RAILWAY WAR NEAR MIDWAY

Jim Hill's Forces compelled by C P R Men to Withdraw—Almost a Pitched Battle says an Eyewitness

MIDWAY, B. C., Oct. 31.—A railway war for access to the Similkameen Valley has begun in earnest near here. The charters of the Columbia & Western and the V. V. & E. Railway Companies provide an interesting conflict of title. The companies really represented are the Canadian Pacific and Great Northern.

An encounter between the rival forces took place last Friday afternoon. The C. P. R. was represented by Chief Engineer R. A. Bainbridge of Vancouver, Contractor W. P. Tierney and fifty men of the grading gang; the Great Northern by Contractor Fisher and twenty-five men. The Canadian company won, and remains in possession of the ground.

The greatest reticence is maintained by the local C. P. R. officials and contractor in regard to the company's purpose, and the extent of the work contemplated.

A. C. Philps describes the incident as follows:—

"Well, as a matter of fact, there is something decidedly novel. There was something like a pitched battle on Meyernon's ranch yesterday afternoon between the C. P. R. and G. N. R. contingents. The C P. R. won by superior numbers and superior generalship.

"It seems to be a conflict of title to a right-of-way west of Midway.

"It arises this way:—The Columbia & Western charter carries the right to build a considerable distance beyond Midway. The line was started five years ago, but many of the stakes have been removed and lost. It has been lately restaked by R. A. Bainbridge, and, I understand, W. T. Tierney, of Nelson, who has the contract, was instructed to begin grading from Midway to Jackson's ranch about two miles to the west.

"Contractor Fisher, acting for the V. V. & E., began grading from Rock Creek eastward toward Midway.

"Well, as they were working on practically the same line, a meeting was inevitable. It came on Friday afternoon at one o'clock when the two forces entered the same field at the same time.

"The scene of conflict was Meyerhoff's ranch, a very valuable tract of land, through which both lines run.

"What followed is hard to describe, there was decided difference of opinion. Mr. Fisher advanced with his force of between twenty and twenty-five men with the avowed intention of driving the C.P.R. men off the ground. He was met by Engineer R. A. Bainbridge, Contractor Tierney and fifty men.

"There was no casualties. The Great Northern men yielded to superior numbers. They didn't succeed in interrupting the work.

"Mr. Fisher argued hard, but Mr. Bainbridge and Mr. Tierney were equally determined, and they had their way. The C. P. R., gang continued grading and the Great Northern forces withdrew."

Several carloads of rails and other material have reached here for the C. P. R. The intention is to rush construction west of Midway, and make the Great Northern liable for maintaining the crossings.

Mr. Bainbridge was sent direct from Vancouver to take charge.

Mica in Canada

Eugene Haanel, superintendent of the mines branch of the department of the interior, has sent to Hon. Frank Oliver, the first of a series of publications on the economic minerals of Canada. The report deals with mica. Canadian mica mining, the expert says, has now reached such proportions as to entitle it a prominent position in the mineral industries of the dominion.

There are at present employed in the mica industry 559 persons, but nearly all the mines and mica-cutting establishments are only employing about half the usual number of persons owing to the temporary slackness of the demand, probably due to last year's over production. The wages paid last year amounted to $120,000. The best deposits so far discovered are those of Saguenay district, situated below Quebec.

Fatal Wreck on C P.R.

At five o'clock on Tuesday morning a serious accident occurred near Dinorwic station on the Canadian Pacific Railway, east of Rat Portage. A collision took place between a fast freight and a special train loaded with westbound immigrants. Two women, whose identity has not yet been established, were killed outright and five others were more or less seriously injured, among these being C. P. R. agent Charlebois of Ottawa. Fire seized on the coaches and in spite of every effort three were consumed.

Work on the Beatrice.

One hundred and fifty-nine feet in 31 days is the record that the contractors who are driving the crossent in the Beatrice mine have made to date. This is exceptionally good work and about 99 feet remains to be driven before the main lead is encountered. It is expected that this will be accomplished by November 5th. The contractors commenced their work at a point 300 feet from the mouth of the tunnel, that distance having been driven previously, and at a distance of 433 feet from the tunnel's mouth a five-foot lead was tapped, being one of the small leads that traverse the property.

An aerial tram 3,500 feet long has been erected for the purpose of conveying timber to the mine; it being above timber line. The tram is built in two sections, the terminus of the first section—which section is 1,500 ft. in length—is at the mine cabins and the other section extends 2,000 feet further down the hill into heavy timber. The tram, consisting of a single cable on which a carrier is hauled by aid of a horse, will prove a most economical method of transporting timber and supplies to the mine, as it obviates the necessity of traversing a steep and tortuous trail which taxed both time and patience. The mine is to be equipped throughout with new track, five tons of 12lb. rails having been taken up for that purpose.—Camborne Miner.

Lived 8 Days on a Wolf Robe

DAWSON, Yukon Ter., Oct. 31.—W. H. C. Jackson, George French and James Landale, arrived at Selkirk on Thanksgiving day with remnants of a wolf robe, the greater portion of which they had cooked and eaten to sustain life for eight days. They had a thrilling experience coming down MacMillan and Pelly rivers. Amid the heavily running ice they swamped their boat and lost what provisions they had the first day out. For eight days, partly by raft and partly climbing hills overland, they made their way to Selkirk in time for a thanksgiving dinner, which, after a diet of wolf robe, was duly appreciated.

To Enforce Eight Hour Law

VICTORIA, Oct. 31.—The government has determined to thoroughly test public opinion upon the eight hour law by vigorously carrying out the provisions of the main statute and the various amending acts. Six informations have accordingly been laid at Cumberland by the mines' inspector, which will come up for magisterial hearing there next Thursday.

Woman Turned Into a Man

PORTLAND, Oct. 31—The shock of a runaway accident has changed a woman 37 years old into a man. Since the remarkable discovery was made several weeks ago the outlines of her body have lost some of their effeminate lines, and her voice has become harsh and guttural, and a heavy beard is growing. This woman who has turned to be a man has lived in Oregon and Portland all her life, and is unmarried. Outside of a rather mannish figure, there were no evidences of masculinity. About six weeks ago she was injured in a runaway and upon examination it was found that she had suddenly developed the physical attributes of a man. An operation performed by a prominent Portland surgeon made the change complete.

HIGHER WAGE FOR CARMEN

Satisfactory Agreement Made Between Men and C P R Co Dating from October 1st—Men Well Pleased

The negotiations of the carmen of the Canadian Pacific Railway with the company have been brought to a successful conclusion, and substantial increases in wages were granted dating from October 1st of this year.

The request for an all-round increase in the rate of pay was presented to the officials of the railway by the representatives of the Carmen's Union on August 22nd last. Since that time the matter has been under constant consideration, and meetings between the two parties were held almost daily, part of the work being done in Montreal and part in Winnipeg. The men representing the carmen in the negotiations were L. L. Hannah, general chairman of the joint protective board of the Canadian Pacific Railway system; J. J. Hillis and Andrew Dair of Winnipeg; George Nicholson of Calgary, and an executive committee in Montreal.

Many schedules and sets of regulations were submitted and discussed during the period of consideration, and were for one cause or another rejected. A final schedule of wages and set of regulations was at last agreed upon, and was signed by all the representatives of both parties. By this agreement, signed, the union gains in Eastern Canada a flat rate for all employees. Under this arrangement every man working under any given classification receive the highest wages paid to such employees. This is believed by the carmen to be a most decided gain and will increase the wages paid to employees by many thousand dollars.

In the West a sliding scale of wages is adopted in most of the departments, a clause in the agreement providing, however, that the wages of the men should be increased each half-year until the maximum wage is paid. Substantial increases are also granted from the 1st of October, one employee's wages being raised $14 per month. This is exceptional, however, although scores of employees are receiving advances of $5 per month.

There are in all four thousand men in the brotherhood. The union embraces in its membership all the car-builders, car repairers, car inspectors, pipefitters, tinsmiths, steamfitters, upholsterers, painters, car washers, car cleaners and many other classes of employees who are identified with the building, repairing or cleaning of railway coaches. The men are pleased with the outcome of the negotiations, the settlement having been arrived at without friction.—Province.

Induction and Dedication.

A meeting of Kamloops Presbytery will be held in Revelstoke on Wednesday evening next, Nov. 8th at 8 o'clock for the purpose of inducting Rev. J. R. Robertson of Grand Forks into his new charge as pastor of Knox Church. The meeting will take place in the new church, the finishing touches to which are being made this week. The following clergymen will participate in the ceremony:

Rev. C. W. Whyte, of Peachland, Moderator of Presbytery, will preside and induct.

Rev. J. H. Miller, of Field, will preach.

Rev. J. G. Duncan, of Salmon Arm, will address the minister.

Rev. W. A. Wylie, of Kamloops, will address the congregation.

Dedication services will also be held at this meeting.

In speaking of Rev. Mr. Robertson's removal to Revelstoke the Grand Forks Gazette of last week says:—"The pastor of Knox Church will carry with him to Revelstoke the earnest wishes for prosperity and success of all his people. While in Grand Forks he has not only faithfully ministered to the needs of his congregation, but has taken a warm and active interest in everything which conduced to the advancement along the best lines of the public and social life of the city, and while Knox Church, Revelstoke, is acquiring an active and earnest pastor, the city of Revelstoke will also have another good citizen."

The new church will be opened on Sunday, Nov. 12th, special services are being arranged for the occasion.

Ladies Work Baskets, also a lot of nice waste paper baskets, just opened at the Canada Drug Store.

Chinese Head Tax.

The Vancouver News-Advertiser reports a new problem in respect to the Chinese head tax. It says in its Sunday's issue: "Application is being made for a refund of the Chinese poll tax in the cases of the five bright young Chinese boys who were drowned here last spring. The boys arrived from Hongkong to spend a year or two in Vancouver college, which is affiliated with McGill university, after which they were to go together to Toronto university or McGill. By the provisions of the Chinese immigration act, after one year's study in a Canadian educational institution, the relatives, or guardians of Chinese students in the Dominion may recover the amount of the head tax paid when entering Canada. The boys had only been residents of Canada for 5 months, when all were drowned in Burrard inlet. The guardians have now made application for a refund of the poll-tax but there is no provision in the act under which this can be done in the case of deceased Chinese and probably it will devolve upon the cabinet to decide the matter."

HOSPITAL BALL

The Hospital Ball will be held under the auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary on Nov. 23rd. The arrangements have never been so complete to ensure an enjoyable social function.

MURDERED BY A CHINAMAN

Boy Killed at Sintaluta Supposedly by a Chinaman who also Attempts to Take His Own Life.

SINTALUTA, Oct. 30.—It is believed here that Stanley Ross, the twelve-year-old son of Charles Ross, was murdered by a Chinaman on Saturday evening. Young Ross left home to go to a laundry. He was gone only a few minutes when he rushed back bleeding profusely from a large hole in the back of his head, apparently made by some blunt instrument. He died without speaking. The Chinaman was discovered with his throat cut from ear to ear, but it is thought he will recover.

New Public Schools Act.

A circular has been issued from the provincial education office respecting the operation of the Public Schools Act in rural districts of the province. The circular reads, in part, as follows:

To meet the greatly increased cost of maintenance of public schools during the past few years, some change has been made in the financial administration of the education department as set forth in the "Public Schools Act, 1905," and this circular is issued for the information of voters and guidance of trustees, with a view of explaining fully the working of those sections of the new act which deal more particularly with the management of the school affairs in rural sections of the province.

In the districts which have "assisted schools" the only change made is, that the people will now provide directly for the incidental expenses of the school. In the case of assisted schools no rates will be levied, the expenses being met by the voluntary contribution of parents and others interested, in the same manner as the buildings and furnishings are now provided. The whole of the salary of teachers in assisted schools will be voted by the legislature and paid as heretofore, from the provincial treasury. The manner of conducting the business of assisted schools remains unchanged under the new act.

In the regularly organized rural school districts the people are now called upon to provide the running expenses of the schools and a small proportion of the teachers' salaries. In this case the regular amount of salary paid by the government will be $40 per month, and this sum will be supplemented by a grant of $1 for every dollar by which the original amount is increased by the district. For example, say the average salary in such district is $50 per month: in order to maintain this basis the government contributes $40 plus $5, or half of the $10 increase, and the district need raise only $5 per month for salary. The government will make such supplementary grant up to any sum not exceeding $100 per year in each district. School houses will also be erected by the government in rural school districts which may hereafter be organized. The people of the districts themselves will determine the salary to be paid to the teachers and the sum or sums required for the conduct of the schools. The manner in which such funds are to be raised is set forth in this circular.

Attention is called to section 24 of the new act, which provides for special aid to districts in which it is needed; to section 50, where exemption is made for those who should not be made liable for the school rate; and to section 67, which provides the right of appeal from assessment.

Attention is also called to section 98, dealing with the duties of trustees of assisted schools, and to sections 49, 50 and 51, providing for the raising of funds.

Trustees in rural districts should procure copies of the new School Act and devote several hours every day during the winter to a study of its provisions.

Quebec Intolerance.

To the Editor of the REVELSTOKE HERALD:

SIR,—For some months past we have heard a great deal about intolerance and bigotry from the press of the country which supported the Autonomy Coercion Bill. We have heard much of the beautiful and tolerant spirit of the Province of Quebec and because of this I have followed with interest the experience of the Salvation Army in the district of St. Louis an annex of the city of Montreal. The following extracts from eastern papers concerning the trouble and its aftermath will show what we must look for whenever the influence of Romanism becomes dominant in Canada:

The outrage to which the members of the Salvation Army were submitted at St. Louis de Mile End, a suburb of Montreal, recently, has been accentuated by the decision of Judge Sicotte when the disturber was brought before him upon the complaint of the Salvation Army authorities. The evidence given went to prove that the Army was holding its meeting within its own premises in a peaceful and orderly manner. That outside a mob of French Roman Catholics gathered and adopted every means in their power to disturb the meeting. They barricaded the doors and threw ammonia and assafoetida among the congregation, which had the effect of almost strangling many of those present. Not content with this form of persecution they stoned the building and the Army officers, and while engaged in these practices the police made no attempt whatever to protect the members of the Army in the enjoyment of their rights as citizens assembled for religious worship.

Not only so, but a man named Gauthier entered the hall, smoking a cigar, and harangued the crowd, many of whom were Roman Catholics, urging them to leave, and threatening them if they did not. He went so far as to take hold of some of those whom he knew to be Roman Catholics, and attempted to drag them from the building. Throughout all this disturbance no effort was made by the police to protect the members of the Army who were so wantonly assailed and disturbed in their religious service.

Not only did the members of the Army fail to receive from the guardians of the law the simple measure of protection that they had a right to expect, but when they prosecuted the leader of the mob—the man who entered their hall, and endeavored by persuasion and by force to break up their meeting—the law was interpreted by a French-Canadian judge for the protection of the culprit. Although the proof was clear and ample that the man had deliberately disturbed the gathering, and had done his best to disperse the meeting, Judge Sicotte decided that he was "just an ordinary dissenter, and he had a right to ask his co-religionists to follow him from the church, and not listen to the teachings from the altar."

This is the beautiful spirit of toleration which prevails among the people of the Province of Quebec, whose leaders call the protestants of Ontario bigots, and who for months past have been boasting of the tolerance of the French-Canadians. We might find some excuse for the action of the mob in their ignorance, but what can be said for the priest who commended such a course, or for the judge who condoned it by his decision? If Protestants in the Province of Quebec have not the right to assemble peacefully and hold religious services—if the law will not protect them in the exercise of this elementary right of citizenship—how shall we characterize the people of that Province? What shall we say of their leaders, their priests and their judges?

The Huntington Gleaner, which represents Protestant sentiment in the Eastern Townships, after quoting the decision of Judge Sicotte adds:

Disturbers of meetings are, of necessity dissenters, for if they were not dissenters from the purpose of the meeting they would not disturb it. It follows, according to this dictum of Judge Sicotte's, that they are not to be punished. Suppose a parallel case on the other side. During the Lenten season services are held in Montreal in one or two churches for the conversion of English-speaking Protestants. Suppose, while one of these meetings was going on, a man imitated the conduct of Pierre Gauthier, and, with a cigar in his hand, pushed his way to the front, and, ascending the pulpit, shouted he was an Englishman and a Protestant and this was no place for Protestants to be, and he would ask all Protestants to stand up and follow him out—allowing the priests to continue peacefully their services. Supposing a Protestant acted in such an outrageous manner, was arrested and brought before Judge Sicotte for disturbing a religious meeting, would he acquit him because he was a dissenter and the audience was composed of dissenters? Would Judge Sicotte not condemn the man for breaking up a religious meeting, and the severest sentence he could pass would be approved by Protestants. The evidence was conclusive that Gauthier broke up the Salvation Army meeting. His triumphant acquittal strengthens the disagreeable impression that the administration of justice has been influenced by exterior consideration.

It seems impossible of belief that such has occurred in a country over which floats the Union Jack but it serves to open our eyes to the full significance of current history in Canada. By giving space in your valuable paper for the above you will greatly oblige,

Yours truly,
OBSERVER.

Urquhart was presented with the quilt on which the ladies have been working for the past few months and from which, principally owing to Mrs. Urquhart's energetic efforts, they netted a good round sum. The ladies desire, through the columns of the HERALD, to thank one and all who so ably assisted in making their first annual Thanksgiving Dinner the success which it undoubtedly was.

The champion fishermen of Arrow Lakes are admitted to be Messrs. O. W. McLaughlin and A. McGillis of Comaplix. Their trolling experience was both novel and exciting. McLaughlin after a twenty-five minute struggle succeeded in landing a 10lb. speckled trout—one of the finest of the size ever caught in the lake. The desciples of Walton carried the monster on a pole, creating much excitement upon arriving at the Halcyon Hotel.

T. W. Everett, of Vancouver, was granted recently, through the agency of R. Brittain, patent attorney, Vancouver, a Canadian patent on a leather preserving and waterproofing composition, particularly designed for shoe soles. Under this patent the leather is so treated that the material of the compound permeates and thoroughly fills the porositis of the leather, not only rendering it permanently waterproof, but, as the composition is of a tough and wear-resisting character, considerably enhances the durability of the soles.

Cruel Brand on Little Child

NEW WESTMINSTER, Oct. 31—A cruel trick was perpetrated on an innocent young child in this city one day last week by some person at present unknown, who painfully burned her cheek with a red hot brand.

The victim of the outrageous deed was Eunice, the bright little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex L. Archibald, of Fourth avenue, who is not yet quite two years old. She was playing around the house on Tuesday afternoon last, and it was when her mother was busily engaged that she strayed from home, going west along Fourth avenue. She was gone about an hour and when she returned the brand of the letter S was plainly marked on her left cheek.

The burning of the brand did not seem to pain the child much at the time, but for a couple of days following she suffered a great deal, and medical aid was sought and her pain was relieved as much as possible.

Fortunately the brand was not pressed hard enough to leave a permanent scar, and it is now disappearing although the outline of the stamp and the letter S is still plainly visible. The child is not old enough to talk yet or tell where the brand was put on, so the parents are at a loss to know who committed the trick or what their reason could have been for doing it, but it was so well put on and so evenly that they are inclined to believe that it was a deliberate act on the part of some grown person.

Trafalgar Day.

We are sure that all those who were present at St. Andrew's church Sunday Oct. 22nd, must have thoroughly enjoyed the excellent sermon, which Mr Calder preached in connection with that day which meant so much, not only for Great Britain, but for Europe and through Europe the world.

Mr. Calder's sermon was not only interesting from a moral standpoint, but was beneficial from a historical point of view. The various events which led up to the war, Napoleon's schemes and how Nelson helped to checkmate them, little sketches of Nelson's character and life and the manner in which he faced overwhelming difficulties, all these were skillfully and cleverly handled and presented in such a manner as to engross the attention of the large crowd which was present.

It is well for us to keep the lives of such men as Nelson ever fresh in our memory, in order that we may see how great men lived, and how little they thought of self. Did we but hearken of such lives we would blush or shame at the petty thoughts which often prompt our actions, we would endeavor to branch out into nobler, better lives, and the community in which we lived would benefit by such and we should have the satisfaction of knowing that our lives had not been lived for the mere gratification of our own selfish desires.
