University Extension

Mr. R. E. Gosnell, the organizing secretary for the University Association, spent Saturday, Sunday and Monday in town and met with good success in forming a reading centre in Revelstoke.

Most of those who joined the association here decided to take up the Universal history course the method pursued in which is typical of all.

In return for the fee of $3.75 the student receives once a month for 12 months what the association calls syllabus, but which to the popular understanding is a number of a magazine dealing not as magazines usually do with a score of topics, but with only one.
