output of the mine at the rate of five cents per ton.

The person operating the mine shall furnish the Agent with sworn returns accounting for the full quantity of merchantable coal mined and pay the royalty thereon. If the coal mining rights are not being operated, such returns should be furnished at least once a year.

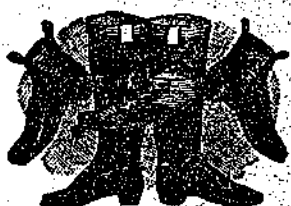

The lease will include the coal mining rights only, but the lessee may be permitted to purchase whatever available surface rights may be considered necessary for the working of the mine at the rate of $10.00 an acre.

For full information application should be made to the Secretary of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, or to any Agent or Sub-Agent of Dominion Lands.

There is a dangerous lunatic at large in the city. On Tuesday evening, when the last of those who had witnessed the first performance at the opera house were leaving, an imbecile, sitting to the left of the stage, started a few by calling out "fire." There was not the slightest occasion for his action, which if the fit had taken him a few minutes sooner, might have been fraught with the most serious consequences. A strong effort should be made by both police and union to find out his name. Fortunately the house is fitted with an extra fire exit, to the right of the stage, which with the large doors leading out near the post-office and the exercise of a little house sense, should empty the building in three minutes.

The continued good attendance at the opera house each evening shows the results obtained by the management's endeavors to keep up the high quality of their offerings. The pictures throughout the past week have been especially pleasing, and the music furnished by Messrs. Albert Biner, Chas. McKay and Chas. King at the Saturday night entertainments is of a high order, and thoroughly appreciated. Tonight, Saturday, the latter have been again engaged, and the following is their program: Overture, "Cymbeline," R. Greenwald; "Military Escort March," Chas. Lindsay; "Just in Time," Tarantella, by Nicola S. Calamara; Sextette from "Lucia," G. Donizetti; "Record Breaker," overture, W. C. O'Hara; "Waiting for the Robert Lee," march.

Lecture By An Ex-Convict

W. F. Hassell, an ex-convict, recently released from the penitentiary, at Salem, Oregon, has managed to secure two reels of motion pictures dealing with his experiences behind the walls of a prison. Instead of returning to the practice of law which is his profession, he is devoting his life to prison reform work. His picture, entitled "Men who Dare," deals with one of the greatest questions of the day.

"In a pleasing voice and a most convincing manner, Hassell lectures from the stage as his picture is unrolled before the audience, causing men and women to audibly express their sympathy.—Oregonian.

One of the sensations of Portland, Oregon, was Hassell's lecture on the "Honor System of the Oregon Penitentiary," as introduced by Governor Oswald West of Oregon, which he asserts he will show here tonight.

The singing of Miss Marguerite Matthews, that well-known soprano, of Gloucester, England, will be heard after Mr. Hassell's lecture.

Three hundred members of the London Woman's Social and Political league have applied for, and been granted permission to carry firearms.
