A MILLION IN GOOD YELLOW METAL

Will Be This Year's Cleanup of the Gold Mines Worked in Nelson District.

THE GREATER PART OF IT IS SHIPPED AS BULLION

Nearly all of the mines in what is generally designated as the Nelson district are gold mines, the only notable exception being the Silver King. The best known of these mines that are in the class of producers are the Ymir, near the town of the same name; the Athabasca, two miles south of Nelson; the Duncan mines, six miles southwest of Nelson; the Yellowstone, ten miles east of Salmo; and the Bunker Hill, fifteen miles up the Pen d'Oreille river from Waneta. All these mines have their own mills run by water power. The Ymir mill has 80 stamps, the Athabasca 10, the Duncan mines 20, the Yellowstone 10 and the Bunker Hill 10; or a total of 130 stamps, falling steadily on ore that is classed as free milling. Of the values, fully 75 per cent is saved on the plates, is retorted at the mill, and shipped either direct or through the banks to the United States government assay office at Helena, Montana. The remainder of the values are saved in the concentrates, which are treated at the smelters at Trail and Nelson.

The value of the ore milled varies. The greater part of it will average about $10 a ton, while some of it goes as high as $40. When run continuously the mills treat on an average about 8000 tons a month. The bullion shipments aggregate somewhere in the neighborhood of $65,000, and the value of the concentrates is not far from $15,000. The Ymir mine also ships some clean ore direct to the smelters.

This is a very creditable showing for a district that receives no "booming." In fact, it is doubtful if Nelson district is known as a gold producer outside of the province except to the few who happen to own shares in the Athabasca. The Ymir and Duncan Mines are both owned by old country companies and the Yellowstone and Bunker Hill by private parties in Ontario.

Besides the producing mines above mentioned, there are fully a dozen more that will be producers within a year, and it is not beyond reasonable limitations to predict that Nelson district will be the largest producer of gold in the province within five years.

Developments at the Reco.

In connection with the recent strike on the Reco property at Sandon, J. Morgan Harris, president of the Reco company, gives some details of interest. The strike was made on the lowest level on the property, a tunnel having been driven to tap the vein 200 feet lower than had been reached previously. Some difficulty was encountered in finding the lead, a couple of years elapsing before it was definitely located. The lead is only 12 inches wide, but in places it is solid galena carrying silver up in the thousands of ounces. At other points the galena is mixed with sulphide or porphyry. Where the galena is clean no assays are taken, but at a couple of points where it was thought to be indifferent in quality samples were taken and gave returns of 414 ounces in one instance and 549 ounces in the other. Mr. Harris was notified of these figures yesterday. He states that it is possible to secure assays of 10,000 ounces at almost any spot in the mine, and that assays of twice this amount are not uncommon. The property has not shipped extensively in the ordinary sense of the term, its mining season being limited to a few months in each year. Great bulk in shipping is not essential to the prosperity of a property like the Reco, however, when the average carload gives half a ton of pure silver. One banner car ran 500 ounces over a ton of silver bullion. The total output of the property has been $550,000. Mr. Harris states that the company will recommence mining in December and will take out ore for two or three months.

Mining Records.

Yesterday's mining records were: Transfers, a quarter interest in the Blue Dick and Cliff claims on the north fork of Salmon river twelve miles above Erie, by W. J. Shelton of Rossland to H. Windebank of Spokane, consideration $225. H. B. Perks of Nelson transferred the Pelton claim on the east fork of Anderson creek to A. C. Muir, who turned it over to Joe Duhamel.

Locations: The Mazatlan on Morning mountain by E. H. Stanley, the Raxie on the divide between the Nelson & Fort Sheppard road and Anderson creek by J. L. Stamford; the Waterloo on Morning mountain by John J. Hargreaves.

Certificates of work: To Michel Zaltoni on the Tres, to J. L. Campbell on the Campsy Glen, to J. R. Simpson and D. T. Lawson on the Amphion and Cross Bar.

Dislikes the Kaiser.

BERLIN, October 30.—On absolutely reliable authority it is ascertained that emperor William and count von Buelow alone negotiated the agreement to the entire exclusion of prince Hohenlohe, whose policy had as its pivotal point closer relation with Russia and France. It was mainly for this reason that prince Hohenlohe tendered his resignation. It also appears that in addition to a number of reasons of earlier date, emperor William considered Russia's behavior in connection with the appointment of count von Waldersee and the withdrawal of her troops from Pekin to be distinctly unfriendly actions. Hence the approachment between Great Britain and Germany.

Those who give this explanation assert that emperor Nicholas dislikes the kaiser and personally distrusts him and they suggest that this feeling may have had something to do in bringing about the agreement with England.

Rambler-Cariboo a Mine.

Late news from the Rambler-Cariboo, a Slocan mine, is of an encouraging nature and shows that it is a mine of more than ordinary worth. This is shown by the returns from 38 tons of ore which was the last shipment made. This shipment went 541.9 ounces and 63.3 per cent in lead to the ton. The 38 tons yielded $14,568.20. Seven other carloads were recently sent to the smelter and yielded from $1200 to $1500 net each to the company. These seven carloads were taken from the old workings. The 38 tons were from a new find on the 350-foot level going north into the hill. In the bottom of the winze on the 450-foot level while drifting on the ore body there has just been encountered a full face of ore that carries over 202 ounces and over 60 per cent lead to the ton. During the past summer there was installed on the Rambler-Cariboo the largest plant in the Slocan.

Smallpox Among the Indians.

WASHINGTON, October 30.—Smallpox has broken out on a number of Indian reservations in Idaho, Oklahoma and Washington and it is feared that when the cold weather sets in the epidemic will become more widespread and assume a more malignant form. Every possible effort is being made to stay its progress and the Indian bureau is forwarding vaccine virus to the various agencies.

Economical Gas Consumers.

Last night was an exceptionally dirty, wet night, but Baker street at 10:30 o'clock was well lighted, although there are only four arc lights between Railway and Josephine streets. The light did not, however, come from the business houses that use gas for illumination. The houses that use gas were dark and deserted. The houses that use electric light supplied by the city were as bright as day. Some of the people who loudly howled because they were made pay a fair rate when they used electric light, and used it all night, are now using gas—but they do not use it all night. They do not even keep one gas jet burning, to enable policemen to see through their premises when making their rounds.

Empress Dowager Again.

LONDON, October 31.—Most serious trouble, says the Shang-Hai correspondent of the Daily Express, is developing in the Yang Tse region, whither the empress dowager has sent emissaries to raise powerful armed bodies to exterminate converts and expel foreigners. She has appointed Yu Chuan, a notoriously anti-foreign general, to be military governor of Yank Tse district.

Poor Old Wang.

WASHINGTON, October 30.—The Japanese legation received a dispatch today giving the death of Wang Weng Shao, imperial treasurer of China. Wang Weng Shao was one of the most loyal adherents of the imperial family, and when they took flight from Pekin he insisted on following, despite his advanced age. His death came from natural causes, probably from old age and the fatigues of the flight.

JUDGE WENT ON STRIKE

NELSON'S COURTROOM UNFIT FOR HABITATION.

Harris vs. Curlin, a Sandon Townsite Case, Occupies the Court's Attention.

When court resumed yesterday morning, Mr. Justice Walkem stated that he would hold no furthur sittings in the courtroom proper and adjourned to judge Forin's chambers where court will be held until the docket is concluded. On the previous day his lordship contracted a heavy cold and narrowly escaped an attack of pneumonia as the result of sitting for eight hours continually in the draft from the windows at the rear of the judge's alcove. The local bar and the grand jury have drawn attention to the urgent necessity of repairing and improving the present courtroom and the fact that the presiding judge cannot fulfil his duties without seriously endangering his health will probably be the culminating stroke which will compel the authorities to take immediate action. There is talk of a meeting of the local bar for the purpose of representing to the proper authorities at Victoria the bad state of the courthouse with a view to securing improvements in ventilation and other matters.

The case of Harris vs. Curlin was continued at court yesterday. The case is of considerable interest to every citizen of Sandon and was warmly contested. Argument commenced shortly after 10 o'clock and lasted until 5 p. m. It would appear from what was stated that the legislation relating to crown grants of mineral claims is anything but clear. Counsel for plaintiff contended that his crown grant gave him surface rights to the ground at issue in addition to minerals, the opposite contentions being that mineral rights only were conveyed, the surface rights being not included. The judge allowed counsel to put in charts of the statutes from 1892 up to date, showing what amendments have been made in the legislation in dispute. This gave counsel the advantage of considering each other's arguments and respectively answering deliberatively on paper at any time before December. The main contention on behalf of plaintiff was that his crown grant was, on its face, a grant in fee of the disputed lots together with much other land comprising the Harris addition to the townsite of Sandon, as well as all minerals, precious or base, which might be found on it, and that such a conveyance carried with it the surface rights. The contention for the defendant was confined to the one issue as to whether the surface rights were conveyed or not, pointing out that the Mineral Act never contemplated the creation of townsites under its provisions.

NEW COUNTY HEARD FROM

FALLS CREEK CAMP ANOTHER PROMISING VENTURE.

Much Work Has Been Done During the Past Season and Indications for Permanency Favorable.

The general revival of activity in mining circles which has been a feature of the present year has affected the Falls Creek camp in common with the other sections of the Nelson district. More work has been done on the creek during the season just closing than in any one season for several years, and the country has come into the public eye as a most promising field for further development. Falls creek rises in the Slocan divide and flows into Kootenay river opposite the mouth of Forty-nine creek. It is seven miles in length and claims are scattered along both banks. In its course to the river the creek descends fully 3000 feet, and the stream could be profitably harnessed at scores of points, a feature which will doubtless play an important part in the future of the section. The characteristic ore of the Falls Creek district is iron pyrites carrying gold and copper, closely resembling the ores produced in the Rossland camp. At the headquarters of the stream, however, several fine ledges of free milling ore have been located.

The section was prospected first in 1890 and 1891, when William Moore, M. Monahan and other pioneers went through and staked a number of claims. The best evidence of the section's possibilities is that several of these pioneers have stuck to the country ever since and worked their claims from year to year. Capital has not been interested in the properties as yet, but for a purely prospectors' district it is well developed. Nothing has been accomplished further than prospecting, but in a number of instances this has been sufficient to demonstrate that several of the claims are excellent propositions.

One of the oldest locations on Falls creek is that of William Moore, who has six or eight claims within a couple of miles of the lake on which he has worked steadily for years. He has six feet of low grade ore which will probably average seven per cent copper and $3 in gold. Moore has 100 feet of tunnelling, a shaft and open cuts, aggregating about 200 feet of work.

The Elk and Monarch claims are located a mile north of the lake as the crow flies and are owned by Mike Kealey and Mickey Monahan, two well-known prospectors. They have worked the claims for four years and have 50 feet of shaft and various other prospect work on the lead, which has 14 feet of ore running 6 to 7 per cent in copper. The latter figure is about an average of all the properties in the copper section.

The Queen Victoria claim, owned by Jim Burr, is crown granted and regarded as the most promising property on the creek. Burr was one of the first men in the country and is numbered among the strongest believers in the future of the section. He has drifted 75 feet on a strong lead of medium-grade ore, and the claim shows up well.

The Copper King, adjoining the Queen Victoria, belonged until recently to a Montreal syndicate, which did practically nothing after taking hold of the property and selling a few blocks of stock. The syndicate was not represented on the ground and allowed the location to run out. It has now been staked and recorded by Joe Duhamel and is said to have a first-class showing similar to adjacent properties.

In 1896 and '97 Mike Egan staked the Rio Tinto, Orinoco and Maine around the Queen Victoria and has done about $1500 worth of work since. He has twelve feet of six to to seven per cent copper ore.

Three years ago Joe Sturgeon of the Sherbrooke hotel bought the Copper Clown from Perkins and Duhamel and has expended about $1000 on the claim since. The Columbia & Western railroad runs through the claim, which has the distinction of being the highest grade copper property in the district. Specimens can be obtained without trouble which will run 35 per cent, and a fair average of the whole property is said to be 13 per cent. The lead has a foot of solid ore, and the work done consists of 50 feet of tunneling and a shaft on the vein.

David McBeath of Nelson is interested in the Le Roi and War Eagle claims, extensions of the Monarch and Elk. The properties are similar in most respects and will doubtless be valuable propositions some day.

The principal free milling properties are the Irish group owned by John McKernan, Alex Carrie and H. Mason, and the Red Bird and Britisher owned by R. J. Elliott, Thomas Moran and George Thurman. The Irish has been worked on a good scale this season and is showing up unusually well. They have a good ledge and the values are eminently satisfactory considering the depth attained to date. The Red Bird and Britisher has not been worked to any extent but is said to be a valuable prospect.

With few exceptions the prospectors have come out of the country for the winter. They fully anticipate that the strong ledges of their section will eventually attract the capital necessary to place the properties on a productive basis and predict a bright future for Falls creek.

GERMANY SEEMS SATISFIED

ANSWER OF THE UNITED STATES FORESHADOWED.

Ministers Will Act in Unison in Imposing Conditions of Settlement With China.

BERLIN, October 30.—The answer of the United States government to the Anglo-German agreement has not yet arrived here, but an official of the German foreign office informed the correspondent of the Associated Press today that Germany was aware of what the answer would be, namely a full acceptance of clauses 1 and 2. The official also asserted that the answers of Russia and France would soon be received.

Bishop Anzer, the German missionary bishop in the province of Shan Tung, has arrived in Pekin, where he will assist the German minister, Dr. Mumm Von Schwartzenstein, with his valuable advice.

Six fathers connected with the Steyl missions have joined the German troops in China as official interpreters. From official dispatches it is ascertained that the disturbances in Shan Tung are now quelled and the construction of the Shan Tung railway has been resumed. The section from Kiao Chou to Tsin Tau will be completed by next spring.

The National Zeitung says: "The report that Mr. Conger has received orders to act under certain conditions independently of the other ministers in Pekin is false. The ministers, among themselves, without consulting the Chinese plenipotentiaries, intend to establish complete unanimity regarding the conditions to be imposed on the Chinese."

How They Size It Up.

NEW YORK, October 30.—Plenty of money for election bets was offered in Wall Street yesterday, but aside from a few very small and generally quiet bets between friends or acquaintances there was none actually placed.

Bell & Co., who have put out $17,500 on Bryan at 1 to 4, reported no new bets yesterday.

George S. Lancon & Co., of the Stock Exchange, had $20,000 for a client to wager at odds of 4 to 1 on McKinley. Cooper, Cramp & Beadleston, also members of the exchange, offered $4000 to $1000 on McKinley.

In the outside crowd John J. Judge had $10,000 to bet at 4 1-2 to 1 on McKinley, in lots of $500 and upward, and $20,000 even each that McKinley would carry Nebraska and Indiana. E. L. Mordecai offered $8000 at odds of 4 1-2 to 1 on Republican success.

Colonel Joseph Rickey of St. Louis walked into Bell & Co.'s office in the Hoffman house yesterday and offered to wager $200 against $2000 that McKinley would not carry 15 states. The colonel waited a long time for an acceptance, but did not get it.

AFTERMATH OF THE EXPLOSION

Four Bodies Have Been Recovered, but There Are Still Thirty Unaccounted For.

SOME OF THE REMAINS CRUSHED BEYOND RECOGNITION

NEW YORK, October 30.—Only four bodies have been discovered up to tonight in the ruins caused by the explosion yesterday in the Tarrant drug house. Of these only one body has been identified, that of August Schmidt, an engraver, 40 years old, of Brooklyn. His body was found pinned down by a six ton safe. The remaining three bodies probably never will be identified, as they are crushed and burned beyond recognition. Indeed, so frightfully have the bodies been crushed that the sex is undeterminable. Smoking and steaming sullenly, the ruins left by the explosions well nigh baffled the efforts of the thousand public workers today, and the task of clearing the streets and digging down into the debris on the fire-swept area for bodies of victims proceeded haltingly.

The workers employed by the city to remove the mountains of stone, wood and iron and shore up and make safe the ruined structures, could do little more today than attack the outside of the devastation and watch the firemen who played water on the still glowing pile from six lines of hose. To-night, and in fact day and night, till the debris shall have been thoroughly searched for bodies the work will proceed. About thirty persons are still missing, but it is believed some of these will turn up safely.

A rigid investigation is being made to determine whether Tarrant & Co. violated the law in storing more explosives in their building than the permits called for. Members of the firm insist that the law was not violated, but other business men in the neighborhood claim to have seen many boxes and barrels of explosives taken into the Tarrant building during the past month.

Up to 1:30 this morning no more bodies have been recovered. The latest list shows 32 persons still missing.

Unhappy Mrs. Maybrick.

E. S. Willard, the English actor, told a story, lately, of the famous Maybrick case which was so remarkable that those who heard it have wondered that it has not been generally known, as it seemed to suggest that Mrs. Maybrick, if she is guilty of her husband's murder, obtained the plot from an unsuccessful play in London.

The exact year of the occurrences related by Mr. Willard has faded from the memory of those who heard the story, but it must have been between 1880—when Florence Elizabeth Chandler, the beautiful Alabama girl, was married to James Maybrick, the Liverpool cotton buyer—and 1889—when the husband's death and the wife's arrest aroused an international interest which, instead of diminishing, seems to grow as time passes.

According to Mr. Willard, a play which had been in rehearsal for a long time in one of the London theaters had reached an advanced stage of preparation and a trial matinee was decided on. No tickets were sold, but invitations were issued to critics, literary men and prominent actors.

The performance resulted in the condemnation of the play, and it was never publicly produced. In the critical audience were a man and woman who were afterward identified as Mrs. Maybrick and Mr. Brierly, whose name was associated with hers in the subsequent scandals.

When James Maybrick's brothers charged his widow with poisoning him by administering arsenic in his medicine after he had contracted a cold by being caught in the rain at a race track, and the details were published, those who had witnessed the play found its plot reproduced with startling fidelity as the development proceeded in the courts.

In the London greenrooms the belief is firmly held that Mrs. Maybrick, if she poisoned her husband, found the suggestion of the manner of doing it in the play which the public has never seen.

The Checker Tournament.

The first round in the checker tournament was played last evening and resulted as follows:

| | Won. | Lost. | Played. |
|---|---|---|---|
| J. H. Wallace | 3½ | 2½ | 6 |
| E. G. Smythe | 6 | 0 | 6 |
| H. Clark | 6 | 3 | 9 |
| W. Irving | 2 | 4 | 6 |
| W. Lillie | 3½ | 5½ | 9 |
| R. Lowe | 1½ | 1½ | 3 |
| J. Tuttle | 2 | 3 | 5 |
| Dr. Morrison | 0 | 2 | 2 |
| D. J. Dewar | 0 | 3 | 3 |

The tournament will be continued each Tuesday till finished. The president vs. vice-president match was postponed till next week owing to the illness of the vice-president. Three new members were added to the club last night.

Kruger's Plans.

PARIS, October 30.—The foreign office officials believe former president Kruger will travel incog during his visit to European capitals, relinquishing it in each city only long enough to permit an exchange of visits between Mr. Kruger and the head of the nation. His stay in Paris will not exceed 48 hours. The French government will not offer Mr. Kruger any formal function, though it is expected the city will tender him a demonstration, which will be a scene of enthusiasm. The government will not take part in the reception, but will not, however, put any obstacles in the way of private plans of welcome.

Desperate Huns.

MOUNT PLEASANT, Pennsylvania, October 30.—Four Hungarians held up the south west Connelsville company's pay wagon about a mile west of this place this afternoon. With the double team and wagon, in which was a safe containing some $5000 for the workmen, were the paymaster, William Hoster, a brother of secretary-treasurer C. H. Hoster, and Harry Burgess, the colored driver, both armed. The Hungarians were in ambush and opened fire, killing the paymaster. The colored driver returned the fire, killing one of the foreigners and wounding another. The three would-be robbers ran toward Scottdale without getting the money. Posses are scouring the whole country and their capture seems probable. Young Mr. Hoster came here from Chicago three years ago and leaves a widow and one daughter.

Gas Explosion.

WILKESBARRE, Pennsylvania, October 30.—A heavy explosion of gas occurred in a slope of No. 1 shaft of the Kingston Coal Company at Edwardsville today in which three men lost their lives and six others were badly burned. Several of the injured are in a precarious condition and it is doubtful if they can survive. The dead are Peter Usovige, aged 23, miner; Frank MacKalouski, aged 22, laborer; John Delane, aged 24, miner. The accident was due to an employee who diverted the air course unwittingly and allowed the gas to accumulate in the place where the men were at work. The latter had been warned in time to vacate, but they did not think they were in danger and went on with their work.

Rounding Up Boers.

BLOEMFONTEIN, October 26.—The telegraph lines are still interrupted and mails delayed owing to the Boers derailing a train ten miles south of Edenburg. All Boers over 14 years old living outside a radius of 10 miles of Bloemfontein are being surrounded by British troops and brought here to prevent their rejoining the commandos.

Result of the Quake.

CARACAS, October 30.—Yesterday's earthquake destroyed the town of Guaranas, resulting in the loss of 25 lives. Nearly the entire population of Caracas passed last night in the streets or squares of the city. Slight tremors following the severe shocks have recurred at verying intervals and still continue.

POWER can be obtained at Hamilton, Ontario, and Hull, Quebec, for $25 per annum per horse power. Both these places are fast becoming manufacturing centers. Water is as abundant at Nelson as at either Hamilton or Hull.

THE TRIBUNE has received a letter signed by "Independent." There is nothing in the letter that the writer need be ashamed of, and he should have signed his real name if he wants it printed in THE TRIBUNE.

IF IT is noised abroad that the City of Nelson is willing to pay eight dollars per horse power per month for power to operate a portion of its street lighting system, is it likely that any one seeking a location for an industrial enterprise will be attracted to Nelson? Cheap power is what will make Nelson a city. Power that costs eight dollars per horse power per month cannot be reckoned as cheap.

THE coast cities are making great efforts to secure the location of the proposed mint. The cities of the interior need not bother themselves regarding the struggle, but they should make an effort to secure the location of a government assay office at some central point in the interior. The United States has assay offices at all points where gold can be collected. There is one at Seattle, to collect the gold from the Yukon and the north. There is one at Helena, Montana. There is another at Boise, Idaho. Denver, Colorado, also has one. There is a branch mint at San Francisco and another at Carson, Nevada. Thus it will be seen that the United States has established no less than six places in its gold mining territory at which it purchases gold bullion and gold dust. Whilst THE TRIBUNE has no data on which to make an estimate of the amount of gold purchased at these assay offices and branch mints, it is safe to assert that one-half of the gold dust and bullion handled at the assay offices at Seattle and Helena and the branch mint at San Francisco is the output of Canadian quartz and placer mines. Why should not gold mined in Canada be handled at assay offices and at mints built within the boundaries of Canada?

WRITTEN BY LIBERALS.

THE TRIBUNE has placed a part of one column at the disposal of the Liberals, whose views will be expressed therein from time to time during the campaign. A like privilege is accorded the Labor party and the Conservatives.

Workingmen are invited to consider the following reasons why they should support the Liberal administration and vote for W. A. Galliher, the Liberal candidate:

Because the Laurier government abolished the sweating system on government contracts, a system which flourished under the Conservative rule.

Because the Laurier government has caused a fair wages clause to be inserted in all government contracts, and insists on the clause being obeyed.

Because the Laurier government by appointing a board of conciliation has taken a long step in the direction of preventing strikes and lock-outs. The Conservatives during eighteen years of power neglected the matter altogether.

Because the Laurier government has established a labor bureau and issued a Labor Gazette, a step in the interests of labor which the Conservatives never took though often asked to.

Because the Laurier government has appointed union men to government positions which affect the interests of organized labor, as for instance the appointments of Messrs. Donoghue and E. P. Bremner.

Because the Laurier government has increased the head tax on Chinese which the Conservative government refused to do, and because it is certain to increase it again when returned to power.

Because the Laurier government passed a bill providing that the union label on manufactured goods have the same position as the trade mark. This bill was killed by the Conservative senate, and the fact should be remembered by Conservative workingmen.

WRITTEN BY LABORERS.

THE TRIBUNE has placed a part of one column at the disposal of the Independent Laborers, whose views will be expressed therein from time to time during the campaign. A like privilege is accorded the Conservatives and the Liberals.

It was most remarkable to note at the beginning of the present campaign with what energy both Liberals and Conservatives tried to impress the workingman with the idea that their party was his best friend. They have evidently since come to the conclusion that their efforts have proved to be a flat failure, so they have come out in their true colors. Mr. Galliher, in his address in the opera house last Friday night, undertook to show just how partial he and his party are to the cause of labor and with what love and appreciation they stand ready to receive any proposition or effort on the part of labor to better existing conditions. To make this plain, he painted a dismal picture of Mr. Foley standing alone in parliament, unable to receive either a hearing or a recognition from either party. Of course he could not speak for the Conservative party, but he spoke for the Liberals as one having authority. This argument was practically endorsed by Mr. MacNeill when he assured those present that there is and can only be two parties in the house. This is emphasized by the writer to The Tribune in the Conservative column when he states that Chris Foley, elected with either a Conservative or Liberal government in power at Ottawa, may possess the oratory of a Henry George or the tenacity of a John Houston, but he would be absolutely ignored and find great difficulty in obtaining the most pressing appropriations for the district.

Fellow-workers, can you conceive of a state of affairs such as this? A member of our Canadian parliament, duly elected by a majority of the voters in his constituency, utterly ignored and refused a hearing because he did not get elected under the name of Conservative or Liberal and wished to advocate the cause of the workingmen of his country.

We cannot imagine such a condition under the British flag, particularly in Canada, this land of the free, and we ask the pardon of these gentlemen if we refuse to believe them, but under the circumstances no other course is left open. We pin our faith to British justice. We have selected our candidate and intend to elect him, and have every confidence that by Mr. Foley the best interests of the constituency will be served.

Candidate of the Liberal-Conservative Party for Member of the House of Commons for Yale-Cariboo.

PLATFORM

Adopted by the Liberal-Conservative Party in Convention at Revelstoke, September 15th, 1900.

We, the delegates of the Liberal-Conservative party of Yale-Cariboo constituency, in convention assembled, reaffirm the principles of the party, and more particularly that cardinal principle, protection to home industries, and that that principle be carried out so that all sections of the country shall equally share its benefits.

The one industry on which the prosperity of this constituency is almost wholly dependent is mining; and we believe that our mining industries are as fairly entitled to protection as the manufacturing industries of Eastern Canada; therefore, we advocate that the duties on lead and lead products be increased, so that they shall be as high as those now imposed by the United States on the same articles.

That the output of the precious metal mines is largely increasing, therefore we favor the establishment of a mint, so that the specie in circulation shall be that of our own instead of that of a foreign country.

We advocate the restriction of the immigration of Chinese and Japanese, and all classes who cannot become good citizens of the Dominion of Canada, and suggest the adoption of the principles of the Natal Act.

British Columbia has not now the representation in the federal parliament that she is entitled to: therefore we advocate that when the redistribution of seats is made that this constituency shall be given representation according to its population.

That it augurs well for the success of the party that Hugh John Macdonald has decided to leave the field of provincial politics to take part in the larger one that affects the people of the whole of Canada.

THE HAT THAT KRUGER WORE

An Auction in London.

LONDON, October 20.—Exactly one year ago the Transvaal government sent her ultimatum to England; by a strange coincidence Mr. Kruger's hat was sold at Stevens' auction rooms on King street, Covent Garden, on the anniversary of the historic event.

The room was crowded by enthusiastic relic hunters, and the passage leading thereto was filled with breathless people who had left their lunch half eaten only to find that they could not gain admittance.

As for the hat, it did duty for the ex-president's head on the end of a long pole. Its intrinsic value was nil, for it would be hard to find a more disreputable tile in all London.

Everyone in the room wanted to talk at once when they saw the hat:

"Is it hall-marked?"

"Was it ever cleaned?"

"Send it to the next Earlscourt exhibition."

"Pity we have not got the proper head for it."

Finally the auctioneer had to call for silence while he talked.

The hat was to be sold for a charity, he said, and the owner had refused £100 for it in Pretoria on purpose that it might be sold in that room.

After one or two facetious remarks about his own hats as compared with Mr. Kruger's, Mr. Stevens proceeded to put the object of interest up at auction.

The bidding started at £5; a clean-looking youth began it. Then from all parts of the room came offers, made with feverish haste.

Six pounds! £8! £16! £20! "Will no one bid more than £20 for this unique article, the only one of its kind in London? Twenty-five pounds! Thank you, Mr. Webster."

Mr. Webster was really Peter Keary, managing director of a weekly paper, and he left the rooms with satisfaction expressed on every feature of his face.

"I meant to have that hat," he said, "and funnily enough I gave exactly the sum I said I would for it."

"What will I do with it? Well, I am going to make a present of it. I don't quite know to whom I shall give it, but possibly one of the subscribers of our paper will have an opportunity of wearing it on Christmas Day."

Mr. Keary omitted to say if he intended to play Santa Claus and put the hat in the lucky subscriber's stocking.

Kruger's hat is thus not "a closed incident."

A pipe, once the property of Mr. Kruger, and bearing marks presumably made by the presidential teeth, was sold at the same time for £8.

HOW IT WAS TAKEN.

An English war correspondent writes the following graphic description of the siege of Pekin:

"On each side of the street, the centre of which was a long streak of green stagnant water, were the Jap soldiers, lying fully equipped in marching order, with their rifles lying beside them.

"We got along the line with difficulty, and then, by stepping over some that were asleep, got into a little mud-floored shop, where we got two boards to lie on and wait for the explosion which was to announce the blowing up of the wooden door of the gate, and which would be the signal for the advance.

"We could hardly have been asleep a minute when a dull boom roused us, followed by a heavy rumble. This was followed by a rattle of accoutrements as the men rose to their feet; then a shrill order was shouted, echoing down the ranks. A pause, then another shrill voice, and the little men were running past the door of the shop to the accompaniment of the Japanese 'One, two; one two.'

"The 'One, two' soon broke into a cheer, and the pace grew quicker. The huge imposing gate building loomed up in front of us in the light of a misty moon. There was a solitary light burning in one of its forty-two windows.

"On we went, and not a shot fired. Then swish, swish, and a perfect hail of bullets hissed down the street. The Japs were going up either side close to the houses and most of them on the left hand side, which offered the greatest amount of protection. As the fire intensified they hugged the corners, darting forward from one to the other in single file. There was never for a moment the least sign of hesitation or funk, but merely an avoidance of useless sacrifice of life.

"I paused in the last refuge corner, in the midst of an intensely interesting and exciting scene. On came the stream of men unfalteringly. When a particularly severe gust of bullets would sweep down the street all would lie back against the closed shop fronts, packed like sardines, and a ringing cheer would break forth, to be taken up by those along the street behind.

"At such close quarters the rifles spat metalically with venemous bitterness, and bits of plaster or chips of masonry came down the walls.

"The first gate was low and deep and at right angles to the wall. On passing through this we came on the high main gateway. Here the terrific force of the explosion was evident. The huge wooden doors, clamped with iron bars and bossed with knobs, was lying inwards aslant the entrance, wrenched from its hinges.

"It was like drawing aside the curtain of a darkened theater. The city of Pekin lay stretching away in the monlight behind—silent, mystic, wonderful. In we tumbled, over bricks, stones and ironwork, on to the open space inside.

"The men were then drawn up in the form of a square, and all as sharply and quietly as if on parade. There was no cheering or exultation then, but just a quiet ripple of satisfied laughter, and smiles passed around as one talked to them. They had cheered in the attack aad took the fighting with the frolic welcome of schoolboys; but now that it was over and well done they seemed to take it in a matter-of-fact way—as if that was what they had come for and had been drilled for.

"There seemed to be no suspicion of doubt in their minds that the final result might have been otherwise; and after jostling along with these cheery little men I doubt if it would have been, even had the walls been defended by better troops supplied by better weapons. They had all the dash of our best Irish regiments combined with the scientific, accurate movements and carefulness of the Germans, and a light-hearted, confident joy in fighting altogether their own.

"Comparing them with other troops under the same strain and struggle of battle, their feelings find other vent than in angry or grumblous curses, and in every little Jap's heart burns a vital patriotism and pride of his country. 'What have men got blood for but to shed it?' are the words spelt by their actions."

A letter from general Bennett, under date of August 30th, from Pekin, has just been received by his brother, colonel O. W. Bennett of Philadelphia, which briefly, yet graphically, depicts the scenes just prior to and directly after the entrance to the most sacred spot in China. It reade as follows:

"I came up through the Peiho river last week. Hundreds of dead bodies were floating down the river. Cities were burning, joss houses destroyed, as a result of this most terrible war. The day before yesterday I witnessed the great parade of troops through the Forbidden City, never before trodden by foreigners. The natives were sullen and cowed, the attendants of the palace never looking at the troops, but with downcast eyes and with right hand extended toward the northern gate, were pointing the way out. Their holy city destroyed, their women bayoneted by Russian soldiers, they appeared to have accepted their fate with stoicism and to have lost faith in everything.

"I have seen whole families who had committed suicide stretched out on the floor side by side, while dead bodies of women were found who had hanged themselves rather than await the foreign scourge. Many of them had small, deformed feet; they could not run; in fact, could hardly walk, and all transportation was wanted for the flying dowager empress and the Manchu dynasty, which is now in the mountains or near there. Not one of them is suing for peace or mercy, and no one is left who is authorized to do so. Mr. Conger, our minister, told me that he hoped something in that direction would be done in a few days.

"The great pagoda on top of the southern gate of the imperial city, 20 feet high, is burning and crumbling to the ground; the wall and gateway here is 100 feet thick and solid stone. The Fourteenth Infantry boys, without scaling ladders, scaled the wall, which is 30 feet high, planted the flag, and, driving the Chinese from the front, entered the city in that way."

CITY LOCAL NEWS

Candidate MacNeill and mayor Goodeve will address the electors of Moyie at I. O. O. F. hall on Friday night.

F. W. Peters, A. H. Buchanan and a party of local sportsmen left yesterday on the C. P. R. houseboat for a few days shooting in the neighborhood of Kootenay landing.

The steamer Moyie will resume her regular run to Kootenay landing today. The Nelson will be withdrawn from the passenger service and placed in commission to help out the towing fleet.

B. J. Royal, a driver for the Pacific Transfer company, slipped while mounting to the seat of his hack yesterday morning. He fell on the wheel, breaking two ribs. Royal is being treated at the general hospital.

H. B. Williams, engineer at the Highland mine, is in the city today. The construction of the tramway, buildings and wharf is well under way toward completion and development work in the mine is progressing satisfactorily.

The Weekly edition of THE TRIBUNE is issued on Wednesdays and Saturdays. It contains more local and mining news of Kootenay than any other paper printed in British Columbia. Mailed anywhere for 50 cents for three months, $1 for six months, or $2 for one year.

Almost a year ago the Royal hotel was burglarized and a cigar slot machine containing $8 was stolen. Nothing was heard of the machine until yesterday when the men engaged in taking up the street car track on Kootenay street discovered it between two rails covered with stones and sod.

Galliher & Wilson, acting for the reorganized smelter band, secured a writ of replevy yesterday to secure certain instruments alleged to be wrongfully withheld. When the writ was executed the drums, band caps and some music was secured, but the majority of the instruments are still missing.

A. H. Buchanan, Frank Fletcher and F. W. Peters of Nelson, accompanied by J. S. C. Fraser and W. R. Hamilton of Rossland and Ed Slosson of Spokane, left Nelson this morning for the head of Kootenay lake on a duck shooting venture. They took along the C. P. R. houseboat, in order to keep dry.

J. M. Williams, manager of the Chapleau mines, leaves today for England on business in connection with the Chapleau. F. Mourgues of Paris, France, who has been in the city for a couple of days is a French engineer deputed by the Paris syndicate cotrolling the Chapleau to report on it and other properties in the vicinity.

PUBLIC WORKS COMMITTEE

Favor Tramway Proposal.

When the city council adjourned on Monday night at 8:30 o'clock the following-named were present: Mayor Houston, aldermen Arthur, Hall, Irvine, Morrison and Wilson, directors Duncan and Peters of the Nelson Electric Tramway Company, Limited, city clerk Strachan, city engineer McCulloch, reporter Laird of THE TRIBUNE and reporter Snider of the Miner. The mayor and the two reporters left the council chamber; the others remained. Aldermen Irvine (chairman), Hall and Wilson of the public works committee decided to at once hold a meeting, and they did hold one; and they passed two resolutions, with the approval of directors Duncan and Peters of the tramway company: The resolutions read as follows:

1. That it be recommended that the council either enter into a contract with the Nelson Tramway Company, Limited, to furnish to the city sufficient power to operate fifty 2000 candle-power electric arc lights at the rate of $96 per light per annum for a term of two years, the city to have the option of continuing the contract for a third year.

2. That it be recommended that the council enter into a contract with the Nelson Electric Tramway Company, Limited, to supply and install an electric light system for fifty 2000-candle-power arc lights for street lighting at a cost of not exceeding $5000; the cost of supplying and installing such electric light system to be paid by the city at the date of the expiration of the contract between the city and the company.

This action of the public works committee would indicate that the members of the committee were not exactly fair when they asked, at the regular session of the council, for further time to consider the street lighting question. If they were not prepared to make a report at 8:15 p.m., how could they be any better prepared to make a recommendation at 8:45 p.m.? There were four proposals laid before the committee, made by four different companies, all of equal responsibility to carry out their respective proposals. But, as it happened, only one of the companies had representatives present when the committee rendered their decision. The people will render their decision on the matter in question on Thursday, January 17th, 1901.

The Chinese exclusion act in the United States expires in 1902.
