SYRINGES

All the latest improvements, and at the best price may seem, how cheap the price may seem, that they are doing it. The C. & I. Steamship Navigation Co. helped out the place by its line of steamers. They helped themselves too, of course, but they helped the town as well. Even the smelter company did put in a smelter. True, it did not smelt, but that is a matter of detail which the American manager has long ago explained, if not to the satisfaction of the English shareholders, at all events to his own. But Mr. A. S. Farwell, what has he ever done?

Now the HERALD thinks that having granted the patent to him in the first place, the provincial authorities have done right in protecting him to the best of their ability so far. It was a mistake, no doubt, but one for which the system of land tenure prevailing in the Dominion is responsible, more than the officials of the time being. But there comes a point at which the rights included in the patent cease. As far as Mr. Farwell is concerned, his created and legal rights are being at this present entirely wiped out by the real and natural rights of the people of Revelstoke. Owing to his obstinacy the progress of the place as a business point is retarded, a large block of valuable residential property is locked up, and incorporation, which is becoming a vital necessity, is hindered. If the government really mean to act between Mr. Farwell and the citizens of Revelstoke with a view to the real welfare of the people, they will require Mr. Farwell to be good enough to accept at once land in this place running in value way up into the thousands in token of the esteem and regard with which a grateful province recognizes his smartness in working out Major Rogers' momentous secret while in his cups, and the enterprise with which he so promptly availed himself of the knowledge so acquired. If he refuses to do so, the patent he now holds is contested, discredited, worthless, and the province should treat the remainder of the land on the original concession, still unoccupied or ungranted, as vacant, and dispose of it in town lots at the market price to those who want it. The government can do so if they choose, and if they care anything at all about the welfare of that portion of the people of the province residing in this place, they will choose. If they do not, they will have only themselves to thank if the dim suspicion latent in the minds of Revelstoke people that somebody high in authority has an interest in keeping this question unsettled, crystallizes into a definite item in the local bill of grievances, which will be presented for settlement next spring.

A FARWELL WORD

It appears that the chief remaining obstacle to perfecting the title of this townsite is the unwillingness of Mr. A. S. Farwell to surrender his old provincial patent and take what is left of the land originally granted to him. Now while admitting that Mr. Farwell showed considerable smartness and enterprise at the particular stage of the game at which he located this townsite and secured the provincial grant, and while conceding for the sake of argument that the proper way to develop the wild lands of the country is for the government to grant them away to people who have the foresight to estimate their proper value and the energy to grasp them, still it does not follow that rights acquired in this manner should be allowed to stand in the way of the prosperity of some twelve or fifteen hundred people, who are not demanding any exceptional grants or favors from the government, but simply that the obstacles, which for the last 12 years have hindered the progress of this place, should be removed.

The HERALD is not aware that Mr. Farwell has ever done anything for this, or for that matter any other place, that the rights, which he obtained under a patent, which both he and everybody else knew was certain to be contested at the time when it was granted to him, should override the uncontested rights of the residents of this place to pursue their business and further their own and the town's prosperity without let or hindrance from the government. Whatever money Mr. Farwell has made or will make out of the sale of lots in Revelstoke is as much pure gain as if he picked it up on the road. He has never expended a cent on the place since he got the patent. Of all the various owners that by hook or by crook have acquired townsites in this place, he must be judged on any impartial survey of the situation the least worthy of consideration. The C. P. R. have done and are doing a great deal to make the town an important railway point. Perhaps they cannot help it, but the fact remains that they are doing it. The C. & I. Steamship Navigation Co. helped out the place by its line of steamers. They helped themselves too, of course, but they helped the town as well. Even the smelter company did put in a smelter. True, it did not smelt, but that is a matter of detail which the American manager has long ago explained, if not to the satisfaction of the English shareholders, at all events to his own. But Mr. A. S. Farwell, what has he ever done?

Now the HERALD thinks that having granted the patent to him in the first place, the provincial authorities have done right in protecting him to the best of their ability so far. It was a mistake, no doubt, but one for which the system of land tenure prevailing in the Dominion is responsible, more than the officials of the time being. WHERE ARE THE POLICE?

THE HERALD regrets very much to have to add anything of a personal nature to the protest which recently appeared in our columns against the kind of language so constantly heard on Front St. However as vague generalities, however much approved of, fail to have the required effect, we must come down to particulars. One of the worst offenders in this respect is a man known to everyone in town by the sobriquet of "Wild Bill." His blasphemous rantings heard out at the top of his voice, resemble the ravings of insanity more than anything else. This man is looked upon almost with respect as a kind of old established institution in the town. The excuse is made that he is really a harmless, good natured fellow. For these reasons he is allowed to shock and pollute the ears of respectable women and little children not only with impunity, but even with a smiling indulgence. This town has now reached a stage when this fatuous condition of affairs has got to cease, and the police had better call Mr. "Wild Bill's" attention to this fact at once.

Work has commenced on the masonry of the C. P. R. road bridge under the direction of Mr. Thor. Kilpatrick.

The HERALD has it on good authority that a deal for the Lake Road gold claims on Gower creek, is on at Ferguson today.

Mr. J. D. Sibbald has a small piece of mispickel ore knocked off the lead on the Roselberry mine, which carries visible free gold to a marked extent. It was brought in by Mr. Brewster, secretary of the Carnes Creek Co.

McDugal creek, which runs into the Fish creek about 20 miles up from the mouth, has come to the front this season owing to the discoveries of gold-bearing ore made on it. The first strike was made by W. Nutter, and four others about 4 miles up the creek. They staked five claims on the Roselberry mine, and later on another lead. Since then about 25 claims altogether have been located on the creek. The ore is arsenical iron and carries an iron capping. An assay made about two feet from the surface of the McDugal creek, showed 3.53 in gold. The district is unfortunately difficult of access, there being no trail up McDugal creek at all. Development to a slight extent has been done on three claims of the Homestake group during the summer.

W. B. Pool has returned from a prospecting trip to the west, and has returned with a number of gold-bearing claims struck there this summer. About 25 claims have been located. The leads are very large, as wide as 20 feet on the surface, and the ore strong. The country is a schist. Assays from the surface go all the way from a trace to $50 in gold. Mr. Pool went up to the headwaters of Issue creek, which rises on one side behind the high mountains to the south, and on the other side to the head of the lake. In the formation and character of the leads the district strongly resembles the Lardene country, in fact the ledges seen in some cases to be permanent right through the mountains to the westward. To make town along the ridge, but five days' snow warned him back to lower levels.

The audience that assembled in Peterson's hall on Saturday evening last to hear B. A. Welton's lecture on "Theosophy" was a small but attentive one. The lecturer explained in plain language the foundations of the Theosophist's belief, the principles which rule the Theosophical society, the processes of evolution and evolution embodied in the doctrine of reincarnation professed by Theosophists, and the relation of the soul to the body. He dwelt strongly on the inability of the churches to cope with the evil existing in the world, and spoke of the remedies for its cure which Theosophists propose to apply, one of which is the practice of "smallness." While some of the propositions advanced by the lecturer were somewhat startling, there was also much that was at least plausible. Altogether, Mr. Welton's lecture was a most instructive one and merited a much larger attendance of hearers.

The harvest festival services in St. Peter's church were well attended. The church was beautifully decorated with grain, flowers, grapes, and other fruit and foliage of all kinds. The altar was vested for the first time in a number of years with a white frontal, embroidered with gold, and was adorned with masses of flowers. In front of the temporary platform a screen was erected in which branches of cedar, ferns, grapes, flowers and grain were tastefully arranged. At the close of the service the earth was blessed and the fullness thereof was displayed in white gothic letters on a red ground. The whole effect was very pleasing. The service consisted of an early celebration at 8 a.m., morning prayer and second celebration at 11 a.m., and evensong at 7:30 p.m. The old familiar harvest hymns were all sung, and the services were very heartily rendered by the choir and taken up by the congregation. The vicar preached sermons appropriate to the occasion both morning and evening. The services will be repeated next Sunday, and the decorations will be left standing.

GOLDFIELDS OF B. C. LTD.

The Biggest Labor-Employing Concern of the North Kootenay is Turning Out a Gigantic Success

In a slipshod sort of a way people speak of the "Home-Payne outfit" and the "Grant-Govan syndicate." Both terms are incorrect. The company over which Mr. Robert Montgomery Home-Payne presides, as chairman of the board of directors, is the "Lillooet, Fraser River & Cariboo Goldfields, Limited," which owns extensive property in this district. Mr. Grant-Govan's company is the "Goldfields of British Columbia, Limited," of which an offshoot is the "Waverley Mines, Limited." The Goldfields of British Columbia, Limited, is an exploitation, exploration and promotion company which has hitherto confined its operations with gratifying success to the Lillooet district. The local administration is in the hands of Mr. John Grant, who since 1888 has associated his fortunes with this district, and is now earning the reward in the way of everything turning out better than he predicted when he invited his friends in the mother country to entrust their moneys to his expenditure.

Mr. John Grant was in town this week and had with him a sample of ore equal to anything that was ever produced in the "Silver Sloon." The ore came from the Waverley mine, the first child of the parent company on the north fork of the Lillooet. It assays 721 ounces in silver, $5.33 in gold, 62 p. c. lead, and 54 p. c. in copper.

Mr. Grant, who refused to be interviewed, was in extremely good spirits as to prospects generally, and said that results will speak for themselves as soon as the new wagon road from the Waverley mine to Albert Canyon on the C. P. R. railroad is finished.

As there are several other gentlemen here at the present time, who have recently been in the North Fork district, it was possible however for the HERALD to obtain for its readers some authentic information as to what is doing at the most important point today in the North Kootenay.

The engineer for the Waverley company is Mr. Perry Leake, who is no stranger to the district, as everyone knows. With abundant capital and prudent administration behind him he has a chance of making an enviable reputation in his profession, in developing one of the greatest mines of this district. It is a chance that does not fall to the lot of every mining engineer at Mr. Perry Leake's time of life.

The new wagon road from Albert Canyon is now completed for 14 miles, and the showing is excellent. The contractors, Hill, Campbell & Ross, the Waverley mine by the 15th October at the latest. They have about 170 men at work, while at the Waverley there are about 30 miners employed. On the Waverley development work is going on and the showing is excellent. The main tunnel, or adit, is in about 240 feet on the ledge, and two others are in about 50 feet and 25 feet respectively. All are on ore of first class shipping quality.

The "finger mine" crosscut tunnel has disclosed what is probably the largest body of shipping ore yet found in British Columbia. There is at least 17 feet of shipping ore, rich in grey copper, galena and gold, and averaging from $200 to $250 a ton in all values. It is a small wonder that Mr. John Grant is somewhat jubilant at the intelligence he has to transmit to his friends on the other side.

ILLECHLEWAET SETTLEMENT

A Charming Pleasure Resort—Proposed Road and Offer of a Ground for a Race Course and Pleasure Park.

The farming settlement beyond the Illechlewaet is one well worth a visit. The four mile drive, of which more anon, is a beautiful one, and the hospitality of the settlers is unlimited. Mr. A. F. Williamson has a beautiful place about a mile and a half in a straight line south of town. The situation is picturesque and the soil productive. Two tons of strawberries were growing on the farm alone this season. Among the other attractions of the farm is a beautiful lake of great depth of clear water, making an ideal place for bathing. The farm is a great place of resort for Revelstokers, over 500 people having visited it in the summer.

The drawing to the settlement both from a Revelstoke and the farmers' point of view is the trail. It is unnecessarily long taking four miles to go a mile and a half and requires four bridges to cross each separate mouth of the Illechlewaet. A better bridge, more would be required by the shorter route, which could be constructed entirely out of reach of high water, and thus obviate the continual spending of money which the present route requires every spring to repair the effect of washouts on the bridges and trail. A thousand dollars, carefully expended, would build a road and bridge by which Williamson's could be reached from the station in a mile and a half easily. As much money as that could be put to a better use, for in a very few years in the annual effort to keep the present trail open in the spring. In the event of this road being built Mr. Williamson offers to give the town of Revelstoke 20 acres of a beautiful site on his property for a recreation and pleasure ground. The something badly needed here and our people should take steps to avail themselves of Mr. Williamson's generous offer. The ground would constitute a great addition to the attraction of the town as a place of residence and the road itself would add greatly to our limited facilities for a drive or bicycle ride. The board of trade should take this matter up and by putting the matter in its proper light before our members and the government, endeavor to get a sum for this purpose included in next session's estimates.

The Anti-American Feeling in the South

The Slokan is Quiet—Yukon Syndicates Among the Boys.

The chief feature in Rossland just now, said a well-known commercial man to the HERALD the other day, "is the strong antagonism springing up between the American and Canadian elements of the population. This feeling extends to Trail, and is even beginning to show itself in Nelson. The Americans claim that they discovered the country and they think they ought to run it. The feeling is noticeable in all lines of business. The Americans refuse to buy goods of Canadian manufacture of any kind and even extend their disapproval to Canadian beer. So strongly is this preference shown that one Canadian merchant asked his manufacturers to take their trade mark off the goods supplied to him in order to be able to sell to Americans. It is very difficult to raise the feeling of his Canadian customers, who are equally set the other way, that his goods are really manufactured in Canada. This ill-feeling is extending even to the clubs. The recent occurrence in which Costello figured has done much to intensify it. He and his fellow men have been bragging in their cups that they can get $5,000 to buy him off. A sharp look out is kept on him to prevent his skipping across the line. In the Slokan times are quiet. Sandon is very dull especially since the closing down of the Slokan Star. The boys are not spending their money but are forming syndicates among themselves to leave for the Yukon in the spring. Nelson, Kaslo and Revelstoke are the most solid and prosperous looking towns in Kootenay at present."

Harry Lindley Co.

This company opened here in Peterson's hall last night with the fine old fashioned English comedy "Flowers of the Forest." The piece was well put on and represented and was greatly appreciated by a crowded house. A great drawback to the evening's enjoyment was the presence of a solid phalanx of loose women occupying the two centries in front of the hall. It is to be hoped that the management will take notice of this state of things and that the manager desires the self-respecting people of this place to patronize his show, he had better cover an indignation in the Tenderloin colony that their room is more desired than their company.

The Lanark Mine.
Mr. J. Home-Payne returned from Rossland on Monday and went up to Laurie on Tuesday morning, where Mr. Moynell, the new superintendent, which will employ about 20 men for the approval of the English Directors. From independent sources the HERALD is in a position to state that the ore bodies in the Lanark mine never showed up to a better advantage than at present, but from the initial work done in the opening of the mine, it is impossible to carry on operations with that degree of economy which is desirable. A certain amount of work is termed in miner's parlance dead work will have to be done, after which there is no reason to doubt that the Lanark will resume its place as one of the largest shippers in Kootenay. On the Broadway operations will be confined to a small force of men working on the tunnel. The Silver Cup is also being worked with a force of 32 men, who are working in an excellent ore body, recently struck. The clerical staff of the company has been cut down to a minimum.

WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 22, 1897

LOOKING FORWARD

To the progress of the Pacific
States of the American Union from 1870 to 1890 the history of the world furnishes no parallel. These States, 11 in number, could boast in 1850 only a handful of gold diggers in California. During the 20 years above referred to the growth of population was phenomenal:

	1870.	1890.
California.....	560,000	1,208,000
Colorado.....	40,000	412,000
Washington.....	21,000	350,000
Oregon.....	94,000	314,000
Utah.....	87,000	208,000
Montana, etc.....	180,000	537,000

Total..... 991,000 3,028,000
And it is estimated by Michael
C. Mulhall, the eminent statistician to whose article in the North American Review we are indebted for most of our figures, that today the population of these States is 4,900,000. The city population, as in other parts of the Union, grew twice as fast as the rural.

Only two cities count more than 100,000 souls—San Francisco and Denver. The area of improved land under farms has trebled in 20 years and yet there is only an average of seven and a half acres per inhabitant under cultivation, while the extent of land is such that the Pacific States have only four inhabitants per square mile.

The production of grain has increased from 950,000 tons in 1870 to 2,900,000 in 1890, and the production of meat from 120,000 tons to 750,000 tons. There is a surplus of meat but grain has to be imported. No part of the continent has such abundant flocks and herds. There are eight head to each inhabitant, against less than three in the Union at large.
The annual value of farm products is:

	TONS.	DOLLARS.
Grain.....	2,900,000	$ 50,000,000
Potatoes.....	290,000	4,800,000
Hay.....	10,100,000	75,000,000
Meat.....	750,000	99,000,000
Tallow, lard, etc.....	135,000	12,000,000
Dairy pro's.....	1,000,000	4,000,000
Sundries.....	40,000,000	40,000,000

Total..... $204,400,000
This gives an average of $13 an acre, against $9.50 in the prairie States. The labour of each farm hand is equivalent to 30 tons of grain in the Pacific States, 22 in the Prairie, seven in the Southern,
and eight in the Eastern States.
In other words each hand in the Pacific States produces double the average.

But striking as is the agricultural production the Pacific States are pre-eminently addicted to mining, the annual output of minerals according to last census, amounting to $142,500,000, or $37 per inhabitant. Of gold California in 1890 produced 610,000 ounces,
Colorado 190,000, Montana 150,000,
Nevada 170,000, and the remaining States 300,000. Of silver California output was 1,100,000 ounces, Colorado's 18,400,000, Montana's 13,500,000, Nevada's 4,700,000, and the rest 13,200,000. In coal, of which mineral Colorado, with 2,600,000 tons, is the largest producer and California with 120,000 tons the smallest, the total output was 6,300,000.

Between 1870 and 1890 the states in question turned out the enormous quantity of 1,101 tons of gold and 20,980 tons of silver, thus adding to the world's permanent wealth 1,465 million dollars. The Comstock lode in Nevada produced $24,000,000 in five years. The annual production of our near neighbour, Montana, is 12 tons of gold and 100 of silver. The annual product of precious metals in the Pacific states exceeds that of any country in the history of mankind.
In 1895 the Pacific states had 23,500 miles of railway, which cost 1,210 million dollars, or $51,000 per mile. No other part of the world possesses such a length of railway for population, since each inhabitant has 10 yards of railroad, as

WEATHER REPORT

The report of Yukon weather in the meteorological office at Toronto is as follows: The contingent of the North West Mounted Police, which left for the Yukon in 1895, was supplied by the meteorological service with accurate thermometers, and during the following winter observations were made by Staff-Sergeant Hayne, who each day read and set the self-registering instruments at 9 a.m. Apparently, the temperature first touched zero on November 10, and the last zero recorded was on April 29th. Between December 19 and February 6 it never rose above zero. The lowest actual reading—65°—occurred on January 27, and against 5 in Australia and 6 in Canada.

There is no parallel to the increase of wealth which has taken place in these states. The grand total, in farms, houses, mines, railways, and sundries, is 6,811 millions of dollars, as compared with 727 millions in 1870. The average wealth is $2,318 for every man, woman and child in the eleven states.

For the purpose of comparison
the province of British Columbia, the provisional district of Alberta, and the unorganized territory of Athabasca and the Yukon may be said to compose the Pacific states of Canada. It is well within the bounds of reason to say that no part of the world contains such promise of duplicating the phrenomenal progress of the Pacific states of the American Union as the western heritage of the Dominion. No other country has the same extent of magnificent and comparatively unoccupied grazing lands as Alberta and Athabasca. The palmiest days of Australia and California saw no such phenomenal revelations of the precious minerals as incipient discoveries have already assured in British Columbia and the North West Territories. In Rossland,
the Sloean, the Lardeau, Big Bend, and East Kootenay, the surface has only to be scratched to reveal richer stores of mineral than in Washington and Montana have been unearthed by decades of deep-mining. California's gold discoveries of 49 have found their parallel in those of the Yukon, but a small part of which are as yet explored.

A fact mentioned by Mr.
Mulhall in his article is that the Pacific States are the only section of the United States in which British settlers hold the highest place, outnumbering the Germans, and all other foreign nationalities.
British Columbia and Alberta are of course almost wholly British and will remain so, though the enterprising leaven of American blood is already making its influence felt. If British blood counts for anything—and it has in every new country in the world—the Pacific Provinces of Canada
stand well to outrival the Pacific States.

It may be held that the Pacific
States have a climatic advantage.
In some respects they have; but while their warmer seasons may prove more advantageous for the growth of fruits, our colder climate furnishes corresponding benefits in that it produces richer grasses and more valuable grains, and supplies a greater stimulus to energy and enterprise. A southern climate is not to be compared to ours for producing a hardy, healthy, vigorous race of nation
builders.

Russia, a far colder and poorer country than Western Canada, ground down as her people are by antiquated and oppressive laws, supports a population of 120,000,000.
The Peace river country is no further north than Edinburgh, Scotland.

On 24 days during the winter the temperature was below—50 degrees. On March 12 it first rose above the freezing point, but no continuous mild weather occurred until May 4, after which date the temperature during the balance of the month frequently rose above 60 degrees. The Yukon river froze up on October 28th and broke up on May 17. Forty Mile river broke up on May 11. Few reliable observations have hitherto been taken in this interesting region, but some years ago observations taken at Fort Yukon showed an average January temperature of 27° below zero; February, 26°; March, 11°; April, 13°; May, 41° above zero; June, 55.5°; July, 66°; August, 59°;
September, 39°; October, 22°; November, 11°; December, 18°. These figures indicate an intensely cold winter, followed by a short spring opening in May, and then a decidedly warm summer from June until the beginning of September, when a short lived autumn soon changes to winter again.

JUBILEE NIGHT

IN WESTMORELAND

Through that majestic and sonorous
day,
When London was one gaze on her own joy,
I walked where yet in silence unde-
flowered,
In the lone places of the fells and moors:
And afterward ascended, night being come,
To where, high on a silent coign of
crag,
Fuel was heaped, as on some altar old,
Where immemorial priests propiti-ated,
With unrecorded rites, forgotten gods,
Darkly along the ridge the village folk
Had gathered, waiting till the unborn fire
Should, from its durance in the mother
pine,
Leap: and anon was given the signal:
thrice
A mimic meteor hissed aloft and fell
All jewels while the wondering hoard that crouched
Beside me lifted up his head and bayed:
At the strange portent, with a voice that called
Far echoes forth, out of the hollow
vales
Then the piled timber blazed against the clouds,
Roaring, and off, a monstrous madcap,
shook Hilarious sides and showered ephemeral gold.
And one by one the mountain peaks
foreswore
Their vowed impassiveness, the mountain peaks
Confessed emotion, and I saw these kings
Doing perfunctory homage to a Queen.
Long watched I, and at last to the sweet dale Went down, with thoughts of two great women, thoughts
Of two great women who have ruled
this land:
Of her, that mirrored a fantastic age,
The imperious, vehement, abounding
Spirit,
Mightily made, but gusty as those which
Her wild allies that broke the spell of Spain;
And her who sways, how silently! a world
Dwarfing the glorious Tudor's queenliest dreams;
Who, to her well nigh more than morning,
Hath brought the strength-in-sweat-
ness that prevails,
The regal will that royally can yield;
Mistress of many people, heritress
Of many thrones, wardress of many seas;
But destined, more melodiously than thus,
To be hereafter and forever hailed,
When our imperial legend shall have fired
The lips of sage and poet, and when these Shall, to an undispensing audience,
sound
No scripted name so winningly august
As Thine, my Queen! Victoria the Beloved.

—William Watson.

KERR'S CLONDIKE SCHEME

LAI D BEFORE THE MINISTER OF THE INTERIOR

For Consideration Yesterday—Public Opinion Strongly Against It.—The Request Has a Fishy Look—Major Walsh Gets His Private Secretary.

TORONTO, September 15.—J. K. Kerr, Q.C., has gone to Ottawa to make a proposition to the Government on behalf of some capitalists who propose to send a body of 100 picked men to the Clonduke to operate mines and be ready to assist the Mounted Police whenever necessary. A number of members of the volunteer corps here will join the outfit. The company in return expects the Government to grant certain privileges as regards the lands held in reserve by the Government.

OTTAWA, September 16.—J. K. Kerr's offer of a company of volunteers to assist the Mounted Police in keeping order in the Yukon on consideration of being granted permission to acquire some reserved mining claims was laid before Hon. Clifford Sifton yesterday. Public opinion is very strongly against the granting of the request, which apparently has a very fishy look.

SECRETARY TO MAJOR WALSH. A. J. Magurn, the Ottawa correspondent of the Globe, has received the appointment of private secretary to Major Walsh to go to the Yukon.

MONTREAL, September 16.—The village of Vincent de Paul is in terror over an outbreak of convicts on account of the cutting off of the tobacco supply. Nine of them made a desperate break for liberty but were caught. All the convicts, 301 in number, are now locked up in cells.

WHOLESALE LYNCHING

Five Men Strung Up for Robbery in the State of Indiana

VERSAILLES, Ind., September 10.—A mob of 400 infuriated men last night lynched Lyric Levi, B. Andrews, Clifford Gordon, William Jenkins and Henry Schuler. These men had been arrested for burglary. Frequent robberies lately committed here have enraged the citizens of this county. The mob was composed of citizens from Sumner and other towns.

Crops in Italy are only about half the average.

VIA BALLOON

FROM EDMONTON TO THE YUKON BY AN AIR LINE

Ottawa Men About to Construct a Balloon—It Will Carry Passengers and Freight to Clonduke—Independent of Cold or Damp.

OTTAWA, September 15.—Major Walsh leaves for the Clonduke on Thursday. A stock company is being formed by Ottawa capitalists to arrange for the construction of a steerable balloon from a design by Joseph de Mele. This balloon is to be used for the transport of passengers, freight and Government mails from Edmonton to the Yukon gold fields. About $10,000 has been subscribed and the balloon is expected to be ready in three weeks, when a trial trip will take place in this city. The motive power of the balloon will be such that it will not be affected by cold or damp atmosphere. It will travel close to the ground.

This little band of thirteen men and one resolute woman goes forth to pioneer a new route to the gold fields, and not one of them expects to return till he or she is rich. And to secure riches I verily believe we could find a way to a gold mine. The state is convinced that it was a ball of shining silver; or we would tip over the big dipper if satisfied that it was filled with gold nuggets. We go at a time when thousands hesitate to start in view of the near approach of a rigorous winter; but nothing daunts the single one. The elements are to be defied, and not a moment lost. Three boats will be built here and taken to the Athabasca river, 90 miles north of here, whither we go by team. Thence we sail down the Athabasca river to Athabasca lake, through the lake to and down Slave river into Great Slave lake, skirting the western shores till we reach the source of the Mackenzie river. THE CHICAGO PARTY

WROTE BACK TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE AN ACCOUNT

Of Themselves from Calgary—The Party Described—Mr. James Reilly's Railway Spoken Of.

A correspondent of the Chicago Tribune, R. M. Sprenger, is a member of the party of Chicago Clondukers who recently passed through Calgary. Writing from here the correspondent says:

Mr. Warmolts bought all provisions and other supplies not purchased at Chicago, in Calgary.

Over 10,000 pounds of food alone are to be taken. It is cheaper on the whole to purchase food supplies here than in the States. Every member of the party is well and joyously happy. The weather is perfect and our appetites increase as we approach the Arctic circle. It is conceded that this is the best provisioned and most completely equipped party that has so far started for the northern gold fields. In its leadership, as well as its membership, it is exceedingly well calculated to achieve good results.

Mr. Lambertus Warmolts, the promoter and leader of the expedition, although 30 years old, is self-reliant, courageous and ambitious. He is resourceful, and intends to win in this great undertaking. His secretary, Harry Corr, second in command, has been over a good portion of Alaska and the British territory tributary to the Mackenzie river. He served several years in the United States regular army, is cool-headed, an athlete physically, and will be a host in a hazardous journey like this.

The average age of the party is 37 years. We have with us expert carpenters, builders, and a practical mining expert. One of the party has built and operated sawmills; another is a "smuggler to old shoes"; several have been sailors, and each member of the party can swim. Last, but not most important of all, perhaps, the little lady of the party is a good cook, is deft with the needle willing, to do her part, and though but 25 years old, is already called the "mother" of the camp.

This little band of thirteen men and one resolute woman goes forth to pioneer a new route to the gold fields, and not one of them expects to return till he or she is rich. And to secure riches I verily believe we could find a way to a gold mine.

The state is convinced that it was a ball of shining silver; or we would tip over the big dipper if satisfied that it was filled with gold nuggets. We go at a time when thousands hesitate to start in view of the near approach of a rigorous winter; but nothing daunts the single one. The elements are to be defied, and not a moment lost. Thence we sail down the Athabasca river to Athabasca lake, through the lake to and down Slave river into Great Slave lake, skirting the western shores till we reach the source of the Mackenzie river. MORMONS STONED

English Towns Stirred Up Over the Efforts of Their Missionaries to Induce Women to Go to Utah.

LONDON, Eng., September 17.—The towns of Sutton, Bedfordshire, and River Lee are stirred up over the efforts of Mormon missionaries to induce women to move to Utah. The male inhabitants of the towns stoned the Mormons and the authorities had to interfere.

RAILWAY DEAL TO BE SETTLED NEXT WEEK.

Six Per Cent. Reduction in the Shipment of Wheat to Duluth—Mother Assaults Her Daughter and Then Attempts to Shoot Her Protector.

WINNIPEG, Man., September 17.—About two o'clock this morning young Lizzie Taylor called at James McCracken's house on the corner of Salter and Jarvis streets, in this city. She was bleeding from a nasty cut on the face and had just escaped from her home on York street, where her mother had been ill using her. Mrs. Taylor, her mother, called at McCracken's house at eight o'clock in the morning and demanded her daughter, but McCracken refused to give her up. Mrs. Taylor then pulled a revolver from her pocket and deliberately fired at Mrs. McCracken's head, narrowly missing her. Mrs. McCracken then made a rush for the woman, but did not succeed in disarming her until she had fired two more shots, both of which missed the mark. Mrs. Taylor was arrested on a charge of shooting with intent to kill.

ANOTHER ROAD TO BE BUILT

Hon. Thomas Greenway returned to this city yesterday. On being interviewed by your correspondent this morning he said he expected everything in connection with the Duluth and Winnipeg railway scheme will be settled next week. Cameron, who is now in New York, is completing all legal formalities with the company to build the road, with good financial backing and a bonus will be paid only on the understanding that six per cent per bushel reduction on wheat to Duluth will be maintained.

ROAD TO YUKON.

C. P. R. Engineer Locating Line From Stickeen to Teslin.

VANCOUVER, September 17.—Superintendent Duchesnay, chief engineer of the Kootenay division of the Canadian Pacific Railway, left on the Princess Louise for the mouth of Stickeen river in order to locate a line of railway to Teslin lake, which will tap the Yukon trade. On the boat were about 10 passengers from the Bristol and Eugene, who will try to get into Clonduke by the Stickeen route on the all-Canadian way of travel, having failed to reach St. Michael's.

AN ASSASSIN

Maker a Determined Effort to Stab President Diaz.

CITY OF MEXICO, September 17.—President Diaz, while proceeding from his palace to the central part of the city yesterday, was sprung upon by a middle aged man who attempted to stab him. The would be assassin was arrested.

GUN ACCIDENT.

WINNIPEG, September 17.—Arthur A. Fowler, a street railway employee, while on a shooting trip at Beausejour yesterday was seriously wounded by the discharge of his gun. He was standing and leaning over the barrels, miles through the grandest scenery in the world, boys along on the mighty tide that drains the hills and valleys of the land of gold, on to the waters of Behring sea, where ocean steamers will carry them along a coast line unequalled in its diversified beauty of mountains and glaciers to the sea-ward trains for home.

"Yes, and one of the most attractive sights of this new pleasure route of our coming midsummers will be the sight of our glorious sun at midnight, a sun that will stay up to welcome the eyes of travellers and beauty that will gaze upon the strange phenomenon with wonder and delight."

Mr. Reilly is prominent in the political and business circles of the Dominion, and has the co-operation of capitalists here and in the States already. He is very sanguine of success.

Six Per Cent. Reduction in the Shipment of Wheat to Duluth—Mother Assaults Her Daughter and Then Attempts to Shoot Her Protector.

WINNIPEG, Man., September 17.—About two o'clock this morning young Lizzie Taylor called at James McCracken's house on the corner of Salter and Jarvis streets, in this city. She was bleeding from a nasty cut on the face and had just escaped from her home on York street, where her mother had been ill using her. Mrs. Taylor, her mother, called at McCracken's house at eight o'clock in the morning and demanded her daughter, but McCracken refused to give her up. Mrs. Taylor then pulled a revolver from her pocket and deliberately fired at Mrs. McCracken's head, narrowly missing her. Mrs. McCracken then made a rush for the woman, but did not succeed in disarming her until she had fired two more shots, both of which missed the mark. Mrs. Taylor was arrested on a charge of shooting with intent to kill.

WELL-SAID IS NOT WELL-MEANING

A man of distinction who came to the Post-Office Congress in Mr. Chaney Yon Loo, who was Minister Plenipotentiary from China during the Harrison Administration. At that time the location of the legation was in the old Castle, and many and elaborate dinners were given to the guests of the republic by the then Chinese Minister, who, however, kept the women of his household well in the background.

At his first large reception the Minister was coached by one of his American friends as to the etiquette of the occasion. It was told that the guests in passing out would all say they had had a very enjoyable evening; and he must say, "I am very glad."

It went very well until the tipsy official came along and yelled out in order by saying boisterously, "Well, I must go now."

The Minister was ready with his "I am very glad" and he said it as if he meant it.—Chicago Tribune.

"I guess," remarked Farmer Hornbeak slowly, "that I admire enterprise in anybody does, but I am a little of the opinion that it can be carried to excess. Even a good thing can be run into the ground, you know."

"What are you referring to, Ezra?" asked the visitor from all parts of the world.

"Why, you know when that tract society in the city sent out a man to point religious signs and warnings on the streets and roads, he scribbled the question red paint everywhere: 'Do you want to be saved?' Well, now, I see that another painter, working in the interest of a patent medicine concern, has done better over the same ground and added beneath each question this answer, in letters a foot long: 'If so, take Pritchett's Peculiar Pills.' That may be all right, but I don't think it is a very good enterprise carried to the point of effectiveness."

Two men were killed in a Chicago street car collision.

Sir Julian Pannecote will remain at Washington for another year.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier opened the St. John, N.B., exhibition on Tuesday.

The British troops mobilized on the Afghan frontier number 57,000 men.

The U.S. cruiser Indiana was seriously injured by defective docking at Halifax.

The startling news has been cabled round the world that Paderewski has lost his hair cut and rides the bicycle.

The Roman Catholic Archbishop of Montreal has forbidden the priests to ride bicycles within the city limits, on grounds that is undignified.

It is reported that four of the largest elevator companies in Montana have formed a combine to control the grain trade. The story is denied by the elevator men, who say the arrangement is only for the purpose of economy and that prices will not be affected.

Speaking of George Ferguson, the old Cariboo miner and preacher, who was lecturing here last winter, the Emerson Journal says: "At one time Mr. Ferguson was a member of the British Columbia legislature, at another time he ran for the Commons. For Out, and is endeavoring to reach him or foot. He passes on from village to village, delivering his lecture and depending upon this resource for his only means of subsistence, let alone any comforts of life. In Emerson he only made 45 cents. And it was with a broken heart that he was told he had been elected. He had appealed to different members of the church he loved for a night's lodging and had been turned away, but that a lively man with a big heart had paid for his bed in the hotel at a late hour of the night."

LORD KELVIN.

A Man Who Has Enriched Every Department of Physical Science.

Lord Kelvin, whose discoveries have made the ocean cable a practical achievement, who has enriched every department of science, among the delegates to the meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science to be held in Toronto this year, is a past-president of the association and among its most honored members.

Lord Kelvin, who was born in Ireland in 1824, began his connection with Scotland and with the University of Glasgow at a very early age. His father, Professor James Thomson, still remembered by many alumni of Glasgow as a remarkably skilled and successful teacher, was appointed to the chair of mathematics in 1832, so that when only eight years of age William Thomson began his residence at the University of Glasgow. Only two or three years later he began to attract attention by a brilliance of intellect very remarkable in one so young. His proficiency in mathematics and natural philosophy was very great, but other studies were by no means neglected, and under the careful supervision of his father he received a liberal and general education.

It may be mentioned that of the importance of giving its due place to science in any good scheme of liberal education no one could be more convinced than Lord Kelvin, but that no one values more highly than he does the old humanities and the importance of a sound logical and linguistic training. He has not yet a boy his interest was recently excited by such subjects as the figure of the earth and Fourier's theory of the flow of heat. On the first he wrote an original paper, which was greatly praised, and the second he has recently published in a series of papers in which he successfully defended Fourier's researches from a charge of unsoundness and had been brought against them some strange misconceptions and a very competent writer who had graduated a few years before with the utmost mathematical distinction. It is even thought as being the promise and power of the youthful natural philosopher that when only 14 or 15 years of age he read Fourier's great treatise on heat, and the history of traveling about during a fortnight's visit to Germany. That he did so for some purpose, explanation and extension of Fourier's results which soon after flowed from his pen.

There can be no question that, like many other eminent physical mathematicians, Lord Kelvin has been inspired and directed by his early study of Fourier and the other great French mathematical writers of the end of the eighteenth and the beginning of the present century. Ever he has fully and gratefully acknowledged the helpful and interest-exciting influence of some of his old teachers at the University of Glasgow.

The table of Lord Kelvin's achievements at Cambridge has often been told—how he won the first Smith's prize and the Colquhoun Sculls and was elected one of the most promising original mathematicians of the time.

He returned to the University of Glasgow as Professor of Natural History in 1846, and from that day to this the history of his life-work has been in the domain of physical science. There is no department of physical science which he has not entered and extended by his discoveries. There is hardly an theory in dynamics, heat or electricity, of which his theories, experimental discoveries and fundamental parts and in the domain of physical optics he has recently shed much light on some of the most recalcitrant and disputed questions by his lectures and papers on the subject of the dynamics of systems of molecules, and the constitution of the ether.

They have decided to go by Fort St. John, a Hudson's Bay post on the Peace river, and to winter there.
