OUR MISREPRESENTATIVE

Mr. Cotton's utterance in the House with regard to Mr. Sibbald's dismissal places that episode in a new and peculiar light. Among all the dismissals of government officials, which have taken place since the new ministry came into power, one only declared Mr. Cotton was made for political reasons. All the others took place because the officials were incompetent or unnecessary. But Mr. Sibbald alone was dismissed on political grounds only, and these were that his appointment was distasteful to the people of this riding. Mr. Cotton made no allusion to the canyon wagon road matter at all. According to him this cut no figure in the dismissal at all, although the report on it was made by Mr. Cummins last October and must have been for some time in the hands of the Chief Commissioner of Lands and Works at the date of Mr. Sibbald's dismissal. It is reasonable then to suppose that the representations made to the ministers and the lieutenant-governor, and on which they acted in dismissing Mr. Sibbald, did not include any charges of incompetency or misappropriation with regard to the wagon road grant or that if they did the point must have been considered an obviously capable of refutation on the face of it, since no notice was taken of it. We have Mr. Cotton's word that this charge had nothing to do with the dismissal, which was occasioned by political considerations alone.

Now, in the first place, with regard to these political reasons, THE HERALD is willing to admit that, at the time the appointment was made there was considerable opposition to it, and a good deal of it of a superficial and vulgarized nature. But in making his representations on the subject Kellie represented that this feeling still existed at the time of the decision to dismiss Mr. Sibbald, then his representations were grossly false and misleading. By that time Mr. Sibbald had fully justified his appointment and had proved himself to the satisfaction of every reasonable man as a most capable, impartial and upright official. Plenty of men who disliked his appointment when made are now perfectly willing to attest to his singular fitness for the position as proved by the twelve months of his occupation of it.

Kellie knew this perfectly well. He knew that the grounds on which he had demanded Mr. Sibbald's head in Victoria, the political reasons of Mr. Cotton, would not go down so easily in this riding. He knew that the real political reason of Mr. Sibbald's dismissal, the imperative necessity of opening the position for one at all events of his political supporters to whom it had been promised, was perfectly well known in Revelstoke and he knew that his constituents had to be reckoned with and that he could not expect their approval. What did he do? He endeavored to make it appear that Mr. Sibbald's handling of the canyon wagon road grant was the real reason for the step taken by the government in that gentleman's dismissal and indeed had it not been for Mr. Cotton's inconvenient frankness, most people would have been convinced that such was really the case. In other words he did not hesitate after depriving Mr. Sibbald of his position, to go on to rob that gentleman of his reputation, in order to cover up his own tracks.

Thanks to Mr. Cotton this dastardly and unprincipled attempt has completely failed. We know now that Mr. Sibbald was dismissed simply because his appointment was misrepresented to the government as an unpopular one. We know now that he was not dismissed on account of any incompetency or worse, as it has been endeavored to misrepresent the matter to this constituency. And we know now better than ever the kind of misrepresentative whom we have the happiness to possess at Victoria.

PEACE AND GOODWILL

The Dawning Era of Universal Peace Throughout the World

How true it is that "coming events cast their shadows before." Among the most notable signs of the times are the rapid advances being made towards civilization and the near prospect of universal peace. There is first of all the proposed scheme by Cecil Rhodes of an all-through railway from the Cape to Cairo, on the Nile. Then there is the movement by Lord Kitchener for endowing a college at Khartoum in memory of General Gordon. This again is followed by the prospect of purchasing Palestine from Turkey and colonizing the ancient land given to Abraham and his posterity, making it a home for the Jewish race; and, as everyone knows, the most recent proposals towards a memorial amnesty among the nations of Europe is the Czar's proposal for disarmament. Coming near home, who would have thought three years ago that we were so near a peaceful understanding on all questions of trade and commerce and international comity as between the two nations that inhabit the North American continent? Good often comes out of evil. The Hispano-American war affords a striking illustration and proof of that adage. We have had recent expressions of public sentiment in favor of international peace and harmony from some of the leading minds, political and otherwise, both in England and the United States. As an example, the Right Hon. Arthur Balfour, leader of the Imperial Government in the British House of Commons, took occasion in addressing his constituents at Manchester to dilate upon the peaceful relations now existing and likely to continue between the two great English speaking nations of the world. More than a century has passed away since the declaration of American independence, since which time until recently there matters, national and commercial, and even so lately as the controversy regarding Venezuela, public feeling in the United States was aroused to the highest pitch because they imagined that England had designs of empire in South America. But fortunately calmer counsels prevailed preventing a war between people of the same origin and blood; and now more recently the friendly attitude shown by Britain towards the neighboring republic in their effort to defend and protect Cuba against Spanish misrule has brought about a feeling of harmony between the two nations whose language and laws, religion origin and blood are substantially one. Some critics are disposed to view this happy feeling of unity as ephemeral, as the growth of passing circumstances which may be disturbed at any moment by an adverse tariff or some other accidental event. But as Mr. Balfour hinted, the present relations of amity are founded on mutual sympathy and by a common aim which bids fair to extend to all parts of the world as a guarantee for future peace and freedom, progress and civilization among the whole human race. Virtually the same sentiments have been expressed by the Right Hon. Mr. Chamberlain, colonial secretary. Similar to these are the sentiments of Admiral Dewey, of the U. S. navy, in which he is reported to have said: "The Imperial policy of England was the one factor which had done most to civilize the world." It seems as though it was the purpose of Providence to make the Anglo-Saxon race the great factor for civilizing and christianizing the whole world, and to hasten the period which prophets have foretold and of which poets have sung when wars should forever cease and universal peace and righteousness prevail over the earth. Meantime the surest guarantee for peace is to be prepared against the possibility of war, because as Lord Roberts, the commander-in-chief of the British forces, has said: "What would unarmed civilization do against the hordes of armed barbarians? The heathen and uncivilized barbarians vastly outnumber the civilized nations, and while disarmament is on a Congress, it certainly cannot be regarded as a fixed actuality until the nations of the earth are so far brought under the influence of christian civilization as that all should agree to bury the hatchet and learn the art of war no more. But things are surely coming to that happy consummation when the nations of the civilized world will agree to be content with what they have and cease to strive for further aggrandizement. The outlook is hopeful and the issue is in the hands of a higher power than that of man.

REVELSTOKE DESCRIBED

An Appreciative Article On This Rising Business Centre by Odium of the Vancouver World.

A recent issue of the Vancouver World contains a very appreciative description of this town by E. Odium, who spent a few days here last week. In concluding his article Mr. Odium says:

With the rich mining country near Revelstoke, on the south and east, already convenient to roads, steamers and railways; with the rich mineral stretches in the Big Bend country up the Columbia to the north; with the Canadian Pacific Railway east, west and south already in operation; with the coming railway through the north country, having its southern terminus here; with the ever extending C.P.R. shops and works; and with the central position of this town hundreds of miles from the coast, Revelstoke is bound to be one of the first inland towns of British Columbia. This above statement I make in all honesty. To do other would be unworthy a public writer. And now, in conclusion, let the people of the coast, especially at Vancouver, bear in mind that the growth of Revelstoke and other inland centres will steadily advance and secure the future welfare of the whole country in general and the Terminal City in particular.

Mr. Tingley and Captain Irving have a contract to furnish a number of horses for Atlin. Mr. Tingley is at present sojourning at the 131 Mile House, his shipping headquarters, where he has several hundred horses rounded up.

Two telegraph operators are kept rushing and the old Cariboo line must be hot with business.

Forks Quesnelle is to have another working mine this summer. The name of the new company is the Gold Point Hydraulic Mining Co. They have a car of machinery now at Ashcroft awaiting furtherance to Quesnelle Forks.

RETURN EMPTY HANDED

Laurier's Sunny Ways Cut No Ice at Washington.

Washington, February 21.—The International High Joint Commission after a session yesterday adjourned to meet at Quebec on August 2nd unless the chairmen of the respective committees agree upon another date in the interim.

Accomplished Nothing.

Toronto, February 21.—The Mail's special from Washington says: "As indicated in my dispatch yesterday would be the case, the force of the Anglo-American Joint High Commission, after weeks and weeks' vain and ill-directed efforts, has concluded, and tomorrow the Canadians will pack their trunks at the Shoreham hotel and travel towards their native soil. There is a provision for the commission to meet on August 2nd at Quebec, but none of the commissioners really believe tonight that the meeting will ever take place. There is one hope. It is that during the summer the Alaskan boundary question can be settled through diplomatic negotiations between this country and Great Britain. The Alaskan boundary was one thing that prevented an agreement."

Tupper's Prophetic Views.

Ottawa, February 21.—Sir Charles Tupper is a far seeing politician. The Grit press has condemned him for speaking at Clinton last week of the failure of the Washington negotiations. TWENTY MILLIONS

IMMIGRATION

Severe Criticism of the Plan of Placing Immigrants in Blocks.

Kingslon, February 20.—Rev. S. C. Gland, of Smith's Falls, at a meeting of the Alumni of Queens, referring to the immigration policy urged a close guarding of the kind of people allowed to come to Canada. The States have been inviting to its shores all the rag tag and bobtail of Europe and have been driving out the best element.

Prof. Shortt, in the discussion following, criticized the policy of placing immigrants from various countries in blocks away out in the North West. Here we should find in after years the same trouble as with the French Canadians. What was required was assimilation. The present policy and system was an extremely low and sordid and irrational idea. The result would be elimination of the Anglo-Saxon element from Canada.

A batch of 10 Galicians were married at Edmonton last Tuesday by the Rev. Father Currier. The contracting parties were: Andrew Kamila to Cherska Sarneska; Michael Saffranov to Venci Vazelskik; Valenty Comaszewski to Jagniska Curka; Vavjin Cilavski to Mary Mushlinska; and Jan Barann to Maljojata Vansho. Edmonton Bulletin: The much petted Doukhobors have been approached on the subject of their children learning English. It appears that they are averse to being taught by any one who are being paid for the work. A cleverly oriental way of expressing the idea that they do not want to learn English at all. No doubt it would tend to break up their exclusiveness. As a special favor they will allow a few of their children to attend school.

Regina Standard: Indian Commissioner Lalrd expects to leave Winnipeg about the 15th of May and Edmonton about the 25th of May to meet the Indians of the Peace river country. He will go by rail to Edmonton, thence to Athabasca Landing, across the Little Slave Lake and up the Peace river to Fort St. John in British Columbia. This with the return trip will make a very long and tiresome journey. The northern limit of the trip will touch latitude 60.

Leo XIII. will enter upon the 30th year of his age on March 2, and the 22nd of his supreme pontificate Feb. 26th. Two hundred and sixty-two pontiffs have preceded Leo XIII., but of these only seven have occupied it for 21 years. The average length of a papal reign is seven years. Ten popes died within a month after their election and the shortest reign in the history of the papacy is that of St. Stephen II., who lasted only three days. Of the 262 popes who preceded Leo XIII. 88 have been canonized or beatified. Twelve popes have borne the name of Leo and of the Leos five have been canonized as saints. Of the 57 cardinals living 31 are Italians, 7 French, 5 Spanish, 4 Austro-Hungarian, 1 Irish, 1 English, 1 Swiss and 1 Australian. Pope Leo has created 117 cardinals, and during his pontificate 123 cardinals have passed away. Not a solitary member of the sacred college to which he was admitted by Pius IX. 46 years ago is now living.

BITES THAT POISON.

ANIMALS WHOSE TEETH CARRY A VERDICT OF DEATH.

The Power That Is in the Snap of the Jaws of the Lion, the Leopard, the Wolf and the Tiger—The Crocodile's Formidable Row of Spikes.

Dog bites are always dangerous. This is mainly due not to poisoning, though this often results, but to the frightful wound which any large dog thoroughly in earnest can inflict. Human beings get off lightly in many cases, because, as a rule, a dog only "snaps" at them when irritated, and there is as much difference between a "snap" and a bite as there is between a filly with the back of the fingers and a knockdown blow.

Most poisoning caused by bites is, however, probably due to the state of the creature's teeth. The dog tribe, which have very wet mouths and wet tongues, keep their teeth fairly clean, while herbivorous animals do not. A dog's teeth are nearly always beautifully white, those of a horse or a camel are dirty. Captain Christie in some notes on sport in Somaliland recently published in "Country Life," states that a native cook who served him by a camel bite received during our former Sudan expedition. The work done by the tongue and saliva in constantly cleaning the carnivorous animal's teeth is proved to some extent by the different results of being "clawed" and bitten respectively by the same creature.

Wounds made by the claws of leopards are poisonous, while those caused by the teeth are less frequently so. Sir Samuel Baker notes that the wounds from the claws of a leopard are exceedingly dangerous, as the animal is in the habit of feeding upon carcases some days after they have been killed. The flesh is at that time beginning to decompose, and the claws, which are used to hold it as it is torn by the teeth and jaws, become tainted and poisonous sufficiently to cause gangrene by inoculation. "He recommends that all wounds caused by leopards or tigers should be thoroughly syringed with cold water mixed with a thirty-sixth part of carbolic acid whenever the wound is dressed. Probably modern treatment can improve upon this method."

Apart from all concomitant danger of blood poisoning the severity of the bites of flesh eating animals is out of all proportion to the weapons by which they are inflicted. The teeth, even of the largest carnivora, are merely the "spearhead," but the force which "works" these instruments is prodigious. It seems as if for the moment the animal threw its whole energy into the combination of muscular action which we call a "bite." In most cases the micro shock of impact as the animal hurls itself on its enemy is entirely demoralizing or inflicts physical injury. A paralyzed animal will hurl a man to the ground in the effort to fasten its teeth on his throat or shoulder. Then the driving and crushing force of the jaw muscles is astonishing. The snapping power of an alligator's jaws is more or less intelligible. They are long and furnished with a row of pointed teeth from end to end. But the jaws of the lion, leopard, tiger, bear, wolf or baboon are short, and the long and pointed teeth are few. Yet each of their species has a biting power which in proportion to its size is almost incredible.

Sir Samuel Baker, who had a long and varied acquaintance with the bites of the carnivora, noticed that the tiger usually seized an Indian native by the shoulder and with one jaw on one side and the other on the other bit clean through chest and back. "The fatal wound was the bite, which through back and chest penetrated to the lungs." Europeans are killed by the tiger's bite as well as by the tiger's claws. A Mr. Lewis, son of a missionary of that name, was killed after being shaken for a few moments by a tiger, which then left him. He died next day. In nearly all cases the bite penetrates to the lungs. This kind of wound is characteristic of the attacks of many of the feline. Sooner or later recovery from a cat's bite for the same reason. The canine teeth are almost instantly driven through the lung under the wing. The cheetah, which has a very small mouth, always bites through the black buck's throat.

The leopard when seizing smaller animals, such as dogs, crushes the head. When attacking man it will run up and through the lungs. Sir Samuel Baker must again be quoted. In Africa a native boy was firing rods, accompanied by his brother. A leopard seized one boy and was almost instantly killed by the other, who hurled his spear so accurately that it separated the vertebrae of the leopard's neck. "The boy was carried to my hut," says Sir Samuel, "but there was no chance of recovery, as the fangs had torn open the chest and injured the lungs. These were exposed to view through the cavity between his ribs. He died during the night."

The worst of the "snapping" bites of mammals is that of the wolf. The jaws, unlike those of the feline, are very long. A male wolf's head often seems to be more than a quarter of its length without the tail. Some judges set it at nearly a third of the total length of its body. The bite is always a snap, which will tear away a mass of flesh and will run up and up or inflict a mortal wound on the lower parts of the body. The crocodile bite is the most formidable of the snapping order. Though its teeth are only a row of spikes, it can cut off a limb or bite a fish weighing 70 pounds into two pieces as easily as if they were divided by a knife. Horses usually seize a person by the arm or shoulder when they bite. The result is more often a very bad bruise, like a jam in a door, than a wound. But the great offender in this respect is "our friend the dog," and the greatest sufferers are young children. We have known a little girl of 10 years almost bitten to death by a small St. Bernard dog which was jealous of her and a boy of 6 mauled and lacerated by a bulldog for the same reason. As most persons keep dogs for their own amusement, it is incumbent on them to remember that, though the best of domesticated animals, they are potentially dangerous wild beasts, and if they show signs of vice should be dismissed by euthanasia, not sold to some one else.—London Spectator.

They Couldn't Keep Silent.

There are still about 30 families left in Donald.

Several carloads of household effects came in from Donald on Thursday.

John Hutchinson of Vernon was in town yesterday.

P. R. Peterson returned on Wednesday from the St. Leon Hot Springs.

J. D. Sibbald and A. Johnson left on Thursday for a trip to Ferguson and Trout Lake City.

R. W. Patmore of Donald came up from Victoria on Friday and spent a couple of days in town renewing old acquaintances.

L. M. McDougall, recently principal of the public school here, has been confined to his bed for over a month with rheumatism in Vancouver.

It has been formally announced by the government that parliament will be prorogued Saturday next, says a Victoria despatch dated Feb. 22nd.

The HERALD notices that since Mr. Sibbald was dismissed from the office of gold commissionership the prostitutes from the west end are very much in evidence again.

Arrangements have been made to have services conducted at the hours of 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. in St. Peter's church tomorrow. The choir are specially requested to attend.

The new Victoria evening paper, the Globe, says that "even that ardent follower of the attorney-general, Mr. Kellie of Revelstoke, bucked against the public works estimate" on Wednesday.

The biggest mistake a mining company can make is to suppose that because a man is 'sharp' or a 'good fellow' or has made a success at something else, that he can run a mine.—Western Mining World.

Mr. and Mrs. Hooper of Sicamous, were in town in the early part of the week. They intend residing in the Boundary Creek country. Mrs. Carter, it is said, will run the hotel at Sicamous in their stead.—Kamloops Standard.

The public school is already feeling the effect of the Donald migration and will of course do so still more as the families come in. At present there is an average daily attendance of about 120. Eighteen months ago it is only 30 or thereabouts.

Colonel Sir Thomas Hungerford Holdich, one of the arbitrators in the Argentine-Chile frontier dispute, is a brother of Mr. A. H. Holdich, Nelson's well known assayer, and formerly of Revelstoke. He was for many years in the Imperial service in India.

"The March number of the Church Record, published by Rev. H. F. Clinton at New Westminster, will contain a portrait of the late Rev. F. A. Ford and a sketch of his life. Mr. Clinton has arranged with C. J. Aman to have a number for sale, price 10c. each.

Knights of Pythias

Sir Knights J. L. Brown, Robt. McKay, J. Ladner, W. R. Hume, C. J. Robinson and G. T. Mallory, leave here on Wednesday evening for Revelstoke, where they intend instituting a Knights of Pythias Lodge.—Kamloops Sentinel.

The above gentlemen worked all last Thursday night installing the Gold Range Lodge of the K. P. here. The following were the officers installed: Jas. Gill, C.C.; Dr. J. W. Cross, Vice C.C.; B. R. Campbell, Prelate; E. Waterson, M. of W.; J. Savage, M. of F.; J. G. Allan, M. of E.; W. Murray, K. of R.L. & L.; A. C. Thompson, M. of A.; J. Edgar, I.G.; J. Sullivan, O.G. J. G. Allan was elected deputy district, P.C.C. and Grand Lodge representative for the coming session. The place and day of meeting for the lodge has not been yet fixed.

OLIVER TWIST ASKS FOR MORE

While willing to give the government every credit for the large appropriations made by it for the requirements of Revelstoke itself, the HERALD cannot at the same time help being struck with the smallness of the amount of the grant for the riding in general. Fifteen thousand dollars seems a ridiculously small sum with which to expect the needs of this district to be satisfied. The other ridings of Kootenay are also getting the same amount it is true, but it is also true that they are very much dissatisfied with it. Rossland has even already taken the step of sending a deputation to Victoria to protest.

Compared with the amount of the appropriations made for this riding last year, fifteen thousand dollars appears even still more minute than it does when viewed by itself. The general grant for the riding alone in the last estimates was $28,000, or almost double. But besides this and besides grants for the canyon wagon road and river bank protection, which also figure this time, there were other appropriations which considerably augmented the original sum. There were $3,000 for the Albert Canyon road, Fire Valley road $1,000, Downie Creek bridge, $1,750, Pingston Creek trail $500, and a further general vote in the supplementary estimates of $3,000, altogether amounting to $9,250 and raising the expenditure in the riding outside of the river-bank work and the canyon road to $37,250.

Perhaps the supplementary estimates this year will contain some pleasant surprises for this riding. But there is no certainty that such is the case. Unless something is done our figure is likely to remain at $15,000. The HERALD is distinctly of the opinion that it would be desirable to find out at once what our chances are for another twenty five thousand or so at the very least, and if so, in what direction the extra money is going to be applied. There should be for instance some wagon roads built this year in the Lardeau to enable that district to take the fullest advantage of the line of railway which we are hoping to see built in through it next summer. It is idle of course to expect anything of the kind to come out of our fifteen thousand which will scarcely suffice for the trails absolutely needed in the riding. But the Lardeau needs them and Revelstoke which expects to do the Lardeau trade should have far-sightedness enough to do her best to see that the Lardeau gets them.

A Timely Query?

To the Editor of the HERALD:
Sir: I would like to ask for a small portion of your valuable space to make a couple of queries, which are these:

1.—How about incorporation? Has it died a natural death? There can scarcely be any further doubt about the river bank. The Dominion government has agreed to put up half the expense, the Provincial government has passed the vote in the estimates. The work is going on. The amendments to the Incorporation Act will certainly pass the House. What are we waiting for now? Is it to give the Mail a chance to trump up some further excuse for delay?

2.—In what position does the Farwell townsite stand at present? According to Mr. Bostock it Farwell did not climb down and accept the new patent by the end of the year the townsite would revert to the Dominion government. Has he climbed down or has it reverted or how is it?

ANXIOUS INQUIRER.

(If any of our readers can furnish Answers to these queries with an answer on these points it seems to the HERALD that it will be of interest not only to its correspondent, but to the general public as well).

The following announcement is made for tomorrow's services in the Roman Catholic church: Mass at 10:30 a.m. Subject of sermon: "Yet forty days and Nineveh shall be destroyed." Jonah 3-4. Evening service at 7:30. Lecture on Divorce. "Those whom God hath joined together let no man put asunder." Matthew 19-6.

The March number of the Delineator is called the Early Spring Number and commends itself to subscribers as a wonderfully complete epitome of what is to be the vogue in every department of dress for the coming season. The literary features are of exceptional merit and the household and social discussions marked by a singular quality of originality and utility.

The Rise in Copper

The present strong market condition of copper is puzzling many, and any information that will throw any light upon this subject is eagerly sought after. The most reasonable review that we have heard of is that expressed by a prominent copper producing man. He says: "The position of copper is certainly remarkable. It is simply a question of demand and supply, and the demand is not only sufficient to take care of the production, but it has practically eaten up the visible supply. Copper is going direct to the manufacturer or consumer; there is no middleman today in copper. I believe that the large producing mines will average fully 15c. for their copper delivered for the year 1899."
