THE 12TH AT SALMON ARM

A Glorious Time Spent by Excursionists from Revelstoke, Kamloops and Vernon.

Two crowded coaches of passengers, including the Revelstoke brass band, left on a special here yesterday morning for Salmon Arm where great preparations had been made under the auspices of the Salmon Arm Orange Lodge to entertain the excursionists from Revelstoke, Kamloops and Vernon, the Kamloops lodge also bringing a brass band with them. The Kamloops people came down by boat, returning at 12:30 last night. The excursionists from here had a most enjoyable time, the day being spent in social intercourse, games, boating, etc.

After the dinner had been enjoyed by all present, Dr. Jeffs, the W. M. of Revelstoke lodge, assumed the chair and in a neat speech expressed his thanks to the Salmon Arm brethren for the kind welcome accorded the visiting brethren. He then called on Rev. Pollock, of the Salmon Arm Presbyterian church, who made a very effective speech from the standpoint of an Orangemen. Rev. Mr. Beardon of the Salmon Arm Methodist church, in a rattling speech exhorted the Orangemen to be true to their colors, not only on the 12th of July, but other days of the year as well. He paid a high compliment to the leaders of the Order whom he knew personally in Ontario. Rev. Mr. Booth, of the Presbyterian church also spoke and exhorted the Orangemen to sobriety as in times past discredit had been cast upon the society by the thoughtlessness of a few in that respect. Rev. S. J. Thomson in a forceful speech showed that Orangemen had the perfect right of existence as a religious and benevolent association. That it was expedient that such organizations exist because the same principles need defence today as much as ever, and that history had proved that the association had accomplished much for the cause of truth.—Mr. R. Sparling, of Vernon, as Past Master of the Grand Lodge of B. C. then in a masterly review of the history of the Order, closed the speeches of the day. A most enthusiastic vote of thanks was given the speakers. The programme of sports was then entered upon and our Revelstoke athletes carried off most of the prize money. Messrs. Slinn, Jackson, and Birney taking the prominent places.

The Salmon Arm ladies of the Presbyterian and Methodist churches gave a sumptuous dinner and deserve great praise for their untiring efforts to make the day a pleasant one for all, which all admit was one of the best days ever spent in the province. The grove was a model place to spend a warm day. A dance was given in the evening and a number remained over to be take it in. The Revelstoke picnicers arrived in town this morning about 2:30.

Although Revelstoke was visited by a severe hailstorm yesterday, they luckily escaped it, and the day was an admirable one from daybreak till dawn which added materially to the success of the picnic.

The Illecillewaet Mining Outlook

Mining operations around Illecillewaet are active, mostly every miner being out in the hills developing, doing assessment work and getting their properties into shape to either ship ore themselves or to have something in sight in order to warrant companies taking hold of them. Representatives of a couple of large syndicates are on the ground and one or two sales may be reported in a few days, though the owners do not care to make it public. A pack train is hard at work bringing supplies to the various prospectors and miners in that promising country.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—The Spanish officers taken prisoners will be confined at Annapolis. Cervera will be given freedom on the grounds under a limited parole.

LONDON, July 9.—General Shafter sends the following despatch: In camp near Santiago, July 6, via Playa, Del Este, July 7.—"It is impossible so far to get returns, but there have been treated in the hospital at Siboney 1052 wounded. There are 200 in the hospital here. In Kent's division the killed are 22 officers, and 87 men; wounded, 36 officers and 502 men; missing, 62. In Lawton's division the killed are four officers and 74 men; wounded, 14 officers and 317 men; one missing. In Bate's brigade the killed are four men; wounded, two officers and 26 men; five missing. In the Signal corps one has been killed and one wounded. Wheeler's report has not yet been received." (Signed) Shafter.

The Big Bend Boom

Never in the history of this district since the early days has there been such activity in mining operations as at present. The French Creek Co. have a large gang of men at work on their promising placer properties. The Carnes Creek Consolidated Mines Co. has a large number of men employed and the showings and prospects of their mine were never better. The Last Chance is in good pay dirt and will be a surprise to many before the season closes. And, besides these, private companies and individuals are hard at work in goodly numbers making big money. The transportation facilities are inadequate and too expensive and something should be arranged for at once to give the many in this rich section a better and cheaper communication with its supply point.—Revelstoke.

Trout Lake Topics

C. B. Hume, of Revelstoke, was in town for a few days this week.

Miss Selma Turnross, of Revelstoke, took in the celebration here on the 1st of July.

John Abrahamson paid Trout Lake City a visit for a few days this week.

Miss Johnston, of Arrowhead, Miss Valentine, of Revelstoke, and Mrs. Craig, of Thomson's Landing, were among the visitors to the city on Friday last.

The other day a big strike was made in the Copper Chief, a property owned by Matheson, and situated about three miles from Trout Lake City. The character of the ore appears to be arsenical iron, and although no assays have been made as yet, it is expected that it will run pretty well in gold. An area of the ledge, about forty feet square, has been uncovered and fine specimens of the ore have been taken. Some five claims owned by different parties are staked on this ledge.—The Topic.

The Silver Cup and Mr. Bush

The following letter appeared in a recent issue of the British Columbia Mining Record: "There is a reference in the June number of your paper to a report—, from information collected by careful investigation and personal examination."—by a Mr. Harry Bush, M. E., on the "Lardeau and Cariboo Creek Mining Divisions of West Kootenay," and to Mr. Bush's opinion of the Silver Cup Mine, which, together with numerous adjoining claims is the property of the Sunshine Limited. I should like to state through the medium of your paper: First—That I am informed by this company's superintendent at the Silver Cup Mine that Mr. Bush has never visited or examined such property. Second—That during the last few months about 800 tons of ore have been sacked at the mine, of which about 470 tons have been shipped to smelters in the United States, the value of such, (upon which returns have been made), being about $140 per ton.

EDGAR A. BENNETT,
General Manager
for Sunshine, Limited.

Mother McKenzie Again

Mrs. McKenzie, one of the most notorious women of the city, who is well known to the police, is again in trouble. A few months ago she went to Revelstoke to live, but a week since came back, bringing a large quantity of clothing and furniture, which she placed in her premises on Dupont street. On Saturday Provincial Officer McRae arrived from Revelstoke with a search warrant and in company with officers McIntosh and Billet paid a visit to Mrs. McKenzie's house. They found part of the clothing that is alleged to have been stolen from Revelstoke. With this and in charge of Mrs. McKenzie, Constable McRae returned to the Interior on Sunday. Since then the remainder of the goods have been found in the lot next to Mrs. McKenzie's house, where they were thrown while the officers were searching the other rooms. These articles will be forwarded to Revelstoke today.—Vancouver World.

Constable McRae brought his prisoner to town on Sunday and on Monday Mrs. McKenzie was tried and sentenced to one month at Kamloops. Owing to Constable McRae being unable to locate the goods while in Vancouver, and not knowing of their recovery by the Vancouver police until after the trial and sentence on Monday, Mrs. McKenzie in consequence got off with a light sentence.

THE RESULT

Opinions of the Coast Papers on the Election

The Colonist of Tuesday says: At the present time of writing the complete returns give 17 seats to the government and 15 to the opposition. Alberni is still doubtful, with equal chances for either side; while in North Yale, though Deane is counted successful by 9 votes, the election has been protested and it is stated he will be unseated for corruption. A check over the figures at Esquimault having shown a tie between Messrs. Bullen and Higgins, a recount took place in this district yesterday, with the result that the government candidate was finally established in the seat. The last returns to come in are those from Cariboo, Lillooets and South East Kootenay, the government securing two out of the three seats here heard from, with the reported return of both seats in Cariboo. In Cassiar the election takes place later on, and while from the fact that only government candidates are in the field, it is safe to say that the majority will increase here, the far northern district is not included in the appended abstract of the situation as it appeared last evening:

*Still in doubt.

As to the constituencies above referred to as "doubtful," the word is perhaps scarcely applicable in more than two cases, for with only government candidates running, Cassiar can go but one way, and in Cariboo it is impossible for the opposition to do better than get one seat. The result in Alberni depends entirely upon the Quatsini vote, which will not be known until the calling of the steamer. As far as known the detail vote in the several constituencies was polled as below.

The World says: There now remains Alberni and the two Cariboos to be heard from definitely, as well as Nelson, which appears to be still in doubt in consequence of the small majority reported for Mr. Hume over Mr. Farwell. According to a despatch received by us this morning from Nelson, it is possible that, upon a recount, the seat will be given to Mr. Farwell. Cassiar is likewise to be heard from. The election there will not take place for some weeks yet, as many polling subdivisions therein are very remote. We withdraw our classification as regards East Lillooet, as the exact result will not be known there until the official declaration is made this afternoon by the returning officer. So far as North Yale is concerned, the recount, which took place there yesterday, gave Mr. Deane the lead by a slight majority, but as his election is to be protested it is quite certain that when an appeal is again made to the electors there the result of last Saturday will be reversed. The Cariboos will be heard from possibly to-day or to-morrow, and we have every reason for believing that Messrs. Rogers and Hunter will be triumphantly elected, as the places yet to be heard from are known to be strongly in their favor. We have discovered no reason yet for departing from the view we expressed on Monday that the government when it meets the House next February will have a following of 23 to 15 for the opposition.

Progress of the Waverley

The remainder of the sawmill machinery for this company has arrived at Albert Canyon.

The company intends starting to haul same to the mine immediately and will commence logging at once. About forty thousand feet of lumber will be turned out each day.

The company intends to employ no Chinamen around the company's property and is now awaiting the arrival of four white cooks. Mr. Graham also states that 150 men will be employed before fall and that the waggon road will be kept open all winter.

ATTACK ON SANTIAGO

Shafter's Artillery Opens and the Fleet Bombards

DESTRUCTIVE AMERICAN GUNS

United States Troops, Refreshed by Their Long Rest, Impatient to Advance Against the Stronghold—Big Guns Take Part in a Great Duel, With the Advantage on the Side of the Attacking Force—General Miles and Staff Arrive in Cuba—Shot Wrecks a Church Full of Powder, Causing a Tremendous Explosion.

HEADQUARTERS GEN. SHAFTER, Sunday, July 10, 8 p.m., via Port Antonio and Kingston, July 11, noon. From four o'clock this afternoon until dark the American guns have again been pouring a deadly fire into the Spanish lines.

Our men are greatly refreshed by their three days' rest and have been fighting with lion-like spirit.

The knowledge of the arrival of reinforcements gives them new enthusiasm.

The artillery is in place and doing effective work. The firing from the Spaniards in the trenches is very weak and doing little or no damage.

NEW YORK, July 11.—A special from Playa del Este says: The bombardment by the fleet was resumed early this morning at the same time the general attack by the land forces was being carried on. Our artillery was doing effective work and the men were fighting with great enthusiasm. Our gunners have the ranges of the principal Spanish positions, and are pouring into them a most destructive fire. The enemy is responding, but their fire is by no means as hot as ours. There are many casualities on both sides.

OFF SANTIAGO DE CUBA, July 11, via Playa del Este.—At 9:30 o'clock this morning, after several range-finding shots over the ridge protecting Santiago from the sea, the United States cruiser Newark opened fire into the city with her eight-inch guns. The signal corps officers stationed on top of the ridge reported the effect of the shots.

The last shot, however, struck a prominent church in the heart of the city, which was heavily stored with powder and ammunition causing a tremendous explosion. The extent of the damage is not yet known.

When the warships ceased firing, and before Shafter had begun a land attack, a flag of truce was seen coming from the city.

The object of this was not known at noon today.

NEW YORK, July 11.—The first shot from our side on Sunday, was by the dynamite gun of the Rough Riders. It was followed by Capts. Capron's, Grimes', Best's and Parkhurst's light batteries on the American left. Our mortar battery, posted behind the extreme right, also opened and maintained a steady firing. The Spanish return was weak and their aim bad. This firing was directed against our mortars. Occasionally a battery placed on the Spanish left and on a hill back of town fired a gun, and the Spanish volleyed from the trenches more than the Americans. In fact, the attack on our side was chiefly with artillery.

Our lines were elaborately protected by over 2,200 sand bags, while the Spaniards were protected by bamboo poles, and through them they thrust their rifles and fired on our troops.

The fire of the American gatling guns was particularly heavy, and it is thought they did great damage in the enemy's trenches.

A cheer from the Rough Riders told how a shot from the dynamite gun had struck in the enemy's trenches, blowing field pieces into the air.

It was some time after the signal "Cease firing" was given that the batteries obeyed it.

MADRID, July 9.—The Spanish consul at Hong Kong cables that the insurgents at Cavite, Manila bay, have revolted against the Americans. He adds that a sharp fusilade was exchanged, the result of which is not known. In another despatch the Spanish consul makes the assertion that the majority of the Philippine insurgents received American reinforcements with hospitality because they included a number of negroes.

WHAT THE COUNTRY WANTS

From the Calgary Herald.

How is it that with a record of good seasons, high prices for grain of all kinds, enormous crops and several good years generally, how is it that the number of incoming settlers of the stamp desired by the country is so small, and that the great North West is apparently handed over for settlement to the dirty hordes of half-civilized Galicians from south eastern Europe. Why should our choice lands be given up to these savages, who are dumped down amongst us sans clothes, sans cash, sans everything, but dirt? There is no single bond between our settlers and them. A people who have been a source of unrest and anxiety in their own land, are not likely to improve the condition of the people amongst whom they are introduced. In Austria they are looked upon as the least intelligent of the native races, and their own government are constantly having trouble with them in maintaining barriers for the prevention of the massacre of their neighbors who are Jews. This is not the class of people the North West will open its arms to welcome. The old world teems with people who would be a credit to us and who would materially benefit themselves by coming out. The Icelanders are a progressive, energetic and fairly educated people, but only a few of them are induced to turn their faces towards Canada. Yet from Norway, from Sweden, and from Germany a vast number of intelligent, hardy, adventureous people might be brought to try their fortunes in the North West. They are a class who could at once mingle with our people. English is taught in their schools and amongst the rising race many on their first landing can hold converse in the language of the country. They have proved themselves valuable settlers in the United States, as well as in Canada, and their coming is appreciated and their welcome certain. But above all this country wants immigrants from the British Islands—Scotch, Irish, English and Welsh are all welcome here, most welcome, and although strong efforts are being made to induce from these islands the immigration of the class needed, the poresnse is not so marked as could be wished. The farm laborer of Midland England, now existing on a miserable 12 or 15 shillings a week, becomes in Canada in a very short time a self reliant and independent farmer, owning his own land, and brighter and happier than ever he was in his own country. Here he loses his landlord, and except by his own folly need never find him again. If Mr. Sifton could be induced to turn his attention to the encouragement of settlers of this class, he would be rendering service to his country which would entitle him to such a grateful remembrance in the future, as his present policy does NOT entitle him.

The United States officers in Cuba are meetiug with insubordination and mutiny from the patriot insurgents. Uncle Sam is likely to find his new allies just as troublesome as Spain found them.

The brutality of the crew of the wrecked French liner Bourgoine is a disgrace to civilization. Their conduct after the collision was apparently guided by the motto every man for himself, and the devil take the hindermost. The passengers were beaten into the water with oars, only one woman out of 200 was rescued, and only 53 passengers out of 493 escaped with their lives, most of the saved being members of the crew. It is safe to say that with an English, or an American crew there would have been a far different story to tell.

CANADA: AN ENCYCLOPEDIA OF THE COUNTRY

Under the editorial supervision of Mr. J. Castell Hopkins several hundred of the most celebrated Canadian writers are engaged in the preparation of a work in five royal quarto volumes bearing the above title. The purpose of this work is to furnish, in the most convenient form for ready reference and topical reading, complete and accurate information upon every important subject relating to the history, development and resources of the Dominion of Canada. The outline of subjects to be treated is divided into 40 parts, each representing a distinct branch of Canadian development, and including a series of carefully classified articles by noted authorities. Statistical and explanatory notes, the result of vast research and study on the part of the editor and his assistants, are to appear throughout the work supplementing the original articles, and completing in detail the treatment of every subject; while elaborate alphabetical indexes will render its stores of information available at a moments notice.

The idea of such a publication is magnificent and daring. In magnitude and thoroughness of design the work has certainly no parallel in Canadian literature. Many useful histories of Canada, and scattered volumes dealing with various subjects, have appeared, but no attempt has been made heretofore to collect and classify in a single work the whole round of Canadian information. It is a source of gratification that Canada has reached that stage of national development where such an undertaking is possible from a financial or business standpoint. The cost of producing this encyclopedia must be considerable. More than 300 eminent writers are engaged in its preparation; the editorial work is laborious and expensive, and the mechanical details—paper, typography, binding and illustrations—are all of the highest character. Some of the engravings in particular are of great historic value. An entirely new set of Canadian maps, the most elaborate and complete yet published, have been designed for the work from the latest surveys by Dr. Geo. M. Dawson, Director of the Geological Department, and executed in Edinburgh by Bartholomew & Co. In every detail the work will be fully equal to the best literary productions of England and the United States. Mr. Castell Hopkins and his publishers (The Linscott Publishing Co). are to be congratulated upon the issue of a work of reference which will mark a distinct epoch in Canadian literature, and at the same time furnish our citizens with a vast fund of valuable information not otherwise accessible.

Mr. Hopkins, it will be remembered, has already made his mark as a writer. He is the author of several important publications which have enjoyed an extensive circulation and won the recognition of the English press and of many noted men in the Mother Country No man could be more preeminently fitted for the editorship of these volumes.

By special permission the work is dedicated to Her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen. Never before, we believe, has Her Majesty been pleased to grant this favor to a Canadian publication. Prefaces to the five volumes, respectively, are by His Excellency the Earl of Aberdeen, G. C. M. G.; the Right Hon. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, G. C. M. G.; the Hon. Sir Charles Tupper, Bart., G. C. M. G.; the Right Hon. Sir Henry Strong, Kt., P. C.; the Hon. Sir Alexandre Lacoste, Kt., LL. D.

The Government buys the Toronto Globe at the rate of 10 cents a copy. The price to the general public is two cents. Probably the Government thinks that much more of the Globe than the general public does.

The London Statist says that "English iron ore is running short. There is still plenty of iron ore in England but it is too far down." What's the matter with getting a supply from Canada? There is plenty of it here and to spare. All that is needed is capital to work the mines and if mining was undertaken on a big scale, iron ore could as cheaply be mined here as on the south shore of Lake Superior by the Americans. Of course there is the all important question of transit, but as England already imports large quantities of iron ore from the Iberian peninsula, Scandinavia, it should be possible to give Canada a chance of the trade. In any case if it transpired that the ore could not be profitably shipped to England, there is no reason why English capital should not establish steel and iron manufacturies in Canada and form a base of profitable trade.

A writer in the London Daily Mail notes the fact that the Bank of England had lately revoked the rule refusing silver coins with holes in them. The mutilation of coin, even by the boring of a small hole, is a stupid thing to do, but it does not seriously lessen its value.

At banquet in Madrid the other evening Senor Robeldo made a violent anti-government speech. He insisted that when the moment arrived Spain ought to treat directly with the United States for peace. He concluded with pointing out that the existing institutions would be endangered, adding "but nevertheless we must do our duty as Spaniards and defend our country."

WIND AND ORATORY

The Hansard reports of the last session of parliament are still arriving in instalments. They make very interesting reading—in spots. A little practice with Hansard enables the reader to skip the arid wastes of barren verbosity with which the windy members delight to cover its pages. And speaking of Hansard suggests that the time has arrived for a drastic remedy for the disgusting surfeit of long speeches for which the Dominion House of Commons has become noted, which are utterly fruitless, utterly tiresome and to which nobody but the overworked stenographers ever listens. After the first three or four speeches in a big debate there invariably follows a monotonous reiteration of stale repetition, a scrap book and patch work mosiac of mouthy talk, which costs the country thousands of dollars and the only earthly object of which is to show the electors of some one horse backwoods constituency what a high muck-a-muck their member is. The most effective choke-off for these barrel organ orators and their tin horn productions is to pass a rule limiting ordinary speeches to ten minutes. As the average legislator can say all he knows in considerably less than half that time, and as all the speeches in a debate after the first few are only feeble rehashes of what has been already said by better speakers, there is absolutely no sense in allowing monotonous mediocrities to monopolize the time and money of parliament for no earthly use. Free speech is all right but nobody should be compelled to listen to bores, neither should the over burdened taxpayer be mulcted with the cost of reporting and printing the drivelling poppycock that percolates from the M. P.'s who continually talk without saying anything.

HIS ADVICE.

What the Man of Experience Thought of the Klondike.

"Now that you have made up your mind to go to the Klondike, let me give you a little advice," said the man of experience.

"I will be glad to have you," returned one who was preparing to start. "I know you to be a man of sound sense and great experience, and anything you may say will have my serious consideration. However, I don't mind informing you that I have already received enough advice to stock a combination circulating and reference library."

"Nevertheless," returned the man of experience, "I think my suggestions will differ greatly from all you have received so far, and I am egotistical enough to think they will be quite as valuable. Of course you understand that no one should start for the Klondike without the most thorough preparation."

"No less than 18 men have so informed me," replied the venturesome one, "and in addition to that I had reached the same conclusion myself."

"The outfit that you will have to buy in San Francisco or Seattle will cost you several thousand dollars, if it is to be at all complete."

"I realize it and have made my arrangements accordingly. I shall take enough provisions to last me a whole year."

"Your own fare and the transportation of your equipment will cost quite a tidy sum," continued the man of experience, "and you should aim to have at least $2,000 in cash with you when you strike Dawson City."

"I anticipate that I will have $500 more than that."

"In case you have money enough to do all this," the man of experience went on, "there is only one piece of real common sense advice that I can give you, and that is to stay right here in this country and live on the money for the next three years, and if you haven't struck something that pays at least moderately well in that time you will have the satisfaction of knowing that you haven't gone broke so quick by two years as would have been the case in Alaska."—Chicago Post.

The Indian Department at Winnipeg has received word their effort to stop the sun dance at Yorkton was successful. The sun dance had been arranged as part of the proceedings of Dominon Day in town but as these dances have a harmful effect upon the Indians the department made an effort to stop the dance and were successful.

A telegram from Le Journal, Paris, says the mental condition of the Pope is exaggerated, but it is true his mind is failing. His Holiness has been greatly deceived by Cardinal Rampola's attitude in the war. While the Pope is doing his utmost to prevent war, Cardinal Rampola is intriguing to nullify the negotiations. The Pope eventually learned the truth and became so angry and excited that the incident permanently affected his brain. Since then he has had no communication with Cardinal Rampola.

The Dominion Government have decided to send a commissioner to Macleod, to investigate the circumstances of the tragic death of the two Crow's Nest workmen, Fraser and Macdonald, who succumbed to diphtheria in January last, and the discussion of which cases in Parliament excited so much interest. This is in accord with the pledge given by the premier that the cases would be thoroughly investigated.—Regina Leader.

The postal conferrence is proceeding at Westminister Palace hotel, but it is strictly private. Hon. Wm. Mullock's mission continues to excite much attention. To-morrow he will move in favor of a uniform penny postage from any one portion of the British Empire to any other British post office. This first step is supported by Cape Colony and Natal. The attitude assumed by Mr. Mullock in the conference is that in an imperial question of this kind the Dominion Government will not allow the financial question to enter. This attitude receives warm approval in the press.

"What have I neglected?" demanded the king.

As a result of a council of war hastily called they forwarded one carload of ordinary pins, one carload of hairpins and one carload of safety pins.—Chicago Post.

The Retort Pitiful.

A clubman was searching desperately through his pockets for the extra quarter demanded by a malevolent cabman. The cab driver regarded his unhappy fare with supercilliousness and uttered words.

At last the clubman found the coin. As he passed it to the scowling driver he exclaimed bitterly:

"Oh, beware, be not too proud! You cannot tell what the future may bring. Some time you yourself may ride inside the cab!"—Judy.

FASHIONABLE FURNISHING.

Newest Styles In Decoration For Correct Interiors.

The aspect of fashionable apartments is now completely changed from what it was a few years ago. The subdued æsthetic tints, the Eastlake and Queen Anne forms, have disappeared, and instead styles of the Louis Quinze and Louis Seize periods prevail, all light, bright color, gold and ornamental work. Upholstery materials of delicate tones, covered with designs of flowers, birds, ribbon bows, shepherds and shepherdesses, are preferred to the more rich and somber tapestries formerly employed, and the woodwork is gilded or enameled in white, ivory, pale green or pale pink. The wall hangings of the lightest, most delicate tints of paper or damask are frequently paneled, and the general effect is that of a sort of frivolous formality, such as characterized the actual historical period from which these decorations are borrowed. There is nothing homelike or comfortable in this style, which is better suited to ball and reception rooms than to the real living rooms of a family, where deeper coloring and less regularity of furnishing and arrangement are to be desired.

There is no sort of furniture superior to that made of rattan for combining lightness and simplicity with comfort. It is very strong and serviceable and is also artistic in effect. It may be washed with a brush when it becomes soiled, although it does not easily appear defaced when it is finished with oak stain and varnished. With bright cushions it furnishes a sitting room or bedroom very prettily.

The cut shows a novel blouse jacket of red cloth. It has a basque of medium length, and in front the fullness is arranged to form a loose box plait, which falls outside the belt. The jacket closes under this plait, which is decorated with three horn buttons. The revers, high collar, basque and top and wrist of the sleeves are trimmed with bands of black satin ribbon fastened by gold buttons.

NEW STYLES.

Forms and Fashions Which Will Prevail In the Near Future.

The polonaise form is going to be much worn during the summer, although it is not new, having been first seen on winter gowns. The curve toward the foot is increased in the latest models, and the general effect is dignified, but not very youthful. These polonaise skirts open over a tablier of embroidered silk, mousseline de sole or some other goods differing from the rest of the skirt.

The polonaise jacket is a novelty which is seen in cloth, but is more especially intended for silk as a summer wrap to be worn with gowns of lace, gauze and muslin when a wrap is required. This jacket is a sort of very tight coat, descending to the knee, and is double breasted, closing with three buttons. It opens from the waist down and curves back toward the lower edge like a man's cutaway coat. The collar and revers are of differing styles, according to the fancy of the wearer.

The chiffon and lace covered parasol of the past is not novel enough for the satisfaction of fashion this year, although it is prettier than many of the new styles. Among the latter are parasols entirely covered with little ruffles of satin ribbon about an inch wide, and heavy enough they are, for it takes yards and yards to cover an ordinary sized parasol with overlapping frills. In another design the ribbon is put on flat in stripes of alternate colors, running parallel with the edge. Many of the new sun umbrellas in plain or changeable tints have immensely thick handles of natural or ebonized wood and when rolled up in the case present the aspect of a heavy club.

Today's illustration shows a costume of mauve cloth. The skirt has a large box plait in front, which is opened toward the foot to show a fan of light blue surah. Gold cord passementerie finishes the foot of the skirt and the edge of the opening. The bodice has a box plait back and front and in front revers embroidered with gold cord. The guimpe belt and collar are of blue surah, the sleeves and epaulets of mauve cloth.

WEDDING GARMENTS.

Fashions of Interest as the Month of Brides Approaches.

Marriage is always a good excuse for leaving off mourning attire. Marriages do not usually take place in a bereaved family until some time after the loss of the relative. While the bride will naturally continue in black up to the day of the wedding, she is quite justified in providing colored gowns for her trousseau. If she does not wish to make too abrupt a change, she may abandon mourning materials, but still keep to subdued tints, such as gray, mauve, violet and combinations of black and white. Weddings of this sort are usually very quiet, no public celebration being made. Only intimate friends of the family and relatives are invited, and there is no reception.

Brides do not make presents, being rather in a position to accept them. Nevertheless it is customary for a young girl who is a prospective bride to present some of her simple articles of jewelry or bric-a-brac to her most intimate girl friends as souvenirs. Nothing new is bought for this purpose, the value of the gift lying in the fact that it is a personal belonging of the bride.

The costume in which a bride makes her first calls after her marriage is always a subject of considerable interest to herself and others. It may be of black or colored silk. Black is rather serious, but may be lightened by frivolousness of cut and by colored accessories. It is fashionable this year, even for young people. A pretty brocho silk or taffeta of a becoming tint and daintily trimmed is the most suitable, generally speaking, and all the accessories should be very neat and dainty. Greater elaboration is permissible than is customary for young, unmarried women in good society.

The picture shows a bridal gown of white satin. The skirt, which is entirely lined with white taffeta, is quite plain and has a long, round train. The close satin bodice opens over a full chemisette of cream mousseline de soie, framed in coquilles of point d'angleterre. The wrinkled satin sleeves have wrist frills and caps of lace, a large satin bow being placed on each shoulder. A cluster of orange blossoms is placed at the left shoulder, another at the left side of the waist, and the long veil of illusion is fastened to the head by a tiny spray of orange blossoms.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

MATERIALS AND TRIMMINGS.

Pretty and Fashionable Fabrics For Summer Wear.

Changeable taffeta, although it has seen much service, is still worn and will continue in favor all summer, both for gowns and separate bodices. It is also used for the fluffy little capes, veiled in mousseline de sole and lace, which accompany light summer gowns.

Foulard is newer, and the favorite style at present is that in which a plain ground, either bright or dark, is broken by a white design rather closely set. Detached figures, with the exception of dots, are not greatly favored. Foulard having a pattern the same color as the ground, but a shade darker, is also seen and is more of a novelty than that in which the pattern is white.

NEW CAPE.

Black mousseline de soie is still much employed as a trimming for silk costumes and capes. It is finely plaited and used very full or is made into tiny ruches or puffings which are arranged to four various designs upon the surface of the goods. Black chantilly, long neglected by fashion, is again coming to the front as trimming and is seen in the form of ruffles on many summer gowns of light materials. Applications of lace or guipure are also in high favor as a trimming for thin silks and voiles.

Today's illustration shows a pleasing little cape of black net. The net is plaited and arranged over a lining of emerald green silk, the edge being finished by a thick black ruche of mousseline de soie bordered with satin. Revers of black satin covered with jeweled embroidery in jet and emeralds form a point at the back and cross in front, fastening at the waist under a bow and continuing in two long ends which fall upon the skirt. A flounce of chantilly comes from beneath the revers and falls over the net. The collar is composed of ruches of tulle, and the cravat of chantilly.

SEA CAPTAIN'S LOYALITY

He Refused to Supply Coal to a Spanish Steamer.

A telegram dated Washington June 30, gives the details of an attempt to induce the captain of an United States vessel to transfer 700 tons of coal from its bunkers to the Spanish steamer Maria Herrara. It seems that Captain Phinney, of the American steamer Clara A. Phinney, of New Bedford was authorised some days ago to clear 700 tons of coal from Mobile to Vera Crux, affidavids being made by responsible citizen of Mobile that the coal was to be used for railroad purposes.

On reaching Vera Cruz the captain of the Phinney, was directed by the consignee, to place his vessel alongside the Spanish steamer Maria Herrara, in the presence of a group of Spanish symphathisers. Captain Phinney bluntly refused, declaring with emphasis, that no vessel of his charge would lay alongside a ship bearing the flag of his country's enemy, much less supply her with even a pound of coal. The captain with a crowd at his heels, marched to the United States Consulate and notified the consul. Exports of coal by Mr. Jonblanc to Vera Cruz will cease and the department will undertake to fix the responsibility and punishment for the deed.

The London Times has sent out Miss Flora Shaw on a mission of enquiry to the Klondyke, and that lady is well on the way to her destination. In answer to an enquiry she said: "Who have had so many conflicting reports concerning matters up there that I decided to go out and learn the truth myself. I will not stay any longer than will be absolutely necessary to obtain reliable information concerning the country, and hope to be back in London in four month's time."

IN CROW'S NEST

THE TRACK LAID 100 MILES WEST OF MACLEOD

Some Interesting Facts About the Country—A Big Saw Mill—The Coking Coal Mines.

Calgary Herald

D. V. Mott, rancher, of Nanton, who has just returned from a trip over the Crow's Nest Railway while renewing his subscription at THE HERALD office was asked to talk about his observations in the south. Track laying is now complete for a few miles from coal Creek on the west slope of the Rockies, 100 miles west of Macleod, Bull Head, at the summit, is in the neighborhood of 60 miles this side of Coal Creek.

The latter is a log built frontier town, reminding one of the descriptions of Dawson. It is composed principally of restaurants, stores and pleasure resorts. The Crow's Nest Coal Co., have their mines here and are putting in a hundred coke ovens. Practical miners pronounce the coking coal to be of high quality, one old Welsh miner who has mined in Harrisburg, Pittsburg, Scranton and Wheeling giving his opinion that it is some of the finest in the world. The present known extent of the coal field is 15x30 miles. The coke ovens are built side by side in a long row and when once started never need to be relighted, as the coke when burned is drawn from alternate ovens which are then refilled, the necessary heat being automatically communicated from the adjoining ovens.

Coal Creek townsite has been surveyed and the streets laid out. The C.P.R. is erecting an immense lumber mill three miles below Coal Creek, where they have about three million feet of timber laid out ready for the works when in operation. It is said the new name for Coal Creek is Fernie, after the discoverer of the coal mine.

Mr. Mott travelled by train all the way. Train connections are of course not perfect. At one siding the passengers numbering about twenty, were dumped into a box car about one o'clock in the morning and told to wait for the next train which would be along in about an hour. It came exactly ten hours later.

The road bed as far as Bull Head is very good but the difficulties of construction are much greater on the other side. Gravel is being taken from the Middle Fork for ballasting the road. The huge dumps between Macleod and Pincher Creek have successfully stood the high winds, though it was predicted last fall that they would be swept away.

The southern ranching country looks first class—plenty of grass, plenty of rain, and crops in excellent condition. The hay crop is immense and cattle are doing better than ever. A general air of increasing prosperity is noticeable all over the country.

TRAIN COLLISION

Engineer and Firemen Killed—Two Trains Smashed on the Crow's Nest Railway.

On Sunday July 3rd, while a construction train was being shunted at the summit on the Crow's Nest Railway the brakes gave way and the train ran down the mountain, the engine being on a side track. Another train was coming up and the inevitable collision occurred, the result being a bad smash up in which the fireman was instantly killed and the engineer so fearfully scalded that he died shortly afterwards. THE HERALD could not learn the names of the victims.

DOMINION DAY IN ENGLAND

Celebrated at the Imperial Institute With a Banquet.

On Dominion Day, in London, a banquet at which over 250 Canadians were present was given at the Imperial institute presided over by Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal.

The guests included the Marquis of Lorne, the Duke of Norfolk, the Earl of Dunraven, Baron Herschell and Sir Charles Tupper.

Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal, in proposing "The Dominion of Canada," dwelt upon the "oneness of Canadians and Britons." He eulogized Baron Herschell and Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the Dominion premier, who, he was confident would safe guard the interests of Canada and Great Britain. In conclusion he applauded the ties that bind Canada and the mother country more and more closely.

Patriotic speeches were made by the Hon. A. C. Blair, the Canadian Minister of Railways and Canals; the Hon. Wm. Mulock, Canadian Postmaster general; the Hon. Richard Reid and many other prominent personages.

The postal note system which came into operation in Canada on July 1st, will prove of the greatest convenience in the transfer of small amounts of cash.

Next Friday morning Brigadier Howell and the new marine band, in full uniform, will start on a crusade through Stevens county and the Kootenay country, Deer Park is the first place to be visited, then Springdale, Marcus, Colville, Northport, Rossland and so on to the north.

Wm. Smith, who with Mr. Crilly own the Franklin and Gillman mineral claims on Mohawk creek, a tributary of Pool creek, paid the HERALD a visit yesterday. Mr. Smith reports about 35 men now at work doing development work on their different properties. The new wagon road up Fish Creek is completed to within half a mile of the mouth of Pool Creek. The Fish Creek mining country is coming fast to the front and with a little capital to push the work of development, will be one of the foremost camps of North Kootenay. Excellent work has been done on both the wagon road and trails in that locality, which is fully appreciated by the miners and prospectors who have to pack supplies to their properties.

The Woman With Red Hair.

Instead of being dissatisfied with their lot, women with red hair should study how to use it becomingly and be proud of the distinction of having it. There appears to be an impression among women with red hair, says an exchange, that almost any shade of blue can be worn by them because as a usual thing they have fair and delicate complexions. But as a matter of fact blue is the one color above all others that they ought to avoid. The contrast is too violent and the combination is not harmonious. The shades most suitable to be worn with red hair are bright, sunny brown and all autumn leaf tints. After these may be selected pale or very dark green, but never a bright green, pale yellow and black unmixed with any other color. Mixed colors are not becoming to red haired people, as they nearly always give them a more or less dowdy appearance. In fact, red hair is usually so brilliant and decided that it must be met on its own ground, and no vague, undecided sort of thing should be worn with it.

Well Shod Women.

In a recent article in the London Mail there was a clever description, by Julian Ralph, on the shortcomings of some women's dress.

"They never can keep their minds on the subject of clothes long enough to remember their feet. No matter how smartly dressed one is—in their peculiar fashion—her energy and money both give out before the shoes are reached."

How often is this reproach made to English women! Americans are always neatly shod. The Parisienne chaussure is dainty, if not particularly serviceable, but it is in Sardinia that the feet of women are smartly clad, a scrupulous attention to this part of the toilet being considered of paramount importance, even among the peasant women.

Their stockings are made of the finest wool, and the elaboration of openwork and embroidery on the instep is beyond description.—London Exchange.

Uncommon Condiments.

A condiment too little used here, but which, like Pope's "vice," needs but familiarity to lead to its embrace, is paprika, or the Hungarian red pepper. This possesses a mild, sweet flavor and is largely used by the Romans, the Austrians and Hungarians, the best cooks in the world, for seasoning pickles, sauces, salads and meats. It is of a deep orange color and is said to possess all the stimulating qualities of alcohol, with none of its after effects.

A similar article, called pimento, is used by the Spaniards for its flavoring and coloring properties. It is a preparation of tomato and red pepper, made into an oily paste. Cooks buy a few cents' worth at a time and use it sparingly, as a large dose gives only an unpleasant taste to a dish.—New York Tribune.

Kitchen Comforts.

Some one makes the admirable suggestion that as in the other parts of the house little new conveniences are constantly being added, as they are seen in the shops from time to time, so the kitchen comforts should be gone over and care taken that their supply keeps pace with the many modern conveniences in that domain. Often this part of housekeeping is entirely ignored, and maids go on overcoming small handicaps in their work all day long, which the mistress would be very quick to remedy if her attention was called to the matter. Emergency makeshifts are very valuable, of course, at times when the emergency really exists, but to hamper the general housework girl in a city kitchen with old fashioned, unwieldy utensils is not wise.

Children and Fresh Air.

A great doctor once remarked that bad ventilation deforms more children and destroys more health than accident or plague. Baby should never be put to sleep in bed or perambulator with the head under the bedclothing, to inhale the air already breathed and further contaminated by exhalations from the skin. "You are smothering the life out of your child's lungs," an anxious mother was told not long ago. "How would you like to drink the water you wash in? Well, when you cover your baby's head up, you force him to use air that is just as bad and just as impure."

Did you ever suffer torment from a shoe tight in one spot? Here is a remedy for it: Apply sweet oil to the stockings where the rub comes. It is better than applying it to the boot, because it softens the inside of the boot where it is needed instead of the outside.

Boiling water ought never to be poured over tea trays, japanned goods and the like, in that it cracks the varnish. Wash rather with warm water, a soft sponge and a very little soap. Sweet oil is good for taking out marks made by hot things.

A little pulverized chalk moistened with ammonia and applied with a brush will remove the mark caused by the dripping of a faucet in a marble basin. An old toothbrush is a good thing to use for this purpose.

A CREDITABLE PARADE

The L. O. L. Attend the Methodist Church in a Body—Bro. S. J. Thompson Preached a Noble Sermon.

From Monday's DAILY HERALD.

The Orange parade to the Methodist church last evening was a decided success, threatening as the weather was during the afternoon. Some 75 or 80 Orangemen met at their hall on McKenzie avenue, and headed by the Revelstoke brass band, walked en mass to the church. The sermon was preached by Bro. S. J. Thompson and was listened to with great attentiveness by the overcrowded audience, and the order has good reason to be proud of the kind and noble remarks passed by Bro. Thompson concerning the history and progressiveness of Orangeism. The sermon will long be remembered by all present, and particularly the Orange association. When the lodge again met in their hall a unanimous vote of thanks was tendered Bro. S. J. Thompson by the members.

A BAD PITCH IN

Fatal Accident on the Crow's Nest Line—The Engineer and Fireman Killed.

Monday's DAILY HERALD.

On Sunday morning last, just before daybreak, a terrible accident occurred at the 5th siding on the Crow's Nest Railway, nine miles west of Macleod, resulting in the death of Engineer Lehmann and Fireman Manning of engine 361, and the destruction of a large quantity of property. Engine 261, with her train, was backing into the sidetrack at the 5th siding when, without any warning, she was struck by nine loaded runaway cars going at a fearful rate of speed.

The particulars of the accident are about as follows: A train heavily loaded with steel and bricks stopped on the main line at the 7th siding (Pincher Creek), and the engine cut loose to pick up some cars in the siding. When she backed down to couple on to the train the jar started nine cars back down the grade east from the 7th siding. A little further east the grade gets heavier, and the runaway train got up speed very quickly. They must have come down the grade to the Pincher creek bridge at a fearful speed, as they climbed the long heavy hill at Lagrandeur's and started off again down hill, never stopping until they collided with the train at the 5th siding, 20 or more miles from where they started. It is supposed they were running about 60 miles an hour at the time when they struck. Engine 361 was driven back about three cars and turned upside down in the ditch, completely wrecking her, and piling the cars up on top of her and all over the prairie. The dome of the engine was stripped off, and the escaping steam tore a hole in the ground. Engineer Lehman was caught in the seething cauldron and was not rescued until he was scalded from head to foot, scarcely an inch on his body escaping the steam. The fireman Manning was thrown out and had his back broken, besides receiving other severe injuries.

As soon as word could be got to Macleod an engine was sent out and the engineer and fireman were brought in. They were met at the station by Dr. Kennedy and taken at once to the hospital. Lehmann only lived for half an hour after being taken to the hospital. Manning died before he could be taken into the hospital. Both men were conscious almost up to the last, and bore their sufferings with the utmost fortitude.

Engineer Lehman's body was sent east by Monday's train to his relatives in Ontario. Fireman Manning was buried here yesterday, a large number of railroad men and others turning out to the funeral.—Macleod Gazette.

Saturday's Concert.

The Lash-Hamilton concert held in Tapping's theatre on Saturday night under the auspices of Fire Brigade No. 2, proved an almost unqualified success so far as the quality of the entertainment was concerned, although it was perhaps somewhat lacking in quantity. The house was only half filled—a much smaller attendance than the efforts of the company and the enterprise of the brigade merited.

The company consists of Miss Lash, contralto; Miss Hamilton, elocutionist, and Miss Winlow, violincello. Miss Lash, whose voice is of a particularly full and rich tone, provoked an encore each time she appeared, her rendering of the "Venetian Love Song" being especially admirable and displaying her splendid vocal powers to the best advantage. A certain stiffness in this young ladie's stage manners—a common fault amongst amateurs—might, however be well dispensed with. The recitations by Miss Hamilton were well received. "The Honor of the Woods," which was probably the most difficult piece in Miss Hamilton's share of the programme, was given in such a spirited and sympathetic manner as to rivet the attention of the audience from beginning to end. "The Kitchen Clock" is a very pretty little poem, and the recital of it was thoroughly enjoyed. Miss Winlow's performances on the 'cello were splendidly done for so young a lady, and were appreciated accordingly. The absence of printed programmes—always a mistake—prevented most of if not all the audience from taking an intelligent interest in some of the numbers.
